APPENDIX.

The ten years which have elapsed since the first pages of this Dictionary were sent to press have seen many changes and developments in hymnological history and research. Old statements and conclusions have been retested, and in some instances overthrown, and new hymnbooks and hymnological works have been published. Many hymn writers have passed away, and new authors have come to the front. These causes, together with the late arrival of a few leading articles have necessitated this Appendix, which we now give in two parts: Part I. containing these articles, and Part II. those of less importance, together with notes on, corrections of, and additions to the annotations already in the Dictionary. Each Part is arranged in alphabetical order.

American Hymnody, pp. 57-61. The interest displayed in hymnological studies, and in hymnbook compiling in America since this article was in type, has been great, and has resulted in works of exceptional quality and hymnological importance. The best and most complete hymnbooks which have been brought under our notice are:—

1. Evangelical Lutheran Hymnal. Pub. by Order of the Ev. Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio and other States. Columbus, Ohio, 1880. This has 444 hymns, a large proportion of which are tra. from the German.

2. Hymn-Book of the Evangelical Association. Cleveland, O., 1883.

3. The Church Book. Hymns and Tunes for the Use of Christian Worship. Prepared by Leonard Woolsey Bacon. New York, 1845. It has 332 hymns, two special doxologies, a tune set to each hymn, and good indices. The 176 authors and translators are fairly representative of the Christian Church; the selection of hymns is, from a catholic point of view, good; and the theology is decidedly Evangelical.

4. Leader Immnal. A Selection of Spiritual Songs, Ancient and Modern. The Century Co., N.Y., 1884 (1st ed. 1878). This new edition contains 1164 hymns, a few psalms in prose, the "Te Deum" and other hymns from the Prayer Book, doxologies, tunes, and good indices. There are also biographical and other notes. The known authors and translators are about 322. These represent a good proportion of the best writers, both Ancient and Modern. The tone of the book is bright and joyous, and its literary standard is, on the whole, excellent. Amongst the American hymn-books of the same ecclesiastical and doctrinal character, we know few to equal it as a popular manual for divine worship.

5. Hymns of the Faith, with Psalms, for the Use of Congregations. Edited by G. Harris, D.D., W. J. Tucker, D.D., and H. M. Scudder, D.D. Boston, U.S., 1885. The edition before us (the 74th issue of the 1st arrangement is determined by the Apostles' Creed, which has suggested the title of the book, and has also determined the proportion of its various parts." They also say that "it is not a revision of some existing book with better tunes of the modern school introduced here and there, but is a fresh and original collection." To accomplish the desired end upwards of 250 authors and translators are requisitioned representing most branches of the Christian Church. The selection and arrangement of the hymns, from a non-episcopal standpoint, are excellent. The Psalms are chiefly from the Authorized Version, and the indices are of the usual character. This is a valuable collection.

6. Songs of Pilgrimage. A Hymnal for the Churches of Christ. By H. L. Hastings. Boston, 1886. This complete edition contains 1535 hymns by over 400 authors and translators, and gathered from about 50 collections. It has also 3 indices, 2 of first lines and several indices. Tunes also accompany the hymns. Of the hymns some 450 are original or re-written hymns by the Compiler, a proportion by one hand, and that by no means the best, sufficient in itself to render the book a failure. The collection is huge, cumbersome, and uninviting.

7. Hymns and Song for the Uses of The House of God. Prepared by Methodist Worship. N. Y., 1849. This contains 644 hymns by nearly 316 authors and translators. The hymns are arranged mainly in the order of subjects, and are taken to a great extent from well known writers. It is a sound, solid book, with a strong dash of the editor's personality.

The historical and critical works published since we went to press, include:—

1. Hymn Studies. An Illustrated and Annotated edition of the Hymnal of the Methodist Episcopal Church. By Rev. Charles S. Nutter. N. Y., 1884. In this the hymns are printed as in the Hymnal, and the notes, although very short, are carefully written and generally very accurate. As an annotated hymnal it is very valuable.

2. The Poets of the Church. A series of Biographical Sketches of Hymn Writers, with Notes on their Hymns. By Rufus F. Hatfield, D.D. N. Y., 1884. There are about 300 biographical sketches, with short notes, all well written, and in a fair proportion of cases, full.

3. English Hymns. Their Authors and History. By Samuel Willoughby Duffield. 2nd ed. revised and corrected, N. Y., 1886. This is mainly a biographical and critical hand-book to Dr. Robinson's Laudes Domini (noted above). It is a very readable and reliable work.

4. Baptist Hymn-Writers and their Hymns. By Rev. J. Cox. London, 1888. This is, we believe, the only and a most exhaustive work on the Baptist hymn-writers from the beginning of the Baptist movement to the present time. All nations where Baptists have been located are included. The work is very complete in its range, and is well done. It is strictly denominational, and, as such, is unique of its kind.

5. The Hymns of Bernard of Cluny and their Hymns. By the late Samuel Willoughby Duffield . . . Edited and Completed by Prof. R. E. Thompson, D.D. N. Y., 1889. This is the most complete and popular account of Latin hymn-writers and their hymns which has been published to date (1889) in the English language. Some of its most important statements and conclusions are, however, open to considerable question. This arises mainly from the fact that Mr. Duffield was unable to consult the MSS. in the English, French, and German libraries. He was also too dogmatic and self-opinionated to be an accurate and discriminating critic.

The position thus taken by America in hymnological work during the past ten years is exceedingly creditable to her hymnological students, and surpasses every other English-speaking country. See NEW SCOT. [J. J.]

Butler, Henry Montagu, D.D., was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and graduated B.A. as Senior Classic in 1853, and became a Fellow of his college in 1855. Taking Holy Orders in 1859, he became Head Master of Harrow School in 1859. This position he held until 1885, when he was preferred to the Deanery of Gloucester. He held the deanery for a short time only, and became Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, on the death of Dr. W. H. Thompson in 1886. Dr. Butler has also held the important appointments of Hon. Chaplain to the Queen; Examining Chaplain to Archbishops Tait and Benson; Select Preacher at Oxford, 1882; and Prob. of Hebrew in St. Paul's Cathedral. Dr. Butler edited the 3rd ed. of Hym. for the Chapel of Harrow School, 1863, and the 4th ed., 1881. (Public School H. Bks., pp. 327-329, where add 4th ed., 1881.) To the Harrow H. Bk. Dr. Butler contributed:—

1. Art thou the Healer that should come. St. John Baptist.
2. Ask and ye surely shall receive. Prayer. Last st. by J. Montgomery.
3. Jesus died for us and rose again. Death and Burial.
4. Lovest thou Me? the risen Saviour cried. St. Peter.
5. O merciful and holy. Founder's Day.
6. Rejoice to-day with one accord. Founder's Day.
7. Thou God of love, Thou ever blest. Founder's Day.
8. Where shall we find our neighbour mine? St. Paul.

Of these Nos. 2 and 3 were given in the 3rd ed. of the Harrow H. Bk., 1863, and the rest were added in 1881. Nos. 5, 6, and 8 are also in Hym. for the Use of Sherborne School, 1888, Nos. 5 and 6 being much altered. Dr. Butler's hymns are very lyrical and spiritual and are admirably suited to their purpose. [J. J.]

Dutch Hymnody. The Dutch Reformed Church, as the national form of religion in Holland is called, is a Calvinistic body, maintaining a Presbyterian form of government, and has grown up side by side with the rise of the Dutch Republic. Calvinism was a plant of early growth in the Netherlands, where the soil had long been prepared for it by the worldliness of the Church, and the consequent prevalence of Waldensian and Hussite doctrines. Waldo's French tr. of the Scriptures was turned into Dutch rhyme and eagerly caught up by the people. There were also a number of half-Latin, half-Dutch hymns of the kind introduced by Peter of Dresden, about the year 1440, for the spread of Hussite opinions. A collection of these was printed at Cumpen (Kempen) in 1530 with the title Sunderoore, Gheestelicke vele ouderwijle boeseryes ende leyden, in Latijn en duytsch, ghepruut tot Cumpen. Thus the change from Latin hymns to those in the vernacular was very gradual in Holland, as in Germany.

1. Psalters.—1. The spread of Calvinistic rather than of Lutheran doctrines in Holland raised a strong opposition to original hymns, and led to the introduction of metrical psalms. The feeling against hymns grew so strong that it was resolved by three synods that only those should be sung which were found in Holy Scripture. There was no lack of versions to meet the taste for metrical psalms. As early as 1539 a collection was pub. at Antwerp, by Willem van Zeylen van Nyeveldt, and set to music by Gerbardus Mes, under the title Souterliedekens (Psalter Songs). This was so eagerly received that a 2nd ed. was issued the next year; and five other eds. appeared between 1558 and 1566. These psalms were sung in most of the Reformed congregations in Holland, and by the Dutch protestant refugees in England.

2. In 1565 Lucas d'Heere, the artist-poet of Ghent and friend of William the Silent, translated 36 psalms from the French of Marot and Beza; and in 1566 appeared two versions of the whole psalter—one by Utenhove, the other by Dathenus.

3. Johannes Utenhove was a Ghentish noble who took refuge in England, where he was an elder of a Lasco's Dutch congregation in London. There he pub. in 1551, 25 psalms, which were reprinted at Emden in 1557, and republished the next year with the addition of part of Ps. 119. Soon after, 39 psalms with the Magnificat and Benedictus, appeared without name of place or printer; and in 1561 a selection of 100 of his psalm-versions was pub. by the well-known English printer, John Daye. Finally Utenhove versified the remaining 50 psalms; and the whole collection was then pub. with a preface under the title De Psalmen Davidis in Nederlandischer sanginge te vinden der gemeynte Christi, London by John Daye. 12 Sept. 1566. This version, which like that of d'Heere was set to the tunes of Marot's French Psalter, was adopted by the Dutch congregations in England, but was never much used in the Netherlands, where it was anticipated by Datheen's version, the preface to which is dated 25th March, 1566.

4. Peter Datheen was a Flandrian monk who renounced his vows and became an ardent preacher of Calvinism. His version of the Psalms was made from that of Marot. It is in the most rugged verse, displays but little poetical ability, and bears evident marks of great haste in its production. It was eagerly received, first by Datheen's own congregation at Frankenthal, and then by other rapidly spreading reformed congregations in the Netherlands. When it appeared, Datheen was preaching with a violent, stormy eloquence in West Flanders and Zeeland, where immense crowds gathered to hear sermons and to sing psalms in the open air. This was the first great popular phase of the Netherland rebellion, and it helped to popularise Datheen's collection, which was exclusively authorised by a synod at Wezel in 1568. This authorisation was renewed by later synods, especially by that of Dort, in 1578, under the presidency of Datheen himself, at which a resolution was passed that only these psalms should be sung in churches, to the exclusion of hymns. Another resolution of the same synod against the use of organs is a further proof of the stern Calvinism of that assembly. About the same time the Dutch congregations in London and at Sandwich urged their superintendents to substitute Datheen's version for that of Utenhove. This was done with the result that Datheen's version became the authorised psalmody of the whole Dutch Reformed Church.

5. A formidable rival appeared, however, in 1580. This was a metrical psalter by the renowned Philip van Marnix van St. Aldegonde, whom Mr. Motley styles "poet, orator, hymn-book maker, burgo-master, lawyer, polemical divine, soldier." St. Aldegonde, while deprecating the use of hymns other than those of Holy Scripture, added to his psalter metrical versions of the Songs of Moses, Deborah, and Jonah, the Magnificat, Nunc Dimittis and Gloria in Excelsis, the Commandments, Creed, and the Lord's Prayer. He was greatly assisted in this work by Bonaventura Vulcanius, tutor to his son, and afterwards professor of Greek, at Leyden. Attempts were made by the synods of Middelburg (1581) and the Hague (1586), to substitute in public worship this new and improved version for that of Datheen, but were defeated by the ultra-Calvinistic party, supported by the influence of the Earl of Leicester. The clergy especially were opposed to any change, and a final attempt was defeated at the great synod of Dort in 1619. Another century and a half was to elapse before good taste triumphed over Datheen's halting verse.

6. During the 17th cent. many poets and poetasters attempted to improve upon Datheen's version with varying success. A Psalter pub. in 1713 for the use of an Anabaptist community at Haarlem has, in addition to the psalms and a few hymns, a free metrical version of the added psalm in the LXX. "by David when he fought against Goliath." This collection displays considerable poetical ability, and the preface states that Datheen's psalms had been abandoned by all the religious communities in Holland, except the State Church. Besides those already mentioned, Van Alkemade's Nieuw Register van Nederduytsche Boeken (1745) contains a list (by no means exhaustive) of 32 metrical psalters pub. up to that time, and many of them had passed through more than one edition.

7. In 1696 the attention of the synod of Friesland was drawn to a revised version of Datheen's Psalter, made by A. Trommius, minister at Groningen (Sachte verbetering van den rijm van Datheenus over de 150 psalmen Davids, Amsterdam, 1695). The necessity of improving the psalmody being almost universally admitted, the Synod drew up in 1701 a scheme, with the co-operation of the theological faculty at the university, for a new Selection of Psalms from existing versions. This scheme however fell to the ground until 1724, when the presbytery of the Hague presented to the Synod of South Holland a proposal to amend certain expressions in Datheen's psalms. Considerable discussion ensued, and lasted throughout Holland for some years, but finally it was agreed by all the Synods that a new selection should be made from three existing versions, and a commission was appointed in 1772 for this purpose. The states of each province nominated a minister from each provincial synod (nine in all) and the States-General sent two political commissioners. The commissioners met at the Hague, in January, 1773, and finished their labours in July. The versions to which their selection was limited were those of Hendrik Ghijsen, 1686; Johannes Ruschius Vos, 1752, and that of a literary society, called Laus Deo Salus Populo, 1761. Ghijsen's version was not original, but a compilation from 17 preceding psalters, and was entitled Den Hooghsangt der psalmdichters (Amsterdam, 12mo, 1686). Vos's version had been pub. at the Hague, in 1764, and that of the society Laus Deo, at Amsterdam, in 1761. The compilers had practically therefore a range of 19 psalters, extending over a period of more than 100 years, from which to select, and they succeeded in compiling a fairly representative and satisfactory Metrical Psalter, which is to Datheen's version what Tate and Brady is to Sternhold and Hopkins. They appended the usual metrical versions of the commandments, Magnificat, Benedictus, Nunc Dimittis, two rhymes of the Creed, prayer before sermon, a grace, and morning and evening hymns, the last named being a free rendering of the hymn Christe, Qui lux es et dies.

8. The new version was gradually introduced throughout the provinces, and was on the whole well received, though in some places it had to encounter much prejudice and opposition, and its enforced use after 1775 even led to open riots in the province of Zeeland. The commissioners had also ventured to suggest that the psalms might be sung faster, but one old-fashioned precentor staunchly protested that he could not conscientiously sing one verse in less than twelve minutes! The new version was adopted by the Dutch congregation in London, and introduced into the foreign possessions. It is now in general use throughout the Dutch Reformed Church, though the Separatist (Dopper) congregations in South Africa until quite recently still clung to the time honoured doggerel of Datheen. We may note that there is a reprint of Datheen's psalms published in 12mo. at Goningchem, 1805, with the spelling modernised and archaisms explained in the footnotes.

ii. Hymn Books.—Although original hymns were excluded from the public worship of the Dutch Reformed Church, certain paraphrases or versified portions of the Scripture were retained from the first in addition to the psalms. These were originally the songs of Moses, Isaiah, Hezekiah, and of the Three Children, and the evangelical canticles; but later the O. T. canticles were omitted, and metrical versions of the Creed, Lord's Prayer, Commandments, and Morning and Evening hymns were inserted. The oldest Souterliedekens had 12 such hymns: St. Aldegonde's Psalter had more; even Datheen's had 7, only 5 of which were from the Scriptures, while one was a direct tr. in Old Low Dutch of the hymn "Christe, Qui lux es et dies." But these were evidently intended more for private than for public use, since hymns were regarded with suspicion as savouring of Roman or Arminian doctrines.

2. The want of suitable hymns was gradually however making itself felt, and this feeling was strengthened, by the adoption, among Dutch Lutherans, of trs. from the rich store of German hymnody. A resolution of a Synod at Utrecht, in 1612, had permitted hymns upon the life of our Lord to be sung in public worship, and a collection of 38 such hymns was issued (Liefzangen der Christelijke leerlingen. Utrecht, 1615, 8vo.). But this attempt of common sense to assert itself over prejudice was promptly suppressed by the resolution of the Synod of Dort (1619), which prohibited the use of any but Datheen's psalms. Hymns were however sung at festivals by several congregations in different parts of Holland, and the Synods of Drenthe and Friesland (circa 1638) recommended their use. To meet the want of suitable hymns, especially in private or family devotion, Willem Sluiter, minister of Elbergen in Gelderland, pub. in 1620, his Psalmen, Gezangen, en Geestelijke Liedekens, and composed, in 1661, 10 books of Gezangen which were pub. after his death. His books spread rapidly, and soon formed together with the Bible and psalm-book the whole religious library of the country people, and were generally used in family worship.

3. The first religious bodies in Holland to authorise the use of hymns in public worship were dissenters from the Dutch Reformed establishment. The Arnhemist Psalter of 1713 contained an Appendix of 12 hymns for Christmas, Easter, Ascension, Whitsunday, as also Holy Baptism and the Holy Communion. A hymnal for the use of a separatist congregation at Werkendam was compiled about 1750 by Jacob Groenewegen, and ran through 8 eds. before 1799; and a bulky collection of Mennonite hymns dates from about the same period.

4. The Psalter revision committee of 1773 had discussed the desirability of compiling a hymnal, but took no further steps in that direction. Meanwhile the feeling in favour of hymns was spreading among the educated classes, and even among the clergy, whose tastes were being elevated by the use of the improved version of the psalms. The poet Van Alphen in the notes to his Cantatas pub. in 1783 strongly urged "the need in public worship, as well as in private religious assemblies, of hymns in which poetry and music might be combined to meet the wants, the circumstances, and the taste of the day." This feeling found expression at the provincial synod of North Holland in 1796, which invited the co-operation of the other provinces. In the meantime Engelbert, Minister of Hoorn, and A. Rutgers, Minister of Haarlem, were asked to give the subject their attention. During the next seven years the matter was discussed with much warmth by the various synods;* Van Alphen contributing towards the discussion a specimen hymn-book of 66 original compositions (Proeve van Liederen en Gezangen voor de openbare Godsdienst. 't Graveshage 1801, 8vo.), and finally in 1803 a committee of eighteen ministers and elders was appointed by the nine provincial synods to compile a hymn-book for use in public worship in addition to the metrical psalms. The commission held its first meeting at the Hague, on the 27th Sept., 1803, and its last, three also, on the 12th June, 1805. During the interval two other contributions towards the collection appeared, one by Abrahamus van den Berg, minister of Arnhem and president of the commission, who had also been on the psalm commission of 1773 (Proeve van Geestelijke Oden en Liederen. Utrecht: 1804, 8vo.); the other by Rinjuvis Feith, ex-elder of Swolle, and a member of the commission (Proeve van eenige Gezangen voor den openbaren godsdienst, Amsterdam, 1804, 2 vols. 8vo.). The hymn-book appeared in Sept., 1805 (192 hymns, with tunes), as:—

"Evangelische Gezangen, om uevens het boek der Psalmen bij den openbaren Godsdienst in de Nederduitsche Gemeenten te gebruiken. Met eene voorrede op uitdrukkelijken last van alle de Synoden der voorenoemde Gemeenten bijeen vergaderd en in orde gebragt in de Jaren 1803, 1804, en 1805. Te Amsterdam, bij Johannes Allart, MDCCCV. (8vo.)

Feith's preface is a very interesting prefatory dedication to the Dutch Reformed congregations in the Fatherland, regret that the authorised poets had done so little for sacred poetry, but express their obligations to the poetical works of Van Lodensteyn,† Vollenhoven, Sluiter, and Schutte, as well as to those of Van Alphen and other living poets. Many of the hymns were original compositions, and Feith himself was a member of the commission. Van den Berg contributed 8 original hymns, including a metrical version of the Te Deum, and 38 trs., much altered and abbreviated. Feith was the author of 34 hymns and 4 trs. Ten hymns are derived from Van Alphen's Proeve, and three from Hinkelbeijn Poezy, the joint work of Van Alphen and Van de Kasteele, ex-elder of the Hague, and a member of both commissions. Abraham Rutgers adopted one

* A circumstance occurred during this time which served to lessen the Dutch prejudice against hymns. Their co-religionists, the Walloons, who had hitherto sung only the Genevan psalms, in 1803 authorised and adopted a hymnal, the title of which was Catalogue pour le culte publique, recueillis et imprimez par ordre du Synod Wallon. The compilers were Rai, Gerard, and P. D. Huet.

† Jodocus van Lodensteyn, Minister at Utrecht (d. 1677), published Uitspanningen in 1678, see p. 606, i. Vollenhoven was a contemporary of Sluiter.

te two hymns from his cantata De hoop der zaligheid, besides contributing some trs. from the German.

The Gezangboek was formally adopted by resolution of all the provincial Synods on the 1st January, 1807, and is now, together with the metrical psalms, the authorized hymnal of the Dutch Reformed Church.* Like the revised psalter, it had at first to encounter opposition and prejudice, especially in Friesland and Friesland, but it gradually made its way, and even in private use has entirely superseded all other hymnals, Willem Sluiter's not excepted. Its language, though sometimes stiff and antiquated, is sober and devout, and it contains many beautiful hymns, especially among those which have been tr. from the German.

5. In 1847 the general synod of the Dutch Reformed Church in Holland resolved that an Appendix should be issued, and the work of compilation was entrusted to the standing committee for superintending the publication of the hymn-book. Several successive committees were engaged upon it, the principal share of the work being undertaken by Dr. N. Beets, minister of Utrecht, and Professor Ter Haar of that University, and a considerable number of hymns, translated and original, was collected. In 1863 a synodical committee was appointed to revise the collection and arrange appropriate tunes to the hymns, and in July, 1866, the Appendix was issued as:—Vervolg-bundel op de Evangelische Gezangen.

As the authorized hymnal of the largest Dutch speaking religious body, the Evangelische Gezangen has naturally exercised a very considerable influence over all later Dutch hymnals, most of which have borrowed largely from it. This is especially the case with regard to the Dutch speaking population of South Africa, where there are no less than eight Dutch hymnals in use among different missionary bodies, all of them largely indebted to what may be called the mother hymnal, that of the Dutch Reformed Church. Of sixty-seven hymns which are found in not fewer than five out of those eight hymnals, and may thus be said to have received the hall-mark of almost general approval, twenty-six are from this source. Hence such hymns as Op bergen en in dalen; Jesus neemt al zondaars aan; Juich aarde, juicht alom den Heer (Ps. 100, which may almost be called the Cape national hymn), God zoekt licht, and others, are familiar as household words in every part of South Africa and in every Dutch speaking congregation of Uitlanders, white or coloured, from Cape L'Agulhas to the Zambezi.

iii. Evangelical Lutheran Hymns.—There is one other Dutch hymnal which demands a brief notice. It is that of the Dutch speaking (or as they are commonly called Evangelical) Lutherans. The Reformed or Calvinistic Church of Holland was most intolerant of any dissent, and those congregations which had embraced the Lutheran confession of faith existed only on sufferance, and were not permitted to build themselves Churches, until 1832. Hence the Lutherans adapted their form of worship as far as possible to that of the Calvinists, abandoning the use of the crucifix, altar lights, &c., and even singing metrical psalms, though in a version of their own. In time however hymnals were adopted by the Lutheran congregations of Amsterdam, of Rotterdam, and of the Hague. But besides the inconvenience of having three distinct hymnals, these collections were very meagre in general hymns. Thus of 165 hymns in the Amsterdam collection, 80 were appropriate to festivals only, while many of the Hague hymns were antiquated in form and expression, and needed recasting. The first regularly organized Lutheran Synod in Holland met in 1818, and here it was resolved that a new hymnal should be compiled for general use, which was to include the best hymns in the three existing collections, hymns from the collections of other protestant bodies, and new hymns to be specially composed by the first Dutch poets of the day. The carrying out of this scheme was entrusted to a committee of seven, who met at Amsterdam in 1820, though the result of their labours did not appear until six years afterwards as:—Christelijke Gezangen voor de Evangelisch Lutherske Gemeenten in het koningrijk der Nederlanden, Amsterdam, 1826, 8vo.

It contained 376 hymns, comprising 195 hymns and 25 psalm-from the three old hymnals, 41 from the Dutch Baptist hymnal, 110 translations from German, and 5 new compositions. The tunes were for the most part the familiar old German chorals with a few new tunes by the musical editor, Mr. J. W. Wilms. Strange to say the collection did not include "the Marseillaise of the reformation, Ein' feste Burg:" and many other classical German hymns were unrepresented. To supply these and other deficiencies, a supplement was issued by a synodical commission, in 1856, containing 44 hymns.

Though this book contains some undoubtedly fine hymns, the intricacy of its metres, the length and number of verses (instances occurring of 15, 18, and even 28 verse hymns) combined with the rigid and somewhat antiquated character of the collection as a whole, will prevent its taking a place in the first rank of Dutch hymnody, but it is useful to refer to for the purpose of comparison with other trs. of the same German originals.

iv. Various.—It must suffice only to mention here Uitgezuchte Liederen, the modern Dutch Baptist hymnal, containing several good hymns, and the Opwekkingsliederen van Scriveg, trs. of Moody and Sankey's Sacred Songs & Solos, pub. at Amsterdam by M. S. Bernard. Of a higher order of merit are Dr. R. Bennink Janssonius's trs. of some of the best Latin hymns and sequences (Gezangen der Oude Kerk, Hague, 1869), though for metrical reasons not well adapted for congregational use.

v. Conclusion.—In conclusion, it is worthy of remark how very few Dutch hymns are original compositions. This may be attributed partly to the fact of there being so large a store of noble hymns at hand in the cognate German language, which readily lend themselves to translation into Dutch; partly perhaps to the lack of religious enthusiasm and fervour among the Dutch in modern times. There do not seem to be more than about 3000 Dutch hymns extant, and of this number, at least two-thirds, and these the best known and most popular, will be found to be translations. Nor, if we except the obsolete Willem Sluiter, is there any one writer whose name stands out pre-eminently as the hymnodist of Holland. At the same time it must be admitted that in the majority of cases the trs. are so admirably rendered that few persons would suspect them of not being original hymns. [J. A. H.]

* It was not introduced into the Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa until 1814.

England Hymnody, Church of, pp. 321-343. Since those pages went to press the following collections and hymnological works have been published:—

1. Additional Hymns to Hymns Ancient and Modern. This is a supplementary collection of 185 hymns made to strengthen some of the weak points in the former edition. The book with the Supplement, is as a whole much as it was before, except that it is greater in bulk and more modern in character.

2. The Other Hymn Book, 1868. This is designed as an independent Appendix to the 1873 ed. of H. A. & M., and seems to have been compiled by some one who was dissatisfied with the Supplement of 1868 noted in the previous. It is in two Parts. Part I. is set forth as "Consisting chiefly of Modern Hymns, and of ancient Hymns not translated into their original Metre." Part II. contains The Hymns to be used at Matins and Evensong Daily throughout the Year, and consists entirely of hymns tr. from the Latin, the text additions being by Dr. Neale.

3. The Hymnal Companion to the Book of Common Prayer, 1870. This is the 1870 ed. of the Hy. Comp. recast and enlarged. Several of the other hymns not commonly used in Public Worship have been omitted, and others of a more popular character have been substituted. Of these additions though by Mrs. Rickards, the editor, are very beautiful and of much value. The Introduction has been rewritten, and the notes to the hymns corrected. Of its kind, and from its ritualistic standpoint, as an Evangelical hymn-book it is in poetic grace, literary excellence, and lyric beauty, the finest collection in the Anglican Church.

4. Songs of the Church, 1870 (Musical ed. 1871). By J. R. Lilley, M.A., Vicar of Haydon, near York.

The hymnological and critical works on hymn-writers and hymns published during this period include:—

1. Christian Hymns and Hymn-Writers. A Course of Lectures by J. E. Prescott, D.D., Archdeacon and Canon of Carlisle, &c., 1883. This is a weak book; there is no original research, and the result is, from a hymnological point of view, most disappointing.

2. Anglican Hymnody: being an Account of the Hymns and Hymn-Writers of the Church of England, with the Verdict of the whole Anglican Church, by the Rev. James King, M.A., 1885. In this work Mr. King has begun by borrowing the whole idea and design of the work from the April and May numbers of the Churchman's Shilling Magazine, 1874; has filled in the body of the book with information gathered from Miller's Singers and Songs of the Church, Julian's Dictionary of Hymnology, Hymns Ancient and Modern, and his English Hymnology, and a few additional well known works; and concludes without any acknowledgment of his indebtedness to any one.

3. An Historical Companion to Hymns Ancient and Modern; containing the Greek and Latin; the German, Italian, French, Danish, and Welsh Hymns; the Work-lines of the English Hymns; the Names of all Authors and Translators: Notes and Index. Edited by the Rev. Robert Maude Moorsom, M.A., 1889. This work is on the same lines as the annotated edition of H. A. & M. by Mr. Thring, and the Church Hymnary, 1872, edited by no means an accurate work, and some of its opinions are very curious, as for instance, the quotation of a Greek Canon from the Office for Christmas Day as possibly the basis of C. Wesley's "Hark, the herald angels sing," notwithstanding these weak points his book is very valuable.

This does not indicate a notable era in the hymnological history of the Church of England, although it is the fullest résumé we can present. See NEW SYR.

Here is the spring where waters flow. [Holy Scripture.] On p. 482. l. six stanzas are given from a poem on The New Jerusalem dated 1600, beginning "Jerusalem, my happy home"; and the last three stanzas of the six are set forth as the original of the lines prefixed to some editions of the English Bible which were pub. "in the early part of the 17th cent. and beginning: "Here is the spring whence waters flow." Since that article was stereotyped we have found the same lines in a hymn pub. 83 years before the date given at p. 482. i.

The lines are printed on the page facing the Titlepage of an Edition of the Bible pub. by C. Darker, in London, in 1575, and read, together with the various references to Holy Scripture, as follows:—

"Of the incomparable treasure of the holy Scriptures with a prayer for the true use of the same.—

Eccl. 12, 2, & 43. 10	"Here is the spring where waters flow,
Deut. 21, 16	to quench our heats of sinne:
& 23, 17.	Here is the tree where truth doth grow,
Jerem. 33, 15.	to feede our lives therein;
Deut. 5, 7, 22, 2.
Psal. 119, 162, 164.
	"Here is the Judge that stirres the strife,
	when men's designs faile:
John 6, 25.	Here is the bread that feedes the life, that death cannot assaile.
Luke 2, 10.	"The tidings of salvation deare, comes to our eares from heare:
Ephes. 6, 16.	The fortresse of our faith is here, and shield of our defence.
Matth. 7, 6.	"Then let us not like swine be hygge that lush and lake in filthy myre,
2 Pet. 2, 22.	And leave more pleasures of the trough and wallowing in the myre.
Matth. 6, 22.	"Reade not this booke in any case,
	but with a single eye:
Psal. 119, 97,	"Reade not but first desire God's grace
" 73.	to understand thereby.
John 20.	"Praye still in faith with this respect, to practise thereby,
Psal. 119, 11.	"So shall you finde it only being this effect
	To mortifie thy sinne.
Job. 1, 8,	"Then happie thou in all thy life,
1 psal. 1, 1, 2,	What so to thee befalles:
Psal. 94, 12, 13.	Yea double happie shalt then be,
	When God by death thee calles."*

* O Gracious God and moth merciffull Father, which hath vouchsafed to the rich and precious jewell of thy holy word, affilt us with thy Spirit, that it may be written in our hearts to our everlasting comfort, to reform us, to frame us according to thine owne image, to the setting forth of thy glory, and to the edifying of thy Church, Sanctifying and enriching us to all heavenly vertues. Graunt this, O heavenly Father, for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen."

We have seen these lines, including the prayer, attributed to Bem. If he had been the author, we should expect to find them in an edition of the English Bible printed at Geneva or about the same date as the above. In the Brit. Mus. there is a copy printed at Geneva by John Crispin in 1567: but the lines are not therein. Not having any reliable evidence either for Bem or for any other writer, we must therefore give these lines and the prayer as Anon.

The peculiarity to be noticed in the fact that st. i-iii., as above, are also in the broadsheet named on p. 482. i. in a slightly different form, we cannot explain. We can only suggest that there is a possible original not yet discovered from which both pieces may have been taken. [J. J.]

Hermannus Contractus, so called because of his crippled condition, is also known as Hermann of Vikringen, Hermann of Reichenau, and Hermann der Gebrechliche. He was the s. of the Count of Vikringen in Swabia, and was b. on July 18, 1013. He entered the school of St. Gall, circa 1029, and soon developed, although so young, an intense interest in his studies. It is said of him that he rapidly mastered Latin, Greek, and Arabic. History, music, mathematics, philosophy, and theology engaged his attention, and in each study he attained marked success. Some go so far as to say with confidence that he fr. Aristotle's Poetics and Rhetoric from the Arabic, but the statement is disputed by others. At thirty years of age he removed from St. Gall to the monastery of Reichenau, where he remained to his death, Sept. 24, 1054. His name is associated with several hymns of historical importance, and notably the following, which are annotated in this Dictionary :—

1. Alma Redemptoris Mater quæ pervia cœli, p. 61, ii.
2. Rex omnipotens die hodierna, p. 968, ii., 967, ii., 968, i.
3. Sancti Spiritus adsit nobis gratia, p. 967, ii., 968, i.
4. Salve Regina, p. 991, ii.
5. Veni Sancte spiritus, Et emitte, p. 1213, i., ii.
6. Veni Sancte spiritus: Iserje, p. 1213, ii.
7. Virginum Præclarè, p. 1221, i., ii.

The conclusions arrived at in the annotations of these hymns concerning their respective authorship will be found somewhat adverse to Hermannus's claims with regard to Nos. 2 and 4, and positively against him with respect to Nos. 3, 5 and 7. Some of these conclusions will be found to be utterly opposed to those of Duffield on the same hymns in his Latin Hymn-Writers, &c., 1889, pp. 149-168. This difference of opinion arises mainly out of the fact that the mss. at St. Gall and at the Brit. Mus. were not examined by Duffield, and are much older and more important than any of those with which he was acquainted. [J. J.]

Horder, William Garrett, was b. at Salisbury, and educated at the City of London School. In 1862 he entered Cheshunt College as a student for the Congregational Ministry. On leaving College in 1866 he undertook the pastorate of a Congregational Church at St. Helen's, Lancashire. In 1869 he removed to Torquay, and in 1875 to Wood Green, London, where he still resides. Mr. Horder has compiled—

(1) The Book of Praise for Children, 1875; (2) The Poet's Bible, New Testament 1881, Old Testament 1889; (3) Congregational Hymns: A Hymnal for the Free Churches, 1884. The first of these was incorporated in 1881 in The Book of Praise for Children, pub. by the Congregational Union under the editorship of the Rev. Dr. Allon, and of which Mr. Horder has had no association beyond the handing over of the former for the use of the Union. From Mr. Horder's ed. of this collection (the first) a 3rd. was pub. in 1887 "For the Use of Jewish Children." The Poet's Bible is a selection from the Holy Scriptures for home reading and preachers. The Congregational Hymns is referred to elsewhere (p. 209, ii. 10). In addition Mr. Horder has published the following original works:—(1) Meditations of Immortality, 1883; (2) The Hymn Lover: An Account of the rise and growth of English Hymnody, 1889; (3) The Silent Voice and Other Discourses, 1890.

The Hymn Lover is practically a handbook to Mr. Horder's Cong. Hymns. As in that collection the hymns are gathered from all ages, nations, and churches, opportunity is afforded for the discussion of each epoch of hymn-writing and for the grouping together of interesting particulars concerning hymn-writers and their work. This opportunity Mr. Horder has availed himself of with great skill and judgment; and although the outcome is not severely technical, the result is all the more attractive for the general reader. Although hymnologically it is not a scientific production, practically and within its range, it is the most useful and attractive work we have on its special subject. The reproduction therein of specimen hymns of each epoch, is a new and valuable addition to this special kind of work. See NEW SERV. [J. J.]

Hrabanus (Rabanus) Maurus, a. of one Ruthard, was b. probably at Mainz, about 776. At an early age he was sent to the Monastery of Fulda to receive a religious education. In 801 he was ordained Deacon, and the following year he went to the monastic school of St. Martin at Tours to study under Alcuin, a celebrated teacher of that time, who gave to Hrabanus the name of Maurus to which Hrabanus added Magnentius. On his return to Fulda in 804 he became the head of the school connected with the Monastery. Towards him Ratgar the abbot showed great unkindness, which arose mainly from the fact that Ratgar demanded the students to build additions to the monastery, whilst Hrabanus required them at the same time for study. Hrabanus had to retire for a season, but Ratgar's deposition by Ludwig the Pious, in 817, opened up the way for his return, and the reopening of the school. In the meantime, in 814, he had been raised to the Priesthood. Eeri, who succeeded Ratgar as abbot, died in 822, and Hrabanus was appointed in his stead. This post he held for some time, until driven forth by some of the community. In 847, on the death of Archbishop Otgar, Ludwig the younger, with whom Hrabanus had sided in his demand for German independence as against the imperialism of his elder brother Lothar, rewarded him with the Archbishopric of Mainz, then the metropolitan see of Germany. He held this appointment to his death on Feb. 4, 856. He was buried first in St. Alban's, Mainz, and then, during the early days of the Reformation, in St. Maurice, Halle, possibly because of the opposition he is known to have made to the doctrine of Transubstantiation. With German historians Hrabanus is regarded as the father of the modern system of education in that country. His prose works were somewhat numerous, but the hymns with which his name is associated are few. We have the "Christe sanctorum decus Angelorum," p. 220, ii.; "Tibi Christe, splendor Patris," p. 1176, ii.; and the "Veni Creator Spiritus," p. 1208, i.; but recent research convinces us that the ascription in each case is very doubtful; and none are received as by Hrabanus in Professor Dümmler's ed. of the Carmina of Hrabanus in the Poetæ Latini ævi Carolini, vol. ii. 1884. Dümmler omits them even from the "hymns of uncertain origin." [J. J.]

Innocent III., Pope, was a member of the celebrated Conti family, which gave nine Popes to the chair of St. Peter. He was b. at Anagni, circa 1160, and was educated at Rome, Paris, and Bologna. On his return to Rome, through his powerful family influence he became a Canon of St. Peter's, a subdeacon before he was thirty, and Cardinal Deacon in 1190, and as such was known as Cardinal Lothario. During the Pontificate of Celestine III., having little to do, he wrote his De Contemptu Mundi. On the death of Celestine III. on Jan. 8, 1198, he was ordained Priest, consecrated Bishop, and enthroned as Pope within the few days between that date and Feb. 22, of the same year when he began his Pontifical reign, being at the time about thirty-eight years of age. His reign is well marked in ecclesiastical history, although it was comparatively short. He d. at Perugia, July 16, 1216. To hymnody his name is associated with the grand Sequence the "Stabat mater dolorosa" (p. 1081, i.); and the glorious "Veni Sancte Spiritus, Et emitte" (p. 1213, ii.) In each case, however, there are many reasons to doubt his authorship, or, at least, to accept the ascription with caution. See details as indicated above. [J. J.]

Italian Hymnody.—Although Italy has been renowned for centuries past as a land of music and song, it has been chiefly in the celebration of secular themes that her lyre has been employed. Sacred hymnody, at least since the times of the Renaissance, has been comparatively little cultivated. It is proposed in the present article to give: I. A brief sketch of Hymnody in the Italian language from the 13th century to the 19th; and II. An account of its present condition (i.) in the Roman Catholic Church, (ii.) in Protestant communities.

I. Hymnody in the Italian language from the 13th century to the 19th.

1. "It is now," says Prof. Bartoli, in the Encyclo. Britannica, 9th ed., vol. xiii., p. 498, "an established historical fact that there existed no writing in the Italian language before the 13th century." But in the early part of that century lived St. Francis of Assisi (b. 1182, d. 1225), founder of the Franciscan order, and to him have been attributed several short religious poems in the Italian of that period. One, in particular, is famous, known as the "Canticum Solis," or more fully, "Cantico de le creature commemorate de lo frate Sole." True, its authenticity has been the subject of considerable controversy, but it is now admitted that the general sense and many of the expressions are those of St. Francis, though in the lapse of ages the original structure may have been changed into a style more modern and ornate. The following is the text as now given:—

"Altissimu omnipotente bon' Signore, tue son le laude, la gloria, le honore, e ogni benedictione. A te sola confanno e nulla homo é degno de nommenti.

"Laudato sia Dio mio Signore, con tutte le creature, specialmente messer lo Frate Sole, il quale giorna e illumina noi per lui. E ello é bello e radiente con grande splendore; de te, Signore, porta significatione.

"Laudato sia mio Signore, per Sora Luna e le Stelle; il quale in cielo le hai formate chiare e belle.

"Laudato sia mio Signore, per Frate Vento, e per l'Aire e Nuvole e sereno e ogni tempo, per lo quale dai a tutti creature sustentamento.

"Laudato sia mio Signore, per Sora Acqua, la quale é molto utile, e humile, e pretiosa, e casta.

"Laudato sia mio Signore, per Frate Fuocho, per lo quale tu allumini la notte, e ello é bello e jocondo, e robustissimo, e forte.

"Laudato sia mio Signore, per nostra Madre Terra, la quale ne sostenta, governa e produce diversi fruiti, e colorili fiuli, e herbe

"Laudato sia mio Signore, per quelli che perdonano per lo tuo amore, e sostengono infirmitate e tribulatione. Beati que li the sostengeranno in pace, che de te, Altissimu, serannu incoronati."

It is said that this hymn used to be chanted by the saint and his companions, and that in his last illness another stanza was added, giving thanks for "our Sister, the Death of the body." [v. Stephen's Essays in Eccles. Biography, Art. St. Francis; Les Poetes Franciscains en Italie, par O. F. Ozanam, Paris, 1852.]

2. From A.D. 1250 onward, the development of literature in the vernacular was rapid. In the cities of northern Italy the people had been accustomed to listen in the piazzas to the songs of the jongleurs. About this time Giacomino of Verona, and Bonvecino of Riva, composed religious poems in the Veronese dialect, which were sung or chanted to similar groups of hearers. Their themes were the terrors of the Bibilonia Infernale, and the blessedness of the Gerusalemme Celeste. In form, their poems consisted of verses of 12 syllables, arranged in stanzas of four lines, all lines in the same stanza ending in the same rhyme.

3. In the latter half of the 13th century appeared in Italy that extraordinary manifestation of the ascetic spirit, the processions of the Flagellants. Vast bodies of men, women, and even children, girded with ropes and scourging themselves with whips till the blood flowed freely, passed from city to city, with hymns and prayers, and calling on the people everywhere to repent. Their hymns or laude were in the Umbrian dialect, in verses of 8 syllables, and were sung in dialogue.

Towards the end of the century arose in Tuscany a school of lyric poetry represented by Dante (b. 1265, d. 1321) in his Canzoni, and in the next generation by Petrarch (b. 1304, d. 1374) in his sonnets. But the subject of those compositions was for the most part earthly love, and nothing which those poets wrote resembled what we now mean by hymns.

4. The chief religious poet of the period, leaving out of view Dante's great epic, was Jacopo dei Benedetti, commonly called Jacopone (b. before 1250, d. 1306, p. 575, ii.). He is usually regarded as the author of the well-known Latin poem, the "Stabat Mater dolorosa," as well as of its companion piece, not so familiarly known, the "Stabat Mater speciosa." He wrote in Italian 211 poetical pieces, which have been arranged in seven books. Some are more theological dissertations in verse; others are satires, but others approach more nearly the nature of hymns, being short compositions written to popularise a sacred thought or celebrate a festival. "Jacopone," says Prof. Bartoli, "was a mystic, who from his hermit's cell looked forth upon the world, denouncing the immoralities of the age and especially the malpractices of poor Celestine V. and Boniface VIII." Cast into prison for his faithful testimony, his spirit was still unconquered. In his dungeon he composed songs extolling the Divine Love in a striking and original manner. Those were sung throughout the 14th and 15th centuries by the pious members of the religious orders, such as the Minimi, the Jesuates, and the lay schools of the Laudesi, or singers of God's praise.

5. Passing to the 15th century we come to Maffei Belcari (b. 1410, d. 1484), a native of Florence, a warm-hearted Christian man and the author both of numerous Laude and of Biblical dramas. The latter were more admired than the Laude. Nevertheless, these hymns of praise, being simple in style, full of feeling, and adapted to popular melodies, became extensively known and were widely used.

6. Belcari had scarcely passed away when there appeared in Florence the famous Dominican monk, Girolamo Savonarola (b. 1454, d. 1498). He not only from the pulpit denounced with prophetic earnestness the sins and vices of the time, but also sought to avail himself in the interests of morality and religion of the power of sacred song. Lorenzo de Medici had written certain vile productions, called Canti Carnascialeschi ("Carnival Songs"), which were sung by the young nobles and populace during the Carnival, and Savonarola, to counteract their influence, composed songs of a different order but similar in form and metre, and capable of being sung to the same tunes. His biographer Villari, however, acknowledges that but little true poetry is to be found in them, only "a temperate tone of decorum and good sense." At an earlier period Savonarola had written certain Canzoni on the Ruin of the World, the Ruin of the Church, and other subjects; but they are poems rather than hymns. Also, he appended to his treatise on the Love of Jesus Christ some Laude e Contemplazioni infiammative ("Exciting Hymns of Praise and Contemplation"), in which he extols the mercy and goodness of the Saviour, and expresses an ardent desire to become one with Christ, being uplifted on the same cross, fixed to it by the same nails, and wearing the same crown of thorns. These hymns, however, are said by Italian scholars to be roughly executed, and could never have been used in public worship.

7. Better than Savonarola's are the lyrics of Girolamo Benivieni (about A.D. 1500). A specimen cited by Villari shows that occasionally he was extremely fanciful, almost passing the bounds of common sense, but a competent judge says of his productions, that they are "sometimes sweet and always warm with religious feeling." Another says that he paraphrased the psalms in a simple, happy, vigorous style, and that some of his hymns belong to the finest lyrical productions of Italy in the 15th century.

8. One other name may be mentioned belonging to this period, that of the highly accomplished Vittoria Colonna, the Marchesa Pescara (b. 1490, d. 1547), a great friend of Michel Angelo. Among other poems she published (about 1540) some of a religious character, called Rime Spirituali. These are described as "the productions of a delicate and sensitive imitativeness rather than of vigorous and original genius," and there is no evidence that they were ever used as hymns in worship.

9. The latter part of the 16th century was the commencement of a long season of decline in Italian literature, and for nearly 200 years there appeared no religious poet of eminence. Nevertheless, in the years 1688 and 1703 there were published two collections of hymns which claim a brief notice. The first was entitled: Corona di sorte Canzoni, o Laude Spirituali di più divoti Autori (A Chaplet of Sacred Songs, or Spiritual Hymns of Praise, by several devout authors). The names of the authors are not stated, but the editor was Matteo Ciferati, a priest of Florence. Permission to print the 1st ed. was given by the Grand Duke of Tuscany, Nov. 30, 1687. A 2nd ed., revised and enlarged, was printed at Florence in 1689, by Jacopo Carlieri. It contains about 330 hymns. There is no attempt at orderly arrangement, so that from a hymn on the Resurrection of Christ we pass to one on the Nativity, and a composition, whose subject is the Vanity of the World, is followed by one on the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin. Melodies accompany the hymns.

The other book, printed at Florence in 1703, comprises 212 hymns, all composed by Bernardo Adimari, a priest of the Oratory of S. Filippo Neri. This work consists of three parts. The 1st contains hymns suitable for use at any time; the 2nd, hymns for the fixed prescribed Festivals and for those of the Blessed Virgin; and the 3rd, for the Sundays in Lent and the movable Festivals. To all these hymns melodies are attached, and the following sentence from the preface both shows that they were intended for public use, and throws an interesting light on the usage of those days in regard to sacred song:—"Signor G. M. Cantù has not only given the airs to these Little Songs, as may here be seen, but has besides affixed music arranged for four voices, it being the custom in many places for one stanza to be sung by the choir and the other by the people." It may be added that another Florentine poet with the surname of Adimari lived about this time, the Marquis Ludovico Adimari (b. 1644, d. 1708), author of Satires and Sonnets, and prose works of a religious character. Not improbably he was an elder brother of Bernardo Adimari.

10. The middle of the 18th century saw an improvement in Italian literature. Not only did secular poetry revive, as represented by Alfieri, Monti, and others, but the celebrated Doctor and Saint Alfonso Maria de Liguori, distinguished especially for his writings on casuistry and theology, also composed hymns and spiritual songs known to this day throughout Italy. He was b. near Naples in 1696, d. in 1787. Of the special character of his hymns we shall say more when we come to speak of the present condition of hymnody in the Roman Catholic Church of Italy.

11. Another poet of this period composed one fine hymn used in the worship of both R. Catholics and Protestants. This was Metastasio (i.e. Pietro Trapassi, b. at Rome in 1698, d. 1782), creator of the modern Italian opera. The subject of his hymn is "the omnipresence and omniscience of God," and the first stanza is as follows:—

"Dovunque il guardo giro,
Immenso Dio Ti vedo;
Nell'opre Tue T'ammiro,
Ti sento, e ti godo.
Le stesse, in mar, in aere
Parlan del Tuo potere;
Tu sei per tutto, e sei
Tutti ovunque in Te.

12. In the first quarter of the 19th century we meet with a hymn-writer in Alessandro Manzoni, author of tragedies and other poems, and of a work of fiction, I Promessi Sposi ("The Betrothed"), which has been translated into most European languages. He was b. in 1784 and d. in 1873. His mother was a daughter of the celebrated Beccaria. In 1815 he published a small volume of Inni Sacri ("Sacred Hymns"), their subjects being "The Nativity," "The Passion," "The Resurrection," and "The Name of Mary." A few years later he pub. one on "Pentecost." Prof. Bartoli says of these hymns that they have "glooms of genius, especially when the author describes the human affections." Comprising 16 or 18 stanzas each, they are too long for use in ordinary public worship; but a selection of 5 stanzas from the hymn on the "Nativity" is found in two of the Protestant hymn-books mentioned below. The first stanza is as follows:—

"Ecco di ciò ch'era un Parvolo,
Ch'fu begun Figlio:
Le sovrane forze tremano
Al mistero del sue ciglio:
A Lui vesta la mano Ei porge,
Ei move, Ei parla, e parge
Oltre l'amico uso."

Also, eight stanzas from the hymn on "Pentecost" are in the collection edited by Rev. T. W. S. Jones, of Naples (v. infra). One stanza in particular seems to us beautifully descriptive of the effects of the Holy Spirit's presence in the Church:—

"Come la luce rapida
Piove di cosa in cosa,
E come i rai rifrangesi,
Diversamente posa,
Tal nuovi meditando
La voce delle Spire:
L'Arabo, il Parto, il Siro,
In suo sermon l'odi."

13. Luigi Carrer, of Venice (b. 1800, d. 1857), and Francesco Dall' Ongaro (b. 1808, d. Jan. 10, 1873), two Italian poets who in their writings chiefly gave expression to intense patriotic aspirations, also wrote hymns, which however we have not met with in any collection intended for use in worship.

14. With a mention of another poet of the patriotic school, Giuseppe Giusti, we may close this part of our article. Giusti (b. 1809, d. 1850) was the greatest Italian satirist of this century, but in a Roman Catholic Hymnal described below, La Lira Cattolica, we find a beautiful little song of his, entitled "A Mother's Love." His died of consumption at a comparatively early age. The following touching lines, in the translation of W. D. Howell's Modern Italian Poets, are said to be the last which he wrote:—

"For the spirit confused With misgiving and with sorrow,
Let me, my Saviour, borrow The light of faith from Thee,
O lift from the burden Which bows it down before Thee,
With sight and with weeping I commend myself to Thy mercy.
My faded life, Then knowest, Little by little is eaten Like wax before the fire, Like snow-wreaths in the sun.
And for the soul that panteth For its refuge in Thy bosom, Break, Thou, the ties, my Saviour, That hinder it from Thee."

II. Italian Hymnody at the present time.

1. In the Roman Catholic Church.

1. A very competent authority, an ecclesiastic in high position in Rome and a writer for the press, informs us that the Roman Catholic Church has never considered singing by the people in the vulgar tongue as liturgical, the language of the Church being Latin. In Germany and the Slavonic countries popular singing has a certain historic value as regards either the words or music, and on this account its use there is not uncommon, and has been commended by bishops and councils. These, however, have required that the words of new hymns should be always approved by proper authority, and not even in these countries is singing in the language of the people permitted in the celebration of the solemn Mass. If such singing has sometimes occurred in country churches, it has been condemned by provincial councils.

2. But in Italy, our informant tells us, popular singing has no historic importance as regards either words or melodies. The people take part in the worship by singing in Latin the Litany, the Tantum ergo, and other similar portions of the service, and in many places, especially in the country, the people sing in Latin, and with the Gregorian melody (although somewhat barbarously) the Credo, the Sanctus, &c., of the solemn Mass.

3. But in extra-liturgical services, e.g. in the daily devotion of the month of May, in popular missions, or in the exercises before and after preaching in congregations of young people and especially of boys, they are accustomed to sing some strophes in Italian. These, however, have no sanction from public authority. The Church does not oppose such singing, but she does not consider it an official matter in which she ought to intervene with her authority.

4. Among hymns and verses of this kind, those most frequently used in the Devotions above-mentioned are the compositions of St. Alfonso Maria de' Liguori (see § I. 9). The English reader may refer to a volume published in 1863, with the title Hymns and Verses on Spiritual Subjects: being the Sacred Poetry of S. Alphonso Maria Liguori, translated from the Italian and edited by Robert A. Coffin (Lond., Burns and Lambert). The hymns there given are 40 in number; but the last four, though commonly inserted among the poetry of St. Alfonso, were not composed by him. The translator has divided Liguori's hymns into 3 classes: (1) Devotional, relating to the Lord Jesus Christ or to the Blessed Virgin Mary; (2) Ascetical; (3) Mystical. Their character may be inferred from some of the titles:—

"To the Infant Jesus," "On the Sacred Heart of Jesus," "The Sufferings of Jesus on the Sacred Cross," "Mary our Hope," "Our Mother Mary," "The Mother of Sorrows," "Stanzas for the Evening Exhortations," "The Soul gives itself to Jesus," "How amiable is the Will of God," "The soul enamoured of the Beauty of God," "Dialogue between Jesus and the loving Soul," "The loving Soul in Desolation."

These hymns abound in utterances of intense devotion; much of the imagery is taken from the Song of Solomon, and although here and there are striking thoughts and beautiful turns of language, the expression of emotion is often so warm and passionate as to seem unreal to our colder English temperament. It is said that, like some of the Canti of Savonarola, these compositions of St. Alfonso were written for the most part for the use of the people, and intended to replace the profane and pernicious love songs of which the Neapolitans were so fond.

5. In northern Italy a collection of hymns and songs in popular, entitled La Lira Cattolica; raccolta di Sacre Laudi scelte e poste in unsion per cura del Can. Ab. Francesco Fois di Bruno. The 1st ed. appeared in 1854. The 4th is before us, pub. at Turin in 1886. These compositions are used in extra-liturgical services, and are also often sung by peasants at their work in the fields. The Roman ecclesiastic, who is our authority for the statements previously made as to Roman Catholic worship, speaks rather slightingly of this collection, and we can well imagine that, by the more cultivated of the Italians, it is regarded very much as I. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos are by many persons in Great Britain. It includes a few hymns by poets of the first rank, but the majority are of a lighter and more popular character, often interspersed with choruses. The names of the authors of some of these latter are E. Bixio, S. Zambaldi, Spaccasierra, and C. C. Botta; but, as the editor of the collection is now deceased, we have been unable to obtain further particulars.

The collection comprises 133 pieces, in 5 sections. The first is relate to the worship of God, the Holy Trinity, Jesus Christ from His birth to His ascension to heaven, and to the Eucharist. Then follow hymns in honour of Mary under her various attributes. Twenty others then honour certain saints and angels. The fourth section contains 32 hymns on different subjects, adapted to animate the soul of the Christian; and the book closes with a number of hymns of an instructive and moral character suited to the young, together with translations into Italian of the "Dies Iræ," "Stabat Mater," and the "Te Deum."

6. In the years 1817 and 1818 there were pub. at Florence two vols. (now bound in one), with the following title:—Inni Sacri e Sequenze del Breviario e Messale Romano tradotti in versi lirici Toscani dal sacerdote Arcangelo Lastri Fiorentino con varie dissertazioni per illustrazione dei medesimi. These translations from the Roman Breviary and Missal are often very free and paraphrastic, but the accompanying notes and dissertations are interesting and instructive. The work is adopted for private rather than public use.

7. The last remark holds good in regard to another book, Il Salterio del Pellegrino, per D. Luigi Tosti Cassinese (Palermo, 6th ed., 1860). The contents of this little vol. are not really hymns in metre and rhyme, but devout meditations in the style of the Psalms of the Bible, and for this reason are called "Psalms."

8. It may suffice simply to name Lavde Mariane, by Francesco Martello, and Il Salterio Mariano, by Troiani Saverio. These works have no special merit, and like the preceding have no Church authority.

9. In closing this section, we may add that although the Roman Catholic Church in Italy does not appear to favour the singing of hymns in the vernacular in public worship, several of her Pontiffs and Bishops during the present century have distinctly encouraged such singing in private. In the preface to La Lira Cattolica (§ 5), are quotations from official announcements by Popes Pius VII. and Pius IX., and by six Italian Archbishops, granting indulgences of 40, 80, or 100 days, and even of a year, to those who shall practise this pious exercise with a contrite heart. The object is stated to be "to excite the faithful to the singing of spiritual hymns of praise, and to hinder as much as possible the singing of dangerous profane songs."

ii. Among the Protestants of Italy.

1. The principal Protestant communities in Italy at the present time are the following:—(1) The Waldensians, descendants, ecclesiastically, of the Waldenses of Piedmont; (2) The Free Italian Church ("Chiesa Libera"); (3) The Mission Congregations of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America; (4) The Mission Congregations of the Wesleyan Methodists, in North and South Italy; (5) The Baptists, who have stations in Rome, Turin, Leghorn, Venice and other places; some supported by the Baptists of England, others by the Baptists (Southern Convention) of the U. S. of America; (6) The Brethren ("Darbyites"), represented in Great Britain by G. Müller, of Bristol [see Plymouth Brethren Hymnody], having in Italy about 50 small congregations; (7) Missions unconnected with any Denominational Society, as those of Rev. E. Clarke at Sperzia, and Count Pappenheim at Naples. For the use of these communities the following books have been prepared:—

(1) Salmi e Cantici ("Psalms and Canticles"), pub. by the Florence Tract Society, comprising 150 hymns with appropriate music. The hymns are by more than 20 authors, and are mostly translations. We recognise 18 or 19 as trs. from the English or German, principally the former; e.g., Ken's evening hymn; Wesley's "Soldiers of Christ, arise"; Doddridge's "Rest with saints on every hand"; T. H. Taylor's "I'm but a stranger here." But the greater part are originals. This book is used by the Waldensian Church, the Free Italian Church, and by the Methodist and other Baptist congregations. Indeed, at the present time it is more widely used than any other Protestant hymnal.

(2) Inni Sacri per uso delle chiese, delle scuole, e delle famiglie Evangeliche Italiane. N.p.n.d. This book was first prepared in 1870 for the use of the Wesleyan congregations, by the Rev. T. W. S. Jones, superintendent of the Wesleyan Mission in Italy, and re-edited by him and considerably enlarged, and now contains 384 hymns, together with the Te Deum, and other anthems. Mr. Jones informs us that a new edition, to be still further enlarged, is now (1890) in preparation. The hymns are by about 25 different authors, but the far greater number are by Mr. Jones and Sig. Pietro Cantù.

(3) Salmi, Inni e Cantici Spirituali, by T. P. Rossetti. Firenze, 1878. This is a collection of 203 hymns, including 18 trs. by Rossetti from I. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, 200 by Rossetti himself, and 61 by Sig. Pietro Cantù. Of these, 181 are by T. P. R. The first 100 hymns of were pub. in 1867. The complete collection of his hymns was issued in 1867, and a 2nd ed. with additions from other authors, in 1874. The book described above is called the 3rd ed. The collection is used by the "Brethren," and at Rev. E. Clarke's Mission at Sperzia, and many of the hymns are found in other collections.

(4) Inni e Cantici Spirituali cantati dal Sig. Sankey, e valgarizzati da T. P. Rossetti. Con supplemento di altri scritti. Firenze, 1883. A translation of 51 of the English and American hymns which have been popularized by I. Sankey, such as "The Prodigal Child," "Jesus and I," "Sweet By-and-By," &c. Words and music are both in English and have been translated into Italian by T. P. Rossetti, and in the book before us accompanied with music.

(5) L'Arpa Evangelica, ossia Raccolta d'Inni e Cantici per l. Fanciulli ("The Gospel Harp, or Collection of Hymns and Songs for Children"), 7th ed., Firenze, 1872.

In this book are 75 hymns with music. It is pub. by the Tract Society at Florence, and is largely used in Sunday schools. Two or three are translations, the rest are original.

(6) Inni Sacri ad uso dei Cristiani d'Italia ("Sacred Hymns for the use of the Christians of Italy"). Roma, 1884. A collection of 189 hymns or parts of hymns, edited by Rev. J. Wall, Baptist Missionary in Rome, and used principally in the Baptist congregations in that city. Several of the hymns are from collections named above.

(7) Inni e Cantici, Roma, 1888. A collection of 84 hymns similar to the last named, made by Rev. N. H. Shaw, General Baptist Missionary in Rome, but now disused. Here it may be stated that the Baptist Union of Italy has decided to compile a new hymnal, and has entrusted the work to a committee consisting of Messrs. Rossetti, Cantù, Lombardi, Antonelli, and others.

(8) Cento Cantici Spirituali per l' agiato diviso nella chiesa evangelica di confessione Elvetica a Trieste ("A hundred spiritual songs for Divine worship in the evangelical church of the Helvetic confession at Trieste"). Of this book we only know the title. Trieste, as is well known, is regarded by many Italians as belonging to Italy.

(9) Stelle Celesti; Inni Sacri di Vincenzo Pantaleo ("Celestial Sparks: Sacred Hymns by V. Pantaleo"). Casella, 1888. A neatly printed vol. of 39 hymns and religious poems, several being adaptations of the Psalms. These hymns have been favourably received by the Italian Christians, and a second edition will probably be included in future collections. Sig. Pantaleo is an evangelist labouring under the direction of the Rev. N. H. Shaw, of Rome.

(10) Armonia Biblica ("Biblical Harmony"), by Vincenzo Bellondi (Rome, 1887), consists of 105 hymns and religious poems, considered by some to be of superior merit. The book is used in the Baptist Mission in Rome, under the auspices of the American Baptist Missionary Society (Southern Convention). The book is used in Sig. Bellondi's own congregation, and occasionally in the Baptist Church in Via Teatro Valle, Rome.

2. The authors of the hymns in the Protestant Italian Hymn-books include the following:—

1. Rossetti, Gabriele, author of 7 hymns in Hymnal No. 1, and of 18 in No. 2, came to England in 1824 as a political exile. He was appointed Professor of Italian Literature in King's College, London, and d. in 1854.

2. Rossetti, T. Pietrocola, a relative of the preceding, was b. in 1826, at Vasto, in the Abruzzi. As a young man he was connected with the Liberals of Italy, and in Dec. 1851, fled to England. Here, through the influence of Count Guiccardini he was converted. In 1857 he returned to Italy, and for 20 years laboured as an evangelist at Genoa and Turin, and at Florence, where he d. in 1878. Mr. T. P. Rossetti's hymns are 18 in number, besides his avowed translations from I. Sankey's Sacred Solos, several others are based on well-known English hymns.

3. Nicolini, G., who d. recently, was professor of the Italian language and literature in the College of Torre-Pellice. To the books above named 11 hymns are ascribed to him, 9 of which are in No. 1, and 4 in No. 2.

4. Mazzi, G., Doctor of Philosophy, was a friend of Mr. Rossetti's, and like him a political exile. He d. in London in 1877. To the hymn-books above named, 20, of which 12 are in No. 1, 7 in No. 2, and 1 in No. 3.

5. Tasca, Il Conte Ottavio, of Bergamo, still living, pub. in 1886 a small vol. entitled Inni Cristiani, from which 10 hymns in Nos. 1 and 2 are taken. Most of these are translations of English hymns.

6. Ferretti, Salvatore (b. 1817, d. 1876), lived for a time in Malta, and then in Italy. A journal entitled L'Eco di Sionnovelle, and in 1850 pub. Canti Cristiani ad uso dei Cristiani d' Italia (Lond., Partridge and Oakey). He afterwards returned to Florence, where he established a Protestant orphanage. Six of his hymns are in C. U.

7. Jones, Rev. Thomas W. S., has been a Wesleyan missionary in Italy for 26 years, and now resides in Naples as superintendent of the south-rn district of the Mission. He was not only compiler and editor of Hymnal No. 2, but has also written a large number of hymns. A large number, however, are free translations of the best English hymns.

8. Di Pretore, Michele, Licentiate in Belles Lettres, is a native of the Abruzzi, and was a student of medicine, but is now a teacher in the Wesleyan schools. He is the author of 117 hymns in No. 2, many of which are very popular and useful.

9. Bianciardi, Stanislao, author of 5 hymns in No. 1, and of 2 in No. 2, was b. in 1811, became a professor in Florence, and translated many English books into Italian, one of which was his Pilgrim's Progress. His hymns, pub. in 1860, are translations from the French. He d. in 1882.

10. Manuzzia, Benevenuto, author of one fine hymn in No. 2, is a member of the National Parliament of Italy.

11. Berghi, Giuseppe, author of 1 hymn in C. U., was b. at Bibbiena, in 1790, and d. at Rome in 1847. He was a Canon of the R. C. Church, and author of "Illustrazione di Petrarca," and other works.

12. Revel, Alberto, n.n., author of 3 hymns in No. 1, is a native of Piedmont, and a graduate of the Waldensian College, in Florence. He was b. about 1840, and is the author of a new translation of the N. Testament, a Hebrew grammar, and other learned works. He received the degree of h.n. from Edinburgh University.

13. Scarelli, Francesco, once a Franciscan monk, and one of the band of priests attached to the army of Garibaldi.

14. Bagghiarti, Salvatore, also at one time a Franciscan monk; De Sanctis, Giovabattista, formerly a teacher of languages and professor of music; Filippini Giuseppe, and Rota, Carlo, authors of 1 hymn each in No. 2, are now (1890) ministers of the Wesleyan church in Italy. Carlile, Giuseppe, now deceased, was also a Wesleyan teacher and minister.

15. Concerning the following we are unable to state any particulars:—Rota, author of 20 hymns in No. 1; Fava, author of 12 hymns in the same book; Pons, B.; Rodiguto, T.; Margotti; Enea Bachecio, L. M.; Tagliabichi; Bernini, G.; Aebo.

3. With regard to the form and metres of these Protestant Italian hymns, it may be remarked that the stanzas in most frequent use are of 6 or 8 l. The English c. and s. m. scarcely ever occur. The arrangement also of the rhymes is often rather intricate, and reminds one of the Petrarchian sonnet. As regards Subjects, the favourite themes of the native hymn-writers appear to be Redemption through Christ; our Lord's Sufferings, Death, Resurrection, Ascension and Second Advent; and the blessedness of those who believe in Him. There are also a few good hymns to the Holy Spirit; but such subjects as Divine Providence, Christian Work, Death and Heaven, are scarcely touched. Hence, in the hymnals above-named, compositions on these topics are mostly translations. Hymns expressive of the communing of a devout soul with itself in the things of God are also at present rare. Most are in the form of direct address to God as praise, prayer or penitent confession. And the expression of devout affection to God the Father or the Lord Jesus Christ is not stronger or more frequent than in English hymns. In fine, our feeling is that in these poetical compositions of the two Roscettis and other distinguished sufferers in the cause of national freedom, as well as of evangelists connected with the various Missions, we have only a meritorious beginning of Protestant Hymnody in the Italian language. What may be in future is beyond our province to predict.

4. In conclusion, we would express our great obligations to the Rev. N. H. Shaw, General Baptist Missionary in Rome, without whose aid in procuring books and communicating information this article could not have been written. Thanks are also due to the Rev. T. W. S. Jones, of Naples; to the Rev. A. De Santi, S.J., of Rome, and to Sig. G. B. Wills, of Florence, for information kindly furnished.

[W. R. S.]

Jesu dulcis memoria, p. 686, i. After the sentence, "These stanzas are quite unnecessary to the hymn, &c.," read thus before passing to the printed forms of the text :—

Since the notices here given were electrotyped four other MSS. in the Brit. Mus. have been examined. Three of these (Add. 16,975, f. 249 b., of circa 1300; the Reg. 7, A. xvi. f. 108, of the 14th cent.; and the Reg. 2, A. xix., f. 86, of the 14th cent.) present nearly the same text as that in Lond. Mac. 468, and confirm the belief that the 42 stanza form of the text is the original. The fourth MS. is also of the 14th cent. (Reg. 7, D. xvii., f. 179 b.), but it presents an interpolated and corrupt text, in 53 stanzas, viz.:—1–42, 43, 45–48, 50 (12, 48, 50 being greatly altered); and also 5 stanzas not found in any other MS. yet examined. These additional stanzas are :

42. Quem tha diffes dolce.
43. Huic affectus cum cantu.
45. Tu mansuetum animum.
46. Tu memorum solatium.
48. Ostende Patri vulnera.

It will thus be seen that sts. 43, 45, 48, 50, 52–56 are all at least as early as the 14th cent., though there does not appear to be any reason to regard them as really by St. Bernard; while sts. 44, 49, 51, have not yet been found in MSS. earlier than the 15th cent.

We must note also the following additional Ists. :—

i. From the Full Form.

From E. Cassell's Ir. there are also the following in C. U. :—

1. O Jesu, Light of all below.
2. O Jesu, Lord, hear thou the sighs.
3. Jesu, in mercy, hear the sighs.
4. Jesu, my soul hath in Thy love.

ii. From the Sarum Use.

v. Additional Contos.

1. O Jesu! to my soul most dear. In J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1886.

2. Jesu! most high, most wonderful. A. T. Russell in his Ps. & Hys., 1851.

3. O Jesu! Thou of heaven the joy. A. T. Russell, 1851.

4. Jesus, our fainting spirits cry. By R. F. Dunn in the American Sabbath H. Bk., 1858. In some collections, including the Meth. Episc. Hyl., 1878, it begins with st. ii., "We sinners, Lord, with earnest heart." In Dr. S. L. Gracey's Memorial of Tr. Dunn, this tr. begins "Jesus, Whose name the angel-host," and that the Sabbath H. Bk. text begins with st. ii. of the full form.

5. Jesu, Thou sweetness, pure and blest. This hymn in the East Grinstead St. Margaret's Hyl., 1875, is a centō from "Jesu, dulcis memoria," p. 240, ii., beginning with st. xxi., "Jesu, summa benignitas." The first stanza of the tr. is, "O Jesu! the very thought is sweet," &c. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and this No. by Neale, are now (1874) in use in Sisters' Hymnals, from Kennedy, 1863, No. 1474, which begins with the same stanza (p. 888, i.).

6. Thou ! Hope of all the lowly. By H. M. Macgill in his Songs of the Christian Creed and Life, 1876.

7. O Jesu, more glorious than the sun to see. This is in the St. Margaret's Hyl. (East Grinstead), 1875, No. 70 (Sts. iii., ii., as from Neale's Tr., 1862, and the rest are now, also by him.

8. O Jesu, King of wondrous might. In the St. Margaret's Hyl., 1875. This is by Neale, st. i., being from his 1862 tr., and the rest new.

9. O Jesu, Lord of heaven to greet. By G. S. Hodges in his The County Epistolist, &c.

10. Jesus, to think of Thee. By J. Wallace, in his Hys. of the Church, 1874.

11. O Jesus! name to mem'ry dear. D. French, 1868, p. 5.

15. J. D. Chambers, in his Enchiridion, 1863, pp. 193–5, gives "Three centos from the Jesu Dulcis Memoria," "Horæ de sancta sapientia," noted at p. 1535, i. These are part of his version of the Sarum Enchiridion, 1528, f. cxxiii., "Hours of the Most Sweet Name of Jesus." These centos number eight in all. [J. J.]

Ken, T., p. 493, i. Since this article was electrotyped the following details concerning Bp. Ken's three hymns have come to light :—In a Catalogue of the S. P. C. K., pub. in 1707, there appears an entry of a tract entitled, Three Hymns for Morning, Evening, and Midnight, by the Author of the Manual of Prayers for Winchester Scholars. A copy of this hitherto unknown tract has lately come into the hands of Mr. W. T. Brooke, and by him has been passed on to the Brit. Mus. Lib. It is bound up in a volume with two other pamphlets, of which the respective titles are :

(1) An Exposition on the Church Catechism, or the Practice of Divine Love. Revised. Compos'd for the Diocese of Bath and Wells. Printed for Charles Brome, at the Gun in St. Paul's Church-yard, in London, 1703; (2) Directions for Prayer for the Diocese of Bath and Wells. Price 2d. pp. 16; (3) A Morning, Evening, and Midnight Hymn by the Author of the Manual of Prayers for Winchester Scholars. Nos. 2 and 3 have no title, but on the last page of No. 3 is London, Printed at the Gun, at the West End of St. Paul's Church-yard.

The text of this tract of the "Three Hymns" agrees absolutely with that of 1709, except that in the 10th stanza of the Morning Hymn it reads "not rise again," as in 1703. We may therefore conclude that Ken's revisions, with this exception, were made between 1703 and 1707, the date of the S. P. C. K. Catalogue.

We may add that another centō from Ken's Midnight Hymn is "Blest Jesu! Thou, on heaven intent," in Rice's Hys., 1870.

The Life of Bp. Ken by the late Dean Plumptre was pub. in 1888, in 2 vols. It is by far the best and most exhaustive life of the Bishop, and is worthy of the author's great reputation. See NEW SERF. [S. A. C.]

O Lord, Thy heavenly grace impart. (Self Consecration.) This hymn is found in Mrs. Lucy Wilson's Memoirs of John Frederic Oberlin, London, 1829, p. 254. It is there printed as part of the account of a service in Waldbach church on June 11, 1820, the description being given from the journal of Mrs. Steinkopff, who, with her husband, Dr. Steinkopff, secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, was then visiting the Ban de la Roche. After describing the service, and the sermon on Isaiah liii. 11, she adds :—

"When he had finished, he read some verses of a hymn expressive of entire devotedness to God. 'My dear friends,' said he, 'may these be the feelings of our hearts, and as such let us now sing them to God.' They then sang the following in a translation :—

"O Lord, Thy heavenly grace impart,
And fix my full incessant heart;
Henceforth my chief desire shall be,
To dedicate myself to Thee!
To Thee, my God, to Thee!"

Then follow three other stanzas.

Fifty years later the Rev. Daniel Wilson, Vicar of Islington, in a letter of Sept. 15, 1870, to the Rev. James Bonar, of Greenock, regarding this hymn of his wife's, remarked :—

"It was written originally by Oberlin in German. Mrs. Wilson wrote Oberlin's Life. Steinkopff [sic] translated it into English, and then Mrs. Wilson put it into verse."

In the Life however there is nothing to show that the hymn was of Oberlin's own composition. Moreover at p. 257 it is said that the Sunday services at Waldbach were in French, and that the German service was on Friday. As it happens June 11, 1820, was a Sunday, and there is no reason to suppose that the custom was broken, or that either the service as a whole, or this hymn in particular, was in German. No German hymn at all resembling it has yet been discovered. It is indeed true that in Oberlin's Schriften, vol. i. Stuttgart, 1843, p. 242, there is a German hymn, the first stanza of which is :—

"Zeuch Herr, mein unbeständig Herz
Durch deine Gnade himmelwärts.
Mein sturig Sehnen lass es satt,
Dass es nur dich, nur dich, nur dich,
Nur dein, mein Gott, nur dein."

The hymn, however, like the rest of the Lieder, is simply a tr. from the English Life by Mrs. Wilson, and is not an original German hymn.

We have also failed to find a French original, either in Oberlin's hymn-book mentioned at p. 393, i., or elsewhere. Still Mrs. Steinkopff's account, given above, makes it beyond doubt that Mrs. Wilson's English hymn does in some way reproduce (probably very freely) a hymn used at Waldbach, and makes it almost certain that the hymn was in French, but gives no clue to its authorship.

Mrs. Wilson's hymn has enjoyed considerable popularity, and has generally been given in full and unaltered, as in Thring's Coll., 1880–82, and the Free Church H. Bk., 1882. In H. V. Elliott's Ps. & Hys., 1835, it was reduced to L. M., and so in the American Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, and others in America. Further altered versions are :—

1. Jesus, Thy heavenly grace impart. In Robinson's Christian Psalmody, 1853, and others.

2. O God, Thy heavenly grace impart. In the Hys. for Holy Trinity, Westminster, 1854, No. 75.

Old Version, Hymns of the (pp. 857–866). In the article on the Old Version the main object was to trace out the origin and development of Sternhold & Hopkins, and the authors of the psalm-versions given in that Psalter. The Hymns therein, the Licence to Print, and the Authority to Use both the Psalms and the Hymns formed but a small part of the scope of the article.

In citing the various editions of Sternhold & Hopkins, on pp. 857–866, several hymns are referred to as forming an integral part of those editions. These include translations of a few ancient hymns; metrical versions of the Creeds, the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and the Song of the Three Children; and original hymns on various subjects as "The Lamentation of a Sinner," the "Complaint of a Sinner," a "Thanksgiving after the receiving of the Lord's Supper," and others. In tracing out the history of these hymns we shall begin with the Partial Psalter of 1561 and the Complete Psalter of 1562. Sternhold & Hopkins, known to many as the Old Version, had an eventful history, as the following Schedule will show. In this Schedule we note (1) the Library in which each Psalter referred to is found; (2) the Date of each Psalter; (3) its Title; (4) the Use to be made of it by the People; (5) the Licence and Authority for this Use; (6) the Imprint and Privilege; and (7) Sundry remarks arising out of the foregoing facts.

Before giving the Schedule in detail, we subjoin the titlepages of the four editions of the Psalter which mark the successive stages of its history.

(1) The Psalter of 1561 :—

Psalmes, || of David in Englishe || lately Set forth, by Thomas Sternhold, and Iohn Hopkins, || and others: || Conferred with the Hebrue, with apt Notes || to sing them withall. || Very necessary to be vsed of all sortes of people || priuately for their godly || solace and comfort: || laying aparte all || vngodly Songes and Ballades, || which tende || only to the norishe || shing of vice, and corrup- || tion of youth. || Imprinted at London, by Iohn Day, || dwelling ouer Aldersgate. || Cum gratia & priuilegio Regiæ || Maiestatis.

(2) The Psalter of 1562 :—

(3) The Psalter of 1566 :—

The whole booke || of Psalmes, collected into Englysh || metre by Thomas Sternhold, Iohn || Hopkins, and others: || Conferred || with the Hebrue, with apt Notes || to sing || them withall. || Newlye Set Forth and allowed to be || songe of || the people together, in Churches, before and || after Morning and Euening Prayer, as || well || also before || and after || the Sermon, and moreouer, || may be vsed || in euery priuate house, for their godlye || solace and comfort, || laying apart all || vngodly Songes and || Ballades, which tend onely to the || norishe || shing of vice, and corrup- || tion of youth. || Imprinted at London by Iohn Day, dwelling || ouer Aldersgate beneath || Anno. 1566. || Cum gratia & priuilegio Regiæ || Maiestatis.

(4) The Psalter of 1567 :—

Newly set forth and allowed to be sung in all Churches . . . [as above.] Imprinted . . . Cum priuilegio Regiæ Maiestatis per Successiones.

The Schedule in detail, with the omission of the editions in the Brit. Mus. Lib. and elsewhere, from 1567 to 1577, which are all under the ten years' Licence, is as follows :—

From the last date given in the above Schedule (1578) the publication was continued "Cum gratia & privilegio Regiæ Maiestatis," for several years. It finally read "Cum privilegio" only. The printing passed from John Day to his Executors and Successors, then to the "Company of Stationers," and finally to the Universities. The last issue was from Cambridge in 1628. In the Brit. Mus. Lib. alone there are copies of some 600 different editions of this Psalter.

The foregoing Schedule brings the following facts clearly to the front:—

1. That in 1561 a Partial Psalter with accompanying hymns was published under an Interim Licence for Private Use.
2. That in 1562 the Complete Psalter was issued, together with the Hymns, under a Seven Years' Privilege to print.
3. That in 1566 the Seven Years' Privilege to print was cut short by an Interim Licence for the Public and Private Use of both Psalter and Hymns.
4. That in 1567 this Privilege to print was regranted for Ten Years.
5. That in 1577 this Privilege to print expired.
6. That in 1578 the new Privilege to print was unrestricted as to time, and remained so until the Psalter ceased to be printed in 1828.
7. That the Use (col. 4) was, from 1561 to 1566, for Private Use only.
8. That from 1566 to 1828 it was for both Public and Private Use.

In this Schedule we have used the words Licence and Authority and Imprint and Privilege (cols. 4 and 5) to distinguish between what seem to us to be two distinct features in the successive titlepages of the Psalter. Taking first the column which is headed Licence and Authority we find the titlepage begins with these few words:—

1561. Yet note to be vsed of all sortes of people priuatly for their godly solace and comfort . . . Newly set forth and allowed accordyng, &c. .

These words were used with respect to the Partial Version of 1561. On the issue of the Complete Version of 1562, it was expanded thus:—

1562. Faithfully perused and allowed according . . Yet note to be vsed of all sortes of people priuatly . . .

This rearranged and expanded wording continued from 1562 to 1566, when it was still further rearranged and expanded to:—

1566. Newlye set forth and allowed to bee soong of the people together in Churches, before and after Morning and Euening prayer: as also before and after the Sermon, and moreover in priuate houses . . .

In the issue for 1567 (the first of the ten years Licence and Privilege) it reads:—

Newly set forth and allowed to be song in all Churches, &c. [as above].

In these various editions of the Psalter we begin in 1561 with the simple expression of the authors' opinion that the book is "Yet note to be vsed of all sortes of people priuatly;" and to this end it is "Newly set fourth and allowed"; in 1562 it is "Faithfully perused and allowed" for the same purpose; in 1566 it is "Newlye set fourth and allowed to bee soong of the people together, in Churches"; and later it is "in all Churches." This gradual expansion of the titlepage of the Psalter as it passed through, what we may term, its period of trial from 1561 to 1566, is of some importance in this inquiry. Although the legal and technical meaning of the words "Newlye set fourth and allowed" is Licenced only, yet, when it reads as it does in the first issue for Public Use in 1566, "Newlye set fourth and allowed to bee soong of the people together, in Churches, before and after Morning and Euening prayer: as also before and after the Sermon, &c.," we are evidently brought face to face with something more than a simple Licence to a printer to print or publish. This something must have been either a Positive Authority from a definite source, or such Sanction as satisfied both the Clergy and the People. Positive Authority, either by Convocation or by Parliament, is unknown; but a Sanction, which was a sufficient security to both Clergy and Laity, was known and accepted. This lay first in the clause in the Injunctions of 1559, that any intelligible hymn "or song to the praise of Almighty God" might be sung before and after Morning and Evening Prayer; and, second, this was strengthened by the fact that the use in Public Worship of the Psalms and the Hymns, had the willing and cordial approval of the Queen's Censors,* who numbered amongst them the highest Ecclesiastical authorities in the Realm. Strictly speaking the Injunctions of 1559 rendered any action by Parliament or Convocation unnecessary, in that they proceeded directly and absolutely from the Queen's Majesty.

It must be noted also that "whatever be the Legal and Technical Authorization [of this Psalter] of its Practical Adoption by the State, the State Services in 1576 [that is, the year before the ten years Licence and Privilege expired], and 1580 [two years after the same was granted, without limitation as to time], which quote it as if it were the only psalm book, are an evidence" of some importance (see p. 904, ii.).

The Privilege to John Day to print and publish began with the issue of the 1561 Partial Version, "Cum gratia & privilegio Regiæ Maiestatis," and continued the same to 1578, and after, with the two limitations only "per septennium" and "per decennium," as given above.

It is evident to our mind from these facts that at the first the putting forth of the Psalter and the Hymns was a tentative measure only. This tentative measure evidently satisfied the Queen's Censors that the whole book was in accordance with the Reformed Teaching and Ritual, that it was calculated to do good to the people, and that it was acceptable to them and to the clergy at large. These authorities therefore deemed it right to raise the book from the position of a private manual into a public and authorized book for use in public worship. This they did by Licencing it to be printed and published with the full knowledge that it was to "bee soong

* The Censors were: The Archbishops, the Bishop of London, the Chancellor of both Universities, the Bishop being Ordinary, and the Archdeacon also of the place of printing. of the people together, in Churches, before and after Morning and Evening prayer: as also before and after the Sermon." Its acceptance was universal, and continuous.

The opening lines of the psalm-versions of this Psalter are given on pp. 865–66. We now give the Hymns.

Preserue vs Lorde by thy dears worde.

The above represent those hymns as they stood in the 1561 Psalter, the headings only being modernized, except in the case of No. 16, which is as in the original.

From 1561 to 1566 additional Hymns were given to the above, and in 1566 (the first for Public Use) the Psalter included the above and those following also:—

(18) The humble suit of a Sinner. [Signed M.]
O Lord, of whō I do depend.
(19) Before Morning Prayer. [Signed T. Be.]
Prayse the Lord O ye Gentiles all.
(20) Before Evening Prayer. [Signed T. Be.]

(22) The Lamentation.
O Lorde in thee is all my trust.
(23) The Song of the Three Children.
O all ye works of God the Lorde.

In a Cambridge ed. of the Psalter of 1602 the same hymns are retained. Later the number gradually grew less until they numbered about fourteen.

Of these hymns that which is historically of the most importance is the "Thanksgiving after the receiving of the Lord's Supper":—

The Lord be thanked for His gifte. This was the first metrical hymn written for, and adopted by, the English Reformers for use at the Celebration of Holy Communion. It was first printed, so far as yet known, in the incomplete 1561 Psalter of Sternhold and Hopkins (as set forth above), p. 228, in 31 st. of 4 l., and in this manner:—

A thankes geuing after the receiuing of the Lordes Supper.

Sing this or the Canonicall Psalme.

The Lord be thanked for his gifte,
That he doth feare vnto his taste
To him be laude therfore.

The same form of this hymn has always retained. It passed the ordeal with the Psalter, and thereby attained, in common with the other Hymns named above, an authority co-equal and co-extensive with the Psalter itself. It must also be noted that it is an original hymn, and not a Metrical rendering of the Prose fr. of the "Gloria in Excelsis" in the Office for Holy Communion in the Book of Common Prayer.

The length of this hymn is somewhat formidable, and in these latter days its 124 lines would be regarded as a tax upon the patience of the congregation. When it is known however that it was sung by those who had communicated, and those who were waiting to communicate, whilst another portion of the people were communicating, that the congregation sat during the time it was being sung, that it could be curtailed if the communicants were few in number, and that its object was, as George Wither says in defence of his hymn of 200 lines for the same purpose (Hys and Songs of the Church, 1623) to meet the "custom among us that during the time of administring the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper there is some Psalm or Hymn sung, the better to keep the thoughts of the communicants from wandering," its length is understood and accounted for. The practice of sitting during the singing of hymns in the Church of England prevailed in various counties to 1840. In several collections of Ps & Hys dating from 1830 to 1840 the duty of standing during the singing of the hymns, as against the practice of sitting, was strongly set forth in the Prefaces thereto. [England. Hymnody. Church of. p. 356, ii.] From this it is evident that sitting to sing at the Holy Communion had extended to other parts of divine worship.

The history of the hymns for Holy Communion in the New Version of Tate and Brady, which superseded this hymn in Public Use in the Church, is given at pp. 861–2. [J. J.]

Psalters, Versions in English, pp. 926–932. Since this article was stereotyped we have received the following additions to the list of Psalters and Partial Versions of the Psalms from Mr. W. L. Taylor, of Peterhead, N.B., whose collection of Psalters is very complete.

Psalters, Versions in German. The German versions of the Psalter have had comparatively little influence on the development of English Hymnody. The present article accordingly has not been planned on the same scale as that on the English Psalters (p. 852), but is merely intended as a brief list of more or less complete versions in German rhymed verse. No versions in blank verse or in rhythmical prose have been included, and as a rule no versions are mentioned unless they contain renderings of at least 50 Psalms. No attempt has been made to include versions written before 1520, or later versions which have never been printed; and only those works are enumerated regarding which it has been possible to obtain definite information. The titles are given as shortly as possible. The references in square brackets are to the libraries where copies of the various works indexed are at present (1890) to be found. These are principally the British Museum (referred to as B. M.); the Royal Libraries at Berlin and Munich; the University Library at Göttingen; the Town Libraries at Hamburg, Leipzig, and Augsburg; and the library of Count von Stolberg at Wernigerode.

The versions may be classed as follows:—

I. Versions in Germany, not including Roman Catholic Versions.
1. 1517–1560.

1. During this period many versions of single Psalms were included in the hymnbooks of the Lutheran Church, e.g. 12 in Klug's G. B., 1529, and 19 in Babst's G. B., 1545, while a still greater proportion are found in the Zwickau G. B., 1528, and the Rostock G. B., 1531. But no complete version was adopted for church use among the Lutherans. Versions of select Psalms were made by M. Luther, J. Jonas, J. Agricola, E. Alber, E. Hegenwalt, L. Spengler, H. Sachs, P. Speratus, J. Graumann, J. Spangenberg, J. Feder, A. Knöpken, J. Diecksenteich, V. Triller, and many others. The complete versions were:—

1. Der ganze Psalter. Leipzig, 1542 [Berlin]. By Johann Clem. of Ansbach in Bavaria. In rhymed couplets, but not intended for singing.
2. Der ganze Psalter Deutsch in gantze weise gebracht. Nürnberg, 1542 [B. M. and Wernigerode]. By Johann Spreng of Augsburg, assisted by Wolfgang Dachstein of Bavaria. A number are imitations of versions by L. Oeler, H. Sachs, and others.
3. Der Psalter, in neue Gesangweise und künstliche Reimen gebracht. Frankfurt-am-Main, 1553 [B. M. and Berlin]. By Burkard Waldis, completed while he was pastor at Abterode in Hesse. It soon came into general favour, though never adopted for church use as a whole. Including double renderings it contained in all 155 versions. Of these at least 25 passed into the hymn-books of the 16th cent., and some kept their place till late in the 17th. None have been tr. into English.

2. In the Reformed Church a more prominent place was given to Psalm versions than in the Lutheran, as the following details will show :—

In the Constanz Neue gesangbüchle of 1536-40, out of 164 pieces 47 were Psalm-versions; in the Strassburg Kirchenampt of 1524-25 out of 28 there were 23; while the Strassburg Psalmen of 1530 contained Psalms only. In the Strassburg Psalmen of 1537 hymns were again admitted, and in the Strassburg Psalter of 1539 (known as the actual edn. Psalmen Davids (Munich. The copy is incomplete, with only Ps. 1-132) versions of all the Psalms were included, many being taken from J. Aberlin and J. Dachser (see below). Both parts, as united in 1539, contained 146 Psalm-versions and 90 hymns. In the succeeding edn. of 1540-42 the number of Psalm-versions was increased to 150, and the whole of the contested Psalms were versified by T. and A. Blaurer, W. Musculus, W. Dachstein, M. Greitter, L. Oeler, and others. Besides the Strassburg Psalter of 1539 another complete version appeared at :—

4. Der gantz Psalter Davids . . . zur Kirchübung, Augsburg, 1538 (Munich). This is mainly by Jacob Dachser, and is based on Bucer's Psalmen. Only 4 versions are new, and few of them passed into the hymn-books save of Strassburg and Augsburg.

3. Among the minor sects the only Psalm-versifiers whose productions passed into the hymn-books of the Evangelical church were J. Aberlin (see below) and A. Reisener. The complete versions were :—

5. Der gantz Psalter . . . durch vil lerrsmpter für—nämlicher Dichter uß Psalm. 1537 (Zürich?) (K. M.) Edited by Joachim Agricola, and published at Nürnberg. Contains Aberlin's modernisings of Psalms not previously versified by others. A number of his versions are in No. 4 below, but few are found elsewhere, save in the Strassburg hymn-books.

Among the Enthusiasts a complete version appeared as :—

6. Der new gesang psalter. 1538 (Ulm?) (Berlin). This is based on the Constanz G. B., 1536, takes 43 versions from Dachser, and 60 from Aberlin, and includes 31 by Agricola and Augsburg. Edited by Schlaginger of priority with Aberlin.

ii. 1561–1617.

During this period a considerable number of detached Psalm-versions appeared ; with at least 20 complete versions, one of which, that by Lobwasser, long dominated in the Reformed Church. In the Lutheran Church versions of all the Psalms, collected from various sources, principally from Johann Magdeburg (see below), were included as part of the Kirchē-Gesäng, pub. at Frankfurt-am-Main in 1569. Versions of individual Psalms were made by N. Herman, C. Fugcr, B. Ringwaldt, N. Selnecker, L. Helmbold, C. Schuscgius, J. Fischart, D. Wölder, W. Ammonius, J. Mühlmann, and others. In the Bohemian Brethren's Kirchengesang of 1566 a number of Psalm-versions by J. Jolocky, P. Herbert, C. Sirutschko and M. Weiss were included (see p. 186, ii.).

The more important complete versions of this period were :—

7. Der Psalter Davids gesangweis, in teutsche Reimen verfasset. Frankfurt-an-Main, 1573 (Hamburg). By Johann Magdeburg. Gesänge of the St. Katherine's church at Hamburg. Of these versions no fewer than 24 are found in the Lüneburg edn. of 1588, and 20 in the Frankfurt Psalmen und Geistliche, 1662.

8. Der Psalter dem Königlichen Propheten Davids, in deutsche reymen vermenschlichet und dichtlich gebracht. Leipzig, 1573 (Hamburg). By Ambrosius Lobwasser (p. 625, ii.). Lobwasser was of the Lutheran and not of the Reformed Church. He not only wrote to the tunes of the French Psalter, including them in four-part harmony, but literally tr. the Marot-Beza versions. His Psalter, dedicated to the Elector Augustus and Duke Albrecht of Prussia, but from various causes not published then printed, and the Duke's death in 1568 and Elector delayed its appearance. Employed at first only for private edification this version gradually came into universal use in the Reformed Church, e.g. in Basel, 1616 ; Hesse Cassel, 1630 ; St. Gall, 1619 ; Bern, 1620 ; Nassau, 1628 ; Zürich, 1634 ; Geneva, 1637 ; and retained till the appearance of Ostervald's version in 1701, and was in recent times still used in some parts of Switzerland. It was as warmly opposed as it was warmly welcomed, and was stigmatised by the Lutherans as Calvinistic, as mere rhymer's work, as obscuring the Evangelical spirit of the Psalms, &c., and thus Becker's version was undertaken (see below). Issued in 4 vols. there was added an appendix of Etliche Psalmen und geistliche Lieder. Of the melodies many passed into use among the Lutherans, and also a few of the Psalm-versions. The only one tr. into English is that of Ps. cxxxiv. (see p. 633, ii.).

9. Der Psalter Davids, in Gesangweis, auff die zu Lutherischen Kirchen gewöhnliche Melodeyen eingerichtet. Leipzig, 1602 (Berlin). By Cornelius Becker (p. 121, i.). This was written as to a genuine Lutheran spirit and to Lutheran tunes, in order to counteract the influence of Lobwasser's version. It soon obtained popularity, and was set to four-part music by Seth Calvisius (p. 121, i.) in 1603, and by Heinrich Schütz (p. 1001, ii.) in Saxony, 1628. The complete Psalter was adopted as part of the Weissenfels G. B., 1714, and a large proportion in the Dresden G. B., 1694. A few versions, such as those of Ps. xxiii., cxviii., cxxxi., are still in use in Germany, and the first of these has passed into English (p. 121, ii.).

10. Teutsche Cantzney, Das ist, Der Psalter Davids, Gesangweise, auff gemeine lutherische Melodeyen, nach dem Textlichen Text und Version D. Luther's übergesetzt. Hamburg, 1604 (Hamburg). By Franciscus Algermann, a lawyer, and in 1606 Landfiscal in the Duchy of Brunswick. Completed in 1630, and thereafter set to music in four parts by the Hamburg organists Jacob Praetorius and Heinrich Scheidemann, and by Christian Decker. Only a few of these versions came into German use. The 2nd edn., Heinrichstadt, 1610 (Berlin), was entitled Cithara Davidica.

Other versions of this period were :—

11. Die Psalmen Davids in Teutsche gesangreymen. Heidelberg, 1573 (K. M. and Berlin). By Paul Schede or Melissus, afterwards chief librarian at Heidelberg, where he d. in 1602. It is a version of Ps. 1-l. in fine rhyming verse.

12. Der Psalter des heiligen Königes und Propheten Davids : in harte englische deutsche Reimen verfasset. Magdeburg, 1574 (Celle). By Georgius Henningus, preacher at St. George's church in Hannover, who d. 1580.

13. Psalterium. Das ist, Die sämbtliche und fünffhundert Psalmen Davids. Augsburg, 1574 (Berlin, &c.). By Gregorius Wintzerierius, preacher at St. George's church in Augsburg.

14. Gebetbüch. Das fünffte und letzt Buch . . . beygefüget : Den gantzen Psalter dan Königlichen Propheten Davids. Nürnberg, 1581 (Wernigerode). This copy has lost its title). It is a revision by Winderstier of his work of 1574, and is in great measure a new version.

15. Der gantze Psalter Davids . . . gesangweise gestellt. Frankfurt-an-Main and Strasburg, 1582 (Berlin). By Cyriacus Spangenberg, sometime Count and Superintendent of Mansfeld, and Provost of Eisleben. There is a version of each Psalm by himself (except Ps. lx., where he gives a version by his father), and a few by other hands.

17. Der Psalter Davids . . . in deutsche Vers oder Epitheta verfasset. Leipzig, 1585. By Nikolaus Hess of Breslau.

18. Psalmen des Königlichen Propheten Davids auff die Frentzösische Reimen und Art gestalt. Speier, 1601 (Munich). By Philipp the Younger, Baron of Winneberg and Beilstein. Written about 1584.

19. Der Psalter Gesangweise, ins vermehrliche Teutsch gebracht. Leipzig, 1602. By Joachim Bartsius, Cantor at Schweidnitz in Silesia.

iii. 1618–1647.

During this period the Lobwasser Psalter obtained its ascendency in the Reformed Church, and no considerable additions of merit were made to the Psalm-versions of the Lutheran Church. Versions of detached Psalms were made by M. A. von Löwenstern, M. Beheim, A. Buchner, P. Flemming, J. H. Schein, M. Rinkart, B. Hebler, Diedrich von der Werder, G. Weissel, H. Albert, J. P. Titius, J. Rist, D. Denicke, G. Weber, and others. The more important complete versions were :—

29. Die Psalmen Davids. Nach der Frentzösischen Weise gestalt. Danzig, 1627 (Wernigerode). By Martin Opitz (p. 871, i.). A number had previously appeared, e.g. in his Zehen Psalmen Davids, 1624. As improved ed. was pub. in 1639 (Berlin), but few came into C. U. in Germany, and none have passed into English.

30. Deutscher Poetischer Psalter Davids. Rinteln, 1640 (Wernigerode). By Andreas Heinrich Buchholtz, sometime Professor at Rinteln, and finally Lutheran Superintendent at Brunswick, where he d. in 1671. By his contemporaries this version was ranked higher than that of Opitz. It is in alexandrines, counting to five. Included in his Geistliche Teutsche Poesien, Brunswick, 1651 (Royal Library, Brussels).

Other versions of this period were :—

31. Der Psalter Davids Gesangweise abgesetzet. Wittenberg, 1631. By Johann Tilemann, M.A., pastor at Kleinkönig near Zwickau.

32. Musica Davidica, oder Davids Harfenspiel. Glückstadt, 1635 (Hamburg). By Sebastian Leopold.

33. Der Psalter Davids in die gebräuchlichste Kirchenthone gebracht, und mit hundert neuen Melodien gezieret. Nürnberg, 1637 (Wernigerode). By Sebastian Metzger, who in 1647 became one of the masters in the St. Aegidien school at Nürnberg, and d. at Nürnberg about 1657.

34. Die Psalmen Davids, sampt andern heiligen Liedern. Nürnberg, 1644 (Wernigerode). By Sigmund Theophil Staden, of Nürnberg, a Doctor of Laws, and Archdeacon of St. Lorenz, who in 1647 became Rector of the St. Schuhl school at Nürnberg, and d. at Nürnberg in 1665. He had previously pub. Zwölff Psalmen Davids at Nürnberg in 1638 (Göttingen).

35. Fünffzig Psalmen Davids. Königsberg, 1650 (Berlin). By Simon Dach (p. 1001, i.). Also in 1658 (Both parts in Berlin). By Georg Werner (App. II.). These versions are above the average in merit, and a few from pt. i. came into German C. U.

36. Vermehrtes Psalmbuch. Rinteln, 1646 (Göttingen). By Clara Anna, wife of Heinrich Julius von Eversen, of Rinteln and Oldenorf.

iv. 1648–1687.

The two greatest hymn-writers of this period produced a considerable number of Psalm-versions, viz. Paulus Gerhardt, whose 120 Church hymns include 27 Psalm-versions (12 at least of these have been tr. into English, but none are in English C. U.), and Johann Franck, whose 110 hymns include 53 Psalm-versions. But in neither case were their Psalm-versions so successful or so generally used as their original hymns. Versions of detached Psalms were made by Joachim Pauli, Sebastian Franck, David von Cerpho, Ludwig Vollbracht, and others. None of the complete versions of this period are of great merit. They include 37. Königs Davids Psalter-Spiel, von neuen bestellet. Hamburg, 1660 (Göttingen). By Johannes Neukrantz, who in 1638 became pastor at Kirchwerder, near Hamburg, and d. 1654. This has 36 selected Psalms.

38. Musica Sionia, oder Zions Cimbring. Zwickau, 1666. (Göttingen.) By Daniel Zimmermann, M.A., pastor at Zwickau, who d. 1667.

39. Neu-gestellte Davids-Harfe. Schleswig, 1666 (Göttingen). By Christian von Stücken, court preacher at Rendsburg and general superintendent of Schleswig-Holstein (d. 1684). Principally based on Opitz (see No. 29).

47. Davidisches Herte-Lust. Leipzig, 1680 (Göttingen). By C. C. Dedekind (see No. 44).

48. A. K. B. Davids des Königs Lust- und Freuden-Spiel. Leipzig, 1680 (Royal Library, Brussels). By Michael Bertram, pastor at Neuenstadt.

49. Davids, des Israelitischen Königs und theuren Propheten Harffen-Psalme. Giessen, 1685 (Leipzig). By Johann Georg Braitter, cantor at Hanau in Hesse-Cassel. Versify psh. versions of Ps. 1-150, arranged to suit the Gospels for Sundays and festivals.

50. Davids, des Israelitischen Königs und theuren Propheten Harffen-Psalme. Ferna, 1685 (Berlin). By Justus Sieber, who in 1659 became pastor at Schandau on the Elbe, near Pirna, and d. 1695. He had previously pub. a version of the Penitential Psalms in his Hertzens-Seufftzer. Busstertigen Hertz, oder Sieben Busspsalmen (Berlin).

51. Der verjüngte, erneuerte und lebendigmachende, das ist alle Psalmen Davids in Reimen gefasset. Riga, 1686 (Gotha). By Gustav von Mengden, Baron von Altenwoga in Livonia, 1671 General-Major, d. 1699.

v. 1688–1754.

During this period the tendency was to found hymns on portions of the Psalms rather than to versify the entire Psalter. Versions of select Psalms, or of portions of Psalms, were made by J. C. Schade, F. R. L. von Canitz, J. A. Freylinghausen, J. D. Herrnschmidt, H. G. Neuss, E. Neumeister, V. E. Löscher, S. Franck, J. Neander, and others. The more important versions are :—

52. Die Psalmen Davids, nach den mehrentheils behandelten Gesang-Melodien Beim-sein übersetzet. Stuttgart, 1720 [Berlin]. By Michael Müller (p. 776, i.).

53. Die Psalmen Davids, in deutsche Reime gebracht. Danzig, 1713 [Berlin]. By Ernst Lange (p. 427, ii.) in the Marot-Beza metres.

54. Die auf italienische Melodeyen in deutsche Lieder übersetzten d. Psalmen Davids. Danzig, 1720 [Wernigerode]. Also by Ernst Lange. Only a few of these came into German C. U.

Other versions of this period were :—

55. Die alte Zions-Hergfe der höchstseeligen Königin Prophetien und Poeten Davids Harf. Nürnberg, 1693 [B. M. and Wernigerode]. By Christoph Adam Negelein, sometime merchant in Nürnberg, and then court-poet at Vienna (d. 1742).

56. Die Psalmen Davids, oder 150. Göttliche Prophetische Harfen-Lieder. Cassel, 1698 [Leipzig]. By Caspar Bauss, who in 1679 became corrector of the Paedagogium at Cassel (d. 1703).

67. Evangelischer Lieder-Psalter. Stuttgart, 1742 [B. M. and Berlin]. By C. C. L. von Pfeil (p. 803, i.) on the principle of New Testament interpretation. By double versions the number is 213 in all.

68. Psalmen Davids. Hallenstadt, 1751 [Wernigerode]. By Daniel Wollett, court preacher at Halberstadt, where he d. 1761.

vi. 1755–1816.

During this period the tendency was to write moral hymns rather than to attempt Psalm-versions. Among the Lutherans the only Psalm-version that need be noted, besides those by Cramer and Lehmus (see below), is S. G. Bürde's Ps. cxxvi. (see p. 194, i.). In the Reformed Church there now appeared a tendency to set aside the version of Lobwasser. The version substituted for Lobwasser in the Alt-Dessau G. B., 1766, is mainly from J. A. Cramer, but partly supplied by the editor, Simon Ludwig Eberhard de Marées (since 1760 court preacher and superintendent of the Reformed Church at Dessau, d. 1820), 11 of whose renderings are repeated in the Anhalt-Dessau G. B., 1830. Later on the version by Jorisen (see below) came into favour. The principal versions of this period are :—

69. Poetische Uebersetzung der Psalmen. Leipzig, vol. i., 1756 ; ii., 1758 ; iv., 1764 [Wernigerode, complete ed. 1765-66 in the B. M.]. By J. A. Cramer (p. 387, ii.). These versions are very free, and were not originally intended for church use. A considerable number passed into the hymn-books of the period, e.g. the Alt-Dessau G. B., 1766, Lüneburg, 1767, Schleswig-Holstein, 1778, and the Bern G. B. of 1853, recent collection, e.g. in the Schaffhausen G. B. of 1841.

70. Davids Psalter vor das Israel nach dem Geiste. Rothenburg on the Tauber, 1745 [Wernigerode]. By Johann Adam Lehmus, after 1749 Lutheran superintendent at Rothenburg, where he d. 1788. There are 193 versions on the principle of New Testament interpretation, 50 of which are included in the Württemberg G. B., 1842.

71. Versuch einer freyeren Uebersetzung der Psalmen, um sie für christliche Gemeine brauchbarer zu machen, Danzig, 1783 [B. M.]. By Samuel Ludwig Majewski, in 1781 pastor of the Reformed Church of St. Peter, Paul at Danzig, where he d. 1801. He included many of these versions in his Gesangbuch zum Gebrauch der evangelisch-reformirten Gemeinde zu Danzig, which he edited in 1795.

72. Neue Bereimung der Psalmen, bestimmt für die reformirten deutschen Gemeinen im Großreiche und Amerika. Wesel, 1784 [Wernigerode]. By Matthias Stoll, sometime pastor at Alfeldt, near Soest, appointed in 1784 pastor of the Reformed Church at The Hague, d. 1825. This was written to replace Lobwasser's version, did so in the Rhine Land as early as 1806, forms part of the Elberfeld Reformed G. B., 1853, and is the basis of the versions in the Schaffhausen G. B., 1841. A number are included in Knapp's Ev. L. B., in Dr. Schaff's Deutsches G. B., 1859 and 1874, and others.

Other versions of this period were :—

73. Die Psalmen Davids in deutscher Poesie. Hildburghausen, 1761 [Berlin]. By Johann Matthäus Stoll, sometime pastor at Allendits, near Suhl (d. 1780).

74. Die Psalmen Davids, in Reime gebracht. 1761 [B. M.]. By Johann Georg Rothe, sometime pastor at Michelau, near Brieg in Silesia.

75. Evangelische Nachahmungen der Psalmen Davids. Copenhagen, 1769 [B. M. and Hamburg]. By J. A. Cramer (see No. 69). Free versions of Ps. i.-xxx., on the principle of New Testament interpretation.

76. Poetische Lobgesänge, oder freye Nachahmungen der Psalmen Davids. Mannheim, 1770 [Berlin]. By Georg Friedrich Ludwig Müller, in 1764 pastor of the Reformed Church at Odenbach, near Meisenheim, Rhenish Prussia. The last 31 Psalms.

77. Poetische Uebersetzung der Psalmen. Bützow and Wismar, 1771 [B. M.]. By H. C. von Engel, with prefac dated at Lage in Mecklenburg. Of Ps. 1-47.

78. Die Psalmen Davids in gebundener Rede. Frankfurt and Leipzig, 5 pts., 1773-74. By Christian Friedrich Fischer, sometime cashier of the interim in the principality of Anspach. d. 1782.

79. Die Psalmen Davids, in Liedern. Weissenburg, pt. i., 1774 ; ii., 1775 ; iii., 1776 [Berlin, i. in Berlin]. By Johann Friedrich Schöttinger, in 1748 diaconus at Weissenburg, near Nürnberg (d. 1785).

80. Versuch einer poetischen Uebersetzung einiger Psalmen. Leipzig, 1775. By Karl Benedict Seidinger, who in 1784 became rector of the school at Lübben in Lusatia (d. 1797).

81. Poetische Uebersetzung der Psalmen Davids. Königsberg, 1782 [Wernigerode]. By Wilhelm Lau, sometime assistant pastor at Deutsch-Thierau near Königsberg (d. 1782).

82. Versuch einer poetischen Umschreibung sämmtlicher Psalmen. Frankfurt-am-Main, 1782. By Siegfried August Mahlmann, sometime Hofrath and Professor in Giessen, Hessen-Darmstadtisches Ober-Landkommissair," d. 1797.

83. Poetische Uebersetzung der Psalmen, nach ihrer Zehalt genommen. Hannover, 1784 [B. M. and Wernigerode]. By Georg Heinrich Georg Brandes, described as Judge of Celle, Hanover.

84. Psalmen. Herborn, 1787 [Berlin]. By Wilhelm Heinrich Sed, for 22 years chief pastor at Dillenburg in Nassau (d. 1793).

85. Die Psalmen des Königs David und anders heiliges Sänger nachgesungen. Winterthur, 1793 [B. M. and Wernigerode]. By Johann Heinrich Waser.

86. Christliche Umschreibungen der Psalmen. Nürnberg, 1798 [Wernigerode]. By Christian Friedrich Bucherer, in 1782 pastor at Klein-Wiesnach, near Neustadt on the Aisch, Bavaria.

vii. 1817–1890.

During this period versions of individual Psalms were made by F. H. C. de la Motte Fouqué, J. P. von Meyer, E. R. Stier, C. J. P. Spitta, J. P. Lange, J. C. B. Storm, and others. Versions, more or less complete, appeared as follows, but five of their renderings, save one or two by Ehrard, had passed into C. U. in Germany up to 1876.

A complete Psalter, compiled from various authors, principally modern, appeared at Emden in 1876, for use in the Reformed Churches in East Friesland. An interesting collection of Psalm versions was put, as Die Psalmen in alten und neuen Liedern at Leipzig 1882, ed. by A. Trebbin, senior pastor of the Bernhardin church at Breslau.

87. Die Psalmen in Reimgesängen. Quedlinburg, 1817 [Berlin]. By Heinrich Müller. Selected Psalms.

112. Die Psalmen Davids in freier poetischer Uebertragung. Halle, 1889 [B. M.]. By Gustav Bichsler, pastor at Buhla near Sondhausen.

II. Versions in the German Reformed Church in Switzerland.

As a rule a considerable proportion of Psalm versions are found in the Hymn books used in early times in the German Swiss Reformed Church, e.g., in the Constanz G. B. of 1535-40, the St. Gall of circa 1533, and the Psalmen und geistliche Gesänge, Zürich, 1570; while in the collection of Conrad Wolffhart (pastor of St. Leonhard's church at Basel), printed at Zürich in 1559, versions of all the Psalms are included, principally taken from Burkard Waldis (see No. 3 above). The only complete version which attained anything like general use was that of Lobwasser (see No. 8 above), which continued in almost universal use up to 1775, and was still used in the country parishes of the Canton of Basel, and in the Canton of Appenzell, even after 1850. In the Zürich G. B. of 1787, a number of Psalm versions were included, principally by Salomon Wolff, pastor at Wangen, near Zürich (d. 1810), while the Bern G. B. of 1775 contained principally of Psalm versions by Stapfer (see below). Among the recent hymn books that of Zürich, 1853, contains hardly any Psalm versions, and that of Basel, 1854, none whatever; while the Bern of 1853 has 71 (principally from Stapfer and Sprengl), the Schaffhausen of 1841 has 74 (principally from Stapfer, Sprengl and Jorisen), and the Aargau of 1844 has 42 (partly by Abraham Emmanuel Fröhlich, sometime pastor at Münthal near Brugg, d. 1865). The versions produced in the Swiss Reformed Church were mostly attempts to supersede Lobwasser, but the only two which did so to any extent were those of Stapfer and Sprengl. They include—

113. Die Harfey des Gottseligen Königs und Prophets Davids . . . augerichtet. Zürich, 1701 [Zürich Town Library]. By Johann Caspar Haritmyer, sometime pastor at Benstetten near Zürich.

114. Verbesserter Lobwasser : das ist, die 61 Psalmen Davids . . . in heilige Reformirte Sprach und Reimwer ket. Zürich, 1704 [Zürich Town Library.]. By David Herrliberger, sometime pastor at Hirslanden.

115. Neue Uebersetzung der Psalmen Davids. Basel, 1741 [Stamberg]. By Johann Jacob Sprengl, sometime pastor and professor at Basel, d. 1766. This passed through various editions, and was for some time in use at Mülhausen.

116. Dr. Ambrosii Lobwasser's alt-Poetische Uebersetzung der Psalmen Davids . . . verbessert. Biel, 1747. By Johann Conrad Gottfried Wildermett, sometime pastor at Biel, d. 1788.

III. Roman Catholic Versions.

An account of German Psalters would be incomplete without some mention of the Roman Catholic versions. Very little information is however available regarding these, and, excepting those by Ulenberg, they do not seem to possess much intrinsic value or to have exercised any great influence on the development of German Roman Catholic Hymnody. In the ordinary services of the Church the Psalter continued to be used in the Latin Vulgate version. The German Roman Catholic hymn-books, from the earliest (Michael Velo's Neue Gesangbüchlein, Leipzig, 1537) onwards, as a rule contained a certain proportion of Psalm-versions, but no complete rhymed German version of the Psalms appears to have been authorised for use in any diocese in Germany. The only complete, or approximately complete, rhyming versions made by private individuals, that it has been possible to trace, are the following :—

131. Der gantz Psalter Davids, nach der gemainen alten Kirchenton lateinischen Biblien auff new und Reimweise gar trewlich verteutscht, mit gruendtlichen Argumenten, Summarien und Inhalt eines jeden Psalms. A few of these passed into the early R. C. hymn-books.

132. Die Psalmen Davids in allerley Deutsche gesangweiss gebracht. Cologne, 1549 [B. M. and Bodleian]. By Johann Horn, the printer, who published in Cologne 1572. This is one of the best Catholic versions, and many passed into the R. C. hymn-books.

133. Der Psalter Davids. Dresden, 1560 [Berlin]. By Vitus Abel Eisfeld, elsewhere described as "of Carinhall, in the service of the Elector of Saxony."

Young, Edward Mallet, M.A., s. of Sir G. Young, Bart., was b. Jan. 24, 1839, and educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., first class Classical Honours, 1862, and Fellow of Trinity College, 1865–78. He became Assistant Master at Harrow School in 1865, and Head Master of Sherborne School in 1878. He entered Holy Orders in 1869, and was Select Preacher at Cambridge in 1876–79, and Hon. Canon in Salisbury Cathedral 1891. In 1888 he edited Hyx. for the Use of Sherborne School, an excellent collection for its special purpose, and to it he contributed:—

1. Abide in Me and I in you. Union with Christ.
2. Beneath the fig-tree's silent shade. St. Bartholomew.
3. Captain of our salvation take. Ember days. This is C. Wesley's hymn rewritten and adapted for Public Worship in 1780, vol. i. p. 284.
4. O merciful and holy. This is the altered form of Dr. Butler's hymn noted on p. 1536, i.
5. We praise Thy grace, O Saviour. This is an altered form of Bp. How's hymn noted at p. 540, ii. 22.
6. When to dark Morah's side. Easter Eve. [J. J.]

APPENDIX—PART II.

A

A blessing on our pastor's head. J. Montgomery. [For Ministers.] Written Dec. 26, 1840, for the Jubilee of the Rev. W. Jay of Bath. In 6 st. of 4 l. (4e. 4me.) In 1853 it was included in Montgomery's Grip. Hyx. Another copy, dated 1849, is entitled "Thy servant's head," as in the Prim. Meth. Hyx., 1867.

A Patre Unigenitus, p. 3, i. Another tr. is, "The Father's sole-begotten Son," by T. B. Pollock, in the 1880 ed. of H. A. & M. Recast by Compilers, 1904.

Aberdeen Breviary. [See p. 173, ii.]

Abide with me, fast falls the eventide, p. 7, i. A cento from this hymn, beginning "Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day," is in Lauden Dominæ, N. Y., 1884.

Ach! treuer Gott, p. 10, ii. This hymn is found in the Berlin ed. of Crüger's Praxis, &c. 1653, No. 373.

Ach, uns wird das Herz so bang, p. 10, ii. This hymn was written in the spring of 1848.

Ad laudes Salvatoris, p. 12, ii. We have found this in a MS. of circa 1199 in the Bodleian (Liturg. Misc., 341, f. 95).

Ad supplex Agni Patrem. O. de la Brunetière. [Agnus Dei, who bear'st.] Written for the Paris Exhibition of 1889. Tate and again in the 1894 ed. of the same as by "O. Bp. S." It is also in other French Hymns, and Newman, 1849–66. Tr. as:—

1. To the Lamb's festival. By J. Williams in the British Mag. Oct. 1836, and again in his Hyx. Tr. from the Parisian Brev. 1839, p. 327. Also in Skinner's Daily Light, 1864, and the St. Margaret's Hyl. (East Grinstead) 1871.

2. To share the Lamb's high marriage rites. By J. D. Chambers, 1866, p. 47. The opening stanza of this tr. is noted at p. 302, ii. 3, as part of a cento in the Hymnary, 1872.

Ad personis vitæ fontem, p. 12, i. 6. Dr. Mant's text is from a st. of the 1865 cent. in the Bibl. Nat. Paris (Lat. 16907). The poem is also in the St. Gall MS. No. 196, and in others of a later date. See also tr. (No. 3 st. p. 13, i.) in his Hyx. and Sacred Lyrics, 1837, which was based on Wackernath's tr., 1841, "At the Font of life eternal," has yielded a second cento to the People's Hyl. 1867, and the St. Margaret's Hyl. (East Grinstead). Another, "Where the sacred Font flows," a cento based directly on Mant, is included from The Church Hymnal for the cento "There no waning moon, nor waning" in the St. Margaret's Hyl., 1873, is taken.

Ad regias Agni dapes, p. 14, i. "Once the angel started back." This is in the American Episc. Hyl. 1871, begins with st. iii. of Bp. J. Williams's tr. 1845.

Ad templa nos ramea vocat, p. 15, i. "When first the morning rose." This is in Kennedy, 1863, in based upon Caswall's tr. beginning with st. iii.

Adam of St. Victor, p. 15, ii. A 2nd and greatly improved ed. of his Oeuvres Poétiques by L. Gautier was pub. at Paris in 1881.

Adae Patre supremi, p. 18, i. This is in a MS. of the 6th cent. in the Bibl. Nat. Paris (Lat. 8084, f. 15) Another tr. of the cento Adæ Pater is "Father, Most High, be with us." In the 1698 ed. of H. A. & M., by the Compilers.

Adesto, Conditum sheri, p. 19, ii. This hymn was given in the Clavigus Hyes., 1899, p. 422, as "Promissa en lentat dies."

Adesto fidelis, p. 20, i. In the Evening Office of the Church in Latin and English, Lond. 1756, this hymn consists of sts. i., ii., viii. of the text as on p. 20, Compilers' tr. altered from Oakeley's.

2. That to Christ Oakeley's tr. as in the Altar Hyl., 1864, No. 7, Mr. W. T. Brooke added a tr. of sts. iii.–vi. as on p. 20, thus completing a tr. of the full text.

3. The tr., No. 1, "Come hither, ye faithful," is attributed, in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868, to "C. P. Krauth."

4. "Come, all ye faithful," in the R. C. Hyx. for the Year, 1867, is a slightly altered form of Neale's tr. (No. 2), which dates 1852.

Adesto sancti Pharum. Baptista de Sanctonel. "Doctrine of all Saints." In the Paris Brev., 1680, Hierusalem, p. 208. Also in the Paris Brev., 1736, and other French Brevs., and in his brother, J. B. de Santeuil's Hymni Sacri et Nov., 1689, p. 178, with the note, "Non nihil vinctus hoc hymno." Tr. as "Now, while before the throne," by J. Chandler, 1837, p. 261, and 1873, p. 290; the "Cæterum Sanctorum" of st. iii. altered. Another tr. is by I. Williams in British Mag., Jan. 1838, and in his Hyx. Tr. from the Paris Brev., 1839, p. 305.

Adesto sancta Trinitas, p. 22, i. Also tr. as "Be near us, Holy Trinity" in H. A. & M., 1889, by the Compilers. Recast by Compilers, 1904.

Adoro te devote, p. 23, ii. Additional trr. are:—

1. With all the power [powers] my poor heart hath. By R. Crashaw in his Steps to the Temple, Lond. ed. 1646, p. 74. Repeated in J. Austin's Devotions, 1668, and in the Pennsylvania Luth. Church Bk., 1868, No. 348.

2. Devoutly we adore Thee, Deity unseen. This in the Altar Hyl., 1864, No. 7, is signed "W. T. Brooke."

3. O blest memorial of our dying Lord. This in Lauden Dominæ, N. Y., 1884, begins with st. ii. of Bp. Mant's tr.

4. Lord, in thankful love adoring. One stanza only from the "Adoro te," with an original doxology in the Divine Hymnary, n. d.

Adsis superne Spiritus, p. 23, ii. This hymn we find is based upon the "Veni sancte Spiritus Rf.," p. 1218, ii., and is found in the Paris Brev., ed. 1532, but not in that of 1736. Concerning the trr. it must be noted that No. 3, attributed to E. Bowen, is really a tr. by him of the Veni superne Spiritus, Festal Services.

Advent tenebras primus, p. 25, ii. We have found this in a MS. of the 12th cent. and another of the 11th cent. in the Brit. Mus. (Add. 30851, f. 102).

Æterna Christi munera, Et, p. 34, i. The original of the transcripts by Jamins has been found in the Bodleian. It dates circa 820. (Jamins, pp. f. 216.) It is also in a 9th cent. ms. at St. Gall, No. 451; and later mss. elsewhere.

Æterna cœli gloria, p. 35, ii. From F. Carvill's Appendix to Hymns Ancient and Modern, 1871, which begins with st. iii. "The star that heralds in the morn;" and that in Hyx. & Songs of Praise, N.Y., 1874, with st. ii., "Jesus, be near us while we wake."

Æterna Rex altissime, p. 36, ii. We have found this hymn in several mss. In addition to those named at p. 37, i. The most important of these are the Bern mss., Hagenbach's text 981; and No. 418 of the 10th cent. Stockholm ms. (Cod. Holm. 39); also in a 10th cent. ms. in the Brit. Mus. (Add. 30851, f. 1).

Æterni Patri gaudia, p. 37, ii. Since this article was in type L. Gautier has pub. a 2nd ed. of his work on Adam of St. Victor (1881) in which he corrects his first impression that this hymn was by Adam. He omits the text, says it has been falsely attributed to Adam, and is unworthy of him. The earliest ms. known to him is of the end of the 12th cent. Other writers before 1225, in which it begins, "Internæ fert gaudia." (Bibl. Nat., Paris, Lat. 14059.)

Agressus omen sæculum, p. 39, i. We have found this in a 9th cent. ms. in the Brit. Mus. (Add. 24199 f. 126). It is also in a 10th cent ms. at St. Gall, No. 196; and in others of a later date. In F. Lee's ed. of Fortunatus's Opera Poetica, 1881, p. 264, it is given among the pieces falsely ascribed to Fortunatus.

Agrum Dei, p. 39, i. This is found in a ms. of the 10th cent. in the Bibl. Nat. Paris (Lat. 9430); and in others of later date. In F. Lee's ed. of Fortunatus's Opera, 1881, p. 264, f. 122. From the German tr. "O Lamm Gottes unschuldig," p. 31, i. additional trr. into English include:—

1. O Lamb of God unspotted, Whom life. By M. W. Stryker (from Knapp), in his Christian Chorals, 1865.

2. O Lamb of God, unsullied. By J. D. Burton, note i. on p. 31, i. In his Outside Hymns, 1870.

Agricolæ, Jacobe, p. 39, ii. This was translated at Wittenberg in 1544 as "Jacobus Sender of Eichfeld, a.s., of Leipzig." Another tr. of his hymn, "Ich ruf zu dir," is "To Thee I send my cry, Lord Jesus," in the Moravian H. Bk., 1886.

Ah! why should bitter tears be shed. [Death and Burial.] This hymn in the American Unitarian Hyx. of the Spirit, 1864, is attributed to "G. S. Burleigh."

Ah, wretched souls who strive in vain, p. 39, i. The following are from this hymn, (1) "My God! no more shall strive in vain"; and (3) "May [Now] I receive with all my heart."

Akeley, Anne Elvira, was the author of Letters from the Land of Labor, Lond. 1867, and others, the 2nd ed. of which was pub. at Edinburgh, 1872.

Aird, Marion Paul, p. 39, ii. Sec. d. Jan. 26, 1878.

Alcott, Louisa May, b. Nov. 29, 1832, d. at Concord, March 5, 1888. She pub. Little Men, Little Women, &c., and also wrote a few hymns for children.

Alme dei nunties, p. 39, i. This hymn is in a ms. of the 9th cent. in the Bibl. Nat. Paris (Lat. 9434, f. 71); in an 11th cent. ms. at Trier (Mone i. p. 372); and several of the 11th cent. and later dates.

Alexander, Cecil F., née Humphreys, p. 39, ii. Additional hymns to those already noted in this Dictionary are (1) :—

1. Christ has ascended up again. (1853.) Ascension.
2. His are the thousand sparkling rills. (1875.) Seven Words on the Cross (Fifth Word).
3. How good is the Almighty God. (1848.) God, the Father.

Alta Prosator, Vetustus, p. 64, i. The ms. which Dr. Todd edited was of the 11th cent. in Trinity College, Dublin. Another ms. at Milan (M. 25, s.), dates from the 10th cent. (Chevalier's Repertorium, 1888, No. 961.)

Am I a soldier of the Cross? p. 65, ii. In some annotations of this hymn we have found it stated that it is a portion of "Do I believe what Jesus saith?" that the hymn in its full form appeared in Watts's Hym. & S. Songs, 1709; and that the portion beginning "Am I a soldier of the Cross," subsequently appeared in his Sermons, Vol. iii. The tests are: (1) "Do I believe," &c., for ver. 1, as above; (2) "Am I a soldier," &c." for ver. 30, and "Am I a soldier, &c." for ver. 31; and (3) the two were united as one hymn, and included in the Hys. and S. Songs, Bk. i., No. 37, Pt. ii. sometime in the present century. We find it in T. Nelson's col. of Watts, 1844, and others, but in no edition within the present century.

Ambrose, William (George), was b. at Bangor, Aug. 16, 1813, and d. at Portmadoc, where he held a pastoral charge, Oct. 31, 1873.

Anima Christi sanctifica me, p. 70, i. This is found in a ms. in the Bodleian, Rawl. 113, (at f. 12 b.), circa 1380, in a band of the first half of the 15th cent. E. A. Bayman's (Ch. Q.) should read "Spirit of Christ, &c.", and No. 6 in 1862 and reads "Soul . . . my sanctification."

Ankstell, John, M.A., was b. at New Haven, Connecticut, U.S.A., March 8, 1838, and educated at Yale College, and the University of Halle-Wittenberg, Prussia. In 1861 he was ordained deacon in the Protestant Episcopalian Church in 1863, and priested in 1866. He founded St. John's (American) Episcopal Church in Dresden in 1866. Subsequently he became Professor of Hebrew and Greek Exegesis in the Seabury Divinity School. Mr. Ankstell pub. in 1868 Gospel and Epistle Hymns for the Christian Year, N.Y. He has also translated a large number of hymns from the Latin, Hebrew, French, Spanish, Danish, Italian, and Syrian, which were pub. in the Church Review, N. Y., 1878 and later, and in other periodicals. A few of these from the Latin are noted in Duffield's Latin Hymn-Writers, &c., 1889. Mr. Ankstell's original hymns number about 150. Both these and his tr. are worthy of notice. He d. March 3, 1905.

Antiphon, p. 73, i. (iii. 3). The seven greater Antiphons are found in a Sarum ms. of the 13th cent. (Bibl. Bibl. f. 181) and in a ms. of the 11th cent. in the Bodleian (Liturg. Misc. 399, f. 135). The metrical form "Veni, veni Emmanuel" (p. 74, i. 4) has not yet been traced earlier than the Psalterium Cant. Catholicum, Cologne, 1710, p. 224. From Dr. Neale's tr. (1) "O Wisdom, O holy Word of God," in Chope's Hyl., 1865, is taken; (2) Chambers's tr. of the same, in 1862, appeared in his Order of Household Devotion, &c., 1858, p. 240. H. N. Oxenham has also a tr. of "O sapientia," in his Sentences of Saints, 1884, p. 101.

Antiphonarium Benedictinum, p. 270, i.

Apparuit repentina dies, p. 76, i. This is found in the Bern ms. 455 of the 10th cent.

Apparuit benignitas, p. 76, i. The tr. here attributed to Dr. Neale was really by the late Rev. R. Webb, M.A., and appeared in the Parish Magazine for Feb., 1863. No. 84, in J. A. Johnston's English Hyl., 1852 and 1861, "O height, O breadth, O depth of love," is based upon Webb's tr., as is also "O love divine, to guilty men," in Philadelphia Presb. Bk., 1861.

Appleton, F. P. In the American Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, two hymns are attributed to this author: (1) "Father, we thank Thee for the light of God," (Lord and Friend); (2) "Thrilling for the Spirit, spirit of God," (Seeking God). The latter is also in the Unitarian Bk. of Hys., 1846, but anonymous.

Art thou fainting in the tempest? J. M. Neale. [St. Peter or St. John.] This appeared in his posthumous Sequences, Hys., and other Ecclesiastical Verses, 1866, p. 30, in 11 st. of 6 l., with the heading, "Follow thou me." It is based upon our Lord's words to St. Peter, and the following texts: "It need hardly be said that the main thought of the following sequence is taken from the sublime conclusion of S. Augustine's Commentary on S. John's Gospel. The English reader may need to be informed that the Vulgate translation of our Lord's saying omits the If, and simply runs thus: 'I will that he tarry till I come.'" The tests are: (1) the first line of the original sequence two centos have come into C. U.: (1) "Art thou fainting in the tempest?" and (3) "These the Two Lives: one, the fleeting."

As through a glass we dimly see. A cento from J. Fawcett's "Thy way, O God, is in the sea," p. 775, ii., in the Leeds Fr. Bk., 1853.

1. Christian warrior, faint not, fear not. Courage and Cheer.

2. Earthly in judgment, hear. Death anticipated with Fear.

3. Poor, blessed Gospel, glorious news for man. Blessings of the Gospel. In the American Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, it reads, "O blessed Gospel, glorious news for man."

Concerning Mr. Ashworth we have no definite information.

As long as the sun was set, p. 88, ii. An elaborated form of this is in M. W. Stryker's Church Song, 1868, as "O Saviour Christ, our woes dispel."

At Thy feet, our God and Father, p. 89, ii. This hymn was pub. in the Family Treasury, 1861.

Auber, Harriet, p. 90, ii. The following versions of psalms from her Spirit of the Fr., 1826, are also in C. U.:—

1. Great God, were Thou extreme to mark. Ps. cxxx.
2. Thy servants in the temple watched," begins with st. ii. of this.
3. How blest are they who daily prove. Ps. xci.
5. How blest the children of the Lord. Altered from Ps. cxii.
6. Jehovah, great and awful name. Part of Ps. lxxxviii.
7. O Thou Whose heaven's bright host reveres. Ps. lxxix.
8. Praise the Lord, our mighty King. Ps. cxxxv.
9. spirit of peace, Who as a [celestial] Dove. Ps. cxxxiii.
10. Thou by Whose strength the mountains stand. Ps. lxv.
11. To heaven our longing eyes we raise. Ps. cxxi.
16. Vainly through night's weary hours. Ps. cxxvii. Sometimes "Vainly through the night the ranger."
11. While all the golden harps above. Easter.

Bickersteth, Edward Henry, p. 141, ii. Sp. Bickersteth's 1858 ed. of his Hy. Comp. is noted on p. 1213, i. Of the hymns in the 1876 ed. of the Hy. Comp. the following therein for the first time, are annotated in the Appendix. One of these, "All-merciful, Almighty Lord," for the Com. of St. Paul, was written for the 1870 edition of H. Comp. [See also Index of Authors, &c.]

Bird, Charles S., p. 322, ii. Seven of his hymns are in Mrs. Fuller Maitland's Hys. for Private Devotion, 1857, and two additional in the ed. of 1863. [See Calhoun, Frances S., p. 1337, i.]

Black, Mary Anne, née Manning, elder daughter of John Manning, J.P. of Nottingham, was b. at Stirling, Scotland, Dec. 25, 1809; m. to Rev. J. Black, M.A., in Sept. 1879, and d. Feb. 21, 1881. Before her marriage Mrs. Black wrote a number of hymns under the nom de plume of "May Manning" for the anniversaries of a village school in which she was interested. One of these, "There's a full, bulk safe and happy" (Heaven), was written, shortly after the death of a sister, in 1851, and included in W. B. Stevenson's School Hymnal, 1853.

Blacker, Maxwell James, M.A., s. of V. Blacker of Carrick Hill, Co. Down, b. 1844, graduated at Trinity Coll., Oxford, ordained in 1868, held several curacies, including that of St. Barnabas, Pimlico, and d. June 21, 1886.

Blake, William, poet and painter, b. 1757, and d. 1827. Pub. Songs of Innocence in 1789, in which appeared a poem in 3 st. of 4 l. beginning "Can I see another's woe, And not be in sorrow too?" and entitled "Nurse's Song." (See also The Poems of William Blake, ed. by Lessl., W. Pickering, 1874, p. 165.) This poem is repeated in Martineau's Hymnal, &c., 1873, and others.

Bleibt bei dem, p. 145, ii. Written in the Spring of 1823.

Blessed angels, high in heaven. (Hire for others.) Anon. In Dr. Hastings's American Church, Melodies, 1858, No. 399, in 3 st. of 4 l. Full text in the Sup. Praise Bk., N. Y., 1871.

Blest be the God of Providence. (Divine Providence.) One of 13 hymns included in the enlarged edition of Lady Huntingdon's Coll., 1841. It is in a few collections for children, including the last ed. of the S. S. U. H. Bk. Its authorship is unknown.

Blest is the man whose soul is still meet. This in the American Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, is an altered form of P. Houghton's hymn noted on p. 1136, ii.

Blest Spirit, now on us descend. (Before Sermon.) This hymn appeared in an anonymous Supp. to the 1708 ed. of Lady Huntington's Coll., No. 34. In 1808 it was incorporated in the authorised Supp. to the same book. It is in 3 st. of 4 l. Its authorship is unknown.

Bliss, Philip, p. 151, i. "Sowing the seed by the daylight fair" is in the Family Treasury, Edinburgh, 1861, pt. i., p. 64. It is said to be by Miss Emily Sullivan, and dated 1858. In the Sun. Sch. Hymnal, 1865, the hymn, No. 43, is "by Miss Sullivan," p. 150, ii., should read, "Sing them over again to me."

Blomfield, Dorothy F., was b. at 3 Finsbury Circus, Oct. 4, 1836. Miss Blomfield is the eldest daughter of the late Rev. F. G. Blomfield, sometime Rector of St. Andrew's Undershaft, London, and granddaughter of Bishop Blomfield. Her hymn, "O Love, how deep! how beautiful hymn for Holy Matrimony, "O perfect Love! all human thought transcending," was written for her sister's marriage in 1865, and was intended to be sung to Strength and Stay, in H. A. & M., No. 19. Subsequently it was set as an anthem by J. Barnby for the marriage of the Duke of Albany with the Princess Helena of Waldeck, April 27, 1882. This anthem is included in Novello's Suppl. Hym. to H. A. & M., and in 1890 in the Hy. Companion.

Boaden, Edward, was b. at Helston, in Cornwall, in 1827. It was originally intended that he should follow the legal profession. Early religious impressions and convictions however led him to devote himself to the Christian ministry, and he entered the ranks of the Methodist Free Church. Beginning his duties at Gosport in 1849, he has successively filled some of the most important positions of the denomination, including that of President (1871). Since 1864 he has been Chapel Secretary to the Connexion. His hymns in C. U. are:—

1. Behold, O Lord our God, (1887.) Reappearance.
2. Light, in mercy dawning, (1886.) Missions.
3. How Lord, assembled in Thy name. (1868.) Preparation.

1554 BODE, JOHN E. [APPENDIX II.] BRIGHT, W.

4. Thou God of glory, truth, and love. (1878.) Opening of Meeting.

Of these Nos. 1, 3, 4 were contributed to the Methodist Free Church Hym., 1870, and No. 2 to the United Meth. F. Ch. S. & H. Bk., 1882.

Bode, John E., p. 151, ii. Additional pieces from his Hym. from the Gospel of the Day, &c., 1866, are in C. U.:—(1) "Recently the Sabbath bell" (Sunday); (2) "Then Who hast called us by Thy word" (Walk & after Worship).

Bogatzky, Carl H. von, p. 152, ii. An interesting memoir of this writer was given by the H. L. A. in 1861 in the Sun. Mag. It was reprinted in Hours on Sunday by Sir Jno. Bowring, Sir John Bowring. His hymn "Rivers my Gott in der Höhe" (Christmas), from his Das Colosser . . . 1750, is in Dr. Altp. Wilhelm's Lectures on Prayer, 1846, p. 97. See p. 1036, i.

Bonar, Horatius, p. 161, i. He d. at Edinburgh, July 31, 1889. In 1890 his son put a posthumous volume of his poetical pieces as Until the Day Breaks and other Hymns and Poems left behind. The following additional hymns are in C. U.:—

1. Almighty Comforter and Friend. (1866.) Whitsuntide.
2. Father, make use of me. An altered form of No. 41, p. 162, ii.
3. I am a perfect creed. (1861.) Creed and Confession. From this is also taken "O True One, give me faith."
4. I lay my sins on Jesus. (1861.) Substitution. Message of the Cross. Part of "Absent, Beloved, to-day." (1861.)
5. Nay 'tis not what we intend it. (1861.) Vanity of the World.
6. No blood, no altar now. (1861.) The Finished Sacrifice.
7. No shadows yonder. (1857.) Heaven Anticipated.
8. Not with the light and vain. (1857.) Godly Companionship.
9. O Love invisible, yet infinite. (1866.) Divine Love.
10. On the great love of God I lean. (1866.) Love of God Realised.
11. On Thee, O Jesus, strongly leaning. (1866.) Fellowship with Christ.
12. Peace upon peace, like wave on wave. (1866.) Divine Peace.
13. Sweet Divine, see the good seed in me. (1857.) Heavenly Sowing.

Part of "Sweet Divine, see the good seed in me. (1857.) Heavenly Sowing.

16. Sweet is the sinner's sin within my heart. (1866.) Sin accepted.
15. Still one in life and one in death. (1857.) Communion of Saints. Part of "'Tis thus they press the land and gain."
16. Surely, yes heaven, where angels see God's face. (1857.) Heaven Anticipated.
17. Thou art the Rock, the stedfast crest. (1857.) Heaven. Part of "Thou art the crowns that we shall wear. Another centre from the same is "You city, with the Jewelled crest."
18. That clime is not like this dull clime of ours. (1857.) Heaven.
19. There One arches you free: He breaks the rod. (1857.) Freedom in Christ. From "Of old they sang the song of liberty."
20. There is a Morning-star, my soul. (1857.) Christ the Morning Star.
21. This is the day of toil. (1866.) Morning Communion.
22. Thy thoughts are Love, my God. (1866.) Holy Scripture.
23. Till the day dawn. (1857.) Life's Journey.
24. To Him Who spread the skies. (1866.) Creation's Song.
25. Trustingly, trustingly. (1866.) Trust.

The above dates are, 1861, Songs in the Wilderness; 1857, Hys. of Faith and Hope, 1st Series; 1861, same, 2nd Ser. (not 1862); 1866, same, 3rd Ser. (not 1867). The dates 1857, 1861, 1857, were given by Dr. Bonar, but the Brit. Mus. copies are 1857, 1861, 1866 respectively.

Bonaventura, St., p. 165, ii. In Canon Oakeley's Incidental Commendation of The Most Adorable Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ, &c., 1862, there are several lyrics from St. Bonaventura's published works.

Bonar, Jessie Penn-Lewis, b. 1858, contributed hymns from Miss Bevington's Thoughts and Desires, 1884, to C. U.:—

1. And is the time approaches. Missions.
2. I do not doubt Thy wise and holy will. Faith.
3. Lord, Thou knowest all the weakness. Confidence.
4. Rejoice, my fellow pilgrim. The New Year.
5. Times are changing, days are flying. New Year.

Nos. 3-5 as given in Accents, 1885, are mostly altered from the originals.

Bönnhannsen, Johann, p. 154, i. The tune cited by Ackenis is in the Imperial Library at Vienna, and dates 1494. [See F. M. Böhme's Altdeutsches Liederbuch, 1877, p. 646.]

Bound in holy bonds of love. Bp. W. W. Hoe. [Provisional.] Appeared in his Hymns, 1864, No. 36, in 6 st. of 8 l. It was sung on Tuesday, Aug. 7, 1866, at the marriage of the Rev. Arthur Tozer Russell, M.A., of Ilminster, and Miss Mary Anne Hoe, daughter of the late Bp. Hoe, in the Church of Wickfield.

Bourdillon, Mary, née Cotterell, p. 164, ii. Another hymn by Mrs. Bourdillon in C. U. is "My God has given me work to do." (Blessings of Prayer.)

Bourne, George H., p. 166, ii. From his Foot Consonance Hys., privately printed in 1874 (see p. 165, i. 2), the hymns "O Christ, our God, Who with Thine own hast been" (Holy Communion), and "Lord, enlumed in heavenly splendour" (H. Communion), are taken.

Bourne, Hugh, p. 165, ii. No. 14, "My soul is now united," and No. 17, "For in a world of sickness," appeared in his Hymns, 1824, pp. 14, 17. Brown, James Baldwin, LL.D., p. 186, ii.; b. June 4, 1791; d. Nov. 25, 1843.

Brown, Nathan, D.D., b. in New Ipswich, New Hampshire, June 23, 1807, entered the Baptist ministry in 1833, and began his work as a missionary in Burma in 1834, where he translated the New Testament, finishing it in 1840. He returned to America in 1852. He proceeded to Japan in 1872, completed his tr. of the New Testament into Japanese, and published it at the Yokohama, Jan. 1, 1880. He tr. several English hymns for use in Burma (see Missions, Foreign, p. 746, ii., and also, later, for use in Japan, p. 765, i.)

Brown, Thomas Edward, M.A., was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated in first-class honours in 1853, and became a Fellow of Oriel College in 1854. He entered Holy Orders in 1856, and became Bnl Master at Clifton College in 1864. For his hymns tr. from the Latin see his Sabbath Hymns, &c.

Brownlie, Collins, tr. from the c. of Anton de la Branchellaie, Lord du Fénais de Goetz, and is the person referred to by Miller (Singers and Songs, 1869, p. 143), and also sometimes in this Dictionary, as Guillaume de Fénais de Goetz. He was educated at the University of Paris, and received from it the degree of D.D. For his Traité de la Prière, see Quérard's La France Littéraire, vol. i. Bishop of Saintes, ob. Dec. 30, 1677. His d. in May 2, 1705. His hymns are in the Paris Brev., 1680; the Cluniac Brev., 1686; the Paris Brev., 1736; and other French Breve. In the Paris Brev. of 1736 his hymns are signed, "G. Ep. S.," i.e. William, Bp. of Saintes. [J. M.]

Brunnquell aller Güter, p. 180. i. Appeared in Crüger's Praxis, 5th ed., Berlin, 1653.

Bulfinch, Stephen Greenleaf, p. 191, ii. Several of this author's hymns, not noted in this Dictionary, were given in Longfellow and Johnson's Sch. of Hymns, 1846-8. Additional hymns by Bulfinch are:—

1. Come, and rejoice with me. Holy Communion. This in Hedge is from Bulfinch's The Communion of Christ. From his Contemplations of the Saviour, &c., 1833. In Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884, it reads "Most gracious Saviour! 'twas not Thine."

2. We gather to the sacred board. Holy Communion. This in Hedge is from Bulfinch's Communion Thoughts, 2nd ed., 1853.

Bullock, William, p. 192, i. He was b. in 1790.

Bunting, William Mackarlie, p. 192, ii. Of his hymns not noted in this Dictionary, the following appeared in Hys. Inter. for Use in the Methodist New Connexion, 1847, 2nd ed., 1851:—"We live to call creation Thine." (Missions.) The hymn, "Skies cannot change the heart," in the American Meth. Episco. Hymnal, 1878, begins with st. iii. of No. 4, "Father, our child we plain." His hymn, No. 8, "O God, how often hath I line ear," was written at the age of 15, and was in pub. in the Methodist Magazine for Jan. 1824.

Burchall, Richard, for many years a Wesleyan minister, d. at Sheffield, Dec. 31, 1864, aged 72. In Bickersteth's S. of York, 8.v., he appended a hymn beginning, "Now Christ He is risen, the serpent's head is bruised." The hymn "The voice of free grace cries—'Escape to the mountain,'" begins with st. ii. of this hymn, but with alterations. In some American hymnals, including Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, Burchall's two stanzas are expanded into five, but by whom we cannot say.

Burkitt, William, b. July 25, 1650; was for some time Vicar of Indham, Essex, and d. Oct. 26, 1703. Author of A Help and Guide to Christian Families, 1659; an annotated edition of the Bible, &c. See "Jerusalem, my happy home," p. 588, ii. (2).

Burns, James Drummond, p. 197, i. Additional hymns are:—

1. O Lord, unto that accent of dread. Safety in Christ. From T. of Prophecy, 1st ed., 1854, p. 306.
2. O Thou whose voice (sacred) fast have trod. Resignation. From T. of Prophecy, 1st ed., 1854, p. 297.
3. Thou, Lord, art love, and everywhere. Divine Love. From T. of Prophecy, 2nd ed., 1856, p. 275.

Burton, H. In I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, 1878, the hymn, "Come, for the feast is spread," (The Gospel Invitation), and "Look away to Jesus" (Looking unto Jesus) are attributed to the "Rev. H. Burton."

Bushell, William Done, M.A., was b. in 1826, and educated at Cheltenham, and St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., in honours 1847. He was for some time a Fellow of his College, and became an Assistant Master in Rugby School in 1850, which he left in 1854. His hymn for Friends, "Where art Thou, Lord? with anxious eye," was contributed to the 1856 ed. of Hys. for the use of Sherborne School.

Butler, Mary. The following hymns in Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881:—"Looking upward every day" (Onwards), and "O help me, Lord, this day to be" (Morning), are signed with this name. Beyond this we have no information.

Butler, Nathaniel, D.D., author of "How sweet when years with cares of life" (Season anticipated), in the Amer. Unitarian Hymns and Songs, 1846, was b. at Boston, Oct. 13, 1824; entered the Baptist ministry in 1845, and has since held several pastorates in various parts of the States.

Butterworth, Hezekiah, was b. at Warren, Rhode Island, Dec. 22, 1839. He wrote The Story of the Hymns, American Tract Society, 1875. He is the author of "O Church of Christ, our blest abode" (The Church) in Root's cantata, Under the Palms, and of "Jesus, I Thee believe" (Jesus all in All) in the cantata Faith Triumphant.

Butterworth, J. H., p. 196, ii. He was b. in 1818; returned from Canada in 1874; and d. at South Hampton, April 8, 1880.

By faith I see [view] my Saviour dying. [For Mercy.] This is No. 192 in J. Stamp's Christian's Spiritual Song Book, 1849, in 8 sts. of 8 l. As given in the Hys. and Songs of Praise, N. Y., 1874, No. 620, st. i., ii., and iv. are from Stamp altered, and st. iii. is by another hand. Daniel Sedgwick has marked this hymn as by "A. Z." [?], but gives no authority for the ascription. In Stamp it is given anonymously.

Caddell, Cecilia Mary, p. 200, i. Nine of her hymns, including "Behold the lilies of the field," appeared in H. Formby's Catholic Hys., 1853, with the signature "C. M."

Cæsarea cunctis, p. 205, ii. This is found in several mss. additional to those cited on p. 205, ii., including the Einsiedeln ms. 121, p. 163, of the end of the 10th cent., and the ms. Lat. 9448, circa 1040, in the Bibl. Nat., Paris.

Carey, William, D.D., the first Baptist Missionary in India, was b. at Paulerspury, Northamptonshire, in 1761, educated for the Baptist ministry, and left England for India in 1793. He translated the Bible into Bengali, &c. Because of the hostile attitude of the East India Company towards missions, he with his companion John Fountain (p. 396, ii.) removed to Serampore, and placed himself under Dutch protection in 1793, and joined Joshua Marshman, then recently arrived in India. He sometimes published his hymns anonymously. His most conspicuous service was his effort to encourage Christian missions in Bengal, several of which are in C. C. in India. See Missions, Foreign, p. 746, ii.

1556 CHARLES, DAVID [APPENDIX II.] COELESTES PUERI

Charles, David, youngest brother of Thomas Charles of Bala, was b. at Llangeitho, Dec. 1762, and was one of the Calvinistic Methodists. He wrote several hymns, some of which are in C. U. in Wales.

Charles, Elizabeth, née Rundle. Mrs. Charles has assumed the name of "Rundle-Charles," as given in the 1880 ed. of the Hy. Comp. Other hymns in C. U. are:—

1. Around a Table, not a tomb. Holy Communion. Dated Oct. 1862. In her Poems, 1868, in 6 sts. of 4 l.
2. Come, and rejoice with me. Joy in Christ. Something like this in the 1st ed. of her Three Essays, 1859, p. 146, in 7 sts. of 4 l., and headed "Eureka."
3. Jesus, what once Thou wast. Jesus the Unchangeable One. In Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881.
4. Never further than Thy Cross. Passiontide. In the Priestly Treasury, Feb. 1865.
5. What marks the dawning of the Year? New Year. From her Three Weavers, 1859, p. 128.

Charles, Thomas, M.A., s. of a farmer, was b. at Pontpenarth, Carmarthenshire, in 1755, and matriculated at Oxford. He was curate at Halifax for three years, and then returned to Wales as curate of Llanymowddwy. Through a disagreement with his Rector, mainly over the education of the children in the parish in which Charles took great interest, he left his curacy, and shortly after joined the Calvinistic Methodists. His subsequent work was the formation of the Bible Society, and the organization of Sunday Schools as now conducted in Wales, is well known. He d. in 1814. He wrote but one hymn, ("Dyfais fawr trag'wyddol gurfad," Full Salvation, in 10 sts.), which is given in the Calvinistic Methodists' H. Bk. in two parts. This is held in some repute in the principality.

Chatterton, Thomas, was b. at Bristol, Nov. 20, 1752. He received his early education at Colston's charity school, and was then placed with a scrivener at Bristol. In April, 1770, he proceeded to London, where he earned but little through his literary labours. Overcome at last by poverty and distress, he poisoned himself in August the same year. He was buried at St. Andrew's, Holborn. His Miscellanies in Prose and Verse were pub. posthumously in 1778. From this work two hymns have passed into use:—

1. Almighty Framer of the skies. (1764.) Christmas.
2. O God, Whose thunder shakes the sky. (1768.) Resignation.

Cheever, G. B., p. 219, i. He d. Oct. 1, 1890.

Children, in your earliest youth. [Early Piety.] This hymn is in the 52nd ed. of the Silver Street S. Scholar's Companion, 1829, in 4 sts. of 4 l. The principal compiler of that ed. was John Latta. Although the hymn is anon. in that ed., there is direct evidence to that effect, "we must give it to" Anon.

Children, listen to the Lord. [Public Worship.] This is an opening hymn for a children's service. It is given in Dr. T. Hastings's (American) Mother's H. Bk., 1834, in 3 sts. of 8 l., and is there said to be from the "Union Minstrel."

Children, you have gone astray. J. Burton. [Invitation.] Contributed to the Child's Companion, April 1834, in 3 sts. of 8 l. In 1846 it was repeated in the S. S. U. H. Bk., and again in the author's One Hundred Hymns, &c. It is given in several modern collections for children.

Chorley, Henry Fothergill, was b. at Blackleyhurst, Lancashire, Dec. 15, 1808, and educated at the Royal Institution, Liverpool. In 1834 he was engaged as a member of the staff of the London Athenæum. This connection he retained for 21 years. He d. Feb. 15, 1872. He pub. some novels and a large number of songs.

Christe cunctorum dominator alme, p. 226, ii. This is found in the Bodl. ms. Rawl. G. 18, of the end of the 8th cent. It is also in several mss. of the 10th and 11th cents. additional to those named on p. 227, i.

Christe, qui lux es et dies, p. 227, i. This hymn occupies in Dutch hymnody a position which is probably unique, being the only instance of a hymn passing without interruption from the ancient office books of the church into general use among the Reformed. At the reformation in Holland, when hymns were Scriptural, this hymn was retained, and appears in 1566 in a translation of the hymn in very archaic Dutch, "Christe oor de liet dagh en Nacht" was appended to the authorised metrical psalter of Peter Dathenus (1566). When a new and revised psalter was adopted in 1773, a hymn in 4 sts., "O groote God, ontfermt U onser," "O great Christ, mercy have," occupied the same place at the end of the psalter. From this source it has been adopted into all the hymnals compiled for the use of Dutch speaking mission congregations in South Africa, where it is so universally popular that a Wesleyan missionary, the Rev. Barnabas Shaw, described it in 1839 as "one of the "beautiful evening hymns of the natives." [J. A. M.]

Christe sanctorum decus, p. 229, ii. The ascription to Hrabanus is very doubtful, and it is not in E. Dümmler's ed. of his Carmina, 1884. (See p. 1213, ii.)

Christian! see! the orient morning. [Missions.] This hymn is given in the American Plymouth Col., 1855, as from "Leland's Hymns." It is also in the Ref. Dutch Hys. of the Church, N. Y., 1869.

Christians and heathens, see we part. This in Cheltenham and Russell Schools H. Bks., 1880, is altered from H. Kirke White's "Christians! brethren! see we part."

Christians of St. Thomas. [See Syriac Hymnody, p. 1113, ii.]

Chorley, Edward, p. 233, ii. From his Cleveland Psalter the following are also in C. U.:—

1. High raised upon the holy hills. Ps. lxxxvii. It begins in some collections with st. ii., "O Zion, glorious things to come."

Clayton, George, b. in London, April 9, 1712; d. July 14, 1802, was a Congregational Minister at Walworth. His hymn on Consecration of Self to Christ, begins "From you detain'd access." Sedgwick dates his hymns 1815.

Cocoza, Titus Flavius, p. 318, i. A tr. of his hymn Semnie voiteur, by Mrs. E. Charles, in her Voice of Chr. Life in Song, 1858, p. 41, is "Monk of Salve who cannot speak." In the American Unitarian Hymn and Tune Book, 1868, No. 1, is a hymn for use at ordinations, composed of two stanzas from Dr. Doddridge's ode at p. 256, ii. Dean Plumptre has also tr. it as, "Curb for the stubborn steed." In his Hymns and other Poems, 1884, p. 171. He tr. it in March, 1864. Dr. Macgill has a tr. in his Songs, &c., 1876, and a second in the Scottish Presb. Hymnal, 1876. The latter begins "Lead, holy Shepherd, lead us."

Cleghorn, Anna Jane Douglas Maclean, daughter of General Sir J. Colquhoun Grant, was b. in 1779, and in 1806 Mr. Byrom's "Tolling in the path of duty" (Perseverance) in Thring's Coll., 1862, and several others.

Cleveland, Benjamin, p. 320, i. For note on this writer (b. Aug. 26, 1723; d. March 9, 1811) and his hymn, "O could I find from day to day," see Burrage's Bapt. Hy. Writers, 1888, p. 325.

Cleve, Bernel, p. 320, ii. Add Ballads from Scottish History, 1st ed., Edinburgh, 1844. His Christmas Carol, "The bleak of frill December sound," was written in 1846. He d. at Aberdeen, Dec. 31, 1866.

Cobbin, Ingram, p. 320, ii. The hymn "A throne of grace! then let us go" (The Throne of Grace), which is found in several American hymnbooks, is usually attributed to this author, but we have failed to trace it in any of his works.

Codeta cognum hadis, p. 320, ii. This is also in a ms. of circa 1100 in the 5th Mus. (Add. 19,302, f. 99).

Cœlo Deum, p. 321, i., noted on p. 320, i., is circa 1150.

Cœlestes puer cohors sanctitas. P. de Corbeil. [Christmas.] Found in the Bodl. ms. Rawl. G. 18, of the 8th cent., p. 144, and Bassleff's Hymni Duct. et Nat., 1868, p. 216 (ed. 1698, p. 256). In the Narbonne Brev., 1709,

COELESTIS ALES [Appendix II.] CONDER, JOSIAH 1557

Risen, p. xvvii., and in the Paris Brev., 1736, Hiem. p. xviii., it begins "Festis lætis sonent anthem canticum." In Sarum, 1850-61 it reads "O vos cum cithara Resurgentem." In Cl. Cl. Chan., 1861, it is altered from the Paris Brev., p. 87, to "Let now the hymns ascend." In the Alter Hyf., 1884.

Coelestia alas sumitat, p. 260, i. We find that this hymn was included in the Clemiac Brev., 1606, p. 943, where it begins, "Supernas alas sumitat."

Coelestia formam gloriæ, p. 260, ii. The Sarum Office for the Transfiguration was printed separately in 1483.

Coelestis O Jerusalem, p. 260, ii. This is in the Paris Brev., 1823, Add., p. 474. The altered form of L. Wallenius's hymn, commencing "O Jerusalem the blessed," is in the Chapter Hyf., 1852, with alterations. In Chope it begins, "Jerusalem! blest city."

Cockburn Joseph Secun, p. 261, i. In Chevalier's Repertorium Hymnologicum, 1889, pt. i., p. 213, this is cited as being in Brev. Monachicum, 1640, and the Carmelite Brev., 1672. It is also in the Rom. Brev. printed at Antwerp in 1697. E. Caswall's tr. (p. 261, i.), appeared in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 136.

Coelo cum eadem gloria consecrat, p. 261, ii. This is found in the Paris Brev., 1840. It is also tr. in Neale's Hyf., 1851, as "Those whom our glory crowns above."

Coleridge, John Duke, Lord, eldest s. of the Right Hon. Sir John Taylor Coleridge, was b. in 1821, and educated at Eton, and Balliol College, Oxford. He subsequently became a Fellow of Exeter College. Called to the Bar in 1846, he became Recorder of Portsmouth, 1861-70; Solicitor-General, 1871; Attorney-General, 1871; and Lord Chief Justice. His hymn "Sending before Thee, let our hymn go upwards" (Divine Protection desired), and "Once again to meet the day" (Morning) in Thring's Coll. make us wish we had more of his lyrics. These hymns were written for private use in the author's family, and were 1st pub. in Thring's Coll., 1880. In the latter st. ii., l. 4, read originally "Strike us back, O Lord, we pray."

Colet, Thomas, A.M., was b. at Ilcott, near Wiveliscombe, in Gloucestershire, in 1779; and died at Boottown, Frome, Somerset, in 1846. He was for a time a travelling home pastor of the Baptist church there for 19 years. He wrote several hymns, but only one was pub., viz., "Indulgent God! to Thee I raise," p. 263, i. (W. R. S.)

Collects in Verse, p. 906, ii. The Collects of the Book of Common Prayer have been rendered into Latin Verse by Bp. Charles Wordsworth, and pub. in his Series Collectarum . . . Sacri Hymni Prafationes . . . Lond., J. Murray, 1880. For versions in English see also the Church of England Magazine Reprint, 1870, p. 138—; and in this Dictionary, p. 555.

Collier, Mary Ann, author of "The sun that lights yon broad blue sky" (Welcoming a Pastor), in The Psalmist, &c., by Snow and Smith, 1843, daughter of the Rev. William Collier, an American Baptist Minister, was b. at Charlestown, Massachusetts, Dec. 25, 1816, and d. at Alexandria, Virginia, Dec. 25, 1866.

Collins, S. A., p. 263, ii. Mrs. Collins was b. at Middlebrough, Massachusetts, May 22, 1820; and married in 1836 to the Rev. S. A. Collins, a Baptist minister, who d. in 1850. Her hymns are (1) "Jesus, gracious One, calleth now to thee" (Invitation), which has passed into I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs & Solos; (2) "O God, the prayer of Thy Beloved Son" (Prevailing Prayer); and (3) "Resting, my Saviour, and waiting for Thee" (Always Anticipated). (Baptist Hy. Writers, 1888, p. 445.)

Collyer, William Bengo, p. 263, ii. The following hymns by Dr. Collyer are also in C. U.:—

1. Lord, dismiss us with Thy blessing. (1812.)
2. O Jesus, in this solemn hour. Reception of Church Officers. (1842.)
3. O Thou, the helpless orphan's hope. On Behalf of Orphans. In the Evang. Mag., 1810, p. 45.
4. See the clouds upon the mountain. Sunday Morning. (1842.)

Of these (3) is the gently breathing notes. Praise to the Redeemer. (1812.)

4. Softly the shade of evening falls. Evening. (1812.) From this, "Soon shall a darker night descend" is taken.
7. Thou Prince of glory slain for me. Good Friday. (1812.)

The date 1812 is that of his Coll., and 1842 of Lord child's Original Hys. (See also Index of Authors and Translators.)

Colquhoun, Frances Sara, née Fuller - Maitland, fourth daughter of Ebenezer Fuller-Maitland of Stanstead Hall, and Park Place, Henley-on-Thames, was b. at Stanfield Park, near Reading, June 30, 1809; married, Dec. 31, 1835, to Lieut.-Col. John Colquhoun, of Luss; and d. May 27, 1877. To her mother's collection, entitled Hys. for Private Devotion, &c., 1825, she contributed anonymously a piece beginning "Launched upon the stormy ocean," and her well-known additions to Kirke White's fragment "Much in sorrow, oft in woe" (p. 778, i.). In the 1862 ed. of her mother's collection, the latter appeared as "Much in sorrow, a vale in Israel's road," and signed "F. S. C." (G. A. C.)

Come, Holy Ghost, descend from high, p. 265, ii. In some American collections this reads "Come Holy Ghost, come from on high."

Come, Holy Spirit, calm my (our) mind. (Whitsunside.) We have traced this hymn to A Coll. of Ps. and Hys. for the use of the Lock Chapel, 1825, where it is the first hymn to be sung before Divine Service, in the 1st ed. of that collection. In the 2nd ed., 1833, it has an additional stanza, and in the 3rd ed., 1872, repeated in the Eng. Presbyterian Church Praise, 1883. It is sometimes attributed to "John Stewart," but we have failed to find authority for the statement. The last form of the text is given in Common Praise, 1879, as by "Browne." This we regard as an error. [W. T. B.]

Come, let us all unite to praise. [Praise to Christ.] This hymn, possibly by M. Madan, appeared in his Ps. & Hys., 1760, No. 140, in 6 st. of 4 l. In the 1857 ed. of E. Cobyn's Ps. & Hys., 1775; Bickersteth, 1833, and others to modern hymn-books.

Come, let us to the Lord our God, p. 265, i. This has been rendered into Latin by H. M. Macgill, 1874, No. 67, as "Veniamus pontifices."

Come, O come with sacred (pious) lays. G. Wither. [Ps. cxlvii.] From his version of Ps. 146 in his Halelviah, 1641, lib. i., No. 1. It is in the S. P. C. K. Hymns, 1852, and other collections.

Come, O my soul, in sacred lays. [Omnipotence.] In Miller's Singers & Songs, &c., 1845, p. 328, in Day, Add., 1848, p. 344, and in others. This hymn is attributed to Addison Blackburn, d. 1844. In the latter instance is the statement supported by satisfactory evidence. We have failed to trace it in any of Blackburn's works.

Come, O my soul, to Calvary. H. L. Hastings. [Good Friday.] This hymn, in the Hys. Praise Ab., N. Y., 1871, is attributed to "Hastings." In H. L. Hastings's Songs of Pilgrimage, Boston, U. S.A., 1886, it is signed "H. L. H." From this we understand that it is his original.

Come, O Thou Traveller unknown, p. 269, i. In the Prov. Meth. Hyf., 1887, Nos. 518-19, are three centos from this poem:—(1) "Come O Thou Traveller unknown"; (2) "What though my shrinking flesh complain"; (3) "I know Thee, Saviour, Who Thou art."

Come, Thou Fount of every blessing, p. 272, i. Sometimes given as "Father, Source of every blessing;" and as "Jesus, Source of every blessing."

Come, Thou long expected Jesus, p. 272, ii. This is rendered into Latin by H. M. Macgill, 1874, No. 71, as "Veni Jesu ter Optate."

Come to the ark, come to the ark. [Invitation.] This anonymous hymn has been traced to Percy Francis Horan's Catholic Hymns, 1851, No. 29, repeated in Coleman's Coll., 1846; E. W. Bocker's Pilgrim Hall, 1866; and in several later hymn-books in G. Britain and America.

Come ye who bow to sov'reign grace. Maria De Fleury. [Holy Baptism.] Appeared in J. Middleton's Hymns, 1793, No. 309, in 8 st. of 4 l. In Spurgeon's O. O., 1866, No. 309, it is altered to 6 st. of 4 l. In 1. 3, being from this hymn, and st. iii. by Mr. Spurgeon, in Miller's Singers & Songs, &c., 1845, p. 226, the original hymn is attributed to James Upton in error.

Conder, E. R., p. 555, ii. Dr. Conder's Heart Chords were republished with an additional piece or two 1867. His hymn, "Ye fair green hills of Galilee" (For a Children's Service) appeared in the Cong. Church Hy., 1861, p. 107.

Conder, G. W., p. 555, ii. Other hymns by him in his Appendix, 1874, are, "Now to the glorious Trinity" (Laying a Foundation Stone), and "Lord, may a sinful little child" (A Child's Prayer).

Conder, Josiah, p. 556, i. Other hymns are:—

1. O love beyond the reach of thought. The love of God.
2. O Thou, our Head, enthroned on high. Missions.
3. Son of David, throned in light. Divine Enlightenment desired.
4. Thou Lamb of God for sinners slain. Christ the Head of the Church. From "Substantial Truth, O Christ, Thou art."

These hymns are all from his Hys. of Praise, &c., 1856.

His hymn "From every earthly pleasure" (Consecrated) was contributed to a mo. monthly magazine, in 1832, edited by Dr. Belcher, author of Historical Sketches of the Missionary Enterprise. It was subsequently given in the New Baptist Miscellany, Boston, March, 1833, in 6 st. of 4 l. It is found, usually abridged, in several modern collections. Another of his hymns "There is a heaven of perfect peace" (Heaven Anticipated), appeared in the Gospel, in the Evangelical Magazine, 1836, and is also in U. U. [W. R. S.]

Davis, Thomas, M.A., p. 561, ii. Died at Beverley, Nov. 11, 1887. Another of his hymns from his Incidents of Life, 1875, is "Two temples doth I behold" (The Temple of the Body), is also in C. U. There are 23 of his hymns in Snepp's Pastoral H. Bk., 1885. (See Preface to the same.)

Davis, William T. B. at Plymouth (U.S.A.), in 1822, educated at Harvard College, and is a lawyer by profession. His quasi American National Hymn was written for the 250th Anniversary of the Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth, Massachusetts, Dec. 21, 1870. It begins, "To Thee, O God, Whose guiding hand."

Davison, W. Hope, was b. at Sunderland, Nov. 27, 1827, and entered the Congregational Ministry in 1853 as Pastor at Bolton, Lancashire. He pub. Ps. & Hys., Bolton, various eds., the last in 1861; The Sabbath Hyl. for use in Schools; and The New Sabb. Hyl., 1877. His hymns are mostly found in Congregational collections. From the latter his hymn "Jesus, from heaven's glory, Throned above the sky" (S. S. Festival), is in the Cong. Ch. Hyl., 1887, in Hdn. & Aug. 1884.

Dayman, E. A., p. 282, ii. He d. at Shillingstone, Oct. 26, 1886.

Days and moments quickly flying, p. 560, ii. The ents (3) as in Church Hys., 1871, is adopted in the Hy. Comp., 1876 and 1889, with the change by Bp. Bickersteth of st. v., l. 3, from "For the Old Year now retreating," to "For the by-gone years retreating," to adapt the hymn for all seasons of the year.

De Fleury, Maria (d. circa 1794), was an intimate friend of Dr. John Ryland (1753-1815), and resided at one time at 21 Jewin Street, Cripplegate, London. She was the author of Memoirs of the Life and Correspondence of her Son, and various several works thereon, including Unrighteous Mammon detected and Chastised, &c., 1791. Antinomianism Unmasked, &c., 1795, and others. Several of her hymns were pub. in the Protestant Dissenter's Mag., 1794-5, and in Rippon's Coll., circa 1792; and 2 in Dr. Collyer's Coll., 1812. Her Divine Poems, and Essays on Various Subjects, is dat. d. 1791. From this are taken, (1) "Thou soft flowing Kedron, by thy silver stream" (Sufferings and Glory of Christ), from which hymn the cento "O garden of Olivet, dear honour'd spot" is derived; and (2) "Ye angels who stand round the throne" (Angels Ministering to Saints). These hymns have passed into modern use through Cellyer's Coll., 1812. The cents "Come, saints, and adore Him, come here at His feet" (Praise to Christ), in Bickersteth's Christ. Psalmody, 1833; Sympson's S. S. & H. Bk., &c., is composed of (st. i.) the chorus of her hymn, "Thou soft flowing Kedron, by thy silver stream," and st. ii. of her hymn "Come, saints, and adore Him," &c. [J. M.]

De profundis exclamavimus, p. 283, i. This is also found in a Missal of the Abbey of St. Corneline at Compiègne, of the 12th cent. (Bibl. Nat., Paris, Lat. 10575), and another of the 14th cent. of the Abbey of St. Denis (Bibl. Nat. Paris, Lat. 1107). (See the Missel-Vrain Jeudacte Liturgica, 1889, pp. 377, 401.)

Dear is the spot where Christians sleep. A cento from "Say, why should friendship grieve for those?" in the American Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, in 4 st. of 4 l. (p. 260, i.)

Dear Lord, before we part. [After Holy Communion.] This hymn is usually ascribed to "G. Rawson," but on what authority we have failed to discover. It appears anonymously in the Bp. Ps. & Hys. 1856, No. 744.

Dear partner of our hopes and fears. [S. S. Anniversary.] Appeared in the American S. S. Union Hy., 1836, in 6 st. of 4 l. In later collections it is in 4 st. of 4 l., as in the Meth. F. Ch. S. S. Hy. Bk., 1849.

Deathless soul, arise, arise. An altered form in the Prim. Meth. Hys., 1807, of "Deathless principle, arise," p. 285, i.

Debita cessent elementa legis, p. 288, i. This is found in the Sion Hymn, 1738, as "Jam satis mentis timor ille pressit," in 7 st. of 4 l. It is in the Hymns for Holy Hyl., 1867, by J. H. Butterworth, as "Shadows are fled, a brighter ray," S. & M., as cent by Compilers, 1904.

Dech, James George, p. 288, ii. He d. circa 1884. His hymn, noted on p. 560, No. 38, "Jesus [I] we rest in [on] Thee," should be dated 1845. Additional hymns in C. U. are:—(1) "Lord Jesus, when I think of Thee," 1856 (Advent, Ill and be still); (2) "The day of glory, hasting," 1858 (Praiseworthy).

Deck, Mrs. Sarah, O Lord. A cento from F. W. Faber's "O soul of Jesus, melt to-day" (p. 362, i., 7), in the 3rd ed. of the Nottingham Collect. for Ch., 1860, in 8 st. of 4 l. It is a practical and prayerful application of the Agony of Our Blessed Lord.

Denny, Sir Edward, Bart., p. 287, ii. d. in London, June 13, 1889. Additional pieces from his Sel. of Hymns, 1839, are in modern collections, including:—

1. O wondrous hour! when, Jesus, Thou Good Friday.

2. Thy past, the dark and dreary night. Easter.

3. While in sweet communion feeding. Holy Communion.

Denton, William, M.A., b. Mar. 1, 1815, and educated at Worcester College, Oxford, B.A. 1844. Entering Holy Orders, he was successively curate of Bradfield, Berks; Barking, Essex; and Shoreditch. In 1850 he became vicar of St. Bartholomew's, Cripplegate, London. He d. Jan. 31, 1870. He was the author of Popular Lectures on Characteristics on various parts of Holy Scripture. He was proprietor of The Church Hymnal, 1858, of which he was also joint editor with Canon W. Cooke.

Dickinson, William, p. 288, ii. Another hymn from his Hys. for Passion Week, &c., 1846, in C. U., is "When the gospel race is run." (Advent.)

Dickson, William, p. 288, ii. He d. at Edinburgh, April 3, 1869.

Dies absolli prosteruent, p. 294, ii. The St. Gall MS. cited are Nos. 413, 414.

Dies est laetitiae. In orbe regali, p. 294, ii. G. M. Dreves, in his Cantiones Bohemicae, 1886, p. 42, cites a text of the 14th cent. from a MS. at Prague, which, in a MS., circa 1416, of the Abbey of Hohenfurt, which omits Mane st. viii.

Dies irae, dies illa, pp. 295-301. In a MS. in the Brit. Mus. of the beginning of the 14th cent. (Addl. 28681, f. 174 b), there is a Responsory, which might possibly have suggested at least some of the allusions in the "Dies irae." It begins thus:—

℣. Libera me Domine, de morte aeterna, in die illa tremenda;
Quando coeli movendi sunt et terra,
Dum veneris judicare saeculum per ignem.
Dies illa, dies irae, calamitatis et miseriae, dies magna et amara valde.
Quid ego miserrimus, quid dicam vel quid faciam, dum sit homi perferus ante tantum Judicem.*

This Responsory is also in a Brit. Mus. MS. of the beginning of the 15th cent. (Lansdowne, 451, f. 122 b), and is evidently referred to in a 12th cent. Life of Gundulf, Bp. of Rochester, who d. 1108. See Henry Wharton's Anglia Sacra, vol. ii., 1691, p. 305. He also refers to it in his Treatise on the Psalter of Ps. Athanasius, ii. viii. 5. The various texts of the "Dies irae," with a full commentary, are in Dr. J. Kayser's Beitrage (p. 65b, ii.), ii., 1894, pp. 195-226.

Dix, William Chatterton, p. 302, ii. Additional hymns by Mr. Dix now in C. U. are:—

1. Lift up your songs, ye angel choirs. Ascension.
2. Now, my soul remains the story. Christ Feeding the Soul.
3. Within the temple's hallowed courts. Ev. V. M.

These hymns are from his Altar Songs, 1867.

1560 DODDRIDGE, P. [APPENDIX II.] E. S. A.

1832. His first S. School hymn-book was Selleck Osgood's, in 1861. He has composed about 1000 tunes, songs, anthems, &c. He has written but few hymns. Of these "No one knows but Jesus," "Precious Saviour, dearest Friend," and "Saviour, like a bird to Thee," are noted in Burrage's Baptist H. Writers, 1888, p. 547.

Doddridge, Philip, D.D. At p. 306 an account is given of a ms. vol. of Doddridge's Hymns, which is the property of the Rocket Family, Northampton. It was the work of Dr. Doddridge's pupil Samuel Wilson, and the property of Lady Frances Gardiner, wife of Sir Robert Erskine, an intimate friend of Doddridge, and wife of Col. Gardiner. It is a copy of the Hooker ms., with the revised text, as in the margin of that ms., and is in Doddridge's handwriting. It was from this ms that the Doddridge hymns were issued for the Scottish Press, and Pierpont, p. 147. Additional hymns by Dr. Doddridge still in C. U. are:—

1. My God, how cheerful is the scene. All in Christ.
2. My Saviour, let me hear Thy voice. Pardon desired.
3. My soul, triumphant in the Lord. Divine Guidance secured.
4. No more, ye wine, your wisdom boast. Glorying in God alone. From Hymns, No. 128.
5. Now be that Sacrifice survey'd. Christ our Sacrifice.
6. O Israel, blest beyond compare. Happiness of God's favourites.
7. Ye thirsters, where are they? Considering the Poor. From Hymns, No. 144.
8. Praise to the Lord on high. Missions.
9. Praise to the radiant Source of bliss. Praise for Divine Guidance.
10. Return, my soul, and seek thy rest. Rest in Jesus.
11. Salvation doth to God belong. National Thanksgiving.
12. Sovereign of Life, I own Thy hand. On Recovery from Sickness.
13. The sepulchres, how thick they stand. Burial.
14. There is a Shepherd kind and strong. The Good Shepherd. From Hymns, No. 127.
15. Wait on the Lord, ye heirs of hope. Waiting on God.
16. We bless the eternal Source of light. Christ's care of the Church.
17. With transport, Lord, our souls proclaim. Immutability of Christ.
18. Ye departing saints, whose streaming tears. Death and Burial.

These all appeared in Dr. Doddridge's Hymns, 1755.

Dominus Rewtacy, p. 179, i.

Doubleday, Thomas, was the s. of a Quaker of the firm of Doubleday & Easterby, Sage Bellers, Newcastle on Tyne. When over 30 years of age he joined the Church of England, and died in her communion. He was the author of two dramas, Dacletian, and Cains Gracchus, and of Hymns for the Use of Sunday Schools, from the Latin, were pub. as Hymnorum Anglicanum in 1844. B. Feb. 1780; d. Dec. 16, 1870.

Doudney, Sarah, p. 307, i. Other hymns in C. U.:—

1. For all Thy care we bless Thee. Morning.
2. Lord of the golden harvest. Harvest.
3. Now the solemn shadows darken. Evening.

Nos. 1 and 3 are from Miss Doudney's Psalms of Life, 1871, and No. 2 is in Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881.

Douglas, Frances Jane, née Rice, sister of Dr. W. W. Rice, was b. in 1826. Her April Verses were printed in 1846, but were never published. D. Dec. 11, 1880.

Down from the willow bough. (Good Friday.) We find this hymn in three forms:—(1) "Down from the willow bough," in Dr. Alexander's Augustine H. Bk., 1849 and 1865, in 6 st. of 4 l., and (2) "Down from the willow bough," in Dr. Hall's Lyrics, 1851, composed of st. ii.-iv., two alterations of st. i., and st. v. of Dr. Alexander's Pygmach. Coll., 1833, composed of st. iii.-v., two additional st., and then st. vi. from No. 1. In each of these collections the hymn is attributed to Mrs. Rowley, nee Bowles, but we have failed to identify it as hers.

Dunnington, pp. 308-310. See also pp. 161, 304, 394, 2nd col., and 1st col. of p. 395.

Draws to the Cross which Thou hast Blessed. (Good Friday.) A tender anonymous hymn in the Cong. Church Hyl., 1887, No. 380. (See p. 1078, i.)

Dressler, Percy Howard, M.A., was b. in 1850, educated at Exeter College, Oxford (B.A. 1873), and Rector of Bingham, Notts, 1884. His hymn, "Behold our Lord ascended up to His bright throne of light" (Ascension), was written for the Surrey Hymnary, circa 1874.

Drummond, William, p. 313, ii. In the British Museum there is a copy of Drummond's Poems as follows:—Poems by William Drummond of Hawthornden. The second Impression. Edinburgh, Printed by Andro Hart, 1616. Neither the Flowers of Sion, nor the Tre. from the Latin are therein.

Duffield, George, p. 314, i. He d. July 6, 1868.

Duffield, S. A. W., p. 315, ii. He d. May 15, 1897. His English Hymns, their Authors and History, was pub. in 1886, and his Latin Hymn-Writers and their Hymns (unfinished), edited by Dr. E. E. Thompson, in 1889. [See p. 1126, i.]

Dulcis Jesus Nazarenus. (The Name of Jesus.) This fine Sequence is probably of the 14th cent. It is in three Missals of the 14th cent., now in the Bodleian, viz.:—A Sarum (Barlow 5, p. 499); a York, and a Hereford, in each case being an addition to the Missal, but in a hand of almost the same date as the body of the work. It is also in the printed eds. of these three Missals, viz. Sarum, 1555, fol. cxxxiii. b; York, 1509, p. 355, prints it as, "Jesus dulcis Nazarene," from the Premonstratension Missal of 1520; and in v. p. 159, refers to it as "Dominus Jesus Nazarenus." Tr. as "Jesus, gentle Nazarene," by Mrs. Herxaman, in the Altar Hyl., 1844. Also by C. B. Pearson, 1865, p. 417, and 1871, p. 195. [J. M.]

Dunsterville, Patty Caroline, nee Sellon, daughter of Captain Sellon, of the Royal Navy, and wife of Colonel Dunsterville, was born at Bath, Jan. 7, 1807, and died Jan. 7, 1857. Her hymn "The day is done —O God the Son" (Blessing) is in Thring's Coll., 1882.

Dwight, John Sullivan, s. of Timothy Dwight (p. 314, ii.), was b. at Boston, U.S.A., May 13, 1812, and educated at Harvard, and at the Cambridge Theological College. He laboured in the ministry for six years, and then devoted himself to literary work. For nearly 50 years he was editor of a Journal of Music. His connection with hymnody is very slight. (See "God bless our native land," p. 1108, i.)

E

E. C. W. These are the initials of a lady who published, through Mr. John Hodges, of Frome, Hys. for Infant Minds [n. d.], and who desires to remain unknown. From this work the following hymns are in C. U.:—

1. I love to think of heaven, O Lord. Heaven Desired.
2. Lord, Who hast made me Thy dear child. Lent.
3. O Lord, my Father, hear my prayer before I go. Evening.

Nos. 1 and 2 are in W. R. Stevenson's School Hyl., 1866, and others; and No. 3 in Barker's Bk. of Praise for Children, 1873.

E. O. D. Under this signature the following hymns appeared in Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881, some of which are in extensive use in America:—

1. Again the morning smiles so bright. Morning.
2. Lord, we come to ask Thy blessing. Temperance.
3. O my God, I fear Thee. The Fear of God.
4. Our solemn Lent has come again. Lent.
5. Softly, softly gathers the night. Death of David.

These signatures are used by Miss Emily Elizabeth Octavia Dolores Dalton, b. 1841. Originally a member of the Church of England, she joined the Roman Communion some time ago.

E. S. A. The initials of Ella Sophia Armitage, nee Bulley, daughter of S. M. Bulley, of Liverpool, and granddaughter of T. Baffles, M.D. (p. 240, ii.). She was b. at Liverpool, March 1, 1841, and married in 1874 to the Rev. Robert Armitage, M.A., then Classical Tutor, Professor in the Congregational United College, Bradford. Mrs. Armitage has pub.: (1) The Childhood of the English Nation; (2) The Connection of England and Scotland; (3) The Education of a Christian Home; and (4) a volume of Song entitled The Garden of Eden, and Lonely Dwellers, 1891. In the last work are the following original hymns. Mrs. Armitage's hymns in C. U. include:—

1. Eternal Love, Whose late death sway. Holy Matrimony. Written in 1879 for the marriage of George F. Armitage.
2. We keep the Lord the temple build. Laying Foundation-Stone of S. School. Written at Waterhead, Oldham, in 1875 for the laying of the foundation-stone of a new Sunday school.
3. In our dear Lord's garden. Christ's love for

EARLE, JABEZ [APPENDIX II.] ELLIOTT, ROBERT 1561

Children. Written at Waterhead in 1881, and pub. in The Garden of the Lord.

4. It is the Lord Himself who tends. Christ the Divine Gardener. Written for The Garden of the Lord, 1887.

5. March on, march on, ye soldiers true. Missions. Written at Waterhead, Oldham, circa 1886, for a missionary meeting.

6. Not only for the goodly fruit-trees tall. Christ's care of Children. Written at Waterhead, Oldham, for The Garden of the Lord, 1881.

7. O Father, in Thy Father's heart. Holy Baptism. Written at Waterhead, Oldham, for the same.

8. O Lord of all, we bring to Thee our sacrifice of praise. S. School Festival. Written at Waterhead, Oldham, circa 1879, for a Whitsuntide Sunday school festival.

9. O Lord of life, and love, and power. Living to God. Written at Waterhead, Oldham, in 1875, for the Sunday and day school scholars, and pub. in The Garden of the Lord, 1881.

All these hymns are in the Cong. Church Hyl., 1887; Nos. 2, 8, in the Bapt. Free Church Hyl., 1888; Nos. 5, 4, in the S. S. Union Service Book for Ch. & School, 1891; and Nos. 1, 4, and 9 in Hunter's Hyn. of Faith & Life, Glasgow, 1888. Taken as a whole, Mrs. Armitage's hymns are exceptionally good.

Earle, Jabez. This name is sometimes met with in connection with the English hymnody. He was b. in 1676, and d. in 1744.

Ekvall, J. H. A., p. 320, i. He d. at Erlangen, July 23, 1868.

1. Behold the shade [shaden] of night is [are] now receding. By Ray Palmer, written in 1868, and included in Hyn. of the Church, N. Y., 1885.

2. Behold no place is torn to daylight render. In Sabbath H. Bk., 1859, No. 764.

Ecce psallite, p. 320, i. From Mrs. Chester's tr. of., v. "Unto the Lamb" in her American collections as "Unto Thee be glory given."

Ecce sedes his Tonantis, p. 320, ii. This is in the Sens Mss., 175b. Hymn. p. lxxv.

Ecce tempus idoneum, p. 320, ii. The Bodleian ms. Laud, Lat. 95 is circa 1240.

Eddy, Daniel C., D.D., b. in Salem, Massachusetts, May 27, 1823, and entered the Baptist ministry in 1844. He is the author of several hymns, one of which for the Opening of a Place of Worship, "Maker of land and rolling sea," is in the Bapt. Praise Bk., 1871.

Edersheim, Alfred, D.D., a of wealthy Jewish parents, was b. at Vienna, March 7, 1825. He was the first Jew to take priest-at the University of Vienna. During the time he was a student he embraced Christianity, and subsequently studied Theology at the universities of Edinburgh and Berlin. After some time a minister of the Church of Scotland, he left it in 1847, and was ordained by the Bp. of Winchester. He was Curate of Christchurch, Hants; Vicar of Loders, Dorset; Warburtonian Lecturer at Lincoln's Inn; and Grinfield Lecturer on the Septuagint at the University of Oxford. He d. 16th March, 1889. His Life and Times of Messiah and other publications were very numerous, the most important of which are given in Crockford's Clerical Directory for 1885. His Jubilee Rhythm, from which his hymn are taken, was pub. in 1887, and not 1847, as in a misprint on the title-page.

Edmeston, James, p. 321, ii. Other hymns are —

1. O Thou Whose mercy guides my way. Resignation. In his Sacred Lyrics, 1st ed., 1820, p. 24, in 3 st. of 6 l., and again in his Hyn. for the Chamber of Sickness, 1844.

2. Parting sent, the flood awaits thee. Death anticipated. In his Sacred Lyrics, 1st ed., 1820, p. 18, in 2 st. of 8 l., and based upon the passage in the Pilgrim's Progress:—"Now I further saw that betwixt them and the gate was a river, but there was no bridge to go over, and the river was very deep."

3. 'Tis sweet upon our pilgrimage. Praise. In his Choral Hymns and Poems, 1846, in 3 st. of 4 l., and headed "An Ebenezer Raised."

4. Welcome, brethren, enter in. Reception of Church Officers. In his Hymns for Public Worship, 1855, No. 429.—"This is No. 1 of five hymns supplied by Mr. Edmeston, at the request of a friend, for insertion in a provincial hymn-book, on the subject of admitting members," but he does not give the name of the book, neither have we identified it. The hymn, as given in the New Cong., 1859, No. 940, is in 5 st. of 4 l., of which Miller says st. iii. is by another hand.

Edwards, Matilda Barbara Betham (Betham-Edwards), daughter of Edward Edwards, and cousin of Amelia B. Edwards, the Egyptologist, was b. at Westerfield, near Ipswich, March 1, 1836. Miss Edwards is well known as the author of Kitty, The Sylvesters, and other tales. Her hymn, "Gentle Jesus, meek and mild," a hymn for Children's Services, "God make my life a little light," in the Cong. Church Hyl., 1887, first appeared in Good Words, 1873, p. 263, together with another hymn for children, "The little birds now seek their rest." (Manning). Several of her religious pieces have passed into devotional and other works.

Edwards, Roger, a celebrated Welsh Calvinistic minister, was b. at Bala, Jan. 22, 1811. He was closely identified with the literary productions of the Calvinistic Methodists, and was the editor for a time of their magazine and their reviews. He d. at Bala, July 19, 1886. He edited a denominational hymn-book in 1840, for which he wrote several hymns. He also pub. a volume of moral and sacred songs in 1855.

Ein neu anima, Bethlehem cunna. J. Manburn. (Christmas.) In his Bastion coruscorum spiritualium, et sacrarum meditationum, N. P. 1494 (Brit. Mus. C. 37, b. 4), in 3 st. of 10 l. Trans. as "A new Birth of Christ, in 12 st. of 10 l. The full text is also in Wackernagel, I. No. 462. Three st., beginning with st. iv., "Hin quid jacea stabulo," passed into many of the older German hymn-books, and are found as a separate hymn in Bunebuch, i. p. 371; Dombuch, i. No. 6811; and Preuch, 1844, p. 114. These stanzas have also been tr. as "Ah, dearest Jesus, holy child," in Dr. Pusey's "A manger bed," by Mrs. Charles, 1854, p. 174. Also in the Hymnary, 1872.

Ein feste Burg, p. 325, i. M. W. Stryker's tr. begins in his Church Song, 1868, "A Tower of refuge is our God." Another tr. is by E. V. Kennedy, in his Poems & Trs., 1844, p. 438. We find that No. 7 on p. 324, i., did not appear in W. H. Furness's Gems of Germania Verse, 1853, and that the date of Sagoio's tr. on p. 323, ii. is 1853, not 1858.

Ela, David Keogh, p.m., was b. in Maine in 1831. In 1846 he entered the ministry of the American Methodist Episcopal Church. His hymn "The chosen three, on mountain height" (Transfiguration), was written in 1877 and pub. in his Spirc. Hymnal, 1875.

Ellerton, John, p. 326, i. Other hymns are —

1. O Father, bless the children. Holy Baptism. Written in 1866, and pub. in his Hymns, &c., 1866, in 3 st. of 8 l., and in the Hymnary, 1872, No. 108.

2. O Thou Who givest food to all. Temperance. Written Aug. 30, 1865, and printed in the Ch. of England Temperance Chronicle, 9 pt. 1865. Also in his Hymns, &c., 1866.

3. Praise our God for all the wonders. St. Nicholas's Day. Dated in his Hymns, 1866, "December 1865." It was printed in the Parish Magazine of St. Nicholas's Church, Brighton, and first printed as a leaflet in 1865.

4. Praise our God, Whose open hand. Bad Harvest. Written as a hymn for the bad harvest of 1861, and printed in the Guardian in August of that year. Also in his Hymns, &c., 1866.

5. Praise to the Heavenly Wisdom. St. Matthias's Day. Written for St. Matthias's Day, Salisbury, 1866.* Also in the 1868 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M.

6. Shine Thou upon us, Lord. For a Workers' Meeting. Contributed to the 1868 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M.

7. Thou Who wearied by the well. Temperance. Written for the Opening of a Workman's Coffee Tavern, and dated in his Hymns, &c., 1866, "September 23, 1862." It was printed in the Ch. of England Temperance Chronicle the same year.

8. Throned upon the awful Tree. Good Friday. Written in 1870, and pub. in 1875 of H. A. & M. Appendix, and in the Appendix to the 1889 ed., and is one of the finest of Mr. Ellerton's productions.

Mr. Ellerton's original and translated hymns to the number of 74 were collected, and pub. by Skeffington & Son in 1888, as Hymns, Original and Translated. By John Ellerton, Rector of White Roding.

Elliott, Charlotte, p. 326, i. Other hymns are —

1. Christ, the Lord, is risen again. Easter dawn. From the Invalid's H. Bk., 1834.

2. The dawn approaches, golden streaks. Second Advent. From Thoughts in Verse, &c., 1869.

lm. & Spiritual Songs, being for the most part from various authors, &c. It was reprinted in 1768 and 1776. A few of his hymns from this work are in C.U. in America.

Elwin, John Fountain, B.D.C.S., s. of Col. Fountain Elwin, was b. at Skillo, Feb. 5, 1809; was Minister and Superintendent of the British Medical Mission from 1872 to 1880; and d. Nov. 17, 1890. A few of his hymns are in the Edinburgh London H. Bk., 1875, including "Peace, what a precious sound" (Peace with God).

Enough unto us! Dec. p. 329, i. Another tr., in "The Son of Man from Jordan rose," in 1880 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M., by Jackson Mason and the Compilers. At p. 329, ii., read "Canto iv. supra scribsum."

Ensing, Juliana, p. 330, i. The title of her 1692 hymn is Geistliches Winter-Jignas-Kil ("Wolfenbüttel Library").

Ere tempus accipiatis, p. 331, i. This is in the Cluny Mss., 174b, and the Le Mans Brev., 1746. Another tr., "Lo! now the time accepted peals," is in the 1869 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M. It is by B. M. Moorsom and the Compilers. Mr. Moorsom's tr. is given in full in Church Work and Mission Life for Dec. 1890.

England, Samuel Simpson, b. in London, Nov. 29, 1811, and educated for the Congregational ministry at Homerton College. In 1837 he was ordained, and was one of the compilers of The New Cong. H. Bk., 1859, to which he contributed his version of Ps. xc., "In anger, Lord, rebuke me not." He d. Feb. 11, 1866.

Ennodius, Magnus Felix, p. 350, ii. Since this article was sent in press we have reason to conclude that the two hymns annotated on p. 351, i. are not by Ennodius. They are in the two earliest editions of Vogt, Berlin, vol. vii., 1885, (2) and the Corpus Script. Vindob., by E. Hartel, Vienna, vol. vii., 1882. We have not found them earlier than the Hosarskie Brev., pub. at Toledo in 1502.

Enough of earth! Its light. H. Bonar. (Heaven anticipated.) Written in 1846 expressly for the tune "Auxerre," by James Turle, composed in 1836, and published in the Appendix to the Original Church Hy. Tune composed by James Turle, formerly Organist and Master of the Choristers of Westminster Abbey. Collected and edited by his daughter, S. J. Turle, Lond. [1885]. No. 41.

[G. A. C.]

Enthroned in Light, eternal Lord. (Dedication of a Church.) This hymn appeared in Parish Hys., Phila., U. S. A., 1843, No. 485, and signed "C. M. A." It is repeated in a few American collections, including H. A. Boardman's Praise Book, Boston, Phila., 1851, No. 307.

Ere evening's shades grand an close. (Morning.) Given in Dr. Mahaffy's Sing Heaven, Dublin, 1865 [1864], No. 3, and signed "Sister M. J." It is repeated in Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881.

Ere on my bed my limbs I lay. S. T. Coleridge, p. 335, i. This hymn appeared in the 1834 ed. of Coleridge's Metrifical Lessons as "A Child's Evening Prayer," in 16 lines.

Ere to the world again we go. (Close of Worship.) This popular hymn with the American Unitarians has been traced to George E. Ellis's Ps. & Hys., Boston, U. S., 1845, where it is given anonymously in 3 st. of 4 l. It is also in Dr. Hedge's Hymns, 1853, No. 237.

Es steht ein stiller Engel, p. 335, i. This hymn was written in Feb., 1852. Another tr. is "A silent angel wanders here," in J. D. Burgy's Hyn., Chants, and Anthems, 1877.

Ealing, Catherine H., née Watterman, was b. in 1812, and married in 1840 to George J. Ealing, of Philadelphia. Her poems were collected and pub. in 1856 as The Broken Branch, and other Poems. She is widely known by her hymn "Jesus, lover of my soul, let me to Thy bosom fly" (Invitation), which appeared in the Christian Keepsake annual, 1839, in 7 st. of 4 l. It is usually given in an abbreviated form. Mrs. Ealing is a member of the American Protestant Episcopal Church. (Phillips, 1884, p. 353.)

Eternal Source of life and power. T. Hornsby. (Whitsuntide.) In his Sacred Lyrics for the Festivals of the Christian Church, 1836, No. 187, in 6 st., of 4 l., and headed "Pentecostal Hymn." In 1857 J. Nunn pub. a portion of it in his Ps. & Hyn., beginning with st. ii. (altered), "Our children, Lord, in faith and prayer." This was repeated in C. Hickenstein's Christian Psalmody, 1873, and other later collections. In some hymnals it begins "Eternal Father, source of love and power," but the former text is the more popular of the two.

Ever let thy soul repose. A. Midlane. (Jesus Only.) Written Aug. 4, 1861, and first printed in the British Messenger, Dec. 1861. It was included in the author's Lauren From Gilead, 1864, in 3 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Jesus Only." In the 1869 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M., st. iii., v. are given as "Ever to the Saviour sing."

"Ἐξεγερθέντες τοῦ ὕπνου." (Morning.) This morning hymn, from the Greek Office book, the Horologion, is in Daniel's Thesaurus, ii. p. 350, and in more than the 3rd or 4th cent. The text is in Jassiel, iii. p. 156, and Moorsom's Hist. Comp. to H. A. & M., 1889, p. 44. Mr. Moorsom tr. in the 1889 ed. of H. A. & M. as, "A-waked from sleep we fall." Mrs. Charles's tr. in her Voice of Christian Life in Song, 1858, p. 26, begins: "Being raised up from sleep." In the Hymnary, 1872, No. 1, it begins "Awaking from sleep." The "Greek," is attributed in the index to R. C. Singleton. It is not, however, in his Anglican H. Bk., 1868 or 1871.

Expositions of Latin hymns. See p. 533, i.

Exultet coe yecordia, p. 361, i. We find that the Office for the Feast of Asses was printed separately in 1482.

Eye hath not seen Thy glory: Thou alone. E. W. Eddis. (Holy Communion.) Written in 1868, and pub. in the Irvingite Hys. For the Use of the Churches, 1871, No. 39. Also in Allen's Cong. Psalmist Hyl., 1876.

F

F., Mrs. In Lefébure's Original Hys., 1842, there are 9 hymns with this signature, one of which, "I thirst (those far streams to drink)" (Heaven Desired), is in Duke's English H. Bk., 1874. We have failed to identify the author.

Faber, Frederick William, p. 361, i. To this article the following additions have to be made —

1. Dead in the prim of heaven. Good Friday. (1862.)

2. Exceeding sorrowful to death. Gethsemane. This in the Scottish Trans Hyl., 1871, is a conv from "O soul of Jesus, sick to death," p. 362, i., 7.

3. From pain to pain, from woe to woe. Good Friday. (1864.)

4. My days have no wishes left. Wishes about death. (1862.)

5. Why is thy face so lit with smiles? Ascension. (1848.)

The dates here given are those of Faber's works in which the hymns appeared. In addition to these hymns there are also the following in C. U. —

1. Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire. Prayer. On behalf of orphans. This appeared in a miscellaneous collection entitled A May Garland, John Philp, n. d. (1862), No. 1, in 7 st. of 4 l. In the Roman Catholic Parochial H. Bk., 1880, it begins, "O God of orphans, hear our prayer."

2. Sleep, sleep my beautiful babe. Christmas Carol. This is also in a miscellaneous tr. in the —

3. By the Archangel's word of love. Pt. i. Life in our Lord. This, and Pt. ii., "By the blood that flowed from Thee" i. Pt. iii., "By the first bright Easter day"; also, "By the word to Mary given"; "By the name of Jesus"; and "By the Cross," are in the Roman and other Roman Catholic collections, we have seen ascribed to Dr. Faber, but in the Rev. H. Formby's Catholic Hys., 1845, they are all signed "C. M. C.," i. e. Cecilia M. Caddell (p. 320, i.).

Fabricius, Jacob, D.D., p. 94, ii., was b. 1593; d. 1654.

Fain would I, Lord of grace. Lent. This in the Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M., 1889, is a tr. by Jackson Mason, of a "Miserere" from a Greek Canon in the Roman Breviary. Mr. Moorsom gives the full text of the Greek and in his Historical Companion to H. A. & M., 1889, p. 87, from a copy of the Triodion, ed. 1868, pp. 438-440. It is by an unknown author of the 6th or 7th cent., and begins "Θέλω σε ἐλεήσαι ἐλεήσαι."

Fain would I my Lord pursue. This in Stryker's Church Song, 1869, is a canto from A. M. Toplady's "Lord, I feel a carnal mind," noted at p. 1180, i.

Fair vision, how thy distant gleam. This in Allen's Cong. Psalmist Hyl., 1876, is a cento from st. iii.-vii. of Dr. Faber's "There are its crowns that we shall wear" (p. 161, ii. 29; 1516, i. 17).

Faith in the Christian's pen. (Faith.) This hymn appeared in the Evangelical Magazine Suppl., 1826, with the signature "F." It was repeated in the American Bap. Psalmist, 1843, No. 813, and other collections, including some in G. Britain. In the Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, and later collections, "Faith in the polar star" begins with st. ii. of this hymn.

1. Who hath believed our report? to whom. By I. Williams, 1839, p. 49. [April 15th.] And his Hym. tr. from the Par. Hymn., 1846, p. 116. In Sacred Verses with Pictures, Lond., Burns, 1846, No. 3, it begins with st. ii., "O holy Lamb, slain ere the world was made." At p. 272, i., "Optatus votis." 2. "Now to the cruel scourge, the tortured thorn," the 1st st. is said to be a tr. from "Et jam flagello." This stanza is in the 1st st. of Williams's tr. In these in by I. Williams as above, very much altered.

2. Additional trs. are by R. Campbell, 1850, p. 68; W. Palmer, 1845, p. 43; J. Chandler, 1837, No. 83; J. D. Chambers, 1857, p. 142.

Far away beyond the shadows. C. B. Bateman. [Mornen.] First the Sacred Melodies for Children, 1874, into a few collections.

Far, far o'er hill and dell, on the winds stealing. [Spirit communion.] Appeared, anonymously, in the Wheeling (Virginia) Intelligencer of Sept. 12th, 1832, in 8 st. of 4 l. It is repeated in later collections, including H. W. Beecher's Plymouth Coll., 1855; the Bapt. Praise Bk., 1871, and other American collections.

Fare thee well, our last and fairest. D. M. Mor. [Death of a Child.] This poem was written by Moir in March 1826, on the death of his son, William Blackwood Moir, who died in the previous February, aged 15 months. It was included in his Domestic Verses, 1845, in 12 st. of 8 l., and again in his Poetical Works, 1852 and 1856. In 1857 it was given in full, and in 1859 in the American Unitarian Hym. for the Church of Christ, Boston, 1853, a cento from this poem was given in 6 st. of 4 l. as "Fare thee well, then fondly cherished." It is also found in later collections.

Farmer, Sarah. Daniel Sedgwick's repeated statement that this writer was a daughter of a well known Wesleyan layman is repudiated by the family. Two hymns appeared with this name in the Irvingite Hym., 1864, viz. (1) "Blessed are they that do His will" ("Thine alas we draw near" [Holy Communion]), and (2) "What though thy eyes be sleeping" (Death and Burial). The first of these is dated 1845, and the second 1846.

Father, adored in worlds above. [The Lord's Prayer.] Anon. in Pope's Coll., 1791; Kippis's Coll., 1795; and several modern Unitarian hymnbooks.

Father, give Thy benediction. [Close of D. Service.] Given anonymously in 1 st. of 8 l., in Longfellow and Johnson's Hym. of the Spirit, Boston, U.S.A., 1864, No. 127, and in the Boston S. and Tune Bk., 1868.

Father, hail, by all adored, p. 266, i. This is entered as being in the Wes. H. Bk., 1780 and 1875, in error.

Father, I know that all my life, p. 267, ii. The hymn "I know, my Father, all my life," in Stryker's Church Song, 1868, is an altered form of this hymn.

Father of all, again we meet. Hattie P. Hawkins. [Divine Worship.] Written for and 1st pub. in her Home H. Bk., 1865, and signed "H. P. H."

Father, now the day is over. E. S. [Evening.] Given anonymously in 4 st. of 4 l., in Longfellow and Johnson's Unitarian Hym. of Duty and Faith, 1852, in 7 st. of 4 l. In 1864 it was included in Hunter's Cong. Hym., in 5 st. The writer, E. S. (a lady), desires to remain unknown.

Father of all, to Thee let endless praise, &c. [Holy Baptism.] This cento, No. 833, in Spurgeon's O. S. H. Bk., 1866, is thus composed:—St. i., new; st. ii., iii. from C. Wesley's Redemption Hymns, 1747, No. 34, st. iv., ii., st. iv. from C. Wesley's Hymns on the Trinity, 1767, No. 16, st. v., altered.

Father of all, Whose powerful voice, p. 268, ii. Add to the list of first lines beginning, "All ye who were to God your birth," in C. U., as in Hallock's Church H. Bk., N. Y., 1872.

Father of heaven, Whose gracious hand. J. D. Carlyle. [Imagination and Condescension.] Pub. in J. Fawcett's Fu. & Hym. by Various Authors, &c., Carlisle, 1822, in 6 st. of 4 l. (see p. 696, i.), and again in Carlyle's Poems, &c., 1849 (see p. 352, i.).

Father of Jesus Christ our Lord. J. Montgomery. [Public Worship.] This was printed for use of the Sheffield Church National Schools Festival, Whitsunday, 1846; again for the Sheffield Wesleyan S. S. Union Whitsuntide Festival, 1851; and in Montgomery's Original Hys., 1853.

Father of mercies, condescend. This is given at p. 697, ii., as by Dr. Gibbons, and as pub. in his Hym. for Fam. Use, 1784; and at p. 776, i., as by Thomas Morrell, on the authority of the Evangelical Magazine, Dec., 1818. Further enquiries lead us to believe the hymn was composed by Lawson.

Father of night, my bonds I feel. C. Wesley. [Self-Renunciation.] This in Longfellow and Johnson's Book of Hys., 1846, No. 127; and their Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 229, is a cento from hymns by C. Wesley in the Wes. H. Bk., modern edn., Nos. 275, 324, 389, &c.

Father, Thy will, not mine, be done, p. 272, i. Concerning this hymn, the late Mrs. Rawson of Wimbarn Hall, Sheffield, communicated to us on Sep. 16, 1874, the following:—"Mrs. Montgomery desires me to give you the history. 'Father! Thy will, not mine, be done.' My beloved husband, William S. Rawson, went to Penzance on July 10, 1829, aged 28. When Montgomery was here [Wimbarn Hall] some time afterwards, he asked my dear mother about his last hours, and seemed much affected by hearing of his wonderful peace and resignation. He left the room, and returned in a few minutes. My mother put into our friend's hand a short statement of the closing scene, which he took up with him when he retired for the night, and the next day we found these lines written in pencil on a fly-leaf of the manuscript." The reference at p. 272, i. is to the death of Ignatius, Montgomery's brother, at Oakbrook, April 27, 1841. The hymn was revised by fresh and painful circumstances.

Father, Whose creating hand. T. S. Pollock. [Par Ete et Soir.] A very appropriate and simple Litany for use at Sea. It appeared in the 1869 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M.

Faith, Rejoice, a Minister of the Dutch Reformed Church at Zierikz, in Holland. His hymn "Looft den Koning, alle Volken" appeared in the Zeeuwsche Kerkzangen, 1806, and reappeared in the Nederduitsche Gereformeerde Gezangen, 1938 (p. 1218, ii.). This hymn was tr. on January 10, 1826, by J. Montgomery (tr. who), as "Praise the Lord through every nation," and so far as we can trace, was first pub. in his Original Hys., 1853, p. 136, as a hymn for Ascension Day, and headed, "Paraphrased, in the original metre, from a Dutch Version." It is repeated in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist H. Bk., 1864, and has come into other collections.

Felices nescerem, p. 276, i. Read 1686, p. [·] Bull's tr. as appearing in the 4th ed. of the H. Lobsd, 1872; and Caswall's tr. in his Masque of Mary, 1858, p. 324.

(Lord Selborne's Bk. of Praise, 1862, p. 317), and his Mid-day hymn, "When at mid-day my task I ply," in 22 st. of 4 l. (Bk. of Praise, p. 306). In Thring's Coll., 1882, No. 18 is composed of st. i., xvii.-xxii., of the latter hymn, slightly altered. Another cento therefrom is in T. Darling's Hys. for the Ch. of England, 1880, No. 1, begins:—"Thou, Lord, didst consecrate this hour."

Fordyce, James, D.D., was minister of Carter Lane Chapel, London, in 1760, and then of Monkwell Street, London, in 1778. He pub. (1) Poems, 1760; (2) A Coll. of Hys. & Sac. Poems, 2 parts, 1769; and (3) Sermons to Young Women, 2nd ed. 1766; 14th, 1814.

Forteguerri, Scipio, Bishop of Pistoia, and High Reformer, d. 1547. His hymn, pub. in 1543 Hyl. modis suis, is taken from the German, Easter and Ascensiontide. Later eds. 1567, 1609. R. Ap. 5, 178; J. Ang. 15, 1874.

Furi tagente brachia, p. 283, i. This hymn by Coffin is based upon the "Ad coenam Agni provoti."

Furtunatus, V. H. C, p. 284, i. The best ed. of his poems is F. Leo's ed. of his Opera Poetica, Berlin, 1881 (Monumenta Germaniae, vol. iv.).

Foster, Frederick William, second s. of William Foster, was b. at Bradford, Aug. 1, 1760, and educated at Fulneck, near Leeds, and at Barby in Prussian Saxony. Entering the Moravian Ministry, he held several appointments until 1818, when he was consecrated a Bishop of the Moravian Church. He d. at Oakbrook, near Derby, April 15, 1838. He compiled the Moravian H. Bk. of 1801, the Supplement of 1818, and the revised edition of 1826. His trs. from the German, and his original hymns appeared in that collection, and in his Memorials of Faith and Hope, 1832. Church Hymnal, 1871 (1) "Lord, Who didst sacrifice" (Holiness desired); and (2) "With thanks before the Lord appear," 1826 (Praise of the Saviour). See Index of Authors and Translators. [G. A. C.]

Fouqué, F. H. C. de la Motte, p. 285, i. He d. Jan. 23 (not 21), 1843.

Francis, Samuel Trevor, s. of an artist, was b. at Chesbunt, Herts, in 1838, and is a merchant in London. He has written numerous hymns, which have been printed in various religious newspapers and periodicals from 1860 to 1870. In 1874 he published the following as in the Enlarged London H. Bk., 1875:—

1. Blessed, blessed Jesus. Praising Onward.
2. Gracious Saviour, grant Thy word. Lent.
3. Home, home of light and glory. Heaven Desired.
4. I am waiting for the dawning. Heaven anticipated.
5. Jesus, we remember Thee. Passiontide.
6. O child of sorrow, weary, distressed. Salvation in Jesus only.
7. O Jesus, how great is Thy mercy. Salvation in Jesus.
8. Safe to land, no shadows darken. Death and Burial. Printed in Word and Work.
9. Sweet hour of prayer. Prayer. Also in Hymns. Heaven. In W. Carter's Gospel H. Bk., 1863.
10. We are pilgrims far from our fatherland. Heaven Desired.

Of these hymns Nos. 1, 2, 4–7 first appeared in the Enlarged London H. Bk., 1875. Mr. Francis also pub. in 1861 Gems from the Revised Version with Poems.

Franciscan Breviary, p. 179, i.

Franzén, Franz Michael, was b. at Umeburg, Pitea Lapmark, Sweden, on Sept. 2, 1772. In 1796 he went to Upsala, where he became Librarian and Professor of Literary History. He was subsequently Minister at Kimlis, Orebro, Sweden, and then of Nora Church, in Stockholm. He was consecrated Bishop of Hernösand, in 1811, and d. there in 1847. (See Supplement to Longfellow's Poets and Poetry of Europe.) Of his pieces one is in English C. U., viz. "Children of the heavenly King" (Holy Life). Mrs. Charles in her Christian Life in Song, 1864, p. 250, as "Jesus in Thy memory keep" (Looking unto Jesus). Usually it begins with st. ii., "Look to Jesus, till, reviving."

Freeman, Enoch Weston, p. 289, ii. Freeman was b. at Minot, Maine, Dec. 16, 1798. In 1826 he became pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lowell, Massachusetts, where he d. suddenly, Sep. 23, 1850.

Freeman, Philip, M.A., was b. Feb. 5, 1818, educated at Exeter College, Oxford, and was Principal of Chichester Theological College from 1846 to 1850, when he became Vicar of Tiverton, Devon; and Archdeacon of Exeter, 1865. He was also a Canon of Exeter. He d. at Tiverton, Feb. 24, 1875. He pub. several works. His poem on The Sabbath is given in Lord Selborne's Bk. of Praise, 1862, p. 302, as "Sweet sweet rest to weary beings," and (2) "Wanderer, in Sunday's quiet walk."

Fröhlich soll mein Herze springen, p. 297, ii. This appeared in Crüger's Praxis, Berlin, 1653, No. 104.

From His high throne above the sky. [Providence.] Anon. in Dr. Rule's Wes. Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1847, No. 111, and in the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879, No. 83.

From the first dawn of infant life. [Charity School Sermon.] Anon. in Dale's Coll., 1839, in 4 st. of 4 l., and No. 87 in a new synonym, as in the American Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1849, No. 87, and in the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879, No. 83, slightly altered to a st. and begins, "From earliest dawn of life."

From year to year in love we meet, p. 300, ii. Written for the Sheffield S. School Union Festival, Whitmonday, May 19, 1823.

Frothingham, N. L., p. 300, ii. Other hymns are:—

1. O Saviour, Whose immortal word. Opening of a Church. Given anonymously in the Church of the Messiah Book, Boston, No. date [ca. 1847].
2. Remember Me, the Saviour said. Holy Communion.
3. They passed away from sight. Death and Burial.
4. When I am weak, I'm strong. Spiritual Strength.

Nos. 1, 3, and 4 are from his Sacred Poems, Translated and Original, 1855.

FULGENS PRAECLARA [APPENDIX II.] GLORIA, LAUS 1565

G

Gallagher. Under this name the hymn "The man himself shall fade" (Pratt) is given in Songs for the Sanctuary, N. Y., 1865.

Gandy, Samuel Whitelock. This writer (Vicar of Kingston-on-Thames with Richmond from Jan. 1617 to his death, Dec. 24, 1661) was the author of "What tho' the Accuser roar" (Victory through Jesus), and "He be the Victor's name" (Victory through Jesus), in the Plymouth Brethren Hymns of the Flock, 1838, from Gandy's Expos. of the Covenant of Works, 1647, reissued in 1690. Sedgwick says he puts each of Ps. 8 Hys., but we have not seen this work (p. xxx.).

Gates, Ellen, née Huntington, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, is the author of several popular pieces in the American Mission and S. School hymn-books. Of these the following have passed from the American books into Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos:—

1. Jesus comes, come home, you are weary at heart. Invitation.

2. I am now a child of God. Saved through Jesus.

3. I will sing you a song of that beautiful land. Concerning Heaven.

4. O the clanging bells of time. Yearning for Heaven.

5. Sleep, is your lamp burning, my brother. Watching and Waiting.

Concerning her poem which is used as a hymn in America, "If you cannot on the ocean" (Daily), Duffield says her account of its origin is as follows:—"The lines were written upon my slate one snowy afternoon in the winter of 1860. I knew, as I know now, that the thoughts were not original, but I had been reading with a presentiment that it had wings, and would fly into sorrowful hearts, uplifting and strengthening them." (English Hyn., 1886, p. 207.)

Gaudete vos fideles, gentium pax clavis. (Hymnus.) In a MS., circa 1100, in the Brit. Mus. (Catlg. A. xvi. f. 51); and in the Hereford Missal, both in the 9th, circa 1300, by the Bollandists, and in the printed ed. of 1502. Also in Sarum v. p. 121; and Ordinale, Sarum, 1508, fol. xxxiii. Trans. as "Rejoice, O ye dear," by Mrs. E. H. Mitchell, in his Altar Hyl., 1864.

Gib aus mein Herz, p. 406, i. This appeared in the Berlin ed. of Crüger's Praxis, 1653, No. 444.

Gillett, Christian F., p. 406, ii. Miss Knight's book, quoted on p. 406, i., Was xxii., appeared as Trs. from his German in Prose and Verse, 1819.

Gisbat mist du Jam Christ, p. 408, i. For other was, containing the "Grates nunc omnes" see references at pp. 314 and 1065.

Gently, my Saviour, let me down, p. 409, i. This hymn was first printed in E. Sidney's Life of Rowland Hill, 1834, p. 466, and is to be added to the following note:—"It was written by Mrs. Cousins, in 1833, for the use of a dying member of his Surrey Chapel congregation, who received it a few hours before death. I found it amongst his papers, in his own handwriting, and I believe it never has been printed. It is called 'The Prayer of the Dying Christian.'" The hymn is in st. of 4 l.

Gerhardt, Paulus, p. 409, ii. Of his hymns noted on pp. 410–412, the following appeared in Crüger's Praxis, Berlin ed., 1653 (—), No. 256; iii., No. 461; v., No. 1661; vi., No. 221; xiv., No. 201; xxiii., No. 127; xxiv., No. 101.

German Hymnody, pp. 412–419. The monthly German Hymnological magazine (Blätter für Hymnologie), ed. by Dr. A. F. W. Fischer and Dr. J. Linke (see p. 377, ii.), and which began in 1883, unfortunately ceased to exist with the number for Dec., 1899. Otherwise we should have had a mine of wealth to refer to under this head directly with German Hymnology. In the new ed. of Karl Goedeke's Grundriss zur Geschichte der deutschen Dichtung, vol. ii., 1884, and iii., 1887, there is a considerable amount of bibliographic information regarding German hymn-writers from the Reformation to about 1750; and Dr. Albert Ritschl's Geschichte der Pietismus, vol. i., Bonn, 1880, ii. 1884, iii. 1886, contains many references to hymn-writers and hymns of the Pietistic school.

The only two purely hymnological works which need be noted are (1) Dr. Ludwig Schoeberlein's Schatz des Liedes der Kunnoverschen und der Lüneburger Gesangbücher, samt den diese ableitigen Gesangbüchern, Hannover, 1861. This is a most careful and elaborate monograph on the Hannover G. B., 1740; and the Lüneburg G. B., 1707; and has been of great use to the present writer. (2) Dr. O. Weitzdörfer's Religiöse Lyrik des Barock in Deutschland, Leipzig, 1895, 8vo, pp. 400. This is very well done, embraces both Roman Catholic and Protestant authors, and the information is brought up to date. We may add that in 1886 Dr. Fischer put the first part of a Supplement to his Kirchenlieder-Lexicon, but the final part has not yet appeared.

The references throughout this Dictionary to German hymnals and hymnbooks are not to be taken as meant to be exhaustive, but as supplementary to those given by Mode. (J. M.)

Gerok, Karl von, p. 419. He was b. at Vaihingen on the Enz (not at Stuttgart), and d. at Stuttgart, Jan. 14, 1890.

Gibbons, Thomas, p. 420, i. From his Hymns, &c., of 1784, are also in C. U.:—

1. Lord God, omnipotent to bless. Divine Help desired.

2. Now may the God of peace and love. Close of Service. (1786. Pt. i.)

3. O what dispositions merry shines. Benevolence.

Giles, Charles, an American Methodist minister, was b. near Fort Griswold, Connecticut, Feb. 25, 1784, entered the ministry in 1805, and d. at Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 30, 1867. His hymn, "The fading world with promiscuous flows" (Western Anticipated), is found, in 6 st. of 4 l., in the Methodist Harbinger, Boston, Cincinnati, Ohio, 1849, and in the Methodist Hymn & Tune Book, N. York. The world is poor from above to come." In the Minister's Pocket Book, 1868; Dr. Hatfield's Church H. Bk., 1872, and others, is taken.

Gill, George, a. of William Gill, was b. at Tiverton, Devonshire, Jan. 23, 1830, and was for some time a missionary in the South Sea Islands. His hymn, "Beautiful Zion, built above" (Heaven), was "written," he says, "on board the ship Camden, on the Line, 1st April, 1854." It was printed in the Juvenile Miss. Mag. in 1855. His rewritten form of Phoebe Cary's "One sweetly solemn thought" (p. 214, i.), beginning "This sweetly solemn thought," is dated 1861, and also appeared in the Juv. Miss. Mag. Gill left the South Sea in 1866, and in 1881 became pastor of Wesgate Congregational Chapel, Burnley. He d. Aug. 19, 1886.

Gillette, Abram Dunn, b.D., editor of Hys. for Social Worship, Phila., 1868, and author of "Jesus, Saviour, dwelling one on Mission, "For oft beyond the sea, I love," was b. in Cambridge, Washington County, New York, Sep. 8, 1827; entered the Baptist ministry in 1838; and elsewhere; and d. Aug. 24, 1889.

Gill, T. E., pp. 421–3. Additional hymns to those annotated are (1) C. U.:—(1) "O dreadful glory that doth make," a cento from No. 84, p. 425, ii. (2) "O mystery of Love Divine" (The Love of Christ); (3) "Ye souls for whom the Saviour died" (Election Love). These are all from his Golden Gate of Praise, 1869.

Gift of all indwelling grace, p. 426, i. This is an altered form of "Gift of all indwelling grace," p. 426, i.

Gladden, Washington, was b. at Pottsgrove, Pennsylvania, Feb. 11, 1836, was educated at Williams College; and entered the Congregational Ministry. He was for some time editor of the New York Independent, and of the Sunday Afternoon. In the Sun. Afternoon, his hymn, "O Master, let me walk with Thee" (walking with God), appeared in 3 st. of 8 l., in Nov., 1879. In his Songs, 1880, i. and iii. are in Laudes Domini, 1884, and others.

Gloria in Excelsis, p. 426, i. Another tr. is "Glory to God in the highest," by Mrs. Charles, in her Christian Life in England, &c., 1868, p. 17.

Gloria, laus et honor, p. 426, i. Additional trr. include (1) "All glory, praise, and honour," as altered from Neale's version, in the Hymnary, 1872, No. 109; and (2) "Thee, O Christ, be glory, praise and honour," in the Diocesan Office, 1743, and the R. C. Parochial & Ch. Hymnal, 1880, (3) "With, hottering, and worships be," by W. Hershert, circa 1330, in Wright and Halliwell's Reliquiae Antiquae, ii. 1845, p. 237; (4) "Praise, glory, and honour, Redeemer, to Thee," by J. Wallace, 1874.

1566 GLORIOSI [APPENDIX II.] GOD BLESS

Gloriosi Salvatoris, p. 427, i. F. W. E. Roth gives, in his Lateinische Hymnen, 1887, p. 37, the readings of a 10th cent. MS. Sessionry, now at Darmstadt, and apparently of the use of Cologne. This text adds a doxology.

Glory to the Father give, p. 422, ii. This hymn was printed on a broadsheet for use at the Sheffield Parish Church Festival and S. School Festival, June 14, 1826, and again for the Sheffield S. S. Union, as stated at p. 423, ii.

Glory to the King of glory! Bp. E. H. Bickersteth. [Ascension.] Written at Fernscarmont, N. Wales, 1865, and pub. in his From East to West, 1865, p. 85, in 6 st. of 4 double lines. It was included in the 1866 ed. of the Hy. Comp.

Glyde, Elizabeth. In the 8 nos. (N. Hs. 7) there is the following note on this writer and her hymn, "He with me in the valley" (Death Anticipated):—"Written by Miss Glyde some ten years before it was published. Miss Glyde was the daughter of Mr. Glyde, of Exeter, more of an Independent chapel there." Sharp, in can. No. 974, gives 1840 as the date of the hymn.

Go, bury thy sorrow. [Resignation.] We find this hymn in T. Hints's Gospel Songs, Cincinnati, 1871, p. 80, in 3 st. of 4 double lines. The words are given anonymously, whilst the music is signed "P. P. B." i.e. P. Bliss. In I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs & Solos this is also the case. There is no authority known to us for attributing the words to Bliss.

Go forth, in spirit go. J. Grindall. [Good Friday.] This appeared in the English Hymnbook H. Bk., 1742, in 6 st. of 4 l., the sixth stanza beginning "That heart our Lord has broke." In 1754 it was altered to "Ye mourners" and the stanza "His blood thy cause will plead," by John Hartley, was substituted. This form of the text is retained in the 1846 ed. of the same book. In Sedan's Universal H. Bk., 1885, No. 255, st. i.–vi. are from the 1742 ed., as above, and st. vii. is the first stanza of the hymn repeated, with slight alterations.

Go then in life's fair morning: (Youth for Christ.) Anon. in W. B. Bradbury's Oriola, 1860; i. D. Sankey's Sac. S. and Solos, 1875, and others. It was apparently suggested by Dr. Simpson's "Go when the morning shineth," No. 1018.

Go to dark Gethsemane, p. 428, ii. Nearly all the alterations in the doctrinal version of this hymn as printed on p. 428 were given in the Leeds Ref., 1853, No. 904, which shows that the revision was originally made for that Ref. and not for the Christian Psalmist.

Goadby, F. W., p. 431, ii. A companion hymn, for Church Restoration, to his hymn, No. 3, on p. 431, ii., is given in Allen's Cong. Psalmist Hyl., 1886, as "Our fathers' Friend and God." Original dated 1874.

Goadby, Thomas, p. 431, ii. He d. at Nottingham, March 16, 1869.

God bless our native land. (National Hymn.) Several hymns opening with this first line are in C. U. The basis of each is the English National Anthem, "God save the King," the music of which dates from "about the beginning of the 18th cent." The earliest text in English form, dating 1836, not being in very general use. The following details and texts are of some interest to hymnologists.

I. The American History and Texts.

i. The Rev. C. T. Brooks, an Unitarian minister, during the time (1836) he was studying at the Divinity School, Cambridge, U.S.A., wrote the following, said to be a tr. from the German:—

"God bless our native land!
Firm may she ever stand
Through storm and night!
When the wild tempests rave,
Ruler of wind and wave,
Father Eternal, save Us by Thy might!

"Lo! our hearts' prayers arise
Into the upper skies,
Where Thou art King.
He Who hath heard each sigh,
Watches each weeping eye;
He is forever nigh, Verger of Right."

ii. The next form of this hymn is by the Rev. J. S. Dwight (p. 1040, ii.), and reads:—

"God bless our native land!
Firm may she ever stand
Through storm and night!
When the wild tempests rave,
Ruler of wind and wave,
Do Thou our country save
By Thy great might!

"For her our prayers shall rise
To God above the skies:
On Him we wait.
Thou Who art ever nigh,
Guarding with watchful eye,
To Thee all hearts are lifted,
Lord save the State!"

The italics in the above indicate the alterations made by C. T. Brooks's text by J. S. Dwight. Putnam says (Songs of the Liberal Faith, 1874, p. 270) that this text "was first introduced, it is supposed, into one of Lowell Mason's singing books." The American authorities date it 1844.

iii. The third form appeared in Hedge and Huntington's Hymns for the Church of Christ, Boston, 1853, No. 603. In this st. i. and st. ii. ll. 1–3 are as in the second form above. The remaining lines read:—

"Thou Who hast heard each sigh,
Watching each weeping eye,
Be Thou for ever nigh,—
God save the State."

iv. The fourth form appeared in the Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, Boston, 1864, No. 251. In this st. i. is from No. ii. as above, st. ii. is altered therefrom, and st. iii. is new:—

St. ii. " For her our prayers shall be,
Our fathers' God, to Thee,
On Thee we wait:
In her walls Holiness;
Her rulers Righteousness;
Her officers be Peace;
God save the State!"

St. iii. " Lord of all truth and right,
In Whom alone is might,
On Thee we call!
Give us prosperity;
But in Thy mercy,
May all the nations go free;
God save us all!"

v. In addition to the foregoing there are a few variations to be found in some American collections. Practically, however, the above is a resume of the history of the American hymn.

II. The English History and Texts.

i. Under the date of Oct. 17, 1840, William Edward Hickson (b. 1803) then of Falkirk, Wexham, Kent, wrote to Daniel Sedgwick, claiming that he was the author of "God bless our native land," which he had seen attributed to J. S. Dwight. Sedgwick pointed out that there were two distinct hymns with the same first line, one of which was certainly American in origin, and that this latter was by Dwight. Hickson's claim was subsequently proved to be the case. Hickson's account of his hymn is "it was written by me in 1838 as a new national anthem," and "appeared in the 'Second Class Tune Book,' No. 3, of the Singing Master." The Singing Master was published in 1839. The text of this hymn is in 4 st. of 4 l. The opening stanza reads:—

"God bless our native land!
May heaven's protecting hand
Still guard our shore!
May peace her power extend,
For be transformed to friend,
And shall the world depend
On Britain's sway."

The full text is in the 1890 Supplt. to the Baptist Ps. & Hys.; the Meth. Free Ch. Hys., 1889; the Cong. Church Hy., 1887, and other collections.

ii. In the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1879, No. 569, is an anonymous hymn which begins:—

"God bless our native land:
Her strength and glory stand
Ever in Thee."

St. ii. is "God smile upon our land," and st. iii. "Thy kingdom come," as in the text.

iii. In the Cong. Church Hy., 1887, No. 644 opens with the same stanza as No. ii., but st. ii. is "God guard our sea-girt land," and st. iii. "God smile upon our land." This is in Christian Hys., 1845.

The texts in these two hymn-books suggest a common original of four or more stanzas, but this original, if it exists, we have not seen. (J. J.)

GOD FORBID [APPENDIX II.] GREENE, THOMAS 1567

God forbid that I should glory. [Glorying in the cross.] In his Songs for the Scottish Parish, Sick, &c., 1876, Dr. Tate says of this hymn, "Anon. Approved to college seniors, circa 1840."

God made me for Himself, to serve Him here. Sir H. W. Baker. [Divine Mission.] Appeared in the Hym. for Mission Churches, &c., No. 47, pub. by the Compilers of H. A. & M., and in the 1860 Suppl. Hym. to H. A. & M.

God moves in a mysterious way, p. 833, i. In the Salisbury Hymn Book this hymn is altered to "God delights to move in mystery."

God of almighty power. [Omnipotence.] This lyric appeared in the English Sup. to Ps. & Hys., in 1855, and in the American Sabbath H. Bk. in the same year. This points to an earlier source from which the hymn was taken by the editors of both collections, but this source we have failed to find.

God of our Fatherland. Dr. E. H. Bickersteth. [National Hymn.] Written in 1871, and pub. in his Hymns from Year to Year, 1883, p. 231, No. 4 of 11. It was sung at the Crystal Palace, on the Jubilee year of the Queen (1887), it was extensively sung to the tune composed for it by Sir George Elvey.

God, Who is just and kind. J. Patrick. [Ps. xxv.] Contr from Ps. xxv. in his Ps. of Israel, 1710.

God, Who modest earth and heaven, p. 660, i. The H. A. & M. form of this hymn is rendered into Latin by "P." in the Guardian, Oct. 1, 1879, as:—Qui coelum et terras, lucem tenebrasque creasti." See p. 1038, i.

Godwin, Elizabeth Ayton, née Etheridge, daughter of William Ellis Etheridge, was b. at Thorpe Hamlet, Norfolk, July 4, 1816, and married to Mr. Godwin, a solicitor, at Halesworth in 1840. She pub. Songs for the Sad, 1851; and Songs amidst Daily Life. Her hymn in C. U. is "My Saviour, hail fifty varied scene" (Lent), written whilst yet a girl, and first printed in the Evangelical Mag., and then in Songs for the Weary, 1873.

Goethe, J. W. von, p. 661, i. The Exeter Unitarian Hys. Pr. and Indian., of 1883 and 1884, contains the several additions to the 1869 ed. of the Hys. of each of which by the Rev. T. W. Chilcott. Some of the versions are very free, and the distinctively Christian character of the few, is only very faintly present in the originals. [J. M.]

Gone is the hollow, murky night. [Morning.] This, in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, No. 178, is composed of st. iv.-viii. of T. Nov. 10, 1889. His hymn-writing was limited to the following:—1. "Breathe on me, Breath of God" (Whitsuntide.) 2. "Breathe on me, Breath of God." (Whitsuntide.) Dr. Hatch's hymns were pub. in his posthumous Towards Fields of Light. Lond. 1890.

Havergal, Frances Ridley, p. 496, i. Miss Havergal's Poetical Works were pub. in 2 vols. in 1884 (Lond., J. Nisbet); and the hymns therein are accompanied by notes. From these vols., and the Rev. Mem., we gather the following facts concerning additional hymns in C. U.:—
1. In God's great field of labour. Work for Christ.

1570 HAVERGAL, W. H. [APPENDIX II.] HILARY, ST.

Written Feb. 27, 1867, and pub. in her Ministry of Song, 1869, and later works. In Sleppy's S. of Grace and Glory, 1872, it begins with st. ii., "Sing to the little children." 2. Jesus, I am resting, resting. Rest in Jesus. Written and relates true incidents "in that life." [Rev. Mem.]

2. Only a mortal's power. Consecration of Self to Christ. Pub. in her Loyal Responses, 1878, in 7 st. of 4 l., and headed "Only." In Common Praise, 1879, st. ii.–iv., are given for Confirmation as, "Only our heart to give."

3. Through the yesterday of ages. Jesus always the same. Written at Leamington, Nov. 1876, and pub. in her Loyal Responses, 1878.

4. What hast Thou done for me, O Thou my mighty Friend. Good Friday. Written at Leamington, Jan. 1877, and pub. in Loyal Responses, 1878.

5. Yes, He knows the way is dreary, p. 498, i. 15. Written at Leamington, Jan. 1877, and pub. in Loyal Responses, 1878, and first printed as one of Parlane's leaflets; then in Lyra Britannica, 1867; and later, in several of her books. It was "suggested by a letter from her niece, A. M. S., at school, and written to console her when weary, lonely, and the only absentee at the rejoicings for her brother J. H. S.'s coming of age." [Rev. Mem.]

Havergal, W. H., p. 498, i. Other hymns are:—
1. Lord, if judgments now are waiting. Second Advent. Pub. in W. Caton Wilson's Ps. & General Psalmody, 1848; in Kennedy, 1863, &c.

2. Remember, Lord, Thy word of old displayed, Missions. "Composed for a special prayer-meeting for missionary labourers, held in the author's schoolroom in the parish of St. Nicholas's, Worcester." (W. H. Havergal's Memorials and Home, 1873, where the original text is also given.)

It must be noted that No. 17, at p. 499, ii., "Sing the trumpet of salvation," was first pub. in A Coll. of Original Airs adapted to Hys., &c., 1856.

Hawkins, Hester T., née Lewis, wife of Joshua Hawkins, of Bedford. In 1865, Mrs. Hawkins pub. The Home H. Bk., A Manual of Sacred Song for the Family Circle. Lond., Novello & Co. To this collection she contributed 14 hymns and tunes, signed "H. T. H." For home use we know of no book of equal comprehensiveness and merit. The music also is well adapted to the family circle.

Hawks, Annie Sherwood, p. 452, ii. Mrs. Hawks, who was an American Baptist, d. in 1872.

Hawley, H. H., author of "There is a hope, a blessed hope" (Hope in Christ), which appeared in A. C. Thomas's Hys. of Zion, 1850, was b. in Lewis County, New York, April 10, 1817. In 1881 he pub. The Irish Songs of Jesus for S. Schools and Incidental Meetings, to which he contributed seven hymns. The music of this collection is mainly by Mr. Hawley.

Hayward. Under this name the hymn "Welcome, delightful morn" (Sunday Morning), was given in Dobell's New Coll., 1806, No. 505, in 3 st. of 6 l., and has been repeated in a few American hymnals, including Hys. of the Faith, N.Y., 1867, and others.

He bids us come, His voice we know. This is taken from "And are our eyes so quickly fed?" p. 85, ii.

He came, the King of Kings. Part of H. F. Lyte's "Whom shall we love like Thee?" p. 797, i. 21.

Hear Thy children's hymn of praise. [Praise.] By Elizabeth Anne Hall, daughter of E. R. Hall of Monkhouse, Cumberland, and wife of Rev. Edward Hall, 1862 to the Rev. G. H. Curteis, M.A., Canon of Lichfield Cathedral, and Principal of the Lichfield Theological College. Mrs. Curteis composed the music to 12 songs and 2 hymns for children. These were pub. in 1869 as The Children's Hour.

Hear us, holy Saviour. [A Child's Prayer.] This hymn is usually attributed to W. Spark, Mus. Doc., of Leeds, but in error. Dr. Spark says he found it in an old Crystal Palace Juvenile Festival Concert Programme, and that he composed the tune for the words at once. Hence the error of associating the authorship with his name.

Hear we (ye) not a voice from heaven. Frances N. Cheltnam. [Early Piety.] Taken from the Family Choir, 1846, for the Sup. Ps. and Hys., 1855.

Heath, George, became pastor of a Presbyterian Church at Honiton, Devon, in 1776, and d. in 1815. He pub. a History of Bristol, 1797. Also Hys. and Poetic Pieces, Chiefly Designed for Private Worship of the Deity, Bristol, 1781, from which "My soul, be on thy guard" (Stedfastness), is taken.

Heavenly Father, all creation. A. T. Russell. [Holy Family.] Contributed to T. Mautton's Choral H. Bk., 1861, No. 713, in 3 st. of 10 l.

Heavenly Father, grant Thy blessing. On the teaching, &c. [Opening of a Sunday School.] Anon. in the American Sunday S. Union Union Hys., 1910.

Hedge, Frederick H., p. 504, i. He d. at Cambridge, U.S.A., Aug. 21, 1890.

Help us, O Lord, with humble minds. [Confession of Sin.] Anon. in Dr. Cotterill's Sel. of Ps. & Hys., Edin., 1810, No. 92, in 6 st. of 4 l. Also in Sleppy's Songs of G. & G., 1872. It is sometimes attributed to T. Cotterill, but upon insufficient authority.

Hensel, Luise, p. 510, ii. No. v. "O Sorge," &c., appeared in Fischer's Songs for Lent, 1844, p. 289.

Herbert, Algernon, s. of Henry Herbert, Earl of Carnarvon, was b. July 15, 1792; educated at Christ Church, Oxford, B.A. 1815; and was a Fellow of Merton 1814–1851. He practised at the Bar for some years, and d. June 21, 1865. He was the author of several poems, some of which, chiefly Welsh, and other subjects, had his hymn-writing was limited.

Hereford Rivetary, pp. 178, ii., 1056, ii.

Hereford Missal, p. 1054, ii.

Here on earth, where foes surround us. [Passion-tide.] By "S. J. W." in the British Magazine, Sept. 1838. In Kennedy, 1863, &c.

Heri mundus, p. 513, i. In the Paris ms. Lat. 1139, of the 11th cent. (T. 170), this hymn begins "Mundus heri lætabatur."

Herr, des Tages Hüter, p. 515, i. This was written in April, 1827.

Herrnschmidt, J. D., p. 515, i. Two additional hymns by this writer have been tr. into English, viz.:—
1. Er wird es thun, der frommte treue Gott. Trust and Consolation. In 1724, No. 399, in 9 st., and the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 634. Tr. as: "Our God is truth, nor faileth in His word," at No. 127 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1886.

2. Wie sollten denn Holden mit freudigen Zungen. In 1724, No. 168, in 10 st., and the Berliner G. L., 1778, No. 598. Tr. as: "With hearts and with voices, O praise ye the Lord," as No. 139 in the Moravian H. Bk., 1886. [J. M.]

Herschell, Esther, née Fuller-Maitland, eldest sister of Frances S. Colquhoun, p. 1057, i., was born in 1803; married to the Rev. Ridley Herschell; and d. April 6, 1862. She contributed anonymously two hymns—(1) "Come, three sorrows, fearless, quell" (Transcendent); and (2) "Jesus, Lord, I look to Thee" (Longing for the Beatific Vision), to the Appendix to her brother's Coll. entitled Hys. for Private Devotion, &c., 1827 (see p. 774, i.)

He's come, let every knee be bent. All hearts now joys, &c. [The Conqueror.] This hymn in 8 st. is found in a small collection of hymns appended to a Sermon by Arthur Bedford, 1705. In its modern form of 4 st. it is in Spangenberg's Coll., 1845, No. 76, the Hys. Praise Bk., 1871, and others.

Hewett. This name, and the date 1836, are given in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, to "Come, poor sinner, come and see" (Invitation), on the authority of D. Sedgwick (q. won.)

Hewett, J. W., p. 525, i. Mr. Hewett d. at Claybrooke, near Lutterworth, April 25, 1886.

Hewlett, Ebenezer, M.A., was educated at King's College, London, and became Rector of St. Paul's, Charlton-on-Medlock, Manchester, 1862. He has written several hymns which have been issued as leaflets. One of these, "Hymn to 1868," Faithful pilgrim, homeward wending" (Pilgrim's Song), was included in Sleppy's Songs of G. & G., 1872.

Heyl, Louis, several of whose trs. from the German are in the Sunday Lutheran Hymnal, Columbus, Ohio, 1868, is a Custom House officer in Philadelphia.

Hic repausaturum generator fons animarum, p. 521, i. Read in addition:—The text of this hymn is found in one of the Epistles of Possitius Meropius Paulinus, and is given in his Epistolæ et Poemata, Paris, 1516, f. 98 b. Also in Migne's P.P. Lat. lxi. col. 325, as one of the Epistles to Severus (Ep. 32). [J. M.]

Hilary, St., p. 522, ii. At the end of the article read on:—A fragment of St. Hilary's Liber Hymnorum has been discovered by Dom Germain Morin, and, apparently written at Monte Cassino about the 11th cent. See his Le Canon de la Messe et la Liturgie Gallicane avant Charlemagne, Rome, 1893, p. 27.

HILL, S. P. [APPENDIX II.] HOSKINS, J. 1571

mysteria et hymni. In this no. there are only two nearly complete hymns, "Ante mercia cyl maxima," and "Adae cerula gloriam," and the second part of an alphabetical hymn, beginning with "F" ["Felicia sacrata, verbum factum et nobis"].

Hill, Stephen P., p. 526, i. b. at Salem, Massachusetts, April 17, 1806; entered the Baptist ministry in 1833, and d. at Washington, District of Columbia, Sept. 18, 1864.

Miller, Philipp F., p. 526, ii. His hymn "Gottes Sohn, in Fleisch gekleidet." (Christmas), from his Liederbüchlein, 1760, is tr. by Dr. Lay, in the Ohio Lutheran Hyb., 1880, as "God in human flesh appearing."

Ritchaliffe, Joseph, a Sheffield manufacturer, and a member of the Wesleyan body, was b. at Sheffield in 1790, and d. there, Dec. 1, 1869. His only hymn in the Prim. Meth. Hyl., 1837, "This is the field, the world below" (Death and the Resurrection), Dorrett and Collins say in their Lyric Studies, 1889, p. 209, "It has been traced to a Tract, entitled Pleasurable Hymns, Odes, and Anthems, as Sung at the Methodist Chapel in Sheffield, Rotherham, Doncaster and Nottingham, 1790, fifth edition, 1797, and unmutilated under the title of this hymn are the words 'By J. Hinchcliffe.'"

Norman, Thos. See Greek Hymnody, § x., 11; xvi. 10.

Holder, Edwin, pub. in 1843 The New Sunday School H. Bk., and in 1850 a New and Enlarged ed. of the same. This contained 200 hymns, 100 of which were each of which is headed with his name. Of these nearly one half have passed into other hymnals for children, including Major, the Sup. S. S. H. Bk., 1889; the S. S. U. Voice of Praise, 1868, and others. Born in 1838.

Hodges, George Samuel, B.A., b. at Walmer in 1827, educated at Jesus College, Cambridge. In 1859 he was preferred to the Vicarage of ruddings, near Maidenhead. His principal work is The County Palatine and Other Poems (sacred and secular), 1876, in it appeared several trs. from the Latin, from English into Latin, and from German. His hymn "Hosanna we sing like the children dear," which is also in the 1875 ed. of H. A. & M.. A hymn for Lent, "All my sins uprising new," is in the Durham Mission H. Bk., 1885, and others. His fine offertory hymn "Eternal" assembled with songs of thanksgiving," written by Dr. Dykes's tune "St. Lazarus," was sung at the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy in Lichfield Cathedral, and subsequently at Coventry, &c. It is printed in the Lichfield Festival Bk., but is not included in any hymnal. He d. Dec. 18, 1870.

Hoffman, Elisha Albright, author of "Have you been to Jesus for the cleansing power?" (Holiness desired), in I. D. Sankey's Sac. Songs and Solos, 1881, was b. in Pennsylvania, May 7, 1839.

Hole, Samuel Reynolds, D.D., b. at Ardwick, near Manchester, 1819, educated at Brasenose College, Oxford, B.A., 1844; D.D. by Abp. of Canterbury, 1887. He was Curate of Caunton, Notts, 1844-1850, and Vicar 1850-87. In 1887 he became Dean of Rochester. Previous to this he had held several important appointments. He has pub. some prose works, including Hints to Preachers, &c., 1880; A Book about Roses, 1869; A Little Tour in Ireland, 1859; Our Sunday Afternoons, 1867; Memories of Dean Hole, 1892, and Then and Now (a novel), appeared in the 1889 Sunday Hym. to H. A. & M. D. July 27, 1904.

Hiltz, Ludwig H. C., p. 530, i. Concerning the trs. of his hymn "Ueb' immer Treu," we note that No. 1 is found in the German Songster, Berlin, 1798, p. 12; No. 2 is by Joseph Gostick, in his Spirit of German Poetry, 1846, p. 130.

Holy Father, hear me. Ps. F. H. Hilderstith. Written in 1872, and pub. in the Sunday Sch. Hymn Bk. for the Poor, 1883, p. 141; and the Ps. Comp., 1898.

Holy Jesus, Saviour blest, p. 531, i. This hymn was included in Dr. Mant's Holyday of the Church, vol. i., 1838, and then in his Ancient Hym., &c., 1837.

Holy Saviour, Thou hast told us. [Divine Worship.] From the S. S. Union Hymns, 1841.

Holy terrors of consolation. [Whitsuntide.] Anon. from S. Bartlett's Sel., 1844.

Home at last, thy loving arms. I. D. Sankey. [Death and the Resurrection.] Written on the dying words of a young convert (Maggie Lindsay), who lost her life in the railroad catastrophe at Mannel, Jan. 27, 1874." Included with a note in his Sac. & Sol. Solos, 1875.

Homo Dei creatura, p. 532, i. From Caswall's tr., "Creature of God, &c." three centos are given in the R. C. Parochial H. Bk., 1883, as (1) "When to the silence of the tomb?" (2) "The angels, while with tearful eyes:" (3) "Alas! what tongue of man can speak."

Hone, William, 1780-1842, is given in The Church Praise Bk., N.Y., 1882, as the author of "The proudest heart that ever beat" (Salvation), therein.

Hope, Alexander James Beresford, M.P., b. Jan. 25, 1820, educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, B.A. M.P. for his University for several years, and d. Oct. 26, 1887. He is connected with hymnology through his Hys. of the Church, literally translated, for the use of English Congregations. Lond., J. & F. Rivington. 1844. None of these trs. have come into C. U. See Index of Authors and Translators. In the Cambridge Hymnal Mr. Beresford is referred to as "Alexander James Beresford-Hope, M.P."

Hope, Henry Jay McCracken, a bookbinder, s. of James Hope, was b. near Belfast, Ireland, in 1846; was in the employ of Messrs. Chambers, Dublin, for many years, and d. at Shannonagroon, Donaghy, County Antrim, Ireland, Jan. 19, 1873. His hymn, "Now I have found a friend" (Jesus the Friend) was privately printed in 1862. It seems to have been suggested by Miss Havergal's "I have found a friend." p. 535, i., 9, 10, 11, 12, of which is sometimes associated with it.

Hopkins, John Henry, D.D., Jun., s. of J. H. Hopkins, sometime Bishop of Vermont, was b. at Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 28, 1820, educated at the University of Vermont, ordained in 1850, Rector of Christ's Church, Williamsport, Pa., 1876, and d. at Troy, New York, Aug. 13, 1891. He has pub. Carols, Hymns, and Songs, 1857; Hymns more than Forty Years, N.Y., James Pott, 1881; and Carols, Hymns, and Songs, 1862; 3rd ed. 1865. Of his hymns the following are in C. U.:—

1. Move on, thou [ye] mighty Wind. Missions.
2. Come with us, O blessed Jesus. Holy Communion.
3. Glory to God the Father be. (Dated 1867.) Holy Trinity.
4. God hath made the moon whose beam. (Dated 1846.) Unity.
5. Lord, now round Thy Church behold. (Dated 1867.) For the Re-union of Christendom.

These hymns are in his Poems by the Wayside, 1883. In the same volume there are trs. of the O Antiphons. See pp. 75-76.

Hora novissima, tempora pessima, p. 533, i. It is found in the Sarum Hours, Paris, 1527, fol. 172 (Lit. Cotton 1106), and Horæ, 1531, f. 44 b (12th cent.), the Brit. Nat. Paris ms. Lat. 14866 of the 12th cent., and others of later date. The complete text is also in T. Wright's Anglicanian Satirical Poets, Lond. 1872, ii. pp. 2-32. Centos from Dr. Neale's tr. of the poem, additional to those given on p. 534, include:—

1. Christ comes, O belter country. In the Salisbury H. Bk., 1857.
2. O sweet and blessed country. In Hys. & Songs of Praise, N. Y., 1874.

Huss, John, was b. of humble parents at Husssinetz, Bohemia, circ. 1373, and educated at the University of Prague, where he became in 1396 M.A., in 1401 Dean of the Philosophical Faculty, and in 1402 Rector of the University. He became a Reformer, partly through the conduct of his fellow clergy, and partly through the study of WIKLIFE's writings, which he translated and circulated. In 1414, at the citation of Pope John XXIII., he appeared at the Council of Constance, refusing to recant he was burnt to death on July 6 (his birthday) 1415. A hymn generally ascribed to Huss is noted at p. 598, i.

Hutchings, William Mollen, s. of William Hutchings, was b. at Devonport, Aug. 29, 1827, and d. May 21, 1876. Mr. Hutchings was engaged for some time as a printer and publisher in London. His well-known hymn, "When mothers of Salem their children brought to Jesus," was written for the Sunday School Centenary anniversary service of St. Paul's Chapel Sunday School, Wigan, in 1860, and was pub. in a revised form in the Juvenile Missionary Magazine of June 1860. A full account of the original and the revised texts is given in a note in W. F. Stevenson's Hys. for Church and Home, 1873. Another hymn by Mr. Hutchings, "We have a Saviour, we have a Comforter" (Holy Spirit), appeared in the S. S. Union Voice of Praise, 1868.

Hutton, James, p. 545, ii. Concerning his hymns we have to note:—(1) that No. 3 (p. 546, i.) appeared in the Moravian H. Bk., 1754, Pt. ii., No. 548, as "Ah Love! come, sweetly bind me"; and that in some modern collections it begins "O gracious Saviour (Shepherd), bind me:" (2) and that No. 4 also appeared in 1754, No. 294, as, "How shall the young men cleanse their ways."

Hutton, William Pepperell, sometime Vicar of St. Bridget's, Chester, b. Aug. 7, 1804, d. Aug. 7, 1856. His hymn, "Child of sorrow, love, forsaken" (Comforter in Affliction), is in Drummond & Grenfell's Ch. of England Hy. Bk., 1852.

Hymnarium. In regard to the nos. (1) at p. 647 we have received word that Jebb's MS. (a) that in Trinity College, and (b) that in the Franciscan Convent (St. Isidore's). On a recent visit to Ireland the Rev. G. M. Dreves, S.J. (see p. 663, i., &c.) kindly collated both mss. Besides the hymns indexed at pp. 647-651, they contain also:—

1. "Alleluia pangamus omnitus." 2. "Adoral Domine." 3. "Ad cenam Agni." 4. "Christo qui lux es et dies." 5. "Christi Puerle in dextera." 6. "Iesu fulgor claritatis." 7. "Hymnum dicat turba fratrum." 8. "Placidi dies fert orbita."

Of these No. 7 is contained in both mss.; Nos. 1, 2, 5, 6, 8 only in a; Nos. 4, 5 only in b. No. 2 is marked as by "Gregorius Papa," and No. 3 as by "Augustinus," and is an alphabetical hymn in rhythmical prose.

Another ms. of interest has been collated since this article was electrotyped, viz., the Arundel 155 in the Brit. Mus. This contains, at ff. 147-149, a Hymnarium written in England in the 13th cent. The hymns therein contained are all indexed at pp. 647-651, except the following:—

1. "Decantemus en cantemla." 2. "Fera presencia colebret dial." 3. "Panditur mundus simul omnis illi." 4. "Per te nitescat fex Deus." All of these are noted at pp. 551-554, but from later mss.

Note also that at p. 548 the hymn contained in the ms. b* in the Christe Redemptor omnium, Conserva (see Christe . . .), in Pars A, p. 551, under (a) read "a Hymnarium of circa 1240."

In the fair morning of our youth. [Early Piety.] Anon. in Allen's Children's Worship, 1875.

In the mid silence of the voiceless night. [Midnight.] This beautiful tyric is known in the following forms:—

1. In Forster's Hys. and Poems for the Sick and Suffering, 1844, it begins:—

"In the mid silence of the voiceless night,
When busy day dreams the slumbers flee."

This in Thring's Coll., 1882, No. 18, for Private Use.

2. The second form is No. 1270 in H. W. Beecher's Plymouth Coll., 1855, in 4 st. of 4 l., beginning:—

"In silence of the voiceless night,
When from my wakeful eyes the slumbers flee."

3. The third form is in the American Unitarian Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 184, in 4 st. of 4 l., as:—

"In the still silence of the voiceless night,
When from my wakeful eyes the slumbers flee."

4. The fourth form is in Martineau's Hymns, &c., 1873, No. 599:—

"In the dead silence of the voiceless night."

It is composed of the Hys. of the Spirit text, and st. iii. of No. 1 as above as st. iii.

This was repeated with slight alterations in Kennedy, 1863; and again in the Wes. H. Bk., 1876.

Ingelow, Jean, daughter of W. Ingelow, Boston, Lincolnshire, was b. in 1826. Her writings are well and favourably known. Her first work was a volume of poems, 1850, and A Story of Doom and other Poems, 1867. From her Poems, 1863, the cento "And died Thou love the race that loved not Thee" (Love of Christ) in the Cong. Ch. Hy., 1887, is taken.

Inglis, Catherine H., née Mahon, daughter of the Rev. A. Mahon, was b. at Roscommon, June 10, 1815, and was married in 1844 to Captain Inglis. Mrs. Inglis's hymns were mostly printed as leaflets for enclosing in letters, &c. Several of these were collected and pub. in a volume entitled Hymns and Poems for the Sick, Edinburgh, J. Taylor, [2nd ed. 1864]; and again, One Hundred Songs in Sorrow and in Joy. By C. H. I., Edinburgh, J. Taylor, 1866, in which several new hymns are incorporated with selections from the former vol. Mrs. Inglis died at Clifton, and was buried near Bristol, on Holyday's Hill, in May, 1883. Her unused text "(1880) (abiding in Christ); and "Heir of glory, sit thou weeping?" D. Sep. 25, 1883.

Ireau, Genevieve Mary, daughter of Dr. W. J. Ireau, and granddaughter of J. Ireau, was b. at Brompton, Dec. 29, 1855. A few of her earliest pieces were contributed to the Sunday Magazine, 1878, and later. Her Manual for Holy Communion is entitled Corpus Christi, 1884. Her hymn, "Drawn to the Cross which Thou hast blessed" (Consecration of Self to Christ) was written in 1880, and published in the Sunday Magazine. It was afterwards included in her Corpus Christi, 1884. Alluding to this hymn (which was included in the Pres. Meth. Hymnal, 1887) Miss Ireau has written "I always feel that hymn is part of me . . . It contains expressions and allusions which to my mind are only capable of a Catholic meaning: but I am tolerably certain that many who would not be sympathetic to the hearts of many who would probably differ from me on most points of doctrine." For these details we are indebted to Bertrand & Cullum's Lyric Readers, 1889.

Irons, W. J., p. 571, ii. Of the hymns noted under his name, Nos. 13, 21, and 36, appeared in Cleape's Hys., 1863.

Methodist Hymnody, pp. 726–732. Recent publications include:—

1. Lyric Studies, &c. By I. Derricott and T. Collins, Leeds, 1889. This is a hand-book to the Prim. Meth. Hyl., 1887. The biographical and illustrative Notes are well done, but its hymnological criticism is weak.

2. Methodist Free Church Hymns, Lond., 1889. From the congregational standpoint this is a good collection, and well edited.

3. The General Hymnary for Missions and Special Services, Lond., 1890. "Compiled by a Sub-Committee of the General Book Committee" of the Wesleyan Conference. Of the usual missionary character, without any features of special merit or excellence.

Might God, while angels bless Thee. H. Robinson. [Glory of God. Christmas.] Miller, in his Singers and Poets, 1869, p. 75, says that this is by "Robinson, in his &c. Catalogue thus refers to this hymn as an Unitarian Hymn, set to music by Dr. Boyce, and, with the notes, engraven on a copperplate half-sheet." The date added by Miller is 1772. The hymn is in J. Middleton's Hymns, 1793, No. 137, in 5 st. of 4 l., with the refrain "Hallelujah, H. H. Amen," and the signature "Robinson." In 1795 it was altered to "Might God, while angels bless Thee," in Sup. Hymn Writers, &c., 1866, pp. 75, 76, which he regards as the original. (See also the Unitarian H. Bk., Boston, U. S. A., 1795.) Dr. Belcher (p. 133, i.) says the hymn was written by Robinson in 1774, and altered by Boyce, and was sung at the Lock Chapel, Hackney, and, when the latter was in favour, and asserts that he had the information from Williams himself. The hymn is widely used, as is also the form therefrom from "Lord of every land and nation." (See Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, for full text.)

Miller, Emily, née Huntington, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Huntington, D.D., was b. at Brooklyn, Connecticut, U.S., in 1833, and married in 1858 to Professor Hillier. 8. Jesus bids us shine. Early Piety.
9. Stay, trembling soul, and do not fear. Holy Communion.
10. Work and never weary, though thy strength be small. Perseverance.

Of these hymns, No. 7 is in the 1878 Additional Hys., and Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10 in the 1878 Hymns for Children, 1881 ; No. 1 in Common Praise, 1879 ; and Nos. 4, 5, 6, and 10, in B. Hodder's New S. S. H. Bk., 2nd ed., 1886.

Milner, George, b. in Manchester, 1859. From an early age he devoted his leisure to educational work in connection with Evening Classes, Mechanics' Institutes, in Manchester. He has pub. A Glossary of the Lancashire Dialect (in conjunction with Mr. A. H. Sodal); Lancashire Memorials, &c., 1882; Lancashire Memorials. A Record of Sunday School Work Manchester, 1886. His Supplementary Book of Hys. and Songs for Home and School, &c., 1884, contains three of his hymns :—(1) "Christ is risen ! Christian, rise" (Easter), (2) "Say not that we from heaven are far" (Imagination and Cheerfulness); (3) "When Jesus left the flattering crowd" (Abiding the Tempter).

Missions, Foreign, p. 764, i. At the end of line 30 in col. i. read "for this article was in type we received from the Rev. J. M. Oldfather, of Tabriz, in Western Persia, additional information in regard to the hymns used in connection with that mission." These hymns are now current in this region, and to meet the want thus occasioned three hymnals have been prepared. (1) One in Modern Syriac, mentioned in § ii., on Persia, p. 753, and now containing 302 hymns, nearly all being trs. of English hymns. Last, 'ed. pub. in 1891. (2) A hymnal in Modern Syriac for the Nestorian Christians. [See Syriac Hymnody.] English tunes and tunes are used, but the Nestorians have a chant peculiar to the Oriental scale, which they use in singing the Psalms, and which, in the opinion of Mr. Oldfather, "helps to make their devotion more real to them." (3) A hymnal in Azirbaizan Turkish, chiefly used at Urumiah, and containing 200 hymns, nearly all being trs. of English hymns, but a few being renderings by natives of Psalms and other passages of Holy Scripture. (4) A hymnal in Armenian, containing 422 hymns, described in § vi., p. 764, on Asia Minor and Armenia. [W. R. S.]

Mitchell, Elizabeth Harcourt, née Rolls, daughter of John E. W. Rolls, of the Hendre, Monmouth, was b. Dec. 15, 1835, and married to F. J. Mitchell, of Llanfrechfa Grange, Caerleon, Monmouthshire, in 1860. Mrs. Mitchell's prose works, pub. by Masters, Hayes, and the S.P.C.K., include Tales of Heroism, Red Cross Knights, First Fruits, Field Pieces, The Ballad of the Battle of Trafalgar. To Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881, she contributed the following :—

1. As Hebrew children strewed their palms. Church and Home.
2. In the desert all alone. St. John Baptist.
3. King of glory, Saviour dear. Martyrs.
4. Come to the Manger in Bethlehem. Christmas Carol.
5. Good news from the hills of Judea. Christmas Carol.

To the Altar Hymnal, 1884, in addition to trs. from the Latin (see Index of Authors and Translators), Mrs. Mitchell contributed the following original hymns :—

6. As Abel brought the lamb to Thee. Harvest.
7. Jesus, glorious Prince of angels. Processional for St. Michael and All Angels.
8. Lamb most holy, King most lowly. All Saints.

Mitchell, James Alexander, M.A., b. in Edinburgh, Nov. 19th, 1848, and since a Congregational Minister in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Manchester, and now Editor of an Ironmonger. One of these, written in 1881, appears in W. R. Stevenson's School Hymnal, 1886, "All things bless Thee, God most holy" (Praise to the Father).

Μόνο Χριστὲ, p. 760, ii. Another tr. is "Christ, Thou Son of God, that reignest," by A. Stevenson, in his New Hys. of Synesius, &c., 1865.

Moberly, Charles Edward, M.A., s. of W. Moberly and nephew of the late Sir W. Moberly of Salisbury, b. in 1839, and educated at Balliol College, Oxford (B.A. 1860). He was successively Assistant Master at Harrow, and then Rector of Cole-Sagora, Gloucestershire. He retired from the latter in 1881. His hymn "If Thou, O God, wert all sinned" (Faith) was contributed to Hys. for the Use of Rugby School, 1876.

Moffat, Robert, D.D., b. at Ormskirk, Dec. 21, 1795, and d. Aug. 9, 1883. Dr. Moffat was engaged for nearly fifty years as a missionary in South Africa, a translator of the Bible into the Sechuana language, and for the London Missionary Society's congregations in that country. He contributed thereto upwards of 100 original and translated hymns (see p. 756, ii.). His English hymn for children, "Can I, a little child?" (Missions) is very popular; it is dated 1841.

Magridge, George, commonly known as "Old Humphrey," and as "Peter Parley," was b. at Ashted, near Birmingham, in 1795. He was a shoemaker in London for some time, and then removed to London, and devoted himself to literature. His numerous writings were pub. by the R. T. S. He d. Nov. 2, 1864, and his Memoirs were pub. by the Rev. C. Williams, in 1866. Some of his sacred pieces appeared in his work, My Pocket Book, 1841. One of these, "The Son of God, the Lord of Life," is in the Meth. Epis. Hymnal, 1878, No. 1, st. iii., iv.

Mole, Joseph, p. 760, ii. The tr. "Still night, starry and bright," in Farmer's Views & Songs for High Schools, 1861, p. 56, is by Archdeacon Farrar.

Monod, Adolphe, s. of Jean Monod, was b. in Copenhagen, Jan. 21, 1802. For sometime pastor of a Protestant Church in Naples, in 1827 he removed to Lyons, where he suffered persecution. In 1836 he became Theological Lecturer at Montauban, and subsequently pastor of the Church of the Oratoire, Paris. He d. in 1856. In his pains, I cast Dies "(Praise to God), was tr. by H. Downton as "God of my health [life] I would Thy praise proclaim," and pub. in his Hys. & Verses, 1875.

Monod, Theodore, s. of F. Monod, Pastor in the French Reformed Church, was b. in Paris, Nov. 6, 1836, and educated for the ministry at Western Theological Seminary, Allegheny, Pennsylvania. He entered the ministry in 1860, and has been many years a Pastor in Paris.

Montgomery, J. E., p. 762, ii. Additional hymns in C. E. include :—

1. Blessed Lord, Who, till the morning. Holy Scriptures. From his Spiritual Songs, 1857.
2. Christ incarnate in His poor. Christ in His Poor. From his Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863.
3. We ask for life, and mean thereby. Life and Work. From his Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863.

Moore, Edward Caldwell, S.T.D., LL.D., s. of Dr. B. Moore, was b. in New York, Aug. 11, 1779, and educated at Columbia College. In 1811 he became Professor of Biblical Learning in the General Theological Seminary, N. York; subsequently of Hebrew and Greek; and then of Oriental and Greek Literature. He d. at Newport, Rhode Island, July 10, 1862. His hymn "Lord of life, all praise excelling" (Harvest), is widely known, both in its full form, and abbreviated as "When the harvest yields the pleasure." It first appeared as one of the thirty hymns added to the American Prayer Bk. Coll. in 1808.

Moorsom, Robert Maxlo, M.A., s. of Admiral Moorsom, was b. at Cosgrove Priory, Feb. 3, 1811, and educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A. 1833. After Deacon's Taking Holy Orders in 1837, he was Curate of Pocklington-Pyrille, Lancashire, 1837–39; Burnham-Beeches, Norfolk, 1841; and Rector of Sadlergate, Durham) 1841–61. Mr. Moorsom pub. in 1848 A Historical Companion to the Hymns commonly used and set forth in the Church, compiled on The Writers of H. A. & M., according to their Churches, and contributed to the 1889 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M.

Motherless, Henry Lyman, D.D., b. at Stanford, Dutchess County, New York, Oct. 2, 1834, and entered the Baptist ministry in 1864. His hymn "Friend of sinners, hear my plea" (Pardon desired), was printed in the Examiner, and then included in Good as Gold, 1864. Dr. Mortelmans is also the author of several other hymns.

Morgan, David Thomas, b. Sep. 17, 1809, d. Nov. 14, 1886. In 1886 Mr. Morgan's trs. from the Latin were pub. as Hymns and Poems of the Latin Church. Translated by D. T. Morgan. Arranged according to the Calendar of the Church of England. Lond., Rivington, 1886. About one-half of these trs. had been previously printed for private circulation in his Hyp. of the Latin Church, Translated by David T. Morgan, with the Original appended, 1871.

Morice, Francis David, M.A., was b. in 1840; educated at New College, Oxford; ordained in 1872; and became assistant master at Rugby in 1874. To the 1876 ed. of Hys. for the Use of Rugby School he contributed (1) "Give me unto my cry" (Ps. lxv.); and (2) "O Lord, my God! if fear or shame" (St. Peter).

Morris, David, of Llanrwst, pub. in 1773, a collection of hymns under the title of Y Drysorfa y Perswadion, or The Pilgrim's Treasury. [W. R. H.]

Moxley, Robert, M.D., b. Aug. 31, 1815, is a native of the Presbyterian Church, and an extensive writer on Freemasonry. In 1860 he visited the Holy Land on behalf of the Freemasons of America, the outcome of which was his work, Freemasonry on the Holy Land. He is the author of some 300 poetical pieces. One of these, "Each gentle dove and sighing turtle," (Freemasonry), is in R. B. Palmer's Songs of Love, for the Bible School, by Sankey's Sac. Songs and Solos, 1874.

Mortal, if ever thy spirits faint. Cardinal Newman. [Mercy.] Written at Littlemore, 27th Sunday after December 1839, and pub. in the Lyra Apostolica, 1836, p. 33 (ed. 1876, p. 35), in 3 st. of 4 l. Also in Card. Newman's Verses on Various Occasions, 1868, p. 91.

Mozambic Secretary, p. 170, ii.

Mozley, Harriet, see Newman, sister of Cardinal Newman, and wife of the Rev. Thomas Mozley, d. in 1892. In 1836 she pub. Hymns for Children on the Lord's Prayer, Our Duty towards God, and Scripture Facts, and in 1837 Hymns for the Seasons and Holydays. From that volume—(1) "Think upon Eve and Adam's sin," Songs of Love, for the Bible School, by Sankey's Sac. Songs and Solos, 1874, p. 31.

Much in sorrow, oft in woe, p. 779, ii. From this "Christian, let your heart be glad," is taken.

Mudie, Charles E., p. 778, i. He d. at 21, Mansefield Gardens, Hampstead, Oct. 28, 1890. His hymn, "I lift my heart to Thee, &c.," was written in Oct., 1871.

Must I be carried to the skies? A centо from "Am I a soldier of the Cross," p. 60, ii.

Must Jesus bear the cross alone? Tis Cross no Crown. By Thos. Shepherd. Given in the following forms:—1. In 2 st. of 4 l. in R. W. Baxter's Plymouth Coll., 1855, No. 770, where it is signed "C. N. Allen." American authorities infers as that this was taken from G. N. Allen's collection The Social and Sabbath H. Book, 1871, No. 1, and not from the 1855 ed. of Bp. Hall's Penitential Cries, 1805, No. 21, vi. 151; and (2) is found in a missionary collection pub. at Norwich (England), circa 1810. To these three stanzas three others were added in the Plymouth Coll., which are ascribed to the editor's brother, C. Bowater (p. 130, ii.).

2. In the American Meth. Epis. Hy., 1878, the 3 st. from Allen's collection as above are given as by "Thomas Shepherd, alt." G. N. Allen was b. in 1812, and d. in 1877.

3. In the Oberlin Manual of Praise, 1880, No. 418 is composed of 4 st., of which st. ii. is unknown to the Plymouth Coll.

My faith shall triumph o'er the grave. From "Great God I own Thy sentence just," p. 1327, No. 90.

My Father, when I hear Thy voice. This hymn is No. 59, in 2 st. of 8 l., in the Songs of Zion. A Set of Hys. for Pub. Worship. Alphabetically arranged. By Zion Church Minister. 3rd ed. enlarged. Dublin Tract Repository, n. d.

My God, in any hour so sweet, p. 760, i. In Elliott's Fs. & Hys., 1835, No. 294.

My God, my Father, be not cast. Sp. E. H. Bickersteth. [Spiritual Service.] Written in 1841 for the Church of England Sunday S. Institute. Pub. in his From Year to Year, 1841, p. 160, and his Hy. Comp., 1880.

My God, my grateful heart I'll raise. [Daily Prayer.] From the Magdalene Coll., 1781, p. 116.

My God! though clearing to the dust. [Lent.] This is by Anna Laetitia Barbauld, and was sent to its possessor, in three MS. versions, as a New Year's gift. It was first pub. in her Hys. and Verse, 1072.

My God, the spring of all my joys. [Waiting for a Revival.] Appeared in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. ii., No. 82, in 7 st. of 4 l., and headed, "Hoping for a Revival." From it the hymn "While I to it my soul gave way," sometimes "While to its grief my soul gave way," beginning with st. iv., is taken. In the Preface to the Olney Hymns Newton says: "My grief and disappointment [at the downfall of Cowper's health and mind] were great; I hung my harp upon the willows, and for a time could not be persuaded (without a call, I felt, hymn-writing) no further without him. Yet my mind was afterwards led to resume the service." On comparing this extract with this hymn it seems very probable that this was his first effort after resuming his sometime abandoned work.

My Hiding-place, my Refuge Tower. Part of "Begin, my tongue, some heavenly theme," p. 126, ii.

My Lord, my God, my Love. [Christ All in All.] From the Catholic Churchist, 1842.

My opening eyes with rapture see. [Sunday Morning.] Appeared in the Olney Hymns, 1779, Bk. i., No. 69. Sheffield (Misc. Poems, 1888) says it is in the Appendix to D. Benham's Memoirs of Hollon, 1856, but we have failed to find it in any English edition of that work. It is in J. Cadman's Boston Coll., 1815, in 6 st. Its modern form of 4 st. is from the American Prosper Sb. Coll., 1824.

My son, give me thine heart, and let. J. Montgomery. [Sunday S. Anniversary.] Written for the Sheffield Wesleyan Sunday S. Anniversary, held on March 8, 1834.

My son, know thou the Lord. [Early Piety Enforced.] Anon. in Rebecca Wilkinson's Short Sermons to Children, &c., circa 1795 (see p. 1038, ii.) at the end of Ser. xvi. In J. Benson's Hys. for Children and Young Persons, &c., 1806, No. 64, it is given with others as by "Brackenbury." As this was her first years before R. C. Brackenbury's death (see p. 168, i.), and both he and his wife were in the habit of writing hymns for, and to each other, we hold this to be good proof of Brackenbury's authorship.

My soul and all its powers. A centо from "God of my life, to Thee," p. 453, i.

My soul doth long for Thee. An altered form of "My spirit longeth for Thee," p. 793, i.

My soul, praise the Lord, speak good of his Name. [Ps. ciii.] This in Kennedy, 1863, No. 1023, is an altered form of W. Kethe's paraphrase of Ps. civ, in the Ch. V.

My spirit to Thy chastening stroke. J. D. Burns. [Submission.] From his Vision of Prophecy, &c., engraved, 1844.

My throne of spirits round the throne. B. Beddome. [The Church Triumphant.] Appeared in B. Hall's posthumous edition of Beddome's Hymns, &c., 1817, No. 975, in 6 st. of 4 l. Sometimes given as "A host of spirits round the throne."

Mysteries, and Miracle Plays, p. 207, ii.

Mysterious Presence, Source of all. [Before Sermon.] This hymn in the American Unitarian Hy. & Tune Book, 1868, is attributed therein to "S. C. Beach."

N

Nathan, El: or El Nathan, a nom de plume of H. W. Whittle, q.v.

Near, Elias Eiksliaen, sometime Professor in the Gymnasium, Odense, Funen, Denmark, who d. in 1726, was the author of "Naar min Tunge ikke mere" (Isaiah Anticipated), tr. by S. Bartag-Gould in the People's Hyl., 1867, as "When my tongue can no more confess."

Neale, Cornelius, M.A., s. of James Neale, of St. Paul's Churchyard, was b. Aug. 12, 1789, and educated at St. John's, Cambridge; B.A. 1811; Sen. Wrangler; Fellow of St. John's, 1813; M.A. 1815. He took Holy Orders in 1822, and became Curate of Millhall, near Newmarket. He d. Aug. 8, 1823. His Lyrical Dramas, Sacred and Miscellaneous, edited by Archdeacon Hare, were pub. in 1818, and his Memoirs and Remains in 1824. In the latter the following hymns are found:—(1) "And There dost still forgive" (Pardon), 1824; (2) "O happy land above, My soul would fain be there" (Heaven destined), 1824; (3) "Thou hast a crown for me" (Heaven destined). The two last-named of these hymns are also in his son's (Dr. J. M. Neale's) Hys. Chiefly Mod. on the Joys & Glories of Paradise, 1865.

Newman, John Henry, p. 808, ii. He d. at Edgbaston, Birmingham, Aug. 11, 1890.

Newton, J., p. 803, i. Another hymn in C. U. from the Olney Hys., 1779, is "Let me dwell on Golgotha" (Holy Communion).

Nicholas, T. G., p. 804, ii., d. at West Molesey, Jan. 23, 1881.

Nicholson, James, an American Methodist minister, is the author of (1) "Dear [Lord] Jesus I long to be perfectly white" (Holiness desired); and (2) "There's a land that is fairer than day" (Heaven), both of which are in D. Sankey's Sac. S. and Solos, 1878.

Nicoll, Robert, was b. Jan. 7, 1814, at Auchtergaven, Perthshire. At the age of 13 he began to write verse. In 1833 he opened a circulating library in Dundee, and in the following year he became the editor of the Leeds Times. This he retained for a short time only. Broken in health through taxing his strength too much, he d. in 1837. He was a successful writer, and is often referred to as "a second Burns." His Poems and Lyrics were pub. in 1835 in 2nd ed., with numerous additions and corrections, in 1842; 3rd ed. From these Poems the following pieces are taken:—

1. An offering to the shrine of power. The Reformers.
2. I may not scorn the meanest thing. Humility. This and No. 1 date 1835.
3. Lord, from Thy blessed throne. (People's Anthem.) 1845.]

Nicoll, Robert Pentland, was b. Sept. 18, 1838, and educated for the legal profession. He practised at Providence, Rhode Island. His hymn, "Precious promise God hath given," (Promise of Rest), was written whilst travelling in a street car, circa 1871, and is given in I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, 1875.

No need of the sun in that day. Part of C. Wesley's "Away with our sorrow and fear," p. 106, ii.

No room for mirth or trifling here. Part of "And am I only born to die?" p. 65, ii.

Noel, Caroline Maria, daughter of the Hon. Gerard T. Noel (p. 807, ii.), and niece of the Hon. Baptist W. Noel, was b. in London, April 10, 1817, and d. at 39 Great Cumberland Place, Hyde Park, Dec. 20, 1877. Her first hymn, "Dear sigh unto my soul" (Individual), was written when she was 17. During the next three years she wrote about a dozen pieces: from 20 years of age to 40 she wrote nothing; and during the next 20 years the rest of her pieces were written. The first edition of her compositions was pub. as The Hymns of Jesus and Other Poems, 1851, and contained 12 pieces. This was enlarged from time to time, and its title subsequently changed by the publishers to The Name of Jesus and Other Poems. The 1870 ed. contains 79 pieces. Miss Noel, in common with Miss Charlotte Elliott, was a sufferer for many years, and her verses were written in the midst of her pain. They are especially adapted "for the Sick and Lonely" and were written rather for private meditation than for public use, although several are suited to the latter purpose. Her best known hymn is the Processional for Ascension Day, "At the Name of Jesus." It is in the enlarged edition of The Name of Jesus, &c., 1870, p. 39, and is dated 1870 by her brother.

Norman, John, was a student at the Baptist College, Bristol, and entered the Baptist ministry, as assistant to D. Turner, in 1777. He was afterwards, for a short time, assistant to the Rev. T. Gibbs, of Plymouth, in which town he d. in the spring of 1793. In Rippon's Bapt. Coll., 1793, appeared a hymn on Holy Baptism, "Thus it becomes the Prince of grace," in 4 st. of 4 l., and signed "Plymouth." It is still in use in America in an abbreviated form. [W. R. H.]

Not all the powers of hell can fright. Part of "Are there not in the labourer's day?" p. 76, ii.

Not far from Jordan's ford. Sp. E. H. Bickersteth. [St. Andrew.] Written in 1855. In his From Year to Year, 1868, and his Hy. Comp., 1880.

Not heaven's wide range of hallowed space. [Opening of a Place of Worship.] Sometimes attributed to C. Wesley, but on insufficient evidence.

Not in the Churchyard shall he sleep. [Burial of Sin.] Anon. in the Amer. Cheshire Association Unitarian Hym., 1844, and later collections.

Not till the evening that is still. J. Keble. [The Church and Mission Work.] Written Jan. 30, 1834, and pub. in his Christian Year, 1827, for the 2nd S. in Advent. The concluding 12 lines, beginning "Ye who pour Love's communion hear," are in his Lyra Il. Ho., 1853, and others.

Not to mount Zion's (Sinai's) flaming height. Part of J. Bowring's "Children of God, who pacing slow," p. 166, i. 2.

Now let the Christian's hope abound. [Confidence and Hope.] This appeared in Hall's Wks. & Mo., 1808, No. 130, in 4 st. of 4 l., and again in several later collections. It is usually ascribed to E. Osler. In the H.A.& M. it is given as by Doddridge, but we can find nothing corresponding thereto in his Hymns.

Now let us raise our voices high. Elias Gager. [Harvest.] From the Evang. Mag., 1796, p. 440, but the date of Gager's death is unknown. Another hymn by Elias Gager, several of whose hymns were pub. in the Evang. Mag., 1796, &c., as by Elias. She was married, circa 1794, to the Rev. William Cooper.

Now the busy week is done. J. S. Jones. [Saturday Evening.] Contributed to the 1849 Suppl. Hys. to H. & M. The author, Spencer John Jones, was b. 1827, educated at Magdalen College, Oxford (B.A., 1850), and became Rector of Bedford, Gloucestershire, in 1857.

Now to the earth thou dost descend. Part of "Behold the glories of the Lamb," p. 126, ii.

Now to the shining seats of bliss. A centо from "Come, Lord, and warm each languid heart," p. 803, ii.

Now winter holds his solemn reign. [Winter.] Anon. in Hys and Sac. Songs, &c., by G. Bisbee and others, Manchester, 1855, No. 128, in 6 st. of 4 l., and marked as "Original." It has passed into a few collections, but its use is by no means equal to its merits.

Nun ruhen alle Wälder, p. 323, i. The tr. "Now all the woods are sleeping," in the Hys. for the Use of Moravian Congregations, 1789, No. 1, is Miller's tr. with four verses added from H. Theurig's tr. of the same hymn. Both trs. are noted on p. 323, ii.

Nunc Dimittis, p. 822, ii. See also pp. 466, 726, 768, 801, 818, 850, 859, 921, 1177.

O

O beata Hierusalem, p. 824, ii. The tr. in the 1849 Supplemental Hys. to H. A. & M., "O Jerusalem the blissful," is by J. Ellerton.

O blest memorial of our dying Lord. Part of Bp. Woodford's tr. of "Adoro te devote," p. 28, ii., 3.

O Christ, Thou hast ascended. Sp. E. H. Bickersteth. [Ascension.] Written in 1875, and printed in the Church Sentinel for that year. Included in the Hy. Comp. in 1879.

O Christe qui nostre poll, p. 825, i. In Martineau's Manual, &c., 1873, J. Chandler's tr. of this hymn is altered to "The Crucified is gone before" (the note thereon, p. 826, ii. 1, is an error); and in Cooper's Hyl., 1862, I. Williams's tr. reads, "O Thou, Who art gone up on high."

O come, let us raise Our tribute of song. J. Montgomery. [Sunday S. Anniversary.] Written for the Sheffield Wesleyan Sunday S. Anniversary, held April 1, 1832, and pub. in the Christian Mirror, 1832, p. 69.

Bickersteth's Christian Psalmody, 1833, No. 345, in 8 st. of 4 l., in the author' Simple Lay Psalter, 1874, and in several other hymnals. In the 1880 ed. of the Hy. Comp. it is altered to, "O Lord Jesus, all the days."

O day of God, most calm, most bright. From "Blest day of God, most calm, most bright," p. 143, i.

O Deus ego amo Te. Nec ardor Te ut amarem me, p. 826, i. We find that this hymn is a paraphrase of a prayer in St. Ignatius Loyola's Exercitia Spiritualia, and in the 1st ed. Rome, 1548 [Brit. Mus.], which is headed "Amor Dei ex corde." The prayer in part of the "Contemplatio ad amorem spiritualem in nobis excitandum," and runs thus:—

"Suscipe Domine universam meam libertatem. Accipe memoriam, intellectum, atque voluntatem omnem. Quicquid habeo, vel possideo, mihi largitus es: id tibi totum restituo, ac tuae prorsus voluntati tradendum assigno. Amorem tui solum mihi dones, mihi dones et divina tua gratia: nec ego amplius quam ultra posco."

O Deus ego amo Te, Nec ardor Te ut salvus me, p. 826, ii. Other translations are:—

1. O God, my God, I do love Thee. In the Salisbury Hy. Bk., 1857.
2. O God, Thou art the object of my love. In the Roman Hyl., N. Y., 1864.
3. O God, I love Thee; not that my poor love. By Sp. E. H. Bickersteth; printed by J. Townsend, Exeter. "For use in the Diocese of Exeter." (Dated, Feb. 3, 1848.) It was repeated in the 1860 ed. of the

H. Comp., together with the Latin text in the Notes to the same.

4. O God, my spirit loves but Thee. By H. W. Longfellow in his Outre-Mer, Lond., 1835. In the Songs of Praise and Poems of Devotion, Philadelphia, 1866, as by C. C. Coe.

6. My God, I love Thee, not to gain. In the Church Quarterly, April, 1882.

7. O God, I love Thee not with love. Francis Pott, in the Guardian, Nov. 12, 1879.

O du Liebe meiner Liebe, p. 527, ii. To the note in explanation of the authorship of this hymn add the following:—In No. 2103 of the Breslau Town Library. Professor Dr. Markgraf, the librarian, has kindly informed me that this ms. is evidently of about the middle of the 17th cent., and bears on its first page the inscription, "Der Hochwohlgeborene Freyin Freyin Elisabet v. Seelin Gottliche Arien und Sonette sind ihrer eigenen Hand Geschrieben." The writer was probably Elisabeth, Baron Freyin, Freyin Sophia Elisabeta v. Seelitz in Jahr 1745 erhalten. Jo. Casp. Arlet, von Breslau." From this it is at least evident that Arlet in 1726 regarded it as autograph, and as consisting of original pieces by Elisabetha von Seelitz. [J. M.]

O Father, in Whose great design. S. J. Stone. [Temperance.] Contributed to the 1868 Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M.

O Father, let me be. W. H. Bathurst [Fr. transc.] from Fr. A. Hys., 1851.

O Father, Who hast given Thine only Son. Hy. E. H. Bickersteth. [H. Communion.] "A hymn especially to be sung at the Holy Communion on Intercession days for Foreign Missions." Written in 1869, and included in the 1890 ed. of the Hy. Comp. It is based on "The Comfortable Words" of the Communion Service.

O for a sight, a pleasing sight. Part of "Descend from heaven, Immortal Dove," p. 289, ii.

O God, how down Thine ear to earth. F. Hall. [Lent, for Children.] Written by Frank Hall, at the age of 10 years, whilst a pupil with the Rev. G. Monkhis, and in the Sunday Scholar's Mag., 1867, under the signature of "F. H."

O God, my God, in mercy hear. [Fr. trans.] Appeared in Bull's Minis. H. Bk., 1858, and again in Kennedy, 1863.

O God of Israel, hear my prayer. J. Fletcher. [For Diocesan Projections.] Ascribed to Joseph Fletcher, D.D., sometime minister of the Congregational Church, Bungay, London, who was b. at Chester, Dec. 3, 1784, and d. in London, June 8, 1845.

O God of Love and Power. J. M. Neale. [Morning.] From his Hys. for Children, 1842, No. 24.

O God of my salvation, We thank Thee &c. W. F. Hook. [Collects and Hymns.] Contributed to the Meth. E. School H. Bk., 1870.

O God, on Thee we all depend. S. Browne. [Confidence in God the Father.] An altered form of his "Yes, Lord, Thy children may depend," in his Hys. & S. Songs, 1720, Bk. i., No. 99.

O God, our God, Thou shinest here. Part of "Our God, our God," &c., p. 873, i.

O God, our Strength, our Hope, our Rock. Hy. E. H. Bickersteth. [Holy Baptism.] Written at Penmanmawr, in 1861; pub. in his From Year to Year, 1883, and the Hy. Comp., 1890.

O God, Who seest every heart. [Faithful Obedient.] This appeared in the Meth. H. Bk., 1856, No. 175. In the Halle ms. it is attributed to "C. Wesley"; but we cannot find anything in the Poetical Works of the Wesleys to justify the ascription.

O God, Thy children gathered here, p. 604, ii. Entered as by R. Johnson in error. It is by S. Longfellow, p. 605, ii.

O God, Thy grace impart. An altered form of "My faith looks up to Thee," p. 877, i.

O God, in Whom in flesh reveal'd. "C. Wesley. [Jesus the Incarnate.]" Pub. in Hys. & Sac. Poems, 1749. From the following verse, a word, a look from Thee" (P. Works, iv. p. 239).

O grave, then hast the victory. [Old Apr.] Anon. in Elliott's Fr. & Hys., 1839, the Lords H. Bk., 1853, &c.

O happy Church, O Bride of heaven. [The Church.] Rewritten from "O happy Church, celestial Bride," in W. Barnes's Sel. of Fr. & Hys., 1859, and 1880, No. 254 in 8 st. of 4 l. As all the hymns in that Sel. are given anonymously, we have no means of determining its authorship. It is probably by Barnes.

O happy soul departed. [Death and Burial.] A cento in the Prim. Meth. Hy., 1807, thus composed: st. i., ii., i.-4., W. T. Brooke; st. iii., iii., i. 5-8, iv., from the Wesley P. Works, vi. p. 342, 343; and iii., ii. 1-4, from Brooke's Coll., 1816, p. 31. C. Wesley's dates are 1750, and 1749 respectively.

O heaven, abode of saints. Charlotte Elliott. [Heaven anticipated.] Appeared in her brother's Fr. & Hys., 1835, in 4 st. of 6 l.

O hochbegluckts Seele, p. 836. i. This hymn was written in the winter of 1827.

O Holy Father, Who in tender love. Hy. E. H. Bickersteth. [Holy Communion.] Printed for use in the diocese of Exeter, and dated, "January 27th, 1869." (Exeter, J. Townsend.) It is printed as a leaflet, and is accompanied by the following explanatory note:—"The occasion of this hymn was suggested by Canon Dwight's words, as well as given in their abbreviated form, beginning, 'And now, O Father, mindful of the love,' and the hymn was written with the echo of the most beautiful time, 'Unde et memores,' by W. H. Monk, to which these verses are set in Hymns Ancient and Modern, Appendix, 1868. The copy here printed was sent on the 27th of January, 1869, with the above explanation annexed, and the addition that feeling some misapprehension might arise he sent a copy to Canon Dwight, from whom he received an assurance that he should regard it as a "parallel hymn" to his own. (See p. 1272, ii.)

O Holy, holy, holy Lord! Thou God of hosts, &c. From "Thou we adore, eternal Lord," p. 1132, i.

O Holy Spirit, Whom our Master send. J. Allerton. [Quinquagesima. Love.] Written for and first pub. in the 1850 ed. of the Hy. Comp.

O Jesu, in thy wounds repair. T. Kelly. [Advent.] Given in the 1815 ed. of his Hymns &c., 1804, in 5 st. of 6 l. In Kennedy, 1863, No. 32, it is in great part rewritten by Dr. Kennedy.

O Jesu, consecrate to God always. Hy. E. H. Bickersteth. [Consecration.] Written at Penmanmawr in 1863; pub. in his From Year to Year, 1883, and included in the Hy. Comp., 1890.

O Jesu, meine Sonne, p. 838, ii. We find that this was pub. in the Christliche Monatsschrift, Lüneburg, 1826, p. 130, as "O Jesu, meine Wonne, Die alle Noth verscheuchet" (st. i. ll. 3, 4, of the 1653 text).

O Jesus, sweetest, holiest name. [Name of Jesus.] Anon. in Bap. Fr. & Hys., 1858, as by "John Graham, 1850."

O joy of the justified, joy of the free. Altered form of "O bliss of the purified, bliss of the free," p. 184, ii.

O King of glory, come. Altered from B. Francis's "In sweet exalted strains," p. 382, ii in the 1858 ed. of the Cooke & Denton Hymnal, No. 282, in 4 st., with a doxology; and in the 1860 Suppl. to the Bap. Fr. & Hys., without the doxology.

O Light of Light, Whose glory is in dwell. Hy. E. H. Bickersteth. [St. John the Evangelist.] Written at Penmanmawr in 1863; pub. in his From Year to Year, 1883; and included in the Hy. Comp., 1890.

O Lord, with bell and lyre we stand. A. Anger. [Ordination. Holy Baptism.] Written circa 1866, and printed shortly afterwards in the Sunday Hys. Also in Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884.

O Love that will not let me go. G. Matheson. [Jesus All and in All.] Dr. Matheson says this hymn was "written in the Manse of my former parish (Innellan, Argyleshire) one summer evening in 1882. It was composed with extreme rapidity; it seemed to me that the re-struction occupied only a few minutes, and I felt myself simply the transcriber of what was dictated or suggested to that of an original artist. I was suffering from extreme mental distress, and the hymn was the fruit of pain." [L. mss.] This hymn first appeared in the Church of Scotland magazine, Life and Work, in 1885. From thence it passed into the Scottish Hyl., 1891; and there

Palmer, Ray, D.D., p. 977, i. The following original hymns by Dr. Palmer are in common use:—

1. O Rock of Ages, since on Thee. Faith. From his Poetical Works, 1876, p. 27, where it is dated 1868. By Bickersteth says "This hymn . . . is "worthy of Luther." (Note Hy. Comp. ed. 1876.)

2. Thy holy will, my God, be mine. Resignation. From his Hym. of my Holy Hours, &c., 1868, p. 47. Also in his Poetical Works, 1876, p. 27.

3. We praise Thee, Saviour, for Thy grace. Holy Communion. From his Hym. and Sac. Poems, &c., 1865. Also in P. Works, 1876, dated 1864.

Palmer, Roundell, see Selborne, Lord.

Palmer, William, M.A., eldest s. of W. J. Palmer, Rector of Mixbury, Oxford, was b. July 12, 1811, and matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford, July 27, 1826, aged 15. He graduated B.A. 1831, and M.A. 1835. He was successively Fellow, Tutor, Public Orator, and Vice-President of his College, and also had various important appointments both at Oxford and at the University of Durham. He joined the Church of Rome in 1855, and d. April 5, 1879. Mr. Palmer pub. some trs. of Latin hymns as Short Poems and Hymns, the latter mostly Translations, Oxford. Printed by I. Shrimpton, MDCCCLIV. A few of these have come into C. U.

Park, Edwards A., D.D., an American Congregational Minister, b. at Providence, Rhode Island, Dec. 30, 1809, was one of the editors of the Sabbath Hy. Bk., pub. at Andover, U.S., 1858. His hymn, "Sweet hour of prayer unto the Lord" (Public Worship), sometimes ascribed to him as in Spurgeon's O. & H. Bk., 1866, was pub. anonymously at No. 37. By all the American hymnological authorities it is still regarded as "Anon." This is strong evidence against Dr. Park's authorship.

Parker, Ann, née Nesbitt, daughter of W. Nesbitt, was b. at Horsley-in-Tyne in 1826; married in 1851 to the Rev. Dr. Parker (subsequently Minister of the City Road Chapel, London), and d. in 1874. To the Canadian Hymnal, edited by her husband and the Rev. E. A. Bertrand, in 1864, she contributed 18 hymns, all of which are signed as by "Mrs. Parker."

Parker, William Henry, was b. at New Basford, Nottingham, March 6th, 1845. Early in life he began to write verses, and having joined a General Baptist church and become interested in Sunday schools was led to compose hymns for use at anniversaries. Three of these were published in 1865 in a tract by W. H. Stevenson, B.A., into The School Hymnal, 1870, and passed into The Children's Book of Praise, 1881, and other collections. In 1882 Mr. Parker pub. a small volume entitled, The Princess Alice and Other Poems. His hymns in C. U. are:—1. "Children know but little" (God's condescension to the Little Ones). 2. "Holy Spirit, Comforter Divine" (Whitsuntide). 3. "Jesus, I so often need Thee" (A Child's prayer to Christ). [W. R. S.]

Parkinson, William, b. in Frederick County, Maryland, Nov. 8, 1774, entered the Baptist ministry in 1796, was for some time Congress Chaplain, then pastor in New York City. He d. March 3, 1848. He pub. The Columbian Harmonist, or Baptist Church Music Collection, and he it contributed 8 hymns (List in Julian). Of these "Come, dear brethren in the Saviour" (Prayer Meeting) is still in C. U.

Partridge, Samuel William, publisher of the British Workmans and kindred works, is the s. of Samuel Partridge, and was b. in London Nov. 23, 1816. His hymns were pub. in his important Praise on Simple Verse, 1841: Hymns Worth Remembering, 1845. From the latter his "Hymn of Praise" (Praise for Redeeming love) is taken. Another of his hymns in C. U. is, "Thou Who hast in mercy blest" (Morning). This is in The Church S. S. H. Bk., 1888.

Paulinus, Pontius Meropius. St. Paulinus of Nola, b. at Bordeaux in 353, became Bp. of Nola in 409, and d. circa 431.

Peace, troubled soul, thou need'st not fear. (Confidence.) We have found this hymn in two forms. The first is in the Pocket H. Bk., York, Spence, 5th ed., 1766 (Supplement), No. 1, in 4 st. of 4 l. It is also in Toplady into the American collections. The second form begins "Peace, poor, my soul, thou need'st not fear," and is appended to Sermon iii. on Matt. vi. 34, in S. Secker's posthumous Essays on Grace, &c., Liverpool, W. Jones, 1800, in 7 st. of 4 l. Neither is in the Gospel Mag., 1779.

Peacock, John, was b. in 1731; became a Wesleyan Minister in 1757, retired therefrom through ill health in 1796, and d. in 1810. In 1776 he pub. Songs of Praise compiled from the Holy Scriptures.

Pearce, Selina P., an American Baptist hymn-writer, was b. at Hartford, Ohio, and is the author of "Hark, the Lord calls, and a Mission hymn, "Hark, his the voice of gladness," is the daughter of a Baptist Minister at Hartford, Ohio, was b. at Lowell, Ohio, Dec. 29, 1845.

Pelly, John Kendrick, pub. the Ragged School H. Bk., London, J. Snow, n. d., in which he indicates that at the time of publication he lived at Hammersmith. He also says that the hymns in his book "embody the views held by that Apostolic and Evangelical man the celebrated John Williams, the South Sea martyr. Several of his hymns with his name appended therein are in S. D. Major's Mt. of Praise for Home and School, 1859, Allen's Children's Worship, 1870, and others.

Peter, William, p. 923, i. We find that this writer was a resident at Chirverton, and was a Member of Parliament in 1830. At p. 930, from Nos. 219, 220, "And is the Gospel true?" (Ps. lxxxv.), in the Bap. Ps. & Hys., 1858, is taken.

Phelps, Austin, D.D., b. at West Brookfield, Mass., Jan. 7, 1820, was Professor of Sacred Rhetoric at Andover, 1848-1879, and one of the editors of the Sabbath H. Bk., 1860, d. at Bar Harbour, Maine, Oct. 13, 1890, aged 70. He is the author of "Father! if I may call Thee so" (Eternal Punishment) in the Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, No. 1249.

Phelps, Sylvanus Dryden, son of Dr. S. D. Phelps, was b. in New Haven, Connecticut, Jan. 13, 1843, and educated at Brown University and Yale College. His hymn, "Holy spirit, my Lord, to grow" (Likeness to Jesus desired) appeared in the Christian Secretary, April 8, 1865, and Hastings's Songs of Pilgrimage, 1866.

Phelps, Sylvanus Dryden, p. 923, ii. Additional hymns in C. U. by Dr. Phelps include (1) "Father, from Thy throne above" (Temperance), (2) "When over my heart the shadows" (Comfort in Sorrow). These are both written in 1841. To J. Aldrich's Sacred Lyre, 1858, he contributed (3) "Sweet is the hour of prayer" (Prayer), (4) "Sweet Sunday-school! I love the place" (Sunday Schools); and (5) "Come friends, and let us sing" (Christian Fellowship). These are also in 1841. (6) "Once I heard a sound at my heart's outer door" (Voice of God within), in Pure Gold, with a refrain by Dr. Lowry; (7) "While on life's stormy sea" (Trust in God), written in 1862; and (8) "Come, trembling soul, be not afraid" (Confidence), "written after visiting a sick man, who, feeling his need of Christ, was afraid to trust Him." Dr. Phelps's well-known hymn "Saviour! Thy dying love," Burrage says it was written in 1865, and pub. in the Watchman and Reflector, and then, with music by Dr. R. Lowry in Pure Gold. It has been tr. into Swedish and other languages. Burrage gives a revised version of the text, recently sent him by the author. (Burrage's Baptist H. Writers, 1888, p. 304.)

Phillips, Harriet Cecilia, was b. in Sharon, Connecticut, in 1806, and was for many years an active worker in Sunday Schools in New York city. She contributed five hymns to the Rev. W. C. Hoyt's Family and Social Hymns, 1858, and has also written for various magazines. Her hymn "Bring no glittering treasures" (Sunday School Anniversary) is in the Church S. S. & Y. P. Hymnal, Festival ix. York city, and pub. in the Meth. Episco. Hymns, 1849 (Sutton's Hymn Notes, 1894, p. 311.)

Phillips, Philip, commonly known as the "Singing Pilgrim," was b. in Chautauqua County, N. York, Aug. 15, 1834. Although engaged in farming for a time, from an early age he was a singer and composer. In 1865 he entirely devoted himself to the work of a "Singing Evangelist," in which capacity he has visited most English-speaking countries. His popular hymnals are: (1) Early Hymns, 1860; (2) Musical Leaves, 1862; and (3) The Singing Pilgrim, 1865. In these works he pub. one or two hymns, including "I have heard of a Saviour's love" (The Love of Christ), as in J. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, 1874.

Piae Cantiones, p. 894, i. Other tr. are: C. E. Kennaway in his Verses, 1846, p. 171; H. J. Palmer in his Suppl. Hyl., 1868, No. 27. Note also that W. C. Dix's tr., "O joyful Light of God most high," first appeared in Palmer's Suppl. Hyl., 1866.

Pilgrim, Edward Tracy. This writer pub. Hymns written chiefly on the Divine Attributes of the Deity, and Included as a Supplement to Dr. Watts's Book of Hymns for Children, Exeter, W. C. Pollard, 1844. This work contains 22 hymns, including one for the children of the Wesn of England Institution for the Deaf and Dumb; one for the Devon and Exeter Female Penitentiary, and one on the Lord's Prayer (p. 52, ii.).

Plausu chorus lætabundo. Adam of St. Victor. (Common of Evangelists.) This has generally been ascribed to Adam, and is included by Gautier in his ed. of Adam's Œuvres poétiques, 1858, Vol. ii. p. 417. But in his new ed., 1881, p. 540, Gautier regards this ascription as doubtful, and gives it as one of the "Pièces douteuses." It is in a 13th cent. Paris Graduel in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (No. 15615), and other sources. It is found in an early 14th cent. Paris Missal in the British Museum (Add. 15935, f. 264); in a York Missal, c. 1380, now in the Bodleian; in the Printing Missal, 1487, and others. The printed text is also in Mone, No. 739; Daniel, ii. 259; Card. Newman's Hymni Ecclesiæ, 1838, No. 276. In the Paris use it begins "Festiva chorus corda mundet," and was appointed for Oct. 18 (St Luke's Day). Tr. as, (1) "Come, sing ye choirs exultant," by Jackson Mason, in the 1880 Suppl. to H. A. & M. (see p. 925, ii.); (2) "Choirs! rejoice, these heralds praising," in the Hymner, 1862; (3) also by A. R. Thompson in the Hymner, 1862; (4) "Let the festive choir," by W. J. Wroughton, 1865, ii. p. 198; (5) "Let our song as ours be above the starry height," by Ivan Pierrepits in Bp. Ellicott's N. T. Commentary for Eng. Readers, i. 1877.

Prior, Matthew, the well known English poet, contributed "Heavy on me, O Lord, Thy judgments lie" (Ps. lxxxviii.) to N. Tate's Miscellaneous Poems, Pt. II., 1685. Prior was b. in 1664, educated at Westminster School, and St. John's College, Cambridge. He held several important appointments under the Government, and represented Middlesex in the House of Commons. He died at Wimpole, Cambridgeshire, in 1721.

Proctz, Benjamin Wilmot, was b. at Chippenham, Wilts, in 1825, but for many years has resided at Cainscross, Gloucestershire, where he is in business. He is a member of the Baptist church in that town. Mr. Proctz has written a number of hymns, chiefly for use in Sunday Schools, of which the following are in C. U.: (1) "I have heard your voice of love," with the refrain, "No parting there;" and (2) "Bright and joyous be our lay" (Sunday Gladness), in W. H. Havergal's School Hymnal, 1868. [W. R. S.]

Prudentius, A. C., p. 913, ii. Two somewhat full versions of Prudentius are: (1) The Cathemerinon and other Poems of Aurelius Prudentius Clemens in English Verse, Edinburgh, 1845, p. 12. (2) Prudentius from Prudentius, by Lancelot Shadwell Thackeray, M.A., F.S.A., Lond., 1851 & 1864, 1889.

Prune thou thy words, thy thoughts control. (Cardinal Newman. [Prayers written before Prob.]. Written "Off Sardinia, June 30, 1833." It was pub. in Lyra Apostolica, 1836, p. 90 (ed. 1879, p. 92), in 3 st. of 8 l.

Purchas, John, M.A., was educated at Christ's College, Cambridge (b.a., 1844) and became in 1866 the Vicar of Holy Trinity, Paignton, Devon. The publication which is subservient to connection with his other observances, is matter of history. His hymn in the St. Margaret's Pby. (East Grinstead), "Evensong is hushed in silence" (Evensong), was written for St. James's, Brighton, circa 1866, and was pub. with music by J. E. Roe. It is a hymn full of hopefulness with a sad undercurrent of weariness and pain. Mr. Purchas was b. in Cambridge in 1822, and d. Oct. 16, 1881.

Pyper, Hugh, a Welsh preacher and formerly epeli. Pyper, was b. at Bristol, Dec. 3, 1784. In 1803 he joined the Methodist Society, and subsequently became for a short time a local preacher in that connexion. He was then engaged for some time in what was known as "The Tent Mission." This evangelical work led him in 1836 to join the London City Mission. In 1834 he was ordained to the Congregational ministry at Plymouth, Devon, and later in total similar charges at Cork, and at Devonport, where he d. April 7, 1869. His hymns include "Met again in Jesus' Name" (Beginning of Service). His Memoirs, by his daughter, Mrs. K. P. Russell, were pub. in 1869.

Pyper, Mary, daughter of a soldier, was b. at Greenock May 31, 1811. Although from her loving and devoted work in Sunday-schools she was led to undertake missionary work amongst the Micmac Indians, and subsequently translated the whole of the New Testament and a large part of the Old into the language of that people. He also prepared a Micmac grammar and dictionary. Almost entirely unaided he mastered about a dozen languages. He has written more than 60 hymns, including 8 st. of several English hymns into Latin, &c., an account of which was given in the Suppl. Quarterly Review, April, 1885. His hymn, "Jesus, my Lord, my God, my All" (Trust in Jesus) is given in the Free Church Hymnal, 1876, No. 1. She d. in 1870, unpitied sentient. (Bishop's Baptist H. Writers, 1888.)

Rands, W. B., p. 951, ii. He was b. in 1856, not in 1867.

Rayzard, Ellen, née White, b. 1811, d. 1879. Two hymns by this writer (sometimes signed "L. N. R.") are given in Sharp's Songs of G. & Glory, 1872, with the following dates: (1) "Mark that long dark line of shadows" (The Present Opportunity), 1861; (2) "To Thee, O our Most Faithful Friend" (Trust), 1866.

Reading, George, p. 952, i. Additional hymns by Gilbert Beaumont are:—

1. Come, Spirit of the Lord. From his "How shall the mighty God," in his Hyn., Verses, &c., 1874, No. 43.

He has published a collection of sacred verse, and translations in Latin. His wrote a few hymns for S. School Anniversaries within at Westcale. One of these "O Jesus, blessed Jesus," was included in W. H. Stevenson's School Hymnal, 1885. [W. R. S.]

Roberts, Samuel, commonly known in Wales as "S. R.," was born at Llanbrynmair, Mar. 6, 1801, and d. at Conway in O.S., 1885. He was a well-known Welsh Congregational writer. He is the author of over 3000 hymns, of which several of the originals and tr. were by him; but as there is no index of authors, his productions cannot be distinguished from the rest (Welsh Hymnody, § iii. 6).

Roberts, Thomas. Concerning this writer and his hymn, "My Shepherd's mighty aid" (Ps. xxiii.), Nutter says in his Hymn Studies, 1884, p. 207, that the hymn "came into our hymn-book (Meth. Episc. 1849) from the Rev. Thomas Roberts, who to learn anything more concerning it, or its author."

Robins, Gordon, an American bookseller, was b. at Hartford, Connecticut, Nov. 1, 1813. Two of his hymns appeared anonymously in The Psalmist (Boston, 1843): (1) "There is a land mine eye hath seen" (Heaven); (2) "When thickly beat the storms of life" (God a Rock).

Robinson, George, contributed five hymns to L. Leifchild's Original Hys., 1843, from which "One sole baptismal sign" (Unity), and "Here to the still secret place given" (New Jerusalem), are taken with alterations.

Rock of ages, cleft for me, p. 979, ii. Another tr. of the full text (but slightly altered) by Bp. Charles Wordsworth, is in his Series Collectarum . . . Adesti Hymni Psalmique . . . Lond., J. Murray, 1880, as "Fons mei casni, sanctorum consciis, Regem."

The hymns by a Trappist monk, which were pub. in the Month in 1875 ("Jesu, Thy mercy within me and round me," and "Jesu, Thy Blood, "Give us our daily bread," and Send to Heaven, "I had a message to send her." The first and second of these appeared in her A Chaplet of Verse, pub. in 1862, in aid of the Providence Row Night Refuge for Homeless Women and Children.

Rose, George F., M.D., b. in Sheffield, Berkshire County, Mass., Aug. 16, 1832. He is much more widely known as a musical composer than as a hymn and tune writer. Four of his hymns are in I. D. Sankey's Soc. S. & Solos, 1878, Nos. 18, 198, 295, and 297. A sympathetic biographical sketch, with portrait, is in The Tonic Sol-Fa Reporter, Sep. 1886. He d. Aug. 6, 1886.

Rosetti, Elizabeth, p. 823, i. From Mrs. Rowe's Miscellaneous Works, &c., 1739, the following hymns are taken:—

1. Begin the high celestial strain. Praise to God.
2. Lord, what is man that he should prove? The Love of God.
3. The glorious armies of the sky. Praise to God.
4. To Thee, O God, my prayer ascends. God our Joy.

Salve regina, p. 991, ii. In a ms. written in Swabia, circa 1100 (Brit. Mus. Add. 15002 f. 130); and in another ms. circa 1150 (Bibl. Nat. Paris, Lat. 1118 f. 120).

Sampson, J. W. Miss Sampson is set forth in I. D. Sankey's Soc. Songs and Solos, 1878, No. 4, as the author of "Weary of wandering long" (Unseen Guidance Desired).

Sanders, William, a Primitive Methodist minister, who was alive in 1887, but concerning whom we have no later information, left the home connexion after some years of labour, and undertook pastoral duty at Forneville, U.S.A., in 1838. In the early days of the Primitive Methodist movement Sanders assisted H. Bourne (p. 163, i.) in compiling the hymn-books for the use of the connexion. In 1824 they published a hymn-book together, and numerous hymns in the old collections of the denomination are signed jointly as "H. B. & W. S.," and again as "W. S. & H. B." In his Prim. Meth. Hymnal of 1887 the following hymns are by him from the Coll. of Hys. for Camp Meetings, &c., 1827, in which they are signed "W. S.":—

1. Behold, what wondrous love and grace. The Love of God.
2. Servants of the great Jehovah. Ministers.
3. We seek a glorious rest above. Seeking Heaven.
4. Where shall my soul begin to sing? Love of Jesus. In the Prim. Meth. Large Hy., 1824, the following, also in their Hymnal of 1887, are signed jointly by Sanders and Bourne:—
5. While passing through this vale of woe. Death Anticipated.
6. Why do I wander from my God? Lent.

At p. 163, ii., "Hark! the Gospel news is sounding," is attributed to Bourne and Sanders jointly. In the Large H. Bk., 1824, the signature is "H. B & W. S." In the Hymnal of 1887 they substitute this hymn in their Lyric Studies solely to Sanders we cannot say.

Saviour, breathe an evening blessing, p. 980, ii. Bp. Ellicott, in the 1860 ed. of his Hy. Comp., has changed the opening line of this hymn to "Father, breathe an evening blessing." His reason is that having substituted what is practically a doxology for Ellesdon's "Glory to the throne, to be justified in substituting "Father" for "Saviour" in the opening line of the hymn.

Saviour King, in hallowed union. H. S. Tucker's Prayer: Anon. in the Presb. Sel. of Hys., Philadelphia, 1867.

Saviour of them that trust in Thee. H. Alford. [Friendly Worship.] In his Poems and Poetical Fragments, 1835, and his Year of Praise, 1867.

SCOTT, ELIZABETH [APPENDIX II.] SIT QUI RITE 1589

Hannover, Germany, June 17, 1845, and in 1873 became a Professor in the Capital University, Columbus, Ohio. He contributed 6 original hymns and several trs. from the German to the Evang. Luth. Hyl., Columbus, Ohio, 1880, under the signature of "C. H. L. S."

Scott, Elizabeth, p. 1019, ii. Another of her hymns in C. U. from the Coll. of Ash & Evans, 1789, No. 393, "The Lord of love will sure indulge," is given in some American hymnals as "The God of mercy will indulge." Her hymn of any note that is regarded as such, is her "Sweet Jesus, every thought is love," which has been examined for the present Dictionary. The Prayer is not therein, nor is there any evidence of any portion of the book having been torn away. This fact raises a grave doubt as to its authorship which we are unable to settle. The Prayer has been tr. by several persons, including J. Fawcett, 1765, J. W. Hewett, 1808, p. 145, i.

Scottish Hymnody, p. 1023, i. § iii. In Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, the following entries have been taken from the Scottish Psalter of 1650.

1. Like as the hart for water-brooks. Ps. xlii.
2. O greatly blest'd the people are. Ps. lxxxiii.
3. O Thou that art the mighty One. Ps. xlv.
4. Pray that Jerusalem may have. Ps. cxxii.
5. Thou hast been favourable. Ps. lxxxv.
6. Woe's me that I in Mesech am. Ps. cxxxi. Of this canto sts. i., ii. are from the Scottish Ps. and iii.–v. are by Mr. Spurgeon.

Other cantos also in C. U. are :—

1. Give thanks to God, for good is He. Ps. cxxxvi.
2. Praise God, O sacred praise Him. Ps. cxlviii.
3. Let the high praise of the Lord. Ps. cxxxiii.

Selborne, Roundell Palmer, Earl of, a. of W. J. Palmer, Rector of Minley, Oxford, was b. Nov. 27, 1812, and educated at Trinity College, Oxford. Called to the Bar he rapidly advanced in the profession, and became Lord Chancellor in 1872. Lord Selborne did great service to hymnody by the publication of his Book of Praise, 1862 (enlarged ed., 1867), in which the original hymns by the Rev. T. Dale, Sir H. Baker, and others were stored; and by calling attention in his paper on English Church Hymnody at the York Church Congress in 1866, to the mutilations which those hymns had undergone. Since 1866 editors of reports have recognized the justice of his strictures, and many of the worst have been banished to the nook. He d. May 4, 1895.

Seth, Ambrose, a Commissioner on the Government Transport Office, was b. Aug. 30, 1742, and d. Aug. 1, 1812. He pub. Horæ Solitariæ: or Essays upon some remarkable Names and Titles of Jesus Christ, &c., 1788. In this work short hymns are appended to some of the chapters, and these were reprinted from above in Christian Psalmody, 1794. The hymn "Thy sovereign sway (Providence), have gone into several collections. Seth was also the author of other works. The Rev. E. Bickersteth pub. Selections from the Works of Ambrose Seth, in 1833.

Sewell, W. H. Hymns by this writer are in I. D. Sankey's Sac. Songs and Solos, 1881, as the author of "(1) "Be glad in the Lord, ye righteous" (Joy in God); and (2) "Lo! He comes" (Christ's Coming). Also in the Rev. T. G. Selby's Anodyne, as "'Tis Jesus when the burdened heart" (Jesus, the Sinner's Friend), in the S. S. U. Voice of Praise, 1907. Miss Sewell was b. at Schenectady, near New York.

Sewell, Elizabeth Missing, writer of a number of novels (Cheltenham, 1865), and author of "Gather! when Thy loving hand" (Ps. cxxxvii. 6ad.), in the 1868 Suppl. Hys. to H. & A. & M. She was b. in 1815.

Shakleton, Mary, was b. in 1827, and d. in Dublin, Sep. 28, 1893. She was for many years an invalid, during which time she wrote several hymns, which were printed in broadsheet form. Several of these are given in Chosen, Chastened, Crowned. Memorials of Mary Shakleton, late Secretary of the Zenánáh's Prayer Union, Dublin, 1894, pp. 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62. Of these the best-known is "Only this I know, that Jesus died for me" (Love for Jesus), 1863; and (2), "One fervent wish, my God ! it speaks the whole" (Desiring to know Jesus), 1867.

Shepeste, Mrs., was one of three sisters who pub., in 1840, Hymns for Infant Children. By A., C., and E., the initial "E" being that of Mrs. Shepeste. From this book the following hymns for children, Jesus, my baby, undefiled (Holy Infancy), Sweet is the work (Mrs. Shepeste was the wife of the Rev. E. G. Shepeste, sometime in Holy Orders in the Church of England. Both husband and wife eventually joined the Roman communion.

Shepherd of Israel! hear my prayer. Sarah Ellis, née Stickney. [The Good Shepherd.] Dated 1833 in Martineau's Hymns, 1873. Mrs. Ellis was b. 1812, and d. 1872.

Sheppard, John, pub. The Foreign Sacred Lyre: Mendelssohn, Spohr, Neukomm, Romberg, Haydn, Beethoven, French, and Italian, Lond., 1837; and, The Christian Harp, a companion to the former, Lond., 1840. "Awful Power, Whose path of wonder" (Divine Guidance Invoked), is from the latter.

Shindler, Mary E. B., p. 1055, i. Other hymns usually attributed to this writer, are "Prince of Peace, control my will," and "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty." Both appeared in the Church of England Magazine, March 5, 1864, in 32 lines; and "Our upon the bowing ocean" (Jesus calming the Sea).

(Preparation); (2) "My soul, give me Thy heart" (Consecration); (3) "Jesus, Lord, we look to Thee" (Lent); (4) "The Lord ascends the sacred hill" (Transfiguration); (5) "Throned above the starry spheres" (St. Mark).

Tait, Gilbert. See Hamail, William.

Tapp, Jakob. Little is known of this writer. He became pastor primarius and superintendent at Schlesingen, Brunswick, in 1616, and d. there in 1630 (his. from Superintendent Wichmann, Schöningen, &c.). The hymn, "Das alte Jahr vergangen ist" has sometimes been ascribed to him. See p. 1091, i.

Tatlock, Eleanor, of Sandwich. Two vols. of her hymns were pub. in 1741 and 1742, entitled Hymns for Thy Kid, O God, my Son. ("Reconciliation") is given in Hatfield's Church Hys. N. Y. 1872. It appeared in the Evang. Mag., 1796, p. 307.

Taylor, Giles. Miller, in his Singers and Songs of the Church, 1869, p. 536, says of this hymn-writer, "He is said to have been a member of the Church of England residing in Westminster," that "she was probably connected with the Moravians," and that "she died in February, 1776." Her original hymns and trs. from the German appeared in the Moravian H. Bk. 1742-69. These are in the 1886 ed. of the same H. Bk. the following original hymns all signed with her name:—

1. All glory be to God on high, Ye sons of Adam, &c. Christmas. (1742.)
2. Behold the loving Son of God. Good Friday. (1742.)
3. Lord, my times are in Thy hand. Death Anticipated. (1784.)

6. O Lord, the contrite sinner's Friend. Jesus the Friend. (1742.)
7. Our heavenly Father is not known. God the Father. (1742.)
8. The Cross, the Cross, Oh that's my gain. Good Friday. (1742.) Lower No. 1 "What wondrous cause could move Thy heart" in Spurgeon's O. O. H. Bk., 1866, is taken.
9. What praise unto the Lamb is due. H. Communion.
10. Who can condemn, since Christ hath died? Safety in Christ. 1742. Part of No. 7.

In 1865 D. Sedgwick collected 39 of her hymns, and printed them for private circulation, under the title of Assumed of Christ and Redemption through His Blood.

Taylor, William, the 6 of a manufacturer, was b. at Norwich, Nov. 7, 1765, and educated at Mr. Barbauld's school at Palgrave (see p. 113, ii.). After travelling abroad, he settled at Norwich in 1793. In 1791 he retired from business and devoted himself to literature. He was a frequent contributor to the Monthly, the Critical, and other Reviews, and was one of the Sun to the Norwich school of literature (see p. 1194, ii.). His tr. of Lessing's Nathan der Weise appeared in 1791, and of Goethe's Iphigenie in Tauris in 1793. In 1813 he pub. English Synonyms Discriminated, and in 1828-30 his Historical Survey of German Poetry, 3 vols. He d. at Norwich, Jan. 4, 1836. His life, by Robberds, was pub. in 1843. Taylor was a member of the congregation of the Octagon Chapel, Norwich, and contributed the following 8 hymns to Dr. Enfield's Norwich Sel. of Hys. for Social Worship, 1799 (p. 231, ii.):—

1. Father of peace, O turn once more. For Mercy.
2. God of the universe, Whose hand. God the Universal Benefactor.
3. Moon, planets, suns that swim the sky. Nature perishable, God eternal.
4. The Lord is just, His roads the claim. The Just Man.
5. Well sleeps the good who sinks to rest.

No. 5 was also pub. in a modified without author's name in the Norwich hymn-book of 1814, and again, sometimes with and at other times without name, in later Unitarian collections. [V. D. S.]

Teach me to live! 'tis easier far to die. [Consecration of Self to Christ.] This is given in the 1872 ed. of Snepp's S. of Grace and Glory, as from a "Dublin Collection, 1749." Mr. Snepp adds that "Mr. Bellew is the writer's name as" Miss Elizabeth Berman, 1868.

Tebbs, Henry Virtue, was b. in Chelsea in 1787. He was a Proctor in Doctors' Commons, and joined in establishing the first Sunday School in Chelsea. Most of his later years were spent on the Continent, mostly at Pegli, near Genoa, and where, mainly through his exertions, a church for the English congregation was erected

When Christ came down on earth of old. Cecil F. Alexander. [Advent.] Contributed to the S. P. C. K. Hys., 1852, No. 2, in 4 st. of 4 l. This is altered in Kennedy, 1863, to "From heaven when Christ came down of old," and in the Westminster Abbey H. Bk., 1883, to "Lord Jesus Christ, when Thou camest down." In the Lyra Anglicana, ii. 46, Miss Alexander expands it into Lyra Apostolica, i. 46, 4 sts. of 4 l., as "When Jesus came to earth of old." This is in Thring's Coll., 1882. From it "O Son of God, in glory crowned," in the Bevan Hyl., 1871, is taken.

When first before His mercy-seat. Part of "Be still, my heart, these anxious cares," p. 996, i.

When God is mine and I am His. Part of "I know that my Redeemer lives, And ever prays for me," p. 1040, ii.

When God's right arm is bared for war. Part of "Awake, sweet harp of Judah, wake," p. 198, ii.

When His salvation bringing. [Palm Sunday.] In H. and J. Gwyther's Psalms, A Sel. of Ps. & Hys., &c., Lond., 1830, there is 1 psalm version signed "J. King," and 1 psalm version and 4 hymns signed "J. King." One of the latter is "When His salvation bringing," No. 417, in 3 st. of 4 l., with a chorus. This appears to be the earliest publication of the hymn. Its popular great difficulty has been experienced in tracing its identity. Under date of Aug. 15, 1855, the Rev. John Gwyther informed D. Sedgwick that the signatures above stood for "Joshua King, late Vicar of Hull." In a second communication, dated Aug. 20, 1855, he writes further, "Mr. Joshua King was born in Mr. J. Ryton, of Wilmington, Gloucester, where he died. He composed many hymns, but I do not know whether he published them in any other form. I don't know. Mr. K. gave his H. Bk. to my brother." From the Registers of Ryton Church we find that Mr. King's name was John. He graduated at Queen's College, Cambridge, 1811 (B.A. 1815), and was ordained Christ Church, Hull, in 1818, and d. Sep. 15, 1856, aged 68.

When I look upon the shadow sky. Mrs. Hemans. [The Grave of Good.] Anon. in the American S. S. Union H. Bk., 1838, and later collections.

When I sink down in gloom or fear. Card. Newman. [Faith.] Dated "At Sea, June 23, 1833," in the British Mag., Nov. 1833, the Lyra Apostolica, 1836, p. 59, &c.

When languid frame, or throbbing pulse. J. S. B. Monsell. [St. Luke.] Pub. in his Spiritual Songs, 1857, in 4 st. of 4 l., and subsequently in C. U. in "How good to think that St. Who watched in Gethsemane."

When Lord, we kneel before Thy throne. An altered form of "Lord, when we bend before Thy throne," p. 626, i.

When morning's first, and hallowed ray. [Morning.] Anon. from Cleer's Amer. Commonplace Bk. of Poetry, 1831, into the Bap. Praise Bk., 1871, and others.

When round the camp for Israel's sin. [Easter.] Appeared in the British Magazine, Sept. 1833, p. 31, in 6 st. of 4 l., by "R." for the first of the Rev. Isaac Reed, and signed R. Z. N." It was included in Kennedy, 1863.

When shall I flee my Father's face. Part of C. Wesley's "What shall I do my God to love," p. 827, ii.

When shall I see the welcome hour? Part of C. Wesley's "My God, I know, I feel Thee mine," p. 779, ii.

When shall that accord of gladness. J. Edmeston. [Mission.] From his Fifty Missionary Hys., 1833, into a few collections.

When the morning paints the sky. Sp. H. H. Dickerstith. [Christ, the Child's Example.] Written in 1860; pub. in his From Year to Year, 1865; and included in the Hy. Comp., 1880. In the latter the author says, "This hymn was suggested by seeing the words 'What a friend we have in Jesus' illuminated letters on a card suspended in a children's room."

When thou, O Lord, in flesh wert dost. J. Austice. [Christmas.] From his posthumous Hymns, 1826.

When Thy soldiers take their swords. Frances M. Owen. [Confirmation.] Written circa 1870, and pub. in her Simple and Poems, 1887. It is in Hys. for the Use of the Chapel of Cheltenham Coll., 1890, &c. Frances M. Owen is the fourth of the Rev. J. A. Owen, Assistant Master of Cheltenham College, was b. April 16, 1845, and d. June 16, 1885.

When up to mighty skies we gaze. John Sterling. [Trust.] In Muirhead's Hys., 1875, this hymn is dated 1816. It is also in Horder's Cong. Hys., 1884, and others.

WRESTLING IN [APPENDIX II.] ZINZENDORF, N. L. 1597

America.—(1) "Eternal God, celestial King," Pr. Ind., (2) "Praise the Lord, His power confess," Ps. cl.; (3) "To Thee, my righteous King and Lord," Ps. cxiii.

Wrestling in agony, wrestling alone. Hy. E. H. Bickersteth. (Good Friday.) Concerning this "Story of the Cross" Dr. Bickersteth says in his note thereon in the 1890 ed. of his Hy. Comp.:—"These verses on the Passion of Jesus were written for the Hymn Book of Dr. Doddridge's congregation at the Castle, by the late Rev. Edward Mores [p. 1272, i.]. For the dramatic conception the Editor is indebted to Mr. Mores; and the measure and structure are the same as his. But the facts dwelt upon are different, and they reflect a different aspect of the Passion. They have been sung for the last forty years by constantly increasing numbers on the Tuesday, Thursday Week, and especially on Good Friday. The Editor has therefore ventured to include them in this Hymnal."

Y

Ye heavens with sounds of triumph ring. P. Doddridge. [Christ Glorified.] From his posthumous Hymns, &c., 1755.

Ye holy angels bright. R. Baxter. (United Praise to God.) This in Cheps's Hyl., 1855; the S. P. C. K. Church Hys., 1871; the 1880, Suppl. Hys. to H. A. & M., and others, is altered from Baxter's "Psalm of Praise," in his Poetical Fragments, 1681. The recast is by Mr. Chope.

Ye hosts of heaven, ye mighty ones. [Pr. ante.] This is from the 1741 Appendix, No. 72, as a recast of the Old Version rendering of Ps. lx. and was made for that Coll. by G. Rawson. See Old Version, p. 860, ii.

Ye men and angels, witness now. An altered form of "Witness, ye men and angels now," p. 126, i. 65.

Ye saints, assist me in my song. W. B. Collyer. [Redeeming Love.] From his Coll., 1812, No. 522.

Ye seed of Jacob, one and all. From J. Keble's "My God, my God, why hast Thou me?" p. 612, ii. 35.

Ye weak inhabitants of clay. P. Doddridge. [Greatness of God.] From his posthumous Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 87, in 6 st. of 4 l. It is in the S. text, but undated.

Ye who have traced our Saviour's path. An altered form of "Ye who have traced the blessed path Your Lord," p. 304, ii., in Bevan-Bartlewick's Select Hys., 1851-65, made by the Rev. J. Silleto.

Yerbury, W. His Hys. and Poems for Believers, were pub. posthumously (to the Preface) but without date. One or two hymns therefrom are in the hymnals of the Plymouth Brethren, including the first, "Thy Name we love, Lord Jesus." (The Name of Jesus.)

Yes, faith can pierce the awful gloom. A cento from P. Doddridge's "Eternal and immortal King," p. 242, i., st. ii., iii., v., altered in the Leeds S. Bk., 1853, No. 340.

Yet one more day is well-nigh flown. T. Davis. [Evening.] From his Hys. Old and New, 1864, into the Universal H. Bk., 1885.

The following notices were omitted in error :—

Sachs, Hans, the famous German poet and shoemaker, was b. at Nürnberg, Nov. 5, 1494; settled there in 1516 after his journeyman wanderings, and d. there on the evening of Jan. 19, 1576. See full account of his life and writings in Goedeke's Grundriss zur Geschichte der deutschen Dichtung, xxx., 115, &c.). His poetical works were collected at Nürnberg in 3 vols., folio, 1558-61 (vol. 4, 1579; vol. 5, 1579); and a complete ed. of his works is now being pub. by the Literary Union of Stuttgart, of which vol. xvii. appeared in 1868. His pre-Reformation hymns are in Wackernagel, ii., Nos. 42-46; his post-Reformation hymns by Wackernagel, iii., Nos. 43-596. Two of his hymns (Wackernagel, iii., Nos. 60, 97) have been tr. by Hy. Coverdale, 1539 (see p. 662, ii., Nos. 16, 27); and two others (Wackernagel, iii., Nos. 60, 93) by Miss Winkworth, 1855, pp. 131, 134. See also p. 1256, i., and p. 1262, ii.

Salis-Seewis, Johann Gaudenz, Baron von, was b. Dec. 16, 1762, at the castle of Bothmar (Bothmar), near Malans, Canton Grisons, Switzerland. In 1781 to 1792 he was an officer in the French army; and after 1798 he held various offices connected with the Swiss Militia, and with his native canton. He d. at Bothmar, Jan. 29, 1834, and was buried at Seewis, near Malans (Allg., Deutsche Biog., xxx., 245, &c.). His Poems appeared as his Gedichte at Zürich, 1793; 2nd ed., 1794; 3rd ed., 1800; 4th ed., 1811; 5th ed., 1821; 6th ed., 1828; 7th ed., 1837 (all in Berlin Library), and many later eds. The most famous of his poems is "Das Grab ist tief und stille" (in his Gedichte, 1793, p. 34, entitled "The Grave, 1783"), of which there are at least 7 trs. into English. The only one in English C. T. as a hymn is :—

Das stille Land! Wer leitet uns hinüber. For the Dying. 1st pub. in his Gedichte, Neue Auflage, Zürich, 1800, p. 141, in 3 st. of 7 l., each ending "Das stille Land." It is in Goedeke, Cologne, 1916, p. 194. The tr. in C. T. is :—

Into the Silent Land! Ah! who shall lead us thither. In full by H. W. Longfellow in his Voices of the Night, Cambridge, U. S., 1846, p. 141, repeated in the later eds. of his Poetical Works. Included in Hedge and Huntington's Hys. for the Church of Christ, 1853, and Hedge's Hymns for the Church, 1872. It has been retranslated into Greek verse by Dr. B. H. Kennedy, in his Between Whiles, 1877. There are at least three other versions in English. [J. M.]

NEW SUPPLEMENT.

A.

A Babe is born in Bethlehem. This is the reading of "A Boy is born," &c., p. 940, ii. 6, in the 1906 ed. of Hys. for the use of the Birmingham Oratory.

A crown of glory bright [high], p. 214, i. This hymn, attributed to Alice Cary in most collections of hymns, is claimed by Mr. Hubert Main of New York for Phoebe Cary (p. 214, i.), sister of Alice. It appeared anonymously in a Sunday School hymn book published by the S. School Union, N. Y., in 1860. [J. J.]

A Patre unigenitus, pp. 3, i.; 1049, i. T. B. Pollock's tr. "The Father's sole-begotten Son," in Hys. A. & M., 1889, is recast in the 1904 ed., and is claimed as by "The Compilers."

A Saint! O would that I could claim, p. 718, i. 1. This hymn by J. Marriott is in the Fuller-Maitland Hys. for Private Devotion, 1827, p. 182, and is marked as by Marriott. [J. J.]

A solis ortus cardine Ad usque, p. 4, i. Of J. Ellerton's tr., p. 4, ii. 4, the following forms are in C. U.:—

1. Church Hys., 1863, the text as in 1871.
2. Hys. A. & M., ed. 1868. J. Ellerton's tr., sts. i., ii., v., vi., altered; sts. iii., iv., new tr. by the Compilers; doxology new.
3. Hys. A. & M., new ed., 1904, sts. i., ii., v., vi., vii., as in 1868; sts. iii., iv., altered; and sts. iii., iv., newly tr. by the Compilers.
4. The English Hys., 1906, is the Hys. A. & M. text of 1868, unaltered.

Other trs. of the "Hostis Herodes" cento are:—

1. Why doth that impious Herod fear, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 79, as Neale and Compilers, only two lines being from Neale, viz. st. i., l. 1, "Why doth that impious Herod fear" with st. i., l. 4, iii., and st. iv., ll. 1, 2, rewritten.
2. Why, ruthless Herod, vainly fear, in the Office H. Bk., 1880, No. 538 (1885, No. 195), based on Copeland and Neale.
3. Why, impious Herod, should'st thou fear, by P. Dearmer in The English Hys., 1906, No. 38. [J. M.]

A solis ortus cardine Et usque, p. 5, ii. This cento has not been traced earlier than the printed Mozarabic Breviary of 1502. See Dreves, xxvii., p. 118.

Abelard, p. 7, i. The hymns of Abelard have been re-edited from the Brussels MS., and from a late 15th cent. MS. at Chaumont, by G. M. Dreves, as the Hymnarius Paraclitensis (Paris, 1891). Again in vol. xlviii. (1905) of the Analecta Hymnica, Nos. 111–249, prefaced by a short biographical note in which it is said that the "Mittit ad virginem" (p. 760, i.) cannot be regarded as Abelard's. The "O quanta qualia," p. 666, i., is No. 120 in vol. xlviii.; the "Tuba Domini," p. 1188, i., is 201. [J. M.]

Abide in me, O Lord, and I in Thee. This begins with st. 2 of Mrs. H. B. Stowe's "That mystic word of Thine," p. 1096, ii. 8, slightly altered. Another extract from the same hymn begins with st. iii., "Abide in me; O'ershadow by Thy love." The full text is in Horder's Treas. Amer. S. Song., 1896. [J. J.]

Abide in Thee, in that deep love of Thine. J. D. Smith. [Union with Christ.] From Hys. of Life and Peace, 1869, p. 4, into a limited number of American hymnals.

Abide with me; fast falls the eventide, pp. 7, i.; 1249, i. Lyte's original text of st. viii., l. 2, "Speak through the gloom, and point me to the skies," is restored in the 1903 ed. of Church Hys. and other collections.

Abide with me from morn till [to] even. A cento from J. Kehle's "In gone, that bright and ceheb blare," p. 1178, ii., in a few American collections.

Ach bleib bei uns, p. 1040, i. Another tr. is:—

Now cheer our hearts this eventide, in the Tattersdow Hyl., 1899, No. 13, with the note at p. 8: "This adaptation, a hymn for weekday evenings, is part of Paul's setting." [J. M.]

Ach lieber Herre Jesu Christ, p. 897, i. In the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 502, Miss Winkworth's tr. appears as "O Jesu Christ, our Lord most dear."

Ad coenam Agni provisi, p. 11, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. The Lamb's high banquet doth invite, a full and good tr. in the Tattersdow Hyl., 1899, No. 40, marked as "Translated by R. B."
2. The Lamb's high banquet calls to share, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 213. The 1st and 4th sts. are taken from H. A. & M., 1861 (p. 18, i. 2).
3. In addition we must note that the text of Hys. A. & M., 1861, p. 18, i. 2, is repeated in the 1868 ed. of 1875, with the addition of st. vii., from J. M. Neale's tr. of "Aurora lucis," st. viii. slightly altered, and that The English Hymnal, No. 158, is J. M. Neale's text from the Hymnal Noted, unaltered, with the addition of st. vii., as in Hys. A. & M., but tr. or altered by another hand. [J. M.]

Ad Jesum accurrite. [Epiphany.] This is in the Paris Missal of 1685, p. 42, and in many later French missals. Also in Daniel, ii. p. 344, and in Card. Newman's Hy. Eccl., 1838, and 1865. Tr. as:—

Take Jesus hasten ye, by M. J. Blacker, in the Hymner, 1872, No. 21, and the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 131. [J. M.]

Ad perennis vitae fontem, pp. 13, i.; 1249, i. The hymn in the St. Gall MS. No. 1771 is printed in Dreves, xxxii., p. 186. It goes on "et amoena pascua," and is quite different from the Durham hymn. [J. M.]

1600 AD QUEM AETERNA CHRISTI

Ad quem diu suspiravi. [Thanksgiving after Holy Communion.] This fine hymn was apparently written in Germany between 1800 and 1850. The text is in the Manuale Sacerdotum of the Rev. Joseph Schneider, S.J., ed. 1893, p. 166, and in the Communion Day of the Rev. Matthew Russell, S.J., ed. 1902, p. 61. It has been ascribed to Prince Alexander Hohenlohe (q.v.), but we have been unable to trace it definitely to him. It is tr. as:—

Be When I have sighed for long. By Matthew Russell, S.J., in his Hymns, Hymns and Hymns, 1903, p. 313, and abridged and beginning with st. iv., as "Happy day and happy hour," in St. Patrick's H. Bk., Dublin, 1904, No. 38. [J. M.]

Ad Regias Agni dapes, p. 13, ii. Another tr. is "Now at the Lamb's high spousal-tide," by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hyl., 1902.

Adams, Beresford, b. Sept. 2, 1850, at Cross o' th' Hands, near Bradford, Derbyshire, now (1908) resides at Chester. His hymns, chiefly on Temperance, include:—

1. Almighty God, our Heavenly King. For Children. Christian Endeavour Hymnal, 1896, No. 398.

2. O, God of light! about Thy throne. Christian Heroes. Written 1897, first printed in the N. Y. Chronicle, revised for S. S. Hymnary, 1905, No. 586. [J. M.]

Ades Pater supreme, p. 19, ii. Additional trs. of "Cultor Dei memento" are:—

1. O child of God, remember Thy soul's regeneration, in the Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 298.

2. O child of God, remember When thou to Christ wast born. By E. Caswall, in his Masque of Mary, 1858, p. 274, and Hys. for the Year 1887.

3. Servant of God, remember The holy Font's bedewing. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 136, by the Compilers. It is based on Mr. Hare's version, but ll. 3, 4 of st. vi. are not by him.

4. O child of God, remember The stream thy soul bedewing, a good tr. by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 194.

Adeste fideles, pp. 20, i; 1349, ii. The earliest text yet discovered is in a MS. at Stonyhurst College, entitled Cantus Diversi pro Nomine Jesu et Festis per Annum, written in 1751 by John Francis Wade, a priest who often acted as music transcriber. There the text is as in the Evening Office of 1760, i.e., sts. 1, 2, 7, 8 of the long form (see The Music of the Church Hymnary, by William Cowan and James Love, Henry Frowde, 1901, pp. 5–8). It has been ascribed to Etienne Jean François Borderies (b. at Montauban 1764, consecrated 1827 as Bishop of Versailles, d. at Versailles Aug. 4, 1832), who edited a Breviary (1828) and a Missal (1832) for his diocese. The Breviary is said to contain hymns by him, but those marked "B" are really by the Abbé Sebastian Besnault. The "Adeste fideles" is not in the Versailles Brev. of 1828, or in the Versailles Missal of 1832. It is in the Graduel noté à l'usage de Versailles, Versailles, 1835, vol. i., p. 185, with sts. 1, 3, 5, 6 of the long form, appointed for "The Nativity of our Lord, at the Midnight Mass. At the Elevation, if that is the custom." Bp. Borderies was certainly not the author of the English form, and the form of 1835 was already in use at St. Omer in 1822 (see p. 20, i.). Additional trs. are:—

1. Ye faithful, approach ye, in the Altar Hyl., 1861, No. 1, with trs. of sts. iii.–vi., by W. T. Brooke.

2. O come, all ye faithful, in the Arundel Hys. 19-0, No. 23, with trs. of sts. ii., v., vi., by J. O'Connor.

3. Be present, ye faithful, in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 13, with trs. of sts. iii., iv., vi., based on the Altar Hyl., 1861.

4. O come, all ye faithful, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 353, with trs. of sts. iii.–vi., based on the Altar Hyl., 1861.

5. O come, all ye faithful. In The English Hyl., 1906, No. 24 in the ordinary form of the text, and No. 614, with the addition of trs. of sts. iii., iv., vi., based on W. T. Brooke in the Altar Hyl., 1894. [J. M.]

Adhuc reges insurgunt in ejus locum. [St. Thomas of Canterbury.] This is in the Paris Missal of 1706 (so Chevalier's Repertorium, No. 494; it is not in the Office of 1706 for Dec. 29). Tr. as:—

Rise and overmuch, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hys., 1905, with the Latin text, as No. 324. [J. M.]

Adler, Felix, PH.D. Born in Germany in 1851; taken to New York in 1857; graduated at Columbia College 1870; and Professor of Hebrew and Oriental Literature at Cornell University 1874–76. He published in 1877 Creed and Deed. His hymn, "Sing we of the golden city" ("City of our Hopes") is in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. Sometimes given as "Have you heard of the golden city?" [J. J.]

Adoro Te devote, pp. 23, i; 1049, ii. This hymn, but without the refrain "Ave Jesu," is in the Nucleus Catholicae Inventionis . . . R. P. Bartholdi de Feur, Vienna, 1663, p. 228. Neither the hymn nor the refrain are in the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671. The hymn, with the refrain "Ave Jesu," is in the Symphonia Sirenum, Cologne, 1695, p. 114. The form "Adsum to supplex" is found in the Andernach G. B., 1608; see Bäumker, i., p. 166. Additional trs. are:—

1. O Hidden God, devoutly unto Thee, by Father George Tyrrell, in the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 120.

2. Thee we adore, O hidden Saviour. Thee, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 209, marked as Bishop Woodford and from No. 312 in the ed. of 1875; and in G. R. Woodford and from No. 312 in the ed. of 1875; mainly because sts. iii., ii. 3, 4, are now a more literal tr. of iv., ii. 3, 4:—

"Fac me tui te semper pie cuiere, Ita te spem habere, te diligere."

(on Mone from the Reichenau ms. 36; Daniel and Mone's Footsong ms.—81 of the 13th cent.—read "Fac me tibi semper magis credere.") Bp. Woodford's tr. originally appeared in his "Plain Song for Jews." His original tr. is in the S.P.C.K. Ch. Hys., 1903.

3. Thee prostrate I adore, the Deity that lies. By J. D. Aylward in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1894, p. 187, and St. Dominic's H. Bk., 1885, 1901. [J. M.]

Adversa mundi tolera, p. 23, ii. This is also in a MS. of c. 1480 at Zwolle. See O. A. Spitzen's Nalezing op enjin Thomas a Kempis, 1881, p. 61.

Aeterna Christi munera, Apostolorum, p. 24, ii. The tr. beginning "The eternal gifts of Christ the King. The Apostles' glorious [1905, "wondrous"] deeds we sing," in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 792, and 1905, No. 268, is based on Neale.

Aeterna Christi munera Et martyrum, p. 24, i. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 202, beginning "Th' eternal gifts of Christ the King, The Martyrs' triumphs let us sing," is marked as by R. Campbell and Compilers; but only st. iii., ll. 1, 2, altered, are by Campbell. Another tr. from the "Christo profusum sanguinem" text is "The Martyrs' wondrous deeds we sing," in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 799, and 1905, No. 275. [J. M.]

AETERNA COELI AITKEN, WILLIAM 1601

Aeterna coeli gloria, p. 25, i. Another tr. is:—O Christ, Whose glory fills the heaven," an excellent tr. by J. Julian, contributed to the S.P.C.K. Church Hys., 1903, No. 67.

Aeterne Rector siderum, p. 26, i. Another tr. is "Eternal Ruler of the sky," in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 261.

Aeterne Rex altissime, p. 26, ii. The tr. beginning, "O Thou Eternal King most High," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 167, is marked as Neale and Compilers; but not one line remains as Neale wrote it. The opening line, but nothing more, is from Caswall. [J. M.]

Aeterni Patris Unice, p. 28, i. In the Vesp. D. xii., this hymn is in a hand of the 12th cent. Another tr. of the "Summi Parentis" text is "Regard us with a pitying eye," in the Office H. Bk., 1880. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, No. 248, the text of 1875 is repeated ("Son of the Highest," &c.), with alterations in st. ii., iii., which bring the tr. nearer to Caswall's original text. [J. M.]

After the darkness, lo, the light. E. F. Hood. [The Life Beyond.] From his Our Hymn Book, 1870, No. 218, into The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900, and other collections.

Ainger, Arthur Campbell, M.A., s. of the Rev. F. A. Ainger, incumbent of Hampstead, Middlesex; b. in 1841, educated Trinity Coll., Cambridge, 1st Class Class. Trip. 1864, Assistant Master at Eton 1864–1901. Author of Eton Songs, 1901–2; Carmen Etonense, Vale, &c., and joint author with H. G. Winkle, M.A., of an English-Latin Verse Dictionary. Mr. Ainger's hymns in C. U. are the following:—

1. God is working His purpose out. [Missions.] Written and first pub. in 1894, with Dedication to Archbishop Benson. It was given in Church Hys., 1903, Hys. A. & M., 1904, and other collections.

2. God of our Fathers, unto Thee. [National Thanksgiving.] Written in 1900, and first printed in the Times of that year. Subsequently pub. by Novello & Co. with music by Sir J. Stainer, and included in Church Hys., 1903, and other collections.

3. Let all our brethren join in one. [Harvest.] Included in C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1865.

4. Let God arise to lead forth those. [In Time of War.] Written in 1900, and first printed in the Times the same year. Subsequently pub. by Novello & Co. with music by Sir J. Stainer, and included in Church Hys., 1903, and other collections.

5. Like a mighty man rejoicing in his strength. [Missions.] Written by request for the S.P.G. Centenary, and pub. in the Centenary collection of Hymns, 1901.

6. Not ours to mourn and weep. [Lent. For the Times.] Written in 1900, and pub. in the Times.

7. To them who have, O Lord. [Holy Matrimony.] A Wedding Hymn, published with music by Novello & Co., 1903. A most acceptable addition to hymns for H. Matrimony.

8. Praise the Lord: to-day we raise Hymns of thankfulness and praise. [Old Hymns.] Written in 1900, and first printed in the Times of that year, with music, by Novello & Co. Included in Church Hys., 1903.

9. Praise the Lord: to day we sing, Birthday of our Founder King. [For Founder's Day.] Written for use at Eton, and included in Eton Songs, 1901–2, as "Hymn for Founder's Day." Admirably suited, with slight change in the opening line, for any Public School.

10. Upraise the stately temple. [Dedication of a School Chapel.] Written in 1891, and published in his Eton Songs, 1901–2.

Mr. Ainger has written several other hymns, including one for the Coronation of King Edward VII., a Thanksgiving Hymn for his recovery from sickness (Skeffington's), and others not in C. U. [J. J.]

Aitken, William Hay Macdowall Hunter, M.A., youngest son of Robert Aitken, sometime Vicar of Pendeen, was b. at Liverpool Sep. 21, 1841, and educated at Wadham Coll., Oxford., B.A. in honours in 1865. He was ordained to the Curacy of St. Jude's, Mildmay Park, N., in 1865; became Incumbent of Christ Church, Everton, Liverpool, in 1871, but he resigned in 1875 in order to devote himself entirely to parochial mission work. He became General Superintendent of the Church Parochial Mission Society in 1877, and Canon Residentiary of Norwich in 1900. He has published twelve vols. of sermons, together with other works. His hymns in C. U., mainly in Home Mission Hymn Books, include:—

1. Bow down Thine ear, in mercy hearken. [Penitence.] Canon Aitken's account of the origin of this hymn is:—"Mr. Stephens (q.v.), who for long years assisted me in my mission work, showed me a ms. of a hymn he had written, and asked me to give him my opinion of criticism. I was pressed with the general clumsiness of the hymn, but it seemed to me to be spoilt by the absence of rhyme in the first and third lines of each verse . . . I rewrote it, and hence it bears the initials of both of us. It has proved a most useful hymn in our work."

2. Come, ye loyal hearts and true. [Christmas.] Written circ. 1877–8 Holmside, Derby.

3. Father of lights, again these newborn rays. [Morning.] No. 3 in the Home St. Book, 1876, was written at Bedford for that work.

4. I have sinned. Thou know'st how deeply. [Repentance.] Written at Holmside, Derby, for Hys. for a Parochial Mission, 1871, and signed "Penitent." Included in the Liverpool Weekly, No. 873, and enlarged in 1877. It was contributed to this second edition.

5. Let it be now: too long hast thou delayed. [Entreaty.] Also written at Holmside, Derby, for the 2nd ed. of the Hys. for a Parochial Mission, 1871.

6. Look to Jesus and be saved. [Invitation.] Written for use at the new ed. of Hys. for a Parochial Mission, 1883.

7. O leave we all for Jesus. [Confirmation.] Canon Aitken's history of this hymn is:—"I was pressed by my dear father, the late Rev. Robert Aitken, to come and help him in his well-remembered mission at St. Paul's, Newport, in 1871. I was reluctant to do so, as I felt I had enough to occupy me in the mission work at my parish in Everton, Liverpool, and was much interested in them. But there was no escape from his orders, and I had to come to his help. He made me preach when I am sure that the people would have much preferred to hear him, and I retired to my room that night with so much on my mind in connection with the work that I found it impossible to sleep. At last I got up, struck a light, and wrote this hymn for my candidates to sing at the evening confirmation. It was sung then, and subsequently printed in my Supplement to Hymns for a Parochial Mission, 1873." [J. J.]

8. Once more, my soul. [Searching for Christ.] Written at Bedford for the 1880 ed. of Hys. for a Parochial Mission. It was composed for a special tune.

9. Pitiful Saviour, mighty and tender. [Waiting in Love.] Written for the 1880 ed. of Hys. for a Parochial Mission, to an old air attributed to the Crusaders and known as "Jerusalem the Golden." It was first published earlier than 1842. See "Jerusalem the Golden," p. 1818, i.

10. Quit you like men! Life's battle. [Confession of Christ.] Written at the Rectory, Northampton, in 1867, after preaching to a large congregation of men on the words "Quit you like men." Printed as a leaflet, and then included in the 1868 ed. of Hys. for a Parochial Mission, and later in other collections.

1). Stricken by the tyrant dread. [Ezekiel's Vision.] Written at Holmesfield, Derby, for the 1877 ed. of Hys. for a Parochial Mission.

Canon Aitken edited the two editions of the Hys. for a Parochial Mission, 1873 and 1877, and was also the composer of twenty-four tunes set to Mission Hys. in that collection. [J. J.]

Alas, my God, that we should be. From T. Shepherd's Penitential Cries, in J. Mason's Penitential Cries, Begun by the Author of the Songs of Praise. And carried on by another Hand, 1693, &c., i.e. T. Shepherd (pp. 717, i. l. 1044, ii.). It is from the same piece as "When wilt Thou come unto us, Lord," p. 1055, i. [J. J.]

Alcott, Louisa M., p. 1550, i. Mrs. Eva Munson Smith, in her Women in Sacred Song, 1885, p. 668, gives Miss Alcott's hymn, "A little kingdom I possess," and prints a note thereon from Miss Alcott, dated "Concord, Oct. 7, 1885," in which Miss Alcott says that this hymn is "the only hymn I ever wrote. It was composed at thirteen, and . . . still expresses my soul's desire." The hymn is in the Bap. School Hyl., 1880, and others. [J. J.]

Alcuin [Alcuinus] Albinus Flaccus, was born in Yorkshire (and probably at York), c. 735. He received his early education under Egbert, Archbishop of York, to whom he was librarian for some time. Subsequently, in 782, at the request of Charlemagne, he went to France and attained there a position of considerable importance. He died at Tours in 804. His connection with hymnology is slight. His Opera were edited by Du Chesne, and published in Paris in 1617. See "Luminis fons, lux et origo lucis," p. 1047, i. [J. J.]

Alderson, Eliza S., p. 38, i. She was b. Aug. 16, 1818, and died at Kirkthorpe, Yorkshire, Mar. 18, 1889.

1. The herald bird, in accents clear, in the Office of Hymns, 1880, No. 198.

2. The herald bird, whose clarion gay. A spirited version by W. J. Courthope, contributed to the S. P.C.K. Church Hys., 1883, No. 41. [J. M.]

Alexander, Cecil F., p. 39, ii. Mrs. Alexander d. at Londonderry, Oct. 12, 1895. A number of her later hymns are in her Poems, 1896, which were edited by Archbishop Alexander.

Alexander, W., p. 39, i. Bp. Alexander was translated as Archbishop to Armagh in Feb., 1896.

All we like wandering sheep have strayed, p. 66, ii. This hymn is by the Rev. F. Skurray (p. 325, ii.) and is a conto from "Prediction of Messiah" given in the section "Sacred Miscellanies" in his A Metrical Version of the Book of Psalms, &c., 1843. The original is in 13 st. of 4 l. [J. J.]

Alleluia dulce carmen, p. 48, i. Other trs. include:—

1. Hallelujah to our King: That's the song good angels sing. By N. Parish, 1715, p. xx.

2. Hallelujah! Song of triumph. By C. Bonner, in the Manchester Congreg. Mag., 1856, reprinted in the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896, and the S. S. Hymnary, 1895. [J. M.]

Allon, H., p. 51, ii. He d. April 16, 1892.

Alma chorus Domini. [Name of Jesus.] This has been ascribed to Nother Balbulus, but it is not in any of the early St. Gall mss. which contain his Liber Sequentiarum. At pp. 814, 1043, it is cited as in six mss. earlier than 1100. It is in the Sarum, York, Hereford, and many other Missals; but with all its popularity it is merely a string of epithets. In the Sarum and Hereford Missals it is given for the Thursday after Whit Sunday and in the Marriage Service, in the Hereford Breviary for the Name of Jesus. Printed text in Kehrein, No. 140, &c. Tr. as:—

Now let our voices rehearse our Lord's sweet (dear) titles in order. In the Hymner, 1851, No. 163, 1864, No. 112, and New Office H. &c., 1868, No. 308. [J. M.]

Almighty God, Who dwellest not In temples made with hands. Mary F. Maude. [Consecration of Church.] Written for the opening of the chancel of Christ Church, Crewe, Jan. 25, 1869, and printed in The Church Monthly, 1890, p. 127. [J. J.]

Alpha et ω magne Deus. Hildebert. [The Holy Trinity.] M. Haureau, in his Mélanges Poétiques d'Hildebert, 1882, p. 72, says this poem appears with Hildebert's name in a 12th cent. ms. in the Bibl. Nat. Paris (Lat. 15291). Among the mss. in the B. M. it is found in Reg. 8 A. xiii., f. 68b, of c. 1200; Reg. 11 B. ii., f. 103, of c. 1200 (beginning imperfectly, a leaf being missing); Arundel 201, f. 74b, of the 13th cent., and others. Also in two 12th cent. mss. at the Bodleian (Canon. Misc. 206, f. 101), and at Trinity College, Cambridge (76, f. 128, from Christ Church, Canterbury). It is in many other mss. which appear to be not later than 1199, e.g. Paris, Mazarine, 695; Berlin, 182; Evreux, 54; Rouen, 543; Toulouse, 102. Printed text in Mone, No. 11; Trench, ed. 1864, p. 323, &c. The complete poem is in by R. C. Benedict in his Hymns of Hildebert, N.Y., 1867, p. 3, as "Father, God, my God, all seeing"; and as "Alpha, Omega, Almighty" by Dr. H. M. Macgill, 1876, Nos. 3–11. Other trs. of the various parts are indexed at pp. 656–661 of this Dictionary. The only tr. in C. U. appears to be "Mine abode may Syon be," beginning with "Me receptet Syon illa," by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 182. [J. M.]

Als der betrübte Tag, p. 673, i. Another tr. is:—

When low in heaven the sun was now descended, a very free tr., marked as "English, by R. B.," in the Vollenhov Hyl., 1899, No. 37.

Alston, Alfred Edward, s. of E. G. Alston, Queen's Advocate at Sierra Leone, b. in 1862, and educated at St. Paul's School and Gloucester Theo. Coll. D. 1886; F. 1887; Curate of St. Mark's, Gloucester, 1886–7; and since 1887 Rector of Framingham-Earl, with Bixley. In 1904 the following Carols by Mr. Alston, with Tunes by Robin H. Legge, were included in the Chandler Hymnal:—

1. Cometh the day when the gloom fled away. [Purification B. V. M.] Written in 1894, and pub. by Novello & Co. the same year in Twelve New Christmas Carols, No. 1. Also in the B. H. Legge.

2. Cometh the night when the Lord of light. [Christmas Eve.] Written in 1900, and pub. in Novello's Christmas Carols, No. 137.

3. Herod the king in his palace sate. [Epiphany.] Written in 1886, and published as No. 346 of Novello's Christmas Carols.

4. Praise we now the holy light. [Purification B. V. M.] Written in 1890, and pub. as No. 347 in Novello's Christmas Carols.

5. Sweet Mary where she lay. [Annunciation B. V. M.] Included in Aiken and Legge's Twelve New Christmas Carols, 1894.

See also Mr. Alston's tr. of "O Pater sancte," in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. His trs. from the Latin, Some Liturgical Hymns, &c., were pub. in 1903. [J. J.]

Altus prosator, vetustus dierum, p. 55, i. The text of this hymn, with the Irish preface, is given in the Irish Liber Hymnorum (H. B. S.), 1898, vol. i., pp. 62–83; the trs. of the prefaces, with notes, at vol. ii., pp. 23–26, 140–169. The preface states that it was composed by St. Columba at Iona, while he was grinding a bag of oats, the grinding and the composition being completed together. The notes, which include a prose tr. of the hymn, are very full and interesting. [J. M.]

Ambrosius, p. 56, i. During a visit to Italy Father Dreves made a careful study of the early hymnaries in the Vatican and at Milan, and pub. the results, so far as they relate to St. Ambrose, in his Aurelius Ambrosius der Vater des Kirchengesanges, Freiburg im Breisgau, 1893. He classifies the hymns of St. Ambrose thus:—

I. Certified as his by early writers.

1. Aeterne rerum Conditor.
2. Deus Creator omnium.
3. Illuminans altissimus.
4. Intende qui regis (Veni Redemptor).
5. Jam surgit hora tertia.

II. Others also genuine.

6. Aeterne Christi munera, Et martyrum.
7. Agnes beatae virginis.
8. Amore Christi nobilis.
9. Apostolorum passio.
10. Apostolorum supparem.
11. Grates tibi, Jesu, novae.
12. Hic est dies verus Dei.
13. Splendor paternae gloriae.
14. Victor, Sator, Fons, pii.

III. Possibly his.

15. Jesu corona virginum.
16. Nunc Sancte nobis Spiritus.
17. Rector potens, verax Deus.
18. Rerum Deus tenax vigor.

Most of the same conclusions had been reached by Luigi Biraghi in his Inni Sinceri e Carmi di Sant' Ambrogio, Milan, 1862. [J. M.]

American Hymnody, pp. 57–61 and pp. 1025–28. Since the publication of this Dictionary in 1892, considerable activity has been displayed in the compilation and publication of hymnals both officially and by private firms.

This period has been characterized by great improvement in the materials for praise which have been officially provided by the different denominations. These official books, except in the case of the Prot. Episcopal Church, are not of compulsory use. They have, however, now reached to such a degree of excellence that year by year the market for hymnals of an unofficial character narrows perceptibly. The once large and profitable trade of hymnal compiling and publishing is fast passing away. Such books continue to appear, and in improved forms, but it is doubtful if recent issues have been profitable. On the other hand, the demand for hymn books of a lighter character, for Sunday Schools and informal services of various kinds, has caused a large output of these books. In respect to Sunday School hymnody, several denominations have published hymnals of a higher tone and of a more intellectual character than heretofore.

In the hymnals for Church use there has been a decided advance, especially in catholicity of spirit, in literary merit, and care in editing. The most marked change has been in the elevated character of the musical setting of the hymns. In this direction the Anglican school has been most influential.

Following the order of the original article on this subject (pp. 57–61), we find that the

I. Protestant Episcopal Church issued in 1892 The Hymnal Revised and Enlarged as the "authorized Hymnal of this Church." It contains 679 hymns (of which 373 are new to the Prot. Epis. H. Book), a large proportion of which are from the Church of England hymnals. It is on the usual Anglican lines in arrangement, and has much in common with Hys. A. & M. and the Scottish Hymnal.

II. Presbyterians. The Presb. Board of Publication, Phila., has issued the following new and official books:—(1) The Hymnal Published by Authority of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, Phila., 1895. It contains 724 hymns with tunes. Musically and poetically it marks a long step forward. (2) Church Hymns and Tunes. (3) The Chapel Hymnal, Phila., 1898. It contains 370 hymns with tunes. (3) The School Hymnal, Phila., 1899. These hymnals have had a sale to date of over 600,000, and have been adopted by nearly 3,000 churches. This series has proved most successful in elevating the service of praise in the congregations.

The Southern branch of the Presb. Church (separated from the Northern since the Civil War) an official hymnal was published at Richmond, Va., in 1902, the The New Psalms and Hymns Published by Authority of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, A.D. 1901. It contains 715 hymns with tunes. These hymns have been selected and edited on the principles which have been followed by the Northern branch of the Church, and include a large proportion from old writers.

III. Congregationalists. By the adoption of the Presbyterian Hymnal of 1895 (re-issued in 1897 as The Hymnal for Use in Congregational Churches) and The Chapel Hymnal, and the publication of Pilgrim Songs for Sunday Schools, the Congregationalists have a full series of official books covering all services. In 1904 it issued The Pilgrim Hymnal, a book of 547 hymns with tunes, with "Responsive Readings and other aids to Worship," and full indices. It especially aimed to express "communion with God in His oneness and living Presence," and the new zeal for social service—rejecting many hymns of controversial character, and including others for practical excellence. As unofficial book, The Pilgrim Hymnal, N.Y., 1902, edited by Dr. Lyman Abbott, on somewhat similar lines, is also of marked literary excellence and of beautiful outward form. The Pastor's edition of the same is of more than usual merit.

IV. Baptists. The American Baptist Publication Society, Philadelphia, has issued The Service of Song for Churches, &c., as Sarum Cycle: A Book of Praise, Phila. It was edited by E. H. Johnson, D.D., and L. E. Ayres, who also edited the Baptist Hymnal, 1883. The Sarum Cycle is well supplied with indices and biographical notes.

The Baptist Church, N.Y., has issued a book of anthems, The New Salmon, a well-to-do Book of Praise, 1897. The editing has been done with care, and the collection is a decided success. The Circassian Hymnal, by A. J. Gordon and A. T. Pierson, N.Y., is an unofficial collection of this body, and is decidedly Evangelical in character.

V. Methodists. The Methodist Hymnal, the "Official Hymnal of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South," for Methodist Episcopal Church, South," was published in August, 1905. It contains 745 hymns, as against 1,127 of the earlier book, of which only 475 are retained. The exclusion of many of C. Wesley's hymns, and the inclusion of a large number of those most valued by other Christian bodies, make the book approximate to the Anglican and Presbyterian books, and in this respect mean an advance in culture and comprehensiveness. The indices are full and generally reliable. The African Methodist Episcopal Hymn and Tune Book, of which Bishop Embry was the principal compiler, was published in 1806. It contains by way of introduction a complete reprint of the article on Methodist Hymnody from this Dictionary, pp. 738-742.

vi. Cumberlandite. Their Church Harmonist, New and Improved, Nashville, Tenn., 1832; Cyd. Pratt's Songs of Worship, Louisville, Ky., 1858; and Pratt, Green & Woodman's The Hymnal for Sunday-Schools, In Lauds for School and Chapel, N.Y., The Century Co., 1900; The Endeavor Hymnal, Boston, 1901; and Sankey's Young People's Songs of Praise, N.Y., 1902, represent the Christian Endeavor and other similar Young People's Societies. During recent years the hymnals of the Moody and Sankey type have plainly felt the influence of the change in taste, but they are still continuing to appear many recent examples show signs of a reversion, greater or less, to the standard type of hymnody. This is especially marked in Church Hymns and Gospel Songs, published by the Bigler and Hall Co., 1898, and Hall-Mack's Popular Hymns and Tunes, 1903, both worldly and spiritual in character, and in the more reserved activity in Evangelistic work has called forth a number of books certainly not above the earlier level. Of these, Songs of Praise, No. 1, is an official publication of the Presbyterian General Assembly's Committee on Evangelistic Work.

vii. Unitarian. The Hymnal: Amore Dei, compiled by Mrs. Thos. C. Williams, Boston, 1836, and revised in 1837, was primarily published to meet the need of a small book for use in her husband's church in New York. The Church Hymnary, by Edwin A. Bidell, N.Y., 1832, revised edition, 1866, a collection of 664 hymns with tunes, has been authorised for use by the denomination; and Sunday School Hymns has been prepared by a Committee of Synod.

As regards the progress of hymnody and the period under review, the marked improvement in Church hymnals has been already referred to. To some extent there has been a corresponding increase in the intelligent interest of the public; but in no American Church have the possibilities of Congregational Song been attained. It is felt by some that the hymnody itself requires still further adjustment to present-day beliefs and feelings. It is felt by all that there is need of growth in the true spirit of Congregational praise. One mark of progress is found in the fact that Hymnology has become a recognised branch of instruction in several American Schools of Theology. [L. F. B.]

Amid life's wild commotion, p. 86. ii. This tr. is by Emma Jane Whately. It is in Abp. Whately's Lectures on Prayer, 1860, p. 192.

And shall we still be slaves? This, in Sunday School hymnody new editions of the well-known books of Dr. Hutchins and Dr. Tucker for Prot. Episc. Schools have appeared. Besides those already mentioned under various denominations, the following deserve notice for good quality: Hymnals of Worship and Praise, N.Y., 1902; Cyd. Pratt's Songs of Worship, Louisville, Ky., 1903; Pratt, Green & Woodman's The Hymnal for Sunday-Schools, In Lauds for School and Chapel, N.Y., The Century Co., 1900; The Endeavor Hymnal, Boston, 1901; and Sankey's Young People's Songs of Praise, N.Y., 1902, represent the Christian Endeavor and other similar Young People's Societies. During recent years the hymnals of the Moody and Sankey type have plainly felt the influence of the change in taste, but they are still continuing to appear many recent examples show signs of a reversion, greater or less, to the standard type of hymnody. This is especially marked in Church Hymns and Gospel Songs, published by the Bigler and Hall Co., 1898, and Hall-Mack's Popular Hymns and Tunes, 1903, both worldly and spiritual in character, and in the more reserved activity in Evangelistic work has called forth a number of books certainly not above the earlier level. Of these, Songs of Praise, No. 1, is an official publication of the Presbyterian General Assembly's Committee on Evangelistic Work.

AND WILL ANTIPHON 1605

the Luth. Book of Worship, Phila., 1899, is a cento, sts. i., ii. from P. Doddridge, and sts. iii., iv. from I. Watts's "Shall we go on to sin?," sts. i. and ii. (p. 1094, i.).

And will the God Who reigns on high, p. 194, ii. (under G. Burder). This hymn, we find, was given in the Evangelical Mag., 1817, p. 160, as the first of two Hymns for Sunday Schools after sermons on their behalf, and signed "S. M. B." The second hymn begins "Dear Saviour, hear our feeble cry." [J. M.]

Anderson, H. C., p. 1651, i. Dr. Friedrich Nielsen of Copenhagen informs us that the Danish of "Child Jesus comes," beginning "Barn Jesus i en Krybbe lad," was first pub. in J. C. Gebauer's Alleen for 1843, was set to music by Niels W. Gade in his Efteraar Tone, 1859, and is in Psalmer og Sange for Skoledagsskolen, Aalborg, 1880. Another tr. is:—

Child Jesus came to earth this day, as No. 2 of New Christmas Hymns for Children, by John W. Faith, 1900. Repeated in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Angels holy, high and lowly, p. 194, i. 6. This rendering of the Benedicite by J. S. Blackie appeared in the London Inquirer, Sep. 1840, p. 422.

Angels we have heard on high. [Christmas.] This appears to be a Christmas Carol. It is found in the Crown of Jesus, 1862, No. 138. Other forms are:—

1. The angels we have heard on high. In the Holy Family Hyl., 1886, No. 8, marked as by the Rev. J. Chadwick.

2. Bright angels we have heard on high. In the Parochial St. Bk., 1891, No. 39.

3. Bright angel hosts are heard on high. In B. R. Corfield's Carols, 1873, No. 20, marked as "Cornish, alt. by R. C."

We are unable to say which is the original form of the text. [J. M.]

Angelus ad Virginem Subintrans in conclave. [Annunciation of the B. V. M.] This is the sequence which Chaucer (Miller's Tale, l. 30: "And Angelus ad Virginem he song") represents Nicholas, the clerk of Oxford, as singing in the evening to the accompaniment of his "gay sautrye." It is in the Dublin Trope of c. 1360 (Cambridge University, Add. Mss. 710, f. 127), in an early 14th cent. MS. in the B. M. (Arundel 248, f. 154), in a late 15th cent. MS. at Emmanuel, Cambridge (84, f. 63b, written in France for use in Scotland), and others. Printed in Mixed-Words, No. 273 and Dreves, viii., No. 51. Tr. as:—

Gabriel to Mary went, by J. O'Connor, in the Parish Hyl., 1865, No. 18, with the Latin text as No. 18. [J. M.]

Anima Christi sanctifica me, pp. 79, i.; 1651, i. This is found as an "Oratio" in a Horæ written in England c. 1370, and now in the B. M. (Harl. 1260, f. 158) thus:—

1. "O anima Christi sanctifica me,
Corpus Christi salva me,
Sanguis Christi inebria me,
Aqua lateris Christi lava me,
5. Passio Christi confirta me.
O bone Jesu exaudi me,
Et ne permittas me separari a te,
Ab hoste maligno defende me,
In hora mortis voca me,
10. Et pone me juxta te,
Ut cum angelis tuis laudem te
In secula seculorum. Amen."

It has an introductory note stating that Pope John XXII. (d. 1334) had granted an indulgence to all who devoutly said this prayer at Mass between the Elevation and the third "Agnus Dei." Practically the same text is found in a Horæ written in Spain c. 1440, and now in the B. M. (Add. 29485, f. 419b); in two Horæ in the Bodleian (Rawl. 866, f. 61, of the end of the 14th cent.; Rawl. Q. 12b, in an early 15th cent. hand); in a Horæ at St. Edmundsbury, Cambridge (48, p. 166), written in England c. 1430; except that these all begin "Anima Christi."

The text now in universal use is that in the Orbitus Animæ, printed at Strassburg in 1500 by Johann Grüninger, f. ckruh.

This adds after l. 6: "Intra vulnera tua absconde me," and gives ll. 10, 11 thus:—

"Et jube me venire ad te Ut cum sanctis tuis laudem te."

It is the form of 1500 which has been ascribed to St. Ignatius Loyola, who was only b. in 1491. It is often referred to, but never printed in full, in the eds. of his Exercitia Spiritualia printed at Rome, 1548, and Vienna, 1563. In the Coelestis Palæstrum of Nakatenus, Cologne, 1669, p. 282, the text of 1500 is given as "Brevis et pia Oratio S. P. Ignatio, Fundatori Societatis Jesu olim familiaris"; in modern eds. (e.g. Malines, 1839, p. 212) as "Brevis et pia oratio S. Ignatii."

The Heures de Lengres, Paris, Vostre, 1645, f. 80b, adds after l. 8 "Inter vulnus Christi virtuosissimi sana me"; but this "additional intercession" is not in the text ascribed to Loyola, and is certainly not by him. Various Horæ (e.g., No. 87, p. 217, in the Fitzwilliam at Cambridge, written in England c. 1480; No. 286, c. 1500, at Trinity, Cambridge, written in France c. 1440) have the text of 1500 as given above, but with readings varying from all the above and varying from each other, are in a Horæ at the Fitzwilliam (51, p. 365), written in France c. 1440; in a Horæ at Sidney Sussex, Cambridge (40, f. 126), written in England c. 1450; and in a Psalter, &c., at Emmanuel, Cambridge (35b, f. 154), written in England in the 15th cent. See also an article by the present writer in the Athenæ Per Symnologiam, 1884, p. 10.

Additional trs. include:—

1. Soul of Jesus, make me whole. In The English Hyl., 1906. A slightly altered form of a tr. which appeared in the Old Church Porch, April, 1853, p. 275.

2. Soul of Christ, be mine own. By J. R. Skitte, p. 310 of Thirty Hymns for Public School Singing, 1899, No. 30.

3. Soul of Christ, be my sanctifies. This tr., noted on p. 79, i. 6, was originally constituted by "a very dear friend" to A. St. John's tr. of the Breviary, 1857, p. 116, from which it passed into the Birmingham Oratory R. Bk., 1861 and 1868. [J. M.]

Annus Christe saeculorum Domine, p. 79, ii. The tr. No. 3 is by M. J. Blacker and G. H. Palmer. In the Hymner, 1904, No. 59, it begins, "Monarch of ages, Jesu, of Thy clemency," and in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, it reads, "Monarch of ages, hear us of Thy clemency." Another tr. is:—"Lord of Creation, how Thine ear, O Christ, to hear," by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Antiphon, pp. 72, ii.; 1651, i. The seven greater Antiphons for Advent have been tr.:—(1) By Bishop Stubbs of Truro, and pub. with the Latin text in the Guardian, Jan. 16, 1901, beginning: "O Wisdom, sovereign master of man's soul," and dated, "Deanery, Ely, Epiphany, 1901." (2) By Dr. H. C. Boeching, Canon of Westminster, written for and included, together with the Latin text, in Church Hyl., 1903. This tr. begins: "O Wisdom, that with God's own breath." In The English Hyl., 1906, the *tr*s, No. 734, are in prose.

1606 ΑΠΟ ΔΟΞΗΣ ΑΣΩΜΕΝ ΠΑΝΤΕΣ

'Απὸ δόξης εἰς δόξαν πορευόμενοι. [Holy Communion.] These are the opening words of the Prayer of Dismissal said by the Deacon at the conclusion of the "Liturgy of St. James," and followed in the service by the Prayer said by the Priest as he goes from the Altar to the Sacristy. The hymn, "From glory to glory advancing, we praise Thee O Lord," is a metrical paraphrase of this portion of the Liturgy of St. James, by C. W. Humphreys, by whom it was supplied to the compilers of The English Hyl., 1906, in MS. For the Greek text see Neale and Littledale's The Liturgies of S. Mark, S. James, &c., 3rd ed., 1875, p. 76. [J. J.]

Apparuit benignitas, p. 76, i. The tr. of "O amor quam exstaticus," was made by B. Webb, and not by J. M. Neale.

Appleton, Francis Parker, p. 1581, i. was born in 1822, and died in 1903.

Are you coming home, ye wanderers? [Invitation.] In his My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, p. 64, Mr. Sankey says:—

"The original of this hymn was written by a young lady in Scotland, who signed herself 'C. C.' Falling into Mr. McGranahan's hands, he arranged the poem somewhat differently, and set the words to music."

Both words and music are No. 397 in Sac. Songs and Solos, 1881. The words are ascribed to "A. N." [J. J.]

Arise, and follow me, p. 78, i. This hymn is given in Alford's Poetical Works, 1845, vol. ii., p. 252.

Arm, soldiers of the Lord. S. A. Brooke. [The whole Armour of God.] Appeared in his Christian Hymns, 1891, No. 344, and in The Public School H. Bk., 1903. It was evidently suggested by C. Wesley's hymn on the same subject, "Soldiers of Christ, arise," p. 1066, i. [J. J.]

Armitage, Ella S., p. 1660, ii., under E. S. A. Since 1892, the following additional hymns by Mrs. Armitage have come into C. U.:—

1. O Lord of Hosts, the fight is long. [Temperance.] Written by request for Hexter's Hyn. Suppl. to Standing Cults., 1894, No. 1226. It is also in The Methodist H. Bk., 1904, and Hexter's Worship Song, 1905.

2. Praise for the Garden of God upon earth. [Flower Services.] Pub. in Hexter's Hyn. Suppl., &c., 1894, and is an unusually good hymn for Flower services.

3. The day of prayer is ending. [Evening.] Pub. in Hexter's Hyn. Suppl., &c., 1894, and his Worship Song, 1905.

4. Though home be dear, and life be sweet. [Death not to be feared.] Written for a Service of Song (not pub.), and included in Hexter's Hyn. Suppl., &c., 1894, his Worship Song, 1894. It is also in The Pilgrim Hymnal, Boston, U.S.A., 1904.

Mrs. Armitage's hymns are becoming widely used, both in America and at home. [J. J.]

Around my path life's mysteries. This, in Hexter's Worship Song, 1905, and other collections, is an abbreviated form of S. Greg's "Slowly, slowly darkening," p. 666, ii.

Arnold, Matthew, M.A., born at Laleham, Dec. 24, 1822, and educated at Winchester and Balliol Coll., Oxford; B.A. 1845; Fellow of Oriel 1845; Inspector of Schools 1851–1883; Prof. of Poetry, Oxford, 1857–67. He d. at Liverpool, April 15, 1888. His connection with hymnology is very slight. His hymn "Calm soul of all things! make it mine" (Peace) from Poetical Works, 1890, p. 263, is entitled "Lines written in Kensington Gardens." [J. J.]

As fades the glowing orb of day. This, in the Hys. for the Year 1867, is taken from T. J. Potter's tr. of "Jam sol recedit igneus," as "Whilst fades the glowing sun away," in his Catholic Psalmist, 1858, p. 70.

As the dewy shades of even. [Evening.] Appeared anonymously in H. Formby's Catholic Hys., 1853, No. 24, and repeated in later collections, including Tozer's Catholic Hys., 1898, and others.

As the hart the brook desireth. [Ps. xlii.] Given in the Clifton College H. Book, 1894, with the note "The author of this paraphrase is unknown." We also have failed to trace the authorship.

As trustful as a child who looks. This, as given in some American collections, begins with st. ii. of J. D. Burns's "As helpless as the child who clings," p. 85, ii.

Ashley, A. L. See Greenstreet, A. L.

Ashworth, T. A., p. 1651, ii., b. at Manchester, Jan. 1, 1806; Trinity Coll., Cambridge, B.A. 1828; Vicar of Farsworth 1830–1836; and d. at Hillingdon, near Uxbridge, Feb. 5, 1884. His hymns, noted on p. 1651, ii., appeared in his New Sel. of Hymns . . . for . . . St. John's Church, Farnworth . . . 1831. [J. M.]

Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep, p. 87, i. The form of this hymn given in the 1903 ed. of Church Hymns, is at i. 1; i. 1 by Mrs. Mackay and the rest by G. Thring, the same being a revision of his "Asleep in Jesus, wondrous sleep," noted at p. 87, i. This revision was made in October 1896, and pub. by Novello & Co. with the tune "St. Gabriel," by H. H. Pierson, which was written for Thring's original version, in 1872. [J. J.]

Aspice ut Verbum Patris, p. 87, ii. This is in the Roman Breviary, Lyons, 1852, supp. p. 135*; but it is not in the Florence ed. of 1888.

Assheton, Richard Orme, M.A., was b. in 1835, and educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, B.A. 1857, M.A. 1860. Rector of Bilton, near Rugby, 1862–93; Rural Dean of Dunchurch 1874–93. His hymn, "Jesus, my Shepherd, here I know" (Ps. xxiii.) was written in 1876, and included in Church Hys., 1903. Mr. Assheton has written a few other pieces, but these are not in C. U. [J. J.]

"Ἀστομεν πάντες λαοί, p. 87, i. The form given to J. M. Neale's tr. of this Ode in recent hymnals include:—

1. Church Hymns. A cento: st. i., ll. 1–4, Neale's original; ll. 5–8 from Neale's st. ii.; st. ii. Neale's st. iii.; st. iii. Neale's st. iv., with "But to-day amidst Thine own" for Neale's "But to-day amidst the Psalms," as over in the face of the Gospel narrative.

2. Hymns of Love and Joy. Neale's translators' old text, with st. ii., l. 4, "Like the Sun" for "As the sun," and the recasting of the whole of st. iv.

3. The English Hymnal, 1906. This is Neale's text from his Hys. of the Eastern Church. The Editor's reading is Ἀστομεν πάντες λαοί; but the text is the Pentecostarion, Venice, 1899, p. 20, is Ἀστομεν. [J. J.]

AT JACOB'S AVE JESU 1607

At Jacob's well a stranger sought. [Christ at the Well.] In Dunderdale's Fs. & Hys., 1817, No. 260; and also in the Supp. to the Evang. Mag., Dec. 1820, p. 574, in 4 sts. of 4 l. In both instances it is Anon. [J. J.]

At the Name of Jesus, p. 1438, i. In the 1903 ed. of Church Hys. this hymn by Miss Noel has been restored to its original reading, "In the Name of Jesus," at the request of her family. [J. J.]

"Ἀτερ ἀρχῆς τὸν ἀπέραντον. A cento from Τὸ τῆν ἀρχὴν ἀνάρχην, p. 1035, ii., tr. by J. Brownlie in his Hymns of the Greek Church, 1900, in 5 st. of 6 l., as "O Light that knew no dawn." Included in Church Hymns, 1903, and other collections. [J. J.]

Athleta Sebastianus, p. 606, ii. This is printed by Dreves, ix., p. 245, from two 15th cent. MSS. at Paris (Lat. 10508 and Lat. 14448).

Attolle paulum lumina, p. 90, i. Other trs. are:—

1. O sinner, for a little space. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 114, marked as Neale and Compilers, but only st. i., l. 7, remains as Neale wrote it.

2. O sinner, raise the eye of faith, based on Neale, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 162. [J. M.]

Attwater, John Post, son of Thomas Martin Attwater, was b. at Faversham, Kent, June 26, 1862; educated for the musical profession, and is a F.R.C.O. and L.R.A.M. In addition to composing a large number of tunes, Mr. Attwater has written a few hymns, two of which have come into C. U.:—

1. Give us love to Thee, O Lord. [The Lord's Gifts.] Written for the Cong. Church, Hanover Square, Leeds, Hymnal Ed. M.S.'s in 1894, and included therein with music by the author, p. 45. Also in C. Mus. H. Bk., 1899.

2. The Master of the vineyard. [The Call of Missions.] Also written for the Cong. Church, Mus. Hyl., 1894, and included with music by the author in the same, but, through an error, with "Wm. Tidd Mason" appended to the words as author.

Mr. Attwater's nom de plume is "Frank North." [J. J.]

Auctor beate seculi, p. 91, i. This hymn is given in the Romen Brev., Venice, 1736, Appendix, p. 136.

Audi, benigne Conditor, p. 91, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. O gracious Lord, Creator dear. By R. Campbell, in G. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, i., p. 66, and A. E. Ryle's Hymns, 1887, No. 6.

2. O kind Creator, how Thine ear, a good tr. by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 66.

3. O merciful Creator, hear! Accept the prayer, based on Chambers, in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 741, and 1906, No. 186. [J. M.]

Audi nos, Rex Christe, p. 91, ii. The MS. at Clermont-Ferrand is now numbered 240, and dates c. 1000.

Auf, auf, mein Herz, mit Freuden, p. 412, i. Another tr. is:—

Up! up! my heart, with gladness: A wonder-thing in form, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 55.

Auferstehn! ja auferstehn, p. 92, ii. Another tr. is:—

From this dust, my soul, then shalt arise. In Sermon Cards, 1891, No. 762, marked as tr. by Fanny Maiden Raymond, 1861, alt.

Aurea luce et decore roseo, p. 93, i. Additional trs. of this hymn are:—

I. Aurea luce [Dec.]:—

1. With golden brightness, and with rose-like crimsoning, in the Primer, 1851, Hys., p. 16.

2. With golden light and with a beauteous rosy ray, in the Primer, 1851, Hys., p. 33, and in the Arundel Hys., 1903, No. 213.

3. With gold most precious, and with sanguine hues of morn, by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hyl., 1906.

II. Sancta [Ascen.]:—

1. Hail, bright and glowing day! in the Office H. Ang., 1851, and 1874, and 1883, the Office H. Bk., 1889, p. 212. Potter's tr. in the Catholic Psalmist, 1858, p. 192.

2. Daily a golden gleam of God's eternity, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hys., 1903, No. 213.

III. Beate pastor [Confessors]:—

1. O Peter, shepherd good, our voices sing of thee, by T. J. Ball, in the Office H. Ch., 1868, No. 171, and 1906, No. 240. Repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 132, with the addition of tr. of sts. iv.–vi.

IV. Egregie doctor [Doctors]:—

1. O Paul, apostle true, Paul, may thy deep wisdom teach us, by T. J. Ball, in the Office H. Ch., 1868, No. 243, and 1906, No. 331.

Aurora lucis rutilat, p. 94, i. The English Hyl., 1906, Nos. 123, 124, gives a tr. by T. A. Lacey in four parts, viz.:—

1. Aurora as "The day draws on with golden light."
2. Proles as "The sad apostles mourn Him slain."
3. Sermone as "His cheering message from the grave."
4. Claro as "On that fair day of Paschal joy."

Another tr. from the "Aurora coelum" text is "The dawn is purpling all the sky," in the Office H. Bk., 1849, No. 751, and 1906, No. 212. [J. M.]

Aus tiefer Noth, p. 96, i. Another tr.:—

Out of the deep to Thee I call, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 113.

Ave crucis dulce lignum. [Passiontide.] This is in Neale's Sequentiae, 1852, p. 258, from a MS. at Cambridge (Dd. 1. 15 on a fly-leaf of c. 1460, at the end, as part of a votive Mass of the Five Wounds of Christ). Theme in Daniel, v. 183, and Kehrein, No. 881. Trs. as:—

Hail! Cross most sweet and holy. Tr. in G. Shipley's Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 202, marked as by H., i.e. Bishop Mitman, of St. Margaret's, East Grinstead. In Hys. for the Year 1867, No. 176. [J. M.]

Ave Jesu Christe, Verbum Patris, Filius virginis. [Holy Communion.] This was first printed by Matthias Flach in his Pia quaedam veteclatania Formata, Magdeburg, 1552, No. 99, from a MS. written in France c. 1300, and now at Wolfenbüttel (Helmstadt, 1090). In the Anecdota Sacra of E. Lavis, 1790, p. 107, it is given from a MS. then at Novalesa, near Susa, and another then at San Germano, near Vercelli. Daniel, ii., p. 327, gives it from Lavis and the Langres Heures of c. 1540. In a Horae written in Spain c. 1440, and now in the B. M. (Add. 29362, f. 41b), each st. begins "Ave Domine Jesu Christe," and st. v. ends thus: "Caritas vera, fons amoris, pax dulcedinis, Requies vera, vita perennis." This form is also found in various Horae at Cambridge, e.g., Trinity 258, f. 167b (c. 1440, written in France); Fitzwilliam 37, p. 235 (c. 1490, written in England); Emmanuel 41, f. 8, &c. It has been tr. as:—

Then that art the Father's Word, by H. Alford, in his School of the Heart, 1835, i., p. 90, as "Hymn from a Missal." In his P. W., 1841, p. 277, dated 1832. See further, p. 1170, ii. [J. M.]

Ave Jesu, qui mactaris, p. 96, ii. Another tr. is "Hail, Jesu, hail! Who, while they slay," by H. I. D. Ryder, in his Poems, 1882, p. 192, repeated (as "Hail, Jesus") in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1906. [J. M.]

Ave Maria gratia plena! So grüssen die Engel die Jungfrau Maria. [Advent. Annunciation of B. V. M.] This is in the Speier G. B. (Alte Catholische, &c.), printed by Quentel at Cologne, 1615 [B. M.]. Appx., f. 41b, in 12 sts. See also Wackernagel, v., Nos. 1564, 1563; Hommel's Geist. Volksl., 1804, No. 58; H. Bone's Cantate, ed. 1879, No. 15, &c. Tr. as :—

Ave Maria, gratia plena! So spake the archangel to Mary the Maiden, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Days, 2nd ed., 1885, No. 287, following the text of the Tree G. R. (S. C.), 1846, p. 16. [J. M.]

Ave Maria klare. [Annunciation of B. V. M.] This appears in Leisentritt's G. B. (R. C.), 3rd ed., 1584, as a hymn for the "Festival of the Conception, the Nativity and the Presentation of Mary"; thence in Wackernagel, v., No. 1352, in 10 sts. of 7 l. In H. Bone's Cantate, cd. 1879, No. 345, it begins "Maria, sei gegrüsset." Tr. as :—

Hail Mary, Star of morning, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Days, 1894, No. 111. [J. M.]

Ave Maria! thou Virgin and Mother. [B. V. M.] This is in St. Patrick's H. Bk., 1862, No. 64, marked as by Sister M. It is repeated in Toner's Cath. Hymns, 1898.

Ave maris stella, p. 99, i. Additional trs. of this hymn in C. U. are :—

1. Hail bright star of ocean, God's own mother blest. In the Catholic Hyl., 1863, No. 67, st. iii., viii. being from E. Caswall. It has been repeated in Hys. for the Year, 1867, and others. In the Arundel Hyl., 1903, No. 169, it begins "Hail, O Star of Ocean," and has other versions of sts. iii. and viii.

2. Ave! Star of Ocean, by M. J. Blacker and O. H. Parker, in the Lyra Eucharistica and Graii, 1889, p. 89, and in the Hymnist, 1894, No. 7.

3. Hail, bright star of ocean! Our salvation's portal, in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 868, and 1905, No. 295.

4. Hail! O Star that pointest, by A. Riley, in The English Hyl., 1894, No. 213. [J. M.]

Ave! mater Anna. [St. Anne.] This is in an early MS. in the B. M. (Arundel, 155, f. 142), but added in a hand of c. 1400. Also in a fine early 15th cent. Sarum Breviary in the B. M. (Harl. 131l, f. 119), and a fine early 15th cent. Dublin Breviary at Emmanuel, Cambridge (64, f. 69bb). Dreves, xix., No. 73, prints it from a Sarum Bree. of 1434 in the Bibl. Nat. Paris (Lat. 17294), &c. It is in the Hereford of 1505, Aberdeen of 1509–10, Abingdon of 1528 (at Emmanuel, Cambridge), Sarum of 1531, and other breviaries. Tr. as :—

Anna, mother fairest, by M. J. Blacker, in the Antiphoner and Gradl, 1881, p. 181, repeated in the Hymnist, 1894, and the New Office H. Bk., 1905. [J. M.]

Ave Verbum incarnatum. [Holy Communion.] This is in Mone, No. 216, from a Karlsruhe MS. of 1440 for use "At the Elevation of the Body of Christ," also in Daniel, ii., p. 328. Dreves, xv., No. 43, gives it from a Munich MS. of the 14th cent. (Clm. 2653), with sts. i., ii. as Mone, No. 216, iii.–v. as Mone, No. 215; and again xxxi., No. 101, in nearly the same text, from a 14th cent. MS. at Vienna (Lat. 1054). The text of Dreves is also in another MS. at Vienna (Lat. 2746), and in a MS. of 1423 at Berlin (530). Tr. as :—

1. Hail! Holy Flesh of Jesus Christ, by A. M. Morgan, in Lyra Eucharistica, 1863, p. 124, and New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 605, from the text of Daniel. [J. M.]

Ave verum corpus natum, pp. 99, ii., 1152, i. This does not appear to be older than the 14th cent. The Pope Innocent mentioned at p. 99, ii., was probably Innocent VI., who became Pope in 1352. Other trs. are :—

1. Hail, true Body of the Saviour. In Hys. for the Year, 1867, No. 291, based on Caswall's tr., p. 184, No. 1.

2. Jesu, Word of God Incarnate. In the St. Mary-garet's Hyl., 1876, No. 165, and the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 699.

3. Jesu, God Incarnate! In the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 479 (fourth version), and 1905, No. 600.

4. Hail, true Body, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Days, 1894, No. 78. [J. M.]

Avete solitudinis, claustrique mites incolae. [Hermit Saints.] This is in Thomas Sailly's Thesaurus Litterarium, Brussels, 1598, p. 230. Also in Zaluscnsky, 1822. iii., p. 25, from an Augustinian Breviary which he does not date. Tr. as :—

Gentle Hermits of the waste, by E. Caswall, in his Masque of Mary, 1858, p. 175, and his Lyra Catholica, 1864, p. 145, as "Hermits of the Desert waste." [J. M.]

Axon, William Edward Armytage, LL.D., was born at Manchester, Jan. 15, 1846. He was for some time Deputy Chief Librarian of Manchester, and then, on resigning in 1874, he joined the editorial staff of the Manchester Guardian and continued thereon to 1905, when he retired. Dr. Axon has published Annals of Manchester, 1886, the Ancoats Skylark, a volume of verse, 1896, Colshes as a Citizen, 1901, and other works. To Songs of Hope and Brotherhood, 1904, a collection of hymns for the Manchester Vegetarian Society's Summer School, he contributed nine hymns. As a writer of hymns he is best known through his tr. of the hymn usually attributed to St. Francis of Assisi, "Cantico delle creature," beginning "Altissimo omnipotente bon' Signore." (See full text p. 1132, i.) The tr. is "Praised be the Lord our God." It appeared in his Exodus, 1876, p. 23, and his Ancoats Skylark, 1896. It is given in Horder's Supplement, 1874, his Worship Song, 1905, and other collections. [J. J.]

B.

Babcock, Maltbie Davenport, D.D., was b. at Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 3, 1858. Graduating from Syracuse University, he was ordained to the Presbyterian Ministry and was pastor of churches in Lockport, N.Y., Baltimore, and N.Y. City. He d. at Naples, Italy, May 18th, 1901. He was richly gifted, and his short career was memorable for the extraordinary influence of his personality and his preaching. Extracts from his sermons and poems were pub. in 1901 as Thoughts for Every Day Living: and his Biography by Dr. C. E. Robinson in 1904. He contributed to the Presb. School Hymnal, 1899, the following hymns :—

1. Softly the bells are ringing. Easter.
2. O blessed Saviour, Lord of love. Ords Me.
3. Shining Sun, shining sun. Child's Hymn.

The tunes to these hymns were of his own

BACHELOR, MARY BAPTIST HYMNODY 1609

composing. In The Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904, there is :—

4. Rest in the Lord, my soul. Trust and Peace.

and in the American Methodist Hymnal, 1905 :—

5. Be strong : we are not here to play. Activity in God's service.

Nos. 4 and 5 are from Thoughts for Every Day Living, 1901 ; but undated. [L. F. B.]

Bachelor, Mary A. This is the name which Mr. Sankey gives as the writer of "Go, bury thy sorrow," p. 1046, i. He adds that it originally began, "Bury thy sorrow, hide it with care." It was found by F. T. Bliss in a newspaper, and altered by him for musical reasons. See My Life and Sacred Songs, by I. D. Sankey, 1906. [J. J.]

Baker, Amy Susan, dau. of Lieut. Col. George Marryat, was b. Aug. 22, 1847, at Chalton Glen, near Christchurch, Hants. On Dec. 30, 1875, she m. the Rev. Sir T. H. B. Baker, Bart., of Ranston, Dorset (he d. 1900), and still (1906) resides at Ranston. Her hymns appeared principally in her Lays for the Little Ones, 1876, and Hys. and Songs for C. F. S. Festivals and other Occasions, 1876. Two have passed into hymn-books :—

1. True friends help each other. [Friendship.] In Hys. and Songs, 1879, p. 6, Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881, &c.

2. We are only little workers. [For the Children.] In Hys. for the Sons. Ch. Hyl., 1876, and C. of Hymnody, 1884, &c. [J. M.]

Ball, T. I., p. 109, i. Became Provost of the Cathedral Church and College of Cumbrae in 1891, and received the Hon. LL.D. from St. John's Coll., Annapolis, Maryland, 1895. Dr. Ball is chiefly known through his numerous trs. from the Latin, which he contributed to the St. Albans Hyl., 1898; The Praise of Jesus, 1872; The Requiem Hyl., The Chandler Hyl., 1904; The Office H. Book., 1905, and other collections. The more important and widely used of these trs. are noted under their original first lines. (See Index of Authors and Trans.) In addition, the trs. under the initials "C. R.," on p. 1007, iv., are claimed by Dr. Ball. The collections given above also contain several of his original hymns, the greater part being in The Praise of Jesus and The Requiem Hyl., 1898. [J. J.]

Ballantyne, Randall Hunter, sister of R. M. Ballantyne, the novelist, was born July 8, 1821, and died in August, 1861. Her Heir of Glory was published in 1849, Mabel Grant 1854, and others. Her Hymn, "How loving is Jesus, Who came from the sky" (The Love of Jesus), in The Church Hymnary (Scotch), 1898, appeared in her Hymns about Jesus, 1842. [J. J.]

Banaster, George, is given in the S. School Hymnary, 1905, as the author of "We're marching to the conflict," and dated 1880. It previously appeared in the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896, with the same signature.

Banks, George Linnaeus, newspaper editor and verse writer, was b. at Birmingham, March 2, 1821, and d. in London, May 3, 1881. His hymn,

I live for those who love me (Work for God), in the Music Bells Reporter, June, 1851, and in Daisies in the Grass, 1865 (the first work on which he was engaged), st. iii.–v. b. ii. reads "What I live for," and signed C. Bingley, b. ii. as in various recent hymnals, sometimes as in Worship Song, 1905, beginning "I live," [J. M.]

Bannerman, D. D., p. 110, i. He d. April 3, 1903.

Baptist Hymnody, American. See American Hymnody, § iv.

Baptist Hymnody, English, pp. 110–112. The additions which have been made to English Baptist Hymnody since 1892 are :—

1. Psalms and Hymns with Supplement for Public, Social and Private Worship, prepared for the use of the Baptist Denomination. This collection, noticed at p. 112, ii., was reissued with a new preface dated "July, 1899."

2. The Revelation Hymnal, with which it incorporated the Voice Heart and Life, n.d. A small book with a limited circulation.

3. The Baptist Church Hymnal : Hymns, Chants, and Anthems, 1900. In the Preface the Hymnal Committee state "The Psalms and Hymns and the Baptist Hymnal (p. 112, i.) contain together more than sixteen hundred hymns. Upon careful examination the two books have been found to have only about one third repeated examination, to retain about six hundred of these, and to add nearly two hundred hymns from various sources, the work of about a hundred and twenty different authors; the total number of hymns being eight hundred and two." The collection is supplied with "Notes on Various Readings," "Biographical Notes," and the usual indices.

Taken as a whole The Baptist Church Hymnal is an excellent and well edited collection, and in every way the best we have seen in connexion with the Baptist denomination. [J. J.]

The following Baptist hymn-writers have come into notice since 1892, in addition to others whose contributions to hymnody are more numerous and are noticed elsewhere in this New Supplement :—

Adey, William Thomas, s. of Rev. E. Adey, Baptist minister, of Leighton Buzzard, Beds, was b. at Leighton, Dec. 19, 1844. He entered the Baptist ministry in 1866, and has been pastor at Darlington, Leeds, Scarborough, Ealing, and now (1906) at Kingsbridge, Devon. His hymn "There is room for little children" (Christ welcoming little children), was written for the Jubilee Anniversary at Ealing, and first pub. in C. & H. S., 1888, No. 363. A third st. was added in Hys. for the Mission, 1893, No. 44, and this is in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

Carey, William, great-grandson of Dr. William Carey of Serampore, is now (1906) Baptist missionary at Barisal in Bengal. Two hymns by him, both written in 1894, are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905 :—

1. Jesus loves me ! Jesus loves me ! The love of Jesus.
2. Little birds on lightest wing. God's Care.

Gale, Alfred Adolphus, was b. Nov. 4, 1821, at Wisbech, Cambs., and d. at Walsall, Staffs., Feb. 18, 1893. In 1844 at West Haddon, and in 1856 began the pastorate at Walsall which lasted till his death on Feb. 18, 1893. His Hymns by Alfred A. Gale, Walsall, 1893, is a collection of 20 pieces, originally written for S. S. anniversaries in connexion with his congregation from 1862 onwards. Only one seems to have come into use, "The rippling of the waters," which is in the Methodist Hymnal, No. 855, dated 1876, repeated in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

Goke, John Hunt, Baptist minister and sometime editor of the Freeman newspaper, is the author of "The daylight wanes to eve again" (Evening) in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900.

French, Frederic Goldsmith, was b. Dec. 7, 1847, at Kilburn, London, entered the Baptist ministry 1871, and has been pastor successively at Lee, Kent, where he written several hymns for S. S. anniversaries at Lee. His hymn "Lord of the reapers, hear our lowly pleading" (Christian Service), was written 1881 and first pub. in the C. & Hymnary, 1905.

Jackson, Frederick Arthur, was b. Jan. 20, 1867, at Longford, Warwick. He entered the Baptist ministry in 1898 and since 1901 has been minister at Old Basford, Nottingham. He pub. a vol. of poems in 1902 as Just Begged. Of the hymns noted here No. 1 was written for the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1906, the rest for the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

1. Come home, and heart, come home. The Prodigal.
2. Father, now we thank Thee. For Infants.
3. Fight for the right, boys. Boys' Brigade.
4. Join we all in gladness singing. For the S. S.
5. Sing of Jesus, sing for ever. Holy Scriptures.
6. Where the flag of Britain flies. National.

In the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, the hymn "If I were a beautiful twinkling star" is given as by "Grace Glenn, (circa 1880) and F. A. Jackson, 1905." Mr. Jackson adapted the hymn for that collection.

Morgan, Joseph Brown, was b. in 1858 at Shrewsbury, entered the Baptist ministry in 1880, and since 1901 has been minister at Hallfield Baptist Church, Bradford. He ed. the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1899, with the Rev. C. Bonner, and contributed to it Nos. 1-6, viz.:—

1. Hark! 'tis the clarion sounding the fight. Christian Endeavour.
2. Lord, I gather mine! Consecration.
3. O Saviour Divine, I am coming to Thee. Consecration.
4. Season in their noiseless courses. Harvest.
5. Sweetly the sound of the trumpet is pealing. Consecration. Added in the enlarged ed. of 1904.
6. Up with your hearts in a song of rejoicing. For Conventions.
7. While Sabbath bells are sweetly pealing. Sunday.

In the Baptist Junior Hyl., 1906, which he edited with the Rev. C. Bonner.

Seager, James, was b. March 4, 1847, at Deptford, Kent; entered the Baptist ministry 1872, since 1900 has been minister at Dorchester, Dorset. His hymn, "Thou speakest, Lord, our hearts incline" (The Beatitudes), was written in 1899 and printed for use in children's services. It has been often revised by the author for the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

Thomas, John, M.A., was b. at Maesteg, Glamorganshire, in 1838; educated for the Baptist ministry at Pontypool College and Bangor University College; has been Pastor at Huddersfield, &c., and is now (1906) minister of the Myrtle Street Bap. Chapel, Liverpool. Mr. Thomas took his M.A. degree at the London University by honours. His connection with hymnody is slight. His hymn, "Jesus, Thy blood and righteousness," was originally printed in a Baptist newspaper, and then included in The Bap. Church Hyl., 1900. His published works are mainly on theological subjects.

Tyssul, T. V., p. 1190, i. He was President and Professor of Theology at Bowden Coll., Leeds, 1881-1884, President of the Baptist Union, 1886, and received D.D. from St. Andrews in 1897. He now (1906) resides at Bexhill-on-Sea. His free hymn, "How oft an absent friend we mourn" (Nearness to Christ), was written in 1885, and pub. in the Sunday Hymnal, 1888, p. 662; in the Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900, p. 662; in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, No. 465, it is considerably altered, and begins "Let evening twilight turn to dawn": st. i. being a combination of 2, 1, and ii. of 4, 5. [J. M.]

Barber, Robert Beetenson, Rector of Elmley, Kent, since 1898, the author of "Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, At this dear one's grave" (Burial), in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., was educated at King's Coll., London, and ordained in 1872.

Barnaby, Sir N., p. 114, ii. Some of his hymns were written for the anniversaries of the S. S. at Lee, of which he has been superintendent for nearly forty years. Five of his recent hymns are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

1. God bless our Fatherland! National.
2. Lord, in heaven Whom my eyes cannot see. God our Father.
3. Lord! I repent, with grief and shame. Repentance.
4. Stay! gentle dove, and tell me where! God's Providence.
5. We the children of the day. Children of Light.

Of these, Nos. 1, 2 were written in 1904; Nos. 3, 4, 5 in 1905. [J. M.]

Barthell, Franklin Weston, D.D., b. at Towanda, Pen., Aug. 30, 1843; B.A., Union University, N.Y., 1865; Hon. M.A., Williams Coll., Mass.; D.D., Union University: Rector of various churches in Pen. and N. England, and for some time Prof. of Hebrew in Williams Coll. His hymns appeared mainly in the weekly press, including "Thy glorious name of Love" (Sunday); "O God Triune, we praise and bless" (H. Trinity); "Son of my life, Thy rays divine" (The Christian's Light). His hymn for H. Communion, "Saviour, Who didst come to give," in The Hymnal of the Prot. Episcn. Church, 1892, was first printed in The Living Church, 1885, and passed from thence into several collections. It is a great drawback to Dr. Bartlett's hymns that they have not been gathered together in book form. [J. J.]

Βασιλεῦ οὐράνιε, Παράκλητε, [Whitsuntide.] This is an idiomatic sticheron (a collection of irregular verses) from the Pentecostarion (the Greek Office for Pentecost), Venice, 1836, p. 188. It was tr. by J. Brownlie and published in his Hymns of the Greek Church, 1900, p. 24, in 4 st. of 4 l., as "O King enthroned on high." With the omission of st. ii., it was included in Church Hys., 1903, and The English Hyl., 1906. [J. J.]

Bathed in unfallen sunlight. H. Bonar. [Heaven.] Appeared in the Quarterly Journal of Prophecy, Oct. 1859, then in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 2nd Series, 1861, p. 55, and again in Hymns by Horatius Bonar, 1904, p. 75, in 6 st. of 7 l., entitled "The New Jerusalem" and dated 1859. In the Baptist Hyl., 1883, sts. iv.-vi., slightly altered, are given as "Fresh from the throne of glory." [J. M.]

Baynes, R. H., p. 119, i. Further information enables us to correct the error in the date of his death at Oxford, on p. 119, i. It took place on March 27, 1895.

Be not swift to take offence. [Patience.] Appeared in G. F. Root's The Coronet, 1865, p. 50, and later collections, including the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, where it is given as Anon., circa 1860.

Be Thou, O God, exalted high. A cento in the Bap. Hyl., Phila., 1902, from the N. Version, Ps. lvii. (p. 900, ii.).

Be Thou, O Rock of Ages, nigh. This is composed of sts. iv., v. of C. Wesley's "Eternal Beam of Light Divine," p. 886, i.

Be Thou with us every day. This, in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, and others, is Pt. iii. of T. T. Pollock's "Jesu, from Thy throne on high," p. 678, i. 24.

Beata nobis gaudia, p. 130, i. Additional trs. are :—

1. Hail! joyful day, with blessing fraught, in the order H. Sp., 1899, No. 126, and 1905, No. 227.
2. Hail! joyful day, with blessing fraught, H. & M., 1904, No. 378. This is J. Ellerton's tr. "Joy! because the circling year," rewritten, to a plainsong setting, by the Compilers. Sts. iii., iv. seem to be meant as a paraphrase of "Jam Christus astra," p. 876, i.
3. Rejoice! the year upon its way, by H. E. Roberts, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 181. [J. M.]

Beate martyr, prospera. Prudentius. [St. Vincent.] This is No. V. in the Peristephanon of Prudentius, in 576 lines. It is found in two fine MSS. of Prudentius in the B. M., both written in Germany, one of the early 10th cent. (Add. 34248, f. 27b), the other of the 11th (Add. 16894, f. 36); and in many other early MSS. of it, e.g. St. Gall, Nos. 134, 136, of the 10th cent.: also in the various printed eds. of his Opera. In the Mozarabic Brev. of 1502 and the Ambrosian Brev. of 1539 there are centos for "St. Vincent"; but it was easily adapted for any martyr, and so the Paris Brev. of 1474 gives it for "St. Agnes," a 14th cent. MS. in the Bodleian (Ashmole, 1522) for "St. Pancras," &c. Tr. as :—

Blest Martyr, let thy triumph-day, by A. Riley, in The English Hyl., 1906, appointed for the Common of Martyrs, and taken from ll. 1-12, 145-244; which cento, adding ll. 537-560, is in Daniel, i., No. 114. [J. M.]

Beaumont, Joseph, p. 121, i. The dates given in the Dict. of National Biography are b. March 13, 1616, d. Nov. 29, 1699.

Beck, T., p. 121, i. He was b. at Southwark 1753, preached at Gravesend, at Dr. Watts's Meeting House, Bury Street, London, for 32 years, and later at Deptford. He d. in 1844.

Beecher, C., p. 122, ii. He d. April 21, 1900.

Beeching, Henry Charles, D.LITT., s. of J. F. G. Beeching, of Bexhill, Sussex, was b. May 15, 1859, and educated at the City of London School, and Ball. Coll. Ox.: B.A. 1883; M.A. 1887; HABTT. Durham, 1903. After holding several important appointments, including Chap. of Lincoln's Inn, Prof. of Past. and Liturgical Theo., K.C.L., Clark Lecturer in Eng. Lit. at Trinity Coll. Camb., &c., he became in 1902 Canon of Westminster and in 1904 Preacher at Lincoln's Inn. His published works are: In a Garden, and other Poems, 1895; A Paradise of Bap. Poetry, 1897; Lyra Sacra, 1894; and many others. For his tr. of the seven greater Advent Antiphons, see Antiphon. His Children's Hymn, "God Who created me," appeared in his In a Garden and other Poems, 1895. [J. J.]

Befiehl du deine Wege, p. 123, i. The version in the S.P.C.K. Church Hys., 1903, No. 387, beginning "Commit thou all thy ways And grieff into His hands," is a cento from Wesley's tr. [J. M.]

Before Thy holy presence, Lord. An altered form of Bp. How's "Before Thine awful presence, Lord," p. 940, ii. 1, in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

Begin the day with God. H. Bonar. [Morning.] Published in his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 2nd Series, 1861, p. 165, in 9 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Begin with God." Also in Hymns by Horatius Bonar, 1904, p. 98, abbreviated to 7 sts. [J. J.]

Behold, and bless the solemn days. R. Campbell. [Lent.] This is in the St. Andrews Hys. and Anthems, 1850, p. 64, in 6 sts., repeated in the Arundel Hys., 1902, no. 54.

Behold us, Lord, before Thee met, p. 123, ii. 2. As the third stanza of this hymn has been re-written a second time by the Compilers of H. A. & M. for their new ed., 1904, we give Canon Bright's original text from the Monthly Packet, Nov. 1867 :—

"From Thee was our baptismal grace,
From Thee our second birth we trace;
In this full sunlight of Thy face,
We make the three great vows our own,
And ask in Thine appointed way,
Confirm us in Thy grace to-day." [J. J.]

Beim frühen Morgenlicht, p. 123, ii. The version in the Tattendon Hyl., 1890, No. 67 begins "When morning gilds the skies," as in Caswall's version; but after l. 4, "When evening shadows fall," it is quite different. Marked as "tr. by R. B." Repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Believe not those who say. Anne Brontë. (The Christian Life.) This hymn appeared in Wuthering Heights, &c., 1850, as a poem in 10 sts. with the title "The Narrow Way." In its adapted form as a hymn it consists of sts. i., v., viii.-x. of the original slightly altered. It is also in most editions of the Brontës' works, the latest being Agnes Grey, Poems by Anne Brontë (Nelson), 1905. [J. J.]

Bell, C. D., p. 123, i. He d. suddenly at the National Club, London, Nov. 11, 1898.

Bell, Maurice Frederick, M.A., s. of G. W. Bell, barrister at law, was b. in London, Sept. 5, 1862. He graduated from Hertford Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1884, M.A. 1887), was ordained D. 1885, P. 1886, and has been since 1904 Vicar of St. Mark, Regent's Park, London. He contributed to The English Hyl. 1906, four trs. (69, 68, 624, 634), and "O dearest Lord, by all adored" (Close of Festival), 1906. [J. M.]

Bellerby, Edward Johnson, MUS.DOC., was b. at Pickering, Yorkshire, March 28, 1858, but resided during most of his early years at Selby. Trained at York Minster by Dr. Monk, he became organist at Margate Parish Church in 1881; and of Holy Trinity, Margate, in 1884. Although mainly devoted to music, Dr. Bellerby is deeply interested in Foreign Missions, and especially in connection with the C.M.S. His hymn,

Shine on me, O Lord Jesus (Missions), was written circ. 1894, and first pub. in the C. M. S. Gleaner, Feb., 1895, p. 21, with a Scripture reference to each line; and later in the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1899; and Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1905. Dr. Bellerby has written several additional hymns yet to be published. [J. J.]

Beloved, let us love, p. 123, i. 24. Through the kindness of the Rev. J. T. Wigner, editor of the Bap. Pr. & Hyr., 1858, and the Supp. thereto, 1880 (p. 1890, ii.), we learn that this hymn, with others, was sent him in MS. and was included in the 1880 Supp. It is not in Dr. Bonar's Communion Hys., 1881. Mr. H. N. Bonar, in his Hys. by Horatius Bonar, &c., 1904, says in his Note, "The only piece printed in this selection which has not already appeared in an authorised collection of my father's hymns is 'Beloved, let us love: love is of God,'...but there is no doubt of its authorship, as I possess the original manuscript." [J. J.]

Bend every knee at Jesus' Name, p. 1035, ii. This hymn in the Canterbury Hymnal, 1893, and others, is a recast of J. Montgomery's "Bow every knee at Jesus' Name," from his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 75. It appeared in Leifchild's Original Hymns, 1843,

No. 30, as "Bend every knee," &c. In the Montgomery was. it is dated "The Mount, 29 August, 1839," with the additional note, "Sent to Leitchild, 1840." [J. J.]

Benedicite, pp. 194, i.; 1163, i. Mr. W. H. Doubney, in his Three Additions to Daniel, 1906, reviews this hymn from a liturgical point of view, and in an interesting manner.

Benedict XIV., Pope (Prospero Lambertini) was b. March 31, 1675, at Bologna. On Dec. 9, 1726, while Bp. of Ancona, he was created Cardinal by Pope Benedict XIII., and in 1731 returned to Bologna as Archbishop. He was elected Pope in 1740, and d. at Rome May 2, 1758. He was an able, learned, and pious man, an excellent administrator and an authority on liturgical and hymnological matters. In vol. vi., Rome, 1751, of his Opera he published the full text of the Offices for the Maternity and the Purity of the B. V. M. Presumably, therefore, the hymns of these Offices are by him. See further notes on (1) Cœli Redemptor, (2) O stella Jacob, (3) Præclara custos, and (4) Te mater. [J. M.]

Benson, Arthur Christopher, M.A., s. of Archbishop Benson, was b. at Wellington College, April 24, 1862, and educated at Eton and King's Coll., Camb., B.A. (first class Classical Tripos) 1884. From 1885 to 1903 Assistant Master at Eton, and now (1905) Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge. His hymns include the following :—

1. God of all created things. [Coronation.] Written for the Coronation of King Edward VII., and pub. in Eight Hys. with Tunes, Novello & Co., 1902. Music by Sir Hubert Parry.

2. God of glory, King of nations. [Founder's Day Anthem.] Written for use as a Choral Hymn at Eton for its Commemoration Day, which is a Gun Saluting Day, subsequently adapted for general use. Printed in the Guardian, Oct. 9, 1901, and pub., with music by Sir W. Parratt, by Novello & Co., 1902.

3. Hear, Holy Father, from Thy sacred throne. [Holy Baptism.] Written for the baptism of Prince George of Wales, which took place in Bothmar, Jan. 23, 1894. It was sung at the baptism of H.H. Princess Henry of Battenberg, and pub. by Novello & Co.

4. In the silent midnight. [Children's Hymn.] Jacob's Vision adapted as a lesson for children, written for and included in Brooke's Additional Hys., 1905. Music by A. M. Goodhart, MUS.BAC.

5. Lo, the mighty God appears. [Social.] Written in 1894, and sung at the unveiling of the Monument to Abp. Benson in Canterbury Cathedral on Sat., July 8, 1905. Pub. with music by C. H. Lloyd, MUS.DOC., London, Novello & Co., 1905.

6. Lord, look down from heaven and see! [Accepted Ministry.] First pub. in Brooke's Additional Hymns. London, Novello & Co., 1903.

7. Lord of grace and holiness. [Confirmation.] Written for the occasion of the Confirmation of Prince Alexander of Battenberg, Princess Victoria Eugénie of Battenberg and Princess Patricia of Connaught, on Jan. 27, 1905, and sung at the Confirmation of Princess Henry of Battenberg, by Novello & Co., 1905, and included —words and music—in Church Hymns, 1906.

8. Lord of Hosts, Who hast sclued us. [Year Peace.] Printed in the Guardian, Oct. 24, 1900, and pub. by Novello & Co., with music by Sir W. Parratt, in 1900.

9. Lord of life eternal. [Coronation.] Written for the Coronation of King Edward VII., and pub. by Novello & Co. in Nine Hymns and Tunes, 1902, with music by Dr. C. H. Lloyd.

10. Lord, to Thy loving arms. [Death of a Child or Scholar.] Pub. in the Council School H. Bk., 1905, Novello & Co.

11. Lord, we uplift our voice in supplication. [Ember-eve.] Pub., with music by Dr. C. H. Lloyd, by Novello & Co., 1900.

12. O Lord of Hosts, Who didst upraise. [In Time of War.] Written in 1899, and pub., with music by Dr. C. H. Lloyd, by Novello & Co. the same year. Words and music were included in The Public School H. Bk., 1903.

13. The Spring again is here. [Spring.] Pub. in the Guardian, April 19, 1905.

14. What can I give Jesus? [Prisoner's Service.] Pub., with music by A. M. Goodhart, MUS.BAC., by Novello & Co., 1905.

In addition to the above, Mr. Benson wrote and printed the following which have not been published :—

15. God of loving-kindness. Written at the request of Dr. Bridge, and sung at the Macadem Service, Windsor, Dec. 14, 1902.

16. She hath her heart's desire. Sung at the Macadem Service, Jan. 23, 1905. [J. J.]

Benson, E. W., p. 128, ii. Abp. Benson d. suddenly at Hawarden, Oct. 11, 1896.

Benson, Louis FitzGerald, D.D., was b. at Philadelphia, Penn., July 22, 1855, and educated at the University of Penn. He was admitted to the Bar in 1877, and practised until 1884. After a course of theological studies he was ordained by the Presbytery of Philadelphia North, in 1888. His pastorate of the Church of the Redeemer, Germantown, Phila., extended from his ordination in 1888 to 1894, when he resigned and devoted himself to literary and Church work at Philadelphia. He edited the series of Hymnals authorized for use by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., as follows :—

(1) The Hymnal, Phila., 1895; (2) The Chapel Hymnal, 1898; and (3) The School Hymnal, 1899.

Dr. Benson's hymnological writings are somewhat extensive. They include :—

(1) Hymns and Verse (original and tr.), 1892; (2) The Best Church Hymns, 1896; (3) The Best Hymns, 1898; (4) Studies of Familiar Hymns, 1903, &c.

Of his original hymns the following have come into American C. U. :—

I. In The Hymnal, 1895 :—

1. O Christ, Who didst our tasks fulfil. For Schools and Colleges. Written in 1894.

2. O risen Christ, Who from Thy throne. For Installations of a Pastor. Written in 1894.

II. In The School Hymnal, 1899 :—

3. A glory in the wintry sky. Loneliness of Jesus. Written in 1897.

4. Lo, the throne of Salem. Heaven.
5. Now the wintry days are o'er. Easter.
6. O sing a song of Bethlehem. Early Life of Jesus.
7. Open the door to the Saviour. Invitation.
8. Out of the skies, like angel eyes. Lullaby.
9. Who will teach me how to pray? Prayer.

III. Carey Bonner's Sunday School Hymnary, 1905 :—

16. The sun is on the land and sea. Morning.
11. Our willful hearts have gone astray. Providence.
12. When I awake from slumber. Morning.

Of the above, Nos. 1–4, 10–12 are from Hys. and Verse, 1897. In the above collection by C. Bonner, Nos. 1, 4, and 6 are also found. Of Dr. Benson's tr. from the Latin one only is in C. U. See "Plaudite coeli, Rideat aether."

As a hymn writer Dr. Benson is not widely known, mainly through the recent publication of his verse. His hymns deserve attention, and will, no doubt, gain the public ear in due time; whilst his hymnological researches and publications are thorough and praiseworthy. [J. J.]

Bernard of Cluny, p. 137, i., is best described thus: his place of origin is quite uncertain. See the Catalogue of the Additional

MSS. of the B. M. under No. 35091, where it is said that he was perhaps of Morlas in the Basses-Pyrénées, or of Morval in the Jura, but that there is nothing to connect him with Morlaix in Brittany. [J. M.]

Bible Christians' Hymnody. See Methodist Hymnody, § v.

Bickersteth, R. H., p. 141, ii. Bp. Bickersteth d. in London, May 16, 1906.

Bigg, Charles, D.D., s. of Thomas Bigg, was b. in 1840 at Higher Broughton, Manchester, and was educated at Manchester Grammar School and at Corpus Christi Coll., Oxford (Scholar 1859; B.A. 1862). He became a Senior Student of Christ Church 1862, tutor 1865, M.A. 1868, D.D. 1876; returning to Christ Church in 1901 as Canon and Regius Prof. of Eccles. History. He was Bampton Lecturer in 1886, and is the author of various theological works. He contributed two trs. (2, 49) to The Eng. Hyl., 1906. In his Wayside Sketches, 1906, there are charming papers on Prudentius, Paulinus of Nola, and Thomas a Kempis. [J. M.]

Bis ternas, p. 144, i. The Vatican MS. which contains this hymn is Vat. 82 of the 11th cent. The hymn is early, but is not by St. Ambrose. See Dreves's Aurelius Ambrosius, 1893, pp. 30, 42. [J. M.]

Bishop, Henry Rowley, was b. at London, Nov. 18, 1786, and d. at London, April 30, 1855. See a full notice in the Dict. of Nat. Biog., v., 91. From 1840 he was occasional and from 1843 to 1848 sole conductor of the Antient Concerts. Of his Twelve Canzonets . . . as sung at the Concerts of Ancient Music, for which (with Words expressly written to them) they were adapted and arranged by Sir Henry R. Bishop, 1844 (B.M. copy is H. 578), some are fairly literal trs. from the German, others have no connection with their nominal originals. Three were noted in this Dictionary, but their source not having been traced in 1892, we now subjoin them :—

1. Behold, how glorious is yon sky, p. 127, ii. This is from "Wie herrlich leuchtet mir," by Gellert (v. C. H. Bitter, Geistliche Lieder, 1st ed., 1776 (B. M. copy), 1802, catalogued as 1780), the words being by Karl Wilhelm Ramler, b. Feb. 29, 1725, at Colberg, in Pomerania; 1748, Professor of Literature at the Cadet School in Berlin; d. at Berlin, April 11, 1798.

2. God is our Refuge in distress. Our Shield, p. 366, i. This is from "Gott ist unser Lied, Gott unser Ruhm," Neues Geistliches Gesangbuch, Rudolstadt, 1767, altered v. i., the original ii. 4 being :—

"Whose spirit roams abroad,
To calm life's troubled ocean."

Another fairly close version is "Wake, O wake! a voice is crying," from "Wachet auf," p. 866, ii. [J. M.]

Blackie, J. S., p. 144, i. Dr. Guthrie was succeeded as editor of the Sunday Magazine by Dr. W. G. Blaikie, and not by Dr. J. S. Blackie. The latter resigned his professorship in 1882, and died March 2, 1895.

Blake, William, p. 1163, ii. Another poem from his Songs of Innocence is "To Mercy, Pity, Peace and Love." In 1789 ed., p. 17, it is entitled "The Divine Image." The English Hyl., 1906, No. 506, ranks it among General Hymns. It is certainly difficult to call it a hymn at all, or to assign it to any special purpose. [J. M.]

Blessed are they whose hearts are pure. Appeared in Dean Alford's Poetical Works, 1845, vol. ii., p. 151, and later as stated on p. 167, ii.

Blessed be the Fountain of blood. (Good Friday.] In I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos; the Church Mission Hymnal, The Mission Hymnal of the C. P. A. Society, this hymn is given without date or authorship.

Blessed Francis, holy father. [St. Francis of Assisi.] This anonymous hymn is in A. E. Tone's Catholic Hys., 1887 and 1898, as from "Franciscan Manual." It is in the Little Manual of the Third Order of St. Francis, 1859, p. 192; but not in the eds. of 1855, 1869, or 1885. [J. M.]

Blessed Jesus, high in glory. [Ascension.] Appeared in the Scottish Hyl., 1884; and the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, and in each case as Anon.

Blessed Jesus, life is fair. [Prayer to Jesus.] In S. D. Major's Bk. of Praise, 1869, no. 255, marked as by Mrs. Eliza A. Godwin, 1868. Repeated in many later books, sometimes altered to "Holy Father! life is fair."

Blessing, honour, thanks, and praise, p. 148, i. In the 1903 ed. of Church Hys. the text is C. Wesley's original (with "Thou" for "Them" in st. iii., l. 5), and as arranged in the Hymnary, 1872.

Blest angels, while we silent lie. This in M. W. Stryker's College Hymnal, 1897, is a cento from Bp. Ken's "Midnight Hymn," p. 680, i.

Blest are the moments, doubly blest, No. 263 in The English Hymnal, 1906, is taken from W. Wordsworth's "Labourer's Noon-day Hymn," which appeared in his Yarrow Revisited, 1835, p. 178, and P. Works, 1837, as "Up to the throne of God is borne"; see p. 1896, ii. [J. M.]

Blest Spirits of light! Oh! ye have not forsaken. [Guardian Angels.] This is in the Appx. to the N.Y. ed. of E. Caswall's Lyra Catholica, 1851, p. 428, as Anon. In Hys. for the Year, 1867, and others, it begins "Blest spirits of light! Ye who have not forsaken." [J. M.]

Blew, W. J., p. 149, ii. He d. Dec. 27, 1894.

Bliss, P., p. 150, i. Two works have been brought to our notice, since the issue of our first edition of this Dictionary, which concern this author, viz. :—

1. Memoirs of Philip P. Bliss. Edited by D. W. Whittle. Contributions by Rev. E. P. Goodwin, Ira D. Sankey, and Geo. F. Root. Introduction by D. L. Moody. New York, Chicago, Cincinnati: A. S. Barnes & Co. 1877.

2. My Life and Sacred Songs. By Ira D. Sankey. With an Introduction by Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D. London: Hodder & Stoughton, and Morgan & Scott, 1906.

These works have a special interest for those who use I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs & Solos, and all of P. Bliss's publications. To Mr. Sankey's My Life, &c., we direct special attention for P. Bliss's hymns :—

"Do you see the Redeemer's receding?" p. 294.
"Down 'mid dark vale we wander." p. 304.
"Ho! my comrades, see the signal." p. 510.
"'Tis the promise of God full salvation to give." p. 99. [J. J.]

Blume, Clemens, was b. Jan. 31, 1862, at Billerbeck in Westphalia. After passing through the Jesuit Gymnasium at Feldkirch in Austria he entered the Society of Jesus. From 1880 onwards he pursued his classical, philosophical, and theological studies at various Jesuit seminaries in Holland and England, and was then for three years one of the masters in the Gymnasium at Feldkirch. After a period spent in the study of philology at the University of Prague, he, in 1896, joined Father Dreves (see p. 1039, l.) in the editorship of the Analecta Hymnica; and in the interests of that publication has searched many libraries in Germany and Austria-Hungary, and from 1899 to 1901 made extended journeys in Italy and France. Since 1903 he has resided at Munich, engaged in completing the Analecta, and in preparing a History of Latin Hymnody to be founded on it. [J. M.]

Blunt, A. G. W., p. 181, ii. He was a Travelling Bachelor (not Fellow); d. Feb. 8, 1902.

Bode, Alice Mary, dr. of J. E. Bode (p. 181, ii.), was b. at Wentwell, Oxon, during the time her father was Rector of that parish. Her hymn, "Once pledged by the Cross," (Confirmation), was written in 1901 at Notting Hill, London, and first pub. in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M. Aiming at simplicity and directness, the writer has accomplished her purpose in a pleasing manner. [J. J.]

Bohemian Hymnody, p. 183. Strictly speaking, the running title of this article should have been Bohemian Brethren's Hymnody, as there was no intention of including the Mediæval Latin hymns of Bohemia therein. These hymns have been collected by Dreves, especially in vol. i., entitled Cantiones Bohemicæ (see p. 861, i.).

The German hymns of the Bohemian Brethren are annotated by R. Wolkan in his Das Deutsche Kirchenlied der Böhmischen Brüder im XVI. Jahrhunderte, Prag, 1891, pp. 189-178 containing the German first lines, with the Bohemian sources, and details of the extent to which they passed into non-Bohemian German collections; and the same writer has an article, dealing also with the Bohemian hymns, in Allgemeine Deutsche Biographie, x., 1901, pp. 626-631. There is a short English notice in the Moravian Almanack for 1886, pp. 118-126. [J. M.]

Boissier, François Louis César, b. at Boissières (Dept. of the Gard), June 7, 1807; sometime inspector of the Academy, Algiers, and d. at Nîmes, Dec. 29, 1875: was the author of "Seigneur! du sein de la poussière," and not his brother Adrien, as stated on p. 1841, i. The hymn was written Jan. 1, 1837 (ex. from F. L. C. Boissier's son). H. Downton's tr. was first printed in the Sunday Mag., 1870, p. 353. [J. M.]

Bonar, H., pp. 181, i.; 1884, i. The Rev. H. N. Bonar, Dr. Bonar's son, pub. in 1904, Hys. by Horatius Bonar, Selected and Arranged by his Son H. N. Bonar, With a brief History of some of the Hymns, &c. (London: H. Frowde). From this work we must correct the date of his Song of the New Creation to 1872. We have also enriched our pages by additional and expanded notes on several of Dr. Bonar's most widely used hymns. In his biographical notes, Mr. Bonar refers to Dr. Bonar's work as editor of the Quarterly Journal of Prophecy, begun in 1848, to which he contributed a hymn for each number. We find that the number of hymns contributed thereto is 101, including the following already noted in the Dictionary:—

1. Angel voices sweetly singing, p. 69, ii. Jan., 1861.
2. Ascend, Beloved, to the joy, p. 1884, i. 4. July, 1861.
3. Beyond the smiling, &c., p. 140, i. April, 1849.
4. Brethren, arise, let us go home, p. 1884, ii. April, 1850.
5. Deep down beneath the, &c., p. 161, ii. 36. April, 1861.
6. Far down the ages now, p. 324, i. April, 1856.
7. Finish Thy work, dear, p. 1885, i. 12. April, 1857.
8. For the bread, and for, &c., p. 183, i. 30. Jan., 1871.
9. I weep, but do not, 1861, p. 593, ii. Oct., 1854.
10. Lie down, frail body, here, p. 674, i. July, 1856.
11. No blood, no altar now, p. 1884, i. 6. April, 1853.
12. No shadows yonder, p. 1884, i. 7. July, 1853.
13. Sweep the trumpet, &c., p. 1884, i. 12. April, 1865.
14. The Bridegroom cometh, p. 1884, i. 13. Oct., 1853.
15. The tomb is empty, &c., p. 1161, ii. 45. Oct., 1856.
16. Then in the living bloom, &c., p. 1120, i. Oct., 1843.
17. These are the crowns, &c., p. 1884, i. 17. Oct., 1853.
18. Till the day dawn, p. 1884, i. 23. Oct., 1852.

With Dr. Bonar's poetical productions great difficulty has been encountered by the historian and annotator because of his absolute indifference to dates and details. It was enough for him that he had written, and that the Church of Christ approved and gladly used what, out of the fulness of his heart, he had given her. [J. J.]

Bone Pastor, Panis vere. See Laeda Sion Salvatorem.

Bonner, Carey, was b. in Southwark, Surrey, May 1, 1859. He entered the Baptist ministry after studying at Rawdon Coll., and held pastorates at Sale, Manchester (1884-93) and Portland, Southampton (1895-1900). Since Sept. 1900 he has been Secretary of the Sunday School Union. He ed. words and music of the Garland of Rest & S. S. Music (issued in parts, 1881 and 1882; complete ed. 1886), and the S. S. Hymnary, 1905; and the music of the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896, and the Junior Hyl., 1906. The longer hymns contributed by him to these works include:—

1. Father, hear Thy children's voices. (S. S. Anniversary.) Written 1895 for a S. School Festival at Tottenham, N., 1895, as above. Also in Junior Hyl., 1906, No. 1.
2. Guide, O Jesus, my guiding. [Come to Jesus.] Written 1893, first pub. in his Hys. for the Master, 1893, No. 41; 1905, No. 238.
3. God of little children. [Reverence.] 1893, as above; ad. 1896, No. 39. Also in School Hys., 1901, and Junior Hyl., 1906.
4. Jesus, Saviour, and love, and steadfast faith. [For Confessors.] Written 1894; first pub. 1896, as above, No. 101.
5. Now when from one another parting. (Parting Hymn.) Written 1894; 1896, as above, No. 305.
6. We join our hearts and voices. (For Children's Festivals.) Written for a Festival, 1896. No. 57 in School Hys., 1901, No. 264. See also under "Alleluia dolce carmen," p. 1092, i.

Bradfield, Mary Bertha, daughter of Mr. James Bradfield, of Fox Grove, Kingsclere, was b. at Newbury. She pub. in 1898 Songs of Faith and Hope and Love. From this her hymn, "Our Father, at Thy feet we bow" (In Affliction), in The Meth. H. Bk., 1904, is taken. It is in 8. st. of 4 l., and entitled "Thy will be done"; p. 48 of the Songs, &c. [J. J.]

Brailsford, Edward John, s. of C. J. Brailsford, was b. in Birmingham in 1841, and educated for the Wesleyan Ministry at Didsbury College. He entered upon his ministerial work at Bangor and Carnarvon in 1863, and has since held important appointments at Liverpool, London, Bolton, Ilkley, Edinburgh, &c. His hymns,

Behold, behold the Bridegroom nigh (Advent), was written at Ilkley, Yorkshire, and first pub. in Gatcliff's Church Hymnal for Public Worship, Edinburgh, 1864. In the 2nd ed. of Gatcliff's Choral Bk., 1877, there are also "O God of truth! speak now Thy holy word," and "Lord, I will follow on"; and in the 4th ed., 1883, "As sinks the sun while clouds grow bright."

These are worthy of notice. [J. J.]

Brainard, Mary G., p. 1884, ii. Concerning the hymn which bears this signature in I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, "I know not what awaits me," Mr. Sankey says, in his My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, p. 109:

"When Mr. Bliss (the composer of the tune) lost his life in the terrible railroad wreck at Ashtabula, Ohio in 1876, the last piece of music found in his trunk was that which had gone before by another train. In his trunk was discovered this hymn. Mr. Bliss had rearranged the words of the poem to some extent, and had composed the tune. Seriously by sentence the words are full of pathetic interest in connexion with the author's [Bliss's] tragic death so soon afterwards."

The original hymn we have failed to trace. The form in the Sac. Songs and Solos is that found, together with the tune, in Mr. Bliss's trunk. [J. J.]

Bramley, Henry Ramsden, M.A., was b. June 4, 1833, at Addingham, near Otley, Yorks, matriculated at Oriel Coll., Oxford, 1852, Scholar of University College 1853, Fellow of Magdalen 1857 (B.A. 1856, M.A. 1859). He was ordained D. 1856, P. 1858, was from 1861 to 1889 Vicar of Horspath, Oxon, and from 1885 to 1901 Canon and Precentor of Lincoln. His hymns and trs. appeared principally in his own Christmas Carols (p. 213, ii.) and in the different Lyrics ed. by Mr. Shipley, generally marked as by "H. R. B." Of these, "The great God of Heaven is come down to earth" (Christmas), p. 213, ii., is in the Engl. Hyl., 1906. For additional carols and trs. see Index of Authors and Translators. [J. M.]

Brett, Josse, s. of Charles Brett of Dunbury, Essex, was b. at Pyttlewell, Essex, in 1858, and educated at Hatfield Hall, Durham, L.Th. 1888, D. 1888, P. 1889. After holding curacies in Derbyshire and Essex, he became in 1898 Chaplain of All Saints Hospital, Eastbourne. His hymns include the following:—

1. God the Father, God the Son. (Second stanza, "Jesus, Master, Saviour, hear.") [Litany.] Written in 1894, and printed for use in St. Michael's, Mylard, Colchester. Included in Church Hys., 1903.
2. Jesu, Lord, enthroned on high. [Good Friday.] Contributed to Church Hys., 1903.
3. O Jesu, Lord, Thy cross I see. [Mens Mimistri.] Contributed to Church Hys., 1903.
4. O Jesu, Lord of life and of might. [Dedication of Special Offerings.] Contributed to Church Hys., 1903.
5. God the Father, God the Son. (Second stanza, "In our sorrow and distress.") [Service for the Dead.] Included in the Requiem Hymnal. Guild of All Souls, London, 1901.
6. O Lord of love, O King of Peace. [Holy Communion.] Given in Irish Church Hymnal, 1903. [J. J.]

Breviaries, p. 179, ii. To this may be added:—

(1) The Mozarabic Breviary. Regarding the ancient mss. of this rite, see Hymnarium, p. 1853, ii. The Add. 30848 is an 11th cent. Breviary written in Spain, but not of the Mozarabic rite. The printed ed. of 1502 is in the B. M. (C. 17. c. 3). The Hymnarium, added in 1775, is not a compilation, but is taken direct from a Hymnarium of the 11th cent., then at Toledo, but now at Madrid.

(2) The Roman. Of late years, especially in France, the Roman Breviary has undergone revision. It was proposed that permission should be given to use the hymns in their ancient forms. Change has come in the line of least resistance, by addition. A pretty little ed., printed by M. H. Gill & Sons at Dublin in 1904, contains the following Offices with hymns which are not found in the Tournay ed. of 1879 (p. 179, ii.):

I. In the body of the Breviary.
i. Seven Founders of the Servite Order. Feb. 11.
ii. SS. Cyril and Methodius. July 7.
iii. Most Holy Rosary of the B. V. M. 1st S. in October.

2. In the General Appendix.
iv. Appearance [at Lourdes] of the B. V. M. Immaculate. Feb. 11.
v. Holy Family, Jesus, Mary, Joseph. 3rd S. after Epiphany. The hymns of this Office are by Pope Leo XIII., written 1892, and pub. in his Carmina, 1893, pp. 69-74.
vi. B. V. M. of Good Counsel. April 26.
vii. B. V. M. of Perpetual Succour. A 1st-ex Festival of St. John the Baptist.
viii. Translation of the B. V. M. Immaculate of the Holy House (in 1538, by Catholics Laboard, of the Sisterhood of St. Vincent de Paul). Nov. 27.

The hymns in these offices are:—

iv. Ancora sol praevia.
i. Bella dum late furerent, et urbes.
ii. Cessantia sacra vetustas.
vi. Gemmata sponsi regalis sedem.
iii. In monte Olivis caesis.
iii. Jam morte victor obvia.
ii. Lux O decora patriae.
vii. Maris, quae moralium.
i. Matris sub almae Numine.
v. O Dei Verbum Patris.
v. O fax beata caelibum.
iv. Omnis expertem maculae.
vi. Plande festivo, pia gens, honore.
v. Sacra jam splendent decoratа hyalyta.
ii. Sedibus caeli sublatis receptus.
iv. Stirps virgo vitam peregrinit in undes.
iv. Te decantamus, Deus.
iii. Te gentium gaudia.
viii. Tricia praesens omnium.

For notes on the authorship of the more recent Roman Breviary hymns, see article by S. Baumer in Wetzer and Welte's Cyclopaedia, vi., 126-34, and Clémeis Allbis's La Poésie du Bréviaire, i., Les Hymnes, 1898.

(3) The Paris. In the list of authors read Guillaume de Saint-Cyre, Bp. of Saintes; also Sébastien Rotenult de la Cour. For Guard. Pat. read Simon Gourdan (1646-1716).

the Rev. W. H. Frere and Mr. Langton E. G. Brown of Romford; 1., 1904; ii., in preparation. In the reprint the rubrics are given in full, the rest of the Offices in outline where they agree with the Offices in the Sarum Breviary of 1531, and in full where they differ. The "Proper of Seasons" and "Proper of Saints," the "Canticles," "Gospels," "Epistles," and "Psalms," are extracted from the "De Jesu," p. 878, i. The two for St. Philip and James, viz., "Quæ sidiferorum angelus," at Laudes, and "Apostoli iste mystici" at Matutinum (not indexed at p. 178, ii.) are parts of "Hymnum canamus gloriæ," p. 884, ii. The "Veni Creator . . . Memento" (also at p. 178, ii.) is the version of the Sarum Hymnal, 1519, f. 166, written in England, c. 1410) is made up of st. 1, of "Veni Creator," p. 1206, ii., st. iii. of "Christe Redemptor omnium Ex Patre," p. 893, ii., and the st. "Maria pleno gratiæ," which was a kind of stock verse used in many hymns, e.g., Mone, Nos. 441, 448, and Breviary, xii. Nos. 72, 73. The two for St. Ethelbert are made up of st. i. and ii. of "Christe Redemptor," and st. iii. "Puer nasus in Bethlehem," appointed for the Epiphany and entitled a Prose, is really a hymn (see p. 905, i.; the Hereford text is str. i.–iv.). [J. M.]

Bridges, M., p. 181, ii. He d. Oct. 6, 1894. Additional hymns by him are given in the Arundel Hyl., 1902, and others :—

i. From Hys. of the Heart, 1848–1851.

1. Blessed Lamb, on Calvary's mountain. Passiontide. 1848.

2. Lo! on the slope of yonder shore. St. Francis Xavier. 1848.

3. Rose of the Cross, thou mystic flower. B. V. M. 1848.

4. Wave the sweet censer, wave. Holy Communion. 1851.

ii. From Passion of Jesus, 1852.

5. Away from God—away from God. Repentance.

6. From circlets starred with many a gem. Passiontide.

7. Holy of Holies, seat of love. Heart of Jesus.

8. Jesu! to Thee we look. Passiontide. From "Oh! for a flame of fire," p. 16.

9. Rise, O Lord, in all Thy glory. Day of Judgment.

10. The Wine-press — the Wine-press. Day of Judgment.

"Crown Him, the Virgin's Son," is from "Crown Him with many crowns." [J. M.]

Bridges, Robert Seymour, M.A., s. of J. J. Bridges, of Walmer, Kent, was b. Oct. 23, 1844, and educated at Eton and at Corpus Christi Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1867, M.A. 1874). He took his M.B. in 1874, but retired from practice in 1882, and now (1906) resides at Yattendon, Berks. He is the author of many poems and plays. He ed. and contributed to the Yattendon Hyl., 1899 (originally printed at the Oxford Univ. Press in parts—Nos. 1–25, 1895: 26–50, 1897: 51–75, 1898: 76–100, 1899). For his trs. and originals noted in this Dictionary, see Index of Authors and Trs. [J. M.]

Brightly did the light divine. In Dean Alford's Poetical Works, 1845, vol. ii., p. 149, and later as at p. 182, ii.

Bromehead, Joseph, M.A., was born in 1748 and educated at Queen's Coll., Oxford: B.A. 1768, M.A. 1771. Subsequently he was Curate of Eckington, Derbyshire, to his death, January 30, 1826. He was the author of The Melancholy Student, 2nd ed. 1776, of some Psalm versions, and the popular form of "Jerusalem, my happy home," q.v. [J. J.]

Brook, Frances, dr. of the Rev. James Brook, M.A., of Helme Edge, Meltham, Huddersfield, was b. in Bath in 1870. Her interest in missions is deep, and delicate health alone has prevented her from giving her services in the foreign field where two of her sisters are labouring. Her first hymn leaflet was :—

1. There is singing in the Homeland. [Mercyrs.] It was written in 1895 "In Memoriam" of the Rev. Robert Stewart and his little band in the Hawa Sang martyrdom of that year. It was printed in the C.M.S. Gleaner, March, 1896, p. 34, and included in the Church Miss. Hy. Bk., 1899, No. 163. The original leaflet is entitled "Martyrs of Jesus, Called to be with Christ, at Ku-cheng, S. China, August 3rd, 1895."

2. My rest is God Himself. [Rest and Peace.] Written in April, 1896, and at first privately called forth and formulated the unspoken attitude of my soul towards God, 'My soul is God'" (Author's MS.). Included in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, revised ed. 1901, No. 208.

3. My Home is God Himself: Christ brought me Home. [Rest and Peace.] Written in May, 1899, on the bright testimony of another of our Sisters, and the full of my own deep need of restfulness in Him led me to the truth as expressed in 'My Home is God'" (Author's MS.). It is the most extensively used of the Author's leaflets.

4. O Lord, with Thee 'tis but a little matter. [God the Strength of His Labourers.] In the Church Miss. Gl. for 1898, No. 186, having previously appeared in the C. M. S. Gleaner, Oct., 1896, p. 157, as "Counsel and strength for the War. A Battle Prayer." [J. J.]

Brooks, Arnold, M.A., s. of John Brooks, b. at Edgbaston, Dec. 25, 1870, and educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and G. and C. Coll., Camb., B.A. (1st class Class. Tripos) 1893, D. 1895, P. 1896. Curate of St. Augustine's, Bermondsey, 1895-6, and of St. Peter's, Edinburgh, 1898. His vigorous hymn for Foreign Missions, "Trumpet of God, sound high," was written at the request of the Rev. E. C. Dawson, editor of the Foreign Mission Chronicle (Epis. Ch. of Scotland), and included in that Magazine in Oct., 1900. In a slightly altered form it was included in H. A. & M., 1904. [J. J.]

Brooks, Phillips, D.D., was b. at Boston, Dec. 13, 1835, graduated at Harvard Coll. 1855, and was ordained in 1859. Successively Rector of the Church of the Advent, Phila., and Trinity Church, Boston, he became Bishop of Mass. in 1891, and d. at Boston in Jan., 1893. His Carol, "O little town of Bethlehem," was written for his Sunday School in 1868, the author having spent Christmas, 1865, at Bethlehem. His hymn, "God hath sent His angels to the earth again," is dated 1877. [J. J.]

Brother, now thy toils are o'er, p. 186, i. This hymn begins in The English Hyl., 1906, "Now the labourer's toils are o'er," and is abbreviated to 6 sts.

Brotherton, Alice, née Williams, b. at Cambridge, Ind., and married in 1876 to William E. Brotherton of Cincinnati. Has pub. Beyond the Veil, Chicago, 1886, and Sailing of King O'af, 1887. Author of "Consider the lilies, How stately they grow" (Providence), in Hordr's Worship Song, 1905, and others.

Brown, Alexander, s. of John Brown, writer, Ayr, was b. at Ayr, Sept. 19, 1835, and educated at the University of Glasgow, and the Theological Hall of the E. U. Church. He became minister of Galashiels E. U. Church in 1861, and in 1877 of St. Paul Street Church, Aberdeen. He was the convener of the committee who compiled the 1901 Supplement to the E. U. Hyl. (The Scottish Congregational Hymnal), and contributed to it two trs. from the German, Nos. 229 and 233. [J. M.]

Brown, T. E., p. 1644, i. He retired from Clifton College in 1892, and d. in 1897.

BROWNING, ELIZABETH BURLINGHAM, HANNAH 1617

Browning, Elizabeth, née Barrett, p. 187, i. We find that the usually accepted birth-place (London) of Mrs. Browning must be corrected. She was born at Coxhoe Hall, Durham, March 6, 1806, and baptised as Elizabeth Barrett Moulton Barrett at Kelloe Church, Durham, Feb. 10, 1808. [J. M.]

Brownlie, John, was born at Glasgow, Aug. 6, 1859, and was educated at Glasgow University, and at the Free Church College in the same city. In 1884 he was licensed by the Presbytery of Glasgow; in 1885 he became Assistant Minister of the Free Church, Fort-patrick, and on the death of the Senior Minister in 1890 he entered upon the full charge of the Church there. He has interested himself in educational matters, became a Member of the local School Board in 1888, a governor of Stranraer High School in 1897, and Chairman of the governors in 1901. His hymnological works are :—

1. The Hymns and Hymn-writers of the [Scottish] Church Hymnary, 1899. This is a biographical, historical, and critical companion to that hymnal, and is well done and accurate.

2. Hymns of Our Pilgrimage, 1899; Steward; Hymns of the Pilgrim Life, 1899; and Pilgrim Songs, 1902. These are original hymns. The Rest of God, 1904, is partly original.

3. Hymns of the Early Church, Being Translations from the Poetry of the Latin Church, arranged in the Order of the Christian Year . . . 1896.

4. Hymns from East and West, Being Translations from the Poetry of the Latin and Greek Churches . . . 1898.

5. Hymns of the Greek Church, Translated with Introductions and Notes, 1900. Second Series: Hymns of the Holy Eastern Church, Translated from the Service Books, with Introductory Chapters on the History, Doctrine and Worship of the Church, 1902. Third Series: Hymns from the Greek Office Books, Menæa, Octoechus, Pentecostarion, Triodion, 1904. Fourth Series: Hymns from the Rituál, Being Canons and Suggestions from the Office Books of the Holy Eastern Church, 1905.

Of Mr. Brownlie's original hymns the following have come into C. U. :—

1. Ever onward, ever upward. Aspiration. From Pilgrim Songs, 3rd Series, 1895, p. 11.

2. Girt with heavenly armour. The Armour of God. Pilgrim Songs, 3rd Series, 1895, p. 48.

3. Hark! the voice of angels. Praise. Pilgrim Songs, 3rd Series, 1895, p. 37.

4. O bind me with Thy bonds, my Lord. The Divine Bonds. From Pilgrim Songs, 3rd Series, 1895, p. 1.

5. O God, Thy glory gilds the sun. Adoration. From Steward, &c., 1899, p. 23.

6. Spake my heart by sorrow smitten. Seeking God. From Pilgrim Songs, 3rd series, 1895, p. 25.

7. The Stars are twinkling, Lord, in their eyes. Evening Pilgrim Songs, 3rd series, 1895, p. 1.

8. There is a song which the angels sing. The Angels' Song. A centr. from the poem The Rest of God, 1904, p. 36.

9. Thou art my Portion, saith my soul. God, the Portion of His People. From Pilgrim Songs, 1895, p. 1.

10. Thou hast the heart that loves me. Desiring to God. This is one of the author's "Suggestions" based upon the spirit rather than the words of portions of the Greek Offices. It was given in Hymns of the Holy Eastern Church, 1902, p. 128.

Mr. Brownlie's translations from the Latin have been adopted in the hymnals to a limited extent only, mainly because the ground had been so extensively and successfully covered by former translators. With the translations from the Greek the case was different, as for popular use few translations were available in addition to the well known and widely used renderings by Dr. Neale. Mr. Brownlie's translations have all the beauty, simplicity, earnestness, and elevation of thought and feeling which characterise the originals. Their suitability for general use is evidenced in the fact that the number found in the most recently published hymn-books, including Church Hymns, 1903, The New Office Hymn Book, 1905, and The English Hymnal, 1906, almost equal in number those by Dr. Neale. [J. J.]

Bryant, William, b. at Brighton, England, in 1850, ordained by the Presbytery of Troy, N.Y., in 1879, and since 1893 pastor of Mount Clemens Presb. Church. His hymn, "Standing forth in life's rough way" (Intercession for Absent Ones), was written at Elizabeth, N.J., June 23, 1874, and first printed in the N.Y. Daily Witness. In Lowry's Brightest and Best, 1875, p. 129, it is given as "Standing forth on life's rough way," and in The Home H. Bk., 1885, as "Starting forth on life's rough way." It is in C. U. in Great Britain and America, and is usually assigned to W. C. Bryant, p. 190, i. 22, but in error. Mr. Bryant is the editor of the Methodist Presbyterian.

[L. F. B.]

Buckham, John Wright, D.D., an American Congregational minister, b. at Burlington, Vt., in 1864, and educated at the University of Vermont. Pastor in Conway, N.H., and Salem, Mass., Professor of Christian Theology, Pacific Theological Seminary, Berkely, Cal., 1903, D.D., Univ. of Vermont, 1904. His hymn, "Hills of God, break forth in singing" (Christmas), appeared in Wilmot conantls Hdlp, 1902. Included in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. [J. J.]

Bunyan, John, p. 193, ii. Another piece by him is Valiant's song in the Pilgrim's Progress, pt. ii., 1684 (2nd ed. 1686, p. 177). There, and in E. F. Hood's Our H. Bk., 1873, no. 398, it begins "Who would true valour see" (A Pilgrim's Song). In the Engl. Hyl., 1906, No. 402, it is partly rewritten, and begins "He who would valiant be." [J. M.]

Burke, Christian, was b. in London Sept. 18, 1859, and now (1906) resides in Highgate, London. Her earlier verse, contributed to various periodicals, was collected as The Flowering of the Almond-Tree and other Poems, 1896, revised ed. 1901. Her hymn—

Lord of Life and King of Glory (Matters' Societal) was written in Dec. 1895, and first printed in the Record, p.m. Feb. 19th, p. 453, headed "Prize Hymn for a Mothers' Union Service." It is in The Hyl., 1906, No. 138. [J. M.]

Burkitt, Francis Crawford, M.A., s. of Crawford Burkitt, was b. in London, Sept. 9, 1864, and educated at Harrow and at Trin. Coll., Cambridge (B.A. 1886, M.A. 1889). In 1905, though a layman, he was appointed Norrisian Prof. of Divinity at Cambridge. He has been a Fellow of the British Academy since 1904, and is the author of various works on Biblical Criticism and Early Church History. He contributed two trs. (12, 194) to the Eng. Hyl., 1906.

Burlingham, Hannah Kilham, eldest daughter of Henry Burlingham of Evesham. She died at Evesham, May 15, 1901, aged 79. Many of her trs. from the German are noted in this Dictionary. See list, p. 1407, iii. [J. M.]

Burman, Ellen Elizabeth, p. 1031, ii., b. at Stratford-on-Avon, July 11, 1837, and d. at Bristol, March 16, 1861. Her Poetical Remains, with brief Memoir, were pub. by the Rev. W. Bruce in 1862. Her hymn, "Teach me to live," is included in this work. [J. J.]

Burton, Henry, D.D., p. 1034, i., b. at Swannington, Leicestershire, in 1840. His parents having emigrated to America, he became a student at Beloit Coll. and graduated in honours. After labouring as a minister of the Meth. Episco. Church for a time he returned to England, entered the Wesleyan Ministry in 1865, and has since laboured chiefly in Lancashire and London. His pub. works include Gleanings in the Gospels, Wayside Songs, 1886, St. Luke in the Expositor's Bible, &c. His hymns in C. U., in addition to those named on p. 1035, i., include:—

1. Break, day of God, O break. [Second Advent.] Written at Birchett Heath, near Liverpool, on Christmas Eve, 1890, and included in The Meth. H. Bk., 1904. "The opening stanza was composed on the Railway Bridge where I lingered on my way home" (Author's MS.).

2. In the secret of His presence. [Peace in Christ.] Written at Acton, London, pub. in his Wayside Songs, 1886, and included in the Methodist Hymnal, U.S.A.

3. O King of Kings, O Lord of hosts. [National Hymn.] In Burton's history of this hymn it: "In the late Queen's Jubilee year, 1887, I composed an Ode for recitation at a meeting of the Choirs engaged in the Jubilee Festival in the Royal Albert Hall, London. As the Ode could not be sung at any other time, Sir J. Stainer requested me to compose a hymn to which the same music should be set [and of a national character]. This led me to write the hymn" (Author's MS.). It is No. 971 in The Meth. H. Bk., 1904.

Burton, Sarah Searles Edwards. See Pass it on.

Butler, Harriet Jane, p. 1035, ii., b. at Warren, R.I., Dec. 22, 1839, and d. in 1905. His hymn, "Little ones of God are we" (Christ's Lambs), in the S. School Hymnary, 1905, and other collections, is dated 1870.

[Jesus and Thy Word.] Written at Acton, London, and pub. in his Wayside Songs, 1886, and included in the Methodist Hymnal, U.S.A.

But can it be that I should prove. C. Wesley. [In Temptation.] Pub. in the Wesley Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1740, No. 112, in 6 st. of 6 l. (P. Works, iv. p. 479), all was well known in the old Wes. H. Bk., but is omitted from the Meth. H. Bk., 1904, except st. iv.–vi., which are embodied in "Light of the world, Thy beams I bless," q.v. [J. J.]

Butler, Mary, p. 1035, ii., is a granddaughter of Bp. Samuel Butler, of Lichfield, 1836-39; and daughter of Thomas Butler, M.A., sometime Rector of Langar, Notts, and Prebendary of Clifton in Lincoln Cath. "Whitesome of the winter's snow" (All from God), in The Council School Hy. Bk., 1905, is also by Miss Butler. [J. J.]

Butterworth, Hezekiah, was b. at Warren, R.I., Dec. 22, 1839, and d. in 1905. His hymn, "Little ones of God are we" (Christ's Lambs), in the S. School Hymnary, 1905, and other collections, is dated 1870.

By secret influence from above. C. Wesley. [Peace with God desired.] Left in MS. at his death in 1788, and pub. in P. Works, ix. 236. In The Meth. Hymn-Book, 1904.

C.

Caddell, Cecilia Mary, pp. 220, i., and 1168, ii., was b. 1815, and d. 1877. The following are from H. Formby's Catholic Hys., 1853, except No. 1, which is from Formby's Sacred Songs, 1853.

1. A little boat, with snow-white sail. Evening.
2. Dear Saint, who on thy natal day. St. Aloysius.
3. Hail! Mary, only sinless child. B. V. M.
4. Maiden Mother, meek and mild. B. V. M.
5. O Jesu, it were surely sweet. St. Communion.

Caesarius, known as St. Caesarius of Arles, was b. at Chalons-sur-Saone about 468, entered the monastery of Lerins at the age of thirteen, became Bishop of Arles in 502, and d. Aug. 27, 542. About 502 he drew up a Rule, based on that in use at Lerins, for the nuns in the convent at Arles, of which his sister, Caesaria, was Abbess. This is printed in the Acta Sanctorum for January 12 (ed. Palme, Jan., vol. ii.). In section x. (pp. 17, &c.), which treats of Psalmody, he directs the use of certain hymns. Those which are separately annotated, or particularly referred to, in this Dictionary are:—

Aeterne rerum Conditor, p. 22, i.
Christe qui lux es et dies, p. 221, i.
Christe qui lux es et dies, p. 227, i.
Deus Creator omnium, p. 331, i.
Hic est dies verus Dei, p. 1046, i.
Jam surgit hora tertia, p. 622, i.
Mediae noctis tempus est, p. 731, ii.
Rex aeterne Domine, p. 917, ii.
Te Deum laudamus, p. 1119, ii.

[J. M.]

Call the Lord thy sure salvation. This rests in The Public School H. Book, 1903, is composed of 9 lines from J. Montgomery's "Call Jehovah thy salvation," p. 598, i., the rest being by S. A. Brooke, based upon Montgomery. [J. J.]

Campion, Thomas, b. c. 1567, d. 1619, and buried at St. Dunstan's in the West, London, March 1, 1619. He was a physician, poet, and musician, but his reputation rests mainly on his poetical works. These include various Masques performed before James I. and other noble personages. Of these some rare copies are in the British Museum. His Observations in the Art of Eng'ish Poesie, &c., was pub. in 1602, and his New Way of Making four parts in Counter-point, &c., 1620. Of his poems, five are given by Palgrave in his Treasury of Sacred Song, 1889. His connection with hymnody is very slight, and nothing by him is now in C. U. [J. J.]

Canton, William, was b. Oct. 27, 1845, on the Isle of Chusan, China, and now (1906) resides in Highgate, London. He is the author of various vols. of poems, of a History of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 1904, &c. Two of his poems are used as hymns in the Engl. Hyl., 1906, and others.

1. Hold Thou my hands! [Hold Thou me up.] First pub. in Good Words, May 1893. p. 333, and reprinted in his The Invisible Playmate, 1894, p. 31.
2. Through the night Thy angels kept. [Morning.] From his The Comrades, 1905, p. 333.

Carney, Julia A., née Fletcher, was b. in 1823. She was a teacher for some time in one of the Boston Primary Schools, U.S.A., which was held in the vestry of Hollis Street Church, in that city. This Church was demolished in 1866. It was for use in these Primary Schools that her "Little drops of water" (q.v.) was written in 1845. [J. J.]

Carols, pp. 205, i.–213, ii. During the past fifteen years Carols have been produced in great numbers. In a few instances old words have been wedded to new music, but with by far the greater number both words and music are new. Taken as a whole these new Carols are on the old lines, are good, and deserve the attention of all lovers of this section of hymnody. The chief defect is, except in the case of Mr. Chope's collection, the almost universal ignoring of all the great festivals of the Church except Christmas. The extent of the output by the leading publishers since 1890 can be gathered from the following summary:—

NOVELLO & CO.—The last number of their Christmas Carols which has come under our notice is No. 317. Of these more than one third have been pub. since 1886, and are by sixty authors and forty-eight composers. From these and other sources the same firm has issued our 1. Twelve Old Carols, English and Foreign, Adapted and Arranged by Sir John Stainer, Prof. Mus. Oxon. [1894.]

2. Christmas-Tide Carols (First Series). The words by Rev. Frederick Reynolds . . . The music (old Boston melodies) harmonised by George C. Martin, Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. [1894.]

3. Christmas-Tide Carols (Second Series). The words belong all French melodies harmonised by George C. Martin. [1892.]

4. Twelve New Carols for Christmastide. Written by Hugesott Wemlay. [1892.] The composers include Sir J. Stainer, J. Barnby, J. F. Bridge, B. Tours, and others.

5. Six Christmas Carols. [1893.] The words are by various authors, and the music by seven different composers.

6. A Collection of Twelve Christmas Carols. Compiled by Mrs. Carey Brock and M. A. Sidebotham . . . [1894.] These are by various authors and composers.

7. Popular Christmas Carols arranged for Two-Part Singing. By Dr. Arthur Somervell. [1894.]

8. Three Carols for Christmas, let to music by K. A. Sydenham. Each carol is by a different author.

9. Four Christmas Carols. Composed and arranged by J. Barnby, A. C. Mackenzie, G. C. Martin, and J. Stainer. Words by various authors.

10. Four Christmas Carols written by W. Chatterton Dix. Composed by various composers.

11. Twelve New Christmas Carols for Unison Singing. Written by A. E. Alston. Composed by Robin H. Legge, 1894. In addition to these, Nos. 325-345, of Novello's Christmas Carols are also by Messrs. Alston and Legge. Both words and music are of the true carol type.

WILLIAM CROWER & SONS issued the complete edition of 12. Carols for use in Church during Christmas, Epiphany, Easter, Ascension, and Harvest, by E. S. Chope, M.A. . . . 1894. This is an enlarged edition of the collection noted on p. 212, ii. 3.) under Mr. Chope's name. The additions include Further Epiphany Carols, Ascension Carols, and Carols for Harvest Festivals. In B. W. M., Easter, Ascension, Whitsuntide, and Harvest. There are appended outline "Carol Services" for use in church, school, or mission room. For practical use this "complete" edition if of great value.

A. R. MOWBRAY & Co. have published:—

13. The Cowley Carol-Book for Christmas, Easter, and Ascension-tide. Compiled and arranged by the Rev. G. R. Woodward, M.A., 1901. This contains 32 carols, 16 of which are old, from the Latin, French, and new. In 1902 this was revised and enlarged to 42 pieces with music to each, as in the first edition. Although limited in design it is excellent in execution, and is supplied with notes of great value to the student in search of data.

With these details additional to those already given in the original article (p. 205, i.) lovers of Carols, both of words and music, are furnished with evidences of the practical value of these compositions in the services of the Church.

[J. J.]

Cary, Alice, p. 214, i. From her Ballads, Lyrics and Hymns, N.Y., 1866, the following are in Horder's Worship Song, 1905:—

1. O day so sweet to tigiers thought. Sunday.
2. Our days are few and full of strife. Trust in God. The original begins, "Fall, storms of winter, as you may."
3. To Him Who Is the Life of life. God and Nature.

[J. J.]

Caswall, E., p. 214, ii. Additional original hymns by Caswall are in the Arundel Hymns, 1902, and other collections. The following are from the Masque of Mary, &c., 1858:—

1. Christian soul, rest thou desire. After H. Communion.
2. Come, let me for a moment cast. H. Communion.
3. O Jesu Christ (Lord), remember. B. Communion.
4. The Holy Bible. Christmas. Appeared in the Rambler, June 1850, p. 528. Sometimes given as "Sleep, Jesus, sleep."
6. The glory of summer. Autumn.
7. This is the image of the queen. B. V. M.

His "See! amid the winter's snow," p. 1027, i., was pub. in Easy Hymns Tunes, 1851, p. 36. In addition the following, mainly altered texts or centos of his hrs., are also in C. U.:—

1. A regal throne, for Christ's dear sake. From "Hail, Queen of heaven, the ocean star," p. 543, i.
2. Come, Holy Ghost, Thy grace inspire. From "Spirit of grace and union," p. 965, i.
3. Hail! ocean star, p. 28, ii. as 1872. In the Stromagnum Oratory H. Bk., 1866, p. 138.
4. Lovely flow'rs of martyrs, hail. This is the 1849 text. His 1873 text is "Flowers of martyrdom," p. 967, i.
5. Sion, hear thy watchmen cry. From "Sublestial! noblest cities," p. 946, ii.
6. O Jesu, Saviour of the World. From "Jesu, Redeemer of the world," p. 528, ii.
7. O Lady, high in glory raised. From "O Lady, high in glory, Whose," p. 965, i.

The Parochial H. Book, 1880, has also the following original hymns by Caswall. As their use is confined to this collection, we give the numbers only:—

Nos. 1, 2, 3, 159 (Poems, 1875, p. 483), 209 (1873, p. 190), 264, 324 (1873, p. 252), 357, 402, 564, 595, 596, 649 (1875, p. 236). These are from his Masque of Mary 1858. Nos. 156, 357 (1875, p. 196), 398 (1875, p. 297), 518. These are from his May Pageant, 1865.

As several of these hymns do not begin with the original first lines, the original texts are indicated as found in his Poems, 1875. [J. M.]

Chadwick, J. W., p. 216, i. Mr. Chadwick's important prose works were the Life of Theodore Parker, 1850, and that of William Ellery Channing, 1903: and his poetical productions A Book of Poems, 1878, and In Nazareth Town and other Poems, 1883. He received his M.A. from Harvard in 1858; and d. Dec. 11, 1904. In addition to "Eternal Ruler of the ceaseless round," already noted on p. 216, ii., Mr. Chadwick's widow has supplied us with the following data concerning his hymns:—

1. A gentle tassit in the earth. [Easter.] Dated 1859.
2. Another year of setting suns. [New Year.] Written as a New Year's Hymn for 1875, and originally began "That this shall be a better year." In The Pilgrim Hy., Boston, 1904.
3. Come, let us sing a lender song. [Communion of Saints.] Dated 1865, and included in The Pilgrim Hy., 1904.
4. Everlasting Holy One. [Invocation.] 1875.
5. Et singulis low in every heart. [In Memoriam.] Written in 1874, for the 200th Anniversary of the Dedication of his Church at Brooklyn. It has passed into a great many collections in America, and a few in Great Britain, including Horder's Worship Song, 1905.
6. How sing we a song for the harvest. [Harvest.]

1620 CHANT, LAURA

Written for a Harvest Thanksgiving Service in 1871. Given in The Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904, and others.

3. O God, we come not as of old. [Perfect Law of Liberty.] Written in 1874, and entitled "The Perfect Law."

4. O Love Divine of all that is. [Proof.] Written in 1883, and included in his Book of Poems, 1894, as "A Song of Trust." In several American collections.

5. O Thou, Whose perfect goodness crowns. [For an Anniversary.] "Written for the 25th Anniversary of his Installation, Dec. 31, 1882." In The Pilgrim Hymnal, and other collections.

6. O Thou, Whose Spirit dwells in all. [Easter.] Written in 1890.

11. What has drawn us thus apart? [Our Unity.] Printed, in the Boston Unitarian Hym. for Church and Home, 1889.

During the past ten years Mr. Chadwick's hymns have become very popular in America, and especially with the compilers of Congregational and Unitarian collections. [J. J.]

Chant, Laura Ormiston, née Dibdin, daughter of F. W. Dibdin, C.E., was born at Woolastone, Gloucestershire, in 1848, was for some time Sister of the Sophia Wards of the London Hospital, and married to Thomas Chant, M.R.C.S., of Bridgewater, in 1877. Of Mrs. Chant's hymns, these are in C. U.:—

1. Beyond the far horizon. [Heaven.] Written at the request of Stopford A. Brooke for his Christian Hymnal, 1870. It is also printed as a leaflet in 6 st. of 8 l. 4to. In 1874 it was included in her Poems of Faith and Hope, and in the Light of the World. Written in June, 1881, at the request of the Rev. S. Collier, Superintendent of the Central Wesleyan Mission in Manchester. As the hymn is regarded by many as an imitation of Cardinal Newman's "Lead, kindly light," &c., Mrs. Chant's account of its origin is worthy of attention:—Mr. Collier "asked me for a hymn for the Mission, and I thought of those 'Sandon,' but that 'Lead, kindly light,' though so beautiful, was not an adequate expression of their feelings, and would I try and write something as tender, but gladder than Newman's lovely hymn. I did my best to express myself, and so gave what was wanted." The hymn was first printed as a broadsheet, and then in the Methodist H. Book, 1904, and other collections.

3. Silence, O earth, and listen to the song. [Spring.] This hymn is of more than usual excellence, and is worthy of attention. It is printed as a broadsheet, and may be had at Abbeyside House, E. Twickenham. [J. J.]

Charles, Elizabeth, née Rundle, pp. 218, ii.; 1346, i. Mrs. Rundle-Charles was b. Jan. 2, 1828, married in 1851, and d. March 28, 1896. Her hymn, "The little birds fill all the air with their glee" (Thankfulness), was pub. in her Three Weddings, 1859, p. 165, as a "Song for an Infant School." It is found in The Sunday School Hymnary, 1905, and others. [J. M.]

Charteris, Archibald Hamilton, D.D., s. of John Charteris, schoolmaster, b. at Wamphray, Dumfriesshire, Dec. 13, 1835, and educated at Wamphray and Edinburgh University, B.A. 1855, D.D. 1888; LL.D. 1896: Minister successively of New Abbey, and The Park Parish, Glasgow; Moderator of the Church of Scotland 1892. Dr. Charteris was Prof. of Biblical Criticism in Edinburgh University 1868–1898. His pub. works include Life of Prof. James Robertson, 1863, The New Test. Scriptures, 1882, &c. His hymns include:—

Believing fathers oft have told. [Christian Brotherhood.] Written in a steamer on Lake Como, on a dog's excursion in 1888. It was designed for the use of the Young Men's Guild of the Church of Scotland, of which he was the founder, and is regularly used at the chief meetings of the Guild. It was given in The Church Hymnary, 1898, No. 523, and in the Guild Hymn amongst Young Men's Guilds and Associations is extensive. [J. J.]

CHRISTE PRECAMUR

Chesterton, Gilbert Keith, s. of Edward Chesterton, was b. May 29, 1874, at Campden Hill, Kensington, London; and is a well-known journalist and author, now (1906) residing at Battersea Park, London. He contributed to The Engl. Hyl., 1906, a vigorous lyric beginning, "O God of earth and altar" (Prayer for the Nation). [J. M.]

Children of God lack nothing. This cento, slightly altered, is from W. Cowper's "Sometimes a light surprises," p. 1007, i.

Chorus novae Hierusalem, p. 224, i. Another tr. is "Up, New Jerusalem, and sing," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 141, marked as tr. by the Compilers.

Christ in His Word draws near, p. 795, ii. (Lynch, T. T., No. 3). In the Memoirs of Thomas T. Lynch, ed. by William White, (London, 1874), we have the author's account of this hymn in his own words:—

"I will quote the hymn with which I commenced my work of song. It was made on the Monday morning before Christmas Day, while I was meditating on yesterday's worship. It is now No. 11 of Two Books: 'twice in Heaven' as a song."

This was in 1854, and it was included in The Rivulet the following year. [J. J.]

Christ, the Teacher, cometh. [Christ the Teacher.] The earliest date to which we have traced this hymn is 1880, in W. R. Stevenson's Baptist School Hymnal, where it is given as from a S. Scholar's H. Bk. It has been repeated in several later collections, and usually as Anon. [J. M.]

Christe coelestis medicina Patris, p. 226, ii. This hymn is in the Einsiedeln MS. 191, catalogued as at f. 231 in a hand of the 9th cent. Dreves, xxvii., p. 284, prints it from a Mozarabic Hymnarium of the 11th cent. in the B. M. (Add. 30851, f. 169, beginning imperfectly with st. vii., l. 2), from a 10th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium now at Madrid, from a Fleury MS. of the 10th cent. now at Orleans (184), from a Pulda MS. of the 11th cent. now at Göttingen (Theol. 231) and others. [J. M.]

Christe lumen perpetuum, pp. 231, i., and 1403, i. (under Benedina). This hymn has not been traced earlier than to the printed Mozarabic Breviary of 1502, where it is given as f. 27 and again at f. 91 (misprinted cxi.). Thence in Dreves, xxvii., p. 76. [J. M.]

Christe lux mundi salus et potestas. [Evening. 2nd S. after Epiphany.] This is printed by Dreves, xxvii., No. 18, from an 11th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium formerly at Toledo, but now at Madrid, and from the Mozarabic Brev. of 1502; also from the same source in Migne's Pat. Lat., lxxxv., 215, 924. In Daniel, i., No. 125, and iv., p. 62. Tr. as:

The watering sun rolls down, by W. J. Blew, in his Church Hymns, 1852, p. 120, repeated in his Church Hy. for the Year 1867, and Tozer's Coll. 1868. This begins with st. iii. of the Latin.

Christe precamur annue, pp. 231, i. and 1403, i. (under Benedina). This hymn is mentioned in the Rule of St. Caesarius of Arles, c. 502 (see p. 1213, ii.). Dreves, xxvii., pp. 24, 78, prints it from an 11th cent. MS. at Toledo, &c. It is also in the Mozarabic Breviary of 1502, f. 102 (misprinted xcii.). [J. M.]

CHRISTE QUI

CLARKE, S. C. 1621

Christe qui lux, p. 227, i. This hymn is mentioned in the Rule of St. Caesarius, c. 502 (see p. 1213, ii.). Other versions are:—

1. O Christ, Who art the Light and Day, Thou drivest night and gloom away. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 146, marked as Copeland and Compilers; but not a single line is exactly from Copeland.

2. O Christ, Who art the Light and Day, Thou driven darkness night away, based on Copeland in Ellerton's Church Hymns, 1871.

3. O Christ, Their Brightness of the day. By J. D. Aylward, in G. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, ii., p. 85, and A. E. Tozer's Catholic Hys., 1899. [J. M.]

Christe, qui sedes Olympo, p. 228, i. The version beginning "Christ, the highest heav'n enthrone Thee," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 240, is W. Palmer's tr. altered by the Compilers. [J. M.]

Christe Redemptor omnium Conserva, p. 228, i. Another tr. of the original text is "O Christ! of all Redeemer dear," by G. H. Palmer, based on J. D. Chambers, in the Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, p. 133, and the Hymner, 1904, No. 100.

Another tr. of the "Placare Christe servulis" text is "The Father's pardon from above," in the Office H. Bk., 1889 and 1905. [J. M.]

Christe Redemptor omnium Ex Patre, p. 228, ii. Another tr. of the "Jesu Redemptor omnium Quem" text is "O Perfect Noon of Loveliness," by J. O'Connor in the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 27. [J. M.]

Christe sanctorum decus angelorum, p. 229, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. Christ, the fair beauty of the holy Angels, by G. H. Palmer and M. J. Blacker, in the Antiphoner and Grail, 1880, p. 146, and the Hymner, 1904, No. 96.

2. Christ, of the Angels' praise and adoration. By T. J. Ball in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 247, and 1905.

3. Christ, the fair glory of the holy Angels, by Sabastian Evans and Percy Dearmer, in The Anglican Hym., 1906, No. 341. [J. M.]

Christi corpus ave, p. 230, ii. Lerix assigns the MS. he used to the 12th cent.

Christi perennes nuntii, p. 231, i. The version beginning "Ye deathless messengers of Christ," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 196, is marked as Williams and Compilers; but not one line remains as Williams wrote it. [J. M.]

Christiana, awake, salute the happy morn, p. 231, ii. Through the kindness and courtesy of Mr. Walter F. Browne, Acting Librarian of Chetham's Library, Manchester, we are enabled to give the following additional information concerning this hymn:—

Anent this hymn, "Christiana, awake," the Master of Peterhouse (Cambridge) says, in vol. 24 of the Chetham Society's Publications, 1845, The Poems of John Byrom, vol. i., p. 466, the following note:—

"The Chetham Library at Manchester preserves in the Librarian's room, carefully framed, the original MS. of this famous hymn. The title is 'Christmas Day for Dolly.' The verses were therefore designed by Byrom as a Christmas gift to his daughter Dorothy (born April 28, 1724, died unmarried, September 13, 1797). J. E. Bailey writes:—'I lately got an original broadside copy of Christiana, Awake, most likely printed by Orion Adams, Smithy Door (Manchester). It has a woodcut, and is very carefully printed, showing, I think, that Byrom corrected it. The pamphlet, Hebrews i., 2, prints also another carol, beside the Christmas Hymn, for which the Chetham Library paid a high price, I think, for 1751. As on Christmas Eve, 1724, the organist Wainwright and the singing men and boys of the old church came before Byrom's door to sing the hymn, this may be the date of its composition and sudden popularity."

It has been said that the poem appeared in Harrop's Manchester Mercury for 1746. On this point Mr. Browne says:—

"I have not a copy of Harrop's Manchester Mercury for 1746 in our library, but a former librarian conveyed the following information to me:—'This text was written in 1746 and printed in Harrop's Manchester Mercury in 1746.'"

From Dr. W. E. A. Axon's Annals of Manchester, 1886, p. 88, we find that the first number of Harrop's Manchester Mercury is dated March 3, 1752. This is conclusive against the printed date of the hymn being 1746. There is in the Manchester Free Reference Library an undated broadside containing Byrom's two Christmas hymns, "Christians! awake," and "God Who at sundry times in divers ways," which is regarded as the first printed copy of these hymns, but being without date it is of little value in determining the year in which the "Christmas Day for Dolly" was written. From the evidence before us the earliest date we can give to the hymn is 1750. Wainwright's tune, to which it was sung by his choir as noted above, is known by the varying names of "Yorkshire," "Stockport," and "Mottram." [J. J.]

Christum ducem, p. 232, ii. Also in two MSS. in the B. M., viz., Harl. 1260, f. 69, and Add. 14845, f. 1b, both being of the second half of the 14th cent.

Christus tenebris obsitam, p. 233, i. The version beginning "Now heaven's growing light is manifest," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 85, is from Isaac Williams unaltered, but omitting the introductory "And!" [J. M.]

Cives coelestis patriae, p. 233, ii. This is also in a 12th cent. MS. in the University Library, Cambridge (Gg. v. 35). Dreves, ii., p. 94, prints it from a Mozarac Hymnarium of the 11th cent., and from a Gottweig MS. of the 12th cent. [J. M.]

Clare, Mary F., p. 1556, ii. In the Standard of June 7, 1899, is the following: "June 5, at Leamington, Margaret Anna Cusack, only daughter of the late Samuel Cusack, M.D., of Dublin, aged 70." In the same paper on the following day, this lady is identified as "Sister Mary F. Clare," the Nun of Kenmare, who, on leaving the Roman Catholic Church, lectured extensively on Protestantism. The hymns noted on p. 1556, ii., are from her Hymns for Children by a Religious of the Holy Order of the Poor Clares, London, 1862. Two others in 1862 have passed into the Congregational Hy. of Praise for Children, 1881, "O gentle Jesus, had I been" (Christ blessing Children), and "When Jesus was on earth He used" (Jesus, the Healer). [J. M.]

Clark, John, b. in England in 1843, and educated for the Baptist Ministry at Mr. Spurgeon's college. Proceeding to Canada in 1875 he has held there several pastorates of Baptist Churches, and now (1905) resides at Tryon, Prince Edward Island. His hymn, "With sacred joy, dear Lord, we meet" (For Conferences), is No. 805 in Sursum Corda, Phila., 1898. [L. F. B.]

Clarke, S. C., pp. 1556, ii.; 1556, ii. In addition to the hymns by Mr. Clarke already noted in this Dictionary, the following have come into C. U. during the past few years:—

1. All blessing, honour, glory, might. [Processional.] This hymn, based upon Rev. v. and viii., to music by Mendelssohn, was written in 1862, and published with Mendelssohn's music, adapted thereto for congregational use, by Novello. The original source is stated to be the work by Vicesimus Knox (Gainsborough, 1789). It was sung at Norwich Cathedral in 1864, and later at other choir festivals. Included in the author's Pastoral and other Hys., 1890, and C. W. A. Brooke's Add. Hys., 1892.

2. Amid the ceaseless strife. [St. George.] First pub. in Add. Hys., 1892, to music by Sir J. Stainer.

3. Exercises of all creation. [Flower Services.] From Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 477, into (Brooke's) Add. Hys., 1892. In Pastoral and other Hys., 1890.

4. Lord of all creation. [Offertory.] The note on this hymn is: "Written originally at the request of the Reverend Canon Harvey, and sung at the reopening of Birmingham Church, after restoration by Sir Gilbert Scott, in 1865." It was also sung at the Festival Festival at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1871; Norwich and Truro, 1894; Ely, 1895, and others. In Pastoral and other Hys., 1890, and Add. Hys., 1892.

5. Lord of power and might, the Giver. [Church Lads' Brigade.] From his Pastoral and other Hys., 1890, into Add. Hys., 1892.

6. Not more than hearts of gloom. [Flower Service.] Included in Add. Hys., 1892.

An extensive collection of Mr. Clarke's hymns, together with original tunes, is in the Church House Library, Westminster. Mr. Clarke d. at Penzance, Feb. 22, 1903. [J. J.]

Clarum decus jejunii, p. 236, i. There does not seem to be any reason for ascribing this to St. Gregory. Additional trs. are:—

1. It is the glory of this fast, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 94, marked as by the Compilers. It is really Sir H. W. Baker's version (1861) it is to keep this fast," re-written and slightly altered.

2. The glory of these solemn tide, in the New Office H. Bk., 1902, No. 196.

3. The glory of these forty days, by M. F. Bell, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 56. [J. M.]

Coelestis aulae principes, p. 240, i. J. Chandler's tr. of this hymn "Hail! Princes of the host of heaven," from his Hys. of the Primitive Church, 1837, p. 98, is included in Church Hymns, 1903.

Coelestis formam gloriae, p. 240, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. A wondrous type, a vision fair, based on Noah, in the New Office H. Bk., 1902, No. 241.

2. A wondrous type, the holy flight, by H. E. Roberts, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 236.

3. O wondrous type, O vision fair, which was given in the original ed. of Hys. A. & M., 1861, and omitted in the ed. of 1875 (p. 260, ii.), has been reinstated in the ed. of 1904. [J. M.]

Coeli Deus sanctissime, p. 241, i. Another tr. is "Most holy Lord and God of heaven," by M. F. Bell in The English Hyl., 1906. R. Campbell's tr. "All holy Sovereign of the sky," p. 241 i. 3, has been brought into C. U. through its inclusion in Church Hys., 1903. [J. J.]

Coelitum Joseph decus, pp. 241, i., and 1467, i. See note on "To Joseph celebrent" in this Supplement.

Coelo datur quiescere, p. 241, ii. Another tr. is "In heaven 'tis given to rest thee," by W. J. Blew in his Ch. H. Bk., 1852, Holy Days, No. 30, repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Sion, 1904, No. 110, and the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 314. [J. M.]

Coelo quos eadem gloria, p. 241, ii. Another tr. is "All saints, who share one glory bright," by T. I. Ball, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905.

Coelo Redemptor praetulit. [B. V. M.] This is the Matins hymn in the Office of the Maternity of the B. V. M. The office is printed in full in the Opera (vol. vi., Rome, 1751, with "Coelo Redemptor" at p. 310, and "Te mater alma Numinis" at p. 313) of Pope Benedict XIV., and was authorized by him in 1751 for use in Portugal. It is in the Lisbon ed., 1796, Verna, p. 639; in later eds., e.g. Florence 1839, Madrid 1858, &c., it is appointed for the 2nd S. in October. Tr. as "The Saviour left high heav'n to dwell," by E. Caswall in his Lyra Cath., 1849, p. 177, repeated in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk. and others. [J. M.]

Coelos ascendit hodie, p. 241, ii. The text, as in Daniel, i., No. 492, has not been traced before 1691, and is probably not much earlier than that date.

Coenam cum discipulis. [Passiontide.] Apparently of about the end of the 14th cent. It is in a Sarum Missal in the Bodleian (Barlow 5, p. 501) in a hand of c. 1400; and in a Hereford Missal kept in the Bodleian, but belonging to University College, also in a hand of c. 1400. In the York of 1509, the Sanctes of 1491, the Paris of 1501, and other Missals it forms part of the Mass of the Five Wounds of Christ. Text in Kehrein, No. 57. Tr. as:—

At the Supper with the Twelve, by J. M. Neale, in his Med. Hys., 1851, p. 71. His tr. of sec. 4, st., beginning "On the wood His arms are stretch'd," are in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Sion, 1904, No. 34. [J. M.]

Coghill, Annie Louisa, née Walker, daughter of Robert Walker, was b. at Kidderminster, Staffs., in 1836, and married Harry Coghill in 1884. During a residence for some time in Canada several of her poetical pieces were printed in the Canadian newspapers. These were gathered together and published c. 1859 in her Leaves from the Backwoods. In addition to novels, plays for children, and magazine work, she edited the Autobiography and Letters of her cousin, Mrs. Oliphant, in 1898. Her popular hymn, "Work, for the night is coming," p. 317, ii., was written in Canada in 1854, and published in a Canadian newspaper, from which it passed, without any acknowledgement of the authorship, into Ira D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos. Authorized text in her Oak and Maple, 1890, p. 17. [J. J.]

Cole, Samuel Valentine, D.D., b. at Machiasport, Me., 1851, and educated at Bowdoin Coll. and Andover Theo. Seminary, 1887; D.D. 1898. President of Wheaton Seminary since 1897. His Scipio's Garden and other Poems was pub. 1901. From it is taken "O Thou Who sealest up the past" (New Year), p. 170. It is dated in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, as 1887. [G. L. N.]

Coleridge, John Duke, Lord, p. 1327, i. He became Lord Chief Justice in 1880, and d. in London, June 14, 1894.

Coles, V. S. S., p. 242, ii. Recently additional hymns by Mr. Coles have come into C. U., including:—

1. Almighty Father, Lord most high. [Holy Communion.] Written for H. A. & M., and given in the 1904 ed., No. 324, to be sung "At the Offertory." It is admirably suited for this purpose.

2. Father, Whose love we have wrong'd by transgression. This "Litany for Lent," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 433, is a recast from the author's Metrical Litany, pub. by Novello. The Pt. ii. in H. A. & M., begins "O Lord, with sorrow and shame we confess."

3. We sing Thee, heavenly Father, p. 242, ii., 3. This hymn, with the exception of st. 1, is entirely rewritten in The English Hyl., 1906.

4. To who own the faith of Jesus. [S. T. E.] This appeared in The English Hyl., 1906, for "St. Mary the Virgin."

For Mr. Coles's trs. see Index of Authors and Translators. [J. J.]

Colesworthy, D. C., p. 242, ii. He d. in 1893.

Colludemus Magdalenae, p. 242, ii. In the Sarum use the hymn begins as above. The original form, beginning "Pange lingua Magdalena," is ascribed to Philippe de Grève (see p. 1200, ii.) by Salimbene in his Chronica (printed at Parma, 1857, p. 65, from a Vatican MS. of the 13th cent.). The "Pange lingua" text is in a MS. of c. 1300 in the Bodleian (Rawl. A. 420); in the Engelberg MS. No. 104, catalogued as of the 13th cent.; and in later MSS. at Einsiedeln (No. 92), St. Gall (16, 380), Darmstadt (932), &c. Other trs. are:—

1. Colludemus. Tr. as "Sing we all the joys and sorrows," by Laurence Housman, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 238.

ii. O Maria. Tr. as "Mary, weep not, weep no longer," by Laurence Housman, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 238. [J. M.]

Collier, Edward Augustus, a Congregational Minister at Kinderhook, New York State, is the author of "Thou, Lord, art God alone" (Holy Trinity) in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898.

Collyer, Robert, b. at Keighley, Yorkshire, Dec. 8, 1823, at one time a working blacksmith, emigrated to America in 1850, where he was a Methodist local preacher until he joined the Unitarians in 1859; and Pastor of the Church of the Messiah, N.Y., from 1879. Has published several works on various subjects. His hymn, "With thankful hearts, O God, we come" (Dedication of a Church), in the Boston Unitarian Hys. for Church and Home, 1895, is given in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, as "Unto Thy temple, Lord, we come," and appointed for Sunday morning. It was written for the Dedication of Unity Church, Chicago (which was burnt in the great fire of 1870), of which he was the first Pastor in 1859. [J. J.]

Come away, where no shadows in a glass, p. 1062, ii. This is given to I. G. Smith in error. It is a part of I. Williams's tr. of "Pugnate, Christi milites," p. 941, i. 1.

Come, happy souls, adore His Name. An altered form of T. Baldwin's "Ye happy saints, the Lamb adore," p. 108, ii. 3, in the Amer. Sursum Corda, 1898, and others.

Come, Jesus, from the sapphire throne. R. Palmer. [Dedication of a Place of Worship.] Included in his Poetical Works, 1876, p. 76, and dated 1873.

Come, let our hearts and voices join. This is part of J. Swain's "A Friend there is: your voices join," p. 2, i., given in some American hymnals.

Come, let us sing the song of songs, p. 260, i. This was printed in the Sunday S. Teachers' Magazine for May, 1841, p. 351, as one of the "Original Hymns for the Sheffield S. S. Union Festival, Whitsunday, May 31, 1841." [J. M.]

Come, O Thou Prophet of the Lord. C. Wesley. [Christ the Interpreter.] From his Hys. for Our Lord's Resurrection, 1746, No. vi., into The Meth. Hymn-Book, 1904, as "Come then, Thou Prophet of the Lord" (P. Works, iv., p. 136). [J. J.]

Come, Sacred Spirit from above. From F. Doddridge's "Hear, gracious Sovereign, from Thy throne," p. 206, i. 22, into a few collections.

Come, sing with holy gladness, p. 279, ii. In the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M. of the original 4 stanzas sts. ii. and iii. are transposed, and iv. is omitted. Church Hys., 1903, and The English Hyl., 1906, retain the original.

Come, Thou almighty Will. [Invocation.] Appeared anonymously in the Amer. Unit. Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 7, in 3 st. of 7 l. It is repeated in later hymnals, and still Anon.

Come ti vedo chime di sangue aspetto. [Passiontide.] This is in the Laude Spirituali of the Congregation of the Oratory, Rome, 1583, Bk. i., p. 29. In Coferati's Corona di Sacre Canzoni, Florence, 1710, p. 627, as "Come ti vedo sime" (in index chime). Tr. as "Why do I see Thee crimson'd o'er with blood," by J. O'Connor in the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 66. [J. M.]

Come to bless Thy people, Lord. Barbara MacAndrew. [Public Worship.] From her Ekklesia and other Poems. By B. M., 1871, as "Hymn sung at the opening of All Saints' Church [Hoole], Chester." In the Baptist Church Hyl., 1900, and others. [J. M.]

Come unto Me, ye weary, p. 253, i. The original text of this hymn is given in several hymnals of a late date, including The Church Hymnary, 1898; Church Hys., 1903; The Methodist Hyl., 1904, and others. In the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M., and The English Hyl. 1906, the last st. is mainly rewritten. [J. J.]

Come, ye faithful, raise the strain, p. 87, i. The centos from this tr. by Dr. Neale have undergone some alterations in recent collections. These include: (1) Church Hys., 1903, where st. i., l. 8, reads "Thanks and praise" for "Laud and praise," &c.; and st. iii., l. 5, "Thou to-day, amidst Thine own," for "But to-day, amidst the twelve"; (2) H. A. & M., 1904, where the last stanza is entirely rewritten; and (3) The English Hyl., 1906, in which Dr. Neale's text is faithfully followed. It will be noted that the texts of Church Hys. and H. A. & M. are altered to bring the hymn in line with the fact that both Judas Iscariot and Thomas were absent on the first Easter night. Sacred history denies that "twelve" were present. For the original Greek text, see Moorson's Historical Companion to Hys. A. & M., 1903, p. 88. [J. J.]

1624 CONDITOR ALME COOK, ELIZA

Conditor alme siderum, p. 257, i. Another tr. is "O Maker of the stars of night," in the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 47, marked as "Trans. by R. H."

Congregational Hymnody, English, pp. 258-261. During the past fifteen years very little has been done by the Congregational body in the direction of hymn-writing and the compilation of hymn-books. The Congregational Mission Hymnal, c. 1890, has had only a very limited circulation. The Rev. W. G. Horder issued in 1894 Hymns Supplemental to Existing Collections. Later, in 1898, he reduced his Congregational Hymns (p. 259, ii. 10) and these Hymns Supplemental to 805, and published the same as Worship Song, and in 1905 as Worship Song with Accompanying Tunes. In this collection poetic warmth and cultured expression have been sought after and attained. The tone of the book is bright and buoyant and its literary standard is exceptionally high. The Congregational Church Hymnal (p. 260, ii. 12), in an unaltered form, is still in extensive use.

In 1899 the Congregational Historical Society was founded in connexion with the Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, London, of which the Rev. T. G. Crippen is one of the Hon. Secretaries. The Library of this Society has a large collection of Congregational Hymn Books, and other publications associated with hymns and hymn-writers. Dr. Williams's Library, London, is also of value in the same direction.

[T. G. C.]

The following hymn-writers, all of whom have assisted in building up the hymnody of the Congregationalists, are grouped together here to economize our space:—

Bocking, Daniel, sometime Minister of Tenterden, Kent, author of Spiritual Hymns, &c., Chelmsford, 1792. He died c. 1793.

Clark, John, first Pastor of the Tabernacle, Tewkesbury, 1780, in which are 166 hymns. Born in 1745, died in 1809.

Harrison, Susanna, invalided from her work as a domestic servant at the age of 20, pub. Songs in the Night, 1778, which includes "Lord, I would delay no longer," and "Farewell, vain world, adieu," and "O happy souls that love the Lord." Born in 1753 and died Aug. 3, 1784.

Jarvis, Mary, dau. of Samuel Rowles, of Ual, Gloucs., was b. in 1793, and in 1820 the Rev. George Jarvis, then Congregational minister at Shenstone, Glouc., since 1830 at Cotford, Gloucs. She contributed devotional poetry to the Sunday at Home and other periodicals, collected as Sunshine and Other Songs by the Way. By Mary Jemima Jarvis, n.d. (1895). Her hymn is:—

1. Lord, I am Thine, entire, for ever. [Consecration.] Contributed to the Sunday at Home, 1868, p. 449, as "A Hymn for Nightfall," repeated 1885 as above, p. 55. It is in the Public School H. Bk., 1903.

Johnson, Joseph, was b. March 31, 1846, at Basingstoke, Hants, educated at Cheshunt Coll., entered the Congregational ministry in 1875, and since 1877 has been minister at Ashton on Mersey, Cheshire. He has pub. various young people's stories, Ivie, 1893, &c., and a Sunday School Song called Ivie (1898), &c. His hymns include:—

1. For all beneath the open sky. [God's Care.] Written 1881; first pub. in Ivie, 1893, repeated in School Hym., 1891.

2. God speaks to us in bird and song. [God's Voice.] Written 1881; first pub. in Ivie, 1893, repeated in School Hym., 1891. This is sometimes sung to the tune of the 46th stave of his stories, entitled Ivie, 1893, pp. 47, 156, &c.

3. We bless Thee, Lord, for all the joy. [Thanksgiving.] Written 1882. In Dr. John Hunter's Hym. of Faith and Life, 1896.

Parker, James, was b. July 16, 1825, at Milverton, Somerset, entered the Congregational ministry in 1847, and from 1857 to 1905 was pastor of Morley Memorial Church, Bristol. His hymn:—

1. O God on Heaven's high seat [National] was written April 27, 1865, for use on Coronation Day, and largely used at the time (Bristol: W. C. Hemmons; with music by T. Walker). Another use:—

2. Bless the children's Saviour! [Month of Life], written 1850 for the Sunday-school anniversary, pub. by the S.S. Union, and included in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

Additional hymns by Mr. Parker have been published with music in sheet form by Curwen and others.

Pigg, Joseph Gage, was b. at Norwich, Dec. 14, 1816. He was Congregational minister at Wolverhampton, at Wymondham, and after 1856 at Marlborough Chapel, Old Kent Road, London. He d. Dec. 5, 1900. He ed. the Home Book for Children of all ages, 1854, which passed through several eds. Two hymns are associated with his name:—

1. Our joyful day comes back from God. [Morning.] 1854, as above, p. 95, as "Morning Hymn for a Christian child," given without name of author.

2. The Father's house is very large. [Eternal Life.] This is in E. Hodder's Sun S. S. H. Bk., 1863, marked as by "P.," and in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, as by "J. Gage Pigg."

We are unable to determine whether either is really by Mr. Pigg.

Rees, John, a Puritan Minister at Springfield, near Chelmsford, ejected at the Restoration, and afterwards pastor of a Congregational Church in London. He d. in 1668. Rees, Spiritual Hymns upon Solomon's Songs contained 158 hymns.

Rickett, Joseph Compton, s. of Joseph Rickett of East Boothby, Surrey, was b. in London, Feb. 13, 1847; is interested in various commercial undertakings, especially in coal; M.P. since 1906 for the Osgoldcross div. of Yorks; elect d chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales for 1907. His hymn:—

Above the vale of death's dark night. [Christ's Kingdom.] appeared in the 3rd ed. of Church Psalm and Song Book, Congregational Norfolk, 1875, p. 49, headed "Ascension Day. Psalm xxiv.," and is in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

Small, James, of Axminster, b. 1750, d. 1834, pub. Three Hundred Hys. on Select Texts of Scripture in 1831.

Smith, Frederic, was b. in 1848 at Birmingham, was for many years at Halifax, and now (1907) resides at Bowdon, Cheshire. His collected poems were pub. in 1896, as a Chest of Viols and other Verse. This includes:—

1. Not far, not far from the Kingdom. [Decision.] Written 1868, and first pub. in the Congregationalist, again in 1880 as above, p. 56, entitled "Not far." It is given, abridged and altered, marked as "Words set," in Sankey's Songs and Solos, 1887, No. 659.

2. Sweet is the work, my God, my King. [Work.] Written about 1870, and first pub. in Dale's Eng. H. Bk., 1874, No. 184; 1890, as above, p. 45, headed "Thy Will is done." Recently in Worship Song, 1905, and others.

Spurgeon, James, grandfather of the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, b. in 1777 and d. in 1864, was a village pastor at Stambourne, Essex. His 101 Original Hymns, pub. at Halstead, 1841, is a genuine curiosity in hymnology.

In the compiling of these biographical notes, we have received material assistance from the Rev. T. G. Crippen of the Congregational Historical Society.

[J. M.]

Consors Paterni luminis, p. 261, ii. Another tr. is "Pure Light of Light! Thou Dayspring fair," in the Office H. Bk., 1880, and 1905. The cento "Fellow of the Father's light," which was given in the Wellington College Chapel Hym., 1873, is omitted in the 1902 ed. of the same collection, in favour of Cardinal Newman's tr. "O God from God, and Light from light," from his Verses on Religious Subjects, 1853. It first appeared in R. Williams's tr. of the Roman Breviary, 1838, p. 61.

Cooke, W., p. 262, i. He d. Nov. 23, 1894.

Coombs, Charles Whitney, author of "Long years ago, o'er Bethlehem's hills" (Christmas Carol), was b. at Bucksport, Me., in 1859. He was organist of the American Church at Dresden, Saxony, for a time, and since 1892 of the Church of the Holy Communion, N.Y. His carol was included in the Methodist Hymnal, 1905. [L. F. B.]

Cor area legem, p. 263, ii. This is in the Roman Breviary, Venice, 1736, appx., p. 133.

Cor Jesu, cor purissimum. [Sacred Heart of Jesus.] Apparently of the 18th cent. N. Nilles in his De rationibus festorum Sacratissimi Cordis Jesu, Innsbruck, 1885, ii., p. 229, gives it as part of an Officium parvum SS. Cordis Jesu, printed at Orleans, 1752, and elsewhere. In J. Mohr's Manual of Sacred Chant, 1877, p. 456. Tr. as:—

O heart of Jesus, purest heart, by Father Matthew in verse 13 of his Meditations, Dublin, 1894, p. v. 144; repeated, with the Latin text, in the Arundel Hym., 1902, Nos. 120, 121. [J. M.]

Corelli, Marie, was adopted as an infant by Charles Mackay, p. 1279, ii., is the well-known novelist, and now (1906) lives at Stratford-on-Avon. Her hymn—

In our hearts celestial voices softly say [Christmas] is in her Christmas Greeting, 1901, entitled "Children's Evening Hymn." It is in Hym. and Choral Songs, Manchester, 1904, and the S. S. Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Coster, G. T., p. 265, i. The following hymns by Mr. Coster have been written and have come into C. U. since 1902:—

1. Going to the Father. [The Man of Sorrows.] Written in 1898, and pub. in his Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 2, st. 1, 2, 4.

2. Lord God Almighty, in Thy hand. [Praise.] Written in 1897, and pub. in his Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 3, in 7 sts. of 4 l., and entitled "We praise Thy power."

3. Lord of the gracious smables. [Temperance.] Written at the request of the Rev. W. G. Horder for his Worship Song, and given therein in 1905, and in America. In the author's Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 36, and entitled "A National Foe."

4. March on, O Soul, with strength. [Christian Battle Song.] Written in Bedford Park, London, Aug. 3, 1897, and printed in The Evangelical Mag., Feb., 1898. In the Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 10, in 4 sts. of 4 l., and entitled "Christian Warfare." It is in use in America, including The Pilgrim Hy., 1904, and others.

5. O Friend Divine! with Thee apart. [Fellowship with Christ.] First pub. in the Evangelical Mag., Sept., 1898; also in his Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 25, in 6 sts. of 4 l., and entitled "Fellowship with Christ."

6. Still and beauty from Thee flow. [Opening of a Side of Work.] First pub. in his Hym. and Poems, 1882, and again in his Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 35, in 3 sts. of 4 l.

7. Then Whose great baptismal brow. [Holy Baptism.] Written in 1892, at the request of W. G. Horder, for the Baptist edition of his Worship Song, and given therein in 1905, and in America. In the author's Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 38, and the author's Hunts Hys., 1903, No. 31.

8. We join with all in every place. [Holy Communion.] Written in 1901, and first pub. in Horder's Hym. Supplemental, 1898, and the Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 28, in 3 sts. of 6 l., and entitled "United Communion Service."

In addition to the above the following hymns are appearing in forthcoming collections:—

9. Comrades' names are on our banner. [National Hymn.] Written at Scarborough, July, 1901, and printed in The Examiner (the weekly organ of the Congregational Church-), May 8, 1902; also in the author's When the Stars Appear, 1903, p. 21, in 6 st. of 8 l., and entitled "Names on Our Banner."

10. King of the City Splendid. [National Hymn.] Written at Bedford Park, London, Aug. 18, 1897, and printed in The Independent (Cong. weekly), Jan. 27, 1898. In his Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 40, in 10 st. of 6 l., and entitled "Prayer for our Cities."

Concerning the three hymns noted on p. 263, i., the author says:—

1. Dost thou bow beneath the burden? "It was written in 1879, and first printed in the Evangelical Mag., May, 1879." In the Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 22.

2. Lo! the Sun, the Sun is risen and west. "Originally written in 1864, and first printed in the Evangelical Mag., in later collections it has been considerably altered." In its varying forms it is the most widely known of the author's hymns. Authorised text in Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 26.

3. Lord of the Sea, afar from land. "Written in 1878, and first printed in the Evangelical Mag., September, 1878." Included in Hunts Hys., 1901, No. 31.

Since 1890 Mr. Coster has held the pastorate of Stroud and of Hessle, near Hull. He retired from the active ministry in 1902. His later poetical works include Collected Poems, 1890; Gloria Christi, 1896; Hunts Hymns, 1901; When the Stars appear, 1903; and Beams of Christ's Glory, 1904. In these works Mr. Coster has maintained his reputation as a writer of hymns. [J. J.]

Courthope, William John, LL.D., son of the Rev. W. Courthope, Rector of S. Malling, was born July 17, 1842, educated at Harrow, and New Coll., Oxford; B.A. (1st Class Lit. Hum.), Newdigate Prize Poem 1864; Hon. D.LITT., Durham, 1895; Hon. LL.D., Edinburgh, 1898; Professor of Poetry, Oxford, 1895-1901; 1st Class Civil Ser. Comr., 1892. He has pub. Ludibria Lunæ, 1869; The Paradise of Birds, 1870; and History of English Poetry, 4 vols., 1895-1903. His trs. of Latin hymns, of more than usual beauty and excellence, were contributed to Church Hymns, 1903. See Index of Authors and Translators. [J. J.]

Cousin, A. R., p. 264, ii. Other hymns that have passed into use are:—

1. In the noogles nigh, the daylight dreary. Jesus near.

2. Lord, mine must be a spotless dress. Christ our righteousness.

3. O now is the time. Seek the Lord.

4. O Thou that on the hillow. Jesus near.

Of these No. 4 appeared in J. H. Wilson's Songs of Zion, 1862; Nos. 1 and 3 in J. H. Wilson's Service of Praise, 1865; and No. 2 in her own Immanuel's Land, 1876. Mrs. Cousin d. at Edinburgh Dec. 6, 1906, in her 83rd year. [J. M.]

Cowper, W., p. 265, i. Prof. John E. B. Mayor, of Cambridge, contributed some letters by Cowper, hitherto unpublished, together with notes thereon, to Notes and Queries, July 2 to Sept. 24, 1904. These letters are dated from Huntingdon, where he spent two years after leaving St. Alban's (see p. 265, i.), and Olney. The first is dated "Huntingdon, June 24, 1765," and the last "From Olney, July 14, 1772." They together with extracts from other letters by J. Newton (dated respectively Aug. 8, 1772, Nov. 4, 1772), two quotations without date, followed by the last in the N. & Q. series, Aug. 1775, are of intense interest to all students of Cowper, and especially to those who have given attention to the religious side of the poet's life, with its faint lights and deep and awful shadows. From the hymnological standpoint the additional information which we gather is not important, except concerning the hymns "O for a closer walk with God," "God moves in a mysterious way," "'Tis my happiness below," and "Hear what God, the Lord, hath spoken." Concerning the last three, their position in the MS., and the date of the last from J. Newton in the above order, "Aug. 1779," is conclusive proof against the common belief that "God moves in a mysterious way" was written as the outpouring of Cowper's soul in gratitude for the frustration of his attempted suicide in October 1773. [J. J.]

Cox, Frances E., p. 986, i, b. May 10, 1813, d. Sept. 23, 1897.

Coxe, A. C., p. 986, i. He d. July 21, 1896.

Craigie-Halkett, Violet Mary, b. at the Royal Military College, Camberley, Surrey. Her hymn—

"Twas upon this happy morn [Christmas] was written in 1894, pub. by the S. S. Union, with music by Ferris Tozer (MS. see Cass.), and included in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, No. 57. [J. M.]

Crawford, Thomas, was b. in 1850 at Falkirk, Scotland, and now (1906) resides at Stroud Green, London. His hymn :—

Raise the song of triumph, swell the strains of joy (Service for Christ), gained a first prize for words and music (both original) in a S. S. Union competition, 1883. Both are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, and the words in Yield of Praise, 1887, School Hyr., 1891, and others. [J. M.]

Creighton, Mandell, D.D., was b. at Carlisle, July 5, 1843, consecrated Bishop of Peterborough, 1891, translated to London 1896, and d. at Fulham, London, Jan 14, 1901. For details of his career see the most interesting Life and Letters, 1904, ed. by his wife. He was the author of only one hymn, "O Thou Who gavest power to love" (Holy Matrimony). This he wrote in London, early in 1900. He gave a copy in MS. to the Hon. Sarah Kathleen, daughter of the 4th Lord Lyttleton, who had it printed, and it was first used on April 26, 1900, at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, on the occasion of her marriage to Mr. J. C. Bailey, of Egerton Gardens, London. It is in Bp. Creighton's Life & Letters, 1904, vol. ii. p. 315, and The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Crewdson, Jane, p. 988, ii. The following additional hymns by Mrs. Crewdson have recently come into C. U. through The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900 :—

1. For the sunshine and the rain. Harvest.
2. O Feast of grace that reneweth o'er. Public Worship.
3. There is an unutterable joy. Joy in God.
4. When I come with troubled heart. Prayer.

These hymns are all from her A Little While, and Other Poems, 1864. [J. J.]

Crippen, T. G., p. 1058, ii. In 1896 Mr. Crippen was appointed Librarian at the Congregational Hall, Farringdon Street, London. In addition to his Ancient Hymns and Poems, Translated from the Latin, 1889, he has contributed numerous hymns to various periodicals, especially the Evangelical Magazine. His hymn "O Thou Who givest corn and wine" was written for Band of Hope gatherings in 1885, and first printed in the Sunday S. Chronicle. It is in the Sunday S. Hymnary, 1905, and others. [J. J.]

Crosswell, W., p. 989, ii. On the title-page of his Poems, 1861, this author is given as W. Crosswell, and the best authorities are in favour of this spelling of the name.

Crucis Christi mons Alvernae, pp. 271, ii. and 1058, ii. Mount Alverna or Verna is in the upper valley of the Arno. St. Francis of Assisi went there in Aug. 1224 to keep a fast of forty days before the festival of the Archangel Michael (Sept. 29). The date given for the conferring of the stigmas is Sept. 14, 1224, Holy Rood day or the day of the Elevation of the Cross. But as that day and the two days following had already been assigned to other festivals, the celebration of the Stigmatisation was fixed on Sept. 17. Pope Paul V. (1605–1621) allowed the general use of the office, but it was not included in the body of the Roman Breviary till after 1632; the Paris ed. of 1642, e.g., gives it in the General Appendix. Irenaus, iv., p. 140, prints the "Crucis Christi" from a 15th cent. MS. at Salzburg. [J. M.]

Criiger, Johann, pp. 271, ii.; 1058, ii. A complete copy of the earliest Berlin ed. of the Praxis noted at p. 271, i. has recently been discovered, and proves to be of 1647. In addition we may note that :—

The 1st Berlin ed., 1653, of the Praxis noted at p. 1058, ii., is now in the Royal Library at Munich. The Breslau Town Library has a copy of the 7th Berlin ed. 1661. The 14th Berlin ed. 1691 is in Wernigerode. The 15th Berlin ed. 1693 is in Königsberg. Throughout this Dictionary, speaking generally it may be said that the hymns by Franck and Herbarth, noted as in the Crüger-Runge G. S., 1653 (p. 272, i. no. 4), and in the Frankfurt (C. Ritsch) ed. of 1658 of the Praxis, are all in the Berlin ed., 1653, of the Praxis. [J. M.]

Crux, ave benedicta. [Holy Cross Day.] Probably of the 17th cent. It is in the Symphonia Sirenum, Cologne, 1695 (ed. 1707, p. 196), the Paderbrodum Cant. Cath., 1710, p. 277, Daniel, ii. p. 340, Trench, ed. 1864, p. 302, &c. Tr. as "Hail be thou! blessed Cross," by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Cullen, John, was born in Ireland, Oct. 15, 1837, and educated at St. Aidan's college, from which he was ordained D. in 1865 and P. in 1866. After acting as Curate in several parishes he became Vicar of Radcliffe-on-Trent in 1874. He has also been engaged on the staff of the Church Parochial Mission Society. His poetical works are Poems and Idylls, 1882, 3rd ed., 1904; Songs of Consolation; Hymns of the Holy Spirit, &c. A few of his hymns are in C. U., mainly in America. There are several others also which are worthy of attention.

[J. J.]

Cum rex gloriae Christus. [Easter.] This antiphon or repository is found in a 10th cent. MS. at Einsiedeln (121, p. 203). Anselm Schubiger in his Sängerschule, 1858, pp. 54, 85, ascribes it, apparently without reason, to Notker Balbulus, and gives a copy of it with the melody (Exemplo 40 from the Einsiedeln MS. 33, of c. 1300). At Rehtenach (Graduale of 12th cent., Paris, Lat. 10510; see Al. Hebert in his Tropen ... Gesänge, 1884, p. 73), and many other places, it was used as an antiphon at the Procession on Easter Day. At Hereford it was used as an Antiphon on Easter Eve at the midnight procession to the Easter Sepulchre in the Cathedral (H. B. S. reprint, vol. i., p. 324). Also in Daniel, ii., p. 315. It is practically the same as a passage in a sermon ascribed to St. Augustine in Migne's P.P. Lat. xxxviii. 1061. Tr. as "When Jesus Christ, the King of glory," by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 41. [J. M.]

Cum sit omnis caro foenum. Philippe de Grève. [Ash Wednesday or Lent.] This is in a MS. of the end of the 13th cent., now in the B. M. (Egerton 274, f. 27b) which contains the poems of Philippe de Grève. Also in a MS. of the 13th cent. at Evreux (39, f. 3; see Catalogue), apparently written at Lyre, near Evreux. Ebrens, xxi., No. 142, prints it from the Egerton 274, from a 13th cent. MS. at Florence (Laurent. Pl. xxix. i.), and from the Aquileia Missal of 1508. Sometimes erroneously ascribed to St. Bernard of Clairvaux; cf. Hauréau's Poèmes ... Saint Bernard, 1890, p. 29. Also in Trench, ed. 1864, p. 235. Tr. as :—

Easter Day comes on but slowly, a very free version by J. M. Neale in his Carols for Easter Tide, 1854, No. 34; repeated, beginning with st. ii., "Of the heart that is never," in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 39. [J. M.]

Cunliffe, William, M.A. Ordained from St. Aidan's Coll. D. 1884, P. 1886, Curate of Great Horton, Yorkshire, 1884–85, and from 1885 Vicar of St. Chrysostom, Bradford. Graduated at Trin. Coll., Dublin; B.A. 1900; M.A. 1905. His hymn :—

O God, our Father, in compassion hear [On behalf of the Blind]. Written in 1900, and pub. in S. of A. i., with music by Dr. G. C. Martin, by Novello & Co., in the same year. In Brooke's Additional Hyr., 1903, it is abbreviated to 6 sts. [J. J.]

D.

Da Jesus an dem Kreuze stund, p. 184, i. Another tr. is :—

While Jesus hung upon the Rood, by G. R. Woodward in his Legends of the Saints, 1898, p. 98, and his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 38. This really follows the Latin tr., "In cruce pendens arbore (triplex)," in the Symphonia Sirenum, Cologne, 1695 (1707, p. 64), and Daniel, ii., p. 345. [J. M.]

Da Jesus in den Garten gieng. [Passiontide.] This is found in many different forms. The text tr. in that of the Andernach G. B. (R. C.), 1608, in 5 sts.; thence in Wackernagel, ii., No. 1192. H. Bone's Cantate, ed. 1878, No. 132, &c. Tr. as :—

When Jesus to the garden came, by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 32. [J. M.]

Da, puer, plectrum, p. 276, i. This is tr. by Mr. R. F. Davis in his Hyc of Prudentius, 1905, pp. 95–109. Nine sts. of the Cercle suits portion, beginning "Of the Father's heart begotten, Ere the world from chaos rose," are in The Engl. Hyl., 1906, slightly altered by the author. [J. M.]

Damiani, Peter, p. 278, i. His hymns have been collected, with a biographical notice, in Bonnes, xlviii., Nos. 16–73; the "Ad perennis," p. 19, i., as No. 66; the "Crux mundi," p. 273, i., as No. 18; the "Gravi me," p. 44, ii., as No. 62; and the "Fusle doctor," p. 897, i., as No. 45.

Dankt Gott dem Herren, p. 270, i. Another tr. is :—

Thanks to God, the Lord of glory, by Alexander Brown, contained to the Scottish Congreg. Hyl., 1869.

Darker and darker fall around. [Evening.] Appeared in William Young's Catholic Cherubim, 1842, No. 60, in 12 sts. of 4 l. as "Hymn of the Calabrian Shepherds," and repeated, abridged and altered, in the Arundel Hyr., 1902. In the Unitarian Hyr. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 60, sts. i.–iv. of this text and two stanzas, possibly by S. Longfellow, the editor, were given as "As darker, darker, fall around." The cento, usually abbreviated, is found in several collections in G. Britain and America, including the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, and others. [J. M.]

Davis, Robert Furley, M.A., was b. Jan. 22, 1865, at Nottingham, and educated at St. John's Coll., Cambridge (B.A. 1888, M.A. 1896). He is now (1906) senior classical master at Campbell Coll., Belfast, Ireland. He is the author of seven trs. in The Hymns of Prudentius, Translated by R. Martin Pope and R. F. Davis, 1905, one of which is in The Engl. Hyl., 1906, No. 611. [J. M.]

Day after day I sought the Lord. J. C. Hare. [Pr. at.] From his version of Ps. xl. in his Portions of the Psalms &c. English Verse, 1839, Pt. i., into The Meth. H. Bk. 1904. The second part of the same version begins "Shew forth Thy mercy, gracious Lord" (see p. 924, i.). [J. J.]

Days and moments quickly flying, p. 282, ii. The variations in the text of this hymn in recent collections are numerous and complicated. Taking the latest and most important we have in order of publication the following :—

1. The Scottish Church Hymnary, 1898. Stanzas i.–iv. are from H. A. & M. (complete edition), the refrain, "Life passeth soon," as st. v. and sts. vi.–ix., with slight alterations, from Church Hyr., 1871.

2. Church Hyr., 1903. Sts. i.–iv., the corresponding stanzas from H. A. & M. (complete edition); v., the refrain "Life passeth," &c., from Church Hyr., 1871; Pt. ii., "As a shadow lifts in fleeting," &c., also from Church Hyr., 1871 and 1903.

3. The Methodist H. Bk., 1904. Sts. i., ii., iii. are from H. A. & M., 1889, and iv., v. and the refrain "Life passeth soon," &c., from Church Hyr., 1871.

4. The English Hyl., 1906. St. i. Carwall altered; ii., iii. Carwall's original; iv. Carwall altered; v. Church Hyr., 1871; vi. Church Hyr., 1871 altered.

5. In the American Unitarian Hyr. for Church and Home, 1895, the cento, "As a shadow lifts in fleeting," is compiled from the above centos with new readings.

In minor collections there are other arrangements of stanzas, but the origin of each may be found in Carwall's original text: Church Hyr., 1871; and H. A. & M., 1889. [J. J.]

De Chenez, Charitie L. [Bancroft] née Smith, widow of Arthur Bancroft, p. 989, ii., is by a second marriage Mrs. De Chenez.

Dear Angel! ever at my side, p. 983, ii. This is in Faber's St. Wilfrid's Hymns, 1840, p. 25, and entitled, "To my Guardian Angel. For the School Children."

Dearmer, Percy, M.A., s. of Thomas Dearmer, was b. in London, Feb. 27, 1867, and educated at Westminster School and at Christ Church, Oxford (B.A. 1890, M.A. 1896). He was ordained D. 1891, P. 1892, and has been since 1901 Vicar of S. Mary the Virgin, Primrose Hill, London. He has been Secretary of the London Branch of the Christian Social Union since 1891, and is the author of The Parson's Handbook, 1st ed., 1899, and other works. He was one of the compilers of the English Hym., 1906, acting as Secretary and Editor, and contributed to it ten trs. (38, 95, 150, 160, 165, 180, 215, 237, 352, 628) and portions of two others (242, 329), with the following originals:—

1. A brighter dawn is breaking. Kinder. Suggested by the Aurora lucis, p. 35, but practically original.
2. Father, Who on man dost shower. Temperance.
3. God, we thank Thee, not in vain. Burial.
4. Holy God, we offer here. Holy Communion.
5. Lord, Who above all others. For Children.
6. Lord, to-day was a busy day. The Ministry of the Sick.
7. The winter's sleep was long and deep. St. Philip and St. James.

Death may dissolve my body now, p. 884, ii. Read, "It must be designated Watts, 1707," &c.

Deck, Henry Legh Richmond, M.A., nephew of J. G. Deck, was b. at Hull, May 30, 1858, and educated C. C. C. Camb.; B.A. in honours 1876, M.A. 1880. Ordained in 1876, he has held in succession three Curacies and three Benefices, and also since 1897 the Vicarage of Christ Church, Folkestone. He pub. in 1903, All the Days: A Round of Verse for the Days of the Week. His hymn :—

I take Thy promise, Lord, in all its length, is based upon Gen. xxviii. 15, and was written for use in connection with the Diocesan Conference and Paish, 1893, and others.

[J. J.]

Deck, J. G., pp. 885, ii.; 1459, ii. Miss M. O. Deck, of Motueka, Nelson, New Zealand, informs us that her father, Mr. J. G. Deck, died at the village of Motueka, near Nelson, N.Z., on the 14th of August, 1881. [J. J.]

Deck, Mary Ann S., née Gibson, b. in 1813, is the author of "There is a city bright" (Heavens), in a few collections, including The Church Hymnary, 1898, and others.

Deep in the dust before Thy throne. I. Watts. [First and Second Advent.] From his Hys. & Sp. Songs, 1709, Bk. i., No. 124, into a limited number of modern hymnals.

Dei qui gratiam inpotes [S. Joseph.] In the Raccolta di Orazioni (see p. 1642, ii.), ed. Rome, 1877, p. 308, there is an office of St. Joseph (with this hymn at p. 406), indulged by Pope Pius VII. in a rescript of June 26, 1809. The hymn is probably little, if any, older than 1800. Tr. as :—

Seek ye the grace of God, by E. Caswall, in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1857, No. 48 (1884, No. 53), in his Images of Mary, 1858, p. 310, &c. [J. M.]

Dell, Henry. So far as we can gather this Henry Dell (p. 883, i. 141) was for a time a bookseller in Tower Street, London, and then in Holborn, where he died in great poverty. He is credited with The Bookseller, 1766, an indifferent rhyming list of London booksellers, and some three or four plays. [J. J.]

Dem Herzen Jesu singe. Aloys Schlör. [Sacred Heart of Jesus.] This is found in Conrad Brückl's Kathol. Gesang- und Gebet-Buch für das Volk, Rimisleben, 1856, No. 87, in 4 sts.; the St. Gall G. B. (R. C.), 1863, No. 92, in 10 sts.; the Trier G. B. (R. C.), 1871, No. 127, in 11 sts., &c. Tr. as :—

To Jesus' Heart all burning, by A. J. Christie, in his The First Christmas: A Mystery Play, 1874, p. 29. Also in the St. Patrick's H. Bk., Glasgow, 1883, No. 30, Ogle H. Bk., 1880, and others. [J. M.]

Demarest, Mary, née Lee, b. at Coeton Falls, New York, in 1826, married to Mr. Demarest, and d. at Pasadena, California, in 1887. The story of her poem, "I am far from my home," which is given as a Sacred Song by I. D. Sankey in his Sac. Songs & Solos, was written in 1861, and printed in The New York Observer. Its history, too long for quotation here, is given in Mr. Sankey's My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, pp. 161-2. [J. J.]

Dent, Caroline, p. 888, ii. Another hymn by Miss Dent, "The light that morning bringeth" (On behalf of Ministers), is in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900.

Desere jam, anima, p. 889, ii. This is in a MS. at Marseilles, No. 437, which the Catalogue dates as 14th cent., and in Migne's P.P. Lat. cxlix. 301. In a MS. of c. 1350 in the Bodleian (Bodl. 57), it begins at f. 153 with "Mens, affectus, ratio"; the "Jesu mi dulcissime" portion beginning at f. 155. In a 14th cent. MS. at Cambridge (Trinity Coll. 226, f. 5), it begins "Jesu mi dulcissime," each section being headed with an illumination, and with a much longer text than that in Migne. Another tr. is :—

Jesu Christ, of heaven King, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 142. [J. M.]

Deus Creator omnium, p. 891, i. Another tr. is :—

Deus ignee fons animarum, p. 891, ii. Another tr. is :—

Father of Spirits, Whose divine control, a free tr. of ll. 1-4, 129-135, 149-154, by Percy Dearmer, in The English Hym., 1906, No. 304.

Deus tuorum militum, p. 892, i. Another tr. is :—

O God, Thy soldiers' faithful Lord, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 326, marked as Neale and Compilers; six lines being from Neale.

Dexter, H. M., p. 894, i. He d. in 1890.

Dickinson, Charles Albert, D.D., an American Congregational Minister, b. at Westminster, Vermont, July 4, 1849, and graduated at Harvard University in 1876. He held various charges to 1890, when he retired through ill health, and returned to Ceres, California. His hymn-writing has been mainly for the young. Several of these hymns are in the Christian Endeavour Hymnal and other collections. The most widely known are "O golden day, so long desired," and "Blessed Master, I have promised" (Consecration to Christ). This latter was written Jan. 4, 1900. [C. L. N.]

O God, our Father, Thee we praise. A good and full version, by John Julian, in the S.P.C.K. Church Hym., 1903, No. 42. [J. M.]

Dies iræ, pp. 895, i., 1459, ii. It seems practically certain that the "Dies iræ" was written in Italy in the 13th cent.; was originally meant for private devotion; was throughout in three-line stanzas (ending either with the "Oro supplex," or with "Ut consors beatitatis"); and that to adapt it for public devotion the "Lacrymosa" and "Pie Jesu" were added on. The "Lacrymosa" is certainly older than Thomas of Celano, and is found, e.g., in Mone, No. 296, as a portion of the "Libera me, Domine," from a MS. at Karlsruhe of about 1200. (See p. 1459, i. An earlier form of the "Libera" is in a Bodleian MS. written in Cornwall in the 10th cent., and now Bodl. 572, f. 49.) See also Dreves, xlix., pp. 303-320.

The "Dies iræ" itself, it may be added, bears such a strong resemblance to an earlier poem on the Day of Judgment, the existence of which only existing that Thomas of Celano knew in. This piece, beginning "Quique de morte redempti," is printed in Dreves, xxiii., in two forms: No. 79 from a 10th cent. MS. formerly at St. Martial in Limoges (Peiro, Lat. 1154); and No. 80, from a 12th cent. MS. at Rouen (Leber, No. 1385, ff. 1-2). The "Dies iræ" has been found in its current form in a 13th cent. MS. at Naples (ms. cl. 38); and the pages containing it are photolithographed in F. X. Haberl's Magister Choralis, Regensburg, 1901, pp. 327, 328. The variations from the text printed at p. 895 are:—1, Sparge; 11, Cum; 13, Judicandi; 16, Cœnobii; 18, Salvande; 24, Quos; 29, Agnus; 41, pœnis; 47, arbitris; 48, scribis; none of these variations being of importance.

Various trs. have appeared since the list at pp. 897-901 was made up, but none of them seem to have come into use. Recent books have generally adopted the version of Dr. Irons (p. 898, No. 7), sometimes slightly altered, as in The English Hym., 1906, No. 351, where it begins "Day of wrath and doom impending," and in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. [J. M.]

Dignare me, O Jesu, rogo Te, p. 901, i. This is in the Symphonia Sirenum, Cologne, 1695 (ed. 1707, p. 150); but not in the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671.

Divina crescebas Puer, p. 902, ii. The tr. in Hys. A. & M., 1904, "The Heav'nly Child in stature grows," is the text of the old edition, with ll. ii. and iv. rewritten, very much to the detriment of the hymn. [J. J.]

Doane, William Croswell, D.D., s. of Bp. G. W. Doane (p. 903, ii.), was b. at Boston, Mass., March 3, 1832, and ordained D. 1853, and P. 1856, in the Prot. Episco. Church of America. He was Rector of Burlington, N.J., Hartford, Conn., and Albany; and since 1869 Prot. Episco. Bishop of Albany. He is the author of a Biography of his father, and other works. His fugitive verse was collected and pub. (in 1895), as Rhymes from Time to Time. His hymn, "Ancient of Days, Who (that) sittest throned in glory" (Holy Trinity), was written for the Bicentenary of the City of Albany, 1886. In some collections it begins with st. ii., "O Holy Father, Who hast led Thy children." For full text see The Hymnal, ed. 1892, of the Prot. Episco. Church of America, No. 311. Dr. Doane is D.D. of Oxford, and LL.D. of Cambridge. [L. F. B.]

Donaldson, Augustus Blair, M.A., s. of William Laverton Donaldson, of St. Pancras, London, was b. Aug. 8, 1841, and educated at Oriel Coll., Oxford; B.A. (2nd class Lit. Hum.) 1864, M.A. 1866. Ordained D. 1865, P. 1866. After holding curacies in several parishes and other appointments, he became Canon Residentiary and Precentor in Truro Cathedral in 1883. He d. Dec. 10, 1903. He pub. in 1900 Five Great Oxford Leaders. His hymn, "Glory to the First-begotten" (Processional), appeared in H. A. & M., 1904. [J. J.]

Draper, Bourne Hall, b. at Cannor, near Oxford, in 1775, and educated for the Baptist Ministry at the Bristol Academy, under the Rev. Dr. J. Rylands. He was pastor of the Baptist Church at Chipping Norton 1794, and subseq. at Southampton, where he d. Oct. 12, 1843. See note on his hymn, "Ye Christian heroes, go proclaim," p. 1286, ii. [J. J.]

Draper, William Henry, M.A., s. of Henry and Lucy Mary Draper, was b. at Kenilworth, Dec. 19, 1855, and educated at Keble Coll., Oxford; B.A. in honours, M.A. 1880. Ordained in 1880, he was Curate of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury; Vicar of Alfreton; of the Abbey Church, Shrewsbury; and since 1899 Rector of Adel, Leeds. Mr. Draper's hymns in C. U. include the following :—

1. Come forth, ye sick and poor. [Harvest.] Written in 1861 and printed in the Guardian, Sept. 19, 1861. In 1866 it was given, somewhat altered, in The Council School H. Bk., No. 172. It was also pub. by Novello & Co., with Music by J. H. Maunder.
2. Hark! the voice of battle! [In Time of War.] Pub. by Novello & Co. in the 6th series of Hym. in Time of War, 1866, and repeated in The Public School H. Bk., 1905, The Council School H. Bk., 1905, and others.
3. How blest the land whose God is known. [National Hymn.] Written for Novello's Eight Hys., with Tunes, for use on services held in connection with the Church Congress, 1895; and also in 1896 in the Hymns included in The Council School H. Bk., 1905, No. 97.
4. How fair was the land of God's people of old. [National Hymn.] Written for use in Day Schools, and Sea pub. in The Council School H. Bk., 1905, No. 127.
5. Lo, God is here! let us adore. [Dedication of a Church.] Written for use at the service at the reopening of the Abbey Church, Shrewsbury, after restoration, in 1894. It was also used at the Shrewsbury Church Congress, 1896; and elsewhere on other occasions. In 1904 it was included in the new ed. of H. A. & M.
6. Lord, through this Holy Week of our Salvation. [Holy Week.] Written for Novello's Holy Week, 1898, and included in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 144.
7. Man shall not live by bread alone. [Divine Providence.] First pub. in The Church Monthly, and again in The Council School H. Bk., 1905, No. 142.
8. Rejoice, ye saints in the sky. [Withsuntide.] Written for the Leeds Whitsuntide Hym., 1902 (in connection with the Yorkshire Festival Choral Union"), and included in The Council School H. Bk., 1905.
9. We love God's acre round the Church. [Burial.] Printed in the Guardian, Aug. 1, 1866, with the title, "Hymn for those who die far from home and country"; and, with Novello, with music by Dr. W. Roberts; and again, with slight alterations, in Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903.
10. What can I do for England. [National Hymn.]

1630 DRAW, HOLY DUNN, R.

Written in 1865 for The Council School H. Bk., and included therein in the same year.

11. To none of God, arise. [Processional. Choral Festival.] Written for the Choral Festival in Gloucester Cathedral, June 8th, 1892; reprinted for the Leeds Whitsuntide Hymn., 1901; and again for the Choir Festival in Chester Cathedral, 1905.

In addition to these hymns which have come into C. U., Mr. Draper has written many others of merit which are worthy of attention. They include:—

1. Hymns for Holy Week, being translations from Hymns of the Greek Church, with the Originals, &c. . . . London: Novello & Co., 1894. (Novello). This contains 13 original and translated hymns.
2. The Victoria Book of Hymns, 1897.
3. A Memorial Service for those that are Fallen Asleep in Christ. London: H. Frowde, 1898, 4 hymns (including No. 9 above).
4. The Way of the Cross (Oxford: A. R. Mowbray & Co.), n.d., with music by Dr. Sweeting.

Mr. Draper's hymns are so scattered in the Guardian, Church Monthly, and sundry magazines that it is a matter of some difficulty to trace them out. They exceed sixty in all, and are worthy, taken as a whole, to be published as a volume of sacred verse. [J. J.]

Draw, Holy Ghost, Thy seven-fold veil. An altered form in the Hys. for the Use of Bedford School, 1900, of sts. vii.–x. of J. Keble's "The shadow of the Almighty's cloud," p. 1127, i.

Dreves, Guido Maria, was b. Oct. 27, 1854, at Hamburg, where his father Lobrecht Dreves (author of the excellent trs. of Latin hymns pub. as Lieder der Kirche, 1816; 2nd ed. 1868) was notary public. He went with his family in 1862 to Feldkirch, in Austria, and, after passing through the Gymnasium there, entered the Society of Jesus in Nov., 1869; pursuing his philosophical and theological studies in the Jesuit seminaries at Münster in Westphalia, Blyenbeek in Holland, and Ditton Hall, near Liverpool. Since 1883 he has been almost exclusively occupied with hymnological researches, which have made him visit most of the principal libraries of Europe. He is now (1906) living at Munich, having left the Society of Jesus on Nov. 29, 1905. He has pub. a vol. of original sacred verse in German (Kelche und Kreuzjahre, 1886); a German Hymnbook (O Christ hie merk, 1885); an ed. of the Latin Hymnen Johanns von Jenstein (1889); a new ed. of the Hymnarius Paraclitensis of Peter Abelard (1891); a new ed. of the hymns of St. Ambrose (Aurelius Ambrosius, 1893), &c. His great work (in which he has been assisted since 1896 by Father Clemens Blume, and more recently also by the Rev. H. M. Bannister) is the monumental Analecta Hymnica Medii Aevi, of which no fewer than 40 vols. have now appeared (see Latin Hymnody, p. 1662, i.). When the series is concluded, he hopes to found upon it a new History of Latin Hymnody, which will no doubt be of immense service for the period from 800 to 1100.

It seemed desirable to indicate the fact that a hymn had been printed in the Analecta Hymnica of Dreves and Blume. The more important instances are noted under the first line of the Latin, the remainder are indexed here, the first reference being to the vol. and page in Dreves.

Drummond, George William Auriol Hay, B.A., s. of Alex. Drummond, of York, b. at Westminster in 1763, educated at Ch. Ch., Oxford; B.A. 1780, M.A. 1783, Vicar of Brodsworth, and Canon of York; d. Dec. 7, 1807. His hymn:—

The Righteous souls that take their flight [Death and Burial] appeared in The Pa. of Israel for the Use of Parish Churches, the Words Selected From the Versions of Tate and Brady, by the Rev. George Hay Drummond. The Music Adapted to Each Psalm by Thomas Augustine Arne." . . . 1788. On pp. 156-7 it is given in 4 st. of 4 l., and headed "Version of part of the third chapter of the Wisdom of Solomon proper to be sung at Funerals. Versified by the Rev. George Hay Drummond. The music by Dr. Arnl. Miller, MUS. DOC." The title of this collection was subsequently altered to that of Portions of the Psalms of David, Adapted to Congregational Psalmody and Pasts for the Use of Parish Churches . . . It reached the 15th ed. in 1831.

This hymn was included in Church Hymns, 1903, No. 286. [J. M.]

Du bist ein Schöpfer des Himmels, [Prayer to the Holy Trinity.] This appeared in Drey geistliche und catholische Lobgesang, printed at Augsburg, 1584, where it begins "Kyrieleyson. Du bist." Thence in Wackernagel, v., No. 1291. Tr. as:—

O Father, Who didst earth and heaven fashion, by R. Woodward, in his Songs of Sion, 1904, No. 140. [J. M.]

Dugmore, Ernest Edward, M.A., s. of William Dugmore, Q.C., was b. at Haywater, 1843, and educated at Bruce Castle School and by private tutors, and Wadh. Coll., Oxford; B.A. 1867; M.A. 1869. Ordained in 1867, he held the curacy of St. Peter's, Vauxhall, 1867-72, when he became Vicar of Parkstone 1872, and Canon of Sarum and Preb. of Gillingham Major 1900. He pub. in 1884 Gospel Idylls and Other Sacred Verses; and in 1900 Hys. of Adoration for Church Use. Of his hymns the following were included in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M.:—

1. Almighty Father of all things that be. No. 29 of Hys. of Adoration, 1900, as "For the Opening of an Exhibition." Abbreviated and slightly altered in H. A. & M. to adapt it as a "General" hymn. It was originally written and used at a small Industrial Exhibition held in his Parish.
2. Almighty Father Unoriginate. "To the Eternal Father," No. 30 in Hys. of Adoration, &c., in 7 sts. of 6 l. Abbreviated and partly re-written in H. A. & M., 1904.
3. Christian, sing the Incarnation. No. 23 in Hys. of Adoration, &c., as "For Christmas Day." In 4 sts. of 6 l., and repeated in full, with slight alterations in H. A. & M., 1904. Originally published with music, separately, at Vauxhall, 1870 or thereabouts.
4. Father, Who hast gathered This dear child to rest. Given in Hys. of Adoration, &c., No. 26, in 11 sts. of 4 l., as "For a Child's Funeral;" the first line being "Jesu, Who gathered Thine." Abbreviated and slightly altered in H. A. & M., 1904.

These excerpts from Canon Dugmore's work are by no means the best in the book. Compilers of sacred song should give heed to this fact. [J. J.]

Dulcis Jesus Nazarenus, p. 1160, ii. Another tr. is "Jesus, Nazarene they name Thee," by T. I. Ball, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 137.

Ecce dies nobis anno revoluta peracto. St. Paulinus of Nola. [For a Patronal Festival.] This is the eighth "Carmen Natalitium" of St. Paulinus, i.e. the eighth of the series of poems which he wrote annually for the festival of St. Felix of Nola (d. 257). It was evidently written for January 14, 401, when the Goths, under Alaric, were devastating Italy; Paulinus, confiding in the protection of St. Felix, hopes for better times. M. Emile Chatelain in his Notice sur les MSS. de Poésies de S. Paulin de Nole, 1880, pp. 23–25, cites it as in a Bobbio MS. of the 9th cent., now at Milan (Ambros. C. 74. sup.) a 9th cent. MS. in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Lat. 13026), &c. Printed text in Migne's PP. Lat., lxi. 638. Tr. as:—

Ecce jam noctis, p. 320, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. Night doth its place in turn to daylight render. By T. I. Ball in the Office H. Bk., 1880, No. 164. In 1904 it was altered in H. A. & M. to begin "Darkness to daylight doth its place surrender."
2. Now shadows wane, now heavy night departeth. In the Parkenden Hyl., 1899, No. 75, marked as "Anglican." [J. M.]

Ecce tempus idoneum, pp. 320, ii., 561, i. Another tr. is "Now is the healing time decreed," by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 67. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., No. 95, "Lo, now is our accepted day," alterations are made in st. iii. and iv., and a new doxology supersedes the old. [J. J.]

Ela mea anima, p. 1161, ii. The full text of this hymn is also in Dreves, xlviii., p. 215. Another tr. of the "Heu quid jacen" text is "Ah! Lord God, the world's Creator," by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Sion, 1904. [J. M.]

Ela, O dulcis anima. [Holy Communion.] Mone, No. 231, gives this from a 15th cent. MS. at Munich (Cim. 3012) as an "Exhortation to the soul at the reception of the Body of Christ." In a MS. of c. 1300 in the B. M. (Arundel 374, f. 77) it begins "Ela, dulcis anima"; in a MS. of 1518 at Berlin it begins "Eya, dulcis anima" (No. 840, f. 50: so Catalogue). Tr. as:—

1. Haste, my soul! thou sister sweet. by J. D. Chambers, in Lyra Sacra Sum., 1865, p. 226. In the 1868 ed. of the Lyra it is altered, 1874, No. 726, it begins "Haste, my soul, thy Lord to greet."
2. Haste, my soul, thou sister sweetest, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Sion, 1904, No. 81. [J. M.]

Ein' feste Burg, p. 322, ii. Other trs. are "God is a stronghold and a tower," a good and full version by Elizabeth Wordsworth, written in 1901, but first pub. in H. A. & M., 1904; and "A Mighty Saviour, Lord, art Thou," by C. Adams, in Hys. for use in New College Chapel (Oxford), 1905. [J. M.]

Elliott, Charlotte, pp. 328, i.; 1631, ii. Further research enables us to give amended dates to some of her hymns as follows :—

1. With tearful eyes I look around (No. 5). This is in the Invalid's Hymn Book, 1834, not in the Parish Hymn Book, 1836.

2. My God, my Father, when I rest (No. 6). Also in the 1838 Appendix.

3. Father, when Thy child is dying (No. 11). In the 1841 Appendix.

4. I want that morning divine, p. 569, i. In the Christian Remembrancer, 1840, p. 12. [J. J.]

Elliott, Emily E. S., p. 328, ii. The following additional hymns by Miss Elliott have recently come into C. U. :—

1. Brothers, sisters, pray for us. (Missionaries' Farewell.) Appeared in the C. M. Gleaner, Sept. 1896, p. 140, and in the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1899, as "Parting Position." In the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1908.

2. Rabboni, Master, we have heard. (Consecration of Self to Duty.) In the C. M. Gleaner, Dec. 1895, p. 195. It was sung for the first time at the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1895. In the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1899.

3. Full consecration! heart and spirit yielded. (Full Consecration.) Given in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1892.

4. They come and go, the seasons fair. (Second Advent.) In the C. M. Gleaner, Nov. 1901, p. 172, as "What will be when the King comes?" It was sung for the first time at the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, Oct. 30, 1901. In the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1909.

Miss Elliott was born at Brighton, July 22, 1836, and died at Mildmay, London, Aug. 7, 1897. [J. J.]

Ellison, John Henry Joshua, M.A., son of Canon Ellison, formerly Vicar of Windsor, was born at Edensor, Derbyshire, on March 18, 1855, and educated at Eton and Merton Coll., Oxford; B.A. in honours 1878, M.A. 1881. Ordained in 1880 to the Curacy of Maidstone, he became Dom. Chap. to Abp. Tait 1881-2; Curate of Kensington 1883-85; Vicar of St. Gabriel, Pimlico, 1885-94; and since 1894 Vicar of Windsor. He was successively Hon. Chap.-Reader, and Chap. in Ord. to Queen Victoria, and is at present (1906) Reader to the King at Windsor Castle, and Chaplain-in-Ordinary. His very striking hymn for Foreign Missions, "O living God Whose voice of old," was written for the Jubilee of the S.P.G., and first appeared in the S.P.G. Hys., S-nnets, and other Poems, for the Bicentenary, 1900, No. xiv., and in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. [J. J.]

Elpis, p. 329, i. Recent researches have led us to conclude that there is no reason to regard Elpis as the author of Aurea luce, p. 93, i.; and that none of the early MSS. attribute it to her. She is not mentioned as a hymn-writer by recent authorities on early Latin Hymnody, e.g., by Ebert or Manitius (p. 693, i.), or by Bistchel (Herzog-Hauck Realencyklopädie, 1901, xi., pp. 399-405).

The traditional account of her, p. 329, i. (as given in the Magna Bibliotheca, 1656, p. 105, of Jerome of Bagnes, and more fully by Darras, Hist. de l'Eglise, 1867, vol. xiv., p. 264, &c.), is that she was b. at Messina in Sicily, was the first wife of the philosopher Boethius, and lived in the 5th cent. Of the two sons by Boethius who became consuls in the year 522, Symmachus, however, was born little, if any, earlier than 475, and did not go into exile before 522, being at that time the husband of Rusticiana, whose two sons by Boethius were consuls in the year 522 (Cath. Christ. Biog., i., 231; Esch and Gruber, Encyklop., i., 21., p. 284, &c.) [J. M.]

En dien est dominica, p. 330, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. the Compilers' altered form of Dr. Neale's tr. as "Again the Lord's own day is here," is re-written in several lines, and st. v. is entirely new. [J. J.]

England Hymnody, Church of, pp. 331, ii. and 1530, i. Since the issue of this Dictionary in January 1892 great interest has been manifested in the Church of England in hymnological matters, and much activity has taken place in the compilation and publication of hymnals for use in public worship. Omitting Mission hymn-books both for home and foreign work, and collections for the Universities, Colleges, and Public Schools, which are dealt with elsewhere, we have the following, viz. :—

1. The Yattendon Hymnal, 1899. The full title of the book of words of this collection is The Small Hymn-Book. The Word-Book of the Yattendon Hymnal. There is also a musical edition. The hymns number 100 only. As a book for common use in divine worship it is too limited in extent and design; but as a small quarry for hymnal compilers it is of value, especially for translated hymns. It was compiled by Mr. R. S. Bridges.

2. Additional Hymns with Tunes for Use with any other Church Hymnal, 1903. This collection was compiled by the Rev. C. W. A. Brooke. The numbering of the hymns begins with 801 and extends to 973. The Preface states that "this book is designed for use with and not in place of other Church Hymnals. Hence those hymns which are found in all such books, and without which no Church Hymnal would be complete, are not included." The design of the book as thus outlined is good, and its execution well done.

3. Church Hymns, S.P.C.K., 1903. This collection was compiled by a Committee whose names are given in its Preface. The old edition of 1871 was withdrawn by the Society and the Committee were given a free hand in the compilation. With regard to English and American hymns the original texts were in almost all instances reproduced, the exceptions being confined to the correction of false rhythms; the changes, in a few instances, from the singular to the plural; and the bringing of physical and scientific allusions in line with modern knowledge and ascertained facts. With translations from other languages the Committee gave themselves greater latitude. A notable feature of the collection is the section of "Hymns of the Ancient Church," containing 23 hymns for Daily Services, all written before the eighth century. In design and execution as a hymnal it is admirable.

4. Hymns Ancient and Modern for Use in the Services of the Church, 1904. This collection, so long and eagerly expected, has been received with great coolness. The changes in the texts of the hymns which appear in this new edition are very numerous, and also in many instances weak and unnecessary. A praiseworthy desire to obtain more exact renderings of the Latin hymns than those given in former editions of this collection has frequently resulted in bringing to light various physiological details which in those editions were veiled in paraphrases, and thus better suited for use by mixed congregations. Taken as a whole, and judged on its own merits, this new edition is a strong book. Whilst, however, the old and "Complete Edition" is on sale, its growth in public favour will be slow, notwithstanding the publication of alternative texts of a hymn or two, the reprinting of some favourite tunes, the publication of the texts of the Latin hymns therein (1907), and the issue of the Historical edition now (1907) in the press.

5. Songs of Syon. A Collection of Hymns and Sacred Poems mostly Translated from Ancient Greek, Latin, and German Sources, 1904. The editor of this collection is the Rev. G. R. Woodward. It contains, in the 2nd edition (1905), 217 hymns and doxologies. This limited provision for congregational use is explained in the Preface, in which we are informed "that this book is not intended to compete with existing hymnals, but only to supplement them." The keynote of the collection is also supplied in the Preface: "In England of to-day we have two classes of people to consider, the faithful, and the enquirers after truth. For the former Songs of Syon has been compiled." Another feature is the music (Plainsong Melodies, &c.), with which we have not to deal except to set forth the cause of the unusual metres which abound in the book.

6. The Hymner, Containing Translations of the Hymns from the Sarum Breviary, together with Sunday Sequences & Procesions from Various Sources, 1904. The editor is the Rev. G. H. Palmer, and the collection contains 134 trs. from the Latin. The Preface says: "In this little volume are contained translations of all, save two, of the Hymns from the Sarum Breviary. . . . Of the total number [in the book] nearly one half are from the pen of the late Dr. J. M. Neale, of whose vigorous and scholarly renderings the editor has gladly availed himself."

7. The New Office Hymn Book. A Companion to the Book of Common Prayer, 1905. This is an expanded form of the Office Hymn Book, 1889 (p. 1036, i.), and the enlarged edition of the same, 1895. The total number of pieces, including prose and verse, is 860, and it is no longer designed as an Appendix to any other hymnal. Its divisions are: Part I. "Introits, Graduals, &c." . . . in Prose and Verse; Part II. "Office Hymns," consisting of trs. from the Latin. Part III. "Hymns New and Old, Sacred Songs and Carols." The book is somewhat confusing in its design, and, with the exception of the renderings from the Latin by Dr. Neale and a few other well-known translators, the trs. are very commonplace.

8. The English Hymnal, 1906. This collection is edited by six prominent members of the ultra-Anglican party in the Church of England, and is the finest hymnal from their point of view in the English language. If some fifteen to twenty hymns at most were eliminated it would be a formidable rival to the new edition of Hys. Ancient and Modern. An abridged edition, omitting Nos. 183, 195, 208, 213, and 330, and giving alterations in Nos. 184, 200, 218, and 253 (pub. March 1907), has removed many, but not all, the objections against it as a companion hymnal to The Book of Common Prayer.

With respect to historical and biographical companions to hymnals, Mr. Moorsom's second edition of his Historical Companion to Hymns Ancient and Modern, 1903, is the only work of the kind of any importance. This edition is well done, and in the face of the fact that the Editor is totally blind, it is a marvel of accuracy both in its historical details and in the original texts of the translated hymns, which are given in full. From specimen pages of the Historical ed. of Hys. A. & M. (1907) in the press, this, we judge, will be a valuable addition to hymnological literature. [J. J.]

Ἐξεγερθέντες τοῦ ὄρθρου, p. 1502, ii. From the Horologion, Venice, 1806, p. 2. This work contains the Offices for the eight canonical hours, this hymn being for early morning. Additional trs. are :—

1. From the calm of sleep awaking. By J. Brownlie, in his Hys. of the Holy Eastern Church, 1902, p. 74.

2. Now from sleep awaking. By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904.

The original Greek is in an early 12th cent. MS. in the Bodleian (Baroc. 21, f. 176). [J. J.]

Es ist ein Ros entsprungen, p. 504, i. Other trs. are :—

1. The noble Stem of Jesse. by G. R. Woodward, in his Hys. and Carols, 1897, No. 5.

2. I know a plant—it springeth. From sts. i., ii., xxi., of the Speculum, 1488, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 132. [J. M.]

Essery, William Alfred, was born in the parish of St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, Oct. 16, 1830, and educated at Chesham College. He was Minister of the Marlborough Congregational Chapel, Old Kent Road, London, for 23 years, when he retired through ill-health in 1885. He died suddenly in 1904. Five of his hymns were included in Essery and Proudman's London Chants, Anthems and Melodies, 1870, and 118 in his Hys. of Penitence, Prayer, and Praise, 1872. A few of these have come into C. U. in temperance and other colls. [J. J.]

Est-ce vous que je vois, p. 1506, ii., under Pellech, T. B. This hymn by J. Brisaine is in Cantiques . . . de Saint Sulpice, Paris, 1765, p. 126. His own Cantiques Spirituels, &c., were pub. at Montpellier in 1748. [J. M.]

"Εστωσαν ὑμῶν αἱ ὀσφύες περιεζωσμέναι. These are the opening words of St. Luke xii. 35-40. The passage is rendered by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904, into metre as "O let your loins be girt again." [J. J.]

Eternal Son, eternal Love. This in the 1904 ed. of the Meth. H. Bk., No. 43, is an altered form of Pt. ii. ("Son of Thy Sire's eternal love") of "Father of all, whose powerful voice," p. 983, ii.

Evans, A. E., p. 337, ii. Although appointed Sec. to the S. A. M. Soc. he did not take up the work. He d. May 21, 1896.

Evans, William Edwin, b. at Baltimore, July 11, 1851. He is a Minister of the Meth. Episco. Church, South, has held several pastorates, and has been Chaplain at Randolph-Macon College. Of his verses contributed to various periodicals, "Come, O Thou God of grace" (Dedication of a Place of Worship) is given in the Amer. Meth. Hyl., 1905. [L. F. H.]

Even as those mysterious four.

This, in the H. Book for the Use of Wellington College, 1902, is composed of sts. iii.–vi. of J. Keble's "O who shall dare in this frail scene," p. 613, i. 12, slightly altered.

[J. J.]

Everett, William, LL.D., s. of the Hon. Edward Everett, was b. at Watertown, Massachusetts, Oct. 10, 1839, and educated at Harvard Coll. and Trinity Coll., Cambridge, England, M.A. 1863. He became Latin Tutor in Harvard Coll. in 1870, and Assistant Professor of Latin in 1873. He entered the Unitarian Ministry in 1872. Putnam gives six of his hymns in Singers and Songs, &c., 1874, p. 504. The best are "Dual goutly with us, Lord" ("God's tenderness"), from the American Christian Register, 1866; and "Almighty Father, Thou didst frame" (God the Father), "written for the Unitarian Festival at the Music Hall, May 27, 1869." He has pub. College Essays; School Sermons, and other works. He is LL.D. of Williams College, Mass.

[U. L. N.]

Ex more docti mystico, p. 339, i. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., to the tr. as in the old edition "By precepts taught of ages past," a new stanza (iv.) has been added by the Compilers, and ll. 1, 2 of the present st. viii. are re-written.

[J. J.]

Ex quo salus mortalium, p. 339, i. The recast version of I. Williams's tr. as given in the old ed. of Hys. A. & M.—"For man the Saviour shed"—made by the Compilers in 1861, is replaced in the 1904 ed. by "Our Lord the path of suffering trod," by I. Williams, but with many alterations, the omission of Williams's st. v. and the addition of "Alleluia" to each stanza.

[J. J.]

Exite filiæ Syon, videte vestrum regem. (Passiontide.) Probably written in Germany in the 17th cent. It is in the Mainz G. B. (R. C.), 1661, p. 268, the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671, p. 52, and in Daniel, ii., p. 348. In Kinkpfield, ii., p. 242, it begins "Exite Sion filiæ." Tr. as:—

Daughters of Sion, see you King. by J. M. Neale in his Med. Hys., 1851, p. 121, repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 37. [J. M.]

Expositions of Latin Hymns. See p. 626, i.

Exultet coelum laudibus, p. 360, ii. Another tr. is:—

1. Let heav'n with Alleluyas ring. In the Hymner, 1904, No. 69, based on Chambers.
2. Let all on earth their voices raise. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 191, marked as Mant and Compilers; but Mant's text of 1837 (see p. 360, ii.), and not that of H. A. & M., and this in word for word the same as in Church Hys., 1871 (see p. 360, ii.). The text of Church Hys., 1903, No. 238, is Bp. Mant's tr. unaltered, "Let the round world with songs rejoice."

[J. M.]

Exultet orbi praecordilis, pp. 361, i., and 1663, ii. This is printed by Dreves, xi., p. 16, from a Trina Breviary of the 15th cent. at Trinity College, Dublin (B. 3, 22); also from the Sarum of 1494, the Hereford of 1505, and the Aberdeen of 1510. Another tr. is:—

O let the heart beat high with bliss, by Percy Dearmer, in The English Hys., 1906, No. 237. [J. M.]

Ἐφενρήμην σε τὴν ἀλήθειαν, λόγε. Gregory Nazianzen. [Blessing in Lent.] This hymn is in Vol. ii. of the Benedictine edition of St. Gregory's works, 1840 (p. 669, i.). It is "A hymn at night, after failure to keep vow." It has been tr. as:—

1. O Thee, the Word of truth divine. By A. W. Chatfield, in his Songs and Hymns of Earliest Greek Christian Poets, 1876, p. 121.
2. O Word of Truth! in devious paths. By J. Brownlie, in his Hys. of the Greek Church, 1899, p. 99. This is given in The New Office Hy. Bk., 1905. [J. J.]

Faber, F. W., pp. 361, i.; 1662, ii. We are informed by members of Dr. Faber's family that his father was Mr. Thomas Henry Faber, sometime Lay Secretary of the Bishop of Durham. In addition to his hymns already noted in this Dictionary, the following are found in various Roman Catholic collections, viz:—

i. From St. Wilfrid's Hys., 1849 :—

1. Dear Father Philip, holy Sire. S. Philip Neri.
2. Hail, holy Joseph, hail. S. Joseph.
3. Mother of Mercy, day by day. B. V. M.

ii. Jesus and Mary, 1849 :—

4. Ah! dearest Lord! I cannot pray. Prayer.
5. Dear Husband of Mary. S. Joseph.
6. Dear Little One, how sweet Thou art. Christmas.
7. Father and God I my endless doom. Predestination.
8. Hail, holy Wilfrid, hail. S. Wilfrid.
9. Hail, Mary! full of grace. Hail Mary of the World.
10. O turn to Jesus, Mother, turn. B. V. M.
11. Sing, sing, ye angel bands. Assum. B. V. M.

iii. Jesus and Mary, 1852 :—

12. All ye who love the ways of sin. S. Philip Neri.
13. Day set on Rome! its golden morn. S. Philip Neri.
14. Hail, bright Archangel! Prince of heaven. S. Michael.
15. Hail, Gabriel, hail. S. Gabriel.
16. O Flower of Jesse, divinest Flower. B. V. M.
17. Saint Philip! I have never known. S. Philip Neri.
18. Sweet Saint Philip, thou hast won us. S. Philip Neri. Previously in the Rambler, May, 1850, p. 412.

iv. Oratory Hymns, 1854 :—

19. Day breaks on temple roofs and towers. Pres. B. V. M.
20. How gently flow the silent years. S. Martin and S. Philip.
21. How the light of Heaven is stealing. Grace.
22. Like the dawning of the morning. Expect. of B. V. M.
23. Mother Mary! at thine altar. For Orphans.
24. My God! Who art nothing but mercy and kindness! Repentance.
25. O blessed Father! seat by God. S. Vincent of Paul.
26. O do you hear that voice from heaven? Forgiveness.
27. The chains that have bound me. Absolution.
28. The day, the happy day, is dawning. B. V. M.
29. The moon is in the heavens above. B. V. M.
30. Why art thou sorrowful, servant of God? Mercy.

v. Hymns, 1862 :—

31. At last Thou art come, little Saviour. Christmas.
32. By the spring of God's companions. S. Raphael.
33. Fair are the portals of the day. B. V. M.
34. Father of many children. S. Benedict.
35. From the highest heights of glory. S. Mary Magdalene.
36. Like the voiceless starlight falling. B. V. M.
37. Mary! dearest mother. B. V. M.
38. Mother of God, we hail thy heart. B. V. M.
39. Now the Angel Gabriel from heaven came. Plenary years. A. Lasso. Previously in Holy Family Hys., 1861.
40. O balmy and bright as moonlit night. B. V. M.
41. O Blessed Trinity! Thy children. Holy Trinity.
42. O dear Saint Martha, busy care. S. Martha
43. O Mother, still it always be. B. V. M.
44. O vision bright. B. V. M.
45. Then came Mary from her shining. B. V. M.
46. Therefore with the saints above. S. Joseph. Previously in Holy Family Hys., 1860.

vi. Centos and altered forms :—

47. Confusedly rose to the fight. From "Hark the sound of the fight," p. 362, i.
48. Like the Thee. From No. 5.
49. Like the Thee, drunk will of God. From "I worship Thee," p. 539, ii.
50. They whom we loved on earth. From "O it is sweet to think," p. 362, i.
51. Vincent! like Mother Mary, thou. From No. 25.

When Dr. Faber's hymns which are in C. U. are enumerated, the total falls little short of one hundred. In this respect he outnumbers most of his contemporaries. [J. M.]

Fagan, Frances. In The Sunny Side, N.Y., 1875, two hymns which have come into use in G. Britain are signed "Fanny Fagan." These are :—

1. Mine be the tongue that always chatters. Kindness.
2. The still small voice that speaks within. Conscience.

Miss Fagan was a Sunday S. Teacher in connection with Dr. W. H. Furness's Church at Philadelphia. Her hymns appeared in her Hys. for the Sunday S. of the First Cong. Unitarian Church, Phila., 1866. [J. M.]

Fain, O my babe, I'd have thee know, p. 367, i. This hymn, by Mrs. Saffery, appeared in the Evangelical Mag., May, 1809.

Fain would my soul with wonder trace. J. A. Knight. (The Mercies of God.) From Dobell's New Sel., 1806, No. 419 p. 628, ii.) into a few American hymnals.

Farin. A pen-name of Mrs. Grace W. Hindale.

Farrar, F. W., p. 365, ii. Dr. Farrar became Dean of Canterbury in 1895, and d. at Canterbury, March 22, 1903. His Life, &c., by his son, was pub. in 1904.

Father, blessing every seed-time, This is an altered form of Dr. Monsell's "Bounteous blesser of the seed-time," p. 763, i. 41. In some collections it is appointed for "Rogation Days," as in The Hymnary, 1872, where it is wrongly given to Judith Madan. [J. M.]

Father, hear Thy children's praises, p. 367, i. This is altered in the Hys. for use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1869, to "Father, hear the thankful praises."

Father, I know that all my life, p. 367, ii. Appeared in a Sel. of Scripture Poetry, edited by L. Squire, 1848, p. 124.

Father, live, by all things feared. C. Wesley. [Doxology.] From Hys. and Sacred Poems, 1740, p. 100, and Hys. to the Trinity, 1746. No. iii., into The Meth. Hymn Book, 1904. (P. Works, iii., p. 345.)

Father of mercies, condescend. This hymn has been attributed to J. Lawson, p. 667, i., and to T. Morell, p. 770, i. We find that the claim of authorship put forth for J. Lawson must be abandoned. p. 1668, ii. [J. J.]

Father of mercies, in Thine house, p. 370, i. Since the pub. of this Dict. in 1892 the following facts concerning this hymn have come under our notice :—

At the Ordination of Abraham Toser at Norwich, June 9th, 1745, the sermon was preached by the Rev. B. Frost, and the Charge delivered by Dr. Doddridge. The Sermon and Charge were pub. together the same year. At the end of the Charge the hymn is printed together with the "Postscript," by Dr. Doddridge :—

"In the Want of Pastors or Hymn, peculiarly suitable to these Occasions, has often been regretted on our ORDINATION DAYS, when we have generally been confined to the 122nd or 132nd Psalms, I was desired by several of my Brethren to publish that which followed this Charge; and I accordingly do it without any further Apology. The Reader will easily perceive it is a Kind of Paraphrase, Enlarged on Epis. iv. 8 and seq. And it is One of some Hundreds (I dare say) I've by me on a Variety of Scripture Subjects."

The original pamphlet is in the Church House Lib. See there Frost, Richard. [J. J.]

Father of mercies, let our praise. This, in the Marlborough Coll. Hymns, 1869, is an altered form of T. Cotterill's "Father of mercies! let our songs," p. 363, ii. 9.

Father, Thy Presence ever near. (Benediction.) This hymn was given in Longfellow and Johnson's Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 135, in 3 st. of 4 l., and signed in the Index "N. Hale." In The Pilgrim Hym., Boston, 1904, st. i., ii. are repeated with the same signature. A Nathan Hale, b. Nov. 12, 1818, is known to us, but we are unable to identify him as the author of this hymn. [J. M.]

Father, to Thee our life is owing. H. J. Buckoll. (Commemoration.) Written in 1842, and first pub. in Fs. and Hys. for the use of the Chapel of Rugby School, 1843, no. 52, and appointed "For the Sunday nearest to the 12th June," with the note :—

"Dr. Arnold died, most suddenly, on Sunday morning, June 12th, SECCHIAS, the day before his 47th birthday. For some time before his death, and in the hour of mortal agony, his mind constantly dwelt on our Saviour's words, 'Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.'"

See Dean Stanley's Life of Dr. Arnold, 1844, vol. ii., p. 324, and also note the author has worked in the passage from St. John, xx. 29, in sts. iv., v. of the hymn. [J. M.]

Father, Who art alone. Edith J. (For Absent Ones.) Given in Mrs. Hawkins's Home Hymn Book, 1855, No. 171, in 5 st. of 6 l., and signed "E. J." In some later collections the signature is expanded into "Edith J." A desire is expressed by the authoress that she may remain unknown. Another hymn, "Holy Father, thinned on high" (On behalf of Orphans), is given in the Home H. Book, 1855, with the "E. J." signature. [J. J.]

Father! Whose love from highest heaven. This in the Clifton College H. Bk., 1891, is an altered form of "Father of heaven, whose love profound," p. 369, i.

Fearless, calm, and strong in love, p. 675, i. 3. This hymn is by T. Davis, p. 979, ii. It was ascribed to E. H. Jackson in error.

Felix dies, quam proprio, pp. 374, ii.; 1663, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. the old tr., "O blessed day when first was poured," is in great part rewritten, only two lines remaining as published by J. Chandler in 1837. The text of The English Hys., 1906, No. 36, is J. Chandler's, with the omission of his st. iv. and a recast of the doxology. [J. J.]

Felix per omnes fastum mundi cardines. St. Paulinus of Aquileia (?). (SS. Peter and Paul.) This is evidently later than, and modelled on, the "Aures inse," p. 93, i. In the Poetae Latini Aevi Carolini, Berlin, 1881, i., p. 126, it is given among the doubtful poems of Paulinus (b. 726, d. 802) sometime Patriarch of Aquileia. It is in two eleventh cent. mss. in the B. M. (Vesp. D. xii., f. 94b; Add. 30848, f. 168b), in a Bodleian ms. of c. 1025 (1692), f. 180b), and many others. Printed text in Dreves, ii., p. 53; Werner, No. 136; Daniel, i., No. 226, iv., p. 164, &c. The complete poem was by Sir J. D. Chambers in his Lords Spon, 1868, p. 77, as "With joy to-day throughout the confines of the earth." Two portions were also used for festivals of St. Peter alone:—

i. Petrus beatus catenarum laqueos. (St. Peter's Chains.) In the Roman Brev., Venice, 1478. In the Sarum Brev., 1493, it begins "Petrus beatus catenarum laqueis," as "Eight wonderously reasons, on their freedom gains," in the Office H. Bk., 1869, No. 777 (1883, No. 249).

ii. Quodcunque vinxis super terram stringetur. (St. Peter's Chains.) In the Roman Brev., Venice, 1478. In the Sarum Brev., 1493, it begins "Quodcunque in terra," as "Whatsoever on earth," in the Office H. Bk., "By word, O Peter, chained," in the Office H. Bk., 1869, No. 778 (1883, No. 248). Also a long series of trs. not in C. U. in the Primers of 1539, &c., the Evening Office of 1710, &c., the Divine Offices of 1742, and in later collections of trs. of the Breviary Hymns. [J. M.]

Felkin, Ellen Thorneycroft, née Fowler, the elder daughter of Sir Henry Fowler, Bart., and granddaughter of the Rev. Joseph Fowler, Wesleyan Minister, was married to A. L. Felkin, Senior Assistant Master of Eltham College, in 1903. Her hymn, "Now the year is crowned with blessing" (Hermon), is No. 945 in The Meth. H. Book 1904. In addition to several popular novels, she published Verses, Grave and Gay, 1901. From this work, p. 35, the above hymn is taken. [J. J.]

Ferguson, Andrew Carswell Fergus, was b. in 1853 at Alexandria near Dumbarton. The family soon after removed to Dumbarton and then to Glasgow, where he attended the University. In 1880 he entered the Theological Hall of the U. P. Church, and in 1883 that of the E. U. Church. On Oct. 15, 1884, he was inducted as minister of the E. U. Church at Arbroath. He resigned this charge on Oct. 9, 1888, and in the following year went to Australia. He is now (1905) officiating at Northcote, near Melbourne. His hymn,

Dear Lord, I now respond to Thy sweet call (Faith and Penitence), was written in 1884, and appeared in the Glasgow Christian News of Sept. 19, 1885. It is repeated, unaltered, in the Scottish Presb. Church Hymnary, 1898, No. 171, and in other calls. [J. M.]

Ferguson, F., p. 275, i. He d. Nov. 3, 1897.

Festiva saeclis colitur, p. 275, ii. Another tr. of the "Jesu Salvator saeculi Redemptis" text is "O Saviour Jesu, ne'er alone," by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hymnal, 1906, No. 249.

Festum matris gloriosae, p. 276, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. Keep the glorious Mother's Feast Day, based on Caswall's, in the Office H. Bk., 1868, No. 772, and 1869, No. 241.

2. Now in holy celebration, by Laurence Housman, in The English Hymnal, 1906, No. 225.

Field, Eugene, an American journalist who has written somewhat extensively for children, was b. at St. Louis, Missouri, Sep. 2, 1850, educated at the University of Missouri, and d. Nov. 4, 1895. His published works include Little Book of Western Verse, 1889; Second Book of Verse, 1891; and Love Songs of Childhood, 1894. A limited number of his hymns are in C. U. in America, and specimens of his verse are given in Horder's Treasury of Amer. Sacred Song, 1900, pp. 283-287. See also "There burns a star o'er Bethlehem town." [J. J.]

Fiunta jam sunt praelia, pp. 276, ii.; 1583, ii. This is in the Symphoniae Sirenum, Cologne, 1695 (ed. 1707, p. 96); but not in the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671. In Church Hys., 1903, F. Pott's authorised tr., as in 1871, "The strife is o'er, the battle done," is given with the omission of his st. iv. The Hys. A. & M., 1904, text is that of the old edition, with a slight alteration in st. i., and the restoration of Mr. Pott's original st. iv. [J. J.]

Fischer, A. F. W., p. 277, i. Dr. Fischer had begun collecting materials for an anthology of German 17th cent. hymns. This work is being completed by Pfarrer W. Tümpel as Das deutsche evangelische Kirchenlied des siebzehnten Jahrhunderts (Gütersloh, Bertelsmann), i., 1904; ii., 1905; iii., 1906. A few hymns in these vols. have been traced to sources earlier than those mentioned in this Dictionary, and for convenience this additional information is given here:—

1. Ach bleib mit deiner Gnade, p. 1000, ii. In F. T., ii., No. 467, from Josua Stegmann's Christlichen Gebet-Büchlein, 1627.

2. Ach Gott und Herr, p. 982, ii. See F. T., i., No. 54, where the text of Lauxmann, 1637, are given from the Erfurt Gr. B., 1524, and st. ii from the * Av Mynnesota Sister*, ed. by Christian Gallus, 1625; with the current text from J. H. Schein's Cantional, 1627.

3. Aus Jakob's Stamm, p. 84, ii. In F. T., i., No. 73, from J. Lang's Kirchen-Gesänge, 1676, at Auerbach, in Silesia. Lang (b. 1662) was a Lutheran General-Superintendent, at Mossdorf, in Silesia) in his Buch Psalmgesängen, 2nd ed., 1714.

4. Gott sei Dank, p. 987, ii. In F. T., i., No. 411, from J. Siedling's Geistliche Wunder-Quelle, 1658.

5. Herr Jesu Christ, dich zu uns wend, p. 1281, i. In F. T., i., No. 75, from J. Siedling's Lutherischen Wunder-Quelle, 1658.

6. Komm, O komm, p. 658, i. In F. T., i., No. 413, from J. Siedling's Geistliche Wunder-Quelle, 1658.

7. Lasst uns alle frohlich sein, p. 939, ii. In F. T., i., No. 95, from Johann Fischer's Neue Psalmgesänglein, 1671, but as by Langhans.

8. Nun ruhen alle Wälder, p. 880, ii. In F. T., i., No. 366, from Gregorius Richter's Hortum-Angelicum seu der Liebe Gottes, 1630.

Fitz, Ann, p. 1163, ii. In Ann Fitz's Amer. School H. Bk., 1834 (ed. 1837, No. 71), a hymn is given without name of author, beginning "Ten thousand different flowers." This is repeated in Thring's Coll., 1882, under Fitz's name, with a new st. by Prob. Thring as st. i., beginning "Great Giver of all good." The text of 1834 is not, however, by Fitz, but is sts. ii.-vi. of Ann Gilbert's "Spared to another Spring"; see p. 1116, ii. 18. [J. M.]

Foecunda radix Iesi. (St. Anne.) This is in the Paris Breviary of 1643, Asst., p. 563 (1680, Asst., p. 286), and many later French Breviaries. Tr. as:—"The fruitful Stem of Jesse blooms," in the Office H. Bk., 1869, No. 776 (1905, No. 246). [J. M.]

Follow Me, the Master said. [Follow Christ.] This anonymous hymn for children is given in a few modern collections, including the Voice of Praise, 1887, where it is marked as American, the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, &c. [J. J.]

For all Thy [the] saints who from their labours rest, p. 380, ii. The alterations in the text of this hymn, as given in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., were reluctantly sanctioned by Bp. How shortly before his death in 1897. [J. J.]

For Thee, my God, for Thee alone. J. D. Burns. [Longing for God.] From his Evening Hymn, 1857, into the English Presb. Ps. & Hys., 1867, Church Praise, 1883, and others. [J. M.]

For Thy mercy and Thy grace, p. 981, i. In some hymnals pub. since 1892, the form of this hymn has been altered, when compared with the authorized text, as in Thring's Coll., 1882:—

1. Church Hys., 1903, the omission of st. vii.
2. H. A. & M., 1904, the old A. & M. text, 1861, with the omission of Sts. vi., v.
3. The Church Hymnary (Scottish), 1898, the full text, with slight alterations in st. i.
4. The Pilgrim Hymnal (American), 1904, in four stanzas.
5. Worship Song (W. G. Horder), 1905, with the omission of st. ii.
6. The English Hys., 1906, with omission of st. vii. and restoration of st. v., i. 4, from "Comfort Thou his dying bed," to "Comfort Thou his dying head."

The hymn is also found in other collections of a late date: but these examples are sufficient to indicate both the strength and the weakness of the hymn. [J. J.]

Fortem virili pectore, p. 382, i. Other trs. are:—

1. Praise we the woman who, endued. In the Office H. Bk., 1869, No. 926, and 1905, No. 264.
2. The praises of that Saint we sing, by Athelstan Riley, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 183. [J. M.]

Forty days and forty nights, p. 384, i. The 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., and The English Hyl., 1906, text is that of the old Hys. A. & M.; whilst Church Hys., 1903, repeat their text of 1871. The original text, as in the Penny Post, March, 1856, is impossible for public worship. [J. J.]

Forty days Thy seer of old, p. 1279, i. This hymn by Jackson Mason is reduced to 6 sts. in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., and begins with st. iii., "Forty days of Eastertide."

Forward! be our watchword, p. 384, i. In Mrs. Alford's Life of Dean Alford, 3rd ed., 1874, pp. 447-8, Mrs. Alford says:—

"On Whitsun Tuesday, June 14th (1870), the tenth [? ninth] Festival of the Parochial Choirs of the Canterbury Archdeaconry was held in the Nave of the Cathedral, performed by 900 voices. . . . After it was over he made arrangements with the society for the performance at their next Festival (Whitsun Tuesday, 1871) of a Processional Hymn, for which he furnished the words and music. It was his last composition of this kind."

In the Life of J. G. Wood, the Precentor at that time of the Choral Union, 1890, pp. 47-51, we have a fuller account of the origin of the hymn, to this effect:—

The Dean composed a hymn at Mr. Wood's request. On receiving it he pointed out to the Dean "that the hymn, while excellent in its way, was not at all adapted to be sung upon the march. Would he kindly go into his study, and, taking the present hymn as a model, compose another hymn as he did so." This the Dean did, and "Forward! be our watchword" was the result. The Dean also supplied the treble and bass, and Miss Lindsay (Mrs. J. Worthington Biles) the alto and tenor of the tune which was sung at the Festival. [J. J.]

Forward, soldiers, bold and fearless. [Christian Conflict.] This is in the Cong. Mission Hyl., 1890, and others. In School Hys., 1891, it is ascribed to Henry Downton, but his son thinks this is a mistake. It is a mission hymn, evidently modelled on "Ho, my comrades," p. 190, i. [J. M.]

Founded on Thee, our only Lord. E. F. Smith. [Dedication of a Church.] Written in 1894, and included in the Presb. Hymnal, Phila., 1895.

Fox, Charles Armstrong, B.A., of St. John's Coll., Cambridge, from 1873 Incumbent of Eaton Chapel, London, to his death in 1902, contributed the following hymns to the 1902 ed. of Hys. of Consecration and Faith:—

1. "Stand still and see:" you, see to-day. Confidence.
2. Then will show me, Mighty Father. The Way of Life.
3. Trust and trouble—that is all. Trust in God.

[J. J.]

Fox, Eleanor Frances, daughter of the Rev. H. E. Fox, was b. in London, Feb. 24, 1875. In common with her father and other members of her family, Miss Fox has taken great interest in the work of Foreign Missions, on behalf of which she has written several hymns for the Church Missionary Society. Of these hymns the following are in the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1899:—(1) "God of all pity and all power." (2) "I know that Jesus died for me." (3) "Saviour to Whom the sound of sorrow's sighing." [J. J.]

Fox, Henry Elliott, M.A., son of Henry Watson Fox, b. at Masulipatam, S. India, on Oct. 21, 1841, and educated at Harrow and Trinity Coll., Cambridge; B.A. (3rd class Cl. Trip.) 1864; M.A. 1869. Ordained in 1869, he was Curate of St. Ebbe, Oxford, 1869-73; Vicar of Christ Ch., Westminster, 1873-82, and of St. Nicholas, Durham, 1882-1895. From 1895 he has been Hon. Sec. of the C.M.S. He is also Commiss. for Uganda (1899), and Mombasa (1900). His deep interest in Foreign Missions is well known. He became a Preb. of St. Paul's in 1901. His hymns in C. U. include the following:—

1. O King of glory, God of grace. [Foreign Missions.] Written in 1899 for the centenary of the C.M.S., and included in the C. M. H. Bk. of the same year.
2. Send forth the Gospel: Let it run. [Foreign Missions.] Contributed to the C. M. H. Bk., 1899, and repeated in Hys. of Consecr. and Faith, 1902. [J. J.]

Fox, Henry Watson, M.A., s. of G. Townshend Fox, b. at Wentor, in the county of Durham, Oct. 1, 1817; educated at Rugby and Wadh. Coll., Ox.; B.A. 1839; and ordained in 1840. He sailed for S. India in 1841, and there founded the Telegu Mission of the C.M.S. at Masulipatam; became Assistant Sec. to that Society in 1848, and d. in Oct. the same year. His widely used hymn:—

I hear ten thousand voices singing [Foreign Missions] was written for the Jubilee of the C.M.S. in 1848, and included in the Life, &c., in it as of 6 sts. It is usually abbreviated as in the C. Miss. H. Bk. [J. J.]

Freeman, P., p. 1806, ii. He was Senior Classic in 1839, and d. in London (not Thorverton), Feb. 28, 1875. The original of the hymn, in two parts, in Kennedy, 1863, was pub. as a poem on Sunday, not The Sabbath as at p. 1806, ii., by Masters, in 1853, in 20 st. of 6 l. (Church House Library), and signed "F. P." Kennedy's text is an abbreviated and mutilated form. [J. J.]

Freer, Frances, a member of the Catholic and Apostolic Church, b. March 16, 1801, and d. in June 1901, is the author of "Present with the two or three" (Christ with His People), in C. A. Church Hyn. for the Use of the Churches, 1871, and other collections. [J. B.]

French Hymnody, p. 389, ii. The Dictionnaire de Noël's et de Cantiques . . . par F. Pécoraût, Paris, 1867, is one of the publications of J. P. Migne (Ency. Theol., 63), and contains a considerable collection of indifferently edited R. C. hymns. Comparatively few of the French R. C. collections make any attempt to give the names of authors; those which do so include the Rev. Anatole Feltre's Manuel de Cantiques, Boston, U.S., 1890, and the Recueil de Prières et de Cantiques . . . par M. l'abbé Saurin . . . Nouvelle Edition (40e) augmentée de nombreux cantiques, Lille and Paris, 1906. A number of French R. C. hymns which we have not been able to trace satisfactorily may here be noted :—

1. Armons-nous, la voix du Seigneur. [Christian Warfare.] In Sionets, ed. 1806, No. 27, marked as by J. Cenac. In Pierrots, 1867, 184, it begins "Armons-nous," and has no name of author. Tr. as "Arm for doubly fight," a free version, in the St. Winefred's H. Bk., 1881, No. 21, and later books.

2. Ici c'est pour moi qu'on veut me ravir sur la terre. [God above our Portion.] This is in L. Lambillotte's Chois de Cantiques, 1862, No. 150, in Sionets, ed. 1806, No. 110, and in Pierrots, 1867, 309; in each case without name of author. Tr. as "On earth there is one only good for me," in the St. Winefred's H. Bk., 1881, No. 24, and later books.

3. Je t'ai juré l'appartenir à Marie. [Consecration to B. V. M.] This is in Pelvin, 1853, No. 128, and Sionets, ed. 1806, No. 226; in each case without name of author. Tr. as "The vow is made, and we belong to Mary," in the Parochial H. Bk., 1868, No. 304, and later books.

4. Je la verrai, cette Mère chérie. [S. V. M.] This is in Sionets, ed. 1806, No. 328, marked as by P. V. Louis. Tr. as "I shall see this cherished Mother," by H. A. Reeve, in the Holy Homily Hyn., 1880, No. 40, and later books.

5. Je entends le monde qui m'appelle. [Renunciation of the World.] In L. Lambillotte's Chois de Cantiques, 1862, No. 83, and Pierrots, 1867, 811, in each case without name of author. Tr. as "I hear thy false sweet voice, delusive world," by Lady G. C. Fullerton, in the Holy Homily Hyn., 1880, No. 86, and later books. [J. M.]

Freu' dich, erlöst'e Christenheit. [Easter.] This is in the Trier G. B. (R. C.), 1846, p. 69, in 6 sts. It is mainly taken from Frühkorpreur, p. 401, i. Tr. as :—"Rejoice, O ransom'd Christendom," by G. H. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 54. [J. M.]

Friends, Society of. See Quaker Hymnody.

From Greenland's icy mountains, p. 309, i. In the Evangelical Mag., July, 1821, p. 316, this hymn is given, the text being the same as in the original ms. It is headed "Hymn Composed for a Missionary Meeting. By the Rev. Reginald Heber." This is the earliest printed text we have seen. In the same Mag., March, 1823, p. 132, the same text is repeated, with the following Preface :—

"A hymn said to be composed by the Rev. Reginald Heber (the newly appointed Bishop of Calcutta) for the purpose of being sung in Whittington Church, Shropshire, in which parish a Missionary Association was formed on Sunday, April 16, 1820."

The Editor was evidently unaware that the hymn was written for and sung in Wrexham Parish Church in 1819, and that he had printed it in his Mag. in July, 1821. [J. J.]

From Sion's hill my help descends. E. Osler. [Ps. cxxi.] Included in the Mites H. Book, 1836, in 3 st. of 4 l., and the Hyn. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1869. [J. J.]

Frothingham, O. B., p. 400, ii. He d. in 1895.

Fundere preces tempus est. [Evening.] This is in a 10th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium formerly at Toledo and now at Madrid, in a slightly earlier ms. still at Toledo (see Dreves, xxvii., No. 70), in the printed Mozarabic Brev. of 1502, f. 302 b., and in Migne's P.P. Lat., lxxxv., 538, 939, as a hymn at Nones daily throughout the year. See also Dreves, xiv., where it is sts. vii., viii. of No. 26, from both of the 11th cent. mss. of the Hymnarius Sevrinianus. Tr. as :—

'Tis now the hour our prayers to pour. By W. J. Blew, in his Ch. H. Bk., 1852, Tribute to Advent, No. 32. There are 1, 2, as from "Fundere"; the rest may have been suggested by "Quoquot diem determinat." Repeated in the 1855 ed. but not in the original. Repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 94. [J. M.]

Funeri ne date planctum, p. 403, i. In Mrs. Brock's Children's H. Bk., 1881, No. 255, and the Amer. Epis. Hyl. 1892, No. 245, Dr. Littledale's tr. is given as "Let no hopeless tears be shed."

Furness, W. H., p. 402, ii. His Verses, Tra., and Hys. were pub. 1886. Of his hymns the following, in addition to those on pp. 402–3, have come into C. U. :—

1. She is not dead, but sleepeth. [Death and Burial.]
2. That God is Love, unchanging Love. [God is Love.] This is in several American collections, including the Church Hymnal, Hymns for Church and Home, 1895, where it is dated 1882.
3. Then Who dost all things give. [Giving the Unseen.] This is dated in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, as having been written in 1869. It is from the Author's Verses, etc., 1886. Also in Hosher's Treas. of Amer. Sac. Song, etc.

Dr. Furness was b. April 20, 1802, and d. in 1896. [J. J.]

Gannett, William Channing, M.A., s. of Dr. Ezra Stiles Gannett, was b. at Boston, March 13, 1840, and educated at Harvard Coll., 1860, and the Divinity School, Cambridge. Entered the Unitarian Ministry in 1868, and after filling several pastorates he became Pastor of the Unitarian Church at Rochester, N.Y., 1880. Mr. Gannett's hymns, mainly written for special occasions, were included in great part in The Thought of God in Hymns and Poems, Boston, 1st Series 1882, 2nd Series 1894,

GANSE, H. D. GERMAN HYMNODY 1639

the combined production of F. L. Hosmer (q.v.) and himself. Of Mr. Gannett's hymns the following are in C. U. :—

1. Bring, O morn, thy music. [God Everlasting.] Written in 1883, and printed in A Chorus of Faith, being an account and résumé of the Parliament of Religions, held in Chicago, 1893. Included in The Thought of God, 3rd Series, 1894, and again in Hyhnal.

2. Glad tidings, glad tidings to-day we bring. [Missions.] Written in 1877 for a Free Religious Assoc. Festival, and pub. in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885.

3. From heart to heart, from creed to creed. [Faith.] Written in 1876 for the 194th anniversary of the First Religious Society in Newburyport, and given in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885. Usually st. ii. is omitted.

4. He hides within the lily. [Divine Providence.] "Consider the lilies, how they grow." Written in 1873, and printed for use at the Free Religious Assoc. Festival, May 30th, 1873. Pub. in The Thought of God, &c., 1st Series, 1885, in 4 st. of 4 l. The most widely used of Mr. Gannett's hymns.

5. I love it often in the dark. [The Voice of God.] Written at Milwaukee, in 1870, and pub. in The Thought of God, &c., 1st Series, 1885. Sometimes it begins with st. iii., "O God within, so close to me," as in Hyn. for Church and Home, Boston, 1895.

6. Praise to God and thanksgiving. [Harvest.] Written for the Harvest Festival of the Church of the Messiah, of which he was then Pastor, and included in The Thought of God, &c., 1st Series, 1885. In the Boston Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, it begins "Praise to God, and thanks we bring."

7. Sleep, my little Jesus. [Christmas Carol.] Written for the Sunday School, St. Paul's, Minn., in 1893, and pub. in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894, as "Mary's Manger-song."

8. The Lord is in His holy place. [Invitation of a Place of Worship.] Written for the Dedication of the Rev. C. W. Wendte's Church, Chicago, April 24, 1873, and pub. in The Thought of God, &c., 1st series, 1885. It is one of the most popular and widely used of the author's hymns.

9. The morning hangs its signal. [Morning.] This is dated by the author "Chicago, July 26, 1886," and printed in Love to God and Love to Man, being No. 28 of the Chicago "Unity Mission" series of hymns (N.D.). Also included in The Thought of God, &c., 2nd Series, 1894. Although in some sense a Morning hymn, it is usually sung at Advent. It is usually known as "The Crowning Day."

10. The Truth is the Voice of God. In the "Unity Mission" Series, No. 20 (see above), this is given as No. 25, with the title "Truth and Righteousness and Love," in 4 st. of 4 l. and a refrain of 4 l.

These annotations are based upon mss. notes kindly supplied by the author. The use made of Mr. Gannett's hymns shows that their poetic beauty, and loving sympathy with all things beautiful and pure, are widely appreciated in America and to a limited extent in Great Britain also. [J. J.]

Ganse, H. D., p. 404, i. He d. Sept. 8, 1901. The following hymns, additional to those already noted, have recently come into C. U. :—

1. The blessed saints about Thee. [Second Advent.] Dated 1897. Included in Snyder's Church Song, 1899, and his College Hymnal, 1897.

2. It was in love of mine, dear Lord. [Love.] Dated 1887, and included in Snyder's collection. [L. F. B.]

Garrett, Charles, was born at Shaftesbury, 1825, entered the Wesleyan Ministry in 1849, President of the Conference in 1882, and died in 1900. His hymn, "There is a glorious work." (Temperance), in No. 959 in The Meth. Hymn Book, 1904. [J. J.]

Gates, Ellen, p. 1865, i., now (1906) of New York city, was born at Torrington, Conn., and married to Isaac E. Gates. Her poems, &c., were published as Treasures of Kurleen, 1895. Concerning Dr. March's hymn, "Hark! the voice of Jesus crying" (q.v.), and Mrs. Gates's "If you cannot on the ocean," some confusion has arisen, mainly, we think, from the fact that the opening line of Mrs. Gates's hymn, written in 1860, and the first line of Dr. March's second stanza are nearly the same, i.e., "If you cannot on the ocean," and "If you cannot cross the ocean." The incident which associates the late President Lincoln's name with this hymn is thus set forth by Mr. Philip Phillips in his Singing Pilgrim, 1866, p. 97 :—

"The words of this truly beautiful song 'If you cannot on the ocean walk by faith,' &c., were by Mrs. Gates . . . When our lamented President Lincoln heard Mr. Phillips sing it at the Hall of Representatives in Washington, Feb. 29, 1864, he was overcome with emotion, and sent up the following written request (given in facsimile on p. 97) to Hon. Wm. H. Seward, Chairman, for its repetition :—'Near the end let us have Mr. Phillips sing "If you cannot on the ocean walk by faith." Don't say I called for it. A. Lincoln.'"

It was through this incident that the hymn became known through America as "President Lincoln's favourite hymn." [J. M.]

Gates, Jessie Rose. Concerning Mrs. Gates we can ascertain nothing beyond the fact that her hymn "There is a peace that cometh after sorrow" (Peace) in Sursum Corda, Phila., 1898, appeared in the Century Magazine, 1897. [L. F. B.]

Gates, Mary Cornelia, née Bishop, daughter of William S. Bishop, of Rochester, N. Y., was married in 1872 to Merrill E. Gates, Secty. to the U. S. Indian Commissioners. Her hymns :—

1. Soul Thou, O Lord, to every place [Missions], dated 1889;
2. Thy love to me, O Christ (Union with Christ), dated 1894, are included in Sursum Corda, 1898. [L. F. B.]

Gaude pia Magdalena. [St. Mary Magdalen.] This is in a Horæ in the Bodleian (Bodl. 820, f. 104), written in England c. 1390; in a Horæ in the B. M. Gerhardt, Paulus, pp. 409, ii., 1865, i. The most recent ed. of Gerhardt's hymns is in vol. iii. of the Fischer-Tümpel Deutsche evangelische Kirchenlied des Siebzehnten Jahrhunderts, 1906, Nos. 389–495. In fixing the text the compilers have been enabled to use the recently discovered 1647, 1653 and 1657 Berlin eds. of Crüger's Praxis Pietatis Melica. [J. M.]

German Hymnody, pp. 412–413, 1865. Some of the German reviewers of the Dictionary of Hymnology complained that no attempt was made to give a sketch of the history of Roman Catholic vernacular hymns since the Reformation. That, however, was Dr. Schaff's misfortune rather than his fault. The only book on the subject then available was Dr. K. A. Beck's Geschichte des Katholischen Kirchenliedes, Cologne, 1878, and Dr. Schaff might well be pardoned if he gave up in despair the attempt to form a sketch on that. So far as the present writer has been able to discover, no adequate history of the period has yet appeared. The sketch by Dr. W. Baumker in the Kirchenlexicon of Wetzer and Welte (vii., 559–623), so far as the Post-Reformation period is concerned, is little more than a list of hymn books. The excellent sketch of modern Catholic Religious Poetry in Dr. O. Weteberu's Religiöse Lyrik der Deutschen in 19. Jahrhundert (Neustrelitz: Barnewitz Hofbuchhandlung, 1891, pp. 7–123) begins practically with 1800, and is of little use in compiling an outline of the history of hymns, properly so called. Only a mere fraction of the hymns in the German Catholic collections can be traced to their authors; and so, e.g., in Father Drews's O Christ hie auch (Freiburg: Herder, 1885) only 18 of the 150 hymns have the names of authors given, and of these four are by Gerhardt and one by Lavater. Dr. W. Baumker's Katholische deutsche Kirchenlied in seinen Singweisen (Freiburg: Herder, i., 1886, iii., 1891) is indeed a first-rate piece of work, based throughout on the original sources, and with a great amount of useful bibliographical and biographical material; but it is, after all, a history of certain selected melodies, and only incidentally of certain hymns which happen to have been set to them. The University of Breslau recognised the merit of the work by conferring the degree of D.D. on its author; but the ecclesiastical authorities allowed him to remain the priest of an obscure country parish, where he d. March 3, 1905, without being able to see the last volume through the press, leaving that to his brother, Professor Clemens Baumker. Dr. Johannes Zahn happily lived to complete his monumental work on the Melodien der deutschen evangelischen Kirchenlieder, aus den Quellen geschöpft (Gütersloh: Bertelsmann, 6 vols., 1889–93); and Dr. Robert Eitner also saw the completion of his most useful Biographisch-Bibliographisches Quellen-Lexicon der Musiker und Musikgelehrten (Leipzig: Breitkopf & Härtel, 10 vols., 1900–1904). The Allgemeine deutsche Biographie, the great German biographical dictionary, concluded the letter Z in vol. 45, 1900, and has since been publishing supplemental volumes, but has not yet followed the example of the Dictionary of National Biography, by issuing an Index and Epitome. The eighth and last-completed volume of Goedeke's Grundriss (see p. 1365, i.) appeared in 1905. The Blätter für Hymnologie (p. 1365, i.) was incorporated in the issues of the Sionia (Gütersloh: Bertelsmann) in 1892 and 1893, was then pub. separately (Kaha: F. Beck), but finally ceased with the number for Dec. 1894. The only recent purely hymnological work of importance is the Deutsche evangelische Kirchenlied des siebzehnten Jahrhunderts (Gütersloh: Bertelsmann) begun by Dr. A. F. W. Fischer and carried on by W. Tümpel, vol. i., 1904, ii. 1905, iii. 1906. Dr. A. F. W. Fischer's Kirchliche Dichtung hauptsächlich in Deutschland (Gotha: Perthes, 1892) is written in text-book style. A more popular sketch is the Geschichte des deutschen evangelischen Kirchenliedes, by Wilhelm Nelle (Hamburg: G. Schloessmann, 1904); and the same publisher has issued a series entitled Unsere Kirchenliederdichter (vol. iv., 1905), with interesting and careful sketches of individual hymn-writers, by various authors, with many portraits and other illustrations. Wilhelm Nelle also prepared a good and careful ed. of the hymns of Tersteegen (Gütersloh: Bertelsmann, 1897). [J. M.]

Gilbert, Rosa, nées Mulholland, dau. of J. S. Mulholland, M.D., of Belfast, and wife of Sir John T. Gilbert, is the author of Fragrant Verses, 1886, and many novels, &c. Her hymn, "Give me, O Lord, a heart of Grace" (Benjamin's), is in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, and others. It is from her Fragrant Verses, p. 124, where it is given as "A Prayer." [J. M.]

Gilder, Richard Watson, LL.D., was b. at Bordentown, N.J., Feb. 8, 1844, and educated at a Seminary at Flushing, L.I. He was associate-editor of Scribner's Monthly (now The Century) from its commencement in 1870 to 1881, when, on the death of J. G. Holland, he became editor-in-chief. His poetical works are somewhat numerous, and include The New Day, 1875; Lyrics, 1885; Two Worlds, 1891; Poems and Inscriptions, 1901; and In the Heights, 1905. His hymns in C. U. are:—

1. In spirit form, by myriad canoe. [Divine Incarnation.] This, In the Heights, N.Y., 1905, is composed of the last two stanzas of a hymn sung at the presentation of the Egyptian Obelisk to the City of New York, Feb. 22, 1881. The hymn is in his Lyrics, 1885, p. 5.

2. To Thee, Eternal Soul, be praise! [God speaking through His Saints.] Written for the Ministerial Union, N.Y., 1904. [L. F. H.]

Gill, Julia, is given in W. B. Bradbury's Golden Censer, 1864, as the authoress of "The Master has come over Jordan" (Children for Jesus), given in several collections, including the S. School Hymnsery, 1905, and others.

Gill, T. H., pp. 421, i.; 1365, ii. &c. During the past ten years Mr. Gill's hymns have been widely used, especially in America, the result being that the following have to be added to the long lists already annotated as above:—

1. Ah! wherefore fall my tears so fast? [The World Overcome.] Pub. in Golden Chain of Praise, 1889, p. 167. The hymn, "O Thou for Whom the strife was strong," in the American Hys. for Church and Home, 1895, is composed of sts. iii.–vi. of this hymn.

2. The Lord is King! lift up thy voice. [Morning.] Written for the Whitsuntide Festival, 1884, in rem.

3. I would not give the world my heart. This, in the Amer. Sup. Sursum Corda, 1895, No. 203, is a conte from "With Him I would not make abode," p. 1286, ii.

4. Not only when assails the song. This in the Amer. Hys. of the Ages, 1894, No. 90, is a conte from "Not only when the song," p. 1286, ii.

5. Walk with the Lord! along the road. Composed of sts. v., vii.–ix., of "Ah! troubles, fainting and forlorn," p. 421, ii. 1. Included in the Amer. Unit. Hys. for Church and Home, 1895.

6. We would not dare their bliss to scorn. This in the Amer. Unit. Hys. for Church and Home, 1895, is compiled from sts. iv., v. of "May we not, Father, merely dare?" p. 423, ii. 41.

7. Wherefore faint and fearful ever. [God is for us.] Pub. in the 3rd edition of the S. S. of Praise 1894, No. 45, and dated 1886. In H. A. & M., 1904, it is in sts. The cento "He Who rose and wields upholdeth," is composed of sts. ii., iii., and vii. of the original hymn.

Mr. Gill d. in 1906. [J. J.]

Gill, William Henry, s. of Joseph Gill, of the Isle of Man, b. at Marsala, Sicily, Oct. 24, 1839; educated at King William's Coll., Isle of Man; entered the Seals Office, G.P.O., London, 1858, and retired 1898. A painter in water colours, and student of Manx national music. In combination with his brother, Deemster Gill and Dr. Clagne, pub. in 1893 a volume of Manx National Songs. He has also composed several popular Anthems and Solos. Two of his hymns have attained to some reputation:—

1. Hear us, O Lord, from Heaven, Thy dwelling place. [Harvest of the Sea.] Mr. Gill's ms. history of the origin and building up of this hymn is more than usually interesting, as supplied to us in 1900. It was "written in the Isle of Man about the same time [ten years ago for Manx music] . . . Among many interesting finds . . . of our once lost national music . . . was a remnant of melody which had . . . been associated with Manx words . . . That melody . . . I converted into a hymn tune . . . Then I sought inspiration for a suitable subject." This was found in the acceptance of the Harvest and then current of the Prayer for Fair Weather. "That it may please Thee to give and preserve to our use the kindly fruits of the earth, and to rejoice and continue to us the blessings of the sea, so as in due time we may enjoy them." Continuing, Mr. Gill adds, "I forget the exact date, but I think it was in the autumn of 1889 [1890] that the Hymn and Tune were pub. in Manx National Songs (London: Boosey & Co.), 1896, and in the Meth. H. Bk., 1904. It is for its purpose the most suitable hymn we know, and supplies a felt want in fishing villages and towns.

2. O King of nations, Righteous Lord. [In Time of War.] "Written before and during the war," with reference to the Boer War. Its popularity was great, thirty-five thousand copies having been sold in one week (Abingdon: W. H. Hooke).

3. Warrior, rest: thy work is done. ["Victory."] "A Song of Victory." Very spirited and devotional. (Abingdon: W. H. Hooke). [J. J.]

Gillett, George Gabriel Scott, B.A., s. of the Rev. E. A. Gillett, was b. Dec. 1, 1873, at Hawley, Hants, where his father was then curate. He was educated at Westminster School and at Keble Coll., Oxford, B.A. 1896 and ordained D. 1898, P. 1899. While domestic chaplain to Earl Beauchamp at Madresfield he contributed to The Engl. Hyl., 1906, three trs. (38, 172, 620) and "It is finished! Christ hath known" (Good Friday). [J. M.]

Gilman, Caroline, p. 422, ii. She d. in 1888.

Give me a new and perfect heart. This, in the American Meth. Hymnal, 1905, is a cento from C. Wesley's "God of all power and truth and grace," p. 434, i.

Give thanks to God most high. I. Watts. [Ps. cxxxvi.] From his Psalms of David, 1719, into a few collections.

Gladden, W., p. 1365, ii. Dr. Gladden has been Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Columbus, Ohio, since 1882. His hymn-writing has not been extensive. The most popular of his hymns is "O Master, let me walk with Thee," noted on p. 1365, ii. It has come into somewhat extensive use during the last ten years. Additional hymns in C. U. include:—

1. Behold a Sower from afar. [The Kingdom of God.] In the Boston Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, this is dated 1897.

2. Forgive, O Lord, the doubts that break Thy promises to me. [Doubting repented of.] Dated 1879, in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. [J. J.]

Gladstone, William Ewart, was b. at Liverpool, Dec. 29, 1809, d. at Hawarden, May 19, 1898, and was buried May 28, 1898, at Westminster Abbey. For the details of his career see his Life by John Morley, 3 vols., 1903. His connexion with Hymnody is slight. Two trs. into Latin are noted at p. 632, ii. 779, i. and one into Italian, p. 488, ii. Mrs. Gladstone in 1898 contributed to Good Words, p. 485, a poem on the Holy Communion, beginning, "Lord, as Thy temple's portals close," in ten sts., dated May 1896. It gives a most interesting picture of the period and of the devotional feelings of the author. A cento, consisting of sts. iii., iv., v., beginning "O lead my blindness by the hand," is in The Engl. Hyl., 1906, No. 322, but it suffers from the loss of the context. [J. M.]

Gloria, laus et honor, p. 423, i. The version beginning "Glory and honour and praise be to Thee, our King and Redeemer," in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, is Neale altered, and that in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 621, "Glory and praise and dominion be Thine," is by W. J. Birkbeck, partly from Dr. Neale. [J. M.]

Glorioei Salvatoris, pp. 427, i., and 1366, i. The Meinsen Brev. used by Daniel was printed in 1517. The version in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 338, beginning "To the Name of our Salvation," is marked as Neale and Compilers. It is the same as in ed. 1861, except that st. v. is a more exact tr. of the Latin. [J. M.]

Glück zu Kreuz, p. 988, ii. Another tr. is:—"Welcome! Cross of blessing, welcome." By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904.

Glyde, Elizabeth, p. 1366, i. daughter of Jonathan Lavington Glyde, merchant, of Exeter, was born Sept. 28, 1815, and died Feb. 15, 1845. We have succeeded in gathering the following facts concerning her hymn, "Be with me in the valley":—

In 1844 she went to Malvern for her health, but the doctors there giving no hope of her recovery she returned to Exeter. On Sunday after her return her sister Mrs. Hooper, who had been with her at Malvern, said "a message to her mother:—'Tell Mrs ——— that when I came to the valley of the shadow of death Jesus was there to meet me.'" The words inspired her song. It was so used on Sunday, Feb. 23, 1845, by the Rev. John Jones, while preaching her funeral sermon in Castle Street Chapel, Exeter. It was printed soon after, and re-printed in the Sacred Harmonist (1845), 1849, where it begins, "O! I meet me in the valley." [J. M.]

Go, bury thy sorrow, p. 1366, i. In the Notes of Joy, 1869, the original of this hymn, with music by Mrs. J. F. Knapp, is given as "Bury thy sorrow, The world has its share." Possibly the words are also by Mrs. Knapp, but this is not stated as being so, and the authorship is open to doubt. See p. 1408, i. [J. J.]

"Go forth," the Lord has said. This hymn, in the Church Missionary H. Bk., 1899,

1642 GO, MESSENGER GÖTTLING, KARL

No. 9, is compiled from Dr. C. Wordsworth's "The Banner of the Cross," p. 1294, i. 22.

Go, messenger of peace and love, p. 430, ii. Appeared in the Evangelical Mag., 1821, p. 260.

God moves in a mysterious way, p. 433, i. In the MS. volume referred to under Cowper, W., p. 1628, ii., this hymn is given at pp. 204–5, between a letter from J. Newton dated "Olney, Nov. 4, 1772," and another hymn by Cowper, "'Tis my happiness below," given as "by Mr. W. C. of Olney, 1773." This supports the conclusion as set forth on p. 433, i., that the hymn was not the outcome of his attempted suicide in October 1773. The concluding lines of the hymn read in the MS. :—

"The bud may have a bitter taste,
But soon it will be the flower."

This, as is well known, appeared in print as :—

"The bud may have a bitter taste,
But sweet will be the flower."

See Notes and Queries, Sept. 24, 1905. [J. J.]

God of my [our] life, to Thee I [we] call, p. 434, ii. In Church Hys., 1903, No. 286, the text of the 1st ed., 1871, is repeated in 5 st. of 4 l., with the restoration of Cowper's original text in st. iv. This text of 1903 is also given in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M. instead of that of 1861 ; and is composed thus : st. i., Cowper, i. from No. 19, Bk. 3, of the Olney Hys. ; ii., st. ii. from No. 18 in the same Bk. 3 ; iii., iv., from No. 19 as above, and st. v. by an unknown hand from the S.P.C.K. Hymns, &c., 1852. Other arrangements of Cowper's text are found in recent hymn-books in G. Britain and America, the exact nature of which can be determined by reference to the Olney Hys. [J. J.]

God of the ocean, earth and sky, p. 1295, i. 1. In several modern American collections, including the Boston Hys. for Church and Home, 1905, this hymn takes st. i. from J. R. Wreford, as above, and sts. ii.–v. from S. Longfellow's "God of the earth, the sky, the sea." [J. J.]

God that [Who] madest earth and heaven, pp. 440, i. ; 1407, i. The two-stanza form of this hymn we find appeared in a volume of Sacred Poetry adapted to the Understanding of Children and Youth. For the Use of Schools. Dublin. Pub. by Direction of the Commissioners of National Education . . . 1838. It is given on p. 16 as an "Evening Hymn," the first line being "Lord, that madest earth and heaven." The second stanza is :—

"Guard us waking, guard us sleeping ;
And, when we die,
May we, in Thy mighty keeping,
All peaceful lie.
When the last dread trump shall wake us,
Do not Thou, our Lord, forsake us,
But bid us then to come to us,
With Thee on high."

Probably this stanza was written by Dr. Whately for this collection of Sacred Poetry, &c. He was Archbishop of Dublin at the time.

The two stanzas were repeated in the Archbishop's Lectures on Prayer, London : John W. Parker & Son, 1860, p. 185. Previous to this, the hymn in this two-stanza form had come into general use through the Marylebone Ps. & Hys., 1851, as detailed on p. 440, i. The edited stanzas given in W. Mercer's H. Bk., 1864, are :—

2. "And when morn again shall call us
To run life's way,
May we still, whate'er befall us,
Thy will obey.
From the power of evil hide us,
In the narrow pathway guide us,
Nor Thy mantle be e'er denied us
The livelong day."

4. "Holy Father, throned in heaven,
Holy Son, forgiven,
Holy Spirit, freely given,
Blest Three in One
Grant Thy grace, we now implore Thee,
Till we cast our crowns before Thee,
And in worthier strains adore Thee,
Whilst ages run." [J. J.]

God the all-merciful, earth hath forsaken. This, in the American Protestant Episcopal Church Hymnal, 1889, is a conto from "God the all-terrible," p. 445, i., sts. i. and iv. being by H. F. Chorley and ii., iii. by J. Ellerton as in Church Hys., 1871.

God the Father, God the Word. This Metrical Litany, in The English Hymnal, 1906, No. 633, is taken from Dr. Littledale's "Litany of the Blessed Sacrament," in The People's Hymnal, 1867, No. 598. It is abbreviated ; the petitions are rearranged, and the refrain is altered, but in all other respects it is the same Litany. [J. M.]

God the Father, Who in mercy. A. M. Y. Baylay. [Burial.] Written for The New Office H. Book, 1905.

Gordon, Adoniram Judson, D.D., b. at New Hampton, N.H., Ap. 19, 1836. Graduated at Brown University, 1860 ; entered the Baptist ministry ; Pastor of Clarendon Street Bap. Ch., Boston, 1869 ; and d. in 1895. He pub. The Poetry Hymn and Tune Bk., 1872 ; and was one of the editors of the Service of Song for Baptist Churches, 1871. His hymns in C. U. include :—

1. O blessed Paraclete. [Holy Spirit.] Given in Sermon Cards, 1898, as having been written in 1890.
2. O Spirit's anointing, for service appointing. [Foreign Missions.] This hymn was "written in the autumn of 1887, at Northfield, Mass., for the Conference organized by Mr. Moody. More than one hundred college students connected with this school gave themselves to the work of foreign missions during their stay at Northfield. Four of their number were chosen to visit the colleges in charge of the work, and addressed in all one hundred different institutions, during the succeeding academic year. At their request, Dr. Gordon wrote" this hymn. Boys. Nat. & F. Mission, 1896.
3. Where art thou, soul ! I hear God say. [Divine Calling.] Pub. in social meeting ed. of The Service of Song, 1885. [J. J.]

Gorch, Ellen Lakshmi, d. of the Rev. Nehemiah Gorch, a Christian convert, a Brahmin of the highest class, was b. at Benares, Sept. 11, 1853. Her mother died in Dec. the same year, and the child was adopted first by a Mr. Smailes. Through the Mutiny in 1857 Mr. Smailes lost his property, and the child was then taken into the family of the Rev. W. T. Storm and brought to England, where she was educated, and resided until 1880, when she returned to India to take up mission work with her own countrywomen. Through Miss F. R. Havergal's advice and influence Miss Gorch pub. From India's Coral Strand : Hymns of Christian Faith (1883). The best known of these hymns is "In the secret of His Presence" (Jesus all in all). GRACIOUS SAVIOUR GREGORY, ARTHUR 1643

Jan. 19, 1793, studied at Berlin and elsewhere, became in 1820 professor at Jena, d. at Jena Jan. 20, 1869 (Goedeke's Grundriss, viii., 141, &c.). He is best remembered by the songs written in his University days, e.g. :—

Rule Brit. O Vaterland. [National.] Written 1813. In Albert Heldfond's Commers- und Liederbuch, 1818. G. W. Fink's Musik. Hausschatz der Deutschen, 1842, No. 381, &c. Tr. as "Firmly stand, my native land," Mr. J. Spencer Curwen kindly informs us that this is given, without name of translator, in The Vocalist, Sept. 1, 1844, and Church Music and Musicians, 1881. It is in the Bapt. Manual Hys., 1864, No. 118. [J. M.]

Gracious Saviour, gentle [holy] Shepherd, p. 448, ii. Since the pub. of this Dictionary in 1892 we have found a copy of J. Whittemore's Bap. Supp. to all H. Books, dated 1830, and in it, as No. 145, is the cento which, as being in the Salisbury H. Bk. of 1857, we attributed to Miss J. E. Leeson, 1842; J. Kelle, 1827. It must now read : Miss J. E. Leeson, 1842 ; J. Whittemore, 1830. [J. J.]

Gracious Spirit, Life Divine. J. Julian. [Whitsuntide.] Written by request for Pawson and Brailsford's Sheffield Whitsuntide Hymns, 1900, in 4 st. of 4 l. From this it has passed into the S.P.C.K. Church Hys., 1903, and several other collections in G. Britain and America, and is extensively used at Whitsuntide gatherings. Its original tune is "St. Margaret," by E. H. Lemare, sometime organist of St. Margaret's, Westminster. [J. J.]

Graham, Thomas, M.A., b. Sept. 14, 1837, and educated at St. Paul's School, London, and Trinity Coll., Camb. : B.A. (Sen. Opt.), 1860, M.A. 1865, D. 1882, P. 1863. Curate of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and Vicar of several parishes in succession, including St. Paul's, Canonbury, London, 1880–5, St. Bride's, Liverpool, 1885–93, and since 1893 of St. Peter with Christ Church, Southborough. His hymn :—

When the King comes back from the far-off land [Advent], was written for the congregation of St. Paul's, Canonbury, of which he was then Vicar, and in 1889 was first printed as a leaflet, and then included in the Church Mon. H. Bk., 1899, and the C. P. Ald Mission Hy., 1897. Mr. Graham was also the composer of the tune "Edith," which usually accompanies the hymn.

Mr. Graham is the author of A Popular Commentary on the Book of the Revelation. [J. J.]

Graham, William, b. 1810 at Clough, Antrim, was ordained in 1836 as Presbyterian minister of Dundonald, near Belfast. In 1842 he was appointed by the Irish Presbyterian Assembly as missionary to the Jews, and worked at Damascus, at Hamburg, and at Bonn. He retired in 1883, and d. at Belfast, Dec. 11, 1887. His hymn "O Jesus, sweetest, holiest name" (p. 1445, ii.), is in his Fifty Songs of Zion, London, 1857, No. 41. [J. M.]

Gratulare, sponsa Christi. [Cessation of Confessors.] Mone, No. 750, prints this from a 12th cent. MS. at Graz (42/8). Tr. as "Bride of Christ, thy thanks declaring," by T. I. Ball, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 145. [J. M.]

Gravi me terrore, p. 451, ii. Father Drews kindly informs me that he has found this in three MSS. of the 12th cent., viz., Troyes, 1612 (from Chartreux) ; Milan, Ambros. F. 19. sup. : and Zwolle, 434. [J. M.]

Gray, Herbert Branston, D.D., s. of Thomas Gray, was b. April 22, 1851, at Layton House, Putney, London, educated at Winchester, and at Queen's Coll., Oxford (Scholar 1870, B.A. 1874, M.A. 1877, D.D. 1892), and was ordained D. 1877, P. 1878. He was appointed assistant master at Westminster 1875 ; Headmaster of Louth Grammar School 1878 ; Headmaster of Bradfield Coll., Berks, 1880, and has been Warden since 1881. His hymn :—

Praise to our God, Who with love never swerving [Bradfield College], written in 1892 at the request of the Bradfield Coll. Mag., and first published in it, is in the Public School H. Bk., 1903, No. 197. [J. M.]

Great Framer of unnumbered worlds, p. 457, ii. 2. This is given to Sidney Dyer in error. It is by G. Dyer, noted at p. 1196, i. In Rippis's Sel., 1795, No. 987.

Great God, what do I see and hear? The texts of this hymn as set forth on p. 464 have been used by compilers of hymnals since 1892 almost without exception. In the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M., there is, however, a notable change in st. i., l. 2, where we read "The doom," instead of "The end of things created." Why this alteration has been made, with the divine declaration, "Behold, I make all things new," still standing in the Bible, is more than we can determine. [J. J.]

Great God Who madest all for man. G. Thring. [Temperance.] First pub. in Church Hys., 1903.

Great Saint Andrew, friend of Jesus. F. Oakeley. [S. Andrew.] Contributed to S. Patrick's H. Book, 1892, No. 192, and repeated in Hys. of the Year, 1867, and later collections.

Greenaway, Ada Rundall, dr. of General Thos. Greenaway, R.A.C., b. at Pyrandrum, India, Oct. 12, 1801, brought to England as a child, and has resided at Guildford from then to the present time. Of her hymns the following were written for the Rev. E. Handley's Children's Supplement, 1897 :—

1. At the Font, O loving Saviour. [H. Baptism.]
2. Hear as echo of the message. [Worship.]
3. Hear the angels telling. [Christmas Christ.]
4. Hymns of thankfulness we raise. [Dedication Festival.]
5. Jesu, by Thy Lenten Fast. [Lent.]
6. Lord, a little band of children. [Children's Guilds.]
7. Saviour, hear us, as we plead. [Lent.]

To the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., Miss Greenaway contributed the following :—

8. For the dear ones parted from us. [Absent Friends.]
9. O Father, we would thank Thee. [The Love of God.]
10. O Perfect God, Thy love. [I thirst.]
11. O work of pity, for our parish pleading. [Penitential.] [J. J.]

Greenstreet, Annie Louise, née Ashley, dr. of William Ashley, schoolmaster, of Sheffield : b. Feb. 17, 1835 ; mar. Mar. 7, 1876, to W. T. Greenstreet, Sheffield. Her poetical pieces were pub. as Heart Yearnings after Home, &c. By A. L. Ashley (Sheffield : T. W. Hall), 1871. Her popular hymn, "A little talk with Jesus" (To Adoration), is taken from this booklet of verse. It was written at a time of great trial and affliction. [J. J.]

Gregory, Arthur Edwin, D.D., s. of Benjamin Gregory, D.D., was b. at Southampton, Nov. 30, 1853, and educated at Manchester Grammar School and Didsbury College. He entered the Wesleyan Ministry in 1877, became Vice-Principal of the Wesleyan Children's Home and Orphanage, 1888, and Principal, 1900. He was one of the secretaries of The Methodist H. Book (1904) Committee. He is Editor of The Preacher's Magazine, and sundry books for Bible students. His Fernley Lecture was delivered in brief at the Conference held at Sheffield in 1904, and pub. in full as The Hymn-Book of the Modern Church, Brief Studies of Hymns and Hymn-Writers. It is an extended and reliable résumé of the subject. Its facts have been collected with great care, and are presented in a clear and scholarly manner. Primarily intended to illustrate the contents of The Methodist H. Book of 1904, it has gone far beyond this limit, and is a valuable contribution to hymnological literature. [J. J.]

Gregory I., St., Pope, p. 469. i. We have been unable to discover any grounds which justified the Benedictine editors and Daniel in printing certain hymns (see p. 479. i.) as by St. Gregory. Modern scholars agree in denying him a place among hymn-writers; e.g., Mr. F. H. Dudden, in his Gregory the Great (London, 1905, vol. i., p. 270), says "The Gregorian authorship of these compositions [the hymns printed by the Benedictine editors] however cannot be maintained... Gregory contributed ... nothing at all to the sacred music and poetry of the Roman Church." [J. M.]

Grignon, Louis Marie, s. of J. B. Grignon, Sieur de la Bachelerie, was b. Jan. 31, 1673, at Montfort, near Rennes, and is generally known as Grignon de Montfort, or as de Montfort. He was ordained priest in 1700, and devoted himself principally to conducting missions and retreats, after 1711 in the diocese of La Rochelle. He d. April 28, 1716, at Saint-Laurent-sur-Sèvre, Vendée. In 1839 he was decreed the Venerable, in 1870 advanced to the grade of the Blessed, but has not yet been formally canonised. His hymns were collected as Cantiques des Missions composés par Louis-Marie Grignon de Montfort, Poitiers, 1753, the most complete and authentic ed. being that of Poitiers, 1865. The two best known in English are :—

1. Bienaura à jamais. [Thanksgiving.] 1865, as above, p. 127 ; in the Abbé Sainte's Recueil de Prières et de Cantiques, 1856, No. 40, &c. ; tr. as :—
Praise we our God with joy. In the Holy Family Hymn-Book, 1893, No. 3, as by Fr. Edmund, of the Very Rev. Canon Oakeley. It is repeated in Hym. for the Year, 1847, Church Hys., 1903, No. 535, and others.

2. Le monde en vain, par ses biens et ses charmes. [Trust in Jesus.] 1865, p. 61 ; in Semaine, 1866, No. 113 ; in the Cantiques Spirituels, Chartres, 1774, No. 50, &c. ; tr. as :—
The world, my heart with vicious bright and fair. In the Holy Family Hys., 1893, No. 21, marked as tr. by Right Rev. Mgr. Manning. Repeated in the Arundel Hys., 1901, No. 145.
Two others are tr. in the Parochial H. Bk., 1880 :—

3. A la mort, à la mort. [On Death.] 1865, p. 49 ; Semaine, 1866, No. 41, &c. ; tr. as :—
On to death, on to death. Previously in the Holy Family Hys., 1893, No. 84, as by T. E.

4. Dieu va déployer sa puissance. [Day of Judgment.] 1865, p. 78 ; Semaine, 1866, No. 41 ; Cantiques Spirituels, Chartres, 1774, No. 77 ; tr. as :—
God now prepares to show His might. By T. D. Bull. In his own Priest's Poems, 1890, p. 6. It begins "The Lord prepares." [J. M.]

Grosart, A. B., pp. 471. i. ; 1048. i. Dr. Grosart d. at Dublin, March 16, 1899.

Grosvenor, H. G., p. 472. i. Two recent hymns by him are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.
1. Not one hour for Jesus. Legal Service. Written 1868. Not pub. in the Church. [Forgiveness.]
2. O Thou Whose sacred feet. By faith we follow still. Legal Service. Written 1897, first pub. 1903 as above, No. 398. [J. M.]

Grosvenor, W. H., p. 472. i. His more recent hymns include :—
i. In the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896.
1. In the Name of Jesus, we each other greet. Trust in Jesus. Written 1896 ; 1896, No. 106.
2. The world in which we live and move. God's Care. 1896, No. 119.
3. We bless Thee for Thy will made known. Holy Scripture. Written 1894 ; 1896, No. 72.
ii. In the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.
4. A Song of spring once more we sing. Spring. Written 1904 ; 1905, No. 377.
5. Now the day is past parting hymn. Evening. Written 1900 ; 1905, No. 366.
6. I know not what this week may bring. Trust in God. Written 1901 ; 1905, No. 384. [J. M.]

Gurney, Dorothy Frances, née Blomfield, p. 1443. ii. Married to Mr. Gerald Gurney. Mrs. Gurney's personal account of her hymn, "O perfect Love," &c., is given in detail in the Rev. J. Brownlie's Hymns and Hymn-Writers of The Church Hymnary, 1899, p. 248. Her hymn is given in most hymn books published since 1889. [J. J.]

Guter Hirt, p. 723. ii. The version in The English Hyl. 1906, beginning "Gentle Shepherd, Thou hast stilled," is in two parts, the second, "God, we thank Thee ; not in vain," being by the Rev. P. Dearmer. Of the 16 lines in the first part, there are 7 more or less altered from Miss Winkworth's version of the German ; the rest are not hers. [J. M.]

H.

Had I ten thousand gifts beside, p. 476. ii. This is by Edward Godwin, a Calvinistic Methodist minister, pub. in his Hys. for Christian Societies, Part iii., Bristol, 1744, No. xii., entitled, "The Language of a Believer." [J. M.]

Hæc est sancta solemnitas solemnitatum. Nother Bulbulus. [Easter.] Eleven ancient uses in which this sequence is found are noted at pp. 813, 1045. Printed text in Mone, No. 163 ; Daniel, iii., p. 55, v., p. 56 ; Kehrein, No. 82, &c. Tr. as :—

1. Hail ! the holy day of days. By J. W. Hewett, in Lyra Mystica, 1865, p. 283 (1848, p. 218), and in J. R. Young's Sonnets Hyl., N.Y., 1864, p. 198.
2. Hail ! the holy day we hail. In the New Office H. Bk., 1880, No. 139. [J. M.]

Hail, Father, Whose creating call, p. 477. ii. This hymn by S. Wesley, jun., is omitted from the Methodist H. Bk., 1904, but is retained in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M. in the form given to it in the Supp. A. & M., 1889.

Hail, glorious Saint Patrick, dear Saint of our Isle. [St. Patrick.] This is in Ussay Hys., c. 1853, No. 14, marked as by Sister Agnes, of the Convent of Charleville, Co. Cork. Repeated in Toner's Catholic Hys., 1898, and many others. In the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 221, it is rewritten, with the loss of the original salute. [J. M.]

Hail, holy, holy, holy Lord, Whom One in Three. C. Wesley. [Holy Trinity.] From Hys. on the Trinity, 1767, into The Meth. Hymn Book, 1904. (P. Works, vi., p. 280.)

Mr. Hall died Feb. 18, 1902. [J. M.]

Hall, William, M.A., b. in the city of Cork, Oct. 13, 1838, and educated at Trinity College, Dublin : B.A., 1860 ; M.A., 1863. Ordained in 1861, he was Curate of Christ Ch., Lisburn, 1863–5, St. Nicholas, Durham, 1865–70, and W. Teignmouth, 1870–2. His poetical works are : The Victory of Defeat, and Other Poems, Chiefly on Hebrew Themes, 1896 ; Renunciation, and Other Poems, 1902 ; and Via Crucis, 1906. These works contain many passages which would supply admirable cantos for public worship, and are worthy of the attention of hymnal compilers. [J. J.]

Hamilton, J., p. 483. ii. He d. Jan. 14, 1896.

Hanc tu colendam qui tuis. See Jubes et in præcepe aquis, p. 1036. ii.

Hark! how all the welkin rings, p. 487. i. In most of the hymnals published since 1892, the well-known text, as altered in G. Whitefield's Coll., 1753, and subsequently in the Supp. to Tate & Brady, has been adopted :—

" Hark ! the herald angels sing Glory to the new-born King."

The exceptions include :—
1. The 1904 ed. of H. A. & M., where C. Wesley's opening lines :—

" Hark ! how all the welkin rings, Glory to the King of Kings," are restored in the first stanza, and also used as a refrain. The rest of the hymn is the same as in the old ed. of H. A. & M.

2. The English Hyl., 1906. In this collection C. Wesley's original text sts. i.–viii., is given as No. 13 (see p. 977.), and the well-known text as in the old ed. of H. A. & M., and other collections as No. 24.
3. In the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M., the text as in the various editions 1861–1889, is restored, in addition to C. Wesley's original text.
4. In the Public School H. Bk., 1903, the opening lines are :—

" Hark ! the herald angel sings, Glory to the King of Kings." [J. J.]

Harris, T. L., p. 1049. ii., was b. at Stony Stratford, Bucks, and when three years of age went with his parents to America. He d. at New York, March 23, 1906. His hymns were pub. as Hys. of Spiritual Devotion, N.Y., 1858. In his Preface, he says, "Many of the hymns were verbally communicated by individual spirits." [J. M.]

Harsough, Lewis, p. 1049. ii. Mr. Harsough entered the ministry of the Meth. Episco. Church in 1851, and is now (1903) residing in Mount Vernon, Indiana. He was musical editor of J. Hillman's Revivalist, Troy, 1868, and co-editor of The Sacred Harmonist, Boston, 1864, and Beulah Songs, Phila., 1870. In addition to the hymns named on p. 1049. ii., "Let me go where saints are going" [Haste to Zion] is in W. B. Bradbury's Chorica, 1867, p. 83. Concerning his hymn, "I hear Thy welcome voice," Mr. Sankey says in his My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, p. 116 :—

"The words and music of this beautiful hymn were first published in a monthly, entitled, Guide to Holiness, by the Rev. Asa Abbott, of Boston. Mr. Bradbury very kindly adapted it, and had it published in Shouts of Joy and Solos. It proved to be one of the most helpful of the revival hymns, and was often used as an invitation hymn in England and America." [L. F. B.]

Hasloch, Mary, p. 1049. ii., dr. of the Rev. John Hasloch, at one time Congregational Minister at Kentish Town, London, was b. July 2, 1816, and d. March 11, 1892.

Havergal, Frances R., pp. 496. ii., 1049, ii. During the past fifteen years Miss Havergal's hymns have been in great request by compilers of hymnals for Missions and Conventions. In addition to the large number already annotated in this Dictionary, the following are also in C. U. :—

1. Begin at once ! in the pleasant days. [Temperance.] From her Poetical Works, vol. i., p. 304, into The Sunday S. Hymnary, 1905. In her P. W. it is given as a "Band of Hope Song," and dated "May, 1876."
2. God in heaven, hear our singing. An altered form of "God of heaven, hear our singing," p. 497. i. 6.
3. Holy Father, Thou hast spoken. [Holy Spirit desired.] Written May 5, 1876. P. Works, 1884, ii., p. 261.
4. I love. I love my Master. [Jesus the object of love.] Written at Pau, Basses Pyr., July 24, 1876. In her Legacy of Responsibility and Love, 1884, ii., p. 374.
5. I love to tell the story. [Jesus and His Love Teaching.] Written at Shrewsbury Sep., Aug., 1867, for her Ministry of Song, 1869. Included in her P. Works, 1884, i., p. 96.
6. Jesus, Thy life is mine. [Union with Christ.] Written at Leamington, Dec., 1876. P. Works, 1884, ii., p. 261.
7. Lord, Thou hast Jesus' name. [The Holy Name, All-in-All.] Dated 1876. P. Works, 1884, ii., p. 263.
8. Master, how shall I bless Thy Name? [Holy Service.] Written at Whitby, Sept. 27, 1873. A long hymn of 17 st. of 6 l. P. Works, 1884, ii., p. 248.
9. Resting on the faithfulness. [Union with Christ.] Written at Winterbourne, Dec., 1876. Suggested by our Lord and His manifestation of loving kindness towards men, in which the word "Resting" is used eighteen times. Written June 11, 1874. P. Works, 1884, ii., p. 260.
10. Singing for Jesus, our Saviour and King. [Praise of Jesus.] Written at Winterbourne, June 12.

1872; pub. in her Under the Surface, 1874, p. 94, and her P. Works, 1894, ii., p. 78.

11. Unfurl the Christian Standard with firm and fearless hand. [Gleanings for the Christian Wayfarer.] This begins with st. iv. of her hymn, "Unfurl the Christian Standard, lift it manfully on high," written at Ferry Barn, Sep. 23, 1872; pub. in her Under the Surface, 1874, p. 94, and her P. Works, 1894, ii., p. 78.

12. Unto him that hath Thou given. [Growth in Grace.] Written at Lessness, April 12, 1876. P. Works, 1894, ii. 105.

Of these hymns Nos. 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 12 were pub. in the first instance in J. Mountain's Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1876. At the present time (1907) the number of Miss Havergal's hymns in C. U. reaches nearly one hundred. [J. J.]

Hawker, R. S., p. 499, i. The statement on p. 499, respecting the death of R. S. Hawker, is an error through imperfect information. He d. at Plymouth on March 25, 1875, and was buried in the cemetery of that town. His life and works have been set forth in The Vicar of Morwenstow, by S. Baring-Gould, 1876; 3rd ed. 1899: Memorials, &c., by F. G. Low, 1876; and The Life and Letters of R. S. Hawker, by C. E. Byles, 1905. [J. J.]

Hawkes, Henry Warburton, b. at Kendal, 1843, for sixteen years minister of the North End Mission, Liverpool, from 1891 to 1900 of the Bootle Free Church, since 1906 of West Kirby Free Church. Editor of Hys. of Holy and Songs of Praise, 1892; and Hys. and Sacred Songs for Church and Home, 1891. Reprinted and enlarged, 1898. The ed. of 1898 has about 100 of his own hymns and adaptations for popular tunes.

1. Amid the din of earthly strife. Vision of the Christ.
2. Father, Thy dear name we bless. Children.
3. Gracious Lord, we pray for harvest. Christian Wayfarer.
4. Peace, perfect peace, the gift of God within. Inward Peace.
5. Thank we now the Lord of heaven. Christmas.
6. Thou knowest, Lord! Thou knew'st my life's dear story. The Searcher of Hearts.

No. 3 pub. 1882; 1, 2, 4, 5 pub. 1891; 6 pub. 1898. [J. M.]

Hawkins, E., d. on Oct. 5, 1868, and not in 1866, as given on p. 499, ii.

Hawkins, Hester Feriam, p. 1270, i. Her hymns, in the Home H. Bk., 1885, have almost all passed into other collections. The seven given with her initials "H. F. H." in the Home H. Bk. are:—

1. Father of all, again we meet. p. 1523.
2. Heavenly Father, Thou hast brought us. Golden Wedding.
3. Good Shepherd, see Thy little lamb. Evening.
4. O Thou the great Unknown, Unseen. The Thought of God.
5. The twilight softly falling. Sunday Evening.
6. Thy little one, O Saviour dear. Morning.
7. To Thee, the lover of all good. For Mothers.

Mrs. Hawkins informs me that the following in the Home H. Book, 1885, are also by her:—

8. I come to Thee, my Father. Birthdays.
9. In the Name of God our Father. Beginning of Term.
10. Love, loving Saviour. The Love of Jesus.
11. Now the days are dark and dreary. Winter.
12. Now the days are fresh and bright. Spring.
13. The happy days have come again. Beck of Term.
14. There is a bright and happy home. Heaven.

Hay, John, diplomat and author, b. at Salem, Ind., Oct. 8, 1838; graduated at Brown University 1858; admitted to the Ill. Bar; was private secretary to Pres. Lincoln; served in the Civil War; member of the Legation at Paris, Madrid, and Vienna, and Ambassador at the Court of St. James. In 1870–81 he was First Assistant Sec. of State, and from 1898 Sec. of State in the Cabinets of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, to his death July 1, 1905. His publications included Castilian Days, 1871; and, with J. G. Nicolay, Abraham Lincoln: A History, 10 vols., 1887, &c. In 1871 he also pub. Pike County Ballads, and in 1890 Poems. Of his poems the following are in C. U. as hymns:—

1. From Sinai's cloud of darkness. [Law and the Gospel.] This begins with st. ii. of his poem, "Hail to the Lord's Anointed," in his Poems, 1890. As to date and origin, Mr. Hay said: "I wrote the hymn several years ago, because I felt like it. I can say nothing more intelligible than that." It was included in the New London Inwelet, N.Y., 1892.

2. Lord, from far-severed climes we come. [Work on for God.] In the summer of 1893, at his summer home in Newbury, New Hampshire, Mr. Hay wrote this hymn for the opening of the 19th International Christian Endeavour Convention, at Washington, the following year, but declined on the ground that his verse-writing days were past. But in the following spring he sent this hymn, with the statement that there was no obligation to use it. In his MS. it is entitled "An Invocation." It was printed in the Christian Endeavor World, June 28, 1894, again at the Convention on July 4, 1895, when the opening exercises assumed the form of a memorial service, as his body was being borne to the grave. It is in several American collections. In The Methodist Hyl., N.Y., 1905, it opens with st. ii., "Defend us, Lord, from every ill." The original is in 6 st. of 4 l.

3. Thy will be done. [Submission.] Appointed in 3 st. of 4 l. in Harper's New Monthly Magazine, Oct. 1891, and entitled "Thy will be done." Given with alterations in Dr. L. Abbott's Plymouth Hyl., N.Y., 1894.

Mr. Hay was for some time an office-bearer in the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, Washington, D.C. [L. F. B.]

Haycraft, Margaret Scott, née Mac-Ritchie, born at Newport Pagnell, Bucks, now (1906) resides at Bournemouth. She contributes to various periodicals, has written many services of song, and several vols. of prose and verse. At the request of the Rev. C. Bonner she contributed the following (with a few shorter pieces) to the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896, the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, and the Junior Hyl., 1906.

1. Bless the Lord for ever, still his praise prolong. Praise to God. 1896, No. 16.
2. Green the hills and lovely. Boyhood of Jesus. Written 1894; 1905, No. 30.
3. In golden light of early days. Children's Praises. 1896, No. 58.
4. Let there be light at eventide. Parting Hymn. 1896, No. 100.
5. Thou art my Shepherd, Caring for all my need. Ps. xxiii. This is in W. R. Bradley's New Golden Shower, 1900, p. 107, and Chariots, 1897, p. 319, marked as by Miss Thalheimer (in Hys. and Choral Songs, Manchester, 1894, No. 167, as "O God, my Shepherd"). Also in Hys. and Choral Songs, 1894, No. 167, and Golden Sheaf. This is in S. S. Hymnary text, 1905. [J. M.]

Hayes, Alfred, M.A., son of E. J. Hayes, Town Clerk of Birmingham, was born at Wolverhampton in 1857, and educated at King Edward's school, Birmingham, and New College, Oxford. At the present time (1906) he is the Secretary of the Midland Institute, Birmingham. He has pub. The Lost Crusade and Other Poems, 1886; The March of Man and Other Poems, 1891, and other poetical works. His hymn "Two thousand troubled years" (Christmas) was written at the request of a friend, circa 1896, and pub. with music by Sir F. Bridge (Novello & Co.). It was included in Horder's Worship Song, 1905. [J. J.]

He leadeth me, O blessed thought, p. 434, i. Mr. Gilmore's hymn in its original form had a refrain of two lines only. In its popular form this has been expanded into four lines (the addition being by an unknown hand), as in F. Phillips's Singing Pilgrim, 1866. The hymn is very popular in America. [L. F. B.]

He leads us on By paths we did not know. [God's Guidance.] This appears in Our Home beyond the Tide (Glasgow, 1872, p. 94), a hymn book compiled by Ellen E. Miles, where it is given as Anon. It is in various recent hymnals, and sometimes, as in the Meth. Free Ch. Hys., 1889, No. 509, marked as "Count Zinzendorf, about 1750. Tr. H. L. L." We have failed to find any trace of it in Miss Borthwick's works. It seems to be the composition of a Unitarian who desired to write a companion hymn to Miss Borthwick's version from Zinzendorf, "Jesus, still lead on" (p. 580, ii.). In the Unitarian 1871 Supp. to their Sunday School H. Book, it begins, "God leads us on," &c. [J. M.]

He wants not friends that hath Thy love. H. Baxter. [The Communion of Saints.] This, in The Boyal. Hyl., 1906, No. 401, is a canto from Baxter's poem, "The Resolution," in his Post. Fragments, 1681, pp. 51–61. The poem is headed "Written when I was silenced and cast out," and dated Dec. 3, 1663. The first stanza is "Lord, I have cast up the accounts." [J. M.]

He Who a little child began, in the Scottish Cong. Hyl., 1903, is taken from "A little child, the Saviour came," p. 2, ii.

Hear what God the Lord hath spoken, p. 502, ii. In the MS. volume described under Cowper, W., p. 1833, ii., this hymn, given at pp. 211–213, concludes a letter from J. Newton which is dated "Aug. 1773." See Notes and Queries, Sept. 24, 1904. [J. J.]

Hearn, Marianne [Farningham], pp. 502, ii.; 1247, ii. Miss Hearn pub. in 1903 Harvest Gleanings and Gathered Fragments. Other hymns by her in C. U. include:—

1. Angels, with Jesus. [Fellow Christ.] In her Lily and Cross, 1895, p. 120.
2. Christ, we children sing to Thee. [Praise to Jesus.] Written for C. Bonar's Carland of Rose S. S. Music, 1881 (1880, No. 2).
3. He smiled as He stretched out His hand in glad welcome. [God's Call.] In the Baptist Junior Hyl., 1901, No. 4.
4. Just as I am, Thine own to be. [Fellow Christ.] Contributed to the Voice of Praise, 1897, No. 345.
5. Little feet are passing. [The Way to Heaven.] In her Poems, 1896, p. 271.
6. Sing, for the world rejoiceth. (Spring.) Contributed to the Voice of Praise, 1897, No. 676.

We may note that "Father! abide with us," p. 966, ii. is by her, from Lays and Lyrics, 1869, p. 143. [J. M.]

Heath, Eliza. Her hymn, "Praise the Lord: sing 'Hallelujah'" [Easter], appeared in the Irvingite Hys. for the Use of the Churches, 1864 (dated in the Index of the 1871 ed., No. 159, as 1852), and passed from thence into the Church Hymnary (Scottish), 1898. We have no information regarding the authoress, except the notice in the Standard of Dec. 29, 1905: "On Dec. 27th, 1905, at No. 4, The Cloisters, Gordon Square, Eliza Heath, in her 76th year." [J. M.]

Heaven is here, where hymns of gladness. An altered form in the Amer. Pilgrim Hyl., 1904 (attributed there to John Quincy Adams), of "Heaven is here, its hymns of gladness," by J. G. Adams, p. 16, i. 1.

Heavy, O Lord, on me Thy Judgments lie, p. 1247, i. This appears in the Miscellany Poems (1693, pt. iii., p. 393), of Dryden and others as "Considerations on the Eighty-eighth Psalm, by Mr. Prior." [J. M.]

Hedge, F. H., p. 504, i. B. Dec. 12, 1805.

Heer Jesus heeft een Hofken. [The Lord's Garden.] This is in the Goedlyske Harmonia, Zonnerick, 1633, p. 87; and is included in the Oude en nieuwe Kerstliederen, ed. J. A. and L. J. Alberdingk-Thijm, Amsterdam, 1852, No. 157. Tr. as:—

Our Master hath a garden which fair flowers adorn. By the Rev. S. S. Greatheed, in the Rationalist, 1856, p. 48. Included in the People's Hyl., 1867, St. Margaret's Hyl. (East Grinstead), 1892, Arundel Hyl., 1902, and the New Ogbne H. Bk., 1905. [J. M.]

Held, Heinrich, p. 507, ii. The account given in the Fischer-Tümpel Deutsche evangelische Kirchenlied des siebzehnten Jahrhunderts, vol. i., 1904, p. 360, states that Held was b. July 21, 1620, at Guhran, in Silesia, settled as advocate at Freustadt in Posen, became in 1657 town clerk at Altdamm, near Stettin, and d. Aug. 16, 1659, at Stettin. This, if correct, explains why so many of his hymns are first traceable in Pomeranian books, and explains why his posthumous work on Prosody should have been prepared for publication in 1661 by a Stargard bookseller. [J. M.]

Hemans, Felicia D., p. 509, i. No. 11, "I hear thee speak of the better land," and No. 12, "Leaves have their time to fall," appeared in J. Curtis's Union Coll., 1837, p. 276, i., and then in her Poetical Works, 1828.

Hensley, L., p. 511, i., was b. May 20, 1824, and d. suddenly in a railway train, near Great Ryburgh, Norfolk, Aug. 1, 1905.

Her Virgin eyes saw God incarnate born. T. Aem. [The Mother of our Lord.] This, in The Engl. Hyl., 1906, No. 217, is a canto of lines gathered together from a poem entitled "Sion: or, Philotheus," in Bp. Ken's Works, 1721, vol. iv., pp. 270, &c.; the canto beginning at the line "When she to Bethlem came that happy morn." [J. M.]

Herbert, Annie. This name is given by Mr. Sankey in his My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, as the writer of the hymn, "When the mists have rolled in splendour" ("We shall know as we are known), and was sung by him for the first time in the Free Trade Hall, Manchester, in 1883. It has become one of the most popular of his Sacred Songs and Solos. [J. J.]

Here let Thy holy days be kept. From J. Ferrar's "O flow Thine ear, Eternal One," p. 990, ii. 13.

Heri mundus exultavit, p. 513, i. and 1570, ii. The "Heri mundus" text is in a MS. of c. 1200, written apparently at Citeaux, and now in the B. M. (Add. 11723, f. 59b). The "Mundus heri" text is in Irvenes, viii., p. 213. We must note that Dr. Neale's fr. "Yesterday with exultation" first appeared in his Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862, p. 8, and then in his Med. Hys., 1863. [J. M.]

1618 HERR! DU HIMMEL-BLAU

Herr! du hast in deinem Reich. C Nonnen. [On the Angels. For children.] Appeared in the 5th ed. c. 1700, of the Breslau Kirchen- und Haus-Music (see p. 794, ii.) at p. 1100, misprinted 2010, as the second hymn on the Angels. In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 1351. Tr. as :—

In Thy heavenly Kingdom, Lord. By Alexander Brown, contributed to the Scottish Congregational Hyl., 1903, No. 533. [J. M.]

Herzlich Lieb, p. 1004. ii. Another tr. is "Ah! good Lord, Thine own dear Angel send," by G. R. Woodward, beginning with st. iii., as No. 210 in his Songs of Syon, 2nd ed., 1905. [J. M.]

Herzliebster Jesu, p. 617, ii. Additional trs. are :—

1. Ah, holy Jesu, how hast Thou offended. In the Falkenau Hyl., 1886, No. 42, marked as "Roman, from" St. Augustine, by R. R.," and with the note at p. 1100, ii., misprinted as to the date. Repeated in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 76.

2. Ah! dearest Jesu, what was Thy transgression. Also a very free version, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 31. [J. M.]

He's come, let every knee be bent, p. 1078, ii. We have found this in The Divine Companion, or David's Harp now Tun'd. By Henry Playford, 3rd ed. (not in the 1st), 1709, p. 23, as "An hymn for Whit Sunday," in 8 st. of 4 l. [J. M.]

Heu! Heu! mala mundi vita, p. 619, ii. Also in a MS. of c. 1300 in the B. M. (Arundel 374, f. 69b, as "Heu! heu! mundi vita"), in an 11th cent. MS. at Bern, No. 424, &c.

Heut triumphiret Gottes Sohn. [Easter.] This appeared in 16 sts. in the Kindergsiegad, printed at Eisleben in 1591, of Caspar Stolsagius, then Lutheran pastor at Iglau in Moravia, and may possibly be his (see Blätter für Hymnskunde, 1885, p. 92). It passed, in varying forms, into the Lutheran hymnbooks after 1600, and has been ascribed, without reason, to Basilius Förtsch, Jacob Ebert and others. In the Berlin G. L. S., ed. 1863, No. 298. Tr. as :—

To-day, God's only-gotten Son. By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 56. [J. M.]

Heywood, John, b. in 1808, and d. July 13, 1887. He was printer and postmaster at Heywood, Lancashire, and founder of the Heywood Advertiser, which attained its Jubilee in 1905. He was the author of the hymn "Sabbath Schools are England's glory," which was written in Bethel Street Methodist Chapel during a sermon in which the preacher exclaimed "Sabbath schools! they are the glory of England." This was c. 1840. The hymn was printed as a leaflet, and was widely used in Lancashire for many years. (See Heywood Advertiser, June 16, 1905.) [J. J.]

Hic est dies verus Dei. [Easter.] Probably by St. Ambrose. In the Rule of St. Aurelian of Arles (d. 555) it is appointed for the whole Easter season up to Whit Sunday, at Matins and Vespers. Dreves, in his Aurelius Ambrosius, 1893, p. 136, prints it from the Vatican Reg. 11, f. 223b, of the 8th or 9th cent., and others (see also pp. 27, 79, 133). It is in a MS. of c. 800 in the Bodleian (Junius 25, f. 129), and many later. Printed text in Werner, No. 58, Mone, No. 167, Daniel, i., No. 39, and iv., p. 17, &c. Tr. as :—

This is the day the Lord hath made. In unicalcubed light array'd. By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 2nd ed. 1905, No. 103. [J. M.]

Hic functionis dies est. [Burial of the Dead.] This is in a 10th cent. Mozarabic Hymnarium formerly at Toledo and now at Madrid, and in the slightly later Mozarabic Hymnarium in the B. M. (Add. 30851, f. 161); in both cases beginning "Hinc functionis." Printed text in Dreves, xxvii., No. 210; Migne's P.P. Lat., lxxxvi., 923, &c. Tr. as :—

To-day the passing bell doth toll. By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 137. [J. M.]

His reparandarum, pp. 621, i., and 1170, ii. This is printed in Hartel's ed. of the Epistolæ of St. Paulinus, of Nola, Vienna, 1894, p. 279 (Corpus Scriptorum, vol. 28), from a 10th cent. MS. in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Lat. 2122), and others. [J. M.]

Hickson, William Edward, s. of William Hickson, boot manufacturer, of Smithfield, London, was b. Jan. 7, 1803; retired from business 1840; d. March 22, 1870, at Fairseat, Sevenoaks, Kent. Three pieces from his Singing Master, 1836, have come into somewhat extensive use.

1. God bless our native land (p. 1566, ii.).
2. Let us now in praise, and sing. [Praise to God.] 1836, p. 46. Tr. 1. No. 421. It was rewritten by the Rev. C. Bateman as "Come, children, join to sing" (p. 344, i.).
3. Now to hear's our cry (prayers) succeeding. God speed the right. [National.] 1836, as above (reprint on cards, No. 85). This is repeated in W. B. Bradbury's Young Melodist, 1845, p. 132, and many in or American books.

With regard to "God bless our native land," we find that in the 1st ed. of the Singing Master, 1836, Hickson's hymn was in 3 stanzas only (p. 1566, ii.). [J. M.]

Hilary, St., pp. 522, i., and 1170, ii. Isidore of Seville and others come both speak of Hilary as a hymn writer, but it is by no means certain that any of his genuine hymns have survived. Mr. E. W. Watson, in his St. Hilary of Poitiers, Select Works, 1899 (Select Library of Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, vol. ix.), discusses the subject in his Introduction, pp. xlvi.-xlviii., and concludes that none are genuine. He thinks that the recently discovered Liber Hymnorum (see p. 1270, ii.) may have been compiled in Hilary's time, but that he cannot be accepted as the author of any of the surviving hymns in that collection. Canon A. J. Mason in the Journal of Theological Studies, vol. v., April, 1904, pp. 413-452, thinks that the recently discovered hymns are genuine, collects many parallel passages from the undoubted works of Hilary, and is indeed inclined to attribute also the "Lucis largitor splendide" and the "Hymnum dicat" (see pp. 522, ii., 523, i., ii.) to St. Hilary. A later article by the Rev. A. S. Walpole (vol. vi., p. 269, July, 1905), while accepting the newly discovered hymns, and the "Hymnum dicat," adds various reasons against accepting the other hymns attributed to Hilary by Daniel (see p. 522, ii.). [J. M.]

Himmel-blau, dich beschaun. [Holy Communion.] This appeared in the Heil- und Hülfs-Mittel, Bcix. 1767, p. 328, in 3 sts. In many recent R. C. books, e.g. the Trier G. B.,

HINCKS, T. HONE, W. 1619

1846, p. 131, and the St. Gall G. B., 1863, it begins "Himmelau, licht und blau." Tr. as :—

1. Heaven, steep, blue, and deep. By Miss Hopper, as No. 203, in F. Paxton Hoyt's Children's Year, 1878.
2. O vault of heaven, clear and bright. In Hys and Songs for Children, 1880, No. 1, and the Rev. Alfred Young's Cath. Hyl., N.Z., 1894, No. 101.
3. Clear vault of heaven, serenely blue. By Father Matthew Russell, in the Messenger of the Sacred Heart, April, 1871, p. 175, and his Singers and Complins, 1880.
4. Fair blue sky, up on high. By Edith Thirlaf, in her Our Inheritance, 1886, p. 44. [J. M.]

Hincks, T., p. 536, i. He d. Jan. 25, 1890.

Hinsdale, Grace W., née Haddock, p. 536, ii. She d. Aug. 31, 1902. Her pen name is "Faria."

Hodder, Edwin, p. 1571, i., was b. Dec. 13, 1837, at Staines, Middlesex, and went to New Zealand in 1856. After his return he joined the English Civil Service in 1861, retiring in 1897, and finally resided at Henfield, Sussex. He d. March 1, 1904. He was the author of many works, biographical, devotional and other, the earliest being Memories of New Zealand Life, 1862, and the latest The Life of a Century, 1900. His hymns appeared in his New S. S. Bk., 1863, and 2nd ed. 1868, including :—

1. Father, give us now Thy blessing. Close of School.
2. Lord, we are met to learn Thy will. Opening Hymn.
3. The night was still, and wearing winds. H. to L.
4. The various loves all children. Jesus the Children's Friend.
5. Thy Word is like a garden, Lord. Holy Scripture.

Of these Nos. 1, 3, 5, appeared in 1863, Nos. 2, 4 were added in 1868. [J. M.]

Hodiernæ lucis diei. [D. V. M.] Sometimes ascribed to Adam of S. Victor; but M. Gastier, in his ed. of Adam, 1894, p. 249, says the ascription is doubtful and does not print the text. It is in a MS. of c. 1159 in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Lat. 1119, f. 175b); in an Italian 12th cent. MS. in the Bodleian (Liturg. Misc., 340, f. 142); in an early 13th cent. German MS. in the B. M. (Add. 24680, f. 62b); in a Sarum Missal of c. 1250, now at Manchester, f. 245b; in the York, Hereford, and many other missals. Mone, No. 360, prints it from a 12th cent. MS. at Salzburg; also in Zeitschr., No. 202. Tr. as :—"Let to-day above all other," by T. I. Ball, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 148. [J. M.]

Hohenlohe-Waldenburg-Schillings-fürst, Prince Alexander Leopold Franz Bernhard, b. at Kupferzell, near Oehringen, Württemberg, Aug. 17, 1794; became R. C. Canon of Grosswardein 1821; titular Bishop of Sardica in partibus 1844, and d. at Vadan, near Vienna, Nov. 14, 1849. See "Ad quem dis suspiravi." [J. M.]

Holden, John Stuart, M.A., b. in Liverpool in 1870, and educated at Liverpool Coll., and Corpus Christi Coll., Camb.; B.A. 1893; M.A. 1902. Ordained to the curacy of Walcot in 1899, he became in 1901 a Mission Preacher in connection with the Parochial Miss. Soc., and in 1905 Vicar of St. Paul's, Portman Square, London. He is prominently identified with the Keswick Convention, and visited China as a deputation in 1904. He is the author of several hymns, including "Lord, we come before Thee, In our Saviour's name" (On behalf of the Jews) in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1902. [J. J.]

Holland, Henry Scott, D.D., s. of G. H. Holland of Gayton Lodge, Wimbledon Common, was b. Jan. 27, 1847, at Ledbury, Hereford, and educated at Eton and at Balliol Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1870, M.A. 1875, D.D. Aberdeen 1905). He became Senior Student of Christ Church, Oxford, in 1870, was ordained D. 1872, P. 1874, and has been Canon of St. Paul's, London, since 1884. His hymn, "Judge eternal, throned in splendour" (Prayer for the Nation), appeared in the Commonwealth for July 1900, and is in The Engl. Hyl., 1906, No. 425. [J. M.]

Holland, J. G., p. 537, ii. His Christmas Carol, "There's a star in the sky," from The Mystic Prophecy and other Poems, 1872, is included in the American Methodist Hymnal, 1905. He d. Oct. 12, 1881. [L. F. B.]

Holmes, O. W., p. 538, i. His Songs in Many Keys was published in 1861, his Poems, 1891, and the Cambridge edition of his Complete Poetical Works, 1895. Additional hymns of his have come into C. U. of late, including :—

1. Lord, where the banners wave last in the sun. [American National Hymn.] Appeared in his Poems in Many Keys, 1861 (7th ed. 1884, p. 289) as "Freedom, our Queen."
2. Lord, Thou hast led us as of old. [Provincial Unity.] In his Before the Curfew and other Poems, chiefly occasional, Boston, 1888, as "An hymn set forth to be sung by the Great Assembly at Newtown [Mass.]." In the Complete Poetical Works it is dated 1886. The hymn is in use in the Congregational Church, the Unitarian Church and Home, Boston, 1890, in composed of sts. v.-viii.
3. Our Father, while our hearts unlearn The creeds that wrong Thy name. [Fatherly of the Spirit.] Written for the 25th Anniversary Reorganization of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, May 31, 1875. In his Complete Poetical Works, p. 246, Horder's Worship Song, 2nd ed., as "Our Father."
4. Thou gracious (God) Power Whose mercy lends. [Harvard.] Written for the annual meeting of the Immortal class '29, Harvard University, in 1868. In the Mem. H. U., 1904, it begins "Thou gracious God, whose mercy lends." [L. F. B.]

Holroyde, James, M.A., was b. June 28, 1830, and educated at Clitheroe Grammar School, and Emmanuel Coll., Cambridge; B.A., 1873; M.A., 1876. Ordained in 1875, he held several curacies, and is now (1906) Vicar of Stapleford, Notts. His hymn, "Spirit of Holiness, do Thou" (Holy Spirit desired), was written for the 1902 ed. of Hys. of Consecration and Faith. [J. J.]

Holy Father, cheer our way, p. 969, i. This hymn, as given in Stopford A. Brooke's Christian Hys., 1881, and Hunter's Hys. of Faith and Life, 1899, is a rewritten form of R. H. Robinson's hymn by Mr. Brooke.

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, p. 970, ii. The earliest printed form of this hymn known to us is in Coll. of Ps. and Hys. for the Parish Ch. of Hanbury, 3rd ed., 1826.

Holy Spirit, Infinite. An altered and abbreviated form of G. Rawson's "Come to our poor nature's night," p. 859, i., in the Amer. Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

Homo Dei creatura, p. 859, ii. The full text of the Reichenau MS., in 89 sts., is printed in Dreves, xxxiii., No. 262. The text and title as in Horæ are found in Thomas Scilly's Thesaurus Ideadorum, 1509, p. 274. [J. M.]

Hone, W., p. 1571, ii. He was b. at Bath, June 3, 1780, was a publisher and bookseller in London, and d. Nov. 6, 1842. His hymn :—

The proudest heart that ever beat, was written on Hope on, hope on! The golden days. G. Thring. [Hope.] From his Hys. & Verses, 1866, p. 59, into some American collections.

Hopkins, J. H., p. 1071, i. The following additional hymns by him are in the Amer. Hymnal, revised and enlarged . . . Protestant Episcopal Church . . . U.S.A., 1892:—

1. God of our fathers, bless this our land. National Hymn.
2. When from this east this west has come. Epiphany. [J. J.]

Hopper, E., p. 533, i. He died in 1888.

Horder, W. G., p. 1031, i. Mr. Horder removed from Wood Green, London, to College Chapel, Bradford, in 1893, and then to Ealing Congregational Church, London, in 1905. In addition to the works named on p. 1031, i, he has published the following contributions to hymnological literature:—

(1) The Hymn Lover, 2nd and revised edition, 1885; (2) The Treasury of American sacred song, 1896, enlarged ed., 1900; (3) Hymns Supplemental to Existing Collections, 1901; (4) Worship Song, with Accompanying Tunes, 1905.

In 1897 the Howard University, Washington, conferred upon him the D.D. degree in recognition of his hymnological work. [J. J.]

Hosanna to the royal Son. I. Watts. [Christmas.] Pub. in his Hymns, &c., 1707, p. 17, in 4 st. of 4 l. (1709 ed., Bk. i., No. 16), and entitled "Hosanna to Christ."

Hoskins, Joseph, pp. 535, ii., 1071, ii. The following additional hymns by Hoskins are in The New Ps. and Hys. (Presbyterian), Richmond, Va., 1901:—

1. It shall be well, let sinners know. The Promise of God.
2. Sinners, behold the Lamb of God. The Atonement; and in the Book of Worship with Hys. and Tunes . . . of the Evang. Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, 1880:—
3. Go Christ, by faith, my soul would live, from "Let thoughtless thousands," &c., p. 1071, ii. These hymns are from his Hymns, &c., 1789. [J. M.]

Hosmer, Frederick Lucian, B.A., was b. at Framingham, Mass., in 1840, and educated at Harvard, where he graduated B.A. in 1860. Entering the Unitarian Ministry in 1872 he has held charges in Quincy, Ill., 1872–77; Cleveland, Ohio, 1878–92; St. Louis, 1894–99; and since 1900, at Berkeley, Cal. His Way of Life, 1877, was a compilation of Prayers and Responsive Services for Sunday Schools. Of Unity Hys. and Carols, 1880, he was joint editor with W. C. Gannett and J. V. Blake. His hymns were pub. jointly by him and W. C. Gannett (q.v.), as The Thought of God in Hymns and Poems (Boston: Little, Brown & Co.), 1st Series, 1885; 2nd Series, 1894. Of his 56 hymns in this work the following have come into C. U., for the most part during the past ten years:—

1. Father, to Thee we look in all our sorrow. [Trust in God.] Written in 1881 upon the death of a member of the author's congregation, and pub. in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885.
2. From age to age how grandly rise. [Unity.] Written for the annual festival of the Free Religious Assoc., Boston, June 5, 1890, and first pub. in Souvenir Festival Hye, 1899. Subsequently altered by the author to "From age to age the prophet's vision."
3. From age to age they gather, all the brave of heart. [Dedication.] Written for the Dedication of Unity Church, Dayton, Iowa, and pub. in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894.
4. From many ways and wide apart. [Uniting or School Reunion.] Dated in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894, as having been written in 1886.
5. Go out, my soul, in search of Him. [God Within.] Written in 1875, and first pub. in the Christian Register, May 31, 1879, and included in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885, with the title, "The Indwelling God."
6. I cannot think of them as dead. [Eternal Life.] Written in 1862, and first pub. in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885, and entitled "My Dead." In the English collections it is usually given as "We cannot think of them as dead."
7. I live on a little knee. [Trust.] "A Psalm of Trust," written in 1883, first appeared in the Boston Christian Register, and again in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885.
8. Immortal by their dead and word. [The Spirit of Jesus.] Written in 1890, and first pub. in Unity Hye. and Carols, Chicago, Ill., 1890, and then in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894.
9. Many things in life there are. [Mystery in all Things.] Written in 1885, and first pub. in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885, with the title "Passing Understanding," and the quotation "The Peace of God which passeth all understanding."
10. Not always on the mount may we. [On the Mount.] This hymn from the Transfiguration was written in 1884, and pub. in the Christian Leader, April 5, 1884. After revision by the author, it was included in the 1st Series of The Thought of God, 1885.
11. Not when, with self dissatisfied, [Lent.] Written in 1881, and given in The Thought of God, 2nd series, 1894, p. 31. It is in The Public School H. Book, 1912, and others.
12. O beautiful, my country. [National Hymn.] As "Our Country," written in 1884, and pub. in the Chicago Unity Festivals, 1884; and again in The Thought of God, 1894.
13. O Light, from age to age the same. [Unitarian Anniversary.] Written in 1890 for the fiftieth anniversary of the Second Congregational Church (Unitarian), Quincy, Ill. Included in The Thought of God, 2nd series, 1894, as entitled "From Generation to Generation."
14. O Love, how deep, how broad, how high. [God.] "Written in 1890 for Easter service in Author's own church," and first pub. in the Chicago Unity, and again in The Thought of God, 2nd series, 1894. The "Alleluia" refrain, which is added to some collections to each verse, is appended, in the original, to the last verse only.
15. O Name, all other names above. [Trust in God.] Under the title "Through unknown paths," this hymn will yet find their true home in Time." This hymn, written in 1885, was given in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885.
16. O Prophet souls of all the years. [Unity.] "Written in 1893 for, and sung at, the Unitarian gathering in connection with The World's Parliament of Religions (World's Fair), Chicago, Ill., 1893," and entitled "Unity." Given in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894, and entitled "Our Law, Our Life, our Love."
17. O Thou, Who art of all that is. [God All in All.] This hymn, given in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885, with the title "The Mystery of God," was written in 1876, and first pub. in the New York Inquirer.
18. O thou in lonely vigil led. This encouragement for lonely workers was written for the "Emerson Commemoration, W. U. C., 1882," and included in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885.
19. O Thou, Who art of all that is. [Divine Guidance.] Under the title "Through unknown paths," this hymn was included in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885. It was written in 1877.
20. O Thou, Whose Spirit witness bears. [Dedication of a Place of Worship.] Written for the dedication of the Unity Church, Omaha, Neb., in 1891, and pub. in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894, with the title "The Inward Witness," and the subscription "For T. K., Omaha, 1891."
21. On eyes that watch through sorrow's night. [Easter.] A Carol for Easter Morn, written in 1890 for the author's congregation, and pub. in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894.

22. One thought I have, my single creed. [The Spirit in the Heart.] Written in 1885, and included in the Thought of God, 1st series, 1885, and supplies the title to the work. It was written in 1868, and first pub. in the Chicago Unity Hymns and Carols, 1864, and then in The Thought of God, 1885.
23. The rose is queen among the flowers. [Flower Services.] Written in 1875, first pub. in The Swanwick, a song book for use in schools, and then in the Book of Worship with Hys. and Tunes . . . of the Evang. Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, 1880:—
24. Thy kingdom come,—on bended knee. [Missions.] "Written in 1881 for the Commencement of the Meadville Theological School (Meadville, Pa.), June 15, 1881, and pub. in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894," under the title "The Day of God," and the subscription, "For the Day of God."
25. We are not made lowly wise, For miracle and sign. [Greater Faith Asked.] "Written in 1878, and first pub. in the Christian Register (Boston), Mar. 29 of that year, under the title 'The Larger Faith.'" Included under the same title in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885. Sometimes given as "Made lowly wise."
26. When courage fails, and faith burns low. [Victory of Truth.] Under the title "Loyalty," this hymn was given in The Thought of God, 1st Series, 1885. It was written in 1861.
27. Where sun on mounts of vision Have passed the veil within. [Dedication of a Place of Worship.] Written for the dedication of the Unity Church, Oakland, California," Included in The Thought of God, 2nd Series, 1894, entitled "Holy Places," and subscribed "For U. W. C., Oakland, Cal., 1891."

These annotations are from MS. notes supplied to us by the author. Of these hymns all are in C. U. in America, and more than one half in G. Britain, mainly by Unitarians and Congregationalists. Amongst Unitarian hymnwriters of the last twenty years Mr. Hosmer is the most powerful and original known to us. [J. J.]

Hoss, Elijah Embree, D.D., Bishop of the Amer. Methodist Episco. Church South, was b. in Washington County, Tenn., April 14, 1849, and graduated at Emory and Henry Coll., Va., 1869, of which he was subsequently President. He was Prof. in Vanderbilt University for some time, and from 1885 to 1890 editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate. His hymn, "O God, great Father, Lord and King" (Holy Baptism), was included in The Methodist Hymnal, N.Y., 1905. [L. F. B.]

Hostis Herodes impie. See A solis ortus cardine, Ad supra.

Housman, Henry, D.D. Born in 1832, and educated at King's Coll., London; St. John's Coll., Cambridge, and the University of Durham; B.D. 1867. He was ordained D. 1857, P. 1858, became Tutor in Chichester Coll. 1879, and Lect. in Greek and Hebrew 1883. Since 1896 he has been Rector of Bradley, Dioc. of Worcester. In 1896 he pub. a valuable work for hymnological students in John Ellerton: Being a Collection of his Writings on Hymnology. Together with a sketch of his Life and Works. His own poetical works are: The Four Knights of Sunce, and other Poems, 1896; and Also, and other Poems, 1900. His hymns include:—

1. Cherubim and Seraphim. [Processional for the Purification of the B. V. M.] Written in 1884, and pub. in his Four Knights, 1884.
2. Lord of love, and light, and glory. Written as a Processional for Worcester Cathedral, 1898. Music by Rev. E. Wise Hall, M.A.
3. Lo, the Lamb of God is risen! Hark! [Death and Burial.] An exceptionally good hymn, written in 1884, and set to music by A. S. Johnson, Mus.Bac. (Novello & Co.).
4. Thy Name, O Lord, is great. [Processional.] Written for, and sung at, the Triennial Festival of Chichester Theo. Coll., June 18, 1895, and included with music by Sir Joseph Barnby, in his Book of Praise.
5. To Thy Temple, Lord, we come. [Harvest.] A good Harvest Processional, with well adapted music, by the Rev. E. Jenkins, M.A. (Novello & Co.). It was written in 1902.

Mr. Housman's Post-Communion Hymn, "One with Thee now, dear Lord," is well suited for its purpose. Other hymns in his Four Knights may be consulted with advantage. [J. J.]

Housman, Lawrence, author and artist, was b. July 18, 1867, at Bromsgrove, Worcs. His devotional poetry is principally in his Spiritward, 1898, and Bethlehem, 1902. To the Engl. Hyl., 1906, he contributed eight trs. (142, 186, 191, 228, 225, 230, 231, 295); also three original hymns, with a fourth previously pub., viz.:—

1. Lord God of Hosts, within Whose hand. St. George.
2. The Maker of the sun and moon. Christmas. From Bethlehem, 1902, p. 71.
3. The saint who first found grace to pen. St. Mark.
4. Unto Christ was born in Bethlehem. Holy Innocents. [J. M.]

How blest is he whose tranquil mind, p. 1072, i., was given in Rippon's Selection of Ps. and Hys., 1795, No. 648, with its authorship as "Unknown."

How dread the thought! shall I alone? This, in the 1904 ed. of the Meth. H. Bk., No. 315, is an altered and abbreviated form of "Terrible thought! shall I alone?" p. 1264, ii., 373.

How glad was lost Samaria's street. Abp. E. W. Benson. [Confirmation.] This hymn in the Hymn Book for the Use of Wellington College, 1902, is dated Ibercim 1881.

How happy are the young who hear. An altered version of M. Bruce's "O happy is the man who hears," p. 834, ii.

How happy is he born and taught. H. Wotton. [Secret of Happiness.] From Izaak Walton's ed. of Wotton's Poems, &c., pub. as Reliquiæ Wottonianæ in 1651, p. 922, (p. 926, l.), into a few collections, and sometimes dated 1614. [J. J.]

How kind is the Saviour! how great is His love, p. 1072, i. This is the last of nine hymns, p. 60 in The Benighted Traveller, a Tale; and other Poems. By Edward Francis Hughes (London: C. A. Bartlett, 1846), in 5 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The Saviour's Love." Mr. Hughes also pub. The Millenium: an Epic Poem. Portland, Victoria, N.D. (1873.) [J. J.]

How near to us, O God, Thou art. [The Spirit in the Heart.] An anonymous and undated hymn in Dr. J. Hunter's Hys. of Faith and Life, 1880, and The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

How shall a sinner find? This, in the 1904 ed. of the Meth. H. Bk., No. 329, is a rearranged form of "Out of the deep I cry," in 5 st. of 6 l., p. 1265, ii. 134.

How shall I sing that Majesty. J. Mason. [Praise.] From his Spiritual Songs, &c., 1683, Sing i., into The English Hymnal, 1906.

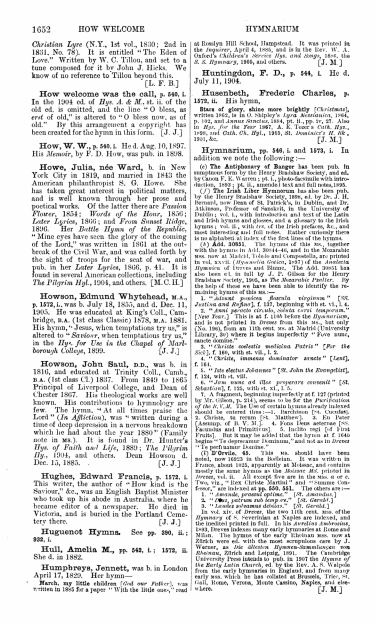
How sweet to reflect on the joys that await me, p. 1072, i. We have found this hymn in the 2nd vol. of Joshua Leavitt's



1652 HOW WELCOME HYMNARIUM

Christian Lyre (N.Y., 1st vol., 1830; 2nd in 1831, No. 78). It is entitled "The Eden of Love." Written by W. C. Tillou, and set to a tune composed for it by John J. Hicks. We know of no reference to Tillou beyond this. [L. F. B.]

How welcome was the call, p. 540, i. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., st. i. of the old ed. is omitted, and the line "O bless, as ever of old," is altered to "O bless now, as of old." By this arrangement a copyright has been created for the hymn in this form. [J. J.]

How, W. W., p. 540, i. He d. Aug. 10, 1897. His Memoir, by F. D. How, was pub. in 1898.

Howe, Julia, née Ward, b. in New York City in 1819, and married in 1843 the American philanthropist S. G. Howe. She has taken great interest in political matters, and is well known through her prose and poetical works. Of the latter there are Passion Flower, 1854; Words of the Hour, 1856; Later Lyrics, 1866; and From Sunset Ridge, 1898. Her Battle Hymn of the Republic, "Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord," was written in 1861 at the outbreak of the Civil War, and was called forth by the sight of troops for the seat of war, and pub. in her Later Lyrics, 1866, p. 41. It is found in several American collections, including The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, and others. [M. C. H.]

Howson, Edmund Whytehead, M.A., p. 1572, i, was b. July 18, 1835, and d. Dec. 11, 1905. He was educated at King's Coll., Cambridge, B.A. (1st class Classic) 1878, M.A. 1881. His hymn, "Jesus, when temptations try us," is altered to "Saviour, when temptations try us," in the Hyp. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1899. [J. J.]

Howson, John Saul, D.D., was b. in 1816, and educated at Trinity Coll., Camb., B.A. (1st class C.) 1837. From 1840 to 1865 Principal of Liverpool College, and Dean of Chester 1867. His theological works are well known. His contributions to hymnology are few. The hymn, "At all times praise the Lord" (In Affliction), was "written during a time of deep depression in a nervous breakdown which he had about the year 1880" (Family note in MS.). It is found in Dr. Hunter's Hys. of Faith and Life, 1892; The Pilgrim Hy., 1904, and others. Dean Howson d. Dec. 15, 1885. [J. J.]

Hughes, Edward Francis, p. 1572, i. This writer, the author of "How kind is the Saviour," &c., was an English Baptist Minister who took up his abode in Australia, where he became editor of a newspaper. He died in Victoria, and is buried in the Portland Cemetery there. [J. J.]

Huguenot Hymns. See pp. 390, ii.; 932, i.

Hull, Amelia M., pp. 542, i.; 1572, ii. She d. in 1882.

Humphreys, Jennett, was b. in London April 17, 1829. Her hymn—

March, my little children (Out over Fifty), was written in 1885 for a paper "With the little ones," read at Roslyn Hill School, Hampstead. It was printed in the Inquirer, April 4, 1885, and is in the Rev. W. A. Oxford's Children's Service Hys. and Songs, 1887, the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, and others. [J. M.]

Huntington, F. D., p. 544, i. He d. July 11, 1904.

Husenbeth, Frederic Charles, p. 1572, ii. His hymn,

Stars of glory, shine more brightly (Christmas), written 1845, is in G. Shipley's Lyra Messianica, 1864, p. 102, and Annus Sanctus, 1884, pt. ii., pp. iv, 57. Also in Hys. for the Year 1867, A. R. Tozer's Cath. Hys., 1896, and Cath. Ch. Hyl., 1905, St. Dominick's H. Bk., 1905, &c. [J. M.]

Hymnarium, pp. 540, i. and 1573, i. In addition we note the following:—

(a) The Antiphonary of Bangor has been pub. in compleatum form by the Henry Bradshaw Society, and ed. by Canon F. E. Warren: pt. i., photo-facsimile with introduction, 1893: pt. ii., amended text and full notes, 1895.

(b) The Irish Liber Hymnorum has also been pub. by the Henry Bradshaw Society, 1898, ed. by Dr. J. H. Bernard, now Dean of St. Patrick's, in Dublin, and Dr. Robert Atkinson, Professor of Celtic in the University of Dublin: vol. i., with introduction and text of the Latin and Irish hymns and glosses, and a glossary to the Irish hymns; vol. ii., with rest of the Irish prefaces, &c., and most interesting and full notes. Rather curiously there is no alphabetical index of the first lines of the hymns.

Add. 30851. The hymns of this MS. (together with those in Add. 30850, and Harl. 5612) which are Irish in character, now at Madrid, Toledo and Compostella, are printed in vol. xxvii. (Hymnodia Gotica, 1907) of the Analecta Hymnica of Dreves and Blume. The Add. 30851 has also been ed. in full by J. F. Gilson for the Henry Bradshaw Society, 1908, as The Benedictine Psalter. By the help of these we have been able to identify the remaining hymns as follows:—

1. "Adiuuat pastores Sanctis uirginum." [Of Justicia and Scilus], f. 127, beginning with st. vi., l. 4.

2. "Anni pacatis circuli, octoni terni temporum." [New Year.] This is at f. 114b before the Hymnarium, and is not printed in Dreves from this MS., but only (No. 196), from an 11th cent. MS. at Madrid (University Library, No. 31), where it begins imperfectly "Pone nunc, sancte domine."

3. "Christe sedentis sedulus Patris" [Per the Sed.], f. 106, with st. vii., l. 3.

4. "Christe, immensa dominator aeuste" [Lent], f. 141.

5. "Cum tuis dextris Adoneus" [St. John the Evangelist], f. 138, with st. vii., l. 1.

6. "Iste sanctus est illius prosperis coronati" [St. Sebastian], f. 125, with st. xi., l. 1.

7. A fragment, beginning imperfectly at f. 127 (printed by Mr. Gilson, p. 214), seems to be for the Purification of the V. M. The Use of certain hymns already indexed is also given, viz. 1. Christe, immensa dominator [p. 141]. 2. Christe, qui mundi [cf. Matins for Ascension]. 3. [Assumpt. of B. V. M.]. 4. Pone Deus aeternae [St. Facundus and Primitivus]. 5. Inclito cupi [cf. First Feuit]. But it may be added that the hymn at f. 104b begins "Te deprecamur Dominum," and not as in Dreves "Te deprecamur Domine."

(c) D'Orsia, St. This ms. should have been noted, now 16023 in the Bodleian. It was written in France, about 1425, apparently at Moissac, and contains mostly the same hymns as the Moissac MS. printed in Dreves, vol. ii. All except five are in the MS. at or c. Two, viz., "Iste Christe Martini" and "Summe Conditor rerum," are not in the Moissac MS. The five are:—

1. "Amande, pensanti optime." [St. Amandus.]

2. "Deus, patrum rub temp.re." [St. Carol.]

3. "Laudes sirenensi debitas." [St. Gerald.]

In vol. xiv. of Dreves, the two 11th cent. mss. of the Hymnarium of Durham and Rheims are printed, and the twelfth printed in full. In his Irodion Benedictus, 1893, Dreves indexes many early hymnaries at Rome and Milan. The hymns of the early Ebionan mss. now at Zürich were ed. with the most scrupulous care by J. Werner, as Die älteren Hymnen-Sammlungen von Einsiedeln, Zürich und Leipzig, 1901. The Cambridge Univ. Library MS. (Kk. v. 32) is ed. by Dr. H. M. Bannister in the Early Latin Church, ed. by the Rev. A. S. Walpole from the early hymnaries in England, and from many early mss. which he has collated at Brussels, Trier, St. Gall, Rome, Verona, Monte Cassino, Naples, and elsewhere. [J. M.]

I.

I am not skilled to understand. Dorothy Greenwell. [Jesus the Saviour.] From her Songs of Salvation, 1875, p. 4, entitled "Redemption," into the S. School Hymnary, 1905.

I bow to Thee, sweet will of God. This, in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, is another cento from F. W. Faber's "I worship Thee, sweet will of God," p. 559, ii.

I come, Thou wounded Lamb of God. This, in Gloria Deo, N.Y., 1900, is an altered form of "I thirst, Thou wounded Lamb of God," p. 558, i.

I dared not hope that Thou wouldst deign to come. Elizete Hatch. [The Holy Spirit.] From his Towards Fields of Light, 1890, p. 23. It is usually given as in Horder's Hymn Songs to Existing Calls, 1894, "I dare not hope that Thou," &c. [J. J.]

I heard a sound of voices. G. Thring. [The Song of the Redeemed.] Written in 1886, and published with music by H. S. Irons (Novello & Co.) the same year. It was sung at several Choral Festivals and ultimately appeared in Church Hys., 1903. [J. J.]

I know in Thee all fulness dwells. This, in the 1904 ed. of The Meth. H. Bk., No. 311, is a cento from "Jesu, if still Thou art to-day," p. 580, ii.

I lay my sins on Jesus, p. 456, ii. The Rev. H. N. Bonar, in his Hymns by Horatius Bonar, 1904, pp. x., xi., xxxi., says that his father's hymn-writing began during his residence at Leith, 1838–1837, in a desire to provide something which children could sing and appreciate in divine worship. Selecting two tunes, "Heber," and "The Flowers of the Forest," he wrote to the former "I lay my sins on Jesus," and to the latter "The morning, the bright and the beautiful morning." These were printed on leaflets and distributed in the schools, and were the first of Dr. Bonar's long series of hymns. Mr. Bonar continues the history:—

"After a little it became obvious that, if the interest was to be maintained, the supply of new tunes and hymns must be provided. My failure after careful search through various books, and selection of few pieces which seemed to be suitable; these to be copied to be printed on sheets along with three new ones from his own pen: 'I was a wandering sheep' [p. 620, ii.] . . . 'Here we gluttons in Zion' . . . and 'For thee we long and pray' (p. 161, ii. 1). [J. J.]

I love Thy Zion, Lord. This is an altered form of T. Dwight's "I love Thy kingdom, Lord," p. 317, i. 2.

I love to think of the heavenly land, p. 1573, i. This hymn is by Lewis Hartsough; see p. 1569, ii.

I sought the Lord, and afterward I knew. [He first loved us.] An anonymous and undated hymn in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

I think when I read that sweet story of old, p. 703, i. In his Hymns and Hymn Writers of the Church Hymnary, 1899, p. 272, the Rev. J. Brownlie says: "From an account which she [Mrs. Luke] has kindly sent of the origin of her popular hymn, we take the following:—

"I went in the year 1841 to the Normal Infant School in Grey's Inn Road to obtain some training. The Rev. Robert Burns, afterwards of Kilsyth, was there at the same time, and Sarah Roby, whom Mr. and Mrs. Moffat had reared in infancy when butter alive and had brought up with their own children. Among the marching pieces at Gray's Inn Road was a Greek air, the pathos of which took my fancy, and I searched Watts and Jane Taylor and several Sunday school hymn books for words to suit the measure, but in vain. Having left the Normal School, I was engaged as governess to the little boys of Wellington, five miles from Taunton, in a stage coach. It was a beautiful spring morning, it was my boss's ride, and there was no other inside passenger. On the back of an old envelope I wrote in pencil the first verse, and before we reached the end of the journey, three miles from the village, we were joined by the responsibility, which it was my province to rule. The third verse was added afterwards to make it an even story hymn."

The Rev. James Mearns has traced out some of its earliest appearances in print:—

1. Both hymn and tune were in some printed in the Sunday School Hymnal, Glasgow, 1861, on two separate pages after p. 82, with the title "The Child's Desire: a Greek Air. Words by Miss Thompson, of Poundsford Park."

2. In the Union Hymn Book for Schools, 1862, No. 67.

3. The Union Hymn Book for Sunday Schools, 9th ed., Bristol, 1864, No. 291.

4. In the Juvenile Missionary Mag., June 1866, with the first stanza altered.

The Greek Melody, commonly called "Salamis," is in the musical edition of The Church Hymnary, 1898; the S.P.C.K. Church Hymns, 1903, and other hymnals. [J. J.]

Ἰδοὺ ὁ Νυμφίος ἔρχεται, p. 661, i. Another tr. is "Behold the Bridegroom cometh nigh," by R. M. Mocrson in his Renderings of Church Hymns, &c., 1901, p. 15, in 4 st. of 6 l. This, the authorized text, is given in an unaltered form in Church Hymns, 1903, and with alterations, in Hys. A. & M., 1904. [J. J.]

If Thou impart Thyself to me. A cento from Pt. ii. of "Jesu, if still Thou art to-day," p. 580, ii.

Immaculate Mother. [B. V. M.] This is in the Parochial H. Bk. of the Rev. A. Pelzer, Boston, U.S., 1867, No. 228, entitled "Hymn in honour of our Lady of Lourdes." In Tozer's Cath. Hys., 1898, it begins "Immaculate Mary," and is marked as a tr. from the French. The tune in both cases is the Lourdes "Ave Maria" tune, but the words are in no sense a tr. of the Lourdes hymn (Pèlerinage National, 1899, p. 214, beginning "L'heure était venue,") and do not suggest a French original. Ince, Edward Cumming, M.A., s. of E. Ince, Vicar of Wigtoft, Lincs., was b. at Wigtoft, March 17, 1823, and educated at Jesus Coll., Camb.; B.A. 1847; M.A. 1864. Ordained in 1848, he held several curacies to 1853, when he became Incumbent of Meltham-Mills, Yorks. Subsequently he was Vicar of Christ Church, Battersea, and Christ Church, St. Alban's. He retired from active parochial work in 1890, and d. on Dec. 7, 1899. His best-known hymns are: "Great God, we bless Thy Name" (Missional), written for the C.M.S. Centenary, 1899; and "Lo! the risen Lord ascending" (Missional), both being in the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1899. During his residence at Meltham-Mills he wrote several hymns which were pub. for the use of the Sunday Schools of that parish. Some of these have been issued by the R.T.S. as leaflets. [J. J.]

Italian Hymnody, p. 1532. The Dublin Review for January, 1897, has, as its fifth article, "Notes on Catholic Hymnology. A Criticism of Dr. Julian's Dictionary." This can hardly be called a judicial or impartial survey, but it has some charming descriptive passages, and is the work of one who has really studied Italian Hymnody on his own lines. With the help of the clues given, the present writer has been enabled to indicate the following sources of information regarding Italian vernacular hymns; the references added in brackets are the press marks of the British Museum copies.

The Inni Sacri Volgarizzati of G. F. Bilancioni, issued by authority at Rome, in 1726 (12201. h. 30), consists up to p. 152 of versions of the Breviary hymns. The remainder, with the Inni Sacri Volgarizzati of 1727 (4406. e. 10), contains descriptions of many works in the department of sacred music; only one page, however, is devoted to cataloguing Laudi Spirituali. The most interesting and useful guide to early vernacular hymns is an article by A. Fiori in vol. xiii., pp. 113-199, of the Zeitschrift für Romanische Philologie, 1889 (P.P. 6044, ee.). Fiori's article fills 87 pp., and contains 1381 bibliographical references to the collections where they are to be found. The Laudi dei Piemonte of Ferdinando Gabotto and Delfino Orsi, 1901 (12258. e.) gives 46 pieces from a 15th cent. MS. at Turin, with a useful list, in the preface, of previous collections of Laudi Spirituali. The Poesie popolari religiose of Ottaviano Giuseppe Ferrari, Milan, 1877 (11431. d. 4.), contains 30 pieces from a MS. at Ferrara, and his Raccolta di Sacre Poesie popolari fatta in Giovanezzo Pellegrini, Bologna, 1877 (307. e. 1), from a 15th cent. MS. at Ferrara. The Rime e Prose del buon Secolo della Lingua, by Telesforo Bini, Lucca, 1852 (12226. d. 4.), are also taken from MSS. Other recent republications of early Laudi Spirituali are by Ernesto Monaci, in his Crestomazia Italiana dei primi secoli, Città di Castello, 1889, ii., 1897 (10041. h. 26.); and in Rapisardi, Lentini, Catania, 1890 (11431. d. 4.), vol. ii., pp. 1-80, cc. 20). Among the more important collections of Laudi Spirituali in the British Museum may be mentioned those of Serafino Razzi, Venice, 1563 (K. b. f. 10), and his Santuario di Laudi, Florence, 1609 (11427. ee.); Agostino Agostini, Venice, 1572, and the Church at Venice, 1608 (K. 1. m. 1.); Bernardino Stringari, Corona di Sacre Canzoni, Florence, 1710 (A. 611), the enlarged ed. of Cabrini's collection, noted at p. 1433, ii.

These works, it must be added, relate almost entirely to the period before 1600. It would give great pleasure to us and to all students of Italian Hymnody if the Dublin Reviewer would supplement his 1897 article by a history of the vernacular hymnody of Italy since 1600. [J. M.]

He was ordained D. 1870, P. 1872; was Headmaster of Romsil School 1875-86; Dean of St. Asaph, 1886-89; Principal of Cheltenham Coll. 1886-95; and since 1895 has been Headmaster of Rugby School. He ed. Hys. for use in the Chapel of Cheltenham Coll., 1880, and Hys. for the use of Rugby School, 1906, and is chairman of the editorial committee of the Public School H. Bk. His hymn, "Still is the traitor heart" (St. Matthew), written 1889, is 1890 as above, No. 139; Rugby 1896, No. 147, and 1906, No. 143. [J. M.]

Janvrin, Alice Jane, daughter of William Janvrin, was born in the island of Jersey on Dec. 15, 1846, but has resided mainly in England. She has written somewhat extensively for the Church Miss. Society and kindred associations. In 1903 she edited the letters of Bishop Ridley, late of New Caledonia, which was pub. as Snapshots from the North Pacific, and has done other work for the Church Miss. Society. Her hymns include the following:—

1. Great Jehovah, King of Nations. [Opening of Missionary Exhibitions.] Written in 1895, for missionary exhibitions.
2. He cometh, He cometh! [Missions.] For the 50th anniversary of the C.M.S. Gleaners' Union Mission Band, and sung by the Gleaners' Choir at Exeter during the last ten years. This hymn was written for 1894, and first printed in the service sheet for the meeting. It was printed in the C.M.S. Gleaner, Oct. 1894, p. 159, and included in the Church Miss. H. Bk., 1899, No. 12.
3. Lord, I know a work is waiting. [Missions.] Written for the Centenary of the C.M.S., in 1898, and sung, on that occasion, at the great gathering of children in the Crystal Palace. Printed in the C.M.S. Gleaner, and in Hys. for Church and Home, 1904, No. 144. [J. J.]

Jehovah is my [our] strength. S. Barnard. [Trust.] This hymn is found in Spiritual Songs of Zion's Travellers, being a Collection of Hymns from different Authors, with many Original Pieces by Samuel Barnard, Minister of the Gospel at Sheffield. 2nd ed., corrected, 1805, No. 163. It is in the Evang. Lutheran Book of Worship. Phila., 1859, No. 510.

the Unity of Christendom, and was first sung in procession at St. Michael's, Shoreditch, on "the Octave of Our Lady St. Mary," 1870, to a tune by his father. It is in the Scotch Ch. Hymnary, 1898. [J. B.]

Jenner, H. L., p. 1074, i. Bp. Jenner was b. in 1820, and d. in 1896. In C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903, Nos. 962–965 are by Bp. Jenner and "A. Jenner." They are the "Catechism in Verse," and consist of 50 stanzas and a "Kyrie." They are well adapted for singing in connection with catechising in Church and School. [J. J.]

Jerusalem et Sion filiæ. [Dedication of a Church.] Sometimes ascribed to Adam of St. Victor, but M. Gautier in his ed. of Adam, 1801, p. 250, says the rhythm differs from that of Adam, and that the ascription is doubtful; consequently he does not print the text. He cites it as in two Paris Graduals of the 12th cent. (Bibl. Nat., Lat. 12015, and Arsenal 110), but says it is not in the early Graduals of St. Victor or of St Geneviève. It is in a Gradual written in England c. 1275, and now in the B. M. (Add. 12194, f. 142b); in a Sarum Missal of c. 1250, now at Manchester, f. 241; in the Sherborne, Arbuthnott, Westminster and other Missals, sometimes as "Hierusalem et Sion." None, No. 254, prints it from a 12th cent. 2. Syon's daughters! Saints of Jerusalem. By M. J. Blacker, in the Hymner, 1862 (1864), No. 1193.

3. Sion's daughters! Sons of Jerusalem. By G. R. Gillett, in The English Hy., 1906. [J. M.]

Jerusalem luminosa, p. 579, ii. Another tr. is by J. Brownlie, in his Hys. of the Early Church, 1896, p. 140, as "O City girt with glory."

Jerusalem, my happy home. The Author of, p. 583, i. 5. This has recently been ascribed to Lawrence Anderton, alias John Breerley (s. of Lawrence Anderton, of Lostock, Lancs.; b. 1573, educated at Christ's Coll., Cambridge; entered the Society of Jesus at the age of 28; employed in London 1624–1641; d. in Lancashire April 17, 1643), but this ascription rests on the supposed fact that the signature in the Add. 15225 is J. B. P. After carefully examining this MS., we are still inclined to believe that the signature is T. B. P., and that the author was none as yet unidentified R. C. priest of the period. [J. M.]

Jerusalem! my happy home. The Eckinton C. texts of, p. 583, i. (v.). Since the issue of this Dictionary in 1892, we have come into possession of a copy of the "Eckinton C." referred to in Williams and Boden's Col. of Six Hundred Hys., &c., p. 583, i. (v.). It is entitled:—

Psalms and Hymns for Public or Private Devotion. Sheffield: Printed at the Iris[illegible] Press by J. Gales, sold by him, J. Smith and J. Dowding, Chesterfield, 1793. It contains 47 psalm versions, and 37 hymns.

The preface is signed "Joseph Bromehead" and dated "Eckington, Jan. 1st, 1793." It reads:—

"Having at the request of the Rector, Mr. Alderson, undertaken a new edition of the Erkington Psalms and Hymns, I have attempted to improve the selection both by omissions and additions . . . I should have liked to prefix the Author's name to every Psalm or Hymn: but of some I did not know the authors, and in others I have used so much liberty of altering and inserting lines and stanzas as to leave the claim of authorship doubtful."

In the collection one psalm version (Ps. cxxiv.) is signed "Bromehead," and five of the hymns "R." One of the five hymns with this signature is "Jerusalem, my happy home." It is number xxxii., entitled "Heaven," and signed "B." The text is the same as Williams and Boden, as given on p. 583, i., with "Eden" instead of "Edens." Upon this evidence we withdraw the statement on p. 583, i. in favour of J. Montgomery, and assign the hymn to Joseph Bromehead. We may add that in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, the hymn is given anonymously. This is additional evidence against the claim made in favour of Montgomery's authorship. [J. J.]

Jervois, William Henry Hammond, M.A., was b. in Oct. 1852 on the Isle of Alderney, where his father, W. F. D. Jervois, afterwards Lieut.-General, was then stationed. He was educated at Rugby and at Trin. Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1876, M.A. 1878), and was ordained D. 1878, P. 1879. He became Vicar of St. Mary Magdalene, Munster Square, London, in 1896, and d. Aug. 5, 1905. He was, until his death, a member of the Committee who compiled The Engl. Hym., 1906, and contributed to it:—

1. Father, we Thy children bending at Thy throne. Holy Communion. This was jointly with the Rev. W. B. Trevelyan, Vicar of St. Matthew's, Westminster, 1875.

2. We, Father, Thy beloved Son. Holy Communion.

3. Wherefore, O Father, we Thy humble servants. Holy Communion. [J. M.]

Jesu, at Whose supreme command, p. 584, i. Another cento from this hymn by C. Wesley is "Host Jesu, at Thy gracious word," in the Rugby School Hym., 1906.

Jesu Corona celsior, p. 584, i. This hymn was probably written in Italy. It is in two Vatican MSS. of the 11th cent., viz., 82, f. 257b, and 7172, the Hymnary of St. Severinian at Naples. Also in two 11th cent. MSS. in the Chapter Library at Verona, 108, f. 210b, and 109, f. 41b. Another tr. is:—

O Jesu, Crown above the sky, in the Office H. &c., 1880, No. xcii. and 1901, No. xcv. [J. M.]

Jesu, Corona Virginum, p. 584, ii. Another tr. is:—"O Jesu, Thou the Virgins' Crown," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 312, marked as Neale and Compilers: but only three lines survive as Neale wrote them. In The English Hy., 1906, Dr. Neale's original tr., "Jesu, the Virgins' Crown, do Thou," is given in an unaltered form. [J. M.]

Jesu dulcis memoria, pp. 585, ii.; 1536, ii. The present writer is still inclined to believe that this hymn is by St. Bernard, that it was originally in 42 stanzas, and that it began "Dulcis Jesu." Another early MS. beginning thus is the Troyes, No. 832, of c. 1200. An additional tr. is:—

Jesu, how sweet the thought of Thee! At Thy dear name all sorrows flee. In Sir Tristrem Hy., 1849, No. 32, marked as "Trans. by R. S." [J. M.]

Jesu dulcissime Xi throno gloriose, p. 589, i. This is in the Symphonia sirenum,

JESU, FOR JESUS, THE NEEDY 1657

Cologne, 1695 (ed. 1707, p. 161); but not in the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671. Another tr. is:—

Ah! sweetest Jesu, from the realms of sys. by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 15b. [J. M.]

Jesu, for the beacon-light, p. 589, ii. The text of this hymn has been altered by the compilers of Hys. A. & M. in the 1904 ed. of their collection from their former ed. of 1868.

Jesu, geh' voran, p. 589, ii. Another tr. is:—

Jesus, still lead on, While life's course is run, by Edward Dyer, in the Nicholai H. B., 1864, No. 622. It is more literal than Miss Borthwick's tr., but not so singable. See also note on "He leads us on." [J. M.]

Jesu meine Freude, p. 591, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. Jesu, best and dearest, a free version, in the Tate-Brady Hy., 1860, No. 57, marked as "tr. for this setting by J. S. B."

2. Jesu, my chief pleasure, Priceless, by G. R. Woodward, in the Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 16b, based on the tr. of R. Massie. [J. M.]

Jesu, my Lord, mighty to save. This, in the 1904 ed. of The Meth. H. Bk., No. 437, is the old hymn, "The Lord unto my Lord hath said," p. 1361, ii. 77, with the omission of sts. i. and viii.

Jesu nostra redemptio, Amor, p. 592, ii. The text of Church Hys., 1903, is that of the Complete Edition of Hys. A. & M.; the 1904 Hys. A. & M., the same text with st. i. rewritten; and The English Hy., 1906, J. Chandler's original tr. with the addition of a doxology. [J. J.]

Jesu, quadragenarise, p. 593, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. O Jesu, Thou didst consecrate, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 97, marked as by the Compilers; st. i. being a new and better version; sts. ii.–vi. being the version of 1875, which began "Jesu, our Lenten fast of Thee." 2. Jesu, Jesu Christ, from Thee began, by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hy., 1906, No. 62, a good and picturesque version.

Jesu, Redemptor omnium, p. 593, ii. R. M. Benson's tr. of this hymn as in the Complete Edition of Hys. A. & M., "O Thou Whose all-redeeming might," is repeated without change in The English Hy., 1906; but in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. it is revised, the changes being restricted for the most part to ii. 3 and 4 in sts. i.–iv., the most striking being st. iv.:—

"And, freed from every stain of sin,
As he hath won may also win" altered to

"And, aided by his prayers, may gain
The cleansing of our guilty stain."

In The New Office H. Book, 1905, the text of its edition of 1855 is repeated with slight alterations. It begins with the same first line as the old Hys. A. & M. tr., but differs in several instances, and accords more with the Hys. A. & M. 1904 text. [J. J.]

Jesu Redemptor (Salvator) sæculi, Verbum Patris Altissimi, p. 594, i. In Church Hys., 1903, the text of the tr., "Jesu, the world's redeeming Lord," is that of the old ed. of Hys. A. & M.; whilst that of the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. is a revised form of the Compilers' old text. [J. J.]

Jesus Christus, nostra salus, p. 598, i. In Dreves, xlv., pt. ii., p. 105, this is given in 10 sts. The initial letters of sts. i.–viii. make the acrostic "Johannes"; sts. ix., x. are probably later additions. Another tr. is:—

Jesus Christ, our blest Redeemer, by G. R. Woodward, based on R. F. Littledale, as No. 7a, in his Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Jesus, ever loving Saviour. [For a Happy Death.] This is in the Holy Family Hy., 1860, No. 92, and marked as from the Hymn Book of the Holy Family, Clapham, but is not in the 1st ed., 1854, of that collection. It is given in many later hymnals, including Tozer's Catholic Hys., 1898, &c. [J. M.]

Jesus, gentlest Saviour, p. 598, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., an entirely new cento is given from Faber's hymn. The sts. are in the order named, vi., ii., iv., ix., viii. and vi. repeated. The text is unaltered. [J. J.]

Jesus! my happy heart, p. 1075, i. This hymn begins with st. ii. of "Bright angels who attend around our altar now," in the Amer. ed. of K. Caswall's Lyra Catholica, N.Y., 1851, p. 405, entitled "The Vow," and marked as "By a Sister of Charity." Thence it passed into Hys. of the Ages, 1858, and others. [J. M.]

Jesus, my Saviour, look on me, p. 598, ii. 23. This hymn is in The Christian Remembrancer, 1848, p. 13. It is sometimes given with the name of J. R. Macduff as the author, and as "Jesu, my Saviour," &c.

Jesus, our triumphant Head. J. Hart. [Ascension.] From the 1762 Supp. to his Hymns, No. 36, in 6 st. of 4 l., into a few collections, usually abbreviated.

Jesus shall reign where'er the sun, p. 602, ii. The original reading of st. iv., ll. 1, 2, is:—

"For Him shall endless Pray'r be made,
And Praises throng to crown His head."

and not "And Princes throng," &c., sometimes given in collections which claim strict accuracy for their texts. [J. J.]

Jesus, teach me how to pray. [Prayer to the Holy Child.] This is in Easy Hymns, c. 1853, No. 20, without name of author. In Toner's Catholic Hys., 1880, and others, it begins, "Jesus, teach us how to pray." [J. M.]

Jesus, tender Saviour. [Redemption.] The earliest collection in which we find this hymn is E. Holder's The New S. School H. Bk., 1863, No. 29 (p. 1871, i.), and anonymously. Since then it has appeared in several hymnals, the latest the S. School Hymnary, 1905, but still anon. [J. M.]

Jesus, the children are calling, p. 719, i. Miss Matheson's hymn was brought under the notice of the editor of The Sunday Magazine (not Good Words), and appeared therein, June, 1868, p. 364.

Jesus, the needy sinner's Friend. C. Wesley. [The Friend of Sinners.] From Hys. on the Four Gospels, left in MS. at his death in 1788, and included in P. Works, v., p. 282. In the 1904 ed. of The Meth. Hymn-Book. [J. J.]

1658 JESUS, THOU KEN, THOMAS

Jesus, Thou art our King. C. Wesley. [Jesus, our King.] The companion hymn to "Jesus, my God and King," p. 662, i. (C. Works, i. p. 154.) In the 1904 ed. of The Meth. Hymn-Book, from Hy. and Sac. Poems, 1739.

Jesus, when He left the sky. [Christ's love of Children.] This hymn has appeared during the last forty years or more in a great number of hymn-books for children, generally as the production of "Mrs. Mary Ramsey," and sometimes dated 1848. One of the latest collections in which it appears is The Meth. H.-Book, 1904. [J. J.]

Johannes sahe durch Gesicht. P. Gerhardt. [Heaven.] In J. G. Ebeling's ed. of Gerhardt's Geistliche Andachten, 1667, No. lxxxiv., in 9 st. of 11 l., entitled "From the 7th chapter of the Revelation of John." In Wackernagel's ed. of his Geistliche Lieder, No. 120, and Bachmann's ed., No. 114. Tr. as:—

One Sunday to Saint John the Seer, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 166. [J. M.]

Johnson, Catherine, née Hardenbergh, p. 1378, i. Mrs. Johnson, dr. of John H. Hardenbergh, was b. at Auburn, N.Y., in 1835, and m. in 1860. Her hymn, "An earthly temple here we build," was written in Pittsburgh for the dedication of a church in 1868; and her "The whole wide world for Jesus," on May 9, 1872, for a meeting of the Woman's F. Miss. Soc. of Baltimore. Her children's hymn, "We are so happy, God's own little flock," is widely used in America. [L. F. B.]

Johnson, Elias Henry, D.D., has been since 1882 Professor of Systematic Theology in Crozer Bap. Theo. Seminary, Chester, Pa. He was b. at Troy, N.Y., Oct. 15, 1841, and graduated at Rochester. After acting for two years as assistant paymaster in the U.S. Navy he was ordained to the Baptist Ministry, and served in several pastorates. He edited Songs of Praise for Sunday Schools, 1882; was assistant editor of the Bap. Hymnal, 1883; and also editor of Our Sunday School Songs, 1885, and Sursum Corda, 1898. He is also the author of several prose works. His hymn, "Father almighty, trembling I bow to Thee" (Holy Trinity), in Sursum Corda, 1898, No. 314, is dated 1887. [L. F. B.]

Jones, John Samuel, b. in London in 1831 and ordained in Ireland in 1858. He has held several benefices, including St. Philip Clerkenwell; Christ Church, Liverpool; and Knight's Enham, Hants. His hymns include:—

1. I was made a Christian. [For the young.] Written about 1880 for use at Enham Sunday School, and pub. in the Children's Hymn Book, 1881, and without it in 1883, and 1886. [Saturday Evening.]

2. Now the busy week is done. [Saturday Evening.] This hymn is attributed in p. 1582, ii., to the Rev. S. J. Jones, Rector of Enham, in error. It was contributed to the 1880 Suppl. Hys. to Hys. A. & M.

Mr. Jones's latest work is A Christian Week: And other Verse, 1906.

Jones, S. F., p. 606, i. He d. Feb. 26, 1895.

Jordanis oras praevia, p. 609, i. The version, "On Jordan's banks the Herald's cry," in the Bk. of Worship (Evang. Luth. Gen. Synod), 1899. No. 208, and the Pennsylvania Luth. Ch. Bk., 1868. No. 111, is J. Chandler's, slightly altered. [J. M.]

Joy-bells are sounding sweetly. [New Year.] Given anonymously in the Scottish Hymnal, 1884, and the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898.

Jubet et, in præceps aquis, p. 607, ii. The version, "O Father, Who the earth hast given," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 441, begins with st. ii. of "Thou spakest, Lord," in the 1875 ed., No. 40. The second st. of the Latin begins "Hanc te colendam, qui tuis." [J. M.]

Jussu tyranni pro fide, p. 609, i. The additional stanza (iv.) in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. is from the Parish H. Book, 1863, and Church Hys., 1871.

Just as I am, without one plea. p. 609, ii. In the Record, Oct. 15, 1877, Bp. H. C. G. Moule of Durham, then Principal of Ridley Hall, Cambridge, gave a most interesting account of Miss Elliott, and of the origin of this hymn. Dr. Moule, who is related to the family, derived his information from family sources. In an abbreviated form this is the beautiful story:—

"Ill-health still beset her. Besides its general trying influence on the spirits, it often caused her the peculiar pain of a seeming uselessness in her life while the circle round her was full of unresting servableness for God. Such was her condition when, in the autumn of 1834, when forty-four years old, and was living in Mayfield, Sussex, fortnight . . . . Her brother, the Rev. H. V. Elliott (p. 332, ii.) had not long before conceived the plan of St. Mary's Hall, at Brighton, a school designed to give, at nominal cost, a high education to the daughters of clergymen; a noble work which is to this day carried on with vigour and success. Invitations to the first Christmas at Hall there was to hold a bazaar. . . . Westfield Lodge was all astir; every member of the large circle was occupied morning and night in the preparations, with the one exception of the ailing sister Charlotte—as full of eager interest as any of them, but physically fit for nothing. The night before the bazaar she was kept wak-ful by distressing bodily symptoms, and in the sleepless hours many thoughts passed—by a transition easy to imagine—into a spiritual conflict, till she questioned the reality of her whole spiritual life, and wondered whether it were anything better after all than an illusion of the emotions, an illusion ready to be sorrowfully dispelled.

"The next day, the busy day of the bazaar, . . . the question of the night before was still unsolved. It seemed that she felt they must be met and conquered in the grace of God. She gathered up in her soul the grand certainties, not of her emotions, but of her salvation: her Lord, His power, His promise. And taking pen and paper from the table she deliberately sat down to writing, for her own comfort, the formulæ of her faith, as to Christ's Person, Christ's Work, Christ's Gift of Spirit, pardon, and heaven. Then, then, always, not only at some past moment, but 'even now,' she was accepted in the Beloved, 'Just as I am.'

"As the day wore on, her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. V. Elliott (p. 332, ii.), . . . begged for a copy of the verses of the hymn. She read the hymn, and asked (she well might) for a copy. So it first rode out from that quiet room into the world, where now for sixty years it has been sowing and reaping, till a multitude which only God can number have been blessed through its message."

Dr. Moule follows with a statement that the hymn was printed in the Invalid's H. Book, 1834. With a copy of that book before us we can positively say it is not there. Its earliest date of publication in that collection was the edition of 1836. The actual date, month and day of the bazaar we are unable to trace; neither have we seen, after an extended search, any printed form of the hymn of an earlier date than 1836. [J. J.]

K.

Ken, Thomas, p. 623, i., 1537, ii. Since the publication of this Dictionary in 1892, two copies of Bp. Ken's Hymns have been discovered. As they throw an important light on the question of the original publication of the Hymns, we give the following details:—

KEN THOMAS KINGSLEY, CHARLES 1659

i. The first is a pamphlet of twelve pages, and in its present form it has no title-page. On the first page the hymns are headed:—

A Morning and Evening Hymn, Formerly made by a Reverend Bishop.

Following on the same page is the Morning Hymn in 12 sts., and the Evening Hymn in 15 sts. At the end of the Evening Hymn there is the following colophon:—

London: Printed for Rich. Smith, Bookbinder, in Jews-street, near Petit-lane, 1692.

This is the earliest printed form of the two hymns yet discovered.

ii. The second pamphlet begins with this "Advertisement":—

ADVERTISEMENT. The Author finding imperfect and surreptitious Copies of these Hymns printed without his Knowledge or Consent, and Dispers'd in Manuscript, Resolves to publish them in his own Defence; Otherwise he should not have sent things so very inconsiderable to the Press.

Following this Advertisement, and on the upper part of p. 1, we have the following:—

Three Hymns. By the Author of the Manual of Prayers for the Use of the Scholars of Winchester College.

The hymns follow in their order. The Morning Hymn is in 14 sts., the text being the same as that of 1695 on pp. 618, ii., 619, i., with i. 1 of st. iii. as "Let all thy converse be sincere"; the Evening Hymn in 12 sts. with the same text as on pp. 618, ii., 620, i.; and the Midnight Hymn with text in 13 sts. as on p. 620, i., ii. The colophon reads:—

London: Printed for Ch. Brome, at the Gun, at the West End of St. Paul's Church, 1694.

At p. 617, i., it is noted that in the 1674 ed. of the Manual of Prayers for Winchester College, the scholars received the direction to "Be sure to sing the Morning and Evening Hymn in your chamber devoutly," &c. This direction clearly indicates that for twenty years or more the Morning and Evening Hymns, and possibly the Midnight Hymn also, were sung by the Winchester scholars before the earliest printed text, that by Rich. Smith, was issued in 1692. Had the scholars printed slips or MS. copies of these hymns from which they sang during those twenty or more years? The form in which they hail the hymns during that time we know not, but the fact that they had them is beyond dispute. From the data thus supplied, we feel justified in concluding that:—

1. From 1674 the Morning and Evening Hymns, and possibly the Midnight Hymn also, were sung at Winchester, and probably a year or two before that date.

2. That the scholars used either printed or MS. sheets of the hymns.

3. That Rich. Smith got possession of one of these sheets, and published the same, without the Author's "Knowledge and much against his Will," in 1692.

4. That Ken, displeased with Rich. Smith's publication of his Hymns in an "imperfect and surreptitious" form, "was persuaded to publish them in his own Defence," through Charles Brome, in 1694.

5. And that Smith, and not Brome, was the guilty party in the matter.

We must add that Smith's text differs materially from that of Ken as in Brome, the most marked feature being the absence of the Doxology from the Morning Hymn and its inclusion in the Evening Hymn, as st. xi. of the thirteen of which the hymn is there composed.

Smith's pamphlet is in the Hymnological department of the Church House Library, Westminster, and Brome's in the B. M. [J. J.]

Kerr, Robert P., D.D., b. at Greensborough, Alabama, graduated at Union Theological Seminary, Va., 1873, and was ordained by the Presbytery of Lafayette, 1874. His Hys. of the Ages, a collection on conservative Evangelical lines which hardly justified its title, was pub. in N.Y., 1891. In it appeared his hymn, "Blessed country, home of Jesus." 1891. A later hymn, "Galilean King and Prophet," is dated 1901. [L. F. B.]

Kidder, Mary Ann, née Pepper, p. 1378, i. Mrs. Kidder d. at Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 25, 1905. She was a member of the Methodist Episco. Church, and resided for 46 years in New York City. [J. J.]

Kimball, Harriet M., p. 624, ii., b. Nov. 2, 1824, and a Roman Catholic. From her hymn, "Jesus, the Ladder of my faith," p. 624, iii. 3, another cento, beginning "Sweeter to Jesus when on earth," is taken. It is in The Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904. [J. J.]

Kind words can never die, p. 1378, i. Given in Horace Waters's New Sabbath School Bell, No. 1, 1859, No. 1, p. 24, as "Words by M. Music by Sister Alice of the Hutchinson Family." The words, therefore, must remain Anon. for the present. [J. M.]

Kindly Spring again is here. J. Newton. [Spring.] The hymn in The Council School H. Bk., 1905, is a cento, sts. i.-iii. being from J. Newton's "Pleasing spring again is here," Olney Hys., 1779, Bk. 2, No. 38, somewhat altered, and st. iv. by another hand. In The English Hy., 1906, there is another cento beginning with the same altered first line. [J. J.]

King, Henry Melville, D.D., an American Baptist minister, b. at Oxford, Maine, Sept. 3, 1838; educated at Bowdoin College, (1859) and Newton Theo. Institution (1862), and entered the ministry in 1862. He was from 1863 to 1882 Pastor of Dudley Street Bap. Church, Roxbury, Mass., and since of Emmanuel Bap. Church, Albany, N.Y. Besides several prose productions, he is the author of the following hymns in C. U.:—

1. Christ, our Shepherd, leads us still. [Christ the Good Shepherd.] Dated 1866.

2. Safe, Mary's Son, Calm the night, &c. [Christmas.] Dated 1866, and revised 1891.

3. O Thou, with Whom a thousand years Are but as yesterday. [For Anniversaries.] Dated 1871.

These hymns were included in Sursum Corda, 1898. [L. F. B.]

King of glory, King of peace. G. Herbert. [Praise to God.] From his Temple, 1633, p. 149, in 7 st. of 4 l. and entitled "Praise." It is usually abbreviated as in The English Hymnal, 1906, the H. Book for the Use of Wellington College, 1902, &c. [J. J.]

Kingsley, Charles, M.A., s. of Charles Kingsley, of Battramsley, in the New Forest, was born June 12, 1819, at Holne Vicarage,

Devon. In 1838 he entered Magdalene Coll. Cambridge, and graduated as first class in classics, and senior optime. Subsequently Rector of Eversley 1844–1873; Canon of Chester 1869–1872; and Canon of Westminster 1873–1873. He held also other important appointments. He died at Eversley, Jan. 23, 1875. Canon Kingsley's prose works are too well known to be enumerated here, and his poetical productions have little in common with hymnology. Three of his pieces have come into use as hymns:—

1. Accept this building, gracious Lord. [Hospitals] Written for the opening of Sick Children's Hospital (October [1871]). Lord Leigh laid the foundation stone of the working men's block of the Queen's Hospital at Birmingham with masonic honours, and the following simple hymn, which Mr. Kingsley had been requested to compose for the occasion, was sung by a choir of 1,000 voices:—

"Accept this building, gracious Lord,
No temple though it be;
We raise it for our suffering kin,
And so, good Lord, to Thee."

The hymn in full follows in 6 st. of 4 l. (Charles Kingsley: His Letters and Memoirs of his Life, 1878, vol. ii., p. 276.) From this the hymn, well-known in hospitals, is compiled, viz. st. i. l. 1, 2; st. ii. l. 1, 2, "From Thee all skill and science flow," is taken. It is composed of sts. iii.–vi.

2. My truest child, I have no song to give you. [Purity and Courage.] Appeared in his Andromeda and other Poems, 1858, p. 54, in 2 st. of 4 l. and entitled "Farewell." In the Life and Works of Kingsley, Poems, 1880, vol. i. p. 255, it is dated "Eversley Rectory, Oct. 6, 1857," and the appended date is "February 1, 1856." The addition of the extra stanza, as given in Mrs. Kingsley's Charles Kingsley: His Letters, &c., 1878, vol. ii., p. 256, is thus explained: "'The Farewell' in his niece Mrs. Theodore Waldron, then Charlotte Grenfell, was written this year [1856], and as the second verse was omitted in the printed copies, I send the entire here." At the end of the poem the place and date are given as "Bay Lodge, 1856." The lines so frequently included in hymnals for girls' high schools, "Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever," are from this poem.

3. Who will say the world is dying? [The Coming Kingdom.] Appeared in his Andromeda and other Poems, p. 133, in 3 st. of 8 l. and entitled "The World's Age." It is dated 1848. In Hooker's Worship Song, 1868.

[J. J.]

Kipling, Rudyard, the well-known poet and story-teller, was b. at Bombay, India, Dec. 30, 1865, and now (1906) lives at Burwash in Sussex. His noble poem, "The Recessional," was written in 1897 at the time of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, contributed to the Times for July 17, 1897, and first published by the author in his The Five Nations, 1903, p. 214, beginning "God of our fathers, known of old" (National). It has passed into Sursum Corda, Phil., 1898, The Engl. Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Klantendorffer, F., p. 625, i. It ought to have been stated that his hymn, "Well dieser Tag," is from the Bohemian of J. Hlaholav. See pp. 166, i. (5) and 160.

Know ye the Lord doth take away? This opening line of each stanza of No. 175 of Hys. A. & M., 1904, is an altered form of "Know ye the Lord hath borne away?" (p. 1189, ii. 2) in the Hys. A. & M., Supp., 1889. The rest of the hymn is unaltered. [J. J.]

Κύριε ἐλέησον, Ἀντιλαβοῦ. [Litany.] After the Choir has said the Κύριε thrice, The Litany of the Deacon begins, Ἀντιλαβοῦ, σῶσον. It is in the Greek Offices, but its author is unknown. The original text is in Dr. Littledale's Offices . . . of the Holy Eastern Church, 1863, p. 6, and an English prose tr., p. 126. The original has been tr. into metrical verse by J. Brownlie, in his Hymns of the Greek Church, 1900, p. 84, and is in Church Hys., 1903, and The English Hyl., 1906, as "God of all grace, Thy mercy send." [J. J.]

Kynaston, H., p. 636, i. Dr. Kynaston pub. a 3rd series of his Occasional Hys., and his collected trs. of poems and hymns into Latin as Sterna Poetica, 1849.

Kynaston, Herbert, D.D. (formerly Snow), nephew of Dr. H. Kynaston, was educated at St. John's Coll., Cambridge, B.A., Senior Classic (bracketed), 1857; D.D., 1882. Sometime Fellow of his Coll., Assist. Master at Eton, Principal of Cheltenham Coll., &c., and Prof. of Greek, &c., in Durham University and Canon of Durham, 1889. His hymn, "Father of light, O hear us who cry to Thee for light" (Divine Enlightenment desired) was written in 1878 for the Hys. for Use in the Chapel of Cheltenham College, 1878, and repeated in later editions. [J. J.]

L.

Lacey, Thomas Alexander, s. of G. F. Lacey, was b. at Nottingham, Dec. 20, 1855. He entered Balliol Coll., Oxford, as an exhibitioner in 1871 (B.A. 1875, M.A. 1883), was ordained D. 1876, P. 1879, was from 1894 to 1903 Vicar of Madingley near Cambridge, and since then has been Chaplain of the London Diocesan Penitentiary. He was one of the Committee who compiled The Engl. Hyl., 1906, and contributed to it twelve trs. (8, 66, 67, 69, 104, 123, 124, 174, 208, 226, 249, 325), also one unpublished and one previously published original, viz.,

1. O Faith of England, taught of old. (Church Defence.)

2. The dying ember raised his ashing brow. (Good Friday.) First in the Treasury, Sept. 1905, p. 662, headed "Sarcoma."

Three other trs. by him are noted at pp. 989, i., 1139, ii. [J. M.]

Lack, Herbert, was b. April 11, 1877, at Yardley Hastings, Northants. His hymn,

Give us, O Lord, the confidence (Christian Courage), written in 1902, obtained the first prize for a hymn offered by the British Month, in which it appeared in Sept. 1902. It was revised for the S. S. Hymn-ary, 1905, the third st. being then added. [J. M.]

Lacy, William S., D.D., a member of the Committee which compiled The New Ps. & Hys. . . . of the Prot. Church in the United States, 1901. To this collection he contributed "Slowly sinks the setting sun" (Evening), where it is dated 1891. From the "Preface" we gather that Dr. Lacy died before the Ps. & Hys. were pub. [J. J.]

Laeta quies magni ducis. [S. Benedict.] This is in the Benedictine Missal (Cosinensis) printed at Venice in 1507, f. 180 b, (Brit. Mus. C. 52. d. 12), the ed. of 1515, f. 191 b, and others. Also in Mone, No. 834, Daniel, v. 250, Kehrein, No. 516, &c. Tr. as:—

"Welcome the glad returning morn. By E. Caswall, in his Lyrica or Hys. 1849, p. 208. In Hys. for the Year 1867, it begins "Hail the glad returning morn." [J. M.]

Laetabundi jubilemus, p. 1078, ii. Another tr. is:—"Sing we all with jubilation," by T. I. Ball, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905.

Laetabundus exultet fidelis chorus, Coeli curiae, p. 1078, ii. This is in a 13th cent. Sarum Missal now at Manchester (Crawford, Lat. 24) added at f. 253*b* in a hand of c. 1300. Printed text in Dreves, viii., p. 40, Kehrein, No. 873, &c. [J. M.]

Laetabundus exultet . . . Regem, p. 636, i. This sequence is evidently earlier than St. Bernard. Additional trs. are (all more or less founded on the version in the Hymner, 1882):—

1. Come, ye faithful, loud exult; in the Hymner, 1864, No. 78, and in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904.

2. Raise your voices, faithful choirs, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 115.

3. Come rejoicing, Faithful men, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 52.

Lamb of God, I fall before Thee. This in the H. Book for the Use of Wellington College, 1903, is st. i. of J. Hart's "Lamb of God, we fall before," p. 433, i. 7, divided into two stanzas and in a recast form. [J. J.]

Lamb of God, our souls adore Thee, p. 586, i. 16. This hymn by J. G. Deck appeared in the London Inquirer, Nov. 1838.

Lambillotte, Joseph, S.J., was b. July 3, 1803, at Hanzun de la Hensaie, near Charleroi, Belgium; entered the Society of Jesus 1823; d. at Saint-Acheul, near Amiens, Aug. 14, 1842. He contributed a number of hymns to the Chois de Cantiques, Paris, 1842, ed. by his brother Louis, also s.t. (Du Bauber, 1853, iv. 1415). One, which appears in 1842, No. 8, and has not been traced earlier, may be his, viz.,

O Divine Enfance (The Child Jesus the Model of Children), tr. as "O Divinest Childhood," by E. Caswall in his Hymns of Mary, 1858, p. 286. In the Parochial H. Bk., 1880, it is in two parts, separately numbered, the second beginning "Come, ye little children."

[J. M.]

Lancaster, Mary Ann Elizabeth, née Shorey, was b. in London, Jan. 27, 1851, and now (1906) resides in Forest Drive, Leyenstone, Essex. She is the author of many hymns and poems which have appeared as leaflets, in her The Broken Angel, and other Poems, 1882, and elsewhere. Three of them, first printed in the Baptist newspaper and included in the 1902 ed. of Hys. of Consecration and Faith, are:—

1. I have a Friend so precious. (The Love of Christ.) "Written one Sunday morning in the summer of 1880. While busy with household affairs some thoughts suggested themselves, which I wrote down." Sent to Mr. Mott, Jr., 197, at Leytonstone, began to sing themselves in rhyme." The complete hymn was first printed in the Baptist for Dec. 16, 1880, and then in the Broken Angel, 1882, p. 33. It has had a circulation of over 177,000 in leaflet form, and has been pub. in sheet music. In the Baptist for Jan. 1, 1881, it is stated that it is nobody said to have been sung in France by the persecuted Huguenots three hundred years ago.

2. Think of Jesus in the morning. (The Thought of Jesus.) Written Nov. 1880 and printed in the Baptist in Dec. 1882.

3. Walking with Jesus day by day. (Consecration.) First in the Baptist in Sept. 1884.

See a fuller notice in the Baptist, July 18, 1903, p. 57. Mrs. Lancaster, we may add, is a member of the Church of England. Her nom de plume is "L. Shorey," hence the name "Mrs. L. Shorey" in some collections. [J. M.]

Lanier, Sidney, b. at Macon, Ga., Feb. 3, 1842, and educated at Oglethorpe Coll., Ga., where he graduated in 1860. He was one of the earliest volunteers in the Confederate Army, and after the war he devoted himself to music and literature. He d. at Lynn, N.C., Sep. 7, 1881. His Poems were collected and pub. by his widow (New York), in 1884. Two of his hymns are:—

1. Thou God, Whose high eternal love. (Holy Brotherhood.) This is dated "Macon, Sep. 1868," and is found in his Poems, p. 233.

2. Into the woods my Master went. This is a poem rather than a hymn, and might pass for a carol. It is given as No. 745 in the Methodist Hymnal, N.Y., 1905.

In early life Lanier was a member of the Presbyterian Church, but gradually lost sympathy with organised Christianity. [L. F. B.]

Larcom, Lucy, p. 1078, ii. The extended use of this writer's hymns justifies a more detailed account of her life and work than is given on p. 1078. She was b. in 1826, and worked from 1837–45 in the mills of Lawrence, Mass., then engaged in elementary teaching 1846–49, became a student at Monticello Female Seminary, Alton, Ill., 1849–52, and then entered upon advanced teaching in higher-class schools, and literary work. She edited with J. G. Whittier, Child Life in Poetry, 1871; Child Life in Prose, 1873; Songs of Three Centuries, 1873, &c. Her own works are Poems, 1869; Childhood Songs, 1875; Wild Roses of Cape Ann, 1881; Poetical Works, 1885; At the Beautiful Gate; And Other Songs of Faith, 1892. Her autobiography was pub. as A New England Girlhood. She d. in 1893. In addition to "When for me the silent oar," of her hymns the following are in C. U.:—

i. From her Poems, 1869.

1. Hand in hand with angels. Angelic companionship.

2. If the world seems cold to you.

3. When for me the silent oar. Death.

ii. From her Wild Roses of Cape Ann, 1881.

4. In Christ I feel the heart of God.

5. O Spirit, Whose name is the Saviour.

iii. From her Poetical Works, 1885.

6. Breaks the joyful Easter dawn. Easter.

7. Heavenly Helper, Friend Divine. Christ the Friend.

iv. From her At the Beautiful Gate, &c., 1892.

8. Draw Thou, my soul, O Christ. Looking to Jesus.

9. O God, Thy world is sweet with prayer. Prayer.

10. Open your hearts as a flower to the light.

11. Ring, happy bells of Easter time. Easter.

The above notes are from the Brit. Museum copies of Miss Larcom's works. [J. J.]

Lasst uns erfreuen herzlich sehr. [Easter.] This is in the Catholische Kirchengesang, printed by Bruchel at Cologne in 1625 (B. M.), p. 223, and apparently in the ed. of 1623 (see Bäumker, i., No. 280). It is in Hommel's Geistl. Volksleder, 1804, No. 22; H. Bone's Cantate, ed. 1870, No. 202. Tr. as:—

1. Rejoice all ye that sorrowed sore, by J. O'Connor, in the Appended Hys., 1864, No. 48.

In the St. Gall G. B. (R. C.), 1863, No. 55, it is altered, and begins "Freihlocke aller Engel Heer," and this form is tr. as:—

2. Sing to the Lord, ye angels high, by Miss Ruppes, in E. Paxton Hood's Children's Choir, 1876. [J. M.]

1662 LATIN HYMNODY LATIN, TRANSLATIONS

Latin Hymnody, p. 660. Since this article was written a great deal has appeared in print on the subject. The mass of material has indeed become so enormous that years of study would be needed in order to gain an intimate acquaintance with it. After the completion of the Analecta Hymnica of Dreves and Blume, these editors propose to issue a history of Latin Hymnody based on the materials available in 1894, and on the materials which have come to light since that date. When this history has appeared it will be comparatively easy to found a sketch upon it. The general historian of Rule (p. 833, i.), Ebert (p. 833, i.), and Duffield (p. 1036, i.), and the excellent sketch by Skinner in Wetzer and Welte's Kirchenlexikon, vi., 519–552, are all somewhat out of date. We subjoin the most important of later works:—

The Geschichte der Christlich-lateinischer Poesie bis zur Mitte des 8. Jahrhunderts (Stuttgart, 1891) by M. Manitius is very good and useful, but deals only with the earliest period. The bibliography, which is very rarely given the first lines of the poems, can only be used to full advantage by one who has access to a large reference library. The most recent sketches of importance that the present writer has seen are those in the Grundriss der romanischen Philologie, ed. Gustav Gröber (Strassburg: J. Trübner), vol. ii., pt. 1., 1902, pp. 1–67, by Karl Strecker, entitled Lateinische Poesie, and Proses d'Eglises in the Herzog-Hauck Realencyklopädie, x., 1901, pp. 399–419.

There is a good survey of recent work in Canon U. Chevalier's Renaissance des Études liturgiques, first pub. in the Université Catholique (Lyons: E. Vitte), 1897 and 1898; pt. i., relating to England, pt. ii., relating to Germany, Scandinavia, Switzerland, and Italy; Bibliographie liturgique several vols. of hymnological interest (see Supersede, p. 1700, ii., and Proper, p. 1716, i.); including an historical sketch with useful bibliographical notes (Poesie Liturgique du Moyen Age, Lyons: E. Vitte, 1893), a prettily printed collection of hymns and sequences, Poésie Liturgique traditionnelle de l'Église Catholique (Lyons: E. Vitte, 1893), and the valuable work on the Repertorium Hymnologicum. Catalogue des chants, hymnes, proses, séquences, tropes, en usage dans l'Église latine depuis les origines jusqu'à nos jours (Louvain, vol. i., 1892; ii., 1897; supplement, 1904). The Repertorium has been severely criticised by Clemens Blume, in his Repertorium Repertorii: Kritischer Wegweiser durch ... (Repertorium) (Freiburg im Breisgau: Herder, Leipzig, 1901). But in spite of all failings of plan and execution, the Repertorium is an indispensable guide, giving as it does, under two alphabets, notices of 30,872 pieces (Nos. 1–21388 in A–Z, in vols. i., ii.; and in the supplement, Nos. 22767–30872), the two opening lines of each piece being printed, with notes on the sources in which they are found, and on the literature relating to them.

Some of the publications of the Henry Bradshaw Society are noted under Breviaries (p. 1616, ii.), Hymnaries (p. 1652, ii.), and Proper (p. 1716, i.).

The Analecta Liturgica, of which mention is noted under Collects (p. 1700, ii.), and Sacramentaries and Sacramentals (p. 1707, ii.), of the Berlin Academy of Sciences, is giving authentic eds. of early hymn writers. The Veteri Hymnariorum Ecclesiasticum Hungariae of Joseph Banko (Nata-Pest, 1893), includes a useful bibliography, gives the text of many hymns and sequences, and has much valuable information regarding the Latin hymnody of Hungary.

The most important recent German work is the Analecta Hymnica of Dreves and Blume. The earlier vols. are noted at pp. 660, i., and 1042, i.; some of the rest under Hymnarium (p. 1652, ii.), Sequence (p. 1700, ii.), and Proper (p. 1716, i.). The other vols. (xxxvi. xxxvii. xxxviii. xxxix. xl. xli. xlii. xliii. xliv. xlv. xlvi. 45), devoted to Tiddicula Rhythmica, i.e. liturgical rhyming offices used in all sections of the mediæval Latin Church; seven (4, 11, 12, 19, 23, 24, 43, including in all 3859 hymns) to Hymni Inediti, from similar sources; seven (15, 16, 26, 31, 37, 38, 46, with 1737 pieces), to Versus Memoriales, i.e. hymns, &c., not meant for liturgical use; three (xxxv. xxxvi. xxxvii. 47), to Cantiones Bohemicae, i.e. non-liturgical mediæval religious songs; two (16, 17), to Hymnodia Hiberica, i.e. hymns and rhyming offices found in use in Spain, and not of the Mozarabic rite; and two (20, 28) to Tiddicula Rhythmica, i.e. liturgical rhyming offices. The latter is misnamed, because the Tiddici has 150 Psalms, the liturgical Psalteries consist of 150 stanzas. The remaining vols. are:—

1. Cornelius Commicanus. This contains the religious poems of Konrad of Haimburg, prior of Gaming in Austria, who d. 1293; of Albert, a Carthusian monk at Erfurt, who d. 1310; and of Johann von Indersdorf, who by Ulrich Stöcklin, of Bedlach, Abbot of Wessobrunn in Bavaria, who d. 1442.

6. Clairvaux Versifications. This includes the miscellaneous sacred poems of the same Ulrich.

14b. Orytus Stambordan, i.e. hymns and rhyming offices by Orticin (Henry) Stacchaboard, arrhjrised of Liège, who d. 1510, and by Nicolaus of the Basilica of San Nazaro Maggiore, who d. 1295.

40. Psalteria Wemphotanae, i.e. the rhyming Psalteries of Ulrich (see Nos. 3, 6 above).

41a. Christianus Crusgallicensis, i.e. the hymns, sequences, &c., of Christian, who, in 1134, was prior of Lilienfeld, in Austria.

42. Hymnographi Varii. Analecta Victorina, i.e. hymns, &c., by Canons of Saint Victor, apparently a priest attached to St. Peter's at Rome; printed from his autograph, of 1340, now in the Chapter Library of St. Peter's at Rome.

43. Hymnographi Latini. This is the first of two or more vols. meant to contain the collected hymns of some of the more important writers; and includes those of Adam of St. Victor (see p. 1, i.); Adam Scotus, Premonstratensis, monk of Augustines; Adalbert de Tournai, Bishop of Mende; Anselm of Aosta, Archbishop of Canterbury; Ennodius Benno, Bishop of Angers; William de Deguileville, Prior of Chaalis, near Senlis; William de Shanlger, Cardinal Bishop of Palestrina; Jovanes (John) of Werden, Prior of St.-Jolme, near Salzburg; Peter Damiani (see p. 1, i.); Peter de Cornibus, Canon and Prior of Lirey, who d. 1383 (see p. 1061, ii.); Matthew Rosito, monk at Monte Olivoto, near Siena; Peter Abelard (see p. 1, i.); Peter Damiani (see p. 278, i.); Peter Olavi, of the monastery of Vadstena in Sweden; Peter the Venerable (see p. 831, i.); Thomas a Kempis (see p. 1107, ii.); Wido of Ivrea, in North Italy; and Wolfram, Canon of St. Victor, Xanten, in Westphalia; also three sets of pieces by unknown Cistercian monks.

The Analecta Hymnica is a wonderful monument of learning and industry, and when completed, will deserve, and need, very full indexes; at present there are more than fifty indexes of first lines to consult, and as the second line is never given there are scores of literally hundreds of lines to examine. There are also about two vols. of Hymnologische Beiträge, the first of these in Blume's review of the Repertorium noted above. The other is Gothaisches Liederverzeichnis, by Dreves (Leipzig, 1897); being the title and works, including the sequences, of Gotteschalck, sometime monk at Limburg, on the Hardt, in Rhenish Bavaria, finally provost of the cathedral church of St. Paul, at Liège, who died in 1469. It is this Gotteschalck who is really referred to at pp. 598, i.; 665–666; 813, i.; 1325, i.; but there seem no reasons whatever for ascribing either the "Cantemus cuncti" or the "Virginis casias" to him. [J. M.]

Latin Hymns, Expositions of. See p. 652, i.

Latin, Translations from the, p. 655, ii. A number of American collections of trs. from the Latin are mentioned in S. W. Duffield's Latin Hymnwriters, 1889, pp. 414–415; 429–433 (the Hymns of Hildebert, 1840, referred to at p. 414, was really by Dr. Henry Mills; a copy is in the Astor Library). Among the more recent books which consist entirely, or in considerable measure, of trs. from the Latin, the following (all except Nos. 1, 3, pub. at London) may be mentioned:—

1. Alden, A. E. Some Liberal and Hymns . . . with the contract sedulius. Norwich, 1902.
2. Bagshawe, E. O. Sweetest Hymns and Most Sequences. Translated by Edward C. Bagshawe, Bishop of Nottingham. 1900.
3. Bassett, L. F. Hymns and Verses. Philadelphia, 1897.
4. Brownlie, John. Hymns of the Early Church. 1896.
5. Brownlie, John. Hymns from East and West. 1898.

LAUDA SION LET VAIN 1663

6. Gray, John. Spiritual Poems, chiefly done out of [illegible]. 1896.
7. Hoernlé, R. M. Renderings of Church Hymns from Eastern and Western Office Books, 1901.
8. Pope, R. M. The Hymns of Prudentius. 1905. This is a version of the Cathemerinon, partly made by Mr. R. F. Davis.
9. Tweddell, —. Songs from Prudentius. 1898.
10. Val Echoman, J. F. Selected Feast-Day Hymns . . . from the Missal and Breviary . . . Latin and English. 1895.

A considerable number of trs., some previously unpublished, are in O. Shipley's Carmina Mariana, 1893, and 2nd Series, 1902. [J. M.]

Lauda Sion Salvatorem, p. 665, ii. Additional versions:—

1. Laud, O Sion, thy salvation, with st. ii., "Sing today," in The English Hym., 1906, No. 317, is mainly from the form in the People's Hym., 1867, No. 166.
2. O Sion! let Thy Saviour's praise, by F. C. Hoversbeth, in his Manual for the Laity, 3rd ed., 1849, p. 620 (the version "break forth," noted at p. 668, i., No. 1, is in the 1st ed., 1846, p. 620), repeated in the 4th ed., 1850, p. 670), repeated in the Arundel Hym., 1861, No. 36.
3. O True Bread, Good Shepherd, tend us, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 278, marked as by the Compilers, is a tr. of st. xii. ("Bone Pastor, panis vere"), nearly the same as that in the People's Hym., No. 148.
4. Sion, sing thy Saviour's glory. This abbreviated tr. (st. i.–iii., vi.) is in the Hymnary of Independent Coll., 1905, as "1866. To accompany." [J. M.]

Laudes Salvatori, p. 666, ii. Another tr. is:—

Praises to the Saviour sing, by M. J. Blacker, in the Hymner, 1891, No. 148.

Laus devota mente, p. 667, ii. This is in a Sarum Missal of c. 1250 now at Manchester (Crawford, Lat. Cat., 240b), a Chichester Sequentiary of c. 1275 kept in the Bodleian (Univ. 148, f. 30b), and others. Printed text in Mimd-Weale, No. 74, and Dreves, xl., p. 324. The Junius MS. 121 in the Bodleian ascribes it to Gervasius of Chichester, fl. 1190. [J. M.]

Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom, pp. 667, i.; 1477, i. To the trs. of this hymn into Latin we have to add (1) "Duc me benigna lux tenebrarum precor," by "W. F. R. S." in the Guardian, Jan. 17, 1883; and (2) "Lux ades alma: per bane, qua non circumvolat umbram," by Richard Horton Smith in Notes & Queries, Ninth Series, Vol. X., p. 425. [J. J.]

Lee, Elvira Louisa, née Ostrehan, was b. Nov. 22, 1838, at Shepscombe Vicarage, Gloucs., m. June 9, 1859, the Rev. F. G. Lee (d. 1877, i.), and d. Sept. 1, 1890, at All Saints Vicarage, Lambeth, Surrey. She was the author of The Departed and other Verses, 1855, contributed to the Penny Post, to the Annus Sanctus of Mr. Orby Shipley, &c. Her hymn, Starry hosts are gleaming (Evening), is in Sunday Selection, 1894, pt. ii. pp. viii., 71; in A. E. Tozer's Church Hys., 1895, No. 88, &c. [J. M.]

Leefe, Isabella, was b. at Richmond, Yorks, Aug. 18, 1831. She was for some time Mother of a House of Charity in Edinburgh and elsewhere. Subsequently she retired to Cantham, Yorks, and d. there, March 15, 1902. Her hymns include:—

1. Loving Father, throned in glory. Standfastness.
2. O Father, are the night clouds near. Training.
3. O Jesu, Thou art present. H. Communion.
4. The clouds of night have rolled away. Morning.

Her Caedmon Sanderson, &c., was pub. anonymously in 1880 (2nd ed. 1881). From it No. 3 is taken. Nos. 1, 2 and 4 were contributed to C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903. (See Mendris, O., p. 1675, i.) [J. J.]

Leeson, Jane Eliza, p. 669, ii. D. in 1897, d. in 1882.

Leland, B. H. In The Sunny Side, N.Y., 1875, several hymns are given as by Mrs. E. H. Leland, including:—

1. Cheerfully, cheerfully let us all live. Life to be Joyful.
2. How many little children Within. City Mission.
3. O, the Father's hands are helping. Work for God.
4. The days are gliding swiftly by. Heavenly Rest.

In the Hymnary, Toronto, 1906, as "M. G. Leland, circa 1880," in error. Mrs. Leland's hymns were written c. 1860, before her marriage, for use in the Sunday S. of the Unitarian Church at Milwaukee. [J. M.]

Leonard, Ellen Thurston, b. in 1845, is the author of "Not a life so mean or lowly" (Love) in Horder's Worship Song, 1905.

Leonard, Frederick, b. 1839; d. 1867. Author of "Constant as Thy mercies are" (Praise) in Horder's Worship Song. 1905.

Lester, John Henry, M.A., of St. John's Coll., Cambridge; B.A. in honours, 1868; M.A., 1871. Ordained in 1868, he held several appointments, including the Rectory of South Hackney, 1883–90, and Diocesan Missioner in the diocese of Lichfield, 1880–83. In 1884 he became a Prebendary of Lichfield, and in 1890 Rector of Lexden, Essex. His The Lichfield Church Mission H. Book, 1883, was revised as The Lichfield Mission H. Book (S.P.C.K.). To the former he contributed:—

1. Hark, my soul, the sound of voices. Heaven Desired.
2. Hush, my soul, what voice is pleading? The Voice of Jesus.
3. O happy land of Paradise. Heaven.
4. O saints, in heaven we number you. Saints.
5. O saints, who now so strange and still. Repentance.
6. Until he come! Ah, yes. Awaiting the End.

To these in the revised edition he added four original Metrical Litanies. [J. J.]

Let all the world rejoice. J. Hurd. (Praise to God.) One of the original hymns in his Spiritual Songs of Martin Luther, 1853, p. 126, entitled "The Majesty of God." Given, slightly altered, in Hys. A. & M., 1904. [J. M.]

Let every ear attend. This is a recast of I. Watts's C. M. "Let every mortal ear attend" (p. 1238, i. 98) into S. M., given in a few American collections.

Let God, the God of battle, rise. Tate and Brady. (Ps. lxviii.) Pub. in the New Version, 1698, in 33 st. of 4, l. The version "The servants of Jehovah's will," given in some American colls., is an altered form of portions of this Psalm, beginning with st. iii. [J. J.]

Let me suffer, let me drain, p. 681, i. This hymn by Mrs. Howitt is the opening hymn in Lays of the Sanctuary, 1859. It subsequently appeared in Lyra Brit., 1867, but was not contributed thereto as a new composition for that special work. [J. J.]

Let us, brethren, let us gladly. H. Bateman. (Christian Service.) From his Heart Melodies, 1862, No. iii., into the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, as "Let us, brothers," &c.

Let vain pursuits and vain desires, p. 1677, i., has been traced to E. N. Goymer's Coll. of Hys., 2nd ed., 1822 (p. 1347, i.).

Lewis, Henry King, was b. Feb. 10, 1825, at Margate, became a medical publisher in Gower Street, London, and d. in Jan. 1898. His hymns appeared principally in two collections which he ed., viz., Songs for Little Children, 1870, and Songs for Little Singers, 1880, enlarged ed. 1881. Three have passed into various books for children :—

1. A little tiny bird. God's Care. 1879, No. 130.
2. God is near me when the light. God is near. 1879, No. 164; previously in Horder's Sh. of Praise for Children, 1875, p. 41.
3. Who is this [He] that claims my heart. God's Claim. 1879, No. 131. [J. M.]

Lewis, Howell Elvet, M.A., b. April 14, 1860, and educated for the Congregational Ministry. After holding several charges in the country, he removed to London in 1898. His Sweet Singers of Wales, 1890, contains trs. of standard Welsh hymns. They are well done, and worthy of attention on the part of hymn-book compilers. Mr. Lewis is M.A. of the University of Wales. [T. G. C.]

Lieb'z, die du, p. 674. i. Another tr. is "Love, who didst Thy servant fashion," by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904.

Life and light and joy are found. C. E. Wadie. [Youth for God.] Published in his Stray Leaves, No. ii., March 1872, in 5 st. of 6 l., and entitled "Counsels." At the end is "Rewritten January 26, 1872." This text is in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900. [J. J.]

Lift up, lift up your voices now. [Easter.] This hymn, in the American Episcopal Hyl., 1892, No. 119, is a mosaic made up of fragments of Easter hymns, pieced together without any regard to the continuity of the originals. It is principally from Dr. Neale's "The foe behind," &c., p. 1148. ii.; from his tr. of "En dies est dominica," p. 330. ii.; and Mrs. Charles's version of "Aurea lucis," p. 56. i. (Voice of Christian Life in Song, &c., 1858, p. 100 : "The morning kindles all the sky.") This conto is repeated in several American collections. [J. M.]

Lift up your hearts! We lift them, Lord, to Thee. H. M. Butler. [Thanksgiving and Praise.] Contributed to the Harrow School H. Bk., 1881, from which it has passed into several later collections, including The Public School H. Book, 1903, The English Hymnal, 1906, and others. [J. J.]

Light of the world, Thy beams I bless. This, in the 1904 ed. of The Meth. H.-Bk., No. 464, is composed of sts. i., ii. from C. Wesley's "Are there not in the labourer's day" (p. 76. ii.), and sts. iii.–v. from his "But can it be that I should prove," in Hys. & Soc. Poems, 1749. (P. Works, 1868–72, v., 479.) [J. M.]

Liguori, Alfonso Maria de', pp. 1336, ii. 1377, i. In 1892, the trs. of Liguori's hymns were not noted in detail because the originals were not accessible. We have lately found the Canzoncine Spirituali . . . di Sant' Alfonso Maria de' Liguori, Turin, 1830, in the library of the Oratory, London, and discovered that Bp. Coffin was merely the editor of the 1861 vol. of trs. All those noted below are by Father Edmund Vaughan (q.v.). In 1903, nos. 7, 16 below are ascribed to Mgr. Falcoja and Mgr. Majello, but Father Vaughan now informs us that he thinks they were probably by St. Alfonso. Some of the 1903 trs. appeared previously in Hys. for the Confraternity of the Holy Family, 1854, and in Holy Family Hys., 1860. The best-known are :—

1. Dai tua celeste trono. (R. V. M.) 1839, p. 60. Tr. as "Look down, O Mother Mary." 1854, No. 7 ; 1883, p. 37.
2. Fiori, felici voi, che notte, e giorno. (Holy Communion.) 1839, p. 34. Tr. (1) "O happy flowers!" O happy flowers," (by F. W. Faber, in Oratory Hys., 1854, No. 19 ; (2) "O flowers, O happy flowers," 1854, p. 39.
3. Gesu mio, son dure assai. (Passiontide.) 1839, p. 44. Tr. as "My Jesus! say, what wretch has dared." 1854, No. 15 ; 1883, p. 57.
4. Giacchè tu vuoi ch'almanzi sedre. (St. Joseph to the Infant Jesus.) 1839, p. 84. Tr. as "Jesus ! let me call Thee Son." 1854, No. 14, 1883, p. 13, is a different metre.
5. Lodiamo santando. (Month of B. V. M.) 1839, p. 41. Tr. as "Uplift the voice and sing." 1849, p. 49 ; 1854, No. 18 ; 1883, p. 41 ; 1889, p. 49 ; 1894, No. 5 ; 1903, p. 5. Tr. as "Words, thou art no more for me." 1863, p. 68. In Hys. for the Year, 1843, it begins "Jesus, Lord, be Thou my own" (st. iii. alt.).
6. O bella Dio, Signor del Paradiso. (The Love of God.) 1839, p. 66. Tr. as "O God of loveliness." 1843, p. 119.
7. Partenda del mondo. (Holy Communion.) 1839, p. 54. Tr. as "When the loving shepherd." 1843, p. 17.
8. Sei pura, sei pia. (B. V. M.) 1839, p. 61. Tr. as "Thou art clement, thou art chaste." 1883, p. 34. In Hys. for the Year, 1847, and others, it begins with st. ii., "O Mother blest ! whom God bestows."
10. Sin prigioni entro quel Core. (Sacred Heart of Jesus.) 1839, p. 85. Tr. as "I dwell a captive in this breast." 1849, p. 52.
11. Tu scendi dalle stelle. O Re del cielo. (Christmas.) 1839, p. 42. Tr. as "O King of Heaven ! from starry throne descending." 1854, No. 4 ; 1883, p. 12.

The following are all in 1883 and in Hys. for the year, 1867 :—

12. Up bither from the storm that rages round. For a Parent.
13. In this sweet Sacrament, to Thee. Holy Communion.
14. Knowest thou, sweet Mary. B. V. M.
15. Let those who will for other beauties pine. The Beauty of God.
16. Mary, my heart for love. Adieu. B. V. M.
17. Mary, my Mother Queen most sweet. B. V. M.
18. My God, O Goodness infinite. Love of Jesus. In 1862 indexed under the chorus "Jesus, my sweetest Lord."
19. My soul, what dost thou? Answer me. Holy Communion.
20. O Bread of Heaven ! beneath this veil. Holy Communion.
21. O how I love Thee, Lord of Heaven above. Christmas.
22. Raise your voices, vales and mountains. B. V. M.
23. 'Tis Thy good pleasure, not my own. We will of God.

Of these, nos. 13, 17 were taken by Father Vaughan from a Neapolitan Mission H. Bk. ; the rest are found in 1830, as follows : 12 at p. 32 ; 14, p. 63 ; 15, p. 9 ; 16, p. 70 ; 18, p. 61 ; 19, p. 37 ; 20, p. 40 ; 21, p. 44 ; 22, p. 66 ; 23, p. 7. [J. M.]

Lindenborn, Heinrich, PH.D., was b. at Cologne, June 6, 1712, and d. at Bonn, April 21, 1795. He pub. in 1741 at Cologne the curious hymn book, Neues Gott und dem Lamm geheiligtes Kirchen- und Haus-Gesang der ... Tochter Sion, which completely breaks away from the traditional type of hymn book, and consists entirely of originals and translations by himself. Seven of the original hymns are in Latin ; and of these three are annotated in this Dictionary, viz.:—

Alnum famen, vita mundi, pp. 44. i. ; 1150. ii.
Colunt Jesu signa lactus, pp. 215. ii. ; 1150. ii.
Tandem lactus, tandem lætus, p. 1709. ii. [J. M.]

Linquunt tecta Magi, p. 677. The version "From the princely city," in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 379, is Chambers's slightly altered.

Little children, praise the Saviour, p. 1077. i. We have traced this hymn to the Juvenile Harmonist, published by the Sunday School Union c. 1837 or 1838, where it appeared anonymously, and apparently for the first time. It is in several modern collections, including the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, and others. [J. B.]

Little children, wake and listen. [Christmas.] Appeared anonymously in the S.P.C.K. Appendix, 1869 ; Horder's Book of Praise for Children, 1875 ; and many others of later date, including the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, &c.

Little drops of water, p. 679. i. When this Dictionary came into circulation in America, in 1892, the authorship of this hymn was claimed by Mrs. Julia A. Carney (q.v.) as against Dr. Brewer. After prolonged searching and correspondence we find that a hymn by Mrs. Carney was printed in a Reader published for use in the Boston Primary Schools, U.S.A., in 1845. This American text is that given on p. 679. From this it will be seen that Dr. Brewer began his version of the hymn in 1848 by adopting the opening stanza of Mrs. Carney's version of 1845, and adding thereto four inferior verses of his own. Mrs. Carney's text, with variations in most collections, is that now (1906) in C. U. Dr. Brewer's version is unknown to modern hymn books. [J. J.]

Livermore, A. A., p. 680. ii. He d. in 1892.

Lo! He comes with clouds descending, p. 681. i. In the various hymnals published since 1802, there is no uniformity either in the text or in the stanzas used by the compilers. In every instance, however, which has come under our notice the conto has been compiled from the texts as set forth in detail on pp. 681–2. [J. J.]

Lo! on a narrow neck of land. C. Wesley. This conto in the American Meth. Hymnal, 1905, begins with st. ii. of "Thou God of glorious majesty" (p. 1169. ii.), at which place we discussed the origin of the verse, "Lo, on a narrow neck of land." Recently a claim has been made in America to the effect that a hymn beginning with this verse has been discovered among some mss. of the Georgia Historical Society. The Rev. C. S. Nutter says, in the American Christian Advocate, Mar. 3, 1898, p. 6 :—

That the mss. had been examined by Mr. Franklin H. Head, a magazine writer, who found that, during Charles Wesley's residence in Georgia in 1736 he resided for a time on Jekyl Island with General Oglethorpe and his family. To the wife of General Oglethorpe, who was staying at Savannah, he wrote from Jekyl Island in 1736 :" Last evening I wandered to the south end of the Island, and stood on a point of land, where I had a full view of the sea and fleets projecting into the ocean. The vastness of the watery waste, as compared with my standing-place, called to mind the briefness of human life and the immensity of its consequences, and my surroundings inspired me to write the enclosed hymn, beginning—

"'Lo! on a narrow neck of land,
'Twixt two unbounded seas I stand,' which, I trust, may pleasure your ladyship, weak and feeble as it is when compared with the songs of the sweet Psalmist of Israel."

From those details we are led to conclude that C. Wesley must have incorporated this hymn in "Thou God of glorious majesty," which was published in the Wesley Hys. & Sacred Poems, 1740. [J. J.]

Lo, what a pleasing sight. This in a few collections is a rewritten form in S. M. of Watts's C. M. rendering of Ps. cxxxiii., from his Hymns, &c., 1707, and his Ps. of David, 1719, where it begins "Lo, what an entertaining sight" (p. 1240. i. 20.). [J. J.]

Lob sey Gott, p. 683. i. Another tr. is :—
Let God, our Maker, Lord of Spring, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 2nd ed., 1905, No. 23.

Lobe den Herren, p. 683. i. Another tr. is :—
Praise to the Lord, the omnipotent Saviour, be given, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 120.

Lockwood, Amelia de F. In The Pilgrim Hyl., Boston, 1904, the hymn, "Saviour, Who Thy life didst give" (For the Baptism of the Spirit), is given with this name as the writer. Beyond this we have no information.

Longfellow, S., p. 685. i. Since Mr. Longfellow's death on Oct. 3, 1892, his hymns have been collected by his niece, Miss Alice Longfellow, as Hymns and Verses (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1904.) From this work we find many of the hymns signed Anon. in the Index to Longfellow and Johnson's Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, were his : several of these, including E. Osler's "O God unseen, yet ever near," were popular English hymns which he rewrote from his own theological standpoint. These rewritten hymns are very widely used by Unitarians and others. During the last ten years the following additional hymns by S. Longfellow have come into C. U. :—

1. Eternal One, Thou living God. Faith in God.
2. God of the earth, the sky, the sea. God in Nature.
3. God's trumpet wakes the slumbering world. Call to duty.
4. Light of ages and of nations. God in and through all time.
5. Lo, the earth is risen again. Spring. (1878.)
6. Now while we sing our closing psalm. Close of Worship.
7. O Life that maketh all things new. Unity. (1874.)
8. O Thou to Whom we live and move. The Divine Love.
9. The summer days are o'ne again. Summer. From his hymn "Last night the frost-king in his frolic mood."
10. Thou Lord of life, our saving health to all. (1884.)

Of these hymns Nos. 2, 3 appeared in the Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, and all with the dates appended in Hys. and Verses, 1904. [J. J.]

Look down, sweet Saviour, from Thy holy place. F. Oakeley. [Good Friday.] From his Lyra Liturgica, 1853, p. 94, given as "The Prayer for all estates of men. Adapted from the Missal." Repeated in the Arundel Hys., 1902, no. 64. [J. M.]

Lord, all I am is known to Thee. This is another altered form of I. Watts's "In all my vast concerns with Thee," p. 1240. i. 24.

Lord, be Thy Word my rule. By C. Wordsworth, of Lincoln. [Confirmation.] From the 5th ed., 1872, of his Do'y Year, p. 209, into the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. and M.

1666 LORD, DARE LOWRY, SOMERSET

Lord, dare we pray Thee dwell within. J. Anstice. [The Holy Spirit desired.] Appeared in his Hymns, 1836, No. 26, in 29 l. A cento in the Moorlborough Coll. Hymns, 1899, begins "How dare we pray Thee dwell within?" The text of this cento is much altered from the original. [J. J.]

Lord, dismiss us with Thy blessing, p. 697, ii. The date of Hawker's 11th ed. of his Pr. & Hys. as 1811 is an error. The 13th ed. is dated 1807. In his "Advertisement" to this ed. the author says that alterations found in the texts of various hymns were introduced in that edition. This hymn is one of those which underwent alterations. The copy of the 13th ed. to which we refer is in the Church House Library, Westminster. [J. J.]

Lord, enthroned in heavenly splendour, p. 1258, ii. The text of this hymn as given in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. includes a verse of Dr. Bourne's original text (st. v.) omitted by the Compilers of the former edition. It has slight alterations also which were sanctioned by the author. In The English Hymnal the old text of Hys. A. & M. is repeated. [J. J.]

Lord! for to-morrow and its needs. [Strength for the Day.] The authoress, who desires to remain anonymous, informs me that this poem was written in 1877, and was first printed in the English Messenger of the Sacred Heart Jan. 1880, p. 20, and signed "S. M. X." It has been widely used, but generally altered and abridged. The full and correct form is in her In Hyacinthe Canticis. Verses Sacred and Profane, by a Sister of Notre Dame (S. M. X.), 1903, p. 24. These Verses were mostly written at Liverpool, for the students of the Liverpool Training College. [J. M.]

Lord, help me to resign My doubting heart to Thee. [Resignation.] Anon. in the Amer. Sursum Corda, 1898, No. 536.

Lord, I believe Thy word of grace, p. 689, ii. This opening line should read "Lord, I believe Thy work of grace."

Lord, in this Thy mercy's day, p. 690, ii. In the 1st ed. of The Baptistery, 1843, this is given at p. 207 from "Imago the Twenty-second."

Lord Jesu, think on me, p. 700, ii. In Church Hys., 1903, the cento is composed of Mr. Chatfield's original tr., sts. ii., iii., v., vii., viii. and ix., as slightly altered in Thring's Coll., 1882; and in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. the sts. from the original tr. are ii., iii., v., vii., unaltered except that the opening words read "Lord Jesus," &c.

Lord Jesus, bless us ere we go. An altered form of F. W. Faber's "Sweet Saviour, &c., p. 1107, ii.

Lord Jesus, we believing. This hymn, dated on p. 1184 l. 3, as 1861, appeared in the London Inquirer, Dec. 1839, p. 629.

Lord, let Thy goodness lead our land. On p. 1178, i., this hymn is said to be taken from P. Doddridge's hymn, No. 269, in his Hymns, 1755. This is an error. It is from his "Salvation doth to God belong," p. 1240, l. 11.

Lord of all with pure intent. C. Wesley. [Holy Baptism.] One of his Hys. on the Four Gospels left in ms. at his death in 1788, and included in P. Works, xii., p. 119. In The Meth. Hymn-Book, 1904.

Lord of our life, and God of our salvation, p. 699, i. In the Life of Edward Bouverie Pusey, by Canon Liddon, this is looked upon as an original English hymn.

"In the last three years that he [Pusey] composed the Hymn which is the watchword of Church Militant in Oxford, he writes to me touchingly, 'Hymn of the Church'—that is to say, of the Church of England in 1834—assailed from without, enfeebled and distracted within, but on the eve of a great awakening" (vol. i., 1893, pp. 298, 299).

At p. 699, i., this hymn is described as "rather founded on the German than a tr."; but it bears too much resemblance to the German to be regarded as entirely original. The Engl. Hyl., 1906, gives the text of 1840, except that in 1849 st. ii., l. 3 is "darts of venom," iii., l. 2 is "when sins itself," and v., l. 3 is "or, after."

Lord of the sinless world above, p. 693, i. This hymn was given in the London Inquirer, Feb. 1839, p. 100, as "Hymn to be sung by the children of St. Mary's, Newington." It begins "Lord of the countless worlds above," and is signed "W. J. 1837." [J. M.]

Lord, Thy people guide and keep. This, in C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903, is a slightly altered form of Bp. How's "Lord, Thy children guide and keep," p. 693, ii.

Lord, when in Simon's house of sore. [Mary's Love and Gift.] This is given in the Presb. New Pa. & Hys., Richmond, U.S.A., 1901, as by "Sarah B(owards) Henshaw, 1878."

Lord, when my soul her secrets doth reveal, p. 878, i. This hymn is given in error to Dr. Ray Palmer. It is by Lord Selborne (Sir Roundell Palmer), and is that noted under Psalters, English, p. 932, i. 317. [J. J.]

Lord, with glowing heart [I'd] I'll praise Thee, p. 856, i. 4. A full account of this hymn, but too long for insertion here, is given in the Phila. Foreword (in Studies of Familiar Hymns by Louis F. Benson, D.D.), vol. xxi., No. 26. A copy of the article is among the Broadsheets, Julian Coll., Church Ho., Westminster. [J. J.]

Lothrop, Amy. A pen-name of Anna Warner, p. 1258, i.

Love's redeeming work is done. C. Wesley. A cento composed of sts. ii.–v., x., of "Christ the Lord is risen to-day" (p. 226, i.) in The English Hyl., 1906.

Lowry, R., p. 690, i. He d. Nov. 25, 1899.

Lowry, Somerset Corry, M.A., s. of James Corry Lowry, Q.C., of Rockdale, Dungannon, Ireland, b. in 1835, and educated at Repton and Trin. Hall, Camb., B.A. 1877, M.A. 1880. Ordained in 1879 to the Curacy of Doncaster. Subsequently Vicar of North Holmwood, Surrey, 1891–1900, and of St. Augustin's, Bournemouth, from 1900. He has pub. The Work of the Holy Spirit, 1891; Consolescence, 1897; Lessons from the Passion, 1899, &c. His hymns include:—

1. Behold, Lord, how the nations rage. The Vine of

LUCIS CREATOR MACKELLAR, T. 1667

War.] Written "For Use during the War between Russia and Turkey, 1854, and printed as a leaflet by Jas. S. Hay, Portsmouth."

2. Lord, while afar our brothers fight. The Vine of War. Written at Holmwood, Surrey, in 1899, after the reverse of Colenso, and extensively used during the S. African War. Given in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M.

3. O Saviour, once again the sibling year. [For a Christening.] Written at Holmwood, Surrey, in honour of Queen Victoria's annual service in memory of the Prince Consort. Included in Hys. of the Christ. Centuries, 1903.

4. O Son of God, enthroned above. [Advent.] Written at Holmwood, in 1895, and given in M. Woodward's Children's Service Bk., 1897.

5. Pressing forward. [Perseverance.] Also in Woodward's Children's Service Bk., 1897. Written at Bournemouth, in 1903.

6. Son of God, Eternal Saviour. [For Unity.] Written at Holmwood, in 1902; printed in Goodwill, Feb. 1904, and included in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M.

7. We meet as we have never met before. [Burial.] Written for use after a Child's Funeral, Holmwood, 1902, and given in Woodward's Children's Service Bk., 1897. [J. J.]

Lucis Creator optime, p. 700, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. O Thou, of light Creator best (1905, "Creator Blest") in the Office H. Bk., 1908, No. 369; and 1905, No. 166, below ii. 1, 2 from R. Bridges.

2. O God Creator of the light. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 15, it is said by the Compilers, "A full-length former version, 'Blest Creator,' turned into L. M. to adapt it to a plainsong melody."

3. Source of light and life divine, in Church Hys., 1903, is, with slight alterations, J. Chandler's tr., as altered by it. Thring.

4. Maker, by Whose anointed word. By H. K. Oliver, in Lyra Eucharistica, 1864, pp. 31, 32, and A. E. Tone's Catholic Hys., 1894. [J. M.]

Luff, William, b. May 14, 1850, and admitted as a Member of the Baptist Church at the Metropolitan Tabernacle in 1866. His first effort in versifying was pub. in Baptist Messenger, Feb. 1870. Since then he has contributed extensively in prose and verse to various publications, including Sword and Trowel; Drummond's Tracts, Stirling; Golden Bells; Gospel Solos for Gospel Singers; and many others. His best-known hymns are:—

1. O! who this day will rejoicing say? (Double Victory.) Written in 1885, and in 1886 or 1887 was brought into notice through its recitation by the Rev. Robert Brooke at the Belfast Convention at his Bible reading, Oct. 22nd, 1888. Printed as a hymn-sheet, it had a large circulation. In the Church Mus. B. Bk., 1899, st. i.–vi. are omitted.

2. God fills the soul that it may pray. (Receiving Holy Spirit.) Written in 1887, and in 1892 in revised edition of Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1903.

3. I know not what He'll give me. (New Year.) First pub. in Songs of Salvation, No. 63, and again in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1902.

4. The faith that saves the soul. (Saving Faith.) In Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1902; was written in 1887.

In addition the following hymns are by Mr. Luff:—In Golden Bells, No. 280; Caskey and Stebbings' Male Choir, No. 4; Manton Smith's Evangel Echoes, Nos. 37, 57, 71, 126, 132, 154, 237; Gospel Solos for Gospel Singers, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, "My Saviour could and would"; and the Songs, to Own Own H. Bk. (Spurgeon), "Hark, the Captain's voice is calling."

Of Mr. Luff's hymns 100 were pub. in 1885, as About Jesus; and a second 100 as About the Father, 1886, by Drummond, Tract Depot, Stirling. [J. J.]

Luke, Jemima, née Thompson, p. 702, i. Mrs. Luke d. at Newport, Isle of Wight, Feb. 2, 1906.

Luminis fons, lux et origo lucis. Alcuin. [Evening.] This is in the Poetae Latini Aevi Carolini, Berlin, 1881, vol. i., p. 240, in 16 sts., from the eds. of Alcuin's Opera by Du Chesne (1617), Froben and Wattenbach; that is, it is not printed from any Ms. In Rambach's Anthologie, i., p. 197, there are 9 sts. from the ed. of 1617. Tr. as :—

O Christ! our Light, O Fount of light. A good tr. from the text of Rambach, by H. M. Moorman, in his Readerings of Ch. Hys., 1901, p. 64; repeated, slightly altered, in the S.P.C.K. Church Hys., 1903. [J. M.]

Lunn, Caroline Sophia, née Grundy, wife of the Rev. J. C. Lunn, p. 1196, ii., was b. in 1822, and d. in 1855. She contributed 10 hymns to her husband's Hys. for Religious Services, Leicester, 1880. One of these, "Day and night the blessings fall" (God's care), No. 22, is in The Sunday S. Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Lutheran Hymnody, American. See American Hymnody, § ix.

Lux alma Jesu mentium, p. 704, ii. The version "Light of the soul, Thou Saviour blest," in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 254, is based on Caswall.

Lux ecce surgit aurea, p. 690, ii. Additional trs. are :—

1. See the golden sun arise. A fine version, by W. J. Dawkins, in his Hys., &c., 1852, No. 56.

2. And then at length let darkness flee. by H. M. Pipe, in his Hys. of Predestination, 1866, p. 21. He revised it for The English Hyl., 1868, No. 85, where it begins "Lo! golden light rekindles day." [J. M.]

Lynch, T. T., p. 706, ii. Other hymns by him in recent books are :—

1. My faith it is an oaken staff. Faith in Christ. In Congregational Hymns, 1887.

2. Together for our country now we pray. National. In The Rivulet, 1849, p. 170. [J. M.]

M. C. W., in Songs of Zion, 1876, i.e. M. C. Wilson, née Hood.

Macdonald, G., p. 707, ii. He d. at Sagamore, Ashtead, Surrey, Sep. 18, 1905.

Macduff, J., R., p. 708, i. He d. April 30, 1895.

Mackay, William Paton, M.D., was b. at Montrose, May 13, 1839, and educated at the University of Edinburgh. After following his medical profession for a time, he became minister of Prospect Street Presbyterian Church, Hull, in 1868, and d. from an accident, at Portree, Aug. 22, 1885. Seventeen of his hymns are in W. Reid's Praise Bk., 1872. Of these the best known is "We praise Thee, O God, for the Son of Thy love" (Praise to God), written 1863, recast 1867. [J. M.]

McKeever, Harriet Burn, b. at Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28, 1807, and d. at Chester, in the same State, Feb. 7, 1887. She was engaged in educational work in Philadelphia for many years, and was associated with St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in that city. Her hymns, written in some instances for use in St. Andrew's, were collected and published as Twilight Musings, in 1857. From this volume we find that "Jesus, high in glory," p. 1174, ii., was written by Miss McKeever. [J. R.]

Mackellar, T., pp. 708, ii.; 1178, ii. He d. Dec. 29, 1890. His hymn, "O the darkness, O the sorrow" (Redemption through Christ), was written in 1886, and added to the latest editions of his Hys. & Metrical Psalms. It is found in Sermon Cards, 1898, and several other collections. His Hymns and Poems were collected and published in 1900. [L. F. B.]

McKenzie, W. B., p. 1079, ii. Another of his hymns, "Child of God, when thou art weary" (Rest in the Lord), is included in the Bap. Sermon Cards, Phila., 1898, and dated 1891. He d. June 13, 1896. [J. J.]

Maclagan, Abp. W. D., pp. 709, i.; 1079, ii. At the present time all Abp. Maclagan's hymns are in C. U., and most of his tunes likewise. With regard to the latter, it is exceptional to find so many tunes by the author of popular hymns sharing the same popularity in the principal hymnals. In Church Hys., 1903, and Hys. A. & M., 1904, combined, there are eight of his tunes, whilst the hymns are six in all. [J. J.]

McSorley, Catherine Mary. Her hymn, "We thank Thee, O our Father" (Praise to God), in Church Hys. 1905, is from the Irish Church Hyl., Appx., 1891.

Magee, John Arthur Victor, M.A., s. of Archbishop Magee, was b. Oct. 8, 1860, and educated at Merton Coll., Oxford: B.A. in honours, 1890; M.A., 1894. Ordained in 1892, he became in 1906 Vicar of St. Mark's, Marylebone, London. Several of his hymns have appeared in the Church Monthly and other periodicals. The best known is "Here we stand to face the combat" (Confirmation), in C. W. A. Brooke's Add. Hymns, 1903. [J. J.]

Magnae Deus potentiae, p. 711, Another tr. is:—

O Sovereign Lord of Nature's might, a full and good version by W. J. Courthope in the S.P.C.K. Church Hys., 1903, No. 66. [J. M.]

Magno salutis gaudio. [Palm Sunday.] Included in the Benedictine ed. of the Opera of St. Gregory the Great (Paris, vol. iii., 1705, col. 875), but without reason. In some of the early MSS., e.g. Brussels 1351, f. 65b, of the 9th cent., and Verona Chapter Library, 90, f. 131, of the 9th cent., it begins "Magnum salutis gaudium." Printed text in Werner, No. 42; Daniel, i., No. 150, ii., p. 382, &c. In the Roman Breviary, Venice, 1478, there is a cento for St. Mary Magdalen, beginning with st. iii., "Nardi Maria pistici," and this in the Roman Brev., 1632, begins "Maria casta oculis." Tr. as:—

With chastened look and reverence meet, from the Hymnal 1852, in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 774 (1906, No. 564). [J. M.]

Magnum nomen Domini Emmanuel. [Christmas.] Probably of the 14th cent. Hofmann nos Fallersleben, 1861, p. 422, prints it from a Munich MS. of 1422 (sts. iii.–viii. being the "Resonet in laudibus"), and at p. 424 the form that became current, from Cornet's G. B. (R. C.), 1625. It is in MSS. of the 15th cent. at Hohenfurt, Berlin, Vienna, and Leipzig (see Bäumker, i., No. 47, &c.). Text also in Wackernagel, i., No. 348; Daniel, iv., p. 232; the Arundel Hys., 1905, No. 24, &c. Tr. as:—

Great is our Lord Jesu's name, Emmanuel, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hys., 1905, No. 24. [J. M.]

Make haste, O man, to live, p. 161, ii. This is altered in the Public School H. Bk., 1903, to "Make haste, my soul, to live."

Maker of the human heart. This cento, in the Hys. for Use in New College Chapel, Oxford, 1906, is composed of sts. iv.–vi. of Dean Stanley's "O frail spirit, vital spark," p. 1087, ii.

Manning, Card. Henry Edward, D.D., was b. July 15, 1808, at Copped Hall, Totteridge, Herts, and was educated at Harrow and at Balliol Coll., Oxford. He was sometime Archdeacon of Chichester, joined the Church of Rome 1851, became Archbishop of Westminster 1865, and Cardinal 1875, d. Jan. 14, 1892. See the details of his career in the Life by E. S. Purcell, 1895, in A. W. Hutton's Cardinal Manning, 1892, &c. He was a voluminous writer, a famous preacher, and a well-known philanthropist and temperance worker. His connection with hymnody was slight. He contributed a tr. to the Holy Family Hyn., 1860, noted under Origen, L. M. The only original hymns we have been able definitely to trace to him are the following, contributed to the Catholic Parochial H. Bk., 1873 (Nos. 538, pts. i.–iv., 550), viz.:—

1. All creatures of Thy hand are good. Temperance.
2. I promise Thee, sweet Lord, that I. Temperance.
3. In penance for the guilt of men. Temperance.
4. O holy Patrick! Ireland's saint. St. Patrick.
5. O Jesus! Who for love of me. Temperance.

[T. M.]

March, D., p. 1078, ii. The following details concerning Dr. March's hymn, "Hark! the voice of Jesus crying," have been furnished us by himself:—

"It was written at the impulse of the moment to follow a sermon I was to preach in Clinton St. Church to the Philadelphia Christian Association on the text Is. vi. 8. That was some time in 1868."

The original text in full is in The Hymnal, (Presb.), Phila., 1895, No. 261. Dr. March declines to accept the interpolations which have been made in this hymn. We must note also that the incident given in Brownlie's Hymns and Hymnwriters of the Church Hymnary (Scottish), p. 305, relative to this hymn and President Lincoln, is incorrect. It relates to Mrs. E. Gates's "I've cannot on the ocean," p. 1465, i. 5. [L. F. B.]

Maria flos, orbis honor. [B. V. M.] This is in the Andernach G. B. (R. C.), 1608, with a German text beginning "Maria rein, du hast allein" (see Bäumker, i., pp. 109, 133, who thinks the Latin is a fr. from the German). The German text is in Wackernagel, v., No. 1463; the Latin text is in the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 181. Tr. as:—"Hail, God's own Bride," by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hys., 1902. It is a very free version. [J. M.]

Maria gieng geschwind. [Purification of B. V. M.] In the Catholische Kirchen-Gesäng, printed by Brachel at Cologne, 1625, p. 422. Also in Hommel's Geistl. Volksleder, 1864, No. 33; H. Bone's Cantate, ed. 1875, No. 354, &c. Tr. as:—

Mary, that mother mild, by G. R. Woodward, in O. Shipley's Carmina Mariana, 1862, p. 161, and his own Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 116. [J. M.]

Maria gieng hinaus. [Visitation of B. V. M.] This is in the Catholische Kirchen-Gesäng, printed by Brachel at Cologne in 1625 (R. M.), p. 420, and apparently in the ed. of 1623 (see Bäumker, ii., No. 50). It is in Hommel's Geistl. Volksleder, 1864, No. 106; H. Bone's Cantate, ed. 1875. Tr. as:—

Our Lady took the road, by G. R. Woodward, in O. Shipley's Carmina Mariana, 1885, p. 400, and his own Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 125. [J. M.]

Marston, Annie Wright, dr. of Dr. C. H. Marston of Devizes, Wiltshire, was b. at Uley, Gloucestershire, in 1852. To the 2nd ed. of Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1890, Miss Marston contributed at the request of Mrs. Evan Hopkins several hymns, of which the following were retained in the new and enlarged edition (the 3rd), 1902, and are in C. U.:—

1. I thank Thee, Lord, that Thou hast shown. Christ All in All.
2. It shall be now; Lord, from my heart I say it. Surrender to Christ.
3. Lord, I come at last to Thee. Surrender to Christ.
4. Now the Lord our souls has taught. Holy Communion. This is in the 1st ed., 1890.
5. O Lord, I cannot live to Thee. Christ our strength.
6. This day the Lord has spoken. Destruction of self to God.

All these hymns were written for use at Conventions at Keswick and elsewhere, and are of a simple and devotional character. [J. J.]

Martin, H. A., p. 715, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. a new hymn by Mr. Martin is included for Pentecostide, "Alone Thou troddest the wine press, and alone." It was written in Holy Week, 1878. All Mr. Martin's hymns given on p. 715, ii., are still in C. U. [J. J.]

Martyr Dei qui unicum, p. 716, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. Thou Martyr of unconquered might, in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 796, and 1906, No. 582.
2. Thou Martyr, whose victorious life was steeled, by P. Dearmer, in The Anglican Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Mason, A. J., p. 1079, i., s. of G. W. Mason, was b. May 4, 1851. Dr. Mason has had a most distinguished career, and has held important appointments in addition to those named on p. 1079, i., including that of Select Preacher at Oxford. In 1895 he became Lady Margaret Prof. at Cambridge, and Canon of Canterbury; and in 1903 Master of Pembroke Coll., Cambridge. In addition to other works he pub. in 1870 The Persecution of Diocletian, and in 1902 Ministry of Conversion. His hymns, noted on p. 1079, i., were retained in the revised ed. of Hys. A. & M., 1904 (Not. 1, 2, 3, were written about 1886, and 4 in 1874). His hymn on the Seventh Word on the Cross, "The life-long task was done," written in 1902, was also included therein. His trs. of the "Salve, festa dies" hymns for Easter, &c., are annotated under their Latin first lines. [J. J.]

Mason, Caroline Atherton, née Briggs, dr. of Dr. Calvin Briggs, of Marlborough, b. there July 27, 1823, married Charles Mason, a lawyer at Fitchburg, in 1853, and d. there June 12, 1890. She pub. a vol. of poems as Utterance: or Private Voices to the Public Heart, 1872. Her Last Ring and other Poems was issued in 1891. Of her hymns the following are in C. U.:—

1. I cannot walk in darkness long. [Morning.] This begins with st. v. of her poem on Invincible, "At end of day with tool I walk." In her Last Ring, 1891, p. 193.
2. O God, I thank Thee for each sight. [The Joy of Living.] From her Last Ring, &c., 1891, p. 144, where it is entitled "A Matin Hymn," and begins "I lift the sash and gaze abroad."
3. The changing years, eternal God. [Adoration.] Written for the Bicentennial of the First Cong. Church, Marblehead, Aug. 15, 1886 (Last Ring, 1891, p. 174). It begins "The changing centuries, O God."

Of these Nos. 1 and 2 are in Putnam's Singers & Songs, 1875, pp. 464–5. [J. M.]

Mason, J., p. 716, ii. Mason's Midnight Cry, stated on p. 717, i. as having been preached in 1694, was delivered in 1691. The 1st ed. of his sermon is:—

"The Midnight Cry. A Sermon Preached On the Parable of the Ten Virgins . . . By J. M., M.A., Rector of W. in the County of B., London: Nathaniel Ranew . . . 1691."

This ed. has no hymns. To the 4th ed. in 1692, pub. by the same Nathaniel Ranew, there was added:—

"The Fourth Edition, with the Addition of two Hymns for the Coming of Christ. By the same Author."

The first of those Hymns begins:—

"The evening of the Day Portends a dismal night," and is in 12 st. of 8 l. The second Hymn is:—

"Come, come, my desires, dearest Lord,
Make ha-ste and come away."

This is in 14 st. of 4 l. Of the first and fifth eds. there are copies in the Brit. Museum, and of the first in the Julian Collection of the Church House, London. [J. J.]

Massey, Gerald, was b. May 29, 1828, in the parish of Tring, Herts, was for some time on the staff of the London Athenæum, and frequently contributed to the Quarterly Reviews. He has pub. many vols. of poems. The following have been used as hymns:—

1. Jerusalem the golden! I lisp'rish for one gleam. [Heaven.] In his Sonnets Mtg., May 1885, p. 7. In his Tale of Eternity, 1876, p. 226, it reads "I weary for."
2. Surrounded by unnumbered foes. [Christian Courage.] In his Tale of Eternity, 1876, p. 272.
3. There lives a voice within me. [God's Voice.] In his Ballad of Babe Christabel, 1854, p. 32, entitled "This world is full of beauty."

Mr. Massey d. at South Norwood, London, Oct. 29, 1907.

Massey, Lucy, née Fletcher, daughter of Mr. J. Fletcher of Norwich, was born in 1842, and married in 1865 to the Rev. R. Massey, sometime Vicar of Wansham, Norfolk. Mrs. Massey has published collections of poetry, in which some of her poetical pieces are found, and also some original works. Her Hymns on the Imitation of Christ, by Thomas à Kempis, 1871; Figures of the True, 1870; Songs of the Unseen Hope, 1900, indicate the line of thought which underlies her works. Her hymn, "Sweet day of worship, day of rest" (Sunday), appeared in her Later Lyrics of the Christian Church (1870), p. 47, and signed Lucy F. Massey. It is in 8 st. of 6 l. In The Hop. Church Hyl., 1900, it begins as above with st. iii. of the original. [J. J.]

Mathams, W. J., p. 718, ii. Mr. Mathams entered the ministry of the Established Church of Scotland in 1900, acted for two years as chaplain to the Scottish forces in Egypt, and is now (1906) minister in charge of the parish of Stromay, Orkney. His recent hymns include:—

1. Captain and Comrade of us all. [For Soldiers and Sailors.] Written and printed for use at a service held at Gourock Parish Church, April 10, 1904, on behalf of the Queen Victoria Memorial School for sons of Scottish sailors and soldiers.

1670 MATHESON, ANNIE METHODIST HYMNODY

2. From heights where God is reigning. (Hope Brigade.) Written, 1903, for the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

3. God is with us, God is with us. (Christian Warfare.) Written by request of the Nat. Council of Evang. Free Churches, first sung at their Congress at Manchester, 1896, and pub. in the Christian Endeavour Hymnal, 1899.

4. Lord Jesus Christ! for love of Thee. (Christian Warfare.) Written, 1898, in connection with the Centenary Fund of the Congreg. Union. In the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

5. O Christ, sweet Rose of Sharon. (The Rose of Sharon.) Contributed to the Christian Endeavour Hymnal, 1899.

We may add that of the hymns noted at p. 713, ii. Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9 were contributed to the Baptist Ps. and Hys. for School and Home, 1882, and that No. 7, first printed as a leaflet in 1878, is in the Suppl. of 1880 to the Baptist Ps. and Hys. [J. M.]

Matheson, Annie, p. 719. ii. She wrote two hymns in 1905 for the S. S. Hymnary, 1905:—

1. What is the name of the Lord God Almighty? (God is Love.) 1905, No. 497. The original form was partly rewritten in accordance with suggestions made by the editor.

2. Thou there is peace, where praise hath been. (Blessing.) 1905, No. 187. [J. M.]

Matheson, G., p. 1279. i. In addition to Dr. Matheson's hymn, "O Love, that wilt not let me go," p. 1465. i., the following from his Sacred Songs, 1890, have come into C. U. since 1892:—

1. Come, let us raise a common song. Brotherhood.
2. Father divine, I come to Thee. Strength for Life. This, in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, is altered to "Saviour divine, I come to Thee."
3. Gather us in, Thou Love that filest all. One in Christ.
4. Jesus, Fountain of my days. Christian's Polestar.
5. Lord, see, O Lord, Thy sparkling rings. The Fire and the Cloud. In the Sup. Hymns, 1891.
6. Lord, Thee best all my frailty reads. Strength for the Day.
7. Make me a captive, Lord. Christian Freedom.
8. There are coming changes great. The Good New Time.
9. Three doors there are in the temple. Prayer.

Dr. Matheson informed us that these hymns, together with the rest of his Sac. Songs, 1890, were written at Row, Dumbartonshire, in 1890. The 3rd ed. of the Sac. Songs was pub. in 1904. He d. suddenly at Avenville, North Berwick, Aug. 28, 1906. [J. J.]

Matson, W. T., p. 719. ii. He died in 1880. The hymn, "Glory to God in the highest, shall be our song to-day," p. 1091, i., is given to Mr. Matson in error. It is found in W. B. Bradbury's Golden Censer, 1864, p. 116, without authorship, and again in F. Phillips's Singing Pilgrim, 1866, p. 79, as by Mrs. E. H. Gates. [J. M.]

May, Catherine Elizabeth, née Martin, p. 1044. i., under "O Saviour," &c. She was the only daughter of Sir Henry William Martin, Bt., and was b. at Lockinge Park, near Wantage, Feb. 19, 1808; m. 1837 to the Rev. George May, who was from 1843 to 1861 Vicar of Lyddington, Wilts; d. at Totland, Isle of Wight, Sep. 12, 1873. The first verse of her hymn, "O Saviour, where shall guilty man," appeared in Dr. Maurice's Choral Harmony, 1858, set to a tune called "Lyddington," which was composed by Dr. E. F. Rimbault, and is dated 1856. [J. M.]

Mediae noctis tempore, p. 721. i. This hymn is mentioned in the Rule of St. Caesarius of Arles c. 520 (see p. 1818, ii.). In the Bangor Antiphonary, of c. 690 (H.B.S. ed., pt. i. f. 11b; pt. ii., p. 11), it begins "Mediae noctis tempus est." A note by Canon Warren in pt. ii., pp. 46–48, says of it, "There is nothing to suggest an Irish origin for the hymn." [J. M.]

Μέγα καὶ παράδοξον θαῦμα, p. 723. i. In The English Hymnal, 1906, Dr. Neale's tr., "A great and mighty wonder," is given in 3 st. of 4 l., with a refrain composed of lines 2-4 of st. ii., to adapt it to an ancient German melody. [J. J.]

Μέγα τὸ μυστήριον, p. 97. i. From Dr. Neale's tr. of this Ode iv. of S. John Damascene, for S. Thomas's Sunday. Sts. iii., iv., are included in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Sion, 1904, as "Patient Lord, with loving eye." (Χείρας ἁγνιάσασα.) [J. J.]

Meine Hoffnung stehet feste, p. 791. ii. Another tr. is:—

All my hope on God is founded, a free version in the Faithful Hyl., 1899, No. 69, marked as "tr. by E. D."; repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Sion, 1904, No. 169. [J. M.]

Men plough the fields and scatter. An altered form in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, of "We plough the fields," &c., p. 977. i.

Methodist Hymnody, pp. 726, i., and 1279. ii. Since the publication of this Dictionary in 1892, the history of Methodist Hymnody in Great Britain presents several features of interest and importance. Continuing the history from pp. 726, i., 732, i., and 1279, ii., and following the order there given, we have to record the following facts and details:—

i. Wesleyan Methodists. The revision of the Collection of Hymns for the Use of the People called Methodists, of 1875, added a large number of hymns thereto which were new to Methodist congregations, but it was carried out in too conservative a spirit. The Methodist Churches soon desired a more catholic hymnal. In 1900 the Wesleyan Methodist Conference appointed a Committee "to consider the principles on which the new Hymn Book shall be compiled," and in 1901 a larger Committee was appointed "to make a selection of hymns for publication as a new Connexional Hymn Book." Of this Committee the Rev. Dr. W. T. Davison was Chairman, and the Revs. Nehemiah Curnock, John Telford, and Arthur E. Gregory, Secretaries. In addition to the members appointed by the British Conference, representatives were appointed by the Irish Conference, the Methodist New Connexion Conference, and the Methodist Reform Union. This Committee also acted in harmony with the Australian Methodist Church, by which The Methodist Hymn Book was accepted, an Appendix of 47 hymns being added to secure copyright in the Australian Colonies. The co-operation of so many branches of the Methodist Churches justified the title of the new book, which is an important manifestation of Methodist union. Another innovation was the appointment on the Committee of a few laymen—amongst whom was the Rt. Hon. Sir H. H. Fowler, M.P., who took an active part in the work.

The publication of The Methodist Hymn Book in 1904 marks an era in Methodist Hymnody. John Wesley's name disappeared from the title page, and his famous Preface was omitted. The new Preface gives an historical survey of the various books issued, from the publication in 1779 of Wesley's Collection of Hymns for the Use of the People called Methodists to the final edition of "Wesley's Hymns with a New Supplement" in 1875. The arrangement and classification of the hymns is new, but many of Wesley's titles are retained, and some of the sub-sections are almost wholly by the Wesleys. In the section headed "The Gospel Call," out of 76 hymns 57 are by Charles Wesley; in "The Christian Life," containing 280 hymns, 104 are by C. Wesley, and 20 are translations by J. Wesley. The whole work contains 981 hymns (really 980, as "Rock of Ages" is given in two forms). Of these, 446 are ascribed to C. Wesley, 3 to J. Wesley, 26 are translations by J. Wesley. Other writers largely represented are: Watts 65 (a greater number than in any other representative modern collection), Montgomery 15, Ellerton 12, Doddridge 11, Cowper, Heber, Bonar and Miss Havergal 10 each. Of translations 8 are by Dr. J. M. Neale and 13 by Miss Winkworth.

The great majority of the new hymns are naturally those which have already found a place in recent hymnals; those which are not yet in common use are rarely of special value. Modern Methodism is represented not only by W. M. Bunting, Dr. Pennhon and Dr. Jenkins, whose hymns appeared in the previous edition, but by Drs. Stephenson, Lyth and Burton, E. J. Bradford, S. Roades, C. Garrett, A. H. Vine, and by James Smetham—the poet-painter—Messrs. C. L. Ford, and J. R. Vanner, and Miss Bradfield.

The Methodist Hymn Book preserves nearly all that is best and most characteristic in Wesley's hymns; it includes all the great hymns common to evangelical churches, and, whilst peculiarly rich in hymns of personal experience and evangelistic enthusiasm, provides, as preceding editions had not done, a fair number of hymns on the Church, hymns for children, hymns relating to Christian philanthropy, temperance, &c. It retains its distinctively Methodist character, but, notwithstanding the large number of Wesley's hymns, has lost the provincialism of its predecessors, and has gained vastly in catholicity of tone and taste.

Its reception by the Methodist Churches was phenomenal. More than a million and a half copies were sold within twelve months of publication, and a quarter of a million of the Tune Book, which had been prepared by a Committee, with the editorial assistance of Sir Frederick Bridge.

Three additional collections of hymns for special use have also been published.

(1) The Young People's Hymnal (1896), prepared under the direction of the Wesleyan Book Committee, contains 214 hymns. The special feature of this collection is the brightness and devoutness of the hymns selected. It is intended rather for up-growing youths and maidens than for little children, and is also worth consideration by compilers of School Hymn Books. Shortly after its publication it was adopted as the Wesley Guild Hymnal. For general use it is disadvantaged by the Committee's exclusion of all hymns included in the Wesleyan Hymn Book of 1875.

(2) The Supplemental Hymnary (1897), compiled by Dr. T. Bowman Stephenson, and containing a number of original hymns, had a considerable circulation.

(3) The People's Hymnary, 1906. This contains 504 hymns, and is intended to take the place of The General Hymnary (1889). It is a commonplace collection.

Contemporaneously with the publication of The Methodist Hymn-Book, a facsimile edition of "the Third Edition corrected" of Wesley's Hymns was issued by the Methodist Book Room. This is the edition of 1782, and was the last edited by John Wesley himself. It is regarded as the Standard Edition of Wesley's hymns.

Two works have recently been published in connection with the new hymn-book: (1) The Methodist Hymn-Book Illustrated, by John Telford, B.A., 1906. In this every hymn has been annotated, and there is a large amount of interesting information gathered from many sources. In this direction this Dictionary has been extensively used. (2) Half Hours with The Methodist Hymn-Book, by Mary Champness, 1906, is a pleasantly-written book of notes and anecdotal comments upon many hymns.

ii. Methodist New Connexion. No hymn book of any kind has been published by this body since 1892. As noted above, the Conference was represented on the Committee which compiled The Methodist Hymn Book, and that collection has been officially adopted by the denomination.

iii. Primitive Methodists. The Primitive Methodist Hymnal of 1887 is still in use, without addition or alteration. A new edition of their Sunday School Hymn Book was published in 1902, and a collection for Home Mission Services in 1904.

iv. Methodist Free Churches. Their hymn book referred to on p. 731. i., as in preparation in 1888, was issued in 1889, p. 1279. ii. 1, and is now in use. No additions have been made to the Sunday School Hymn Book of 1888. Their Hymns of Light and Life, 1890, contains 332 hymns for Christian Endeavour Societies, Mission Services, &c.

This summary reveals great activity on the part of the Wesleyan Methodists in hymnological matters during the past decade. With other branches of the Methodist family very little has been done, and that little has not been of the highest merit. [A. E. G.]

1672 MIDLANE, A. MISSIONS HYMNODY

Written in 1891 to the tune by Mendelssohn, set to it in 1892 as above, and again in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Midlane, A., p. 733, ii. Mr. Midlane pub. in 1901 The Bright Blue Sky Hymn Book, of 315 of his hymns, and the same year The Gospel Hall Hymn Book, for use in the Gospel Hall, Newport, I.W., with 218 additional, making 533 original compositions. A broad-sheet of seven special hymns for Jewish children, in connection with the Mildmay Mission to the Jews, was also issued in December, 1904. Other publications previously noticed give, with these, over 800 hymns to Mr. Midlane as his contribution to the hymnody of the Church. [J. J.]

Miller, Emily, née Huntington, p. 1479, ii. Of Mrs. Miller's hymns, Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 10 were written for and first printed in The Little Corporal, as follows: 4—April, 1868; 5—Aug. 1868; 6—May, 1868; and 10—Sept. 1868. Nos. 7, 8, and 9 are not hers. No. 8, "Jesus bids us shine," she informs us is by Susan Warner. [J. M.]

Millington, Herbert, M.A., s. of J. B. Millington, was b. May 28, 1841, at Boston, Lincs, educated at Uppingham and at Clare Coll., Cambridge (B.A. 1864, M.A. 1874). He was from 1872 to 1901 headmaster of Bromsgrove School, and now (1906) resides at Hitchin. Two hymns by him are in the Public School H. Bk., 1903, viz.:—

1. Accept us, Lord, our effort this. [Consecration of a Chapel.] Written and printed in 1898 for the opening service of the restored Bromsgrove School Chapel.

2. The hands that raised, the pen that drew it. [Dedication of a Chapel.] Written and printed in 1899 for the opening service of the new Bromsgrove "Big School."

Missions Hymnody, Church of England Home. Every great Evangelistic movement has been accompanied by an outburst of song. This was pre-eminently the case with the spiritual revival in the latter part of the eighteenth century under the influence of the Wesleys. The Olney Hymns, which appeared in 1779 (p. 807, ii.), also played an important part in the Evangelical movement in the early years of the nineteenth century. The same was true of the great revival movement which occurred in 1858 and 1859. A large number of fervid hymns date from that time, and several small collections were pub., some of which are still in use. It is not, then, to be wondered at that when the Church of England awoke to the importance of special evangelistic efforts, a fresh development in hymnody should accompany the mission movement. Our purpose now is to trace the rise and development of this Home Mission hymnody of the Church of England. For all practical purposes the following details will present the salient features of the movement.

1. The famous London Twelve Days' Mission in 1860, with which the movement was inaugurated in the Church of England, did not, so far as we know, produce any collections of hymns for the use of the mission. Possibly in some instances special hymns may have been printed on sheets for the services. It was, we believe, in the Liverpool Mission of 1873 that the first collection of Home Mission Hymns was compiled. This was done by the senior Secretary of the Mission, the Rev. W. Hay Aitken, at that time Incumbent of Christ Church, Everton, Liverpool. This collection was enlarged by Mr. Aitken in 1876, and for the first time a complete set of tunes, many of them original, was published under the musical editorship of Mr. James Waugh, Organist of St. Nicholas', Liverpool. This collection, with some slight additions and alterations, was accepted by the Protestant Episcopal Church of America, and under the title of Church Hymns was used in subsequent missions held by the American Church Parochial Mission Society. In 1888 Mr. Aitken executed a considerable number of his brother missioners with a view to its enlargement, and a new edition followed, and received additional use. It has been officially adopted by the various Missions of the American Church Parochial Mission Society. The musical edition was edited by Dr. Rightmyer. It is entitled Hymns For a Parochial Mission, with accompanying Tunes; also short Liturgies For Mission Services, London, n.d. (1888). It contains several original hymns and tunes.

2. About 1875 there appeared a collection of a similar kind to the above as Special Mission Hymns. It was edited by the Rev. Thomas Dolling, Incumbent of St. Chad's, Chapman, and was used first in the Mission at All Saints, Derby, in 1873. It has been considerably enlarged, and supplied with suitable tunes, as Hymns for special Services and Prayer Meetings (Bemrose & Son, Derby).

3. Amongst the earliest Mission Hymnals was the Mission Hymn-Book, n.d., 1876. This was edited by Canon Kerruish, and revised by Canon Body, who contributed to it two original hymns. It contained 127 hymns, with a later Supplement of an additional 10. It has a large circulation, and is deservedly popular. A number of appropriate Psalms and the Te Deum, together with some forms of Mission services, are printed in it.

4. In 1874 The Mission Hymnal was published by Bemrose & Son. It was compiled by the Rev. E. Husband of St. Michael's, Folkestone, and contains a Preface by Canon Body. A later Supplement was added in 1877. It contains 150 hymns.

5. The Lichfield Church Mission Hymn-Book, 1883, was one of the earliest products of the Mission Movement. It was compiled by Prebendary Lester, who was for some time Diocesan Missioner of Lichfield, and tried in the last edition by Canon Bullington, whose suggestions he adopted "as far as possible." It contains 162 hymns, and although not large, is well selected. Its music must also take a high place. His tender and beautiful hymn "Hush my soul! what voice is pleading?" may be considered a model of what a mission hymn should be. The compilation is the work of an experienced Minister, and the hymns are for the most part well chosen. The last edition with tunes is The Lichfield Mission Tune-Book, 1892 (Bemrose & Son).

6. In circa 1883 the Rev. J. H. Hore, formerly Vicar of St. Paul's, Canonbury, published through Bemrose & Son, Derby, a Hymnal for Church Missions. It is an admirable selection, with 128 very well chosen hymns, arranged with much care and judgment.

7. The Rev. James Stephens issued in 1883 his Mission Hymns. This has been twice enlarged and now contains 250 hymns, with 30 tunes. It contains several hymns by the compiler, some of which have obtained considerable popularity. Some of the tunes by Mr. Boyden Smith are of considerable merit.

8. The London Mission Hymn-Book was, we understand, originally compiled for the third general Mission in London in 1884. It contains a large number of well selected hymns suitable for Parochial Missions, and is published by Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton, 27 Paternoster Row.

9. The Mission Hymnal of the Church Parochial Aid Society, 1897, contains 345 hymns and tunes. It is arranged, like many other similar books, on the alphabetical system, which certainly has a good deal to commend it in such a facility of reference as this compilation affords. It has also a fairly satisfactory methodical arrangement of hymns according to subjects which is no great a help to a preacher in his selection of hymns appropriate to his sermon, an arrangement the Wesleys taught us to value.

10. Hymns and Litanies for Parochial Missions and Retreats (Derby: Bemrose & Sons, n.d.), was compiled by the Rev. P. B. Nunn, from 1873 to 1877 Missioner in the diocese of Lichfield, and, 1884-1892, of St. George's

MISSIONS, FOREIGN MONSELL, J. S. B. 1673

Cathedral, Grahamstown, South Africa. The Grahamstown edition of the collection was sanctioned for use in the diocese by the Bishop of Grahamstown.

Although this may not exhaust the Mission hymnals published for use in the Church of England, the summary contains all of any importance to elucidate the rise and development of the movement.

In most of these collections there is a large infusion of hymns from Mr. Sankey's Song and Solos. It should be frankly recognised that whatever be our estimate of the literary value of the hymns, or the musical merits of the tunes with which they are associated, they have obtained such general acceptance amongst the masses that it is almost impossible to dispense with them in Mission work. Probably it is their unpretentious simplicity that constitutes their charm and accounts for their extraordinary popularity, while it provokes the criticism of those who set art before utility.

For use at Missionary Meetings and other gatherings on behalf of Foreign Missions, the C.M.S. pub. in 1899 The Church Missionary Hymn Book, a collection of 242 hymns. In 1900 the S.P.G. issued, as a Souvenir of the Bicentenary of the Society, Hymns, Sonnets, and other Poems of the Bicentenary. Beyond these hymnological efforts, little or nothing has been done in connection with the hymnody of Foreign Missions during the past fifteen years. [J. J.]

Missus Gabriel de coelis. [Annunciation of B. V. M.] Sometimes ascribed to Adam of St. Victor, but M. Gautier in his ed. of Adam, 1894, p. 265, says the ascription to him is a mistaken one. It is in a MS. of c. 1199 in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Lat. 1139, f. 103b); in an English Graduał of c. 1275, now in the B. M. (Add. 12194, f. 120); in the Chichester Sequentiary of c. 1275 kept in the Bodleian (Univ. 148, f. 130); also in the Sarum Missal, f. 243b, of c. 1250, now at Manchester; in the York, Hereford, Westminster, and many other Missals. Text also in Daniel, Mone, Achrein, No. 209, &c. Tr. as:—

Gabriel, from the heaven descending, by J. M. Neale, in his Med. Hym., 2nd ed., 1863, p. 127, repeated as "Gabriel, from heav'n descending," in the Hymner, 1864, No. 126. [J. M.]

Mitchell, Andrew Pirie, M.A., of Emmanuel Coll., Camb. (B.A. 1884; M.A. 1888), and Rector of Bredon Parva, Yorks, is the author of "O! the joy, the joy of harvest" (Harvest) in C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903.

Mitchell, J. A., p. 1198, i. He was Principal of Nottingham Congregational Institute 1897–1903, and subsequently Secretary to the Congregational Union. Died in April 1905.

Mitchell, W., p. 1198, ii., was b. in 1829 (not 1830), and d. in 1877.

Mitchell, William, b. at Chester, Connecticut, Dec. 19, 1793, educated at Yale Coll. entered the Congregational Ministry in 1825, and d. at Corpus Christi, Texas, Aug. 1, 1867. To Pt. i. of Joshua Leavitt's Christian Lyre, 1830–1, he contributed "Servants of the Living God" (Christian Warfare); and to Pt. ii. "Jesus, Thy love shall we forget" (The Love of Christ). [J. J.]

Monsell, J. S. B. Since the article on pp. 782–3 was written, copies of the original editions of Dr. Monsell's works have come into our hands, and from them we have to make the following corrections, the numbers following being those given to the first lines of the hymns on pp. 782–3:—

15. So much am, &c. Hys. and Mus. Poems, 1837, p. 30.
17. The broken, &c. " " " p. 49.
18. Thou art mine, &c. " " " p. 51.
19. Would'st thou, &c. " " " p. 14.
26. Loved by God, &c. Parish Hymnal, 1873, No. 181.
27. Mercy, mercy, &c. Prayers and Litanies, 1861, p. 129.
28. My brother, &c. Hys. of Love and Praise, 1866, p. 103.
33. O Love divine, &c. " " " p. 131.
37. The journey done, &c. " " " p. 134.
40. Weary and sad, &c. Parish Hymnal, 1873, No. 209.
41–50. Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863.
51. See "Day of loss," &c., p. 282, i.
52–3. Prayers and Litanies, 1861, and Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863, pp. 116.
53–57. Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863.
58. Pity on us, &c. Prayers and Litanies, 1861, p. 125.
59. Praise the Lord, &c. Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863, p. 13.
60, 61, 62, 63. Prayers and Litanies, 1861.
62. Up! it is, &c. Hys. of Love and Praise, 1863.
72. Thy Lord, &c. " " " p. 34.
73. I hunger, &c. " " " 1866, p. 128.

It will be seen from this list of additions and corrections that Dr. Monsell multiplied his works by giving much the same material under new titles, and that his Prayers and Litanies of 1861 were unknown to us when the original article was written. We can sincerely add that few hymn writers are so perplexing to the annotator as Dr. Monsell. [J. M.]

1674

Moore, Emily Jane, a native of Crewe, is the author of many books for young people. Her hymn :—

While so bright shine the sun. (Praise to God), was written about 1894 and first printed in the N. S. Anniversary. It is in the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896, and the S. S. Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Moore, Thomas Vernon, b. at Newville, Penn., Feb. 1, 1818, ordained in 1842. He was Moderator of the Presbyterian Assembly in 1867, and d. at Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 5, 1871. His hymn, "Father, let Thy smiling face" (H. Trinity), in The New Ps. & Hys. (Presb.), Richmond, Va., 1901, is dated 1866. [J. M.]

Moorsom, R. M., p. 1240, ii. In 1901 Mr. Moorsom pub. Sanderings of Church Hymns from Eastern and Western Office Books. These trs. of Syrian, Aramaian, and other hymns from Eastern sources, together with renderings from the Greek and Latin Office Books, are well done, and have already received deserved attention at the hands of hymnal compilers. His second edition of his Historical Companion to Hys. Ancient and Modern, 1903, is noted under England Hymnody, Church of, p. 1633, i. For his trs. in C. U., see Index of Authors & Trs. [J. J.]

Moravian Hymnody, pp. 765–769. The Rev. J. A. Eberle contributed to the Moravian Messenger a long series of articles (Feb. 1868 to Jan. 1871), giving authorship and date of the hymns in the English Moravian H. Bk. of 1849 (p. 768, ii., No. 11). A supplementary series of articles appeared in the Moravian Messenger for 1905, with short notices of authors and hymns not found in the ed. of 1849, but included in the enlarged ed. of 1886.

(By a curious oversight the particulars of the life of John Chandler are given under the name of Edward Cantrell. In the case of Ferguson, D., the missing number is 1208; in the case of Rosenius, C. R. von, the missing number is 1137.)

See also notes in the Appendix to the Moravian Almanack for 1905, pp. 121–122. A committee has been for some time engaged in preparing a new ed. of the English Moravian H. Bk. A Children's H. Bk., with 200 hymns, was pub. in 1856, and an enlarged ed., with 300 mostly non-Moravian hymns, appeared in 1904.

I. The more important English-writing Moravians, regarding whom biographical details were not given in this Dictionary in 1892, are :—

1. Clemens, Christian Gottfried, Moravian minister in different places in England and Wales from 1746 to 1815.

2. Kinchen, Charles, educated at Corpus Christi Coll., Oxford (B.A., 1729); an associate of the Wesleys; became Rector of Brunsser, Hants; then joined the Fetter Lane Society, and, in A.D. 1741,

3. Libbey, Daniel, b. at Hull, in 1720, at Bishop York. Moravian minister at various places, finally at Fairfield from 1808 to 1821; d. at Ockbrook, March 17, 1822. His contributed various trs. to the Moravian H. Bk., 1886, including "Glory, praise, to Thee be song," p. 982, ii., i "O, be not thou dismayed," p. 973, i.

4. Miller, Christian Ludwig Benjamin, or Müller, was a Moravian minister at various places in England and Ireland from 1720; from 1749 at Crondall Co. Cavan, from 1768 to 1810. His original hymns and trs. were contributed to the Moravian H. Bk., 1789.

5. Nyberg, Lorenz Thorstan, b. March 4, 1720, in Sweden, sometime Lutheran minister in Sweden, joined the Moravians in 1748, and worked as a Moravian minister up to 1774; then returned to a living in Sweden, and d. May 30, 1792.

6. Okely, William, b. Sept. 12, 1746, at Harlem, in Holland, Moravian minister at various places in England and Ireland; d. at Bristol, March 11, 1815.

II. Less important writers are :—

7. Biel, Thomas, b. 1676, d. 1838.
8. Delamotte, William, d. 1745.
9. Dutton, Thomas, b. 1749.
10. Hartley, John, b. 1762, d. 1811.
11. Okely, William, b. 1745, d. 1824.
12. Schlatt, Ludolf Ernst, b. 1714, d. 1769.

For the trs. of these various writers, see Index of Authors and Trs. In the forthcoming edition of the English Moravian H. Bk. it is practically certain that hardly any of the productions of the other minor Moravian writers of the 18th century will survive; we therefore make no attempt to note them here. [J. M.]

Morgan, Samuel Christopher, D.D., s. of the Rev. S. F. Morgan, sometime Rector of All Saints, Birmingham, was b. July 29, 1836, educated at Wadham Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1859, M.A. 1862, B.D. and D.D. 1881), and ordained 1860. After holding other appointments he became in 1865 Vicar of Elkington, Gloucester. He d. March 23, 1898. His hymn, "Come, thou weary! Jesus calls thee!" (Invitation), is in Sankey's Sac. Songs & Solos, 1881. [J. M.]

Morris, Eliza F., p. 770, ii. She d. in 1874.

Morris, Sir Lewis, D.LITT., was b. Jan. 23, 1833, at Carmarthen, educated at Sherborne School and at Jesus Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1856, M.A. 1858, Hon. Fellow 1877). He was called to the Bar 1861, and practised up to 1881. He is Vice-President of Univ. Coll., Aberystwyth, was Deputy-Chancellor of the Univ. of Wales 1902–1904 (Hon. D.LITT. 1906), and was created Kt. Bachelor in 1895. He d. at Carmarthen, Nov. 12, 1907. His poetical works include Songs of Two Worlds, series i., 1871, ii., 1874; iii., 1875; Epic of Hades, 1876; Vision of Saints, 1890; Harvest Tide, 1901, &c. His hymn :—

My Angel comes to us to tell (The Invisible Supported) in Songs of Two Worlds, 1871, p. 146, headed "Faith without sight"; repeated in Worship Songs, 1905, and others.

Moule, Arthur Evans, D.D. Sixth son of the Rev. H. Moule, of Fordington (p. 771, i.), was b. at Fordington on Apr. 10, 1836, and educated for Foreign Mission work at the C.M.S. Coll., Islington. D. 1859, P. 1860. He has spent almost the whole of his ministerial life in the diocese of Mid-China, and mainly at Shanghai. In 1878 he received the degree of D.D. from the Archbishop of Canterbury, and was appointed Archdeacon of Mid-China in 1884. His hymnological work for the C. M. S. Mission in China is given in detail at pp. 743-4.

Moule, George Evans, D.D. Second s. of the Rev. H. Moule, of Fordington, p. 771, i., was b. at Gillingham, Dorset, on Jan. 28, 1828, and has been Bishop of Mid-China since 1880, having laboured in the same district for the C.M.S. from 1858. He was educated at C.C. Coll., Camb. (of which he was elected Honorary Fellow 1905), graduated in honours in 1850, and was ordained as Curate to his father in 1851. His hymn book in the Hangchow dialect was pub. in 1871. See p. 769, ii. [J. J.]

Moule, Handley C. G., p. 771, ii. In 1899 Dr. Moule resigned his post at Ridley Hall, and became Norrisian Professor of Divinity at Cambridge. In 1901 he was consecrated as Bishop of Durham. The following additional hymns by Bp. Moule have come into C. U. :—

1. Come in, O come! the door stands open now. [Seeking after Holiness.] Appeared in the 2nd ed. of Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1890; and in the author's Songs of the Spirit and Pilgrimage, 1901.

2. Bear in Thy Presence with Thy friends. [Communion of Saints.] Included in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1890.

3. Lord and Saviour, true and kind. [Jesus the Guide of Youth.] Appeared in The Record School H. Bk., 1892.

4. Lord, in it I that enter here. [Victory over sin.] First pub. in the author's Christian's Victory over Sin, 1888.

5. My glorious Victor, Prince Divine. [Consecration of Self to God.] Appeared in the 2nd ed. of Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1890; and in the author's Songs in the House of the Pilgrimage, 1901.

6. Raise the song, ye loyal voices. [King's Coronation.] Written for Novello's Ten National Hys. and Tunes for children's use on the occasion of the Coronation of King Edward VII., 1902.

7. They watched Him up the silent skies. [Ascension.] Written for Doddridge's Hys. for Church & Home, 1904.

Additional publications by Bp. Moule which include hymns are Songs in the House of the Pilgrimage, 1896; The Christian's Victory over Sin, 1888. Poems on the Acts of the Apostles, &c., 1869; Christ-Jesus and other Poems, 1883; At the Holy Communion, 1892; Thoughts on Union with Christ, 1886. [J. J.]

Moule, Harriot Mary, née Elliott, youngest daughter of the Rev. C. Bolton Elliott, M.A., F.R.S., was born in Paris on Sep. 29, 1844, and married H. C. G. Moule, now Bishop of Durham, 1881. Her hymn, "Cast then thy care upon the Lord" (Care upon God), was first published in H. C. G. Moule's Songs in the House of the Pilgrimage, 1896, and included in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1902. [J. J.]

Moule, Henry, p. 771, i. Another hymn by this author, "Who can the strength afford?" (God the Strength of His people) has passed from the Appendix (1876) to the Fordington Hymn-book, into Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1902, No. 571. [J. J.]

Moule, Horatio Mosley, fourth s. of the Rev. H. Moule, of Fordington (p. 771, i.) was b. at Fordington, on May 30, 1832, educated at Trin. Coll., Oxford, and Queens' Coll., Camb.; B.A. 1858; M.A. 1872; H.M. Inspector of Workhouses under Local Government Board, and d. on Sep. 21, 1873. His metrical version of the Benedicite appeared in the Appendix to Fordington H. Bk., in 1876. (See p. 771, ii.) [J. J.]

Moultrie, G., p. 771, ii. We find that Mr. Moultrie wrote the preface to the Cantica Sanctorum, 1880, but did not edit the book. He and others contributed some thirteen hymns thereto. It was edited by Miss Isabella Leeds, p. 1262, i., who wrote 90 of the hymns. [J. J.]

Moxley, Henry Williams, M.A., b. at Derby, April 23, 1842, Scholar and Fellow of King's Coll., Camb., graduated B.A. 1864; M.A. 1867; and was Assistant Master at Eton from 1864 to 1897. Mr. Moxley has contributed translations of various Medieval Sequences and Hymns to the Monthly Packet, and other publications. His hymns in C. U. are :—

1. Lord, Who fulfillest thine answer. [Ocum. of S. Paul.] First pub. in the Sunday Book, and then in Hys. A. & M., 1904, No. 347.

2. Lord, Who while yet a boy wast found. [Confirmation.] One of two hymns written for use before and after the laying on of hands in Confirmation. It was included in Hys. A. & M., 1904, No. 386. For use "Before Confirmation."

Milde bin ich, p. 816, ii. Another tr. is "Weary now I seek repose," by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 69.

Mulholland, Rosa : see Gilbert, R.

Mundi salus affuturo, p. 777, i. This is in Dreves, xliii., p. 45, from the Sarum Hymnarium Opuscalum, 1512. Another tr. is "Portal of the World's Salvation, Lo, a virgin," by Laurence Housman in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 229. [J. M.]

Murray, Robert, Minister of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, born Dec. 25, 1852, is the author of "From ocean unto ocean" (National Hymn), and "Lord, Thou lov'st the cheerful giver" (Almsgiving), in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898. [J. D.]

Mussarelli, Alfonso, S.J., was b. at Ferrara, Aug. 22, 1749, entered the Society of Jesus 1768, d. at Faris Feb. 25, 1813. He was the author of many theological works, the best-known being Il Mese di Maria, 1785. This work gives a four-line stanza for each day of the month of May, the first of these beginning :—

Lauriate, O Virgins. (S. V. M.) (Turin ed. 1845, p. 16). From these we, the Rev. F. W. Faber made a tr.† from which, by Lady Lindsay, the hymn "Lauriate, O Virgin Band," in Lyra Eucharistica, p. 249, was formed. It has been altered in various ways, and is usually ascribed to Faber. Another tr. is that by C. Kegan Paul, in his Hys., 1868, p. 13, Songs and Hymns, 1869, p. 61, and recently in the Arundel Hys., 1902, and many others. [J. M.]

My Father bids me come, O why do I delay? A cento from "Ah! whither should I go?" p. 32, ii. into a few American collections.

My Father, cheering Name. Another altered form of Anne Steele's "My God, my Father, blissful Name," p. 760, i.

My Father knows the things I need. C. Wesley. A cento in The Meth. Hymn-Book, 1904, from his Hys. on the Four Gospels, left in MS. at his death in 1788. (P. Works, x., 190.)

My God and Father, while I stray, p. 778, i. In the Kirkby Lonsdale Songs from the Valley, 1834, p. 180, this hymn is given as "My God, my Father! while I stray," and the refrain as "Thy will, my God, Thy will be done." It is unsigned. [J. J.]

My God, and is Thy table spread, p. 779, i. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., the doxology in the old ed. has been replaced by the concluding st. of Doddridge's hymn.

My God, if I may call Thee mine. C. Wesley. [In temptation.] Pub. in the Wesley

1676 MY HOPE NEWELL, WILLIAM

Hys. & Sac. Poems, 1739, in 9 st. of 8 l. (S. Works, i. p. 130). In the old Wes. H. Bk. the cento consisted of 8 st. of 4 l. This has been reduced to 7 st., by the omission of st. vii., in The Meth. H. B., 1904. [J. J.]

My Hope, my Portion, and my God. An altered version of sts. iii.-vi. of I. Watts's "Long have I sat beneath the sound," p. 696, ii.

My Jesus, I love Thee, I know Thou art mine. [Jesus All in All.] This anonymous hymn was given in The London Hymn Book, 1864, and later in several other collections, including Ira D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, 1881, No. 374. In Stebbp's Songs of Grace and Glory, 1872, and a few others it begins "My Saviour, I love Thee," &c. In these two forms it is somewhat widely used in Home Mission collections. [J. M.]

My Lord, my God! if fear or shame. This is the same hymn as "O Lord, my God! if fear or shame," p. 1241, i.

My Lord, my God, what willest Thou? [The Will of God.] This anonymous hymn in Toase's Catholic Hys., 1898, and others appeared in Hys. for the Year, 1867, No. 74.

My Lord, my Life, my Love. [God all and in all.] This is in the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 53, marked as "adapted by R. B." It is based on I. Watts's "My God, my Life, my Love," p. 1231, i., but is much superior to its original. In The Eng. Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

My Lord, my Master, at Thy feet adoring, p. 1186, ii. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, the last stanza of this hymn has been rewritten.

My times are in Thy hand, p. 681, i. 3. This hymn first appeared in vol. i. of The Trust Magazine (R.T.S.), March, 1824, p. 32, in 6 st. of 4 l., entitled "My times are in Thy hand, Psalm xxxi. 15," and signed "Spes." Mr. Lloyd, the author, was at that time an official of the R.T.S. The original text reads as in the The Church Hymnary (Scottish), 1898, No. 388, with st. iv., ll. 3-4, "Those hands," &c., "Are now," &c., to which must be added st. v., which is omitted in almost every collection :—

"My times are in Thy hand,
Jesus, my Advocate;
Nor shall Thine hand be stretch'd in vain
For me to supplicate." [J. J.]

Mysterium mirabile, p. 784, i. Chevalier, in his Repertorium, No. 11830, cites this as in Officia Propria, Grenoble, 1711.

Mystical Rose ! by God's own hand. [B. V. M.] This is in St. Winifred's H. Bk., 1854, No. 5, the Crown of Jesus, 1862, St. Dominic's H. Bk., 1901, and others.

Never forget the dear ones. (Home.) The tune by Lt. G. F. Root with the title from the first line of this hymn has led many to assume that he was the author of the words also. So far as we can gather this is not so. It is, however, in his Young Men's Singing Book, N.Y., 1855, and thence in the Tonic Sol-fa Reporter, March, 1856, p. 117. In the S. School Hymnary, 1905, it is given as Anon., circa 1850. We know of no authority for this date. [J. M.]

New, H., p. 1186, ii. He d. in 1803.

New Version, Supplement to the, p. 801, i. In the Julian Collection at the Church House, Westminster, there is a copy of the 32mo ed. of the N. V. dated 1699, with which is bound up a copy of the Supplement. The title of the Supplement is practically the same as given at p. 801, i., but ends thus :—

"Printed by *J. Baptista*ll, and sold at Stationers' Hall, near Ludgate, by B. Brown, at the Bible without Temple-Barr, J. Wild at the Elephant at Charing-Cross, and most other booksellers, 1700. In the 4to ed. of 1703 it is stitch'd singly, or in bind up with the Sternold Version."

The pieces contained are the same as those in the 3rd ed. of 1702 (B. M.) and the same as those in the 4th ed. of 1704, which professes to be "corrected and enlarged."

It is instructive to note also the following extracts from the Letters from the late Most Reverend Dr. Thomas Herring, Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, to William Duncombe, Esq., deceased, from the year 1728 to 1757. London, 1777.

"Letter xxxvii. Croydon House, Nov. 4, 1752." To this letter a version of Tate and Brady is not known to exist that I know of. The corrections suggested very much approved of, but my authority to alter them made a matter of some doubt; so the middle way was taken, of correcting the errors * * * not the imperfections."

To this there is the footnote :—

"In the edition of these Psalms, 1737, there were above two hundred errors of the press."

The Letter xxxviii., Nov. 25, 1753, contains the following :—

"I have heard nothing of the edition of Tate which you said you would leave for me at Lambeth. If there is no such thing, I shall not trouble you; and I am sure, thanks are much justly due to you on that score."

The footnote to this letter is :—

"Mr. Duncombe's corrections, above mentioned (as appears by this another) were, Mr. Pinkerton (King's Printer) for a new edition of Tate's Psalms then preparing."

The letter of June 16, 1753, is not in the printed book of 1777.

It is evident from the copies of Tate and Brady which were in use at the time when it was superseded by the modern hymn-book, that this revision was never accepted or put into circulation by the King's Printer. [J. M.]

Newell, Ebenezer Josiah, M.A., s. of C. W. Newell, was b. in Southwark, Surrey, June 22, 1833, entered Worcester Coll., Oxford, as an exhibitioner in 1871 (B.A. 1876, M.A. 1878) was ordained D. 1880, P. 1881, and has been since 1900 rector of Neen Sollars, Salop. His hymn,

We praise Thy Name, all holy Lord (St. David), was written 1886, and first printed in the Northern Churchman and St. David's Monthly, Feb. 29, 1888, as a hymn for St. David's Day, in 6 st. of 8 l. In 1889 it appeared in The Engl. Hyl., 1906, No. 211, with three verses, relating to St. David alone. [J. M.]

Newell, William, D.D., b. at Littleton, Mass., Feb. 25, 1804, educated at Harvard, entered the Unitarian Ministry in 1830, retired in 1868, and d. in 1881. In Putnam's Singers and Songs, 1874, there are 11 of his hymns and poems. His "All hail, God's angel, Truth" (Thanksgiving), is in Horder's Worship Song, with Tunes, 1905. [J. J.]

NEWMAN, FREDERICK NORTH, FRANK 1677

Newman, Frederick William, was b. at Falmouth, Cornwall, May 26, 1856. In 1877 he entered as one of the first four students in the Scholae Cancellarii, Truro, and was ordained D. 1879 and P. 1880. After filling several curacies he became Vicar of St. George's, Truro, in 1889. His hymn "Jesus, Lord of our salvation" (St. George's Day), was written on April 6, 1895, as a Processional for use on St. George's Day in his church. It is printed as a leaflet in 7 st. of 6 l. When included in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M., sts. ii. and vi. were omitted, and slight alterations were made in the rest of the hymn. [J. J.]

Newman, Card. J. H., p. 800, ii. ; 1241, ii. The following are also in use at the present time, but, except No. 13, almost exclusively in R. C. collections. The dates in brackets are those given in Newman's Verses, 1868; all thus marked were composed in the Birmingham Oratory at three dates :—

i. In the Rambler, 1850.

1. In the far North our lot is cast. (S. Philip Neri.) (1850.) March, 1850, p. 259. In the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1857 and 1868, it begins, "On Northern coasts," and in the Parochial H. Bk., 1880, with st. ii. "Founder and Sire ! to mighty Rome."
2. Lo ! on the mountains the morn. (Candlemas.) [1848.] March, 1850, p. 261.
3. There sat a Lady all on the ground. [B. V. M.] (1846.) May, 1850, p. 425.

ii. Verses, 1853.

4. All in Divine which the Highest has made. (For one communicating.) (1853.) 1853, p. 128.
5. Green are the leaves, and sweet the flowers. (May.) (1856.) 1863, p. 135.
6. My eldest friend, mine from the hour. (Guardian Angel.) (1853.) 1853, p. 13.
7. The holy monks counted'd from men. (S. Philip Neri.) (1853.) 1853, p. 134.
8. The true Jesus, the ancient Creed. (The Catholic Priest.) 1853, p. 146.
9. This is the saint of sweetness and compassion. (S. Philip Neri.) 1858, p. 136. Rewritten (1857) as "This is the saint of gentleness and kindness" in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1857, No. 49.

iii. Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1857.

10. Holy Lord, the souls which Thou hast made. (The Faithful Departed.) (1857.) 1857, No. 76.

iv. Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1862.

11. I ask not for fortune, for silken attire. (S. Philip Neri.) (1862.) 1862, No. 84.
12. The Kingdom high. (S. Michael.) (1862.) 1862, No. 41.

v. Dream of Gerontius, 1866.

13. Firmly I believe and truly. (The Faith of a Christian.) 1865, p. 9 ; Verses, 1868, p. 318 ; The Engl. Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Newton, Benjamin Wills, M.A. In the article Plymouth Brethren Hymnody, p. 895, ii., it is stated that Mr. Newton, one of the leaders of the Society, had taken Holy Orders. This, we are informed, was not so. He was Fellow of Exeter Coll., Oxon., from 1828 to 1832, but was never ordained. He was b. at Devonport in 1808.

Nichol, Henry Ernest, was b. Dec. 10, 1862, at Hull. He took the degree of MUS. BAC. at Oxford in 1888. He has written fourteen sets of S. S. Anniversary Hymns (130 in all), with original tunes, besides many pub. in leaflet form, mostly under the anagram of Cobb's Stores. The following are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, the dates being those of composition and publication by the author :—

1. Life is opening out before you. Christian Courage. 1897.
2. Rest, O rest ! at eve Thy children's voices. Evening. 1897.
3. We've a story to tell to the nations. Foreign Missions. 1898.
4. Where the flag is flying. Boys' Brigade. 1902. [J. M.]

Nobis Sancti Spiritus gratia sit data. [Whitsuntide.] A hymn on the Holy Spirit, arranged for the Canonical Hours, i.e., one st. each for Matins, Prime, Terce, Sext, Nones, Vespers, and Compline. Mone, No. 191, prints it from a 14th cent. ms. at Karlsruhe (Reichenau, 30), where it occurs thrice, in the second copy ascribed to Pope John XXII. (d. 1334), and in the third copy ascribed to Pope Benedict XII. (d. 1342), and other sources. It is in two Horæ in the B. M. Add. 18920, f. 132b, of c. 1425 ; Add. 28962, f. 80b, of c. 1440 ; in two Horæ in the Fitzwilliam, Cambridge, both written in France c. 1440 (61, p. 140, and 62, p. 254), and others. Printed text in Diversa, xxx., p. 15, &c. Tr. as :—

Let the Holy Spirit's grace, by J. M. Neale, in his Hymns of Mediæval Church, 1851, p. 171, and in D. E. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Noble, James Ashcroft, was b. at Liverpool in 1844, and came to London in 1861. He was then for eight years at Birkdale, Lancs., but returned to London in 1869, and d. April 3, 1896, at Wandsworth Common. He was a well-known essayist, and contributed to the Spectator, the Academy, and other literary papers. In 1887 he pub. Verses of a Free Writer, simple and unambitious, but with the breath of true poetry. In the section entitled "Poems of the Inner Life" there are two hymns written in 1886 for the elder (2) and younger (1) girls at Winterdorf, a girl's school at Birkdale, where he used to lecture on English literature :—

1. God of beauty, Thou last spread. (Unseen of Nature.) 1887, p. 95, as "A Hymn of Beauty, written for the little ones at Winterdorf." In C. Farrington's Hys. for Children, 1891.
2. Lord Jesus, in the days of old. (The Way is Romantic.) 1887, p. 95, as "A Hymn for Evening, written for the girls at Winterdorf." In the S. S. Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Nocte surgentes vigilemus omnes, p. 809, i. Additional versions are :—

1. Christ's loving children, for His love abiding, an adaptation in the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 49, marked as "English by R. B."
2. Father, we praise Thee, now the night is over, in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 913. [J. M.]
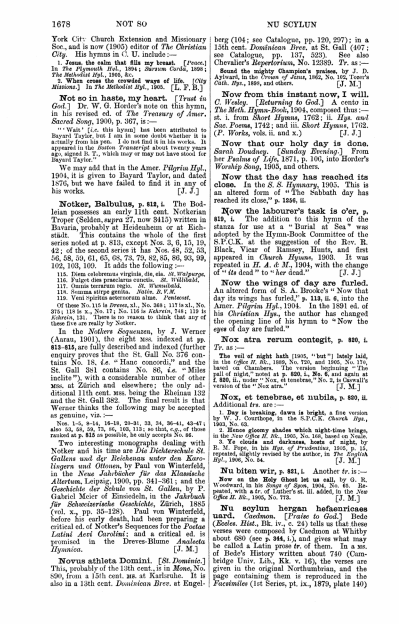
3. Here in the House of God we take our station, in the Office H. Bk., 1889, No. 913. In the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 124, it begins, "Lo ! with the morning lore we take our station." [J. M.]

Non parta solo sanguine, p. 810, i. The text of the altered tr. by L. Williams, in the "Complete Edition" of Hys. A. & M., is recast by the Compilers in the 1904 ed. of their coll., whilst the original first line, "Not by the Martyr's death alone," is retained. [J. J.]

North, Frank Mason, D.D., b. at New York, Dec. 3, 1850, graduated at Wesleyan University 1872, and entered the ministry of the Meth. Episco. Church 1872. In 1892 he became Correspondence Secretary of the New



1678 NOT SO NU SCYLUN

York City: Church Extension and Missionary Soc., and is now (1903) editor of The Christian City. His hymns in C. U. include:—

1. Jesus, the calm that fills my breast. [Peace.] In The Methodist Hymnal, 1878, No. 1; Sermon Cards, 1896; The Methodist Hymnal, 1904, &c.

2. When cross the crowded ways of life. [City Missions.] In The Methodist Hymnal, 1905. [L. F. R.]

Not so in haste, my heart. [Trust in God.] Dr. W. G. Horder's note on this hymn, in his revised ed. of The Treasury of Amer. Sacred Song, 1900, p. 267, is:—

"'Wait' [i.e. this hymn] has been attributed to Bayard Taylor, but I am in some doubt whether it is actually from his pen. I do not find it in his works. It appeared in the Boston Transcript about twenty years ago, signed B. T., which may or may not have stood for Bayard Taylor.

We may add that in the Amer. Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904, it is given to Bayard Taylor, and dated 1870, but we have failed to find it in any of his works. [J. J.]

Notker, Balbulus, p. 813, i. The Bodleian possesses an early 11th cent. Notkerian Troper (Selden, supra 27, now 3415) written in Bavaria, probably at Heidenheim or at Eichstädt. This contains the whole of the first series noted at p. 813, except Nos. 2, 6, 15, 19, 42; of the second series it has Nos. 48, 52, 53, 56, 58, 59, 61, 65, 68, 73, 79, 82, 85, 86, 90, 99, 102, 103, 105. It adds the following:—

115. Diem celebremus virginis, dis, ela. St. Walpurge.
116. Fulgo clara sanctorum exercitu, &c. All Saints.
117. Gemma virginum Maria, &c. St. Mildred.
118. Gemma stirpe gentis. Notke. B. V. M.
119. Veni spiritus setercorum alme. Pentecost.

Of these No. 115 is Sermo, xl., No. 368; 117 is xl., No. 370; 118 is x., No. 17; No. 116 is Sakwin, 748; 119 is Sakwin, 131. There is no reason to think that any of these five are really by Notker.

In the Notkers Sequenzen, by J. Werner (Aarau, 1901), the eight MSS. indexed at pp. 813–815, are fully described and indexed (further enquiry proves that the St. Gall No. 376 contains No. 18, i.e. "Hanc concordi," and the St. Gall 381 contains No. 86, i.e. "Miles inclite"), with a considerable number of other MSS. at Zürich and elsewhere; the only additional 11th cent. MSS. being the Rheinau 132 and the St. Gall 382. The final result is that Werner thinks the following may be accepted as genuine, viz.:—

Nos. 1–5, 8–14, 21–31, 33, 34, 36–41, 43–47; also 53, 58, 59, 75, 95, 103, 113; so that, e.g., of those ranked as p. 813 as possible, he only accepts No. 86.

Two interesting monographs dealing with Notker and his time are Die Dichterschule St. Gallens und der Reichsanus unter den Karolingern und Ottonen, by Paul von Winterfeld, in the Neue Jahrbücher für das Klassische Altertum, Leipzig, 1900, pp. 341–361; and the Geschichte der Schule von St. Gallen, by P. Gabriel Meier of Einsiedeln, in the Jahrbuch für Schweizerische Geschichte, Zürich, 1883 (vol. x., pp. 35–128). Paul von Winterfeld, before his early death, had been preparing a critical ed. of Notker's Sequences for the Poetae Latini Aevi Carolini; and a critical ed. is promised in the Dreves-Blume Analecta Hymnica. [J. M.]

Novus athleta Domini. [St. Dominic.] This, probably of the 13th cent., is in Mone, No. 850, from a 15th cent. MS. at Karlsruhe. It is also in a 13th cent. Dominican Brev. at Engelberg (104; see Catalogue, pp. 120, 257); in a 13th cent. Dominican Brev. at St. Gall (407; see Catalogue, pp. 137, 323). See also Chevalier's Repertorium, No. 12389. Tr. as:—

Round the mighty Champion's praises, by J. D. Aylward, in the Tracts of Jesus, 1863, No. 102, Tate's Cath. Hym., 1880, and others. [J. M.]

Now from this instant now, I will. C. Wesley. [Returning to God.] A cento in The Meth. Hymn-Book, 1904, composed thus:—st. i. from Short Hymns, 1762: ii. Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1742; and iii. Short Hymns, 1772. (P. Works, vols. ii. and x.) [J. J.]

Now that our holy day is done. Sarah Doudney. [Sunday Evening.] From her Psalms of Life, 1871, p. 106, into Horder's Worship Song, 1905, and others.

Now that the day has reached its close. In the S. S. Hymnary, 1905. This is an altered form of "The Sabbath day has reached its close," p. 1256. ii.

Now the labourer's task is o'er, p. 818, i. The addition to this hymn of the stanza for use at a "Burial at Sea" was adopted by the Hymn-Book Committee of the S.P.C.K. at the suggestion of the Rev. R. Black, Vicar of Ramsey, Hunts, and first appeared in Church Hymns, 1903. It was repeated in H. A. & M., 1904, with the change of "its dead" to "her dead." [J. J.]

Now the wings of day are furled. An altered form of S. A. Brooke's "Now that day its wings has furled," p. 113, ii. 6, into the Amer. Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904. In the 1891 ed. of his Christian Hymns, the author has changed the opening line of his hymn to "Now the eyes of day are furled."

Nox atra rerum contegit, p. 820, i. Tr. as:—

The veil of night hath (1905, "but") lately laid, in the Office H. &c., 1905, No. 720, and 1906, No. 170, based on Chambers. The version beginning "The pall of night," noted at p. 820, i., No. 6, and again at I. 820, ii., under "Nox, et tenebræ," No. 3, is Caswall's version of the "Nox atra." [J. M.]

Nox, et tenebræ, et nubila, p. 820, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. Day is breaking, dawn is bright, a free version by Dr. Northrop, in the S.P.C.K. Church Hym., 1903, No. 52.

2. Hence gloomy shades which night-time brings, in the New Office H. &c., 1905, No. 105, based on Neale.

3. Ye clouds and darkness, hosts of night, by R. M. Pope, in his Hys. of Providence, 1905, p. 12, repeated, slightly revised by the author, in The English Hym., 1906, No. 84. [J. M.]

Nu biten wir, p. 821, i. Another tr. is:—

Now as the Holy Ghost let us call, by G. K. Woodward, in his Songs of Sion, 1904, No. 44. Repeated, with a fr. of Luther's 44. iii. added, in the New Office H. &c., 1905, No. 779. [J. M.]

Nu seyhun hergan hefaenricaes uard. Cædmon. [Praise to God.] Bede (Eccles. Hist., Bk. iv., c. 24) tells us that these verses were composed by Cædmon at Whitby about 680 (see p. 344, i.), and gives what may be called a Latin prose tr. of them. In a MS. of Bede's History written about 740 (Cambridge Univ. Lib., Kk. v. 16), the verses are given in the original Northumbrian, and the page containing them is reproduced in the Facsimiles (1st Series, pt. ix., 1879, plate 140) of the Palæographical Society. The text is also in various more accessible sources, e.g., J. Earle's Anglo-Saxon Literature, 1885, p. 101 (with an English prose tr.), R. Wülker's Gesch. der Engl. Lit., 1896, p. 51, &c. They have been tr. into verse as "We praise the King of realms on high," by R. M. Mooreom, in his Wanderings of Church Hymns, 1901, p. 60, and his version is repeated, unaltered, in Church Hym., 1903. [J. M.]

Nun danket alle Gott, p. 903, i. Another tr. is:—

Now all give thanks to God With body, soul, and spirit, in the Pattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 83, marked as "tr. by S. B.," and with the note at p. 31: "My translation is an attempt to make it more suitable to modern english use; and I found R.'s gloria without distinction." [J. M.]

Nun ruhen alle Wälder, p. 922, i. Another tr. is:—

The Autumn day now closeth, in the Pattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 82, marked as "Tr. by H. B." Repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Sion, 1901, No. 89, and The English Hyl., 1906, No. 276. [J. M.]

Nunc Sancte nobis Spiritus, p. 923, i. Another tr. is:—

O Holy Spirit, Lord of Life, in the Pattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 46, marked as "English, R. B."

O.

O beata bestorum, p. 924, i. This is in the Vienna MS. 13314 of the 12th cent. See Dreves's Godenstolzue Liedpergensis, 1897, p. 45.

O beata Hierusalem, p. 924, ii. Another tr. is:—

Most it is to tell thy glory, O Jerusalem the blest, by V. S. S. Coles, for H. A. & M., 1904, No. 258.

O Christiana! inaugued together. Lillian W. Cassaday. [Arm for the Christian Conflict.] This, in the Lutheran Book of Worship, Phila., 1899, is signed "Lillian Weaver Cassaday, 1895."

O, come and let us all with one accord. [Evening.] This hymn was given in the S.P.C.K. Hymns, 1852, No. 132, in 4 st. of 4 l., and others, including Longfellow and Johnson's Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 104, in 3 st. of 4 l., as Anon. In the Amer. Bap. Sursum Corda, 1898, it is slightly altered to adapt it as a General hymn. [J. J.]

O come and mourn with me awhile, p. 925, ii. In recent hymn-books other arrangements of this hymn than those noted on p. 925, i. have come into C. U. Following the order of publication, they include:—

1. The Church Hymnary (Scottish), 1898. Sts. i., ii., v., ix., xii.
2. Sursum Corda, 1898 (American). The same as No. 1.
3. Church Hymns, 1903. Sts. i., ii., v., xi., xii.
4. H. A. & M., new ed., 1904. Sts. i., ii., iii., v., xii., ix., xi., in the order named.
5. The Methodist Hymn Book, 1904. Sts. i., ii., v., x., xi.
6. The Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904. Opening with st. v., "Come, take thy stand beneath the cross." Sts. v., v.-vi., vii., ix., xi., in the order named.
7. The English Hyl., 1906, has the original text with the omission of sts. v., vii., viii., and x.

In all these arrangements (and in others also) slight alterations are introduced. These can be determined by reference to Fuller's Hymns, 1902, pp. 81–83. [J. J.]

O'Connor, John, was b. Dec. 5, 1870, at Clonmel, Ireland. After completing his theological studies in the English College at Rome, he was ordained priest 1895, in St. John Lateran, Rome; and is now (1906) priest in charge at Heckmondwike, Yorks. He contributed to the Arundel Hys., 1902, a number of trs. (see Index of Authors, &c.), and the following original hymns:—

1. Ah, Lady of high heaven! B. V. M.
2. All the skies to-night sing o'er us. Christmas.
3. Father of all these fair-scattered sheep of Christ. St. Patrick.
4. Hail! O new Jerusalem. Heaven.
5. Jesu! Thou to Him in Thee. The Love of Jesus.
6. Jesu, the dying day hath left us lonely. Evening.
7. Joseph gentle, husband mine. Christmas.
8. Let sweet and holy sound. Christmas.
9. Our Life hangs dead upon Calvary's hill. Good Friday.
10. The Angelus sweetly rings Ave Maria. The Angelus.
11. The buried flowers keep heart of grace. School Children.
12. The hour of grace sublime. Holy Communion.

[J. M.]

O day, most calm, most bright. G. Herbert. [Sunday.] Appeared in The Temple, 1633, as the poem for "Sunday." In Herbert's Life, by Isaak Walton, the fifth stanza is thus referred to:—

"The Sunday before his death he rose suddenly from his bed, or couch, called for one of his instruments, took it into his hand, and said—

"'My God, my God,
My music shall find Thee,
And every string
Shall have his attributes to sing.'

"And, having tuned it, he played and sung:—

"'The Sundays of man's life.'"

Although this piece is really a poem rather than a hymn, it is included in a few collections, including the Hymnal appended to An Order of Prayer for Use in the Royal College of St. Peter, Westminster, &c., 1885. [J. J.]

O Deus, ego amo Te, Nam prior, pp. 925, i., and 1582, ii. This is in the Symphonia Sirenum, Cologne, 1695 (ed. 1767, p. 144); but not in the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671.

O Deus ego amo Te, Nec amo, pp. 926, ii., and 1582, ii. The history of this hymn has recently been investigated by Father F. X. Drobitzka, of Kalocsa, in his Hymnus Francisci Xaverii, Buda-Pest, 1899; and in the Monumenta Xaveriana, Madrid, 1899, &c., vol. i., p. 935, &c., but it is still rather obscure. It seems fairly certain that the original was a Spanish or Portuguese sonnet, and was written by St. Francis Xavier in the East Indies about 1546 (see Drobitzka, p. 16). The sonnet beginning "No me mueve, mi Dios, para quererte" is in 1905, p. 934, printed from the Epistolas de la vida y muerte de San Ignacio de Loyola, Rosemond, 1602, as being used daily by St. Ignatius in his devotions, nothing being said of the authorship. The Latin version beginning "O Deus ego amo Te, Nec amo" is neither the earliest nor the only version; and there is no reason to suppose that it is by Xavier. Father Drobitzka ascribes it to Francis Garcia, 1672 and 1676, but it had already appeared in the Godaste Paleatum, Cologne, 1669, p. 491, ed. by W. Nakatenus. The earliest Latin version quoted by Drobitzka is by Joannes Nadasi in his Pretiosa occupationes marientium, Bonn, 1657, beginning "Non me movet, Domine, ad amandum Te," at p. 18. He gives also another version by Nadasi in 1665, at p. 19; one by Petrus Possinus in 1667, at p. 10, &c. At p. 26 he prints a version beginning "Amo Deum, sed libere," from Georg Naray's Lyra Coelestis, 1695; but this must be earlier, for it is this version which Scheffler tr. in 1668 (see p. 826, ii.). We may add that in Garcia the "O Deus" ends—

"Solum, quia Rex meus es."

and in Nakatenus it ends—

"Solum, quia Rex meus es,
Et solum quia Deus es."

In the Arundel Hyp., 1902, No. 144 is Caswall's version, altered and beginning "I love Thee, Lord, yet not because," and in the 1904 ed. of Hyp. A. & M. the last stanza is rewritten. [J. M.]

O du allersüsste Freude, p. 827, i. Another tr. is:—

O Thou sweetest source of gladness, Light's all, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 47.

O du Liebe meiner Liebe, p. 827, ii. Another tr. is:—

O Thou Love of Christ, my Lover! by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 2nd ed., 1889, No. 31A.

O esca viatorum, p. 828, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. O Food of wayworn exiles, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hyp., 1902, No. 152.
2. O Food of men wayfaring, The Bread of Angels sharing, by Athelstan Riley, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 531. [J. M.]

O eyes that are weary, and hearts that are sore. [Faith in Jesus.] This hymn is sometimes attributed to J. N. Darby, with varying dates, the earliest being 1922; but we have found no certain evidence of his authorship, and must leave it in doubt. The earliest date to which we have traced it is 1858, when it appeared in the American Sabbath H. Bk. and Miss Warner's Hyn of the Church Militant simultaneously. Its use is almost entirely confined to America, and in later collections the text is much altered. [J. M.]

O Father blest, Thy name we sing. A. T. Russell. [Praise.] Pub. in his Ps. & Hyn., 1851, Appendix, No. 7. It is found in a few collections only.

O Father, hear my morning prayer. [Morning.] This is in Dr. John Hunter's Hyn. of Faith and Life, 1896, No. 721, marked as by "Frances A. Percy." It is repeated in the Public School H. Bk., 1905, and the Rugby School H. Bk., 1906.

O Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, One God in Persons Three. [Renewal of Baptismal Vows.] This anonymous hymn is in the Catholic Hyl., 1860, No. 168, the Hymnal Noted Appx., 1863, Hatfield, 1872, and others.

O Father, we adore Thee. And bending low before Thee. F. W. Farrar. [Commemoration.] Written for the Jubilee of Marlborough College, 1893, and included in Hyn. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1899.

O filii et filiæ, p. 828, ii. This is in L'Office de la Semaine Sainte . . . de la Traduction de M. de Marolles, Paris, 1662, p. 607, as "Joyous Chant for the time of Easter." The work is dedicated to Monseigneur Molé, who d. 1656, and the approbation of the Paris Doctors of Divinity is dated Oct. 12, 1650. We may add that the text of The English Hyl., 1906, is that of Dr. Neale, "Ye sons," &c.; Church Hyn., 1903, is old Hyn. A. & M.; The New Office H. Book, 1905, the same with the addition of Dr. Neale's final stanza; and Hyn. A. & M., 1904, their old text partly rewritten by the Compilers as "O Sons," &c. [J. M.]

O for a closer walk with God, p. 829, ii. In Notes and Queries, July 30, 1904, in one of a series of the poet Cowper's hitherto unpublished letters, under date of Olney, Dec. 10, 1769, after referring to the serious illness of his friend and companion, Mrs. Unwin, in words of great beauty and tenderness, he adds:—

"When I consider the great sweetness to which the Lord has wrought her for the inheritance in light; her most exemplary patience under the sharpest sufferings; her truly Christian humility and resignation; I am more than ever inclined to believe that her busy has been a life of prayer, and that many a time in the night You know what I have once cried of upon an occasion like this. Pray that I may receive it as His hands, from whom every good and perfect gift cometh. She is the chief of blessings I have met with in my journey, since the Lord was pleased to call me, and I hope the influences of her edifying and excellent example will never leave me. Pray that I may improve it to the end, and to that it may have a sanctified effect, that I may rejoice to surrender up to the Lord my dearest comforts the moment He shall require them. Oh! for so will not the will of my Heavenly Father!

"I return you thanks for the verses you sent me, which speak sweetly the language of a Christian soul. I will not say I made them for you, but intend to comment to pay you in the best kind I can. I began to comp-se them yesterday morning [Dec. 9, 1769], before daybreak, but fell asleep at the end of the first two lines: when I awaked again, the third and fourth were whispered to my heart in a way which I have often experienced:—

"'O Lord, I have vow'd, and sincerely intend,
A calm and Heavenly theme,
A light to shine upon the road,
That leads me to the Lamb.'

[Here follow the remaining five stanzas of the hymn, and the letter concludes:] "I am yours, my dear Anne, in the bands of that Love which cannot be quenched, &c.

"W. C."

The light which this letter throws upon the hymn is intense and searching. We read a new and pathetically personal history and meaning in the earnest and throbbing lines, and are brought face to face with an agony which would have been voiceless but for the mercy and goodness of God. [J. J.]

O gentes omnes terrarum. [Ps. cxvii.] At the end of the Bodleian copy of the Liber precum publicarum, printed at Oxford in 1615 for the use of Christ Church, there is an appendix of six printed pages with Latin versions of Pss. 45, 114, 117, 119 (part), 133, 150, the version of Ps. 117 beginning as above. (Note from Mr. F. Madan: The Appx. is not in the Brit. Mus. copy.) This version is not in the eds. of 1629 or 1660. But in the Psalmi aliquot Davidici in metrum Latinum trochaïci . . . in usum Academiæ cum Conciones habeantur ad Clerum, Oxford, 1669 (bound up with the Brit. Mus. copy of the Liber precum, 1660), it appears as "O gentes omnes undique," the text of sts. i., ii. being revised and a new Gloria substituted. The text of 1660 is still sung in the University Church at the Latin service on the first day of Term, and is in the Public School H. Bk., 1903. In the Rugby School H. Bk., 1857 and 1906, it is given as "O omnes gentes undique," with an English version beginning "O all ye nations, praise the Lord" (see p. 937, i.). Dr. W. M. Furneaux made a new version in 1902, and this, which begins "O, all ye nations everywhere," is in his Comp. to the Public School H. Bk., 1904. [J. M.]

O God, my strength and fortitude. T. Sternhold. [Ps. xviii.] This version of the xviiith Psalm appeared in the Old Version, 1561, and was repeated in all the subsequent editions of the Old Version. In the older hymn-books a canto therefrom was in somewhat extensive use in G. Britain and America. It began,

"The Lord descended from above
And bow'd the heavens most high,
And underneath His feet he cast
The darkness of the sky."

and consisted of sts. ix., x. and i., in the order named. In some collections the second line reads "And bow'd the heavens most high," and an additional stanza is placed between sts. ii. and iii., as "He sat serene upon the floods," an altered form of Sternhold's version of Ps. xxix. 10. [J. J.]

O God of Bethel, by Whose hand, p. 833, i., iii. R. Darracott's version of this hymn was included in The Star of the West, being Memoirs of the Life of the late Holden Darracott, London, 1815, pp. 40, 41, as a hymn written after his marriage, which took place in Dec. 1741. Hence has arisen the modern claim for Darracott as the author of the hymn, as against the claims of Doddridge. The Darracott version, as the editor of the Memoirs remarks, excites "no high idea of his poetic genius." Besides rewriting the hymn to adapt it to his circumstances in 1741, Darracott added the following concluding stanza:—

"For if, O Lord, Thou ours will be,
We can give up the rest,
Our souls possess'd alone of Thee,
Are infinitely blest." [J. M.]

O God, Thou in Thy love [didst] dost make. An altered form of "O Saviour! Thou this day didst make," from J. S. B. Monsell's "The world to-day divides its year," p. 1158, ii.

O God, Thy children gathered here, p. 834, ii., No. 4, is given to S. Johnson in error. It is by S. Longfellow.

O God, to Whom our fathers prayed. H. L. Hastings. [Resignation.] From his Songs of Pilgrimage, 1886, in which it is dated 1883.

O God, unseen yet ever near! Reveal Thy presence now. This hymn, in 3 st. of 4 l., was given in Longfellow and Johnson's Hyn. of the Spirit, 1864, as No. 44, and entitled "At the Fountain." In the index it is signed Anon. It is, in fact, E. Osler's hymn in a rewritten form, 7 of its 12 lines being direct from Osler (see p. 833, i.). In modern Amer. collections it begins "O God unseen, but ever near," and is expanded into 16 lines, the increase being attributed to S. Longfellow. This form is in several American hymn-books, including The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. [J. J.]

O God, while generations flee Like leaves. [God our All.] An anonymous and undated hymn in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

O God, Who workest hitherto. This, in the American Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904, begins with st. iii. of T. W. Freckelton's hymn, "The toil of brain, or heart, or hand," p. 1196, i., as in Horder's Comp. Hymns, 1884.

O Gott, du Tiefe, p. 837, ii. Another canto from J. Wesley's tr. is:—

Thy hand, O God, Thy forming skill (st. iii.), in the Meth. F. C. Hyn., 1808, No. 7.

O Gracious God, in Whom I live. This is a canto from Anne Steele's "Alas! what hourly dangers rise," p. 36, i.

O happy band of pilgrims, p. 838, i. The text of this hymn in Church Hyn., 1903, is Dr. Neale's original with st. iii. as the first part of st. iv. in 8 lines, and an alteration in st. v., l. 1. That in H. & A. M., 1904, is a new canto with alterations, from Dr. Neale's full text of 1862. The English Hyl., 1906, has Dr. Neale's text with alteration as below. The original of st. v., l. 1, is "What are they but vaunt-couriers." This is given in Church Hyn. as . . . "but His heralds"; in Hyn. A. & M. as . . . "but the couriers"; and in The English Hyl. as . . . "but forerunners." [J. J.]

O Haupt voll Blut, p. 839, i. The version by Dr. Alexander, "O Sacred Head! now wounded," appears, with alterations made by the compilers, in the S.P.C.K. Church Hyn., 1903, No. 141, as "O Sacred head! sore wounded, With grief and shame weighed down." The fourth stanza would give the spirit of the original better if it read thus:—

"Be near when I am dying;
O show Thy cross to me;
Thy death, my hope supplying,
From fear shall set me free." [J. M.]

O Holy Saviour, Friend unseen, p. 839, i. In the 1825 ed. of The Jesuit's Hymn Book, No. 63, this hymn begins, "Holy Saviour, Friend unseen."

O how the thought that we shall know, p. 827, i. We have traced this hymn to J. Swain's Walworth Hymns, 1792, p. 130.

O Jesu Christe, wahres Licht, p. 838, i. The version in the S.P.C.K. Church Hyn., 1903, No. 203, beginning "O Christ, the true and only Light," is taken from the trs. by Ball and Russell noted at p. 838, i. [J. M.]

O Jesu, strong and pure and true. W. W. How. (Consecration.) Written for the Jubilee of Marlborough College, 1893, and included in the Hymns for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1899. It has passed into the Hyn. for the Use of Rugby School, 1896; the Public School H. Bk., 1903, and others. [J. J.]

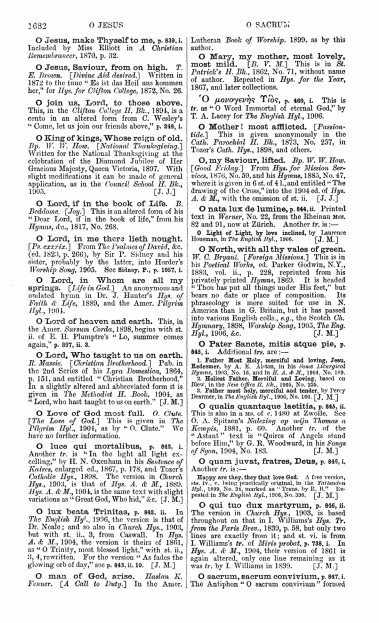
O Jesus, I have promised, p. 839, i. The original text of this hymn, as in the 1859 Appendix to the S.P.C.K. Ps. & Hyn., has been reduced in the 1904 ed. of Hyn. A. & M. "O! let me feel Thee near me," in the Boston Hyn. for Church & Home, 1870, is composed of sts. ii. and iii. of this hymn. The original appeared as a leaflet (No. 1468), issued by the S.P.C.K. in 1868 as "Hymn for the Newly Confirmed."



1682 O JESUS O SACRUM

O Jesus, make Thyself to me, p. 830, i. Included by Miss Elliott in A Christian Remembrancer, 1870, p. 32.

O Jesus, Saviour, from on high. T. E. Brown. [Victoria Add destred.] Written in 1872 to the tune "Es ist das Heil uns kommen her," for Hym. for Clifton College, 1872, No. 26.

O join us, Lord, to those above. This, in the Clifton College H. Bk., 1894, is a cento in an altered form from C. Wesley's "Come, let us join our friends above," p. 846, i.

O King of kings, Whose reign of old. Bp. W. W. How. [National Thanksgiving.] Written for the National Thanksgiving at the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Her Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria, 1897. With slight modifications it can be made of general application, as in the Council School H. Bk., 1905. [J. J.]

O Lord, if in the book of Life. B. Beddome. [Jay.] This is an altered form of his "Dear Lord, if in the book of life," from his Hymns, &c., 1817, No. 268.

O Lord, in me there lieth nought. [Ps. cxxxix.] From The Psalmes of David, &c. (ed. 1823, p. 206), by Sir P. Sidney and his sister, probably by the latter, into Herder's Worship Song, 1905. See Sidney, P., p. 1027, i.

O Lord, in Whom are all my springs. [Life in God.] An anonymous and isolated hymn in Dr. J. Hunter's Hym. of Faith & Life, 1889, and the Amer. Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

O Lord of heaven and earth. This, in the Amer. Sursum Corda, 1898, begins with st. ii. of E. H. Plumptre's "Lo, summer comes again," p. 937, ii. 3.

O Lord, Who taught to us on earth. R. Massie. [Christian Brotherhood.] Pub. in the 2nd Series of his Lyra Domestica, 1864, p. 151, and entitled "Christian Brotherhood." In a slightly altered and abbreviated form it is given in The Methodist H. Book, 1904, as "Lord, who hast taught to us on earth." [J. M.]

O Love of God most full. O. Chute. [The Love of God.] This is given in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, as by "O. Clute." We have no further information.

O luce qui mortalibus, p. 845, i. Another tr. is "In the light all light excelling," by H. N. Oxenham in his Sentences of Koiros, enlarged ed., 1867, p. 178, and Toner's Catholic Hys., 1898. The version in Church Hys., 1903, is that of Hys. A. & M., 1889. Hys. A. & M., 1904, is the same text with slight variations as "Great God, Who bid," &c. [J. M.]

O lux beata Trinitas, p. 845, ii. In The English Hyl., 1906, the version is that of Dr. Neale; and so also in Church Hys., 1903, but with st. ii., 3, from Caswall. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, the version is theirs of 1861, as "O Trinity, most blessed light," with st. ii., 3, 4, rewritten. For the version "As fades the glowing orb of day" see p. 843, ii. 10. [J. M.]

O man of God, arise. Hinden K. Fowner. [A Call to Duty.] In the Amer. Lutheran Book of Worship, 1899, as by this author.

O Mary, my mother, most lovely, most mild. [B. V. M.] This is in St. Patrick's H. Bk., 1892, No. 71, without name of author. Repeated in Hys. for the Year, 1907, and later collections.

'Ο μονογενὴς Τὸν, p. 860, i. This is tr. as "O Word Immortal of eternal God," by T. A. Lacey for The English Hyl., 1906.

O Mother! most afflicted. [Passion-tide.] This is given anonymously in the Cath. Parochial H. Bk., 1873, No. 237, in Toner's Cath. Hys., 1898, and others.

O, my Saviour, lifted. Bp. W. W. How. [Good Friday.] From Hys. for Mission Services, 1876, No. 30, and his Hymns, 1885, No. 47, where it is given in 6 st. of 4 l., and entitled "The drawing of the Cross," into the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., with the omission of st. ii. [J. J.]

O nata lux de lumine, p. 844, ii. Printed text in Werner, No. 22, from the Rheinau MSS. 82 and 91, now at Zürich. Another tr. is:—

O Light of Light, by love inclined, by Laurence Housman, in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

O North, with all thy vales of green. W. C. Bryant. Foreign Missions.] This is in his Poetical Works, ed. Parker Godwin, N.Y., 1883, vol. ii., p. 228, reprinted from his privately printed Hymns, 1869. It is headed "Thou has put all things under His feet," but bears no date or place of composition. Its phraseology is more suited for use in N. America than in G. Britain, but it has passed into various English colls., e.g., the Scotch Ch. Hymnary, 1898, Worship Song, 1905, The Eng. Hyl., 1906, &c. [J. M.]

O Pater Sancte, mitis atque pie, p. 845, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. Father Most Holy, merciful and loving, Jesu, Redeemer, by A. E. Alston, in his Some Liturgical Hymns, 1903, No. 16, and in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 189.
2. Holiest Father, Merciful and Loving, based on Bere, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 338.

O qualis quantaque laetitia, p. 845, ii. This is also in a MS. of c. 1480 at Zwolle. See O. A. Spitzen's Nederlag op wijn Thomas a Kempis, 1881, p. 60. Another tr. of the "Astant" text is "Quires of Angels stand before Him," by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 183. [J. M.]

O quam juvat, fratres, Deus, p. 845, i. Another tr. is:—

Happy are they, they that love God. A free version, sts. i.-v., being practically original, in the Parishioner, 1857, p. 24, and reprinted in Kennedy, 1863, No. 1, and repeated in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 394. [J. M.]

O qui tuo dux martyrum, p. 846, ii. The version in Church Hys., 1903, is based throughout on that in I. Williams's Hys. Tr. from the Paris Brev., 1839, p. 58, but only two lines are exactly from it; and st. vi. is from I. Williams's tr. of Miris probat, p. 738, i. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, their version of 1861 is again altered, only one line remaining as it was tr. by I. Williams in 1839. [J. M.]

O sacrum, sacrum convivium, p. 847, i. The Antiphon "O sacrum convivium" formed part of the Office for Corpus Christi drawn up by St. Thomas of Aquino, and seems to have been composed by him. It is in a MS. of the second half of the 14th cent. now in the B. M. (Add. 18845, f. 438b). [J. M.]

O SANCTISSIMA OI ΠΑΙΔΕΣ 1683

O Sanctissima, O piissima. [B. V. M.] The original form, in one stanza, is in J. G. Herder's Stimmen der Völker in Liedern, ed. Johann von Müller, Tübingen, 1807, p. 175, as "To the Virgin Mary, a Sicilian Sailor's Hymn": with the original melody (in the Hyl. Comp. called "Sicilian Mariner's"). Herder had collected these folk songs about the year 1776. Two later forms have passed into English. The first is in the Crown H. Bk., 1862, with two additional sts. adapted from the Marian Antiphons, "Tota pulchra" (Reg. 2 B. v. c. 1070; H.B.S. vol. xxi., 1902, col. 6), and "Sicut lilium" (Westminster Missal, H.B.S. reprint, col. 1358, from a MS. of c. 1400). The second is in J. Mohr's Manual of Sacred Chant, 1877, p. 482, with four additional sts. which appear to be modern. Tr. as:—

1. O most holy, O most pure, in the Crown H. Bk., 1862, No. 198.
2. O most holy one, O most pitiful, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 189, with the Latin text, as in Mohr, as No. 198.

[J. M.]

O Saviour Christ, our woes dispel. This is composed of a portion of H. Twells's "At even ere the sun was set," p. 88, ii.

O selig Haus, p. 848, i. The version beginning "O happy home, where Thou art loved the dearest," in the Scottish Ch. Hymnary, 1898, No. 475, and the Meth. H. Bk., 1904, No. 899, is Mrs. Faulkner's tr. of 1858, altered, with her permission, to a more singable metre. [J. M.]

O Shepherd of the sheep, p. 848, ii. 4. Of this text, st. c., ii. 3, 4 have been rewritten in Hys. A. & M., 1904, to the manifest advantage of the hymn. The old Hys. A. & M. text is retained in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. J.]

O stella Jacob fulgida. [B. V. M.] This is the hymn at Matins on the Festival of the Purity of the Virgin Mary. This office is printed in full in the Opera (vol. vi., Rome, 1751, p. 314, &c.) of Pope Benedict XIV., and was authorised by him in 1731 for use in Portugal. It is now said as a Greater Double, on the 30th of October. It is in the Rom. Brev., Lisbon, 1786, Pars Aut., p. 516, and later eds. of the B. Brev. Tr. as:—

Star of Jacob, ever beaming, by E. Caswall in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 181, and his Hys. & Poems, 1873, p. 97. It is in several R. C. collections. [J. M.]

O Thou Eternal Victim, slain, p. 860, i. We find that the form of this hymn, "O first in sorrow, first in pain," attributed to Dr. Kennedy at p. 599, i., is in the Denton and Cooke Church Hyl., 1853, No. 77. In the Sherborne School H. Bk., 1888, it is given as by J. Moultrie. Under these circumstances it is difficult to determine by whom this recast from C. Wesley was made. [J. J.]

O Thou, my Light, my Life, my Joy. [For Providence and Grace.] This hymn is attributed in several American collections to J. Montgomery, and dated 1825. It appeared in Montgomery's Christian Psalmist, 1825, No. 168, without signature, and is not included in the section in that work which is devoted to his own productions, neither is it in his Original Hymns, 1853. It is to the present Amen. [J. J.]

O Thou Who hast redeemed of old. C. Wesley. [The love of God desired.] The cento in the Baptist Church Hyl., 1900, No. 241, is composed of st. i. from this hymn, Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1749, and ii.-iv. from "O Thou Who hast our sorrows borne," p. 1261, i. 421. [J. J.]

O Thou Who wouldst not have. Composed of sts. v. and vi. of "And am I born to die?" p. 63, i., in The Meth. H. Bk., 1904.

O Thou Whom all Thy saints adore. C. Wesley. [Opening of Divine Service.] The second of two hymns on "Entering into the Congregation," in Hys. and Sac. Poems, 1742. (P. Works, ii., p. 226.) In the American Meth. Hymnal, 1905. [J. J.]

O Thou, Whose chosen place of birth. [Work amongst the Poor.] In Herder's Hys. Supplemental, &c., 1824, and The Methodist H. Book, 1904, this hymn is given as by "W. S. Peterson." Beyond this we have no information.

O what can little hands do? p. 1024, ii. This hymn is by Grace W. Hinsdale, and is included in her Daily Meditations for Children, 1868, p. 30 (Brit. Mus. copy). From this we gather that Mrs. Hinsdale's pen-name was "Forks."

O what hath Jesus bought for me? This, in the 1904 ed. of The Meth. H. Bk., No. 857, is a cento from the old hymn "And let this feeble body fail" (p. 65, ii.).

O when shall I see Jesus, p. 871, i. Mr. C. Graves of Barneveld, N.Y., informs us that this hymn is in an American hymn-book entitled The Christian Harmony, or Songster's Companion, by Jeremiah Ingalls . . . Exeter, New Hampshire . . . Henry Ranlet, 1805. Its actual authorship, however, is still somewhat uncertain.

Oakley, Ebenezer Sherman, M.A., a. of the Rev. Henry Oakley, Congregational Minister, was b. Dec. 24, 1865, at Richmond, Yorks. He studied in arts at Glasgow Univ., and in theology at Airedale Coll., Bradford, and the Univ. of Giessen, and took his M.A. at the Univ. of Allahabad in N. India. He is now (1906) missionary of the L.M.S. at Almora in N. India, and Principal of Ramsay College there. He contributed three hymns to Dr. John Hunter's Hys. of Faith and Life, 1889 and 1896, from which Nos. 1 and 2 passed into the Public School H. Bk., 1903, and Worship Song, 1905.

1. Enduring Soul of all our life. [Whitsuntide.] Written 1889; in Hunter, 1889, No. 178.
2. The Life's earnest morning. [Morning for God.] Written 1889; in Hunter, 1889, No. 661, entitled Heads O's Hymn.
3. O Holy Child of Bethlehem. [Devotion to Christ.] In Hunter, 1894, No. 399.

[J. M.]

Οἱ ποιμένες εὐσεβεῖα, p. 893, i. From Dr. Neale's tr. is taken "The shepherds keep their flocks by night," in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904.

1684 OLD VERSION ΟΤΑΝ ΤΙΘΩΝΤΑΙ

Old Version, pp. 857, i., to 866, ii., and 1538, i., to 1541, ii. In the history of the Old Version in this Dictionary, three editions of this work were noted as missing at the time of publication in 1892. These were: The Geneva edition of 1558 (p. 857, ii., § iii.; the London edition of 1562 (p. 860, i., § vi.); and an edition noted in Watts's Bibliotheca, as 1559 (p. 858, ii., § iv.). Of these, a copy of each of the editions published in 1558 and 1562 has been found. The details concerning these are :—

1. The Geneva Edition of 1558.—This copy, which is in private hands, measures 3⅞ inches by 2¾ inches, the margin having been reduced to the lowest possible limits without injury to the text. It consists of two separately paged parts, the first being :—

The Forme of Prayers and Ministration of the Sacraments, &c. . . . Printed at Geneva, by Iames Poullain and Antonie Rebul, M.D.LVIII.

The second part is :—

Psalmes of David in English Metre by Thomas Sternhold and others: conferred with the Ebrue, and in certein places corrected, as the Sence of the Prophet required: And, in this Second Edition are added diuers mo, newly compyled. . . . Anno V. If any be afflicted, let him pray, and if any be merry, let him sing [Colossi. 1558.

This edition contained the additions of nine psalms by Whittingham and two by Pullain, as conjectured by N. Livingston (see p. 857, ii., § iii.). It was described by us in the Times Literary Supplement, Sep. 15, 1903, p. 277.

2. The London Edition of 1562. The full title-page of this copy is :—

The whole Booke of Psalmes, collected into Englysh metre by T. Sternhalde, I. Hopkins, & others: conferred with the Ebrue, with sayd Notes to synge them withal, Faithfully perused and allowed according to the Ordres appointed in the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions: —Very mete to be vsed of all sortes of people priuately for their solace and comforte, laying aparte all vngodly songes and Ballades, which tende only to the nourishing of vyce, and corrupting of Youth [Texts] . . . Imprinted at Lodon by Iohn Day, dwelling ouer Aldersgate, Cum gratia & priuilegio Regie Maiestatis per Septennium, 1562.

This copy is in the John Rylands Library, Manchester, and has been carefully collated by Mr. Maurus. It answers in every respect to the description on p. 860, i., § vii.

Although the edition of 1559, which is still missing, is of no practical value in the history of the Old Version, its recovery would be of bibliographical interest and value. [J. J.]

Omnes una celebremus, p. 868, ii. In 3 MS. of at latest 1479 in the Chapter Library at Posen, this is appointed for use "In Summer, on Sundays" (see J. Danko's Vetus Hymnarium ecclesiasticum Hungaricæ, 1893, p. 103). It is also in the Hungarian Missal (Dominicale Ultramontanorum) of 1480, and the Gran Missal of 1484 (see Missel-Weale, i., p. 558, and ii., p. 257). [J. M.]

On the resurrection morning, p. 1084, ii. In the Church Hys., 1903, the line "Father, sister, child, and mother," reads, "Father, mother, children, brethren," and the definite fact that there are brothers as well as sisters in most families is recognised in this hymn we believe for the first time. The child of the original is taken as a son; but this is forcing language beyond its legitimate and specific meaning. The Church Hys. text received the sanction of the author. We fail to see the value of substituting "the scorried body" for "the tired body," as in Hys. A. & M., and one or two others. [J. J.]

Once to every man and nation. J. R. Lowell. [Decision. Notional.] This, in Horder's Hys. Supplemental, 1894, and Worship Song, 1905, and in The Hy. Hyl., 1906, is a cento from "The Present Crisis," which begins "When a deed is done for freedom," in Lowell's Poems, vol. ii., Boston, U.S., 1849, p. 53, dated December, 1845. The crisis was the war with Mexico. Lowell held that the war was unjust, and that annexation would only enlarge the area of slavery. [J. M.]

One more day's work for Jesus, pp. 699, ii. 6, and 1238, i. 2. This hymn is by Anna Warner, and the tune usually associated with it is by R. Lowry; hence the error on p. 699, ii. 6.

One Thy Light, the temple filling. This in Hys. A. & M., 1904, is composed of sts. v.-x. of J. Keble's "Lord of Life, prophetic Spirit, p. 95, ii. The Book of Prayers for Cuddesdon College, in which the original appeared, is dated 1858, the hymn being on p. 109. [J. J.]

Onward, brothers, onward. [Processional.] An anonymous hymn in The Methodist H. Book, 1904. It is an evident imitation of "Onward, Christian soldiers," and is found in the Hys. for Mission Churches, published in 1885 (No. 128), by the Compilers of Hys. A. & M. [J. J.]

Onward, Christian soldiers, p. 870, ii. The line in this hymn, "We are not divided," has been brought into agreement with the facts as existing in the Church of Christ to-day, by the alteration which it has undergone in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M.; it reads "Though divisions harass." [J. J.]

Opus peregisti tuum, p. 873, ii. Other trs. are :—

1. Thy work on earth, O Christ, is done, in H. A. & M., 1861, No. 119, marked as by the Compilers. It is based on Chandler. The original of st. iv. is :—

"Illic patrono, pectitve,
Paris sequester, quem tua
Cæsæ profudit cantus,
Offerre pergis sanguinem."

2. Thy Sacred race, O Lord, is run. This is in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, pt. i., p. 154, and marked as by R. Campbell and J. C. Earle, and is based on Chandler. The

3. The version in Church Hys., 1903, is mainly the Hys. A. & M., 1861, text, returning to Chandler in sts. ii., iii. It begins "O Saviour, Who for me hast trod." [J. M.]

"Οταν ἐλθῃς ὁ θεὸς. [Last Judgment.] This is a Contakion in the Greek morning service for Sexagesima Sunday (Triodion, Venice, 1898, p. 25). Tr. as "When Thou shalt come, O Lord," by J. Brownlie in his Hys. of the Greek Church, 1900. [J. M.]

"Οταν τίθενται θρόνοι. [Last Judgment.] This is found in the Greek Vespers service for the Saturday before Sexagesima Sunday (Triodion, Venice, 1898, p. 22 : printed as verse in Mona's notes to his No. 250). Tr. as "Ere passing the portals of death, fellow-mortals," by G. R. Woodward in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 178. [J. M.]

Οὐ θέλω δὲ ὑμᾶς ἀγνοεῖν, ἀδελφοί. [The Resurrection.] These are the opening words of 1 Thess. iv. 13–18, which have been rendered into metre as "Concerning them which are asleep," by G. R. Woodward, and given in his Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. J.]

Our Father which in heaven art. J. Bunyan. [Lord's Prayer.] From his Book for Boys and Girls, 1686, p. 8, into the Council School H. Bk., 1905.

Our fathers' God, to Thee. [National Hymn.] This hymn in the Amer. Hymnal of the Prot. Episco. Church, 1892, is composed of st. i. of S. F. Smith's "My country, 'tis of thee" (p. 1083, i. 13), so altered as to be almost unrecognisable; st. i. of C. T. Brooks's hymn (p. 1246, i. 1) also altered; and st. ii. of J. S. Dwight's "God bless our native land" (p. 1246, ii.). [J. J.]

Our souls shall magnify the Lord, p. 878, ii. This hymn originally appeared in Collyer's Hymns, &c., 1812, No. 917.

Owens, Priscilla Jane, was born July 21, 1829, of Scotch and Welsh descent, and is now (1906) resident at Baltimore, where she is engaged in public-school work. For 50 years Miss Owen has interested herself in Sunday-school work, and most of her hymns were written for children's services. Her hymn in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, "We have heard a joyful sound" (Missions), was written for a Sunday-school Mission Anniversary, and the words were adapted to the chorus "Vive le Roi" in the opera The Huguenots. [J. B.]

Oxenham, Henry Nutcombe, M.A., was b. at Harrow in 1829, educated at Harrow, and Balliol Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1850, M.A. 1854). He was in 1856 curate of St. Bartholomew, Cripplegate, London. After joining the Church of Rome in 1857 he was for some time master at St. Edmund's Coll. near Ware, and then at the Oratory School, Birmingham. He d. March 23, 1888. His hymns and trs. are principally in his Manual of Devotions for the Blessed Sacrament, 1854, and his Sentence of Knives, 1854 (2nd ed. 1867). See Index of Authors and Translators. [J. M.]

P.

Page, Edgar, p. 1088, i. In his Sacred Songs, &c., Mr. Sankey attributes the hymn "I've reached the land of corn and wine," and "Simply trusting every day," to "Edgar Page," as stated on p. 1245, i.; but in his My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, he gives both to "E. F. Stites," together with some details concerning them, but without any reference to the change in his ascription of authorship. [J. J.]

Palmer, Alice, née Freeman, b. at Coleville, N.Y., in 1855, and graduated from Michigan University, 1876. She took great interest in education, and held several responsible positions in connection therewith, including that of Dean of the Women's Department of the University of Chicago 1892-95. She hold the degrees of PH.D., L.H.D., and LL.D. Married in 1887 to Prof. George H. Palmer, LL.D. She d. suddenly in Paris in 1902. Her hymn "How sweet and silent is the place" (H. Communion) was written in 1901. [M. C. H.]

Palmer, Edmund Stuart, M.A., was b. Dec. 31, 1856, at Wherwell Priory, Hants, and educated at the Univ. of Edinburgh (M.B. and C.M., 1882) and Cuddesdon College. He was ordained D. 1880, P. 1890, as curate of St. Saviour's, Leeds; was from 1889 to 1901 on the staff of the Universities Mission at Zanzibar, and in 1904 became Vicar of Kirton in Holland, Lincs. While at Zanzibar he wrote, in Swahili, a hymn for the Holy Communion, beginning "Yesu Bin Mariamu," printed in the U.M.C.A. H. Bk. He tr. it into English as "Jesu, Son of Mary, Fount of life alone," and this, privately printed in 1902, was re-written for The Eng. Hyl., 1906, No. 356. [J. M.]

Palmer, George Herbert, B.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge, B.A. 1868, curate of St. Margaret's, Toxteth Park, Liverpool, 1869–76, and St. Barnabas, Pimlico, 1876–83. He published The Antiphoner and Gradual, 1881; Harmonies of the Office Hymn-Book, 1891; The Sarum Psalter, 1894, &c. Several of his trs. from the Latin are in The Hymner, 1904. See Index of Authors and Trans. [J. J.]

Palmer, H. R., p. 877, i. The hymn "Would you gain the best in life" (Steadfastness), in the Cong. S. School Supplement, 1891, the Council School H. Book, 1905, and others, is by this author. [J. J.]

Pange lingua gloriosi corporis, p. 879, i. The following details concerning trs. of this hymn have to be noted, viz. :—

1. Sing, my joyful tongue, the mystery. By J. D. Aylward, in O Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, i., p. 160, and thence into the St. Dominic's H. Book, 1888 and 1902.

2. Now, my tongue, the mystery telling. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. the old text of 1861, &c., has been slightly altered in sts. i., iv., v., and vi., and st. ii. has been rewritten.

3. On the night of that last Supper. This is a cento from R. Caswall's tr. as on p. 879, ii., 3.

4. Sing, O my tongue, the heavenly song, p. 879, i. (3), is by W. J. Blew, from his Office of the Holy Week, Path. 1875, p. 375, into the Hymner, 1885. [J. M.]

Pange lingua gloriosi proelium, p. 880, i. Trs. to be noted are :—

1. Sing, my tongue, the glorious battle, Sing the ending of the fray, a good version by Percy Dearmer, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 40.

2. Sing, my tongue, the glorious battle, Sing the last. The Compilers of Hys. A. & M. 1904, rewrote sts. i., ii., iii., and v., slightly altered sts. i., iv., vii., and v. of their old text. [J. M.]

Pardoned through redeeming grace. E. Oakr. [Collect 1st S. after Easter.] Pub. in The Mitre H. Book, 1836, No. 119.

Parker, Edwin Pond, D.D., b. at Castine, Maine, Jan. 13, 1836, and educated at Bowdoin Coll., Maine, and Bangor Theo. Sem., Maine. Entering the Congregational ministry, he became pastor of the Second Church of Christ, Hartford, Conn., Jan. 1860, and has remained there to the present date. Besides editing some S. School Hymn and Tune Bks., now out of use, he was chief Editor of The Book of Praise . . . (Congregational) . . ., Phila., 1874; and Editor of The Christian

Hymnal, Hartford, Conn., 1877, revised ed. 1889. His hymns in C. U. include :—

1. Rest are they in Christ departed. [Death and Burial.] Dated 1856. In the Christian Hyl., 1889, and other collections.

2. Come to Jesus, ye who labour. [Invitation.] Written in 1886, and included in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1894.

3. Hail, Holy Light, the world rejoices. [Morning.] Dated 1889, and given in The Christian Hyr., 1889, The Pilgrim Hyl., 1894, and others.

4. I would tell Jesus. [The Soul's Desire.] Written for a child's hymn-book, and pub. in 1886.

5. Lord, as we Thy Name profess. [Sincerity.] Dated 1889, first pub. in The Christian Hyl., 1889, and subsequently in several other collections, including The Pilgrim Hyl., 1894.

6. Master, so effecting sadly and sweet. [Love and Service.] Originally written in 1886, to close a sermon, and sung by the children in response to the sentiment by the author. It has been adapted, together with the original music, by many compilers. For both words and music see The Pilgrim Hyl., 1894.

7. O Master, Brother, Lord, and Friend. [Christ-mas.] Written to close a Christmas sermon, 1881; first published in a local newspaper, and then included in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1894.

8. Thy Name, O Lord, in sweet accord. [Divine Worship.] First pub. in The Christian Hyl., 1889, and subsequently in several collections, including The Pilgrim Hyl., 1894.

Dr. Parker received his D.D. from Yale University, and is at the present time (1906) Chaplain to the States of the State of Connecticut. The above annotations are based upon Dr. Parker's MS. notes. [J. J.]

Parker, Joseph, D.D., s. of a stone-mason, was b. at Hexham, Northumberland, April 9, 1830, and d. at Hampstead, London, Nov. 28, 1902.

Parker, W. H., p. 1585, ii. The following additional hymns are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

1. Gully come the hours of gladness. Summer. (1865.)
2. How sweet is the message which Jesus has sent. Christ our Example. (1865.)
3. I love to hear you tell. Weekend of Jesus. (1865.)
4. I want to be a hero. Christian Courage. (1865.)
5. Just in the harbour sailing are we. Sailors. (1865.)
6. Tell me the stories of Jesus. Life of Christ. (1865.)
7. The world may beaken from every side. Of Home. (1865.)
8. There are voices all around us. The Angels. (1865.)
9. Where the rushes bowed and quivered. God's Servants. (1865.)
10. With these "Show us the Father." God the Father. (1865.)

Mr. Parker's hymns were mostly first printed in the sheets used for S. S. Anniversaries of the Chelsea Street Baptist Church, New Basford, Nottingham. The three hymns noted at p. 1585, ii., were written in March 1880. [J. M.]

Parnell, Thomas, M.A., was b. in Dublin in 1679, entered Trin. Coll. in 1683 (B.A. 1697, M.A. 1700), was ordained D. 1700, P. 1703, became Archdeacon of Clogher 1706, and in 1716 Rector of Finglas, near Dublin. During a visit to England he was taken ill at Chester, where he d. in Oct. 1718. His Poems, 1722, and Posthumous Works, 1758, are now remembered, if at all, by his poem "The Hermit." His hymn "Holy Jesu! God of love" (Holy Communion) appeared in 1738 as above, p. 240, and is in The Engl. Hyl., 1906 [J. M.]

Parr, Harriet, p. 882, i. She d. at Whittle Meade, Shanklin, I. of Wight, Feb. 18, 1900.

Past are the crown, the scourge, the thorn. A. C. Jenkin. [Victory through Suffering.] This is given in Dr. Hunter's Hys. of Faith & Life, 1880, and The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. It is ascribed to "Alfred Charles Jewitt," author of Lays and Legends, London, 1879. [J. J.]

Patris aeterni Sobolos coaeva, p. 885, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. the Compilers have rewritten st. ii. of their old text of "O sweet of God above."

Pattinson, Janet Steel, was b. at Paisley, Scotland, but as a child removed to Bradford, Yorks, where she is now (1906) engaged in educational work. She pub. in 1890 For Ben, or Poems in Many Moods. Her hymns, mostly written for S. S. Anniversaries and other occasions connected with College Chapel (Congregational), Bradford, include :—

1. Come to me, O my Saviour. [Fellowship with Christ.] Written 1884, first pub. in The Teacher of that year, and in her book as above.

2. Reapers, rouse the harvest song. [Harvest.] Written for the Band of Hope Union, and pub. in their Children's Voices. In C. Bunce's Garland of S. S. Music, 1891; ed. 1895, No. 26.

3. While sinks our land to realms of night [Sunday Evening.] Written and printed for the S. S. Anniversary of 1881, in Stebbi's Hys. Suppl., 1884, and Worship Song, 1905. [J. M.]

Paule doctor egregie, p. 887, i. Father Dreves, xlviii., p. 47, prints this from a MS. of 1462 at Darmstadt (No. 521, from Kempen in Holland).

Peace of God, which knows no measure. [Peace of God.] These eight lines were given in the Unitarian Book of Hys., Boston, U.S.A., 1846, as "Anonymous." It has been repeated in many hymnals to the present time, but its author has not been discovered. Line 5, usually given as the opening line of st. ii. when the hymn is divided, is C. Wesley's "Come, Almighty to deliver," from his "Love Divine, all loves excelling," and the rest are lines rewritten from the same hymn. [J. J.]

Peace, perfect peace, in this dark world of sin, p. 888, i. Bishop Bickersteth's son, the Rev. S. Bickersteth, D.D., Vicar of Leeds, has kindly furnished us with the following history of this hymn :—

"This hymn was written by Bishop Edward Henry Bickersteth, D.D., while he was spending his summer holidays in Harrogate in the year 1875, in a house facing the Stray, kindly lent to him by his friend Mr. Armitage, then Vicar of Casterton.

"On a Sunday morning in August, the Vicar of Harrogate, Canon Gibbon, happened to preach from the text, 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee.' Isaiah xxvi. 3. The margin of the Hebrew the words are "Peace, peace," twice repeated, and happily translated in the 1611 translation by the phrase, "Perfect peace." This sermon set my father's mind working on the subject. He always found it easiest to express in verse what was in his mind, and he composed this hymn on the afternoon of that Sunday in visits to an aged and dying relative, Archdeacon Hill of Liverpool, and found him somewhat troubled in mind, it was natural to him to express in verse the spiritual comfort which he desired to convey. Taking up a sheet of paper he then and there wrote the hymn almost exactly as it stands, and read it to his dying Christian.

"I was with my father at the time, being home from school for the summer holidays, and I well recollect his coming in to tea, a meal which we always had with him on Sunday afternoons, and saying, 'Children, I have written you a hymn,' and reading us "Peace, perfect peace." I think we were all unanimous that it was fine, as he never made any alteration.

"I may add that it was his invariable custom to expect each one of us on Sundays at tea to repeat a hymn, and he did the same, unless, as frequently happened, he wrote us a special hymn himself, which way many of his hymns were first given to the Church.

"It is not always noticed that the first line in each verse of "Peace, perfect peace," is in the form of a question referring to perfect peace, the remaining expressions of life, and the second line in each verse contains only to give the answer. Some years later than 1875 an invalid wrote to my father pointing out that he had not met the case of sickness, which induced him to write two lines which appropriately can be added, but which he himself never printed in his own hymn-book, so that I have always felt that he would wish them to be considered part of the hymn.

"The hymn has been translated into many tongues; and for years I feels if my father went many days without receiving from different people assurances of the comfort which the words had been allowed to bring to them. The most touching occasion on which, personally, I ever heard the hymn sung was at the funeral of my father, Bishop Edward Bickersteth (of South Tokyo), at Chiseldon, in 1897, when my father was chief mourner."

This unusually interesting account of this widely used hymn will be of permanent interest to lovers of this lyric, and will set at rest all speculations as to its origin and design. [J. J.]

Pearce, Lydia Freeman, née Moser, dr. of Roger Moser, b. at Kendal, 1841, and m. in 1870 to the Rev. R. F. Pearce, M.D.L., now (1905) Vicar of Bellington, Northumberland. Mrs. Pearce is deeply interested in Foreign Missions, and has written several poems in reference thereto which have been printed from time to time in the C.M.S. Gleaner, &c. One of these, "In the hollow of His hand" (The Missionary's Farewell), has been set to music by her son, R. F. Pearce, and pub. by Novello & Co. Her hymn :—

O Sun of Men! Great Sower [For Sowers' Bands] was written in 1889 for the Durham Sowers' Band, of which Mrs. Pearce was the secretary for some years. It was privately printed, and then included in the Church Miss. H. &c., 1896, No. 306. It is well adapted for Sowers' Bands and kindred gatherings. [J. J.]

Pease, Theodore Claudius, b. at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., 1853; educated at Harvard, and Andover Theo. Seminary, graduating in 1880; ordained to the Congregational ministry 1884; Bartlett Prof. of Sacred Rhetoric and Lecturer on Pastoral Theology 1893, and d. the same year. A small memorial vol. containing an essay on the Christian Ministry, Lectures on Homiletics, &c., with Poems and Hymns, was pub. by Houghton & Mifflin 1894. Of his hymns the following were included in The Pilgrim Hymnal, N.Y., 1904 :—

1. Dear Lord, Who once upon the lake. [Peace.] 1892.
2. How blest Thy first disciples, Lord. [Holy Communion.] 1893.
3. Jesus is risen! lift up your glad voices. [Easter.] 1891.
4. Not long on Hermon's holy height. [Visions and Ideals.] 1892.
5. O Lord of life, once laid in Joseph's tomb. [Easter.] 1892.

Those dates are those of the writing of the hymns. [M. C. H.]

Peccata nostra lava cruoris flumine. Norman Lattey. [Holy Communion.] Written by Father Lattey at Stonyhurst in 1901 for the Arundel Hys., 1903. Tr. as :—

Oh wash our sins away, Lord, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hys., 1903, No. 134. [J. M.]

Pestel, Thomas, one of the chaplains to King Charles I., was Rector of Packington, Leics., until he was sequestrated from it by the Westminster Assembly in 1646. His hymns appeared in his Sermons and Devotions all and sun. Received and publisht as an obligation of gratitude to all such of the nobility, gentry and clergy as retain the noble conscience of having ministered to the weal-condition of the Author, now aged 73 . . . by Thomas Pestel, the moment among his late Majesties Chaplains in Ordinary, London, 1659 (B. M. copy is 4452. eh.). He seems to have died soon after the publication of this work. The Sermons are of 1638 and other years. Of the poetical pieces two have come into use :—

1. Fairest of Morning Lights appear. [Christmas.] In 1707 as above, p. 1, and repeated in 1709 in Playford's The English Hyl., 1906, given as "O ye, beginning "Behold, the great Creator makes," as No. 30.

2. Come, ravish'd Souls with high Delight. [Praise to God.] In 1659, as above, as "A Psalm for Sunday Nights." Of this six st., vi., vii., beginning "O sing the glories of our Lord," are in Horder's Hys. Sup-plementa, 1884, No. 1016.

Two other pieces are in W. T. Brooke's ed. of Giles Fletcher's Christ's Victory and Triumph, 1888, pp. 193, 195. [J. M.]

Phelps, S. D., p. 889, ii. He d. Nov. 23, 1895.

Phillips, Harriet C., p. 1586, i. She d. in 1884.

Φῶς ἐκ Φωτός. [Evening.] These words are the heading of "O Light of light! when other lights are fading," by J. Brownlie, in his Hys. from the Greek Office Books, 1904, p. 63. It is based on scattered phrases from the Greek Office Books, and is not a translation of any particular Greek hymn. [J. M.]

Φῶς ἱλαρόν, p. 894, i. Additional trs. include :—

1. O gladsome light, O grace, in the Pattoun Hy., 1869, marked as "By R. M. for this time"; repeated in 1871 in Stewart's Songs of Syon, 1884, and The English Hyl., 1906.

2. Light serene of holy glory, by J. Brownlie, in his Hys. of the Greek Church, 1900, p. 49.

3. Light ever gladsome, Ray of th' eternal, by G. H. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Piso, Charles Constantine, was b. in 1802 at Annapolis, Md., graduated at Georgetown, D.C., and was ordained in 1825. He was for some time attached to St. Patrick's Church, Washington, and while there, was, by the influence of Henry Clay, appointed chaplain to the U.S. Senate, the only time the post has ever been held by a Roman Catholic. In 1849 he became Rector of the Church of St. Charles Borromeo in Brooklyn, N.Y., and d. at Brooklyn, May 26, 1866. Two hymns by him are in the Appar. to the N.Y. edition of B. Cantwell's Lyra Catholica (1851, pp. 422, 427), and are repeated in Hys. for the Year 1867, viz. :—

1. First flow'ret of the desert wild. S. Rosa of Lima.
2. Let the deep organ swell the joy. S. Cecilia. [J. M.]

Pitié, mon Dieu! c'est pour notre Patrie. [Sacred Heart of Jesus.] This hymn has evidently been written since 1870, and is found in the Paray-le-Monial Pèlerinage National of 1873, p. 30, the Abbé Smrin's Recueil de Prières et de Cantiques, 1890, No. 160, and many other recent French books.

The earliest source we can discover is the Écho de Fourvière, April 26, 1873, p. 203, where it has no author's name. In the issue for May 10, 1873, it informs us that it was written early in 1873 by his father, M. Jean Blanchon, founder and first director of the Écho de Fourvière, was first published there, and first used at the Paray-le-Monial Pilgrimage in 1873.

The hymn has been tr. as :—

Pity, my God; 'tis for our loved land. A free version by Canon Laurence Veale (q.v.) to Canon L. G. Vere's Cath. H. Bk., 1857, No. 56, the C.S.S.E. Appx. of 1906 to Hys. for the Year, No. 312, Toner's Cath. Hys., 1899, and others. [J. M.]

Plasmator hominis Deus, p. 896, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. Creator! Who from heaven Thy throne, as No. 68 in the S.P.C.K. Ch. Hys., 1852. Of this sts. i., ii. 1, 2, and iv., ii. 3, 4, are from J. D. Chambers, 1857; ii., ii. 3, 4, iv., ii. 1-4, are by J. Julian; the rest by Sir R. Mant.

2. Maker of man, Who from Thy throne, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 62. It is mainly from the 1852 and 1854 versions of Chambers. [J. M.]

Plaudite coeli, rideat aether. [Exeter.] This is a German Jesuit hymn of the 17th cent. It is in the Symphonia Sirenum, 1695 (ed. 1707, p. 102), the Psalterium, 1710, p. 284 (marked as newly added), Daniel, ii., p. 366, and others. For trs. see p. 680, i., and:

Brightly shine, ye heavens, by L. F. Benson, in the American Presb. School Hyl., 1898. [J. M.]

Plausu chorus laetabundo, p. 1166, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. Jackson Mason's tr., "Come, sing, ye choirs exultant," as in the former ed., has been rewritten in st. i., ii. 5-8; ii., ii. 6-8, and ii., i. 4.

Plunket, W. C., p. 897, ii. He d. April 1, 1897.

Pollock, T. B., pp. 900, i., 1166, ii. He d. Dec. 15, 1896.

Pope, Edward. From J. Telford's The Methodist H.-Book Illustrated, 1906, we learn that Mr. Pope, a brother of the Rev. H. J. Pope, B.D., Wesleyan Home Missionary Secretary, was born at Hull in 1837. In 1863 he founded the Wesleyan German Mission in London. He took up his residence at Geraldton, Western Australia, in 1891, where he now (1906) resides. For his tr. of "Jesu, geh' voran," see under the same. [J. J.]

Pope, Robert Martin, M.A., s. of Rev. H. J. Pope, D.D. (ex-President of the Wesleyan Conference), was b. in London, Jan. 4, 1865, and was educated at Manchester Grammar School, Victoria Univ., Manchester, and St. John's Coll., Cambridge (B.A., 1887, M.A., 1890). He entered the Wesleyan Ministry in 1888 and is now (1906) stationed at Oxford. He was joint author of The Hymns of Prudentius, translated by E. Martin Pope and H. F. Davis, 1905, being a verse tr. of the Cathemerinon of Prudentius with notes. Two of Mr. Pope's versions are in The Expt. Hyl., 1906, Nos. 54, 55. He also contributed articles on Latin Hymnody, with some original trs., to the London Quarterly Review, July 1903 and Jan. 1906, with a supplemental note in July 1906 containing two trs. into Latin verse. [J. M.]

Popple, Maria, p. 1197, i. She was b. in 1796.

Potter, T. J., p. 901, ii., was b. June 9, 1828 (not in 1827), ordained 1857, and d. Aug. 31, 1873. The hymn:—

O! yet, once more, in Bethlehem's fair [Par the Course, &c.], in the Parish Magazine for Dec., 1871, p. 31. M. 27, M. of a piece in the Legends, Lyrics and Hys., 1-42. It is entitled "The Definition of the Immaculate Conception: or England and Rome," and marked as "Written several years ago ... to be spoken at the Feast of Lamegers, which is annually celebrated in the Propaganda College at Rome, on the Festival of the Epiphany, ... now published for the first time." [J. M.]

Praeclara custos virginum. [Purity of the B. V. M.] This is the Vespers hymn of an office authorised in 1751. (See "O Stella Jacob," p. 1093), and found in later editions of the Roman Brev., e.g., the Lisbon ed. 1786, Aest., p. 515. Also in Daniel, iv., p. 340. Tr. as:—

Blest Guardian of all virgin souls, by E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 119; repeated in the 1851 Hy. of Ch., 1st ed., No. 75, the Arundel Hyl., 1871, No. 146, and others. [J. M.]

Praecursor altus luminis, p. 908, ii. This is also in a 9th cent. MS. at Trier, No. 1245, f. 153. The version :—

The high forerunner of the morn, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 228, is marked as "Neale and Compiler," but only three lines remain as Neale wrote them. St. iii. is made to relate entirely to St. John the Baptist, as Neale meant it to do. [J. M.]

Praecursoris at Baptistae, p. 896, i. This is in an early 14th cent. Paris Missal in the B. M. (Add. 16905, f. 260). Also in a MS. in the Communal Library at Assisi (69c) written in France in the 13th cent., apparently at Paris (see U. Chevalier's Bibliothèque Liturgique, viii., p. 385). It cannot therefore be by Pistor, who was still living in 1414. [J. M.]

Praise the Lord! ye heavens, adore him, p. 903, ii. Mr. W. T. Brooke informs us that he has discovered a leaflet with this hymn thereon, which was printed for General Use, and which he regards as an older copy of the hymn than that noted on p. 903, ii. That this may be so we admit, but that it is so is open to question, seeing that the leaflet is neither signed nor dated. The authorship and date of the writing and first printing of the hymn are therefore still open to investigation and research. The "Rev. Mr. Hewlett," referred to on p. 903, ii. 1, was John Hewlett, b. 1762, became Morning Preacher at the Foundling, about 1802, d. in London, April 13, 1844, and was buried in the vaults of the Foundling Chapel. [J. J.]

Praise to the Holiest in the height, p. 904, ii. The Dream of Gerontius appeared in The Month for May and June, 1865. This hymn is in the June number, p. 537, as sung by the First Choir of Angelicals. A copy of the rare first separate ed. of The Dream (1865) is in the Brit. Mus., and another in the Church House, Westminster. [J. J.]

Praise ye the Lord! all nature join (Ps. cl.). This is in the Amer. Presb. Ps. & Hys., 1843, as the second version of Ps. cl. In their New Ps. & Hys., 1901, erroneously given to "Isaac Watts, 1707."

Pray when the morn is breaking. This, in The English Hymnal, 1906, is Mrs. Simpson's "Go, when the morning shineth," p. 1048, ii., in an altered and abbreviated form.

Prichard Rhys (Wicard), pp. 909, i., 1249, ii. This author is known sometimes as Vicar Prichard (in Welsh "Yr hen Ficcer," or the Old Vicar). Together with the biographical details at p. 909, i., his position and work as a sacred poet must be read as set forth at p. 1245, ii. In addition, Mr. J. Ballinger, Chief Librarian of the Cardiff Public Libraries, has supplied us with the following information :—

"Prichard died in 1644, and after his death his poems were collected and published under the title Canwyll y Cymry (The Welshmen's Candle). (See p. 1245, i.) About 60 editions have been issued, and they are still popular. Hymns selected from the Canwyll y Cymry appear in the 1794 Hymns and Spiritual Songs published by the Rev. John Gambold and in the 1754 Moravian Hymn Book [p. 708, ii. 2]. Selections also from the Canwyll y Cymry, for the use of the children in Welsh schools, were made by the Rev. Griffith Jones of Llanddowror, and published in 1737 under the title of Llyfr Gweddi. This was circulated in large numbers as a means of conveying religious truths to poor ignorant people and to children. A Bibliography of Prichard in given in 'Y Cymmrodor," vol. xiii. [J. J.]

Primers, pp. 909-912. The Rev. Edgar Hoskins devoted much time to the history of Primers, and finally published the results in Horae Beatae Mariae Virginis, or Sarum and York Primers, with kindred books and Primers of the Reformed Roman Use, together with an Introduction. By Edgar Hoskins, M.A., London. 1901.

In 1902 the Rev. E. S. Dewick edited for the Henry Bradshaw Society, Facsimiles of Horae de Beata Maria Virgine from English MSS. of the Eleventh Century. In this work the MSS. which are reproduced are Reg. 2 B. v. and Tiberius, A. iii. at the British Museum.

At p. 911, i., "relics apparently of some lost Primer" are referred to. This Primer has been found. It is in the Bodleian, and is dated 1673. Mr. Orby Shipley gave an account of it in The Month for July 1885. [J. M.]

Psalters, Versions in German, p. 1242, ii. Pfarrer W. Tümpel (see p. 1240, i.) kindly informs me that a copy of the version by Thümmler, p. 1244, i., No. 21, is in the Ducal Library at Gotha. He also describes a version not noted at p. 1244, i., viz.:—"Ein Psalter, das ist: Lob- oder Lieblosch Davids. Magdeburg, 1615 (Göttingen). By Friedrich Gundelwein, who in 1615 was clerk to the magistrates at Dambeck in the Altmark. In vol. iii. he describes earlier versions by Vogel (1564, i., No. 34), at p. 189; and the version of Greiff (1566, ii., No. 41) at p. 257. [J. M.]

2. A Child is born in Bethlehem, in the New Office H. &c., 1905, No. 126. Of these, 1 is from Hewett, and the rest mainly from Hine and Mrs. Charles.

3. A Babe is born in Bethlehem. in the Birmingham Oratory H. Book., 1906, is altered from No. 6 at p. 940, ii.

Purer yet, and purer I would be in mind. [Purity Desired.] Appeared anonymously in the Amer. Sabbath H. Bk., 1858, and subsequently in a great many collections in America, and also in a limited number in G. Britain. [J. J.]

Putman, Henry, was b. at Ringworth, Hants, July 18, 1851, and is engaged in commercial pursuits. He is a Wesleyan lay-preacher and an earnest hymnological student. Many of his hymns were first printed in Champness's Joyful News. In 1889 he pub. several in his booklet, Perfect Peace. These with additions were included in his Star and Vesper Bells, 1894. One of these, "We came at early morn to sing," p. 1206, ii., is annotated there in error. It was written in 1885, and printed in Joyful News, Feb. 25, 1886. In 1887 it was included in the Prim. Meth. Hyl., and in 1896 in Hys. of Light and Life (London: A. Crombe). In this same collection the following are also included: "Blest Saviour, take my hand in Thine," S. School Chronicle, 1887; "Gentle Saviour, ever nigh" (1889); and "When clouds are swept across the sky" (1890), under the pen-name of "Mark Bernard." [J. J.]

Quae dixit, egit, pertulit, p. 942, i. Other trs. are:—

1. The Life of God's Incarnate Word, in the Office H. &c., 1905, No. 176, and 1906, No. 197.

2. The life, which God's Incarnate Word. This, in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., is the Compilers' old text, with the alteration of a word or two and the addition of st. v. from E. Caswall's tr. unaltered. [J. M.]

Quae gloriosum tanta, p. 943, ii. The version in Hys. A. & M., 1904, is I. Williams's tr., "Lord, from out Thy glorious skies," noted at p. 943, ii., unaltered except st. iv., l. 1. The Latin is poor, and the English is one of the least successful of I. Williams's trs. [J. M.]

Quaker Hymnody. Although the writing of hymns and sacred poems by members of the Society of Friends, both in Great Britain and America, including the well known names, Bernard Barton and J. G. Whittier, is a matter of history, the singing of hymns in any of their services has been an innovation within the past fifty years. A member of the Society has kindly communicated the following information :—

"The singing of hymns by Quakers arose in this manner. About 10 years ago [c. 1855] the Quakers started Sunday-schools for men, and they strongly urged all men attending these classes to attend some place of worship, not necessarily a Quakers' Meeting House. Finding that a great many of the scholars still did not attend any place of worship, evening meetings were started, and called 'mission meetings.' Those which were called 'mission meetings' and have hymns sung are always sung. Hymns are never sung in the regular Quakers' Meeting, but only at these 'mission meetings.' It was always the custom in Quaker families for the children to recite hymns on Sunday nights; and it was also the custom for the boys and girls at the Quaker Sunday-schools to learn them. About 50 years ago [c. 1855] Joseph Foord, a minister and teacher in the Quaker school at York, made a collection of hymns, and this book has been known ever since as 'John Ford's Hymn-Book.' The way he made his collection was by writing to leading Quakers and asking them to send him a list of their favourite hymns, and from these lists he made his collection."

The full title of "John Ford's Hymn-Book" is :—

Selected Hymns for the Use of Young Persons. Compiled by John Ford.

The dates of some of the editions are, 4th ed. 1874, 7th ed. 1903. The total number of hymns and poems in the last edition is 138. The poems are for recitation, not singing.

The latest hymn-book for this Society is :—

The Golden Hymn Book. Compiled by M. Catherine Anderson and Mary Hoyland Clothier. 1903. The Preface states :—"This collection of hymns has been compiled from varied sources, and is intended for varied uses, both public and private, with the special hope that it may find a place and meet a need among the Society of Friends."

This collection contains 400 hymns, and is supplied with an Index of Authors and Translators, and also with a list of suggested Tunes. For its purpose as a compilation it is remarkably good. [J. J.]

Quem pastores laudavere. [Christmas.] The oldest form known is in a Hohenfurt MS. of the 15th cent. (see F. X. Haberl's Kirchen-musikalisches Jahrbuch, 1898, p. 26), where it is in 3 sts. with the melody always sung to it, as in Dr. J. Zahn's Psalter und Harfe, 1886, No. 24. In many parts of Germany it was sung in Pre-Reformation times by the children at the first Matins and Vespers of Christmas; and was similarly used, in Latin, by the Lutherans in some parts of Germany at least as recently as 1855 (see Daniel, iv., p. 258; Flacius, ii. 182, 225, &c.). Text in Daniel, i., No. 473; Woolworagel, i., Nos. 356, 357; Arendel Hyx., 1902, No. 28. Tr. as :—

1. With the Shepherds, adoration, by A. T. Russell, in his Ps. & Hys., 1851, No. 70, appointed for the Epiphany.

2. Shepherds, tell your beauteous story, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hyx., 1902, No. 29. [J. M.]

Quem terra, pontus, aethera, p. 945, i. Other trs. are :—

1. The God, Whom earth, and sea, and sky, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 222. It is marked as Neale and Compilers (only two lines being exactly as Neale wrote them), and includes, as sts. v.-viii., a version of the second part, "O gloriosa Domina."

2. O glorious Maid, exalted far. This is a tr. of "O gloriosa Domina," by Percy Dearmer, in The English Hy., 1906, No. 318. [J. M.]

Qui procedis ab utroque, p. 945, i. 1. The form in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 488, beginning "O Thou, the weary pilgrim's Rest," consists of sts. ix., x., xi., xiii. of Cantwell's tr., p. 946, i. In Hys. for the Year, 1867, the cento, "Come, Holy Ghost, Thy grace inspire," is E. Caswall's tr., sts. i., iv., x., xi., xii., in an altered form. [J. M.]

Quicumque Christum quaeritis, p. 946, i. Additional trs. of parts ii., iii. and iv. are :

ii. O ecclesia.—"Ye hosts of cities, joy of earth," in the Office H. Bk., 1909, and 1903, based on Neale. In Church Hys., 1903, the tr. is from Caswall, 1849 (with omitted for laudent, in st. iii., 1); and so in The English Hy., 1906 (with st. iv., i. from Caswall's 1873 text). The 1904 Hys. A. & M. repeats "Earth has many a noble city."

iii. Audit tyrannus.—"It reached the brooding tyrant's ear," in the Office H. Bk., 1909, No. 121, and 1909, No. 120, based on Copeland.

iv. Salvete flores.—"All hail, ye little Martyr Flowers," by A. Riley, in The English Hy., 1906. [J. M.]

Quid sacram, virgo, generosa martyr. J. B. Santeuil. [For a Virgin Martyr.] In Santeuil's Hymni Sacri et Novi, 1689, p. 216 (1698, p. 257); also in the Cluniac Brev., 1686, p. lxxii., and many later French Breve. Tr. as :—

Wherefore, O virgin, venerated [faithful-hearted] martyr, by J. M. Neale, in the Christian Remembrancer, Oct. 1849, p. 226; repeated in the St. Margaret's Hyl. (East Grinstead), 1892, No. 464, and, slightly altered, in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Quisquis valet, p. 947, ii. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, the version is Dr. Neale's, 1854, "If there be that skills to reckon," slightly altered in sts. ii., iii., v.

Quod chorus vastum, p. 947, ii. Other trs. are :—

1. That which of old the holy band of Prophets in the Office H. Bk., 1909, No. 196. In the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 522, it begins "That which, of old time, all the holy Prophets."

2. All prophets hail thee, from of old announcing by T. A. Lacey, in The English Hy., 1906. [J. M.]

W. G. Puddefoot of Hewers of Wood, &c. His hymn, "Light of the world's dark story" (Jesus the Light of the world), was written in 1900, and included in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. [M. C. H.]

Rankin, J. E., p. 901, ii. Dr. Rankin, b. in N. H. (not New Haven), and received his D.D. 1869, LL.D. 1889 from his Alma Mater. He was President for several years of Howard University, Washington, D.C. His publications included several volumes of Sermons, German-English Lyrics, Sacred and Secular, 1877; 2nd ed. 1898, &c. In addition to his hymns noted on p. 901, ii., he has written and pub. mainly in short form many others, the most important and best-known being :—

1. God be with you till we meet again. [Benediction.] Dr. Rankin's account of this hymn, supplied to us, in common with Mr. Brownlie, for his Hys. and H. Writers of The Church Hymnary, 1899, is :—"It was written as a Christian good-bye and first sung in the Congregational Church, Lyons, Iowa, U.S.A., where I was pastor for fifteen years. We had Gospel meetings on Sunday nights, and our music was intentionally of the popular kind. I wrote the first stanza, and sent it to two gentlemen for music. The music which seemed to me to best suit the words was written by T. C. Tomer, teacher of public schools in New Jersey, at one time on the staff of the New York Sun. Mr. Tomer belonging to another denomination from Dr. J. (not changing the organist of my church), I wrote the other stanzas." The hymn became at once popular, and has been translated into several languages. In America it is in numerous collections; and in G. Britain, in The Church Hymnary, 1898, Horder's Worship Song, 1905, The Methodist Sunday-School Hymnal, 1905. It was translated by Dr. Rankin, for I. D. Sankey, in 1883.

2. Beautiful the lilies bayide. [Little ones for Jesus.] Given without date in Gloria Jesu, New York, 1900.

Dr. Rankin's trs. include versions of German, French, Latin, and Welsh hymns. His contributions to the periodical press have been numerous. [J. J.]

Rawes, Henry Augustus, D.D., whose name is associated with Roman Catholic hymnody (see p. 979, 11, 31, 32, and Index, p. 1617) both as translator and compiler, was the son of the head master of Houghton-le-Spring Grammar School. He was b. Dec. 11, 1826, and educated at Houghton-le-Spring, and Trinity Coll., Camb., B.A. 1849, M.A. 1852. Ordained in 1851, he held two Curacies and was Warden of the House of Charity, Soho, before he was received into the Roman Catholic Church in 1856. Subsequently he became Superior of the Oblate Fathers at Bayswater in 1870. He d. at Brighton, April 24, 1885. In addition to various books of devotion, and the editing of hymn books (see above), he pub. The Lost Sheep, and other Poems, 1856; and Floriglorum of the Desired : Sacred Verses, Hymns, and Translations, 3rd ed. 1881. [J. J.]

Rawnsley, Hardwicke Drummond, M.A., s. of the Rev. R. D. B. Rawnsley, M.A., sometime Prebendary of Lincoln, was born at Shiplake-on-Thames, Sept. 29, 1850, and educated at Ball. Coll., Oxford, B.A. 1875, M.A. 1883; D. 1875, P. 1877; Curate of St. Barnabas, Bristol, 1875–77; Vicar of Low Wray, Lancashire, 1878–83, and Vicar of Crosthwaite since 1883. He became Rural Dean of Keswick 1883, Hon. Canon of Carlisle 1893, and Proctor in Convocation 1905. His publications include : Notes for the Nile, 1892; Literary Associations of the English Lakes, 1894; Memoir of Harvey Goodwin, Bishop of Carlisle, 1896; Sermons on the Logia, 1897, and various books of Poems and Sonnets. The best-known of his hymns are :—

1. Rock ! I hear the trumpet sounding. [Wiclif Hymn for Children.] In his Ch. Hys. H. Bk., 1880. Repeated in the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M. [Ministry of Nature.] Contributed to the 1904 ed. of H. A. & M.

2. Now trumpets cease your sound. [Peace.] In Hys. of the Kingdom . . . for the use of the Christian Lancaster, Norwich, 1867.

3. Saviour, Who didst healing give. [St. Luke.] Written at Crosthwaite Vicarage, Dec. 1, 1900, and included in The English Hy., 1906.

4. Lord Jesu, Who at Lazarus' tomb. [Memorial of the Dead.] Written at Crosthwaite Vicarage, Dec. 2, 1900, for The English Hy., 1906.

5. Lord, Who gavest streams and fountains. [For a Holy Day.] Written in 1888 at Penrith for the Building Association of the Home Readers' Union, and included in the Keswick School H. Bk. [J. J.]

Raymond, Fanny M. See Ritter, F. M.

Raymond, Rossiter Worthington, PH.D., was b. in Cincinnati, Ohio, April 27, 1840. He graduated at Brooklyn Polytechnic, 1858, and also studied in Germany. He served in the Civil War of 1861–4 with the grade of Captain. Since then he has practised in New York as a consulting mining engineer. He was editor of the American Journal of Mining, and is a contributor to scientific literature. He has also written some for children, a Paraphrase of Job, and some fugitive poetry. His hymns in C. U. include :—

1. Far out on the desolate billow. [God everywhere.] Written for the German tune, "Ich weiss nicht was soll es bedeuten," and pub. in The Plymouth Hymnal, 1894.

2. Morning rad. Morning red. [Easter.] Written to the tune "Morgenroth," a German table-song, and pub. in the American Book of Praise.

3. Morning rad. Morning red. [Opening the Feast.] This hymn was written in 1879, and was written for the 16th anniversary of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union. It was included in The Plymouth Hyl., 1894, No. 569, and, after revision by the author, in Sursum Corda, 1895, and other collections.

4. Not by the art inspiring. [Submission.] Appeared in The Plymouth Hyl., 1894, No. 630, and later in other collections.

5. The God Who spann'd the heavens above. [Marriage in Conflict.] "Written for my Sunday School, to be sung to the tune of the German patriotic song, 'Der Gott, der Eisen wachsen liess' (by Arndt, p. 79, ii.), of which I have forgotten the author's name, though the remainder is not." (Author's MS.) It was pub. in The Book of Praise, the Sursum Corda, 1894, and others. It is sometimes attributed to "J. Clark," but in error.

6. There dwelt in old Judea. [Christmas.] In Allen's Children's Worship, 1879.

Of the above Nos. 1, 2, 5 are in W. B. Bradbury's Clarion, 1867. Dr. Raymond is a Congregationalist, and is associated with the Plymouth Church, Brooklyn. [L. F. B.]

Rebus creatis nil egens, p. 962, ii. Another tr. is :—

No want of Thine, O God, to meet. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 91, marked as by the Compilers. The Latin was written in 1720; the tr. is decidedly archaic in style, and is "a free rendering, somewhat altered, of a more modern than" Xavier hymn to the Lord. [J. M.]

Receive, O Lord, in heaven above. St. Ephraim of Edessa. [For a Vigil.] This version, by Professor F. C. Burkitt, was first pub. in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 194. The original "Qabiel, Maran, ta'ala kultan" is in S. Ephraim's Opera (Rome, 1732–46, vol. vi., p. 326), as Paraenesis lxvi. It was first printed in the Maronite Festal Offices, and is also found among the Canticles at the end of Nestorian Psalters, as the hymn for the Nocturn of Thursday. See another tr. in Dr. Burgess, 1853, p. 100 (p. 1106, ii.). [J. M.]

Reformed Dutch Hymnody, American. See American Hymnody, § x.

Regina coeli jubila. [Easter.] This is in the Symphonia Sirenum, Cologne, 1695 (ed. 1707, p. 84), and the Paderbrodan Cant., Cath., 1710, p. 58; and was probably written in Germany after 1650. It is in the Pyxnodia Sacra, Münster, 1753, p. 53, but not in the 1st ed., Mainz, 1671. Text in Daniel, ii., p. 365. Dr. Neale cites it by the third line, "Jam pulsa cedunt nubila." Tr. as :—

The cloud of night is past away, by J. M. Neale, in his Med. Hys., 1851, p. 118, and in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, ed. 1865, No. 205. In the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 445, it is given as "The clouds of night have passed away." [J. M.]

Regina coeli laetare, p. 964, i. This is found in many MSS. of the 15th cent., e.g., the

Hart. 1260, f. 172, and the Add. 23145, f. 137, in the B. M.; the Bodl. 62, f. 52b, and Rawl. lit. d. 4 (1584b), f. 188, in the Bodleian, &c. It was in use among the Franciscans in 1249 (see Lucas Wadding's Annales, i. 703). But the ascription to Pope Gregory V., who d. 999, seems to be unfounded (see Dr. Martin Rule's St. Anselm, 1883, i., p. 44: "A pretty legend: it reminds us of the 'Regina coeli lætare' which the angels sang in the hearing of St. Gregory"). The Pope Gregory to whom the legend originally ascribed it was Gregory the Great, who d. 604. See also note on "Salve regina," p. 1697, ii. In Card. Tommasi's Opera, iv., p. 100, from a 12th cent. antiphonary at Rome. [J. M.]

Reinmar, p. 955, i. The Monses MS. was restored to Heidelberg Univ. Library in 1888.

Rejoice, O land, in God thy might. (National Thanksgiving.) This, in the Yattendon Hymnal, 1899, No. 34, is marked as "Words written for this Canon [Tallis, Mode viii.] R. B. 97"; i.e. it was written in the Jubilee year 1897. Again, at p. 54, it is marked as "Words by R. B. written for this restored tune as sung at Wells Cathedral." The tune is that to Ps. lxvii. in Parker's Psalter (see p. 817, ii.). In The Engl. Hym., 1906, it is set to Wareham. [J. M.]

Rejoice to-day with one accord, p. 958, ii. This hymn by Sir H. W. Baker is given in the H. Book for the Use of Wellington College, 1902, in a recast form of two stanzas.

Rennell, Thomas, D.D., b. in 1753; King's Coll., Cambridge; Dean of Winchester, 1805; d. 1840 (p. 958, ii.).

Repulsed, dispersed, chastised by Thee. James Merrick. [Pa. lx.] In his Psalms of David, 1765, and later eds. into a few modern collections.

Rerum Deus tenax vigor, p. 958, i. Other trs. are:—

1. Life-spring Divine and Bond of all, in the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 105, marked as "English by R. B."
2. O God, the world's sustaining Force, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 11, marked as Neale and Congleton, only two lines being unaltered.
3. O God, Creation's Force and Stay, in the Office Hymn Book, 1903, No. 789, and 1905, No. 584, signed "J. Neale."

Return, O wanderer, now return. This hymn, in Ira D. Sankey's Sac. Songs & Solos, No. 602, is W. B. Collyer's "Return, O wanderer, return," p. 807, ii., rewritten from I. M. into C. M. and abbreviated by the omission of the last stanza.

Return, O wanderer, to thy home, pp. 958, ii. 16; 1187, ii. The form of this hymn in the Supp. to Hys. A. & M., 1889, by T. Hastings and A. G. Purchas (p. 1187, ii.), is omitted from the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. in favour of Dr. Hastings's original text and a refrain. [J. J.]

Revive Thy work, O Lord, Now to Thy saints appear, p. 1206, i. 38. In A. Midlane's "Revive Thy work, O Lord, Thy mighty arm make bare," rewritten by Mrs. Van Alstyne. This form of the hymn is in I. D. Sankey's Sac. Songs & Solos, No. 273; Hys. of Consecration & Faith, 1902, and others. [J. J.]

Revive Thy work, O Lord, Thy work of quickening power. This hymn is a claim made by Sir W. H. Wills as to the origin of this hymn. His statement is:—

"For some years in (Ilyracle) was Cook in sole charge of the Church at Blagdon, which was Sunday about eight miles from Wells and four miles from Wrington, where Hannah More long resided at Barley Wood.

"Toplady was one day overtaken by a heavy thunderstorm in Farrington Combe, on the edge of my property, a rocky glen running up into the heart of the Mendips range, and there, taking shelter between two massive rocks, composed the immortal hymn, in penned this hymn, 'Rock of Ages.'

On turning to p. 970, i., we find that the first stanza of this hymn was printed in the Gospel Magazine for Oct. 1775, and the full text in the same magazine for March 1776.

Toplady was Curate at Blagdon from April 1762 to April 1764. This gives some twelve years or more from the alleged circumstances of its composition to the printing of the first stanza in 1775, and of the full hymn in 1776 in the Gospel Magazine. To this element of delay in the printing of the hymn we must add that it was used by Toplady, not as an illustration of a providential deliverance in immediate danger in a thunderstorm, but as an argument against John Wesley's doctrine of the possibility, if not certainty, of absolute holiness in man. Its title—"A living and dying PRAYER for the HIGHEST BELIEVER in the World," is clear evidence of Toplady's object in first printing the hymn.

From another source we were informed that the tradition concerning its composition in Blagdon during Toplady's residence there from 1762 to 1764, and during a thunderstorm, was old and widespread. We have put this to the test, and find that the alleged composition, as so fondly believed in, was never heard of in the parish until the advent of Dr. John Swete as Rector in 1850, that is, 75 years after its first stanza appeared in the Gospel Magazine. Our witness is the schoolmistress who was teaching in the parish school when Dr. Swete came to the parish and who is still (1907) alive. Dr. H. B. Swete, now Reg. Prof. of Divinity, Cambridge, who was Curate to his father at Blagdon from 1858 to 1865, cannot trace the tradition beyond his father's statement. Beautiful as the tradition is, we must have clearer and more definite information concerning it before we can accept it as an undoubted fact. [J. J.]

Rexford, E. E., p. 1207, ii. Additional hymns by this author in C. U. include:—

1. He saw the wheatfields waiting. Harvest of the World.
2. O where are the reapers. Missions.
3. Rouse up to work that waits for us. Duty.
4. We are sailing o'er an ocean. Life's Vicissitudes.

Rhoades, Henry Tull, M.A., s. of the Rev. J. P. Rhoades, Rector of Clonmel, Tipperary, was b. at Clonmel, April 17, 1837. He was educated at Rugby Sch. and at University Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1860, M.A. 1864); was appointed in 1865 assistant master at Clifton Coll., in 1878 headmaster of the Lower School at Rugby, and from 1890 to 1902 was an assistant master at Rugby School. His hymn,

Thro, Whose unseen servants stand (St. Michael and all Angels), was first printed in the Rugby School H. Bk., 1886, No. 144, and is in the Public School H. Bk., 1903, No. 138. [J. M.]

Rice, Helen G., is the signature to the hymn "Lord, when we pray 'Thy Kingdom come,'" (Agonist Intercessory), given in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, and others. Beyond this we have no information. [J. J.]

Richardson, Charles Francis, b. at Hallowell, Me., May 20, 1851; graduated at Dartmouth 1871; from 1882 Professor of Anglo-Saxon and English Literature at Dartmouth; pub. The Cross, 1879, from which "If suddenly upon the street" (Sacrifice for Christ) in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, and others, is taken. [J. J.]

Richardson, Charlotte, p. 1207, ii., was b. at York in March, 1775, and d. there Sept. 26, 1823. The hymn, "O God, to Thee we raise our eyes," is in her Poems, York, 1806, p. 68, and in sts. vii.-x., altered, from a piece entitled, "After the death of my dear husband, 1804." [J. M.]

Ride on, ride on in majesty, p. 961, i. In the 1903 ed. of Church Hys. and in The English Hyl., 1906, the original text of this hymn is restored.

Riley, John Athelstan Laurie, M.A., s. of John Riley, Mytholmroyd, Yorks, was b. in London, Aug. 10, 1858, and educated at Eton and at Pembroke Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1881, M.A. 1883). He has been since 1892 a member of the House of Laymen of the Province of Canterbury. He was one of the compilers of The Engl. Hyl., 1906, and contributed to it seven trs. from the Latin (34, 185, 193, 195, 213, 242, 321, with No. 97 previously pub.), and one from the Greek, beginning, "What sweet of life endureth," from Ἡσὺ τὸ βιοῦ, p. 899, i., and the following originals:—

1. Come, let us join the Church above. Martyrs.
2. Saints of God! Lo, Jesu's people. All Saints.
3. Thou, whose almighty Word. Ministry. Also, as another Saint Bartholomew, it is really a general hymn for Apostles.
4. Ye watchers and ye holy ones. Universal Praise to God.

[J. M.]

Ringwaldt, B., p. 961, ii. Another tr. of the "Es ist gewisslich" is "That great day of the Lord draws nigh," by M. W. Stryker, in his Song of Mission, 1888, p. 74, and Church Song, 1890, No. 603.

Rise, glorious Conqueror, rise, p. 981, ii. 4. An altered form of this hymn in a few collections is "Rise, glorious Victor, rise."

Ritter, Fanny Malone, née Raymond, b. in 1840, and d. in 1890. She was the wife of Dr. Frederic Louis Ritter, and was known as a writer on musical subjects, and as a public singer in New York. Her publications include Women as Musicians, 1877; Some Famous Songs, 1878; Songs and Ballads, 1887; and some trs. from the German (see Index of Authors and Trs.). [L. F. R.]

Roberts, Daniel C., D.D., of the Prot. Episco. Church in America, b. at Bridge Hampton, L.I., Nov. 5, 1841, and graduated at Gambier College, 1857. After serving for a time as a private in the Civil War, he was ordained in 1866. He is at present (1903) Rector of Concord, N.H. His hymn, "God of our fathers, Whose almighty hand" (National Hymn), was written in 1876 for the "Centennial" Fourth of July celebration at Brandon, Vermont. In 1892 it was included in the Prot. Episco. Hymnal, and again in Sarum Cords, 1898. [L. F. B.]

Roberts, Richard Ellis, was b. in London, Feb. 26, 1879, and now (1906) is a journalist, &c., residing at Dorchester, Oxon. He contributed four trs. to The English Hyl., 1906.

Robilliard, H. W., is given as the author of "God of love, our Father, Saviour" (Consecration of a Church), in the Amer. Prot. Episcopal Hyl., 1892. It is dated 1888.

Robinson, C. S., p. 969, i. He d. at N.Y., Feb. 1, 1899.

Robinson, Joseph Armitage, D.D., Dean of Westminster since 1902, of Christ Coll., Camb. (B.A. 1881, M.A. 1884, D.D. 1895), sometime Fellow of his College, Norrisian Prof. of Div., Camb., Rector of St. Marg., Westminster, and Canon of Westminster, &c., is only slightly associated with hymnology. His hymn, "'Tis good, Lord, to be here" (Transfiguration), was written c. 1890. It was included in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., and supplies a long-felt want with respect to hymns on the Transfiguration. [J. J.]

Robinson, Robert, p. 969, ii. In the quotation read: "duos annos mensesque septem."

Rock of Ages, cleft for me, p. 970, i. In the Times, June 3, 1898, Dean Lefroy of Norwich has a letter respecting this hymn, together with one from Sir W. H. Wills on the same matter. The burden of this correspondence

Roman Catholic Hymnody, English, pp. 972, 1598. On the general subject of R. C. Hymnody, see an interesting series of articles in the Month (Feb. and March, 1894, and July and Sept., 1895), by Mr. Orby Shipley; and an edifying and diverting paper, from the standpoint of the hymnal compiler, by the Rev. T. E. Bridgett, in the Month for Dec., 1895. To the Roman Catholic hymn-books noted at p. 972 add:—

1. Catholic Choralist. By William Young, Dublin, 1843.
2. Hymns for the Year, with an Appendix for the use of the Churches of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer. This Appx. was added in 1851.
3. St. Dominic's Hymn-Book: London, 1881; enlarged ed., 1891.
4. Catholic Hymns, with accompanying Tunes, being a musical edition of St. Dominic's Hymn-Book. Ed. by A. E. Tozer: London, 1891. Second ed., enlarged, 1897. The third ed. of 1904 is one of the best all-round recent Roman Cath-lic books (see below).

5. St. Patrick's Hymn-book: Dublin, 1880. Ed. by the Rev. E. Gayner. This gives special prominence to hymns for the "Sacred Heart of Jesus," and to hymns by the Rev. M. Russell and Sister Mary Dorothy.

6. St. George's Hymn-Book: London, 1884. A revised edition of the Hymn-book for Sunday-schools noted in the collection of the Rev. J. W. Reeks (p. 979, ii., No. 37).

7. The Parochial Hymn-book: Boston, U.S., 1877. This is the final ed. of the Parochial H. Bk., 1866 (see p. 979, ii., No. 35): and in it the editor, the Rev. Aranzio Pellei, very wisely cut out more than half the hymns in the 1866 ed.

8. Arundel Hymns and other Spiritual Praises, Chosen and edited by Henry, Duke of Norfolk, and Charles T. Gatty, F.S.A.: London, 1866. The aim of the compilers was evidently to meet the wants of devout and cultured people. From a literary standpoint, it is the best R. C. hymnal with which we are acquainted (see below).

9. Oratory Hymns, Supplement: London, 1883 (see below).

10. St. Bede's Catholic Church, Carlisle. Hymns, n. d. (1884). This is advertised as Catholic Church Hymns. By the Rev. William Buckley. A small collection of popular hymns, with music.

11. Hymns for the Use of the Faithful. Edited by A. E. Tozer: New York, 1885. The distinctive feature of this book is the large number of trs. from the Latin and Greek, many of which are by Fr. J. M. Neale.

12. Hymns for the Use of the Birmingham Oratory: Birmingham, 1849 (see below). Previous eds., 1844, 1847, 1849, 1851, 1854, &c.

13. Hymns authorized for use in Roman Catholic Bishops are now preparing a hymn-book which is to have universal authority throughout England.

14. Though not a hymn-book, mention should here be made of the wonderfully varied and carefully edited anthology of pieces from many authors and many languages collected by Mr. Orby Shipley, as Carmina Mariana, London, 1891, vol. ii., 1904.

In some notices of this Dictionary it was said that Roman Catholic hymns and hymn-writers were inadequately treated. When the Dictionary was planned out, Mr. Earle agreed to write the general article on R. C. Hymnody, and one or two biographical notices (e.g., at p. 166, i.); but he would not undertake to select the more important R. C. hymns for annotation, and no other member of the R. C. Church could be found to do the work, or to co-operate in doing it. In order to make the treatment fairly adequate, so far as the original English hymns are concerned (the trs. in the R. C. hymn-books were almost all noted in 1892), we have taken the following as the basis of annotation in this New Supplement:—

1. The Oratory Hymns as rearranged in 1867, with the addition of 1883.
2. A. E. Tozer's Catholic Hymns, 1886.
3. Arundel Hymns, 1892.
4. Hymns for the Use of the Birmingham Oratory, 1886.
5. Hymns for the Year, 1887 (see p. 975, ii.). The Hymns for the Year given no indication whatever as to authors or sources, and several of the hymns therein are unknown to modern hymn-books.

Notices of various Roman Catholic Hymn-writers will be found in the body of this Dictionary, and in the present New Supplement in the alphabetical order of their names. Others are grouped here as follows:—

Bagshawe, Edward Gilpin, s. of H. R. Bagshawe, County Court Judge, was b. in London Jan. 12, 1829. He studied at St. Mary's Coll., Oscott, and took his B.A. at London University. In 1874 he was consecrated R. C. Bishop of Nottingham, and in 1884 became titular Archbishop of Trajanopolis. He is the author of various Sermons. Besides other works, he has pub. Verse and Hymns, n.d. (1876), Oratory Hymns and Musical Improvers, 1891, The Psalms and Canticles in English Verse, 1892, and Doctrinal Hymns, 1894. His hymn is—

1. Saint Edward, England's gift from God. 5th Edward the Confessor, in his Verses, 1876, p. 15, and Doctrinal Hymns, 1894, p. 61. Also in the Parochial H. Bk., 1880, and A. E. Tozer's Cath. Hym., 1887, and others.

Best, Kenelm Digby, s. of J. R. Best (p. 976, ii.), was b. Aug. 15, 1828, at Bishop's Grange, near Southampton. In 1858 he joined the Oratory of St. Philip Neri, London, and was ordained priest in 1860. His hymns appeared principally in his A Priest's Poems, 1901. One is noted under Grigson, L. M.; another is—

1. Dear Saint Patrick! holy Father! (St. Patrick), 1st pub. in his Poems, 1901, p. 1, as "Hymn to St. Patrick," reprinted in No. 21 in the 1903 Supp. to the Oratory Hym.

We may add that the hymn,

2. Dear Saviour, I have learnt to know (The Christian Child), is by his mother, Rosamund, in J. R. Best's Family Prayer Book, afterwards known as Catholic Hours, 1858. In Oratory Hym., 1883, No. 1, it begins "Dear Jesus," and is repeated thus in the Supp. to Hymns for Children, 1861.

Bittleston, Henry, s.J., was b. in London Sept. 25, 1831, and educated at St. John's Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1853). In 1854 he was received into the Church of Rome, Warwicks., and finally at Mernagar Chapel, Marylebone, London. After being received into the Church of Rome he became a novice, March 1856, of the Oratory of St. Philip Neri at Birmingham; and d. at St. Aloysius, July 2, 1886. His well-known tr., "Daily, daily sing to Mary" (p. 1202, i.), is in the Birmingham Oratory Hymns, 1854. His original hymn, "Holy Mary, we implore thee" beginning "Holy Mary, we implore thee" (p. 1203, i.).

Bridgett, Thomas Edward, was b. Jan. 29, 1829, at Derby, and educated at St. John's Coll., Cambridge. He was received into the Church of Rome June 29, 1850, joined the C.SS.R., Sept. 29, 1850, and was ordained priest in 1856. He was for some time Rector at Limerick. His last years were spent at St. Mary's, Clapham, where he d. Feb. 17, 1899 (see his Life by Fr. Bernard Vaughan, 1903). His hymns are in the Hymnology of the Sacred Heart, and ed. Hymns on England's Sanctus with Christmasium, 1886. His hymns include—

1. O for the light of that fair star. [Epiphany.] This is in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, pt. ii., pp. v. 3), and in the 1886 C.SS.R. Appx. to Hys. for the Year, No. 25.

2. Dear Lord, behold the suppliant band! [Consecration of England to the Sacred Heart of George's, 1873, p. 1, and in 1886 as above, p. 33, signed T. E. Bridgett, reprinted in the Arundel Hym., 1892, No. 286.

Chatwick, James, was b. April 24, 1813, at Drogheda, Ireland, and educated at Ushaw Coll., Durham, where he was ordained in 1836, and successively became Professor and President. In 1868 he was consecrated R. C. Bishop of Savannah, and died May 14, 1892. Two hymns which he contributed to the Holy Family Hymns, 1848, are in most later R. C. hymnals—

1. Hail, holy mission, hail. Fire a Mission.
2. Hail, holy God (Lord), behold at length the time. Repentance.

Christie, Albany James, M.A., was b. in London Dec. 18, 1817, entered Oriel Coll., Oxford, 1835 (B.A. 1839, M.A., 1842), and was Fellow of Oriel from 1840 until he was received into the Church of Rome in 1845. In 1847 he became a member of the Society of Jesus, and was ordained priest in 1850. He was for many years at Stonyhurst, Lancs., in 1868 went on mission work, and in 1872 came to Farm Street Church, London. He d. in London May 2, 1891 (The Tablet, 1891, ii. Appx., p. xi.). In the Appx. to his Five First Christmas, 1876, are a number of hymns, three of which have passed into use, viz.:—

1. Brethren, see in Mary's birth. Nativ. of B. V. M.
2. One Virgin sought another. St. Lucy.
3. To Jesus' Heart, all burning. The Sacred Heart.

Conway, John Placid, was b. May 23, 1815, at Glenarm, Co. Antrim, and educated at St. Dominic's Priory at St. Scholastica's, Dwalhem, Manchester. He contributed four hymns to the Dominican H. Bk., 1861:—

1. All hail, great Conqueror, to Thee. Rosary. Glorious Mysteries.
2. Fair'r of innocence, Saint Thomas. St. Thomas Aquinas.
3. Maid, full of grace and purity. Rosary. Joyful Mysteries.
4. Lord, by Thy prayer in agony. Rosary. Sorrowful Mysteries.

Nos. 1, 2, 4 are also in Tozer's Catholic Hym., 1886.

Dease, Augusta Theodosia (Mother Frances Raphael, O.S.D.) was b. in 1822 at Bromley, Middlesex, entered the Order of St. Dominic in 1853, became Mother Superior of the Dominican Nuns of the Third Order, and d. April 20, 1884, at St. Dominic's Convent, Stone, Staffs. She pub. in 1870 Songs in the Night, enlarged ed. 1887. The following hymns by her are in recent collections:—

ROMAN CATHOLIC ROMAN CATHOLIC 1695

1. O spouse of Christ, on whom. [St. Catherine of Siena.] Parochial H. Bk., 1866, No. 371, and St. Dominic's H. Bk., 1892.

2. The clouds hang thick o'er Israel's camp. [Holy Rosary.] St. Dominic's H. Bk., 1880 and 1891, No. 4; A. E. Tozer's Cath. Hym., 1887, and Cath. Ch. Hym., 1908.

3. Thou who hast—like lost sheep. [St. Dominic.] In the Crown of Jesus, 1882, No. 193. Parochial H. Bk., 1880, St. Dominic's H. Bk., 1891, &c.

Fullerton, Lady Georgiana Charlotte, dau. of the first Earl Granville, was b. at Tixall, Staffs., in 1812. Lady Georgiana was married to G. P. Fullerton of Hallimell Hall, Lancs., and received into the Church of Rome 1846; d. Jan. 19, 1885, at Bournemouth. She was well known as a novelist (Ellen Middleton, 1844, &c.) and a philanthropist. She contributed to the Holy Family Hys., 1848, several trs., and the following Nos. 1-4 (46 also in the Parochial H. Bk., 1880):—

1. Christ's soldier, rise. Christian Warfare.
2. Sweet Saviour Jesus dear, I never will be. Holy Roman Church.
3. In breathless silence kneel. Elevation of the Host.
4. Mary, mother! Shield us through life. Saviour.
5. O Heart of Jesus, Heart of God. Sacred Heart of Jesus. From her Gold-digger and other Verses, 1875, p. 173, into Year's Catholic Hys., 1880.

Furniss, John Joseph, was b. at Sheffield, June 15, 1809, and was educated at Oscott and at Ushaw. After his ordination he was appointed to the Mission at Bradford. In 1850 he joined the C.SS.R., went in 1851 to St. Mary's, Clapham, in 1855 to Bishop Eton, near Liverpool, and in 1863 returned to Clapham, where he d. Sept. 14, 1885. He ed. various books for children, including a Hymn-book for Sunday-school or Catechism, 1861. Three popular hymns for Holy Communion (1845), as well as No. 1 below, appeared in his Children's Manual, as we have been informed earlier, and may be his, viz.:—

1. In this Sacrament, sweet Jesus.
2. Now Jesus Christ's true Flesh and Blood.
3. O God, be ever with Thy Church.

Gallwey, Peter, s.J., was b. Nov. 13, 1820, at Killarney, Ireland, educated at Stonyhurst Coll., Lancs., entered his novitiate in the Society of Jesus in 1838, and was ordained priest 1853. In Nov. 1857 he became Rector of Mount St. Mary's College, Derbyshire, and in Sept. 1858 he became Rector of Farm Street Church. He d. in London, Sept. 25, 1906 (see the Tablet, Sept. 29, 1906, p. 492). His hymn.

The angels sing around the mall (Christmas), is in Saint Hilary's H. Bk., 1854, No. 15, the Dominican H. Bk., 1861, the Arundel Hym., 1892, and others.

Howard, Philip, Earl of Arundel, s. of Thomas, fourth Duke of Norfolk, was b. June 28, 1557, at Arundel House, London. In 1585, having had secret dealings with Mary Queen of Scots, was committed to the Tower of London in 1585, and d. there Oct. 19, 1595. During his imprisonment he wrote some verses found in his tr. of An Epistle to the person of Christ to the faithful Soul, by Johann Justus, a native of Landsberg, 1588 (Landsberg Hymn-book, 1588, and Geistliche Landsberger, d. 1598). The verses are his tr. from Lauspergius. They are in the 1st ed. of the Jesuits, 1588 (Lambeth Library, p. 8), but not in the ed. of 1610 (Brit. Mus., G. 20016), or the reprint of 1876. From these verses, I. T. Gatty made two canons for the Arundel Hymns, 1892, viz.:—

1. Now joyful hymns what joys the saints obtain. Heaven.
2. O Christ the glorious Crown. Praise.

Lingard, J. See p. 1697, ii.

M. R. In the Holy Hys. and Sacred Songs, c. 1685, the pieces marked "M. R." include—

1. Heart of the Holy Child. Prayer to Jesus.
2. I am a little Catholic. The Church of Rome.
3. O sing a joyous carol. Christmas.

M. J., Sister. In the Holy Hys. and Sacred Songs, n.d., c. 1685 (Brit. Mus. 3436. cc. 23), and in H. Formby's Cath. Hys., 1853, and Sacred Songs, 1853, there are various pieces given on by Sister M. J., of the Convent of Chatterville, Co. Cork. Inquiries addressed to Charterville, Co. Cork, have failed to identify her initials. Those which have passed into other books include—

1. Among the gifts Thy hands bestow. Gratitude. In Cath. Hys., 1853, No. 23.

2. Dear Lord, Who in Thy love so great. Voice of the Flowers. In Sacred Songs, 1853, No. 17.

3. Ere evening's shadows round me close, p. 1462, i, a. If ever my heart in viper years. Jesus saw. In Cath. Hys., 1853, No. 21.

O. Shipley's Angel Guardian, thanks to thee. Guardian Angel. In Cath. Hys., 1853, No 21.

Macnabb, Robert, s.J., s. of Henry Macnabb, M.P., of Cleveden House, Lanark., was b. in 1813, and educated at Trin. Coll., Cambridge (B.A. 1836, M.A. 1837). He succeeded his father in 1849, and d. March 31, 1884, at Carnaiva. His hymn,

I arise from dreams of time (thee) (Sacred Heart of Jesus), appeared in the Examiner, Sept. 1850, p. 577, entitled "The Sacred Heart. Lines presented to a Lady on receiving a Picture of the Sacred Heart." In C. Shelley's "Italian Serenade," written in 1853, begins "I arise from dreams of thee"). It is repeated in the St. Andrew's Catholic H. Bk., 1883, and others. In the Crown of Jesus H. Bk., 1862, it begins "I rise."

Petre, Lady Katherine, née Howard, dau. of the fourth Earl of Wicklow, was b. in 1813, and m. 1835 the Hon. Arthur C. A. Petre of Copdock Hall, Essex. She d. at Ryde, Dec. 26, 1902. Her hymns appear in her Sacred Verses, 1846, and her Hys. and Verses, 1864. Nos. 2, 3, 5, 6 are in the Arundel Hys., 1892:—

1. Hail, Queen of Heaven, hail, hail to the Lord!" O may. Mary.
2. Now down, my soul, for He hath bowed His Head. Good Friday. Written 1844; 1866, p. 69.
3. Thy pour tears, ye silent mourners. Christmas. 1864, p. 7.
4. Love, thou dost all excel. Good Friday. 1864, p. 81.
5. Jesus, I come, and weary in the road. Good Friday. 1864, p. 41.

Reeks, Joseph W., was b. in London, educated at St. Edmund's Coll., Ware, and at St. Thomas's Seminary, Hammersmith, and ordained 1874. He was at St. George's R. C. Cathedral, Southwark, till 1886, from 1886 to 1891 at Walworth, and in 1892 became Mission Rector at St. Peter's, Woolwich. He d. at Woolwich Sept. 12, 1900. His hymns appeared in the St. George's Hymn-book for Sunday-schools, 1884, and in the St. George's Cathedral, Southwark, Compiled by the Rev. Joseph Reeks, 1879. Reprinted with an Appendix, n.d. (1884). One of these is "Leader now on earth no longer" (St. George), 1879, as above (ed. 1882, No. 34), signed "Joseph Reeks." Repeated in the Arundel Hys., 1892.

Russell, Matthew, s. of Arthur Russell of Killowen, Co. Down, was b. July 13, 1834, at Newry, Co. Down, and educated at Clongowes Wood College, Co. Kildare, in new (1905) at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Dublin. He has pub. many small vols. containing verse, most of which, being printed in Dublin, have not reached the British Museum; and has collected the sacred verse he thinks worth preserving in Verses and Canticles, 1905, and Other Flowers, 1906. The best known of his hymns are—

1. A message from the Sacred Heart. Sacred Heart of Jesus. In St. Patrick's H. Bk., Dublin, 1896.
2. O Mary, decree Mother. May.

No. 2 was first pub. in his Madonna, 1886, p. 23. See also Index of Authors and Translators.

Ryder, Henry Ignatius Dudley, s. of the Rev. G. D. Ryder, who in 1846 became Rector of Easton, Hants, was b. Jan. 12, 1837. On Dec. 8, 1859, he became a member of the Oratory of St. Philip Neri, and was ordained priest Dec. 21, 1862. His hymns and trs. are in his own Poems Original and Translated, 1862, in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, and in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1891 (see Index of Authors, &c.).

Terry, Richard R., was b. at Morpeth, Jan. 3, 1865, and was Tate Choral Scholar at King's Coll., Cambridge. In 1896 he became organist and music-master at Downside R. C. Coll. and Abbey, Bath, and in 1901 organist and director of the choir at Westminster Cathedral on the death of Sir George Martin. In the Westminster Hym., 1939, thirteen tunes and the words of two hymns—

1. Christ, the Lord, is our true Shepherd. Pr. Past.
2. Peaceful ere, so still and holy. Christmas Carol.

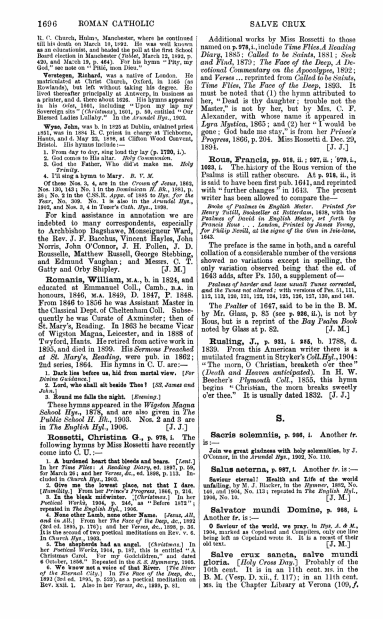
It is marked as D. C. B., i.e. for Downside Coll., Bath. The tune by Mr. Terry was pub. in 1901 to a carol beginning with the same first line, but otherwise entirely different.

Tozer, Lawrence, B.D., was b. Aug. 17, 1837, at Liverpool. After studying at Ushaw Coll., he was ordained priest in 1861, and served the Missions at Chorley and Bolton. He went in 1871 to St. Wilfrid's



1606 ROMAN CATHOLIC SALVE CRUX

R. C. Church, Holme, Manchester, where he continued till his death on March 16, 1882. He was well known as an educationist, and headed the poll at the first School Board election in Manchester (Tablet, March 18, 1882, p. 404). Dates 13, p. 46, 1st ed. His hymn "Pity, my God" was sung at his funeral. [J. M.]

Verstegen, Richard, was a native of London. He matriculated at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1566 (as Rowlands), but left without taking his degree. He lived thereafter principally at Antwerp, in business as a printer, and d. there about 1636. His hymns appeared in his Odes, 1601, including "Upon my lap my Sovereign sits" (Christmas), 1601, p. 93, entitled "Old Blessed Ladies Lullaby." In the Arundel Hyn., 1902.

Wynn, John, was b. in 1723 at Dublin, ordained priest 1751, was in 1764 R. C. priest in charge at Tichborne, Hants, and d. 1792. He was buried at Clifton Wood Convent, Bristol. His hymns include—

1. From day to day, sing loud thy lay (p. 1720, i.).
2. God comes to His altar. Holy Communion.
3. God the Father, Who did'st make us. Holy Trinity.
4. I'll sing a hymn to Mary. B. V. M.

Of these Nos. 2, 3, 4, are in the Crown of Jesus, 1865, Nos. 130, 143 i. No. 3 in the Dominican H. Bk., 1881, p. 96, No. 4 in the Crown of Mary, or Hymns for the Rosary, No. 1866, No. 1. Nos. 1-3 are in the Arundel Hyn., 1903, and Nos. 3, 4 in Toase's Cath. Hyn., 1908.

For kind assistance in annotation we are indebted to many correspondents, especially to Archbishop Bagshawe, Monseigneur Ward, the Rev. J. F. Barchas, Vincent Hayles, John Norris, John O'Connor, J. H. Pollen, J. D. Rousselle, Matthew Russell, George Stebbing, and Edmund Vaughan; and Messrs. C. T. Gatty and Orby Shipley. [J. M.]

Romanis, William, M.A., b. in 1824, and educated at Emmanuel Coll., Camb., B.A. in honours, 1846, M.A. 1849, D. 1847, P. 1848. From 1846 to 1856 he was Assistant Master in the Classical Dept. of Cheltenham Coll. Subsequently he was Curate of Axminster; then of St. Mary's, Reading. In 1863 he became Vicar of Wigston Magna, Leicester, and in 1898 of Twyford, Hants. He retired from active work in 1903, and died in 1899. His Sermons Preached at St. Mary's, Reading, were pub. in 1862; 2nd series, 1864. His hymns in C. U. are:—

1. Dark lies before us, hid from mortal view. [For Decem Guidance.]
2. Lord, who shall sit beside Thee? [St. James and Peter.]
3. Round me falls the night. [Evening.]

These hymns appeared in the Wigston Magna School Hyn., 1878, and are also given in The Public School H. Bk., 1903. Nos. 2 and 3 are in The English Hyn., 1906. [J. J.]

Rossetti, Christina G., p. 979, i. The following hymns by Miss Rossetti have recently come into C. U.:—

1. A burdened heart that bleeds and bears. [Lent.] In her Time Flies: a Reading Diary, ed. 1887, p. 92 for March 29; and her Verses, &c., ed. 1896, p. 118. Included in Church Hyn., 1903.
2. Give me the lowest place, not that I dare. [Humility.] From her Prince's Progress, 1866, p. 216.
3. In the bleak midwinter. [Christmas.] In her Poetical Works, 1904, p. 75, as "Before 1872." Also repeated in The English Hyn., 1906.
4. None other Lamb, none other Name. [Jesus, all, and in all.] From her The Face of the Deep, &c., 1892 (3rd ed. 1895, p. 176); and her Verses, &c., 1896, p. 26. It is the second of two poetical meditations on Rev. v. 6. In Church Hyn., 1903.
5. Rest is not quitting the busy net. [Christian's Rest.] In her Poetical Works, 1904, p. 197, this is entitled "A Christmas Carol. For my Godchildren," and dated 6 October, 1856." Repeated in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.
6. We know not a voice of that River. [The River of Life.] From her The Face of the Deep, &c., 1892 (3rd ed. 1895, p. 122) as a poetical meditation on Rev. xxii. 1. Also in her Verses, &c., 1896, p. 61.

Additional works by Miss Rossetti to those named on p. 979, i., include Time Flies. A Reading Diary, 1885; Called to be Saints, 1881; Seek and Find, 1879; The Face of the Deep, A Devotional Commentary on the Apocalypse, 1892; and Verses ... reprinted from Called to be Saints, Time Flies, The Face of the Deep, 1896. It must be noted that (1) the hymn attributed to her, "Dead is thy daughter: trouble not the Master," is not by her, but by Mrs. C. F. Alexander, with whose name it appeared in Lyra Mystica, 1865; and (2) her "I would be good. God bade me stay," is from her Prince's Progress, 1866, p. 204. Miss Rossetti d. Dec. 29, 1894. [J. J.]

Rous, Francis, pp. 918, ii.; 977, ii.; 1033, i. The history of the Rous version of the Psalms is still rather obscure. At p. 918, ii., it is said to have been first pub. 1641, and reprinted with "further changes" in 1643. The present writer has been allowed to compare the—

Booke of Psalmes in English Meter. Printed for Henry Tiblit, Bookseller at Rotterdam, 1638, with the Psalmes of David in English Meter, set forth by Francis Rous ... London, Printed by Iohn Field, for Philip Nevill, at the signe of the Glen in Ivie-lane, 1643.

The preface is the same in both, and a careful collation of a considerable number of the versions showed no variations except in spelling, the only variation observed being that the ed. of 1643 adds, after Ps. 150, a supplement of—

Psalmes of harder and lesse usuall Tunes corrected, and the Tunes set thereof, with versions of Psa. 51, 111, 113, 116, 126, 128, 134, 135, 136, 137, 139, and 148.

The Psalter of 1647, said to be in the B. M. by Mr. Glass, p. 85 (see p. 926, ii.), is not by Rous, but is a reprint of the Boy Psalm Book noted by Glass at p. 82. [J. M.]

Rusling, J., p. 981, i. 845, b. 1788, d. 1839. From this American writer there is a mutilated fragment in Stryker's Coll. Hyt., 1904: "The morn, O Christian, breaketh o'er thee" (Death and Heaven anticipated). In H. W. Beecher's Plymouth Coll., 1855, this hymn begins "Christian, the morn breaks sweetly o'er thee." It is usually dated 1832. [J. J.]

Salvator mundi Domine, p. 986, i. Another tr. in:—

O Saviour of the world, we pray, in Hyn. A. & M., 1904, marked as Copeland and Cumpston, only one line being left as Copeland wrote it. It is a reading rather old text. [J. M.]

Salve crux sancta, salve mundi gloria. [Holy Cross Day.] Probably of the 10th cent. It is in an 11th cent. MS. in the Chapter Library at Verona (100, f.

SALVE FESTA SAMPSON, J. W. 1697

93); in the Chartres MS. 89, f. 147, of the 10th cent. (so the Catalogue), and others. Text in Lat. Hyn. of the Anglo-Saxon Ch., 1851, p. 156; Mone, No. 111, &c. Tr. as :—

All hail, O Cross divine, by J. D. Aylward, in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, p. 238, and the Arundel Hyn., 1903, No. 76. [J. M.]

Salve festa dies . . . Qua Deus de coelo, p. 989, i. In the Sarum Use, e.g., in a Missal of c. 1250 now at Manchester (Crawford Lat. Ch. f. 1173) and in a Processionale of c. 1360 now in the Bodleian (13846, f. 112b), this reads "Qua nova de coelo." Printed text also in Ireyss, xliii., p. 39. Additional trs. are:—

1. Hail thee! Festival day . . . Day whereon grace, by G. R. Palmer, in the Hymner, 1891, No. 116, and 1904, No. 123. In the New Tufers H. Bk., 1905, it begins "Welcome, Festival Day . . . Day whereon grace."
2. Hail thee! Festival day . . . Day whereon God from Heaven, by G. G. S. Gillett, in The English Hyn., 1906, No. 630. [J. M.]

Salve festa dies . . . Qua Deus ecclesiam, p. 989, i. The version noted at p. 989, i., was by M. J. Blacker. It has been repeated in the following forms:—

1. Hail thee! glorious Feast . . . When to His Church, in the Hymner, 1891, No. 88.
2. Hail thee! Festival day . .*. When, in the Hymner, 1904, No. 122.
3. Welcome, Festival Day . . . When, in the New Tufers H. Bk., 1905, No. 53. [J. M.]

Salve festa dies . . . Qua Jesu hoc nomen. [Name of Jesus.] This is in the Sarum Processionale, London, 1502, f. 148b, f. 19 (St. John's Coll., Oxford); and was printed by Dean W. G. Henderson in his ed. of the Sarum Processionale, 1882, p. 152, from the copy of the Rouen ed. of 1508 then at Bamburgh Castle. Tr. as :—

Hail! Festal Day! renown'd for evermore, by W. Wade, in C. W. A. Brooke's Add. Hyn., 1903. [J. M.]

Salve festa dies . . . Qua Sponso, p. 989, i. This is in a Sarum Missal of c. 1250 now at Manchester (Crawford Lat. 24, f. 141). Other trs. are:—

1. Hail thee! Festival day . . . When to the Church, by J. D. Aylward, in the Hymner, 1891, No. 124, and 1904, No. 124. In the New Tufers H. Bk., 1905, No. 108, it begins "Welcome, Festival Day . . . Day when the Spouse."
2. Hail, festal day, for ever sanctified. When Christ is married, by A. J. Mann, 1901, printed in Hyn. A. & M., 1904, No. 259.
3. Hail thee, Festival Day . . . Day when the Church, by M. F. Bell, in The English Hyn., 1906. [J. M.]

Salve mi angelice, p. 989, i. In Ireyss, iii., p. 46, this is printed from a 14th cent. MS. at Karlsruhe (Reichenau 36), from three 15th cent. MSS. at Munich (Clm. 3012, 19534, 29001), and others. It is also in an early 15th cent. MS. at Berlin, No. 721. [J. M.]

Salve mundi domina, p. 989, i. This is Ireyss, xxx., p. 93, from a Munich MS. (Clm. 2990) of 1476 and other sources.

Salve mundi salutare, p. 989, i. M. Haureau in his Poèmes latins attribués à Saint Bernard, 1890, pp. 70-73, states that he has only been able to find this in three MSS. in French libraries, two at Paris (Bibl. Nat., Lat. 10622, and Arsenal 828) and one at Grenoble (406), all of the 15th cent.; and says it seems incredible that it can be a genuine work of St. Bernard. It is also in a 15th century MS. at Munich (Clm. 13132); in a 15th cent. MS. in the B. M. (Reg. 2 a. ii., f. 245b), and others. But it has not been found in any MS. before 1200. A complete tr. of the hymn by Mrs. E. M. Shapcote, as "O Saviour of the world, I cry to Thee," was pub. in 1873, in A Englishwoman's Prayer to the Sacred Members of Jesus hanging upon the Cross. Another tr. of the Salve caput text is: "O Sacred Head, sore wounded, defiled and put to scorn," in the Paltwoche Hyl., 1899, No. 42, marked as "Tr. for this time by H. K." It is repeated in The English Hyn., 1906. [J. M.]

Salve, O sanguis Christi, p. 1038, ii. This is by the editor, Michael ab Isselt, a native of Amersfoort in Holland, who in 1580 was living at Nymegen in Holland. He afterwards became preacher to the Italian merchants at Hamburg, and d. there Oct. 17, 1597. In the ed. of 1593 it is also at p. 122. [J. M.]

Salve regina, pp. 991, ii., and 1040, ii. In the Annales ordinis Cisterciensis ab anno 1094 ad annum 1429, by Carolus de le Cotteulx, vol. iv., 1868, p. 75, under the year 1220, it is said that Pope Gregory IX. (d. 1241) decreed the universal use of the "Salve regina," and that it had previously been in use among the Carthusians, probably from the foundation of the Order. In a Psalter written at Peterborough c. 1250, and now in the Royal Library at Brussels (9961, f. 122, now 255), there is the following note :—

"Dn. Benoet, abbot of Clairvaux, seeing two souls kept back and hindered in their ascent to heaven by a host of demons barring their way, heard these souls calling upon the help of the Blessed Mary, and chanting this antiphon, which immediately were liberated from the demons by two angels sent by the Virgin Mary, and taken up into heaven: Antiphon Salve regina misericordiae." (See L. Delisle's Mémoire de Peterborough, 1884.)

It will be observed that here, as in all the early MSS., the antiphon begins "Salve regina misericordiae." In another Peterborough MS. now at Sidney Sussex, Cambridge (No. 55 of c. 1400, not paged), there is a series of curious tales, relating miracles performed by the B. V. M. on behalf of those who sang this antiphon in her honour (see the 1886 Catalogue, pp. 87, 88). The antiphon is given, with the melody, in a Durham MS. of the 12th cent. now at Trinity, Cambridge (1227, f. 59). Additional trs. are :—

1. Hail to the Queen that reigns above the sky. In Lit. Remains of Bp. Ken, 1850, ii. 345. It is indexed as "Ps." 1037.
2. Hail! Queen of heaven! the Ocean Star. A free version by Dr. John Lingard (the well-known Roman Catholic historian, b. at Winchester, Feb. 5, 1771; d. at Hornby, Lancs., July 17, 1851) on a broadsheet in the B. M. (H. 1652*), which the Catalogue dates 1843. It is repeated in the Laudate, 1850, p. 19, and is reprinted in Lingard's Manual of Prayers, York, 1885. It is in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk., 1850, No. 100, the Arundel Hyn., 1902, No. 104, and many others, and is the version referred to at p. 606, i., under lines 5, 6, 7, as "Star of the Sea."
3. Hail! Holy Queen, enthron'd above, in the Roman Hyl., N.Y., 1884. [J. M.]

Salvete Christi vulnera, p. 992, i. This is in the Roman Breviary, Venice, 1758, Appendix, p. 69.

Sampson, J. W., p. 1040, ii. Her hymn "Weary of wandering long" appeared in W. B. Bradbury's Golden Censer, 1864, p. 65, as by "Miss J. W. Sampson, Utica, N.Y." Other hymns with the same signature include "Sweetly sing, sweetly sing," in Bradbury's

Gebet (Ulm, 1851, p. 70, and "O, the Sabbath morning, beautiful and bright," in Happy Voices, 1863, No. 161. [J. M.]

Sanctae Syon, p. 992. ii. This is found in a 14th cent. Missal of Jumièges, now at Rouen (301), in the Geneva Missal of 1491, the Lausanne of 1493, the Evreux of 1497, and others (see Missel-Wesle, i, p. 501; ii., pp. 52, 432, 430). [J. M.]

Sancto Dei pretiose, p. 992. ii. In Perena, xviii., No. 79, the three-stanza form is ascribed to Eusebius Bruno, who became Bishop of Angers in 1047, and d. 1081. For his tr. as noted on p. 992. ii. 1, "Saint of God, elect and precious," Dr. Neale took st. i. from this text, and sts. ii., iii. from the late German text as in Daniel. [J. M.]

Sancti venite, corpus Christi sumite, p. 993. i. This is in the Henry Bradshaw Society's ed. of the Bangor Antiphonary (pt. i., facsimile, f. 16b; pt. ii., p. 10), beginning "Sancti venite, Christi corpus sumite." Canon Warren in his notes at pp. 44-45, referring to the fact that in the last stanza the MS. reads "Alfa et ô," says "It is very likely that these symbols were stamped upon the Eucharistic wafer bread."

There is a curious story told in the Leabhar Breac, or Speckled Book (a MS. of the 14th cent. in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy at Dublin), in its notes on the hymn of St. Secundi (which begins "Audite omnes," and which it says was "the first hymn that was made in Ireland"), that Secundi composed the hymn in contention with St. Patrick, to match with him. The reason, says the Speckled Book, was "because of the annoyance Secundi gave Patrick, in saying, 'a good man were Patrick were it not for one thing, viz., the small extent to which he preaches charity.' When Patrick heard it, he went to Secundi in great anger. Secundi had just finished mass, was at gospel-reading, and was in the act of blessing the people. On this the priest in great anger cursed Secundi. The latter thereupon left the oblation on the altar, and bowed down to Patrick . . . so they made peace then, Patrick and Secundi. And whilst they were going round the cemetery, they heard a choir of angels singing around the oblation in the church; and which they sang was the hymn which Secundi had composed, viz., 'Audite omnes.' Hence this hymn is sung in Ireland when one speaks the holy of Christ, from that time onward." (From the Irish Liber Hymnorum, H.B.S. ed., vol. ii., p. 5).

Another tr. is :—

1. Draw nigh and take the Body of the Lord, in Hys. A. & M., 1904, No. 269, marked as by Neale and Compilers. The revision is skilful, as once more happy and more faithful than Neale. It differs materially in the Compilers' ed. 1916.

2. The hymn in Church Hys., 1903, as also that in The English Hymn, 1906, is Dr. Neale's tr. unaltered. [J. M.]

Sanctorum meritis inclita gaudia, p. 993. ii. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 201, beginning "The triumphs of the Saints. The tools they bravely bore," is marked as Neale and Compilers. It is Neale's, i., ii., v. altered, with a new tr. of st. vi. [J. M.]

Sandys, G., p. 994. i. Another canto from his Paraphrase upon the Psalmes of David, &c., 1635, as "Let God, the God of battles, rise" (Ps. lxviii.), is in the Hymn Book for Use in Wellington Coll., 1902. [J. J.]

Sankey, I. D., p. 994. i. During the past fifteen years Mr. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos have had a very large sale, which has justified him in increasing the number of songs and hymns, including "New Hymns and Solos," to 1200. In 1906 he published My Life and Sacred Songs (London: Morgan & Scott). In addition to the "Story of his Own Life," the work contains an account of the most popular of his solos, with interesting reminiscences of the spiritual awakening of many who were influenced through his singing of them in public. In this respect it corresponds in some measure with G. J. Stevenson's Methodist H. Bk., &c., 1883 (p. 1094, i.). It is an addition to the Sacred Songs and Solos, which will be held in esteem by many. In addition to his hymn, noted on p. 994. ii., Mr. Sankey gives details of the following :—

1. Out of the shadow lost into the sunshine. (Hymns Antiphonal.) Mr. Sankey's account of this hymn is :—"I wrote this hymn specially for the memorial service held for Mr. Moody in Carnegie Hall, where I also sang it as a solo. It is the last sacred song of which I wrote both the words and music. The idea was suggested by Mr. Moody's last words, 'Earth recedes; heaven opens before me.' The tune is entitled Ellesdie, from the name of a servant girl in the family of Sir Edward Aldenson in the Gospel for so many years, the words are here given in full." The hymn follows on p. 105, in 3 st. of 4 l. and a chorus.

2. Rejoice! rejoice! our King is coming. (Advent.) Mr. Sankey writes concerning this hymn :—"During a voyage I made to the Holy Land in the City of Rome a severe storm came on that lasted for days. Even through the rigging and waves like mountains of foam were breaking over the bow of the vessel. A great fear had fallen upon the passengers. When the storm was at its worst, we all thought we might soon go to the bottom of the sea. The conviction came to me that the Lord was coming in the storm, and I composed this hymn in the reading room. I composed the hymn. Before reaching England the tune had formed itself in my mind, and on arriving in London I wrote it out, and had it published in Sacred Songs and Solos," where it is No. 624 in the ed. of 1884.

From Mr. Sankey's autobiographical sketch we gather that he was born at Edinburgh, in Western Pennsylvania, Aug. 28, 1840, joined Mr. Moody in 1871, and visited England for the first time in 1873. The original of the Sacred Songs, &c., of 23 pieces only, was offered as a gift to the London publishers of P. Phillips's Hallowed Songs, and declined by them. It was subsequently accepted by Mr. R. G. Morgan, of Morgan & Scott, and is now a volume of 1200 hymns.

From a return kindly sent us by Messrs. Morgan & Scott, we find that the various issues of the Sacred Songs and Solos were :—

In 1873, 24 pp.; 1874, 72 pp.; 1874, 152 hymns; 1877, 221 hymns; 1881, 441 hymns; 1886, 750 hymns; 1903, 1200 hymns.

In addition, The Christian Choir, which is generally associated with the Sacred Songs and Solos, was issued in 1884 with 75 hymns, and in 1893 with 281. The New Hymns & Solos, by the same firm, were pub. in 1888. [J. J.]

Savage, Minot Judson, D.D., was born at Northgewark, Maine, June 10, 1841, and educated at Bangor Seminary, where he graduated in 1864. From 1867 to 1873 he was a Congregational Minister, and then he joined the Unitarians, and has now (1906) a charge in Boston. He has published several works, including Poems, Boston, 1882. He also edited, with H. M. Dow, Sacred Songs for Public Worship, Boston, 1883, to which he contributed 46 original hymns. In hymnals other than this, of his hymns the following are in C.U. :—

1. Does thou hear the bugle sounding. Consecration to Duty.

2. Father, we would not dare to change Thy purpose, &c. Prayer.

3. O God Whose law is in the sky. Consecration to Duty.

4. O star of truth down shining. Truth.

5. The God that to the fathers revealed His holy will. God unchangeable.

6. The very blossoms of our life. Holy Baptism.

7. The Word of grace burns within our hearts. Joining in Church Fellowship.

8. God of the glorious summer hours. New Year. This is in D. Agate's Sunday S. H. Bk., 1881, No. 371, and dated 1870. From the Sunny Side, N.Y., 1873, p. 118.

Some of these hymns are given in Hunter's Hys. of Faith and Life, Glasgow, 1880, and recent American hymnals. [J. J.]

Saviour, Blessed Saviour, p. 995. iii. The concluding lines of st. ii. of this hymn as in the 1871 ed. of Church Hymns, "Farther, ever farther," read in the original MS. :—

"Lovingly to bear them, Saviour, to Thy fold."

The Compilers altered these lines to :—

"In Thy love revealing Wonderers to Thy fold."

Under date of Oct. 24, 1899, the late Preb. Thring requested the Hymnal Committee of the S.P.C.K. to restore the original reading as above in the then forthcoming revision of Church Hys. This request was complied with in the 1903 ed. of that collection. [J. J.]

Saviour! Thou of life the lender, A mutilated form of a portion of J. Burton's "Saviour, while my heart is tender" (p. 196, i. 12).

Savonarola, Girolamo, p. 1033. i. His hymns were printed in a collected form as Poesie di Fra Girolamo Savonarola tratte dalle Autografe, at Florence, 1862. A number of them had appeared in Fra Serafino Razzi's Laudi Spirituali, Venice, 1563, and elsewhere. The best-known is :—

Giesh senno confeto. [Pentecost.] This is in Razzi's Laudi, 1563, f. 4, in Rossini Lord's Libro Italiano Antico, Florence, 1905, p. 158, &c. Tr. as "Jesus, Refuge of the weary," by Jane Francesca Wilde. Contributed to R. H. Madden's Life and Martyrdom of Savonarola, 1853, i., p. 370; reprinted in her own Poems by Speranza, Dublin, 1864, p. 199. See further p. 1374, ii.

Saw ye never in the meadows. Cecil F. Alexander. [Divine Providence.] Published in her Hys. for Little Children, 1848, in 10 st. of 4 l. "Day by day the little daisy," in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, begins with st. vi. of this hymn. [J. J.]

Say not the law divine, p. 118. ii. 6. This hymn by B. Barton is slightly altered and arranged in another metre in Horder's Hys. Supplemental, &c., 1894, and his Worship Song, 1905, as "Say not the word." [J. M.]

Scandinavian Hymnody, pp. 993-1002. See an article by Dr. Friedrich Nielsen in the Herzog-Hauck Realencyklopädie, X., 1901, pp. 438-443. An authorised Danish Psalmebog for Kirke og Hiem was issued in 1899. [J. M.]

Schlör, Aloys, D.D., was b. at Vienna, June 17, 1805, and took the degree of D.D. at the University of Vienna in 1835. From May 10, 1842, to his death he was father confessor at the Theological Seminary (Spiritual der Priester-seminars) at Graz, Styria, Austria. He d. at Graz, Nov. 2, 1852. His well-known hymn, "Dem Herzen Jesu singe" (p. 1038, ii.), was written in 1832. [J. M.]

Schmücke dich, O liebe Seele, p. 1014. i. Another tr. in :—

Deck thee, O my soul, with gladness, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 16.

Schubert, C. F. D., p. 1037. i. The tr. of "Unpaid alle Schlgkeiten" as "Though by sorrows overtaken," was made by the Hon. Edward Charles Hugh Herbert, who was brother of Mrs. Philip Pusey. He was b. March 30, 1802, and d. May 30, 1832. This information we have received from Mrs. Clan Fletcher, daughter of Philip Pusey. [J. M.]

Scorn not the slightest word or deed. [Power of Little Things.] This hymn has been traced to Adams and Chapin's American Hys. for Christian Devotion, 1846 (p. 59, ii.), where it is given as from the "London Inquirer." Later collections, both in America and at home, attribute it to T. Hincks; but it is not in his Verpers, 1868, and we have failed to trace it to him. [J. J.]

Scottish Hymnody, p. 1039. ii. Since 1890 there is little to record. The Anglo-Genevan Psalter, of 1558, referred to as "lost" at p. 1021. ii., is described by Dr. Julian in the Times, Sep. 19, 1902, p. 277. Details of the same are also given under Old Version, p. 1084. i. The 1568 copy of the Gude and Godlie Ballates, referred to at p. 1021, ii., was ed. by Professor A. F. Mitchell for the Scottish Text Society, 1897. The Rev. Dr. Borison, of Dalserf, has recently been investigating the sources of the Psalter of 1650, and has identified the Rotterdam Psalter of 1638 (p. 987, ii., No. 66) as the first ed. of the version of Francis Rous. The version of Sir William Mure, as far as available (Pss. 1-31, 100-150, from two MSS. in the Ewing Collection in Glasgow University Library, and one in the Laing Collection in Edinburgh University Library), was ed. by William Tough, for the Scottish Text Society, as vol. ii. (1898) of The Works of Sir William Mure of Rowallan. A revision of the Psalter of 1650, made by the elders of the Glassite Congregation at Edinburgh (principally by aid of the Revised Version of the prose psalms, and the metrical version of Robert Burnell, as noted at p. 989, ii., No. 176), was pub. as The Book of Psalms in Metre, Edinburgh, 1902.

The only recent hymn book of any importance is The Church Hymnary authorised for use in Public Worship by the Church of Scotland, the Free Church of Scotland, the United Presbyterian Church, the Presbyterian Church in Ireland (London: Henry Frowde, 1898). In the interesting volume of notes by the Rev. John Hewatia, entitled The Hymns and Hymn Writers of the Church Hymnary, Henry Frowde, 1899, pp. 1-9, there is a full account of the origin and preparation of this book, begun 1893 by a joint Committee of the three Scottish Churches, after 1903 with the co-operation of representatives of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland. It contains hymns 1-625, doxologies 626-630, ancient hymns 640-648; and is one of the best hymn books of recent times, catholic, comprehensive, and remarkably faithful in reproducing the texts of the authors. The musical edition, under the chief editorship of Sir John Stainer (same title, publisher, and date), takes high rank as a worthy example of present-day worship song. A very careful and accurate series of notes appeared as The Music of the Church Hymnary and the Psalter in Metre, its Sources and Composers, by William Cowan and James Love. Henry Frowde, 1901. The only other hymn books which need be mentioned are (1) The Scottish Congregational Hymnal (Edinburgh: Publications Committee of the Congregational Union) [1905], compiled by a Committee of which the Rev. Alexander Brown (p. 1016, ii.) was convener. Nos. 1–415 are reprinted from the Evangelical Union Hymnal, 1878 (p. 1027, i.): Nos. 436–535 are mostly hymns found also in the Congregational Church Hymnal, 1887 (p. 980, ii.), and the Rev. W. G. Horder's Cong. Hym., 1884 and 1894. (2) The Bible Hymnal, Compiled by W. Lowcock Holland, M.A., Minister of the Gospel, Edinburgh (Edinburgh: W. B. Hunter, 1894). With 350 hymns, and 45 pages of prefatory matter, mostly derived from this Dictionary. Mr. Holland was then incumbent of St. Thomas's English Episcopal Chapel, Edinburgh. [J. M.]

Scriven, Joseph. Mr. Sankey, in his My Life and Sacred Songs, 1906, p. 279, says that Scriven was b. in Dublin in 1820, was a graduate of Trinity Coll., Dublin, and went to Canada when he was 25, and d. there at Port Hope, on Lake Ontario, in 1886. His hymn :—

What a Friend we have in Jesus (Jesus our Friend) was, according to Mr. Sankey, discovered to be his in the following manner: "A neighbour, sitting up with him in his illness, happened upon a manuscript of 'What a Friend we have in Jesus.' Reading it with great delight, and questioning Mr. Scriven about it, he said he had composed it for his mother, to comfort her in a time of sickness, when she could not see any friends but him." We find the hymn in H. L. Hastings's Sacred Hyn., Original and Selected, 1865, No. 342; and his Songs of Fellowship, 1866, No. 120, where it is attributed to "Joseph Scriven, circ. 1855." It is found in many modern collections. [J. J.]

Scudder, Eliza, pp. 1035, i., 1040, i. Miss Scudder d. in 1896. Her Hyn. & Sonnets, with biographical notes, &c., by Horace E. Scudder, was pub. by Houghton & Mifflin, 1897. In The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, the hymn, "Thou Life within my life," begins with st. ii. of "From past regret and present (faithlessness) feebleness," p. 1032, i. 1), which was written in Feb. 1871. Another of Miss Scudder's hymns is "Let whosoever will enquire" (Near Heaven), from which "My God, I rather look to Thee," in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, is taken. [J. J.]

So questa valle di miserie piena. (Heaven.) This is in the Laudi Spirituali of the Congregation of the Oratory, Rome, 1583, bk. i., p. 2. In Cofersati's Corona di Sacre Canzoni, Florence, 1710, p. 625. Tr. as :—

If this poor vale, with helpless sorrow teeming, by J. O'Connor, in the Arundel Hyl., 1902. [J. M.]

Sears, Septimus, p. 1040, i. was b. Jan. 5, 1810, at Chatteris, Cambs., and in 1841 became minister of the Particular Baptist congregation at Clifton, Beds. He went to Brighton after an attack of heart disease in 1877, and died there Dec. 26, 1877. His hymns appeared in his Clifton Hymns, N.D., 1865, the three noted being Nos. 256, 261, 262. [J. M.]

See the leaves around us falling, p. 830, i. This hymn appeared in The Christian's Magazine, 1760, p. 86, as "The Fall of the Leaf; a Sacred Ode," and again in the Gospel Magazine, Sept. 1793, p. 447.

Seidenbusch, Johann Georg, was b. at Munich, April 5, 1641, ordained Priest in 1666; founded the Oratory of St. Philip Neri at Aufhausen, and d. Dec. 10, 1720. He edited the Aufhausen G. B., 1687, in which is given :—

Komet her, ihr Creaturen all (Holy Communion), p. 624, which Blumber, viz., No. 37, thinks is most likely to be his. It is in many later books, including H. Bone's Cantate, ed. 1878, No. 277. Tr. as "Come all ye creatures of the Lord," by G. E. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. M.]

Sequences, p. 1041, ii. Since this article was written a great deal has been done, principally by the Analecta Liturgica and the Analecta Hymnica, in the way of publishing "inedited" Sequences (the word "inedited" practically denotes pieces taken from mss. or from books printed before 1500, which had not been included in hymnological works printed between 1840 and 1887); and as the above-named works have added more than 3,500 to the 893 printed by Kehrein in 1873 (see p. 1042, i.), the number of Sequences written before 1500 and which in 1906 can still be described as "inedited" can only be small. The details of these two works are as follows :—

I. The first part of the Analecta Liturgica of Mr. W. H. James Weale and the Abbé E. Misset (referred to in this Supplement as Missel-Weale) appeared in June, 1888, the sixteenth part in Oct. 1901. It contains in all 812 "inedited" Sequences (most of which have also been printed in the Analecta Hymnica), principally from mss. and printed Missals found in English and Belgian Libraries. The following are the principal mss. of Sequences of the 9th, 10th, 11th, and of the Hereford and York Missals; and also indexes and prints the "inedited" Sequences of the following mss. English Uses :—

i. Corne in Dorset. The Book of Corne (see p. 1128, i.), an ancient ms. in the University Library at Cambridge, includes a Sequentiary written for use at Corne c. 1300 (ii., p. 79).

ii. Dublin. The Troper of St. Patrick's at Dublin is in the University Library at Cambridge, and dates c. 1300 (ii., p. 79). Several of the pieces are hymns rather than Sequences, and the last of the series, not printed in Missel-Weale, are neither inserted nor noted.

iii. Hereford. The Troper of St. Alphege at Saint Peter's Abbey at Westminster is a ms. of the 11th c., in the possession of the Dean and Chapter (ii., p. 178). The complete text of the Missal has been most carefully edited by Dr. J. Wickham Legg for the Henry Bradshaw Society, i., 1891, ii., 1897; the first lines of the sequences are not indexed separately, but are included in the "Index of Liturgical Forms."

iv. Sherborne in Dorset. The Missal of this Abbey, written c. 1400, is in the Duke of Northumberland's library at Alnwick Castle (ii., p. 514).

v. Glastonbury(?). The Missal now No. 133 in the Arundel Library at Paris, was certainly written in England, probably at Glastonbury, in the 12th century (ii., p. 951). Mr. Weale suggests for Misset in Library, but Mr. Bannister regards it as really a Sarum Missal, perhaps meant for use at London.

vi. Whitby. The Missal of Whitby Abbey (not indexed in Missel-Weale) may here be mentioned. It is in the Bodleian (Library Misc., 482, now 13393), and dates c. 1180. It contains 21 Sequences, all printed in the Analecta Hymnica, vii., No. 205; viii., Nos. 47, 125, 161, x., Nos. 211, 269, 284, 288, 372; xxxiv., No. 247; xl., No. 104.

vii. Spalding(?). The Gentlemen's Society of Spalding possesses a fragment of a ms. of the 12th c., which was at Spalding Abbey—at any rate, when for use in the diocese of Lincoln about 1340. The sequences are the same as those in the Sarum's (p. 1042, ii.), except one for the Translation of St. Hugh of Lincoln, beginning, "Spiret obsequiosa ut jocunda aquilæ," which seems to be "inedited," and two printed by Kehrein, viz., "Gaudeamus omnes in Domino" (p. 96), and "Ecclesiæ mater Christi" (ib., No. 230). It is clear, but not indexed, in Missel-Weale.

II. The Analecta Hymnica devotes no less than nine volumes to "Sequentiæ Ineditæ"; viii., ix., x., xi.,

SEQUENCES SHEPPARD, WILLIAM 1701

by Father Dreves; xxxiv., xxxvii., xxxix., xlii., xliv., by Father Blume; and xl., which includes a great number from English sources, by the Rev. H. M. Bannister. These nine volumes include 2512 sequences of all ages and of all branches of the mediæval Latin Church (those from English sources principally in viii., xxxiv., xxxvii., xxxix., xl., and Bannister, xl.).

III. Two vols. of the Abbé U. Chevalier's Bibliothèque Liturgique also contain a considerable number of Sequences, viz., viii., pp. 316–384, from a 13th cent. French ms. now in the Communal Library at Autel (No. 695); and ix., entitled Proses-Tropes de l'Abbaye de Saint-Martial de Limoges, pp. 1–100, from a 12th cent. ms., more probably written at Moissac, now in the Bibl. Nat. at Paris (Nouv. Acq. 1871). The "inedited" Sequences of these two mss. are also printed in the Analecta Hymnica.

The limits of our space will not allow us to repeat the information in Missel-Weale regarding the mss. (—v. above; and the references to Dreves will show the "inedited" Sequences of No. vi. But two other mss. not hitherto indexed may here be noted.

vii. Sarum Missal of c. 1320. This was apparently written for the nuns of Barking. In the translation of Lord Crawford (p. 81), it is now in the private library of Mrs. John Rylands, of Manchester. It is the earliest known Sarum Missal (the most complete list of mss. Sarum Missals is that by Mr. Bannister in the Tracts on the Mass, Henry Bradshaw Society, 1904, pp. xiv., xv.), and is a splendid specimen of 13th cent. work, with many noble initials. The Sequences are printed together at ff. 124–128, with the following incipit on a four-line stave. Sixty-one are also in the Barlow 5 (p. 1042, ii.); the rest are noted below.

viii. Chichester Sequentiary. This is contained in a ms. of c. 1270, kept in the Bodleian, but belonging to the Dean and Chapter. It has 49 Sequences, except ff. 110–41, and have melodies throughout on a seven-line stave. Of the 49 sequences 45 are in the Barlow 4 (p. 1042, ii.); the rest are noted below.

Of the Sequences in vii. and viii., twenty are already indexed at pp. 1043–1050. Of these six are in the ms. e, and three others in the ms. g; the remaining eleven are :—

Alma Dei genitrix	† e	Tribularem (at Visitation)	8
Gaude Maria	† e	Vexi Sancte Spiritus	8
Omnis Christi	†	Virgo Dei genitrix extra.
Omnis fidelium	†	versus	† e
Quicunque vult	† e	Virginis in laude	†
Spe succulis	†	Voce jubilamus	8

The Sequences in vii. and viii. not already indexed at pp. 1043–1050 are (the side markings give the vol. of the Analecta Hymnica where they are printed) :—

xl.	A cunctis festus	8	One Confessor.
viii.	Ab arce sidera	† e	Advent.
xxxvii.	Ad cantus laudis	†	B. V. M.
	Ave Maria (collect)	†	B. V. M.
x.	Ave maris Stella, Verbi Dei	†	B. V. M.
xl.	Candidati gregis	8	One Virgin.
xl.	Cives cives cælestis	8	St. Thomas of Canterbury.
ix.	Crebrescente Christi	8	One Confessor.
	Ecce sonat in aperto	†	B. V. M.
xl.	Fulget dies celebranda	8	Martyrs.
ix.	Lætabundus sit Jerusalem	8	St. Thomas of Canterbury.
xl.	Laus Jerusalem Martiæ	†	B. V. M.
viii.	Lux fulget hodierna	8	Circumcision.
xl.	Omnis spiritus concinat	8	Visitation.
	Præsulem gloriosum	†	B. V. M.
	Sacrosancta hodiernæ	†	B. V. M.
viii.	Salvatoris in honorem	8	St. Thomas of Canterbury.
xxxix.	Salve gemma Paradisi	8	All Saints.
ix.	Salve mater cunctipotentis	†	B. V. M.
viii.	Salve mater magnæ { gentis	†	B. V. M.
viii. No. 3	Sanes vox et mens	8	Trinity Sunday.
xl.	Te veneremur Domine	8	Trinity Sunday.
x.	Virens ave virgula	†	B. V. M.

A number of the mss. indexed at pp. 1042, 1043, have been recently reexamined by Mr. Bannister, and (in the preface to Dreves, xlvii.) are given thus :—b as 12th cent. from St. Albans; c as 11th or 12th cent., probably English; e as end of 10th cent., from Winchester; g as c. 955–962, probably from Mainz; i as 12th cent., probably from Glastonbury; w as 11th cent., from Winchester; z as 11th cent., from Novalaise in Savoy; *a as end of 12th cent., probably from Innichen in the Tyrol; *b as 13th cent., from Meggio, near Udine, in North Italy. Note also the following :—p. 1046, for "Hos ad laudes," read "Nos ad"; p. 1048, for "Vine plebs," read "Aulne plebs." See also F. Wagner's Introductions, 1907, pp. 219–242, and "Sequence," by P. A. Kienle in Wetzer and Welte's Cyclopædia, vol. xi., 1899, cols. 139–169. [J. M.]

Sewell, Elizabeth M., p. 1039, ii. She d. Aug. 16, 1906.

Seymour, W. D., p. 925, ii. He d. March 10, 1895.

Shairp, John Campbell, LL.D., s. of Major Norman Shairp, was b. at Houstoun, West Lothian, July 30, 1819; student at the Univ. of Glasgow 1836–9; Snell Exhib., Balliol Coll. Ox., 1840, and Newdigate Prize 1842. For a time he was assistant master at Rugby, then Prof. of Latin at St. Andrews 1861; Principal of the United Coll., St. Andrews, 1868, and Prof. of Poetry, Oxford, 1877. He d. at Ormaary, Argyllshire, Sept. 18, 1885. The LL.D. was conferred upon him by the University of Edinburgh in 1884. His hymn :—

Twixt gleams of joy and clouds of doubt. (God the Unchangeable.) Appeared in his Glen Lusmagh and other Poems, 1868, p. 203, and marked as having been written in 1865. It is in many collections, especially in America (e.g. the Pilgrim Hyl., 1904). Also in Hooker's Worship song, 1905. The cento, "Let me no more my comfort fear," in Barnum Circle, 1896, is from this hymn. [J. J.]

Shapcote, Emily Mary, née Steward (p. 1040, ii., as Mrs. Shapcote), was b. at Liverpool in 1828, and m. in 1856 the Rev. E. G. Shapcote (1832, curate of Odiham, Hants, later Missionary in S. Africa under the S.P.G.). In 1866 she was received into the Church of Rome, and her husband two years later. She now (1906) resides at Torquay. The Hys. for Infant Children (p. 1040) were pub. by Masters in 1852 (not 1846), those marked A being by Mrs. Shapcote, those marked B by her aunt, Mary Steward, those marked C by her sister, Eleanor Steward. Her more recent hymns appeared principally in her Eucharistic Hours, 1886. Those in C. U. include :—

1. Heavenly Father, from Thy throne. (Litany.) In 1852 as above, No. 20, the second st. beginning, "Jesus, holy, undefiled." In 1867 in her Hys., 1871 and 1903, and others, it is given, with many slight alterations, as "Jesus, holy, undefiled" (p. 1039, ii. 5).

2. O Jesus, dearest Lord, I cry to Thee. (Holy Communion.) In 1886 as above, p. 112, dated Clapham, 1878. It was rewritten by Dr. H. A. Rawes in his Little Handbook of the Archconfraternity of the Holy Family, 1888, p. 19, and is in C. U. [J. M.]

3. Queen of the Holy Rosary. (B. V. M.) Written about 1882, and included in St. Dominic's H. Bk., 1886 and 1891, A. E. Tozer's Cath. Hym., 1886, &c.

Her tr. of "Salve mundi salutare" is noted at p. 1037, ii. [J. M.]

Shelly, Martha E., p. 1054, i. B. in 1812.

Sheppard, William John Lammer, M.A., s. of William Benjamin Sheppard, was b.

1702

at Highworth, July 21, 1861, and educated at Queen's Coll., Oxford; B.A. in honours 1888, M.A. 1892. Ordained in 1888, he was Curate of Christ Church, Timperley, 1888–90, Missioner of the C.M.S. 1895–6, Centenary Sec. C.M.S. 1896–1900, and since 1900 Vicar of St. Peter's, Ipswich. The following hymns by Mr. Sheppard are in C. U.:—

1. Father, we are gathered here. (Personal to Missionaries.) Written in 1897, for the C. M. S. Valedictory Meetings, and included in the C. H. H. Bk., 1899.

2. Father, Who didst give Thy Son. (Litany on behalf of Foreign Missions.) Written in 1899, and given in the C. H. H. Bk., 1899, No. 45.

3. Lord, teach us how to pray aright. (Foreign Missions.) Suggested by Alys Pinkney's "For Christ to learn, for Christ to teach, O Lord," &c., in the Irish Church Hyl. It was written in 1898 for the C. M. S. Centenary, and included in C. H. H. Bk., 1899, No. 128.

4. In the cleansed temple, On the festal day. (Consecration of Self to Christ.) Written in 1896 on the Feast of the Purification, and pub. in the Church Missionary Gleaner, Jan. 1897, p. 1. In 1898 it was included in the C. H. H. Bk., and in 1902 in Hys. of Consecration and Faith.

5. O Lord of lords, and King of kings. (Praise for Success of Foreign Missions.) Written in 1899 for the Centenary of the C.M.S., and given in the C. H. H. Bk., 1899, No. 127. It is also in the Irish Church Hyl., 1900.

6. We want the peace swept from us. (Dearth of Foreign Missions.) Written for the Centenary of the C.M.S., 1899, and pub. in the C. H. H. Bk. the same year.

7. Where hast thou gleaned to-day. (For Gleaners' Union Meetings.) Written for the C.M.S. Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1901, and printed in the Gleaner Jan. 1902, p. 1. In 1902 it was in the C. H. H. Bk., was reprinted in his C. H. H. Bk., 1902; and will also be found, in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1903.

It must also be noted that No. 224 in the C. M. H. Bk. is composed of st. i. from Canon Twells's "At even, ere the sun was set" (st. i.), and the rest of the hymn by Mr. Sheppard, to whom permission was given by Canon Twells for the use of his stanza. [J. J.]

Sherwin, W. F., p. 1056, i. Another hymn from his Bright Jewels, 1869, p. 68, is "Sound the battle cry" (Christian Courage), in the S. School Hymnary, 1905, and several other collections.

Shine, mighty God, on Britain shine, p. 1056, ii. This paraphrase of Ps lxvii. was given in Watts's Hymns and Spiritual Songs, 1st ed., 1707, bk. i., No. 35, and repeated in his Ps. of David, 1719. [J. J.]

Shipton, Anna, p. 1056, ii. She d. at St. Leonard's-on-Sea, Nov. 5, 1901, aged 96.

Shirley, i.s. Sir John Skelton, p. 1703, ii.

Shirley, James, p. 1580, ii. In vol. vi. of Alexander Dyce's ed. of Shirley's Works (1833) there are two pieces which have passed into some modern hymn-books.

1. The glories of our blood and state. (Mortis Triumphus Invincibilis.) In vol. i. p. 393, from Shirley's Contention of Ajax and Ulysses, scene iii. In W. J. Cox's Hym. and Anthems, 1841, and others, it begins "The glories of our mortal state."

2. Come Thou, Goss' God, forgive us soon. (Penitential.) In vol. iii. p. 249, from the 4to copy of Shirley's "Cupid and Death," made about 1653, and in the Bodleian (1.5417 e. Linc). Post. 491). In the Anglican H. bk., 1871, No. 302, it begins "Come Thou, good Lord, Forgive us soon." [J. M.]

Shorey, L. See Lancaster, Mary A. E.

Show me Thyself, O holy Lord. (Positivism.) This is given anonymously in the American Plymouth Hymnal, 1855, in 5 st. of 4 l., and again in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900.

831, 835, 944). It is in a 14th cent. Paris Missal in the B. M. (Add. 16905, f. 277b) and others. It passed into the printed Sarum (e.g. Venice, 1494, f. 287b, and London, 1498, f. 244b), and York Missals. Also in Ebrensis, No. 53. Tr. as:—

Not thus truly seek sinners. By Athelstan Riley, in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 39, and The English Hyl., 1906, No. 97. [J. M.]

Sidey, William Wilson, since 1885 pastor of the Baptist Chapel, Tottenham, London, is the author of "Buried with Christ: our glad hearts say" (Holy Baptism, Adult) in the Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900. It was written for his own congregation. Mr. Sidey is also the author of The Silent Christ. [J. J.]

Sidney, Sir P., and Mary Sidney, p. 1057, i. From their Psalmes of David, &c. (see as above), the following versions by Sir Philip Sidney of Ps. xxv., "To Thee, O Lord, most just," and "How lovely is Thy dwelling," Ps. lxxxiv.; also "How good and how beseeming well," Ps. cxxxiii., by Mary, Countess of Pembroke, are in the H. Book for the Use of Wellington Coll., 1902. [J. J.]

Sie ist mir lieb, p. 1057, i. Another tr. :—

She is my love, that worthy Maid. By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 175.

Signed with the Cross that Jesus bore, p. 1058, ii. In Hys. Original and Selected, by H. A. Rawes, B.A., this hymn is No. 19. At the back of the title-page of this collection there is the following note:—

"The hymns marked F. W. F. are by the Rev. F. W. Faber. Those marked H. A. R. by the Rev. H. A. Rawes."

As No. 19 is unmarked, and has been given anonymously in subsequent Roman Catholic hymnals, we cannot determine the authorship, and must leave it Anon. In addition to the cento noticed on p. 1059, ii., two others are in use as "Spirit of Wisdom, turn our eyes," in The Methodist Hy. Book, 1904 (To the Holy Spirit), and "Lord, in Thy presence, dread and sweet" (Confirmation), in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Sill, Edward Rowland, b. at Windsor, Conn., April 29, 1841, and educated at Yale. He was Prof. of English Literature in the University of California, 1874–1882. He d. at Cleveland, O., Feb. 27, 1887. His poetical works include The Hermitage, 1867, and Venus of Milo, 1883. Several of his pieces are in Horder's Treas. of Amer. Sacred Song, 1896–1900. His hymn, "Send down Thy truth, O God" (For the outpouring of the Holy Spirit), in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, is from The Hermitage, 1867. [J. J.]

Simpson, William John Sparrow, B.A., was educated at Trin. Coll., Camb., B.A. 1882, M.A. 1886. Ordained in 1882, he held various appointments until 1904, when he became Chaplain to St. Mary's Hospital, Great Ilford. He has pub. several works, including a Memoir of Dr. W. S. Simpson, 1890. He contributed "All for Jesus—all for Jesus" (All for Jesus), and "Jesus, the Crucified, prays for me" (Passiontide), to C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903. Those hymns originally appeared in Sir J. Stainer's cantata The Crucifixion, 1887, the book of words of which was compiled by Mr. Simpson. [J. J.]

Shubhka Prakhmaik Mshikha malkan. [For the National Church.] To his tr. of this hymn in his Renderings of Church Hymns, 1901, p. 40, as "His the glory, His the honour," the Rev. R. M. Moorson adds the note, "See Festival Night Service, East Syrian Daily Offices, p. 158"; ed. by A. J. Maclean in 1894. The hymn is there for Sundays, for the Hallowing of the Church. It is by Mar George, who was Bishop of Nisibis in Mesopotamia about 270 (see Dict. of Chr. Biog., ii. 642, under Georgius 17); and is, Professor Burkitt informs us, found with his name in a Nestorian Psalter of the 13th cent. now in the Brit. Mus. (Add. 14675). Sometimes erroneously ascribed to Ephraem the Syrian. [J. M.]

Shurtleff, Ernest Warburton, b. at Boston, Mass., April 4, 1862, and educated at Boston Latin School, Harvard University, and Andover Theo. Seminary (1887). Entering the Congregational Ministry, he was Pastor at Palmer and Plymouth, Mass., and is now (1905) Minister of First Church, Minneapolis, Minn. His works include Poems, 1885, Easter Gleams, 1885, and others. His hymn, "Lead on, O King Eternal" (Christian Warfare), was written as a parting hymn to his class of fellow students at Andover, and was included in Hys. of the Faith, Boston, 1887. It has since appeared in several collections. [M. C. H.]

Shuttleworth, Henry Cary, M.A., s. of the Rev. Edward Shuttleworth, was b. at Eglosshayle Vicarage, Cornwall, Oct. 20, 1850, educated at St. Mary's Hall, Oxford; B.A. 1873, M.A. 1876. Ordained D. 1873, P. 1874; Chaplain Ch. Ch., Oxford; Minor Canon of St. Paul's; and Rector of St. Nicholas, Cole-Abbey, London, 1883. He was also Prof. of Pastoral and Liturgical Theo., and Lect. Eccl. Hist. and English Lit., and in the New T., in K.C.L. He pub. The Lost Words of the Saviour (3rd ed. 1879), Songs, 1885, The Place of Music in Public Worship (2nd ed. 1895), Hymns for Private Use, 1896. He also compiled a small Appendix to Church Hys. for use in St. Nicholas' Church, in which several of his own hymns appeared. Of those hymns the following were included in the 1903 ed. of Church Hymns:—

1. Father, our yet another day is ended. (Evening.) Written in 1896, and pub. in the Church Sunday Services. This appeared with music by the author in the Church Monthly, 1898, p. 124.

He d. Oct. 24, 1900, and a Memoir of him was pub. in 1902. [J. J.]

Si vis patronum quaerere. [St. Peter.] In the Excerpta . . . by Ambrose St. John, 1857, p. 283 (see p. 1148, ii.), the text is given as indulged by Pope Pius VI. in a Rescript dated Jan. 19, 1782. Also in the Roman Brev., Venice, 1798, Appendix, p. 241. It is tr. as "Seek ye a Patron to defend," by E. Caswall in his Lyra Cath., 1849, p. 277, repeated in the Parochial H. Bk., 1880, Vaux's Catholic Ch. Hyl., 1905, and others. [J. M.]

Si vis vere gloriari. [Christ's Cross of Thorns.] Evidently written for an Office of the Reception of the Holy Crown of Thorns by St. Louis of France, a festival first celebrated at Paris on Aug. 11, 1239 (see st. x., "Est comma credita, Et in te reposita, Urbs Parisiorum"). Brevia, viii. No. 15, prints the text from three 14th cent. Paris Missals (Paris Lat.

Sing to the great Jehovah's Praise. C. Wesley. [The New Year.] No. vii. of Hys. for New Year's Day, MDCCL., in 3 st. of 8 l. (P. Works, vi., p. 16). In The Methodist H. Book, 1904.

Sing to the Lord Who loud proclaims. P. Doddridge. [Ps. cx. 10.] This is in the Rosker-Doddridge MS. No. 16, and was included in Doddridge's Hymns, &c., 1755, No. 30. Its use is limited, and usually in an altered form. [J. J.]

Sing to the Lord with joyful voice, p. 1059, ii. This paraphrase of Ps. c. was given in Watts's Horæ Lyricæ, 1706, bk. i., his Hymns and Spiritual Songs, 1707, bk. i., No. 49, and repeated in his Ps. of David, 1719. [J. J.]

Sinners, behold the Lamb of God. J. Hoskins. (Good Friday.) From his Hymns, &c., 1720, No. 219, into a few American collections. "Behold, behold the Lamb of God," p. 1071, ii., is the same hymn in an altered form. [J. M.]

Skelton, Sir John, LL.D., s. of James Skelton, of Sandford Newton, writer to the signet, b. in Edinburgh in 1831; educated at the Univ. of Edinburgh; member of the faculty of Advocates; Sec. to the Scottish Board of Supervision and Vice-President Scottish Local Gov. Board; K.C.B. 1897. He d. July 19, 1897. He wrote somewhat extensively, and in Fraser's Mag., under the name of Shirley. His hymn, "Upon the hills the wind is bleak and cold" (Evening), is in C. U. [J. J.]

Skrine, John Huntley, M.A., s. of H. D. Skrine, was b. April 3, 1848, at Warleigh, Somerset; was educated at Uppingham and at Corpus Christi Coll., Oxford (B.A. 1871, M.A. 1874), and was ordained D. 1874, P. 1876. He was fellow of Merton Coll., Oxford, 1871–75, assistant master at Uppingham 1873–87, Warden of Trinity Coll., Glenalmond, 1888–1902, and in 1903 became Vicar of Itchen Stoke, Hants. He pub. in 1879 Thirty Hymns for Public-School Singing, three of which have passed into the Public-School H. Bk, 1903, and the S. S. Hymnary, 1905.

1. Lord of the brave, Who call'st Thine own. [Confirmation.] Written 1892; 1899, No. 81.
2. Ere the last strife be stayed or lost. [End of Term.] Written 1894; 1899, No. 82.
3. Each by each again we stand. [Beginning of Term.] Written 1894; 1899, No. 1. [J. M.]

Slack, George, was b. Nov. 25, 1860, at Ashton-under-Lyne, and educated at Lancashire Colleges. He entered the Congregational ministry in 1880, his first, and present, pastorate being at Cleckheaton, Yorks. The following hymns by him are in the Junior Hyl., 1906:—

1. Behold! a joyful day is breaking. Christ's Kingdom.
2. Father Eternal! God of love. Anniversary.
3. Father of Heaven, Whose constant care. God's Service.
4. Gentle Shepherd, kind and true. The Good Shepherd.
5. I am young, yet I would be. God's Service.
6. Our fathers brave, in days of old. Soldiers of Christ.
7. We are little pilgrims. The Way to Heaven.

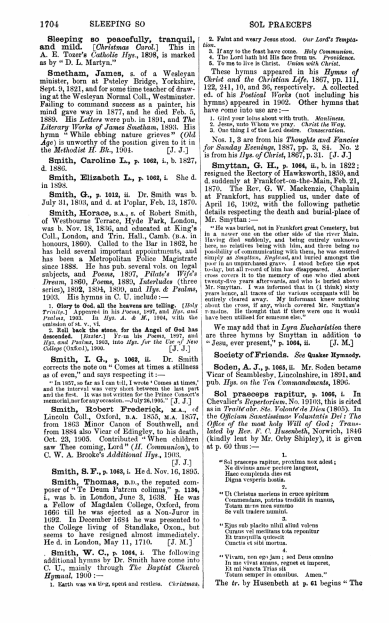
They were written and printed for his S. S. Anniversaries, and date, in order above, respectively 1904, 1896, 1900, 1903, 1902, 1901, 1899. [J. M.]



1704 SLEEPING SO SOL PRAECEPS

Sleeping so peacefully, tranquil, and mild. [Christmas Carol.] This in A. E. Tozer's Catholic Hyx., 1908, is marked as by "D. L. Martyn."

Sneetham, James, s. of a Wesleyan minister, born at Pateley Bridge, Yorkshire, Sept. 9, 1821, and for some time teacher of drawing at the Wesleyan Normal Coll., Westminster. Failing to command success as a painter, his mind gave way in 1877, and he died Feb. 5, 1889. His Letters were pub. in 1891, and The Literary Works of James Sneetham, 1893. His hymn "While sibling nature grieves" (Old Age) is unworthy of the position given to it in the Methodist H. Bk., 1904. [J. J.]

Snetham, Caroline L., p. 1062, i., b. 1827, d. 1886.

Smith, Elizabeth L., p. 1062, i. She d. in 1898.

Smith, G., p. 1012, ii. Dr. Smith was b. July 31, 1810, and d. at Poplar, Feb. 13, 1870.

Smith, Horace, B.A., s. of Robert Smith, of Westbourne Terrace, Hyde Park, London, was b. Nov. 18, 1836, and educated at King's Coll., London, and Trin. Hall, Camb. (B.A. in honours, 1860). Called to the Bar in 1862, he has held several important appointments, and has been a Metropolitan Police Magistrate since 1888. He has pub. several vols. on legal subjects, and Poems, 1857, Pilate's Wife's Dream, 1860, Poems, 1885, Interludes (three series), 1892, 1894, 1899, and Hys. & Psalms, 1905. His hymns in C. U. include:—

1. Glory to God, all the heavens are telling. (Holy Trinity.) Appeared in his Poems, 1857, and Hys. and Psalms, 1905. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, with the omission of st. v., vi.

2. Roll back the stone, for the Angel of God has descended. (Easter.) As st. iii. of his Poems, 1857, and Hys. and Psalms, 1905, into Hys. for the Use of New College (Oxford), 1906.

[J. J.]

Smith, I. G., p. 1062, ii. Dr. Smith corrects the note on "Comes at times a stillness as of even," and says respecting it:—

"In 1857, so far as I can tell, I wrote 'Comes at times,' and the interval was very short between the last part and the first. It was not written for the Prince Consort's memorial, nor for any occasion.—July 28, 1905." [J. J.]

Smith, Robert Frederick, M.A., of Lincoln Coll., Oxford, B.A. 1855, M.A. 1857, from 1863 Minor Canon of Southwell, and from 1884 also Vicar of Edingley, to his death, Oct. 23, 1905. Contributed "When children saw Thee coming, Lord" (H. Communion), to C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1901.

[J. J.]

Smith, S. F., p. 1063, i. He d. Nov. 16, 1895.

Smith, Thomas, D.D., the reputed composer of "Te Deum Patrum colimus," p. 1130, i., was b. in London, June 3, 1638. He was a Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, from 1660 till he was ejected as a Non-Juror in 1692. In December 1684 he was presented to the College living of Standlake, Oxon., but seems to have resigned almost immediately. He d. in London, May 11, 1710. [J. M.]

Smith, W. C., p. 1064, i. The following additional hymns by Dr. Smith have come into C. U., mainly through The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900:—

1. Earth was waiting, spent and restless. Christmas.
2. Faint and weary Jesus stood. Our Lord's Temptation.
3. Hungry to the feast have come. Holy Communion.
4. The Lord hath hid His face from us. Providence.
5. To me to live is Christ. Union with Christ.

These hymns appeared in his Hymns of Christ and the Christian Life, 1867, pp. 111, 122, 241, 10, and 36, respectively. A collected ed. of his Poetical Works (not including his hymns) appeared in 1902. Other hymns that have come into use are:—

1. Lord, your lives about with truth. Missionaries.
2. Come, unto Whom we pray. Christ the King.
3. One thing I of the Lord desire. Consecration.

Nos. 1, 3 are from his Thoughts and Fancies for Sunday Evenings, 1887, pp. 3, 84. No. 2 is from his Hys. of Christ, 1867, p. 31. [J. J.]

Smyttan, G. H., p. 1066, ii., b. in 1822; resigned the Rectory of Hawkswarth, 1859, and d. suddenly at Frankfort-on-the-Main, Feb. 21, 1870. The Rev. G. W. Mackenzie, Chaplain at Frankfort, has supplied us, under date of April 16, 1902, with the following pathetic details respecting the death and burial-place of Mr. Smyttan:—

"He was buried, not in Frankfort great Cemetery, but in a newer one on the other side of the river Main. Having died suddenly, and being entirely unknown here, no relatives being with him, and there being no Protestant Clergyman in Frankfort, he was buried very simply at Sachsenhausen, England, and buried amongst the poor in an unpurchased grave. I stood before the spot to-day, but all record of him has disappeared. Another cross covers it to the memory of one who died about twenty-five years afterwards, and who is buried above Mr. Smyttan. I was informed that in (I think) sixty years the ground is again used for interments, and the entirely cleared away. My informant knew nothing about the cross, if any, which covered Mr. Smyttan's remains. He thought that if there were one it would have been utilised for someone else."

We may add that in Lyra Eucharistica there are three hymns by Smyttan in addition to "Jesu, ever present," p. 1004, ii. [J. M.]

Society of Friends. See Quaker Hymnody.

Soden, A. J., p. 1066, ii. Mr. Soden became Vicar of Scamblesby, Lincolnshire, in 1891, and pub. Hys. on the Ten Commandments, 1896.

Sol praecepe rapitur, p. 1066, i. In Chevalier's Repertorium, No. 19100, this is cited as in Treviri ehr. Ms. Valentin de Dies (1805). In the Officium Sanctissimae Voluntatis Dei: The Office of the most holy Will of God; Translated by Rev. F. C. Husenbeth, Norwich, 1846 (kindly lent by Mr. Orby Shipley), it is given at p. 60 thus:—

1.
"Sol praecepe rapitur, proximus nox adest;
Ne divinus amor pectora languent,
Haec compiendo dies est
Digna vespertis hostia.

2.
"Ut christus mortem in cruce spiritum
Commendans, potens tradidit in manus,
Totum mi vis non sinentia
Se velit tradere nomini.

3.
"Ejus sub placito nihil aliud volens
Christus vel mortuus tota repositur
Ut mecum vivat, mecum
Cineris et alis mortua.

4.
"Vivam, non ego jam: sed Deus omnino
In me vivat summus, regnet et imperet,
Et mi Sancta Trias sit
Totum semper in omnibus. Amen."

The tr. by Husenbeth at p. 61 begins "The sun declines, the night draws near." In the well-known version by Caswall, which begins "The sun is sinking fast," the first st. is a paraphrase of st. i., the other sts. of the Latin are each expanded into two of the English version, producing a hymn in every way superior to its original. [J. M.]

SOLDIERS OF SPLENDOR PATERNAE 1705

Soldiers of Christ arise, And put, &c., p. 1066, i. The cento in the 1902 ed. of Church Hys., No. 546, is C. Wesley's original text with the alteration of st. v., l. 4, from "And stand entire at last" to "And victor stand at last." The cento "To God your every want," in the American Methodist Hyl., 1905, is composed of st. xii., xiv., and xv. of this hymn. [J. J.]

Soldiers of the Cross, arise, Gird you, &c., p. 1066, ii. This hymn appeared in Morrell & How's Ps. & Hys., 1864 (not 1854).

Solemne nos jejunii, p. 1066, ii. This has been ascribed to C. Coffin, but it is not in his Hymni Sacri, 1736, and in the Paris Brev., 1736, Verna, p. 132, it does not bear his signature. In the Châlons-sur-Marne Brev., 1736, Verna, p. 130, it begins "Profana censent gaudia." In Church Hys., 1903, "Once more the solemn season calls," we have the old Hys. A. & M. text; but in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. st. iii. is omitted, and st. v. is rewritten. [J. M.]

Solemnitas sancti Pauli, p. 1066, i. This is in a Sarum Missal of c. 1520 now at Manchester (Crawford Lat. 24, f. 242b). In the York use it begins "Sancti Pauli conversio."

Solt ich meinem Gott, p. 1066, ii. Another tr. is:—

What! so sadness for my Maker! by C. S. Woodward, in his Songs of Zion, 2nd ed., 1845, No. 211.

Sometimes I catch sweet glimpses of His face. H. Bonar. [Peace at Last.] Appeared in Hys. of Faith and Hope, 2nd series, 1861, p. 140. Usually abbreviated.

Somno refectis artubus, p. 1067, ii. Another tr. is:—

The limbs which slumber hath set free, in the Office H. Bk., 1880 and 1905, altered from Neale.

Sons of men, behold from far, p. 1068, ii. In Bp. Heber's Hymns, 1827. C. Wesley's text, with the omission of sts. ii. and slight alterations, was given as No. 1 for Epiphany. This form of the hymn is No. 115 in the 1903 ed. of Church Hymns. [J. J.]

Southwell, Robert, was b. at Horsham St. Faith, Norfolk, about 1561, educated at Paris and at Rome, and entered the Society of Jesus at Rome, Oct. 17, 1578. He spent part of his noviciate at Tournai in Belgium, but returned to Rome and completed his studies there. After being ordained priest in 1584, he returned to England in 1586. He was arrested in 1592 on the charge of high treason, committed to the Tower of London, formally tried at Westminster, Feb. 21, 1594-5, and executed the next day at Tyburn.

His Poetical Works were collected in 1856 by W. B. Turnbull, and re-edited in 1872 (new complete) and 1881 (reprint) by W. J. Walter. In 1895 and 1902 (p. 1042) in the Brit. Mus., from a ms., perhaps autograph, at Stonyhurst Coll., Lancs., and from the printed text of the individual works. One of his carols is noted at p. 310, ii., one of his tr. at p. 663, ii., three additional are in the Arundel Hys., 1902. They are all in Grosart's ed. and are here cited as they are found in the Add. 1842, the spelling being preserved:—

1. As I in hoarie winters night. [Christmas.] At p. 10. This is the admirable poem entitled "The Burning Babe."

2. Behinde a cruell tender Babe. [Christmas.] At p. 11. See p. 210, ii.

3. In Paschall feat, ye ende of auntient rite. [Holy Communion.] At f. 17 b.

4. Let fely prayse that phancy loues. [Christmas.] At f. 3. The Arundel reads "whot fancy loves."

5. Prime Creatour, Sonne, and Saviour. At p. 72. From the Psalms, 1595. See p. 963, ii.

See also notices in the Month for Oct. 1894, and Feb. and March 1895, and in the Dublin Review, Oct. 1903.

Speak, for Thy servant heareth. H. Alford. [Duty.] From his Year of Praise, 1867, No. 158, for 3rd S. after Trinity, into a few American collections. It is dated 1865.

Speak gently: it is better far, p. 1069, i. The earliest form of this hymn that we have found is in Sharpe's London Magazine, Feb. 1848, p. 256, in 2 st. of 4 l.

Speak thou the truth, Let others fence. H. Alford. [Meanliness.] In his Poet. Works, 1865, p. 332, dated 1863, among the "Poems first collected." In Worship Song, 1905, No. 781, and others.

Speece, Conrad, D.D., b. at New London, Va., Nov. 7, 1778; ordained by the Presbytery of Baltimore, April 22, 1804; and d. Feb. 17, 1836. Full particulars concerning him are given in W. H. Foote's Sketches of Virginia, 2nd series, 1855. His hymn, "Blest Jesu, when Thy cross I view" (Good Friday), is dated Oct. 6, 1800, and was first printed in The Connecticut Evangelical Magazine, vol. ii. It was included in the Presb. Ps. and Hys. 1831, 1843, and 1901, and is still found in some modern collections. [L. F. B.]

Spenser, Edmund, p. 1070, ii. His poem, "Most glorious Lord of life, that on this day" (Sunday), is Sonnet lxviii. in his Amoretti and Epithalamion, 1595 (not paged), and is in his Works, ed. R. Morris, 1871, p. 583. In The Engl. Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Spirit Divine, attend our prayer, p. 1074, ii. The form of this hymn most generally adopted in modern American collections is that rewritten by S. Longfellow, and included in Longfellow and Johnson's Hys. of the Spirit, 1864. It is No. 67 in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

Spirit of Christ, Thy grace be given. This, in The Baptist Church Hyl., 1900, is a slightly altered form of "Spirit of Christ, thine earnest given," a cento from "Twas silence in Thy temple, Lord" (p. 1149, i.), by J. Keble.

Spirit of Faith! be Thou my Guide. Anne Bronte. [Longing for God.] This, in Worship Song, 1905, No. 294, is from the poem "The Three Guides," in Wetherley Heights, 1850, p. 591, in 27 sts. (first published in Fraser's Magazine). It begins with st. xix. Sometimes it is given as "Spirit of truth!" (See p. 185, ii.) [J. M.]

Splendor Paternae gloriae, p. 1080, i. Additional trs. are:—

1. O splendour of God's glory bright, O Thou that

1706 SPONSA CHRISTI STEPHENS, JAMES

bringest light from light. A free version in the Publication Syl., 1899, No. 20, marked as "T. by R. B."

5. O splendour of God's glory bright, Who bringest forth the light from light. In Hys. A. & M., 1904, marked as by the Compilers.

The Church Hys. 1903 text, "O Jesu, Lord of heavenly grace," is the old text of the 1871 ed. of that collection (see p. 1080, ii. 9), and the hymn, "Come, Holy Sun of heavenly love," in the American Hys. for Church & Home, is composed of st. ii.–v. of J. Chandler's tr. [J. M.]

Sponsa Christi quae per orbem, p. 1080, ii. The version "Bride of Christ, in warfare glorious," in the New Office H. Bk., 1903, No. 139, is mainly from W. Palmer. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., st. ii. and iii. of "Bride of Christ, whose glorious warfare," have been to a great extent rewritten.

Spurgeon, C. H., p. 1081, i. He d. Jan. 31, 1892.

Stabat ad lignum crucis anxiata, p. 1084, i. This is given by Dreves, xi., p. 53, from the Speier Brev., printed at Venice in 1509. It is a hymn on the Compassion of the B. V. M. standing beside the cross of the Redeemer, and has no connection with the German hymn on the Seven Words of the Crucified Redeemer. [J. M.]

Stabat mater dolorosa, p. 1091, ii. No fresh evidence has come to light to support the ascription of this Sequence to Pope Innocent III., and it has not yet been found in any MS. before 1300. There was evidently a local tradition at Todi that it was written by Jacopone. Annibale Tenneroni in his Jacopone da Todi, Todi, 1897, p. 13, gives extracts from an early MS. life of Jacopone (in the Communal Library at Todi), which distinctly states that he "composed that hymn which begins Stabat mater dolorosa," during his imprisonment. Tenneroni gives the text at pp. 25–26 from several MSS. of the 14th cent. at Florence (Biscord. 1049 and 2762; Laurent. Gadd. 90, Sup. 121), and others of the 15th cent. Ferdinand Gregorovius in his Geschichte der Stadt Rom im Mittelalter, vol. v., p. 613 (Stuttgart, 1865), says, "The Stabat mater has been ascribed without ground to Innocent III., the Pope of the great and cold intellect. In the cloister of the Capuchins at Monte Santo, near Todi, there is a MS. of the poems of Jacopone, of the end of the 14th cent., in which the Stabat mater is included as his production." But the tradition seems to have been confined to Todi.

In a 14th cent. MS. at Marseilles (No. 110, f. 53, see Catalogue), it is given as the "Contemplation of the Blessed Pope Gregory," and so in a 15th cent. MS. at Munich (Clm. 10125). In a Horae written in France c. 1440, and now at Trinity, Cambridge (238, f. 173), it begins "Salve mater dolorosa"; and in this MS. it is followed by another beginning "Salve mater speciosa" (printed in Kehrein, No. 276), which goes on "Jam in coelis gloriosa," and is quite different from the Sequence annotated at p. 1084, i. In Serafino Razzi's Laudi Spirituali, Venice, 1563, f. 275, it is headed "Hymn of an uncertain author." The present writer is still inclined to believe that in the department of Latin verse writing Jacopone was at most only an imitator; and that he was not the author of the "Stabat mater dolorosa" any more than of the "Verbum caro," or the "Jesu dulcis memoria," or the "Crux de te volo conqueri." Additional trs. are :—

1. At the Cross her station keeping; st. iv., "She beheld," in Hys. A. & M., 1904, No. 138, marked as Carwall and Compilers, but only four lines service as in Carwall, and two of those Carwall borrowed from Neale. The remaining seven lines are three altered from Maut, Maut and Carwall are, however, not responsible for—

"O good Jesu, let me borrow Something of Thy Mother's sorrow."

2. At the Cross, her station keeping; st. iv., "For his people's," in The English Hyl., 1906, is mainly based on Maut, but the first two lines are derived from Maut and four lines, slightly altered from Carwall.

3. Near the Cross was Mary, weeping, p. 1084, i. 6. This is given by J. W. Alexander in error. It is by Dr. H. Mills, and appeared in his Horae Germanicae, 1845, p. 273. [J. M.]

Stand up before your God. At p. 1087, ii. 3, this hymn is given under A. Rowson, but with doubtfulness. It has since been found in H. Alford's Fr. & Hys., 1844.

Stanfield, Francis, s. of Clarkson Stanfield the artist, was b. in London Nov. 5, 1836, and educated at St. Edmund's Coll., near Ware. Since his ordination he has principally been engaged in conducting missions and retreats, but he was for some time stationed at Hertford, and has been lately priest in charge at Old Hall Green, Herts. A collected ed. of his hymns is being issued by the Benedictine Fathers at Ramsgate. They include :—

i. From his Catholic Hys., pt. i. 1858, ii. 1869 :—

1. All hail, bright feast of jubilation. All Saints.
2. All ye who love your fatherland. Prayer for England.
3. Hear ye the nightfall. B. V. M.
4. Hail, Virgin Queen of May's bright gladdening hours. May.
5. Hear thy children, gentlest mother. B. V. M.
6. O Sacred Heart, all blissful light of Heaven. Sacred Heart.
7. Jesu, Jesus! Thou a haven art. Sacred Heart.
8. Sweet Sacrament divine. Holy Communion.
9. There is a land of peace and love. Heaven.

ii. In the Holy Family Hys., 1860 :—

10. Hail, Queen of Heaven, Virgin mild. Nat. B. V. M.
11. Bright Queen of Heaven, all hail. All Saints.
12. Hear Thy children, gentle Jesus. Sunday. Also in the People's Hyl., 1867, and others. In the Supp. to the N. Comp., 1874, it begins "Hear Thy children, Heavenly Father."
13. O Sacred Heart, our home lies deep in Thee. Sacred Heart.

iii. In the St. Patrick's H. Bk., 1862 :—

14. At hour of silent midnight. Christmas.
15. O Mother, welcome is the feast. Immaculate Conception. [J. M.]

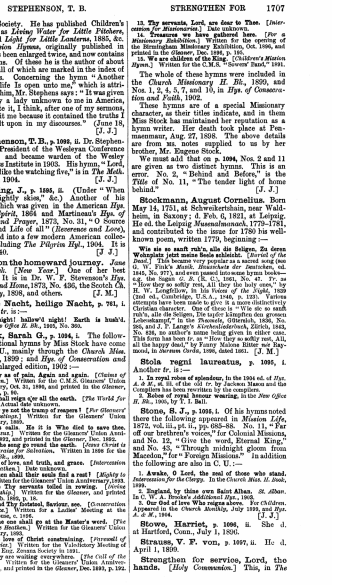
Stephano primo martyri, p. 1092, ii. This is printed in Dreves, xiv., p. 98, from the two 11th cent. copies (Paris, Lat. 1092, and Vaticanus 7172) of the Hymnarium of St. Severinian at Naples, from a Berlin MS. of the 11th cent., and from an 11th cent. MS. (169, f. 31) in the Chapter Library at Verona. Also in Werner, No. 198, from three Rheinau MSS. (82, 83, 91) of the 11th cent., now at Zürich. [J. M.]

Stephens, James, was born at Southsea, March 18, 1847, and ordained to the curacy of Christ Church, Plymouth, 1873. He became Chaplain of Falmouth Roadstead, in 1876, and in 1880 Missioner under the Rev. W. H. M. H. Aitken in connection with the Church Parochial



STEPHENSON, T. B. STRENGTHEN FOR 1707

Mission Society. He has published Children's Sermons as Living Water for Little Pitchers, 1882, and Light for Little Lanterns, 1885, &c. His Mission Hymns, originally published in 1883, has been enlarged twice, and now contains 113 hymns. Of these he is the author of about twenty, all of which are marked in the index of first lines. Concerning the hymn "Another page of life Is open unto me," which is attributed to him, Mr. Stephens says: "It was given to me by a lady unknown to me in America, who wrote it, I think, after one of my sermons, or gave it me because it contained the truths I had dwelt upon in my discourses." (June 18, 1895.) [J. J.]

Stephenson, T. B., p. 1092, ii. Dr. Stephenson was President of the Wesleyan Conference in 1891, and became warden of the Wesley Deaconess Institute in 1903. His hymn, "Lord, grant us like the watching five," is in The Methodist Book, 1904. [J. J.]

Sterling, J., p. 1093, i. (Under "When up to nightly skies," &c.) Another of his hymns which was given in the American Hys. of the Spirit, 1864 and Martineau's Hys. of Praise and Prayer, 1873, No. 31, "O Source divine and Life of all" (Reverence and Love), has passed into a few modern American collections, including The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. It is dated 1840. [J. J.]

Still on the homeward journey. Jam Barthanal. [New Year.] One of her best hymns. It is in Dr. W. F. Stevenson's Hys. for Ch. and Home, 1873, No. 436, the Scotch Ch. Hymnary, 1898, and others. [J. M.]

Stille Nacht, heilige Nacht, p. 763, i. Another tr. is :—

Silent night! hallow'd night! Earth is hush'd. In the New Office H. Bk., 1903, No. 305.

Stock, Sarah G., p. 1094, i. The following additional hymns by Miss Stock have come into C. U., mainly through the Church Miss. H. Book, 1899 : and Hys. of Consecration and Faith, enlarged edition, 1902 :—

1. A cry as of pain. Again and again. [Claims of the Heathen.] Written for the C.M.S. Gleaners' Union Anniversary, Oct. 31, 1890, and printed in the Gleaner, Dec. 1890, p. 186.
2. He shall reign o'er all the earth. (The World for Christ.) Actual date unknown.
3. Hear ye not the tramp of rangers? [For Gleaners' Union Meetings.] Written for the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1892.
4. Jesus called. No. 2 in Who died to save thee. [Fellow-Jesus.] Written for the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1892, and printed in the Gleaner, Dec. 1892.
5. Let the song go round the earth. (Jesus Christ is Lord.) Praise for Salvation. Written in 1888 for the C. M. Juv. Mag., 1889.
6. Lord of power and truth, and grace. [Intercession for the Heathen.] Date unknown.
7. O when shall their souls find a rest? [Mighty to save.] Written for the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1891.
8. Once Thy servants toiled in sowing. [Glorious Guardianship.] Written for the Gleaner, and printed Oct. 1, 1894, p. 156.
9. Our Risen, Thy Ascended, Saviour, see. [Consecration for Service.] Written for a Ladies' Meeting at the C.M.S. House, c. 1898.
10. Some one shall go at the Master's word. [The Call of the Heathen.] Written for the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1892.
11. The love of Christ constraining. [Yearnfull of Missionaries.] Written for the Valedictory Meeting of the Ch. of Eng. Zenana Society in 1891.
12. They are wailing everywhere. [The Call of the Heathen.] Written for the Gleaners' Union Anniversary, 1893, and printed in the Gleaner, Dec. 1893, p. 192.
13. Thy servants, Lord, are four to Thee. [Intercession for Missionaries.] Date unknown.
14. Treasure we have, gathered here. [For a Missionary Exhibition.] Written for the opening of the Birmingham Missionary Exhibition, Oct. 1896, and printed in the Gleaner, Dec. 1896, p. 186.
15. We are children of the King. [Children's Mission Hymn.] Written for the C.M.S. "Sussex" Band," 1891.

The whole of these hymns were included in the Church Missionary H. Bk., 1899, and Nos. 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, and 10, in Hys. of Consecration and Faith, 1902.

These hymns are of a special Missionary character, as their titles indicate, and in them Miss Stock has maintained her reputation as a hymn writer. Her death took place at Fenmasmaur, Aug. 27, 1898. The above details are from MS. notes supplied to us by her brother, Mr. Eugene Stock.

We must add that on p. 1094, Nos. 2 and 11 are given as two distinct hymns. This is an error. No. 2, "Behind and Before," is the Title of No. 11, "The tender light of home behind." [J. J.]

Stockmann, August Cornelius. Born May 14, 1751, at Schweikertshain, near Waldheim, in Saxony; d. Feb. 6, 1821, at Leipzig. He ed. the Leipzig Musenalmanach, 1779–1781, and contributed to the issue for 1780 his well-known poem, written 1779, beginning :—

Wie sie so sanft ruh'n, alle die Seligen. Zu ferne Wohnplatz jetzt meine Seele erhielt. [Burial of the Dead.] This became very popular as a sacred song (see Koch, viii. 274), and appeared in Gellert's Lieder, 1843, No. 277), and was passed into many hymn books, e.g. the Sagan G. B. (R. C.), 1861, No. 47. Tr. as "How they so softly rest, All they the holy ones," by H. W. Longfellow, in his Voices of the Night, 1839 (2nd ed., Cambridge, U.S.A., 1840, p. 120). Various attempts have been made to give it a more distinctively Christian character, as in Knapp's "Wie sie so sanft ruh'n, alle die Seligen, Die taufer klingelten den grossen Lebenskampf," in the Pneumelos, Göttersloh, 1826, No. 266, and J. Y. Lange's Kirchenliederbuch, Gotha, 1843, No. 826, no author's name being given in either case. This form has been tr. as "How they so softly rest, All, all the happy dead," by Fanny Malone Ritter and Raymond, in Sermon Cards, 1896, dated 1891. [J. M.]

Stola regni laureatus, p. 1095, i. Another tr. is :—

1. In royal robes of splendour, in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., st. iii. of the old tr. by Jackson Nance and the Compilers has been rewritten by the compilers.
2. Robes of royal honour wearing, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, by T. T. Ball.

Stone, S. J., p. 1096, i. Of his hymns noted there the following appeared in Mission Life, 1872, vol. iii., pp. 81–83, 385–88. No. 1, "Far off our brethren's voices," for Colonial Missions, and No. 12, "Give the word, Eternal King," and No. 45, "Through midnight gloom from Macedon," for Foreign Missions." In addition the following are also in C. U. :—

1. Awake, O Lord, the zeal of those who stand. Intercession for the Clergy. In the Church Miss. H. Book, 1899.
2. England, by thine own Saint Alban. St. Alban. In C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903.
3. Our God of love Who reigns above. For Children. Appeared in the Church Monthly, July 1880, and Hys. A. & M., 1904. [J. J.]

Stowe, Harriet, p. 1096, ii. She d. at Hartford, Conn., July 1, 1890.

Strauss, V. F. von, p. 1097, ii. He d. April 1, 1899.

Strengthen for service, Lord, the hands. [Holy Communion.] This, in The Eccl. Hyl., 1906, is a metrical rendering of a prayer in the Malabar Liturgy (it is also in the Liturgy of the Nestorians; see F. E. Brightman's Liturgies Eastern and Western, 1896, p. 300) said by the Deacon while the people are communicating. It was versified by Mr. C. W. Humphreys (from the prose tr. in Dr. J. M. Neale's Liturgies of S. Mark, S. James, S. Clement, S. Chrysostom and the Church of Malabar, 1859, p. 150; Canon Brightman informs me that the Syriac text is in the Rome ed., 1844, of the Divine Missal of Malabar, which is the old Nestorian rite of the Christians of St. Thomas, as modified in South India in 1599), contributed to The Eccl. Hyl., and partly rewritten, with his consent, by Mr. Dearmer. [J. M.]

Stryker, M. W., pp. 1092, i.; 1325, ii. 7; 1413, iv. In 1892, Dr. Stryker became President of Hamilton Coll. and also received the LL.D. from Lafayette Coll. His College Hymnal, 1897, 1904, contains 28 of his hymns, the majority of which date 1890–1894. Of these "From doubt and all its sullen pain" (Faith), written in 1890, is found in other collections. Dr. Stryker d. in 1905. His Dies Iræ was pub. 1892, and his Lutermath (verse) 1896. [J. J.]

Stubbs, Charles William, D.D., was born at Liverpool, Sept. 3, 1845, educated at the Royal Institution School, Liverpool, and Sidney Sussex Coll., Camb.; B.A., in honours 1868, M.A. 1870, D.D. 1894. Ordained in 1868, he has held some of the most important positions in the Church, including the Deanery of Ely, and is now (1907) Bishop of Truro. His published works are numerous, but do not come, except in the most remote degree, into the realm of hymnology. In his Brightwell's Prayer, and Other Poems, 1899, the hymn "We hail Thee, King of kings! Imperial Christ" appeared (p. 66). In Horder's Worship Song, 1905, it is slightly altered and abbreviated as "We hail Thee, King of kings, Eternal Christ." [J. J.]

Sturm, J. C. R., p. 1109, i. He died at Leipsig, May 2, 1896.

Sublime Numen, ter potens, p. 1100, ii. In Chevalier's Repertorium, No. 19592, this is indexed as by Simon Gourdan, as in a MS. collection of his hymns in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Lat. 14839), and as printed in the Angers Brev. of 1717. In the Sens Brev. of 1726, and the Paris Brev. of 1736 (Asst., p. 156), it bears no signature. [J. M.]

Summae Deus clementiae, Mundique, p. 1101, i. The version, "Most Merciful! by Whom is sway'd," in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 176, is based on Chambers.

Summe Pater, O Creator, p. 1101, ii. F. W. Faber's tr. appeared in his The Rosary, and other Poems, 1845, p. 1, and again in his Jesus and Mary, 1852. In the latter it is dated "Rome, the Eve of St. Barnabas, 1843, Villa Strozzi."

Summers, Helen, was b. in 1857. Four hymns by her are in the Christian Endeavour Hyl., 1896, and are repeated elsewhere:—

1. Early in the morning, Lord, we come to Thee, Morning.

2. Master of the vineyard, hear. Workers with Christ. 1884; previously in the S. S. Chronicle.

3. Onward, upward lies the way. The Way to Zion.

4. That life is scarce worth living. Follow Christ. [J. M.]

Summi largitor praemii, p. 1102, ii. Another tr. is "O Thou Who dost accord us," in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 86. It is marked as J. W. Hewett and others, and is the tr. at p. 1102, ii., entirely rewritten in a different metre, not one line being the same as in 1829. In the 1906 ed. of Hys. A. & M., the old text, "O Thou Who dost to man accord," is repeated with alterations of the sixth line in each verse. [J. M.]

Summi Regis potentia, pp. 1103, i., and 1091, i. This is printed in Dreves, xii., p. 83, from a Paris MS. (Lat. 1256, Breviary of the use of Tulle) of c. 1100; a Troyes MS. of the 12th cent. (No. 807, Brevicary of the use of Langres), and others. It is also in a 12th cent. MS. at Evreux (No. 70, from Lyre, near Evreux), and in a 10th cent. MS. at Brussels (No. 1531). J. D. Chambers's tr., p. 1103, is in his Household Devotion, 1854, p. 312. [J. M.]

Sunset and evening star. Alfred Lord Tennyson. [Death and Burial.] In Lord Tennyson's Memoir of his father, vol. ii., p. 366, he gives this account of the writing of this hymn:—

"'Crossing the Bar,' was written in my father's eighty-first year, on a day in October (1889) when we came from Aldworth to Farringford. Before reaching Farringford he had the meaning of the bay in his mind, and after dinner he showed me this poem written out. I said, 'That is the crown of your life's work.' He answered, 'I hope it is the close.' I suggested the title 'Pilot' as 'That Divine and Unseen Who is always guiding us' . . . A few days before my father's death (1892) he said to me, 'Mind you put "Crossing the Bar" at the end of all editions of my poems.' . . . My father considered Elmsley Lockington's translation into Greek of 'Crossing the Bar' one of the finest translations he had ever read."

This tr. into Greek is given in the Memoir. The hymn was first pub. in Lord Tennyson's Demeter and other Poems, 1889, p. 174. [J. J.]

Supernae matris gaudia, p. 1103, i. Another tr. is:—

1. Joy and triumph everlasting, in the Victorian Hyl., 1869, No. 97, marked as "adapted by R. R." This is repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 187, and in The English Hyl., 1906.

2. The Church on earth, with answering love. This is in the Hymnary of the Religious Tract Society, 1872. "Poetry," in "History of Roman Literature," in the Encyc. Metropolitana, 1852. [J. M.]

Surrexit Christus hodie, p. 1104, i. Other trs. are:—

1. Jesus Christ is risen to-day, Alleluia! Sinners weep your fear, &c. By J. O'Connor in the Arundel Hyn., 1854.

2. On Easter Morn Christ rose again, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 443, mainly from J. W. Hewett.

3. On Easter-morn he rose again, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 2nd ed., 1905, No. 204. [J. M.]

Sutton, H. S., p. 1104, ii. He died in 1901.

Swain, J., p. 1105, i. He d. April 14 (not 16), 1796.

Sweet evening hour! Sweet evening hour! H. F. Lyte. [Evening.] From his Misc. Poems, 1835, p. 49, into Worship Song, 1905, and others.

Sweet land of rest, for thee I sigh. [Heaven desired.] The earliest date to which we have traced this hymn is the American Songs for the Sanctuary, 1865, where it is "Anon." In Hatfield's Church Hymn Book, 1872, it is given as by "G.M.—1829," but in several later collections the name of "Elizabeth Mills" is freely used. Beyond these ascriptions we have no evidence in favour of either. Sometimes the hymn begins "O land of rest," as in Sankey's Sac. Songs & Solos, 1881. [J. J.]

Sweet Mother, turn those gentle eyes. [B.V.M.] An anonymous hymn in the Catholic Parochial H. Bk., 1873, Toner's Catholic Hymns, 1876, and others.

Sweet Saviour, bless us ere we go, p. 1107, ii. Uniformity in the use of this hymn, so far as the text is concerned, seems impossible. Most of the leading collections differ from each other, both in the text and in the stanzas which are in use. All forms of the hymn should be collated with the original in Faber's Hymns, 1862, p. 251, if accuracy of detail is desired. [J. J.]

Sweet the moments rich in blessing, p. 1078, ii. In Church Hys., 1903, sts. v., vi. are from Cooke and Denton, Church Hyl., 1853, as on p. 1079, i.

Symonds, John Addington, M.A., s. of J. A. Symonds, b. at Bristol, Oct. 5, 1840; educated at Harrow, and Balliol Coll., Oxford, B.A. (double first) 1862, and Fellow of Magdalen 1862. Wrote extensively, especially on the History of the Italian Renaissance, and also pub. various vols. of verse. Died at Rome, April 19, 1893. His Life, by Horatio Brown, was pub. in 1895. His hymn: "These things shall be! a loftier race" (A Regenerated World), in The Meth. H. Bk., 1901, is from his New and Old, a volume of verse by John Addington Symonds, 1880, p. 225. It begins with st. iv. of "Sad heart, what will the future bring?," a poem entitled "A Vista." [J. M.]

Synesius, p. 1108, ii. A good popular account is Alice Gardner's Synesius of Cyrene, Philosopher and Bishop (S.P.C.K., 1886). More recent works include Synesius the Hellene, by W. T. Crossfield, B.D., London, 1901, which gives prose trs. of the hymns, and Charles Vellay's Etude sur les Hymnes de Synesius de Cyrène, Paris, 1904. [J. M.]

Syriac Hymnody, pp. 1109–1114. On p. 1113, ii. l. 11, read thus: "The Rev. J. B. Morris, in his Select Works of S. Ephraem the Syrian (Oxford, 1847), gives prose renderings of a large number of the hymns." Two hymns from the Syriac are in The English Hyl., 1906 (No. 194, 329). There are also several versions in R. M. Mocrom's Readerings of Church Hymns, 1901. [J. M.]

T.

T. C. W., in the American Hymnal: Amore Dei, 1890, i.e. T. C. Williams.

Τὰ τῆς γῆς ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς. [Ascension.] This is the Oicos after the sixth Ode of the Canon for Ascension Day, by St. Joseph the Hymnographer (see Ἀναστασιματάριον, p. 67, ii.), and is found in the Pentecostarion, Venice, 1836, p. 133. It was tr. as "Things of the earth in the earth will we lay," by Dr. J. M. Neale, in his Hys. of the Eastern Church, 1862, p. 150. This is found in two forms: (1) "The things of the earth in the earth let us lay," in the American Luth. Order of Worship, 1880; (2) "Vanities earthly in earth will we lay," in the 1876 ed. of Hys. of the Eastern Church, and in the St. Margaret's Hymnal, 1875. [J. J.]

Take up thy cross, the Saviour said, p. 1115, ii. The original text of this hymn is restored in the 1903 ed. of Church Hys.

Tandem luctus, tandem fluctus. Heinrich Lindenborn. [Advent.] In Lindenborn's Tochter Sion, Cologne, 1741, p. 37, in 7 sts. In Daniel, ii., p. 236, as "Tandem fluctus, tandem luctus." Tr. as:—

Storm and terror, grief and error. By J. M. Neale, in his Med. Hys., 1851, p. 168, repeated in G. R. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 4. [J. M.]

Ταχὺς εἰς ἀντίληψιν, μόνος ὑπάρχων Χριστέ. This is a Troparion in the Order of Holy Unction, in The Euchologion, Venice, 1807, p. 226. It is tr. as "Thou, Lord, hast power to heal," by J. Brownlie, from his Hys. from the Greek Office Books, 1904, p. 19, into The English Hyl., 1906. [J. J.]

Taylor, George Lansing, D.D., b. at Skaneateles, N.Y., Feb. 13, 1835, graduated at Columbia Coll., 1861, D.D. from Syracuse, 1876. Entered the Meth. Episcopal Ministry in 1862. His hymn, "Dare to do right! dare to be true" (Christian Courage), appeared anonymously in W. B. Bradbury's Golden Censer, 1864; and Bradbury's Clarion, 1867, as by "Rev. Geo. Lansing Taylor." In the S. School Hymnary, 1905. [J. M.]

Taylor, Helen, p. 1118, i., b. 1818, d. 1883.

Te Deum laudamus. The corrections of, and additions to, the article on this hymn have been inserted in the text at pp. 1119, i.–1120, ii., and 1907, i.–1908, ii. In both instances the whole history and notes as set forth in the revised edition as above should be read by the student of this great hymn. Several additional trs. have come to our notice since the list of those known to us in 1892 was given in this Dictionary; but as none have come into C. U., we cannot find space to record them here. The latest contribution to the history of this hymn is Te Deum en Blanks, by Dom Cagin, O.S.B., Lon., 1907. [J. J.]

Te Deum Patrem colimus. In the text, as printed at p. 1134, read i.–iii. 2, Iraic; v. 1, Trinite; v. 4, Oceanis. The date 1053 is probably the date of the hymn as well as of the tune. The Magdalen College tradition is that the hymn was composed by Dr. Thomas Smith (q.v.). The statements that a yearly charge of £10 on the Rectory of Slymbridge, Glouc., is used to pay the choristers for the 1st of May service on the top of the tower, and that this service is in place of a requiem mass formerly sung on the tower for the soul of Henry the Seventh, seem baseless (see H. A. Wilson's Magdalen College, 1899; Musical Times, June, 1900, &c.). Another tr. is:—

Father and God, we worship Thee. In the Book of Anthems for the use of the Temple Church, London, 1868, p. 274. [J. M.]

Te Joseph celebrent agmina coeli-tum. [St. Joseph.] This hymn has sometimes born ascribed to Pope Clement XI. The Office of St. Joseph containing this hymn, and also "Coelitum Joseph" (see pp. 241, i., and 1557, i.) and "Ite quem fecit," was, however, approved by the Congregation of Rites, Dec. 6, 1670, and authorised to be printed Nov. 21, 1671 (B. M. copy printed at Paris, 1672, in 3405. aaa. 23), under Pope Clement X. Text in recent eds. of the Roman Brev. and in Daniel, iv., p. 296. Tr. as:—

1710 TE LAETA THE ANGEL

1. Joseph, pure spouse of that immortal bride. By E. Caswall, in his Lyra Catholica, 1849, p. 134, repeated in the Parochial H. Bk., 1886, Arundel Hym., 1904, &c. 2. Joseph, spotless spouse of that immortal bride (1849 as "of purest mate"). By T. J. Potter, in the Cath. Psalmist, 1888, p. 89, repeated in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 232. [J. M.]

Te laeta mundi Conditor, p. 1134, i. Dr. Neale's tr.:—

Maker of earth, to Thee alone, is in the Christian Remembrancer, Oct. 1849, p. 328; and is repeated, slightly altered, in Murray's Hym., 1852, No. 28. In the Parochial Hy. Bk., 1863, it is materially improved, and is repeated in the St. Margaret's Hym., 1867, English Hyl., 1906, gives the 1849 text. [J. M.]

Te lucis ante terminum, p. 1135, i. Other trs. are:—

1. Ere yet in darkness ends the day. In the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 91, marked as "Tr. by R. B." 2. To Thee before the close of day. With l. 3, "As Thou art wont," in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 34, marked as by Campion. It is based on Chambers.

3. To Thee before the close of day. With l. 4, "Thine will," in the Hymnary, 1904, No. 104, alt. from Neale.

4. Now that the daylight dies away, given at p. 1135, ii. 8, is by W. J. Blew, in his Cant. Newman, in the Roman Breviary, 1838, p. 103. [J. M.]

Te Mater alma Numinis. [B. V. M.] This is the Lauds hymn in the office of the maternity of the B. V. M. (see "Coelo Redemptor," p. 1532, ii.), and is in the Romana Brev., Lisbon, 1736, Verona, p. 664 and later eds. Tr. as "Mother of Almighty God," by E. Caswall in his Lyra Cath., 1849, p. 178, repeated in the Birmingham Oratory H. Bk. and others. [J. M.]

Te matrem Dei laudamus, p. 1135, ii. The text of Mone is also in a 15th cent. ms. in the Bodleian (Rawl. B. 214). It is quite different from the text in Daniel, and Mone does not ascribe it to St. Bonaventure. [J. M.]

Telluris ingens Conditor, p. 1136, ii. The version "Earth's bounteous Maker! Whose command," in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, No. 166, is based on the Hyf. Noted tr.

Tempora florigero, p. 1139, i. Of this hymn there are three centos in C. U., each beginning Salve, festa dies. These, with their trs., are:—

i. Salve, festa dies. [Easter.] Additional trs. are:—

1. Hail thee! Festival day . . . God Who hath conquer'd hell, &c. In The Hymner, 1891 and 1904. 2. Hail festal day, whose glory never ends. (St. iii., "The Crucified is King.") By A. J. Mason, written in 1901, and included in Hys. A. & M., 1904.

3. Hail thee, Festival day . . . God, Who hath conquered hell. In the New Office H. Bk., 1905. It is in great measure the same text as No. 1 above.

4. Hail thee, Festival day . . . Day wherein God, &c. By M. F. Bell, in The English Hyl., 1906.

ii. Salve, festa dies. [Ascension.] Additional trs. in C. U. are:—

1. Hail thee, Festival day . . . Day when the Lord (our God) ascends. By G. H. Palmer, in The Hymner, 1901 and 1904.

2. Hail festal day, whose glory never ends. (St. iii., "Fair weather brings the flowers.") By A. J. Mason, written in 1901, and included in Hys. A. & M., 1904.

3. Welcome, Festival day . . . Day when our Lord ascends, &c. This, in the New Office H. Bk., 1905, is based on G. H. Palmer's tr. as above.

4. Hail thee, Festival day . . . Day when our God, &c. By P. Dearmer, in The English Hyl., 1906.

iii. Salve, festa dies. [Whitsuntide.] This omits in tr. as:—

1. Hail, Festal day, of never-dying fame. By A. J. Mason. Written in 1901, and included in Hys. A. & M., 1904. An eminently skilful tr., but not so adapted for congregational use as his trs. noted above.

In Church Hys., 1903, the (three) trs. are:—

1. Hail, Festal day . . . When Christ o'er death, &c. By Bridges.

2. Hail, Festal day . . . When God ascended, for Ascension.

3. Hail, Festal day: . . . When God's fair grace, &c. This is noted under "Salve festa," at pp. 1067, i. 1, and 1077, ii., and is not from Fortunatus.

These trs. are by T. A. Lacey, and were contributed to the Altar Hymnal, in 1884. [J. M.]

Τὴν ἡμέραν διελθοῦσαν, p. 1139, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., alt. 4 of Dr. Neale's revised tr. "The day is past and over" (2nd ed. of Hys. of the E. C., 1863), is re-written by the Compilers, and added to their former text thus making No. 19 a hymn of 5 stanzas. They have also restored the original tr., "Lover of men," in the last stanza. Church Hys., 1903, has the text of the old Hys. A. & M.; the Methodist H. Bk., 1904, the singular into plural, with other changes; and The English Hyl., 1906, a few alterations also. Other collections differ in like manner from the original. The version beginning "Dark'ning night the land doth cover," in the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 64, marked as "Adapted by R. B." is taken from the form in the Preces Privatae, 1675, of Bp. Andrewes (see F. E. Brightman's ed. 1903, pp. 107, 336). It is repeated in G. H. Woodward's Songs of Syon, 1904. [J. J.]

Tender softness! infant mild, p. 1210, ii. Appeared in The Christian's Mag., 1762, p. 185, as "A Mother's Soliloquy over her dying Infant. By Mrs. Wesley."

Tennyson, Alfred, Lord, p. 1202, i. The well known poem from his In Memoriam, 1850, "Ring out the old, ring in the new," is included in a few collections as a hymn. Lady Tennyson's hymn, "Great God, who knowest each man's need" (Evening), has passed from the Gordon Boys' Morning and Evening Hymns, Boosey & Co., n.d. (1886). p. 2, into a few collections. Lady Tennyson, née Emily Sellwood, was b. 1813, and d. 1896. Lord Tennyson, d. at Aldworth, Sussex, Oct. 6, 1892. [J. J.]

Τὴν πατρῴαν δόξαν σοῦ, Joseph of the Stadium. [Septuagesima.] This is the Contakion after Ode vi. of the Canon for Septuagesima in the Triodion (ed. Athens, 1896), tr. by J. Brownlie in his Hys. of the Greek Church, 1900, p. 29, as "Far from Thy heavenly care." Odes vi. and viii. were tr. by Dr. Neale, as noted on p. 198, ii. Mr. Brownlie's tr. was included in Church Hys., 1903. [J. J.]

The angel sped on wings of light. This is an altered form of Bp. W. W. How's

1711

THE BLIND THE LIGHT 1711

"Great Gabriel sped on wings of light." p. 940, ii. 15.

The blind man in his darkness. Cecil F. Alexander. [Blind Bartimaeus.] From her Narrative Hys., 1853, No. xiii., into several collections, including the Sunday S. Hymnary, 1905, and others.

The Church of God a Kingdom is. I. B. C. L. Muirhead. [The Church of Christ.] Contributed to the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 61, with the note at p. 18:—"By Lionel B. C. L. Muirhead, 1898; written for this book: after Van Eyck's picture of the "Worship of the Lamb." This picture, now in the Cathedral of St. Bavon at Ghent, was begun by Hubert van Eyck about 1420, and finished by his brother Jan in 1432 (the reproduction by the Arundel Society is one of the best of their issues). The hymn is repeated in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 488. [J. M.]

The Church triumphant in Thy love. This, in The English Hymnal, 1906, is a cento from C. Wesley's "Happy the souls to Jesus joined," sts. ii.–iv., p. 1088, i. 115.

The darkness now is over. [Morning.] Given with the initials "E. T." or anonymously in Mrs. C. Brock's Children's H. Book, 1881, No. 14, the Scottish Hymnal, 1884, the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, and others.

The day is done, the sacred day. This is a slightly altered form of "The day is done, the weary day," p. 1035, ii.

The day is ended; ere I sink to sleep. Harriet M. Kimball. [Evening.] From her Hymns, Boston, 1866, p. 62, into Horder's Worship Song, 1905.

The day, O Lord, is spent, p. 1147, ii. Dr. Neale's original form of this hymn was given in his Hys. for Children, 1843, as "Saviour, abide with us." His revised text, "The day, O Lord, is spent," appeared in the 2nd ed. of the Hys. for Children, 1844. The statement that "Saviour, abide with us" is a cento by Canon W. Cooke is an error. [J. J.]

The days of old were days of might, p. 1147, ii. This hymn is given to Miss Leeson in error. It is by F. W. Faber, and appeared in his Cherwell Water Lily and other Poems, London, 1840, p. 46, and entitled "The Signs of the Times." It passed into Miss Leeson's Songs of Christian Chivalry, 1848, without acknowledgment as from F. W. Faber. Hence the error in the ascription of authorship. [J. M.]

The earth, O Lord, is one great [wide] field. This, in Hys. A. & M., 1904, and other collections begins with st. iii. of Dr. Neale's "O God, we raise our hearts to Thee," p. 788, ii.

The first Noel the angel did say. [Christmas.] This is given in Davis Gilbert's Ancient Christmas Carols, 1823, No. ix.; in the Christmas Carols of W. Sandys, 1833, p. 74; Toner's Catholic Hys., 1836, and others.

The foe behind, the deep before, p. 1148, ii. The melody in Dr. Neale's Carols for Easter-tide, 1854, No. xxii., is taken from the Piae Cantiones, 1582 (p. 211, ii.), where it is set to "Auctor humani generis": the part used beginning at the words "Sic morte mortem destruis." Dr. Neale only takes a few phrases from the Latin, and his Carol is practically original. [J. M.]

The gloomy night embraced the place. R. Crashaw. [Christmas.] This, in Arundel Hym., 1905, is a cento from a carol in Crashaw's Steps to the Temple. In the ed. of 1646, p. 28, it is entitled "A Hymne of the Nativity, sung by the Shepheards," and begins "Come we Shepheards who have seene": in the ed. of 1648, p. 43, and in his Carmen Deo Nostro, 1652, p. 13, it begin "Come we shepheards whose blest Sight." [J. M.]

The gloomy night will soon be past, p. 1184, i. 6. This hymn appeared in the London Inquirer, Sep. 1840, p. 422.

The God of love, to earth He came. This, in the 1904 ed. of The Meth. H. Bk., No. 349, is composed of sts. iii. and iv. of the old Wes. H. Bk., No. 30 (see p. 602, i.), "Jesu, Thou all-redeeming Lord."

The grace of Jesus Christ the Son. C. Wesley. [For the Church.] From his Short Hymns, 1762, in a slightly altered form of "The merits of Jehovah's Son," into The Meth. Hymn-Bk., 1904. (P. Works, xiii., p. 60.)

The Homeland: Oh, the Homeland. [Heaven.] In the American College Hymnal, 1897, No. 369, this hymn is given as by "Hugh R. Hawels." In the Presb. New Ps. and Hys., Richmond, Va., 1901, the signature is the same, with the date "1855." On the other hand, in the English Cong. Sunday S. H. Bk., 1881, and others, it is attributed to "William Lindsay Alexander." We have failed to trace it to either author. [J. J.]

The hope of heaven's eternal days. This begins with st. ii. of Dr. W. Bright's "And now the wants are told," &c., p. 66, i. In this form it is in American use.

The King, O God, his heart to Thee upraiseth. [National Thanksgiving.] A fine hymn in the Yattendon Hyl., 1899, No. 74, with the note at p. 21:—"Jubilee Hymn, 1897, by R. B. Adapted from Ps. xxi. in Robert Tailour's 'Fifti Select Psalms,' set in five parts, 1615." The book of 1615 (Sacred Hymns, Consisting of Fifti, &c.; B. M. copy is K. 2. A. 18) has a version of Ps. xxi., but the Yattendon hymn does not borrow a single line from it, and does not even keep the metre. The text of 1899 is repeated in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 564. [J. M.]

The land our fathers left to us, pp. 921, ii., and 604, ii., together with its companion hymn, "The past is dark with sin and shame," are given in the first instance as by T. W. Higginson; and in the second instance as by S. Johnson. On Putnam's authority, in his Singers and Songs of the Liberal Faith, 1875, those hymns are by Higginson, and not by Johnson. [J. J.]

The light pours down from Heaven. Joseph Gostick. [Christian Service.] This, in the Pilgrim Hymnal, 1904, and others, begins with st. iv. of a piece in Gostick's Tales, Essays and Poems, London, 1848, p. 108, entitled "Light for all." The version "With honest heart" (noted at p. 530, i. under Kitty) is also by him, and is in his Spirit of German Poetry, 1845, p. 130. He d. 1867. [J. M.]

1712 THE LORD THERE IN

The Lord into His garden comes. [Christ in His Church.] Appeared anonymously in J. Leavitt's Christian Lyre, 1830, Pt. i., No. 22, and subsequently in several collections, including the American Baptist Hymnal, 1903.

The Lord is King, the earth submits, p. 1190. ii. This should read "The Lord is King, and earth submits."

The Lord is risen indeed, Now is His work performed. This hymn, in the Hys. A. & M., Supplemental Hys., 1889, and the Revised ed., 1904, is an altered form of sts. iii.-v., viii., viii., of T. Kelly's "The Lord is risen indeed," p. 1143, ii. [J. J.]

The Master comes! He calls for thee. E. M. Crawford, née Grimes. [The Missionary's Call.] In the C.M.S. Gleaner, Sept. 1896, p. 140, there is a notice of this hymn, and of the writer. The hymn is in the Ch. Missionary H. Bk., 1850, and is in great request at missionary meetings, &c. Miss Emily May Grimes went to Fondoland in 1880, and married in 1904 Dr. T. W. W. Crawford, Missionary of the C.M.S. at Kibuyu, British East Africa. [J. M.]

The morning, the bright and the beautiful morning. H. Bonar. [Child's Morning Hymn.] Appeared in his Bible H. Bk., 1845, No. 118; his Hys. of Faith and Hope, 1857, p. 157; and Hys. by Horatius Bonar, 1904, p. 35. It is given in several modern collections. [J. M.]

The New Year, Lord, we welcome make. T. H. Gill. [New Year.] Appeared in the 2nd ed. of his The Golden Chain of Praise, 1894, p. 211 in 10 st. of 4 l. and dated 1893. No. 698 in The Bap. Church Hpl., 1900, is a cento from the original. [J. J.]

The peace which God bestows. [Peace with God.] This was given in the American Hys. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 131, with the signature in the Index "Mrs. Hemans," the asterisk indicating that changes had been made in the text. In The Pilgrim Hy., 1904, the same text is repeated and also attributed to Mrs. Hemans. We have failed to trace it in her collected Works. [J. J.]

The radiant morn hath passed away, p. 1136, i. Under date of Oct. 24, 1899, the late Preb. Thring requested the Hymnal Committee of the S.P.C.K. to substitute the following as the second stanza in this hymn, in the then forthcoming revision of Church Hys., for the stanza usually found in the hymnals, including his own:—

"Our life is but an autumn sun
Its glorious noon how quickly past;
Lead us, O Christ, our life—work done,
Safe home at last."

"This," added Preb. Thring, "is my last and final emendation of this verse." This request was acceded to by the Committee as soon in the 1903 ed. of Church Hys., No. 31. This text is also in The English Hy., 1906. The text of the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. is that of Thring's H. Bk., 1882. [J. J.]

The rosy morn has rob'd the sky. An altered form of W. Cooke's tr. of "Aurora lucis rutilat," p. 94, i. 1, is given in a few American collections.

The sands of time are sinking, pp. 1164, ii., 1448, i. The cento in The English Church Hyl., 1900, was arranged by Mrs. Cousin, from her poem of 19 sts. for that collection. Mrs. Cousin was b. 1824.

The snow lay on the ground. [Christmas.] This appears to be a West of England traditional carol, and is given as such in R. R. Chope's Carols, 1875, No. 64, where it begins "The snow lay deep upon the ground." In the Crown of Jesus, 1862, No. 146, it begins "The snow lay on the ground" and is marked, with regard to the tune, as "Christmas Carol, sung in Rome by the Piffrari from the Abruzzi Mountains." The text of 1862 is in the Arundel Hys., 1902, and many others. [J. M.]

The Voice says, Cry! What shall we cry? H. Twells. [Missions.] Appeared in Hys., Sonnets and Other Poems for the Bicentenary of the S.P.G., 1900, No. 13, in 7 st. of 4 l., and again in Hys. A. & M., 1904, but in a slightly altered form. [J. J.]

Theodulph of Orleans appears to have been a native of Italy. He was brought to France by Charles the Great, perhaps when Charles returned from Italy in 781. He became Bp. of Orleans about 785, and soon afterwards also Abbot of Fleury. After the death of Charles he continued for some time on friendly terms with the Emperor Louis, but, falling under suspicion of being concerned in the plot in favour of Bernard of Italy, was imprisoned in 818, at Angers, where he seems to have died in 821, apparently on Sep. 18. There is a full and interesting sketch of his life and works in the Dict. of Chr. Biog., iii., pp. 983-989. See also Potthast's Bibl. Hist. Medii Ævi, 1896, vol. ii., p. 1038. The best and most recent ed. of his Carmina is in vol. i., Berlin, 1881, of the Poetæ Latini Ævi Carolini, which includes his famous "Gloria, laus et honor," p. 558, i. [J. M.]

There burns a star o'er Bethlehem town. E. Field. [Christmas.] The history of this hymn is set forth in the following letter from Dr. Stryker to the Rev. Dr. Benson of Philadelphia in answer to an enquiry respecting it:—

"The hymn was given me in 1893 in autograph by Eugene Field, whom in Chicago I knew well. He wrote it a little before Christmas. Probably it appeared in the Chicago News, in the 'Sharps and Flats' column. I know that he expanded it into the verse you name. As to the tune, I think it is unnamed, but a very fine one may given to use. I send it all as data for a hymn. Clinton, N.Y., Oct. 1903."

This original text is No. 73, in 4 st. of 6 l., in Dr. Stryker's College Hymnal, N.Y., 1897. The expanded text is, "As I was going to Bethlem-town." [L. F. R.]

There in the narrow manger, cold and blank. [Christmas.] This is in O. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1884, pt. ii., and marked as by "S. J., 1871." It is repeated in Arundel Hys., 1902.

1713

THERE IS THOU GRACIOUS 1713

There is a joy of heavenly birth. [Repentance.] From W. Young's Catholic Choralist, 1842, No. 208, into the Arundel Hys., 1902, as "It is a joy of heavenly birth."

There is a precious day. John Holland. [Youth for Christ.] This appeared on a broadsheet of Hys. for the Anniversary Sermons of the Red Hill (Wesleyan) Sunday School, which were preached in Carver Street Chapel, Sheffield, March 6, 1825; and again on a second broadsheet for the Sheffield Parh S. S. Sermons, July 6, 1828. In each instance the hymn is in 6 st. of 4 l. and signed J. H., i.e. John Holland. Hymns by Montgomery are also on the same sheet. (See Broadsheets, Julian Collection, Church House.) [J. J.]

There is a river pure and bright. J. Montgomery. [Hope of Heaven.] From his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 229, in 6 st. of 4 l. In the Rugby School Chapel Hymns, 1872 and 1906, it is abbreviated to st. i.-iv.

There is a voice of singing birds. [God's Voice.] This is given in Little Poems for Little People by M. S. C., n.d. (1847), p. 30, entitled "Voices": repeated in the S. School Hymnary, 1905, &c. In the School Hys., 1891, and others, it begins with st. ii., "There is a mother's voice of love." The tr., "Who has counted the leaves that fall" (p. 80, ii.) is in 1847, p. 56. [J. M.]

There is a voice of sovereign grace. This is a cento from I. Watts's "How sad our state by nature is," p. 538, ii.

There is an eye that never sleeps, p. 1137, i.; Wallace, J. C. At this place this hymn is given to James Cowden Wallace in error. It is by John Aikman Wallace, p. 1204, ii., and appeared in the Scottish Christian Herald, Sep. 28, 1839, p. 616. W. F. Stevenson, in his note thereon in his Hys. for the Church and Home, 1873, says that the original was furnished to him in 36. by Mr. Wallace's family, that the lines were not divided into stanzas, and that the received version of the text is an amended form required by the metre, and made by an unknown hand. Stevenson gives also specimen lines from the ms. [J. J.]

There'll be no dark valley when Jesus comes. [Light at Eventide.] Concerning this hymn, in Sac. Songs and Solos, 1903, Mr. Sankey says, in his My Life and Sac. Songs, 1906:—

"I arranged this hymn from the words which Mr. W. O. Cushing wrote for me, of which, however, I used only the first line, 'There'll be no dark valley when Jesus comes.'"

Its proper ascription is "W. O. Cushing and I. D. Sankey." [J. J.]

They come, God's messengers of love, p. 1168, ii. In Church Hys., 1903, R. Campbell's original text of this hymn is restored.

Thine for ever, God of love, p. 720, i. The original text of the five stanzas which constitute this hymn in Church Hys., 1903, was restored at the special request of Mrs. Maude. This restored text is also repeated in Hys. A. & M., 1904; and The English Hyl., 1906. An extended note of considerable interest is in Brownlie's Hys. & Hymn Writers of the Church Hymnary (London: H. Frowde, 1899), pp. 238-9. In the Strand Magazine of May 1895, there is a portrait of Mrs. Maude, and a facsimile of the original ms. [J. J.]

This is the day of Light, p. 1156, i. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., an additional stanza, "This is the day of Bread," is given. Canon Ellerton's revised and authorised text is No. 37 in Church Hys., 1903. It does not contain this stanza. [J. J.]

This night, O Lord, we bless Thee. J. D. Burns. [Evening.] From his Evening Hymns, 1857, p. 41, into a few collections.

Thomas of Kempen, p. 1167, ii. The hymns of Thomas a Kempis have been ed., with a short biographical notice, in Dreves, xlviii., Nos. 458-493. Nine of them have been separately annotated in this Dictionary.

Four were given with his name, viz., "Adsens mundi," at p. 33, ii.; "Jerusalem luminosa," at pp. 979, ii., and 793, i.; "Nec quisquam," at p. 793, i.; and "O qualis," at p. 885, ii.

The others are :—

"Apparuit benignitas," p. 76, i.; "En ego et dominus," p. 330, ii.; "In domo Patris," p. 562, ii.; "Quisquis vitæ immemor," p. 967, ii.; "Veni, veni, Rex gloriæ," p. 1216, i.

These are found in a Carlsruhe ms. of the 15th cent. (No. 368; this ms. also has "Jerusalem luminosa" and "Nec quisquam"), but they are neither in the Opera of Thomas, nor in the Zwolle mss. c. 1480, of his "Cantica Spiritualia" (see p. 1168, i.). Dreves is probably right in ascribing them to Thomas, but he does not give his reasons for doing so. [J. M.]

Thompson, A. E., p. 1168, i. He d. Feb. 8, 1895.

Thomson, Mary Ann, wife of John Thomson, Librarian of the Free Library, Philadelphia, was b. in London, England, Dec. 5, 1834. She has written several hymns and poems. To 1895, eight of these appeared in The Churchman (New York); and thirty-four in The Living Church (Chicago). Of her hymns the following were included in The Hymnal, Revised and Enlarged . . . The P. E. Church, U.S.A., 1892:—

1. Now the blessed Baptizing. [Consecration Hymn.] This is the "Hymn of Consecration" of 1892, which appeared in The Living Church, March 19, 1892.

2. O King of saints, we give Thee praise and glory. [All Saints.] First pub. in The Living Church, Nov. 8, 1891, in the form of 4 st. of 8 l. Repeated in 1892.

3. O Sion, haste, thy mission high fulfilling. [Missions.] No. 556 in The Hymnal, &c., 1892.

4. Saviour, for the little one. [Advent of a Child.] The Hymnal, &c., 1892, No. 347.

Mrs. Thomson's Christmas Carol, "Lo! amid the shades of night," appeared, with music by B. Cecil Klein, in The Churchman, N.Y., Dec. 19, 1891, and separately at Phila. in 1892. [J. J.]

Thou art coming, O my Saviour, p. 1146, i. The text in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. is a rearrangement with slight alteration of this hymn.

Thou gracious power Whose mercy lends. O. W. Holmes. [Meeting of Friends.]

1714

The Poetical Works of O. W. Holmes, Boston; 1881, vol. ii., p. 101, dated 1869; and again in the Cambridge ed. of his Complete Poetical Works, 1895, p. 129. It is included in The Baptist Church Hymn, 1900, and others. [J. J.]

Thou, Lord, art gone on high. This is a slightly altered form of Mrs. Toke's "Thou art gone up on high," p. 1183, ii.

Thou the cup of death didst drain. J. Austice. [Christ, the Example and Friend.] Pub. in his Hymns, 1836, No. 25, in 6 st. of 8 l. Included in the Hymnal appended to An Order of Prayer for Use in the Royal College of St. Peter, Westminster, 1889, of which he was a King's Scholar. [J. J.]

Thou Whose almighty word, p. 718, i. 2. This hymn, beginning "Thou Whose eternal word," was quoted by the Rev. Thomas Mortimer, M.A., Lecturer of St. Olave's, Southwark, and afternoon Lecturer at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, at the meeting of the London Missionary Soc. in Great Queen Street Chapel, London, on Thur., May 12, 1825, and was printed with a digest of the speech in the Evang. Mag., June 1825, p. 222. It was probably copied from the Magazine into the Friendly Visitor of July, 1825. [J. J.]

Though Angel's seal, though Prophet's fire, p. 1185, i. This hymn is an altered form of "Though Cowper's seal, though Milton's fire," by William Peter, in his Sacred Songs, 1828, p. 107. He d. Feb. 6, 1853.

Though lowly here our lot may be. William Gaskell. [Work for God.] This is sometimes dated 1827, but Miss Gaskell (under date Sept. 21, 1900), while certain of her father's authorship, and thankfully recording that "many people have felt helped by it," is unable to say where or when it was first printed. It is in Miss E. Courtauld's Ps., Hys. and Anthems, 1900, No. 422, and recently in the Cong. Ch. Hyl., 1887, Public School H. Bk., 1905, Worship Song, 1905, and others. [J. M.]

Three in One, and One in Three, p. 1171, ii. Additional altered forms of this hymn are:—

1. Dayspring of eternity! Shedding morn o'er earth and sea. In T. W. Chignell's Easter Oil, 1863, (p. 1135, ii.)
2. Light of life! eternally. In the 1884 ed. of the same collection.
3. Three in One! as deep and free. In Hunter's Hys. of Faith and Life, 1880 (as p. 1171, ii. 3, Lord to error); and A. W. Oxford's Hertwick Hyl., 1886. [J. M.]

Threlfall, Jennette, p. 1171, ii. Another piece, included in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, is "I'd choose to be a daisy" (Lambs of Jesus). In her Woodcarol, 1857, p. 97, entitled "The Child's Choice." Her "I think of Thee, O Saviour," is also from the same work.

Thring, G., p. 1179, i. He d. Sep. 13, 1903.

Through sorrow's path and danger's road. This, in the American Baptist Sursum Corda, 1898, No. 752, is a slightly altered form of H. K. White's "Through sorrow's night and danger's path," p. 1176, i. 3.

Through the silence of the night, [Christmas Carol.] This Carol, in A. E. Tozer's Catholic Hys., 1898, is ascribed to "H. Woodville."

Thrupp, J. F., p. 1178, ii. He became Vicar of Harrington, Cambridge, in 1832; and d. at Surbiton.

Thus far the Hand that loves to guide. A. S. Ayles. [Commemoration.] Written for the Jubilee of Marlborough College, 1893, and included in Hys. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough Coll., 1899.

Thus heaven is gathering one by one. E. H. Bickersteth. [Life Eternal.] Pub. in his Water from the Well Spring, 1832, p. 184, at the end of the Poem The Voice of Youth Renewed; also in his Two Brothers, ed. 1872, p. 218, entitled, "Death and Victory." It is sometimes given as "So heaven is gathering," &c. This form of the hymn is attributed at p. 1464, ii., to F. D. Huntington in error. [J. M.]

Thwaites, Clara, née Hepworth, dr. of the Rev. Robert Hepworth, for some time P.C. of Tredington, Gloucestershire, was b. at Twekesbury in 1830, and m. in 1869 to the Rev. H. G. Thwaites, now (1907) Vicar of Limber Magna, Lincolnshire. Her earliest poetical efforts were pub. in The Youth's Magazine. Since 1880, she has contributed extensively to the Sunday Magazine, The Girl's Own Paper, Home Words, The Fireside, and other publications. Many of her hymns were written for the Church Miss. Gleaner. In this periodical the following, except No. 2, appeared:—

1. O world of pride, Thrice vain was. [Missions.] In the C.M.S. Gleaner, May, 1881, p. 50, and entitled "Success at Home."
2. The red cross of our banner. [Missions.] In the Church Miss. S. Bk., 1889.
3. The sunset burns across the sky. [Missions.] In the C.M.S. Gleaner, Nov. 1886, p. 171. Written for the Gleaner Union Anniversary, Oct. 31, 1886.

These hymns are of more than ordinary merit, and are included in the Church Miss. Hl. Bk., 1899. Mrs. Thwaites's Songs for Labour and Leisure, a collection of her poems, was pub. in 1885.

Thy mercy, Lord, is in the heavens. [Ps. xxxvi.] In the American Presb. New Ps. and Hys., 1901, No. 98, this is given as "Francis Rouse, pub. 1646." It is an extract from the Scottish Psalter of 1650, and is here given in full as a typical specimen of that version, from the small octavo ed. printed by Evan Tyler at Edinburgh, 1650:—

5 "Thy mercy, Lord, is in the heavens;
Thy truth doth reach the clouds.
6 Thy justice is like mountains great;
thy judgements deep as floods;
7 "Lord, thou preservest man and beast.
how precious is thy grace!
Therefore, in shadow of thy wings,
mens sons their trust shall place.
8 "They, with the fatness of thy house,
shall be well satisfied:
From rivers of thy pleasures, then wilt drink to them provide.
9 "Because of life the fountain pure remains alone with thee:
And in that purest light of thine,
we clearly light shall see."

The 1640 ed., printed by Tyler in 1643, reads, l. 1, heav'ns; l. 4, floods; and l. 7, Therefore, on shadows wing. These readings are found in eds. of the Scottish Psalter till about 1710.

On tracing these lines to their sources we find that the version of Sir William Mure (pp. 777, ii.; 1039, ii.) has the following:—

"Thy mercie (Lord) is in the heavens;
thy truth the clouds doth reach.
Hence under shadow of thy wings
men's sons their trust do place."

The 1638 ed. of Rous (p. 1036, ii.) has:—

"Therefore in shadow of thy wings
mens sons their trust shall place
They with the fatnes of thy house well satisfi'd shall bee. . . .
"Because of life the fountaine pure,"

The 1641 ed. of Rous (p. 1033, i.) gives also:—

"Heer mercie (Lord) thy glorious Extendes to the heavens thou."

The 1645 ed. of Zachary Boyd (p. 1477, ii.) has:—

"We clearly light shall see."

No single line seems to be derived from any of the eds. of William Barton (pp. 116, ii.; 1023, ii., &c.)

This analysis shows that ll. 1, 2, 8 are practically Mure; ll. 7, 9, 10, 13 practically Rous, 1638; ll. 6, 14 are Rous, 1640; and l. 16 is Boyd, 1648. The rest seems to be the work of the Committee who compiled the version of 1650 (see 1023, i.). [J. M.]

Thy presence, everliving God. This is a centō much altered from P. Doddridge's "Thy presence, everlasting God" (p. 206, ii. 16), in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1794.

Thy Temple is not made with hands. Cecil F. Alexander. [Consecration of a Church.] This hymn is in Mrs. Alexander's Poems, 1896, p. 40, as a "Consecration Hymn." Its date has not been determined.

Τί σοι προσενέγκωμεν, Χριστὲ. St. Anatolius. [Christmas.] This hymn is a Conclusion early in the Canon for Christmas Day. The original Greek is in Dr. Littledale's Offices from the Service-Books of the Holy Eastern Church, 1863, p. 57, and his prose tr. at p. 175. Mr. Brownlie's tr., "What shall we bring to Thee?" in his Hys. of the Greek Church, 1900, p. 30, is an expanded paraphrase rather than a literal tr. [J. J.]

Tidman, Paul Frederick, was b. 1836, and lived in the East from 1852 to 1864, some time with Rajah Brooke in Sarawak. From 1865 to his death he was partner in an East India firm in Leadenhall St., London. In 1888 he was made C.M.G. in recognition of his services to the Straits Settlements. He d. Jan 27, 1889, at Chiselhurst, Kent. Under the name of Mark Evans he pub. a number of religious books for children, charmingly written from an "undogmatic" standpoint. His hymn:

Father, dearest Father, Now the sun has come [Morning], is in his Story of our Father's Love, 1873, p. 182. It is repeated in his S. S. Hymnary, 1905, and others, sometimes as "Father, Holy Father." [J. M.]

'Tis enough, the hour is come, p. 1177, ii. This hymn we have found in The Christian's Magazine, 1769, p. 186. It subsequently appeared in J. Merrick's Poems.

'Tis faith supports my feeble soul. B. Beddome. [Faith.] From his Hymns, &c., 1817, No. 13.

'Tis my happiness below, p. 1178, i. From the MS. volume described under Cowper, W., p. 1825, ii., this hymn, on p. 209, is given as "by Mr. W. C. of Olney, 1773." This shows, as stated at p. 1178, i., that it was a companion hymn to "God moves in a mysterious way," and was written at or about the same time, and before his attempted suicide in October 1773. In the MS. st. ii., l. 7, reads:—

"Trials beg me at His feet,
Lay me low and keep me there."

When printed it was altered to:—

"Trials bring me to His feet,
Lay me low and bring me there."

See Notes & Queries, Sept. 24, 1904. [J. J.]

To do Thy holy will. [Love's Response.] This hymn is ascribed in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904, and others to G. Cooper, p. 1868, i.

To God I lift mine eyes. An altered form of Watts's "Upward I lift mine eyes," p. 1241, i. 413, in M. W. Stryker's College Hyl., 1897.

To my humble supplication. Joseph Bryan. [Ps. xxxvi.] This, in The Bap. Hyl., 1906, No. 98, is from a MS. c. 1620 in the Brit. Mus. (Harl. 6930, f. 67) where it begins "To myne." Both Mr. E. Farr (Select Poetry, pt. ii., 1845, 322; see also pp. 223, i., 225, ii., 227, ii. of this Dict.) and Mr. W. T. Brooke print it under the name of Francis Davison, but in the MS. it is marked Finis. J. B. Probably they followed the transcript (Harl. 3357, f. 39), by Ralph Crane (see p. 223, ii.), where it is marked "Fra Da." [J. M.]

To sacrifice, to share. [The Bread from Heaven.] An anonymous and undated hymn, entitled "The Hidden Manna," in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904.

To the Cross, Thine altar, bind. From C. Wesley's "Lord, and is Thine anger gone?" p. 1261, ii. 52.

To the hall of the feast came the sinful and fair. J. J. Cullenan. [St. Mary Magdalene.] This is given in his Beehive of Inchidony and other Poems, London, 1830, p. 108. It is repeated in W. Young's Cath. Chevalier, 1845, in I. D. Sankey's Songs and Solos, 1878, and others, generally reading "the sinful and fair." The author was b. at Cork in 1795, and d. at Lisbon in 1829. [J. M.]

To Thee Whose temple is all space. A centō from A. Pope's "Father of all, in every age," p. 800, ii., given in a few American collections as Amen.

To-day Thy gate is open. This, in the Boston Hys. for Church and Home, 1885, is composed of sts. iv., iii. of O. Allen's "To-day Thy mercy calls me," p. 1181, i.

Toke, Emma, née Leslie, p. 1181, i. She d. in 1878, not in 1872.

Tomkins, H. G., p. 1203, ii. He d. at Weston-super-Mare, Feb. 21, 1907, in his 81st year.

Toms, Alfred Augustus, (LL.B., of Downing Coll., Camb., B.A. 1879, D. 1879, P. 1881, who, after holding several charges both as Curate and Incumbent, became Vicar of Keswick, Wisbech, in 1902, contributed the following hymns to C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903:—

1. All praise to Thee, O God, that Thou didst link. Union with God in Christ.
2. Almighty God, Whose gracious hand. God in Nature.
3. Lighten our darkness, gracious Lord. Evening.
4. O Great Redeemer, Lord of Ye nline. After a Fatality.

[J. J.]

Τῶν ἱερῶν ἀθλοφόρων, p. 1188, i. In the Church Hys., 1903, and Hys. A. & M., 1904, Dr. Neale's st. iii. is restored in the tr. "Let our choir new anthems raise."

Trevelyan, William Bouverie, M.A., of Trinity Coll., Camb., B.A. 1876, M.A. 1879; D. 1877, P. 1878. From 1881–84 Vice-Principal of Ely Coll., and 1884 Vicar of St. Matthew's, Westminster. Contributed to C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903, "Father, see Thy children bending at Thy throne" (Holy Communion). This was repeated with the omission of the refrain in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. J.]

Trinitas, Unitas, Deitas, pp. 1188, ii.; 1189, ii. Dreves, xx., p. 219, gives this as "Trinitas, Deitas, Unitas," from a 13th cent. MS. at Sens, whose it is entitled "Versiculus": and forms part of an Office for the Feast of the Ass (intended to commemorate the Flight into Egypt), as revised by Pierre de Corbeil. In a previous part of the Office is a "Conductus ad Tubulam," sung when the ass, after being conducted through the streets, had taken its stand beside the high altar; the well-known melody is in H. A. & M. (1889), named Rothbad No. 45; 1904, more correctly entitled "Orientis Partibus"): the Fresh. Ch. Hymnary, 1898, and others. In Dreves, xlvii., p. 348, it is given as "Hosanna, Trinitas, Unitas, Deitas," from various Italian, French and German sources – some being earlier than Pierre de Corbeil – e.g., a Piacenza Troper of c. 1100. [J. M.]

Trope, p. 1186, ii. In recent years a good deal of attention has been paid to this form of liturgical composition. Léon Gautier devoted the first, and only, volume of his Histoire de la Poésie Liturgique au Moyen Age, Paris, 1886, entirely to the history of the use, origin and fall of Tropes, and to the description of the Tropers in which they are found. A. Reinens printed the Tropes of the use of Prüm and Echternach (10th and 11th cent.) in his Tropen-, Prosen- und Präfationen-Gesänge, 1884, and indexed others from a variety of early MSS. in his Unbekannte Tropen-Gesänge, 1887. W. H. Frere prepared for the Henry Bradshaw Society a most careful and interesting ed. of the Winchester Troper (1894), from the two Winchester Tropers noted at p. 1042, ii. (c and e), with additional matter from b, h, z and other sources, prefaced by an introduction which contains all an English reader needs to know. A few fragments of a Troper were ed. by U. Chevalier from a 13th cent. MS. at Assisi (695) in his Bibliothèque Liturgique, vol. vii., 1900, pp. 358–367; and in vol. ix., 1901, the tropes of a Moissac MS. of the 11th cent., now in the Bibl. Nat., Paris (Nouv. Acq. 1871) were ed. by Camille Daux as part of his Tropaire-Prosier de l'Abbaye Saint-Martin de Montauriol. The most complete collection of Tropes will be the Tropi Graduales: Tropen der Missale im Mittelalter, ed. by Clemens Blume and H. M. Bannister, of which vol. i. (xlvii. of the Analecta Hymnica) appeared in 1905, with 495 Tropes, classified as they are Tropes to the "Kyrie," to the "Gloria," to the "Regnum tuum solidum," to the "Sanctus," to the "Hosanna," to the "Agnus Dei," and to the "Ite, missa est." They have been collected from 120 Tropers, of which Nos. 1–41 were written in France, 42–75 in Germany, 76–112 in Italy, 113–122 in England, and 123–126 in Spain. A second vol. (xlix. of the Analecta Hymnica), appeared in 1906, with 786 Tropes, classified as they are Tropes to the "Introit," to the "Epistle," to the "Gradual," to the "Offertory," and to the "Communio." [J. M.]

Troutbeck, John, D.D., s. of George Troutbeck, of Durn., Cumberland, b. Nov. 12, 1832, and educated at Rugby and Univ. Coll., Oxford, B.A. 1856, M.A. 1858, and D.D. by Abp. of Cant. 1883. Ordained in 1855. He held several appointments, the most important being Chaplain and Priest in Ordinary to the Queen, Minor Canon of Westminster, 1869, and Sec. to the N. Test. Revision Company, 1870–1881. He d. Oct. 11, 1899. He made a few trs. from the German, but is best known through his Manchester Psalter and Chant Book, 1867, and his Cath. Paragraph Psalter, 1894. He also compiled the Westminster Abbey H. Bk., 1883. [J. J.]

True Light, that lightest all in heaven and earth. G. Thring. [Heaven.] Written in 1888 to tune 193 in the Chorale Book for England (see p. 733, i.) and included in Church Hymns, 1903.

Tu Christe, nostrum gaudium, p. 1186, ii. Additional trs. are:—

1. O Christ, our Joy, gone up on high (with l. 2 "To Thee all power"), in Hys. A. & M., 1904, No. 161, is marked as by T. Morgan. Only the two opening lines are by Mr. Morgan, and he is not responsible for—
"To Thee all power and glory be, Thou Son Towards the Father's bright throne."
Sts. v., vi., are from Hys. A. & M., 1861, No. 123.
2. O Christ, our Joy, in Whom rejoice. A tr. by L. Housman, in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Tu qui velatus facie, p. 1187, i. This is also in two 14th cent. MSS. in the B. M., viz. Harl. 1260, ff. 70–77b, and Add. 14845, ff. 2–4b. The five parts as noted at p. 1187, i. (with a sixth "Qui pressura mortis dura" for vespers), are given as parts of an "office of the Passion of the Lord," in vol. vi. of the Opera of St Bonaventura, Mainz, 1609, p. 417. [J. M.]

Tuttiett, Jr., p. 1188, ii. He was b. at Colyton, not Cloyton, Devonshire, in 1825. His hymns "As now Thy children lowly kneel (For the Young), and "Give light, O Lord, that we may learn" (The Light of Life) are in Hys. A. & M., 1904. [J. J.]

'Twas God that made the ocean. (God the Author and Maker of all things.) This hymn appeared anonymously in the Church of England Sunday School H. Book, 1808, and has been repeated in several collections, including The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900. It has been traced to G. B. Bubier's Hys. and Sacred Songs, 1855, No. 14. [J. J.]

Twells, H., p. 1189, i. Canon Twells was b. on March 13, 1823, at Ashted, Birmingham, and d. at Bournemouth, Jan. 19, 1900. His Memoir, by W. Chavell Ingram, D.D., was pub. in 1901. His Hys. and other Sacred Verse, appeared in 1901. From it the following additional hymns have come into C. U.:—

1. Spirit of Truth and Might, 'Tis Thee alone can teach. [Our Words.] On "The Responsibility of Speech," p. 26. In the Sunday S. Hymnary, 1905.

2. The day of Pentecost is fully come. [Whitsuntide.] Usually the second stanza is taken as the opening of this hymn. Its form it is given as "O Abide, O Lord, as in the days of old," in Hys. A. & M., 1904, the Sunday S. Hymnary, 1905, and other coll. [J. J.]

Unitarian Hymnody, American. See American Hymnody, § viii.

Unitarian Hymnody, English, pp. 1191, i.–1197, i. Since the issue of this Dictionary in 1892, the following details concerning Unitarian hymnody are of interest:—

1. Dr. Martineau's Hys. of Praise and Prayer, published at the beginning of 1874 (the Preface is dated Dec. 1, 1873) steadily made its way for nearly twenty years among the congregations of that "Nonconformist Broad Church" for which it was designed, taking the place of his own and other earlier books; but in 1890 another collection came into the field, published by the British and Foreign Unitarian Association, to provide for missionary and congregational use a cheaper book in smaller compass:—

The Rivers Hall Hymnal, compiled under the direction of the Executive Committee of the British and Foreign Unitarian Association. London: Rivers Hall, Rivers St., Strand, 1890. This was a collection of 512 hymns, of which 348 were not in Hys. of Praise and Prayer. 32 of these were in Dr. Martineau's earlier book, but the rest were from other and largely from more modern sources, including 27 by living British and American writers. The Index of authors included 227 names, of which 85 did not occur in Hys. of Praise and Prayer.

This book was welcomed as a good modern collection for popular use, but it was capable of great improvement. This was effected twelve years later in a revised edition:—

The Rivers Hall Hymnal Revised. London: Philip Green, 5, Essex St., Strand. 1902. Practically a new book, this collection has 534 hymns, of which only 364 are in the first edition. The number of hymns in these books by Unitarians may be seen from the following comparative figures:—In 1890, of the churches in England on the roll of the Rivers Hall Year Book, 197 used Hys. for the Christian Church and Home and 69 Hys. of Praise and Prayer. In 1902 the use of the latter book had fallen to 14, while 3 churches had adopted the Rivers Hall Hymnal. In 1902 the use of Martineau's two books had further declined to 32 and 51 respectively, while 101 were using the first and 61 the revised Rivers Hall Hymnal.

2. Of other recent books one of the most interesting is:—

Christian Hymns, Edited and Arranged by the Rev. Shepherd A. Brooke, B.A. London: Macmillan & Co., 1901. A collection of 375 hymns, and not 300 of them common to it and the original edition of 1881. It has 30 hymns by the editor himself. In 1901 the book was re-issued, with some revision of the text and an index of authors added.

3. Another book of special interest was that edited by the Rev. J. Estlin Carpenter, M.A., for use at the chapel services in Manchester College, then just established at Oxford. The book was privately printed but not published. It is:—

Hymns for use in Manchester College, Oxford. Privately printed, 1894. It is a collection of 283 hymns, "chosen with a view to the requirements of a college training man for the ministry of religion." A few hymns of the hymns are added at the end, and a biographical index of authors.

4. With these, the following books may be also named:—

Hymns for Church and Home. The Free Christian Church, Croydon, 1891. (A special revised edition of the South Place hymn-book, of which the nucleus was W. J. Fox's Hymns and Anthems, 1841. Edited by the Rev. J. Page Hopps.)

The Berwick Hymnal: Compiled by the Rev. A. W. Oxford, M.A., Vicar of St. Luke's, Berwick St., John. Third Edition, Revised by the Rev. Charles Hargrove, M.A., Vicar of St. Mary's, Islington. 1898. (A special edition "for the use of those congregations which commonly pass under the Unitarian name, but are in reality free, by their trust-deeds, from any dogmatic profession, either of belief or disbelief." A collection of 534 hymns, used by a few congregations.)

Hymns for Christian Worship. A Revised Edition of the Hymns for Christian Worship, and a Selection of Hymns for Christian Years. London: Philip Green, 5, Essex St., Strand, W.C., 1896. (The hymn-book of the Ullet Road Church, Liverpool. Edited by a special committee of the congregation.)

5. Of Children's Hymn-books there are three in current use among Unitarians:—

Hymns for Music and Voice. Second edition. London: The Sunday School Association. Essex Hall, Essex St., Strand, W.C., 1897. (Edited by Charlotte Fiennes. First ed., Hymns and Tunes, 1879.)

The Sunday School Hymnal. Fourth Edition, Revised, 1902. With Supplement and Musical Index. London: The Sunday School Association, Essex Hall, Essex St., Strand. (Edited by the Rev. Dendy Agate, B.A.; as was the third edition, 1891. The first ed. was brought out more than forty years earlier than that.)

Hymns and Tunes for Sunday Schools. Manchester District Sunday School Association, 1901. (A collection which grew out of a series of annual Whitsuntide Hymn-papers, with words and music together.)

6. One other book for congregational use remains to be noted:—

The New Hymnal with Music. The New Hymnal: Words Only. London: Nimmo & Co., 1901. This book is offered "to the Broad Churches of Nonconformity," as a successor to Dr. Martineau's Hymns of Praise and Prayer, for the use of a new generation, embodying much of the new material of recent years. It is published in two forms, the one with words and music on each page, with the hymns, the other with words only. It is announced as "compiled by a few friends for use in Churches of the Liberal Faith," by the Rev. Joseph Wood of Birmingham being chairman of the committee, and the Rev. Henry Gow, of Hampstead, secretary. It is a collection of 618 hymns, of which 359 are also in the Rivers Hall Hymnal, and 348 in Dr. Martineau's Hymns of Praise and Prayer. The authors number 241. The book aims to be "as broad and inclusive in its tone as the outlook of Liberal Christianity, and as the conditions of our Free Church life." A change of emphasis, as indicated in the preface, is to be found in the hymns collected "to set forth the Kingdom of God, with the clearer light of the great mystic conception of the Divine Immanence, and, on the other hand, to a growing sense of the divinity of human duty." How far The New Hymnal will meet the present religious needs of the churches, or prove practically more serviceable than the Revised Rivers Hall Hyl., time and use have still to test.

7. Of recent and living Unitarian hymn-writers in England, not hitherto noted in this Dictionary, the following are the chief, with the best-known of their hymns added:—

Agate, Dendy, B.A., b. 1848. Unitarian Minister, since 1898 at Altrincham, editor of the 3rd and 4th eds. of the Sunday School Hymnal, 1891 and 1902. His hymns are:—

1. Great God, Whose presence still abides. Harvest.
2. Lent of the silent winter. The Changing Seasons.
3. O Thou, to Whom our voices rise. Litany of Work and Worship.

Blatchford, Ambrose Nichols, p. 145, i. Since 1886 Minister of Lewin's Mead, Bristol. His Songs of Praise for Home and Church, a collection of 56 hymns, was pub. in 1897. Additional hymns by him are:—

1. Our many hearts descending. Close of 2 hool Anniversary.
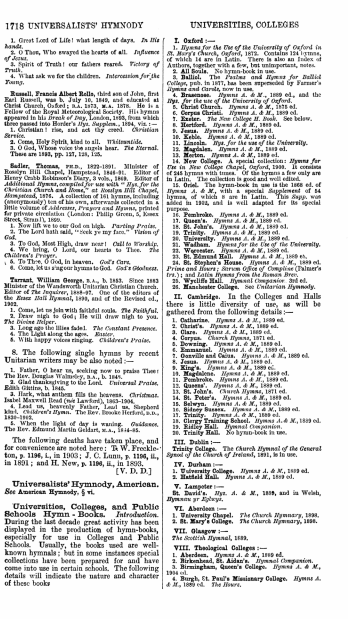
2. Silent and soft, the first faint gleam of day. Christmas.

Gladness, Andrew, b. 1848. Since 1886 Minister of Westgate Chapel, Wakefield. Editor of Modern Hymns, privately printed in 1891 for the use of his congregation. A collection of 630 hymns, with much modern material, considerable adaptations, and 25 of his own hymns.



1718 UNIVERSALISTS' HYMNODY

1. Great Lord of Life! what length of days. Its His hands.
2. O Thou, Who swayed the hearts of all. Influence of Jesus.
3. Spirit of Truth! our fathers reared. Victory of Truth.
4. What ask we for the children. Intercession for the Young.

Russell, Francis Albert Xelis, third son of John, first Earl Russell, was b. July 16, 1849, and educated at Christ Church, Oxford; B.A. 1872, M.A. 1876. He is a Fellow of the Archæological Society, and has been elected to the Royal Commission, 1892, from which he passed into Border Highlands, 1894, 1896, 1898.

1. Christian! rise, and see thy creed. Christian Service.
2. Come, Holy Spirit, kind to all. Whitsuntide.
3. O God, Whose voice the angels hear. The Eternal.

These are 1892, pp. 127, 128, 129.

Sadler, Thomas, M.D., 1822–1891. Minister of Rosslyn Hill Chapel, Hampstead, 1848–91. Editor of Henry Crabb Robinson's Diary, 3 vols., 1869. Editor of Additional Hymns, compiled for use with "Hymns for the Christian Church and Home," at Rosslyn Hill Chapel, Hampstead, 1876. A collection of 101 hymns, including (approximately) ten of his own, afterwards collected in a volume of Hymns and Anthems for Public Worship and for private circulation (London: Philip Green, 5, Essex Street, Strand), 1899.

1. Now lift we to our God on high. Parting Praise.
2. The Lord hath said, "seek ye my face." Vision of God.

3. To God, Most High, draw near! Call to Worship.
4. We bring, O Lord, our hearts to Thee. The Children's Prayer.
5. To Thee, O God, in heaven. God's Care.
6. Come, let us sing our hymns to God. God's Goodness.

Tarrant, William George, B.A., b. 1843. Since 1882 Minister of the Wandsworth Unitarian Christian Church. Editor of The Inquirer, 1888–90. Editor of the 1st edition of the Essex Hall Hymnal, 1896, and of the Revised ed., 1902.

1. Come, let us join with faithful souls. The Faithful.
2. Draw nigh to God; He will draw nigh to you. The Divine Nearness.
3. Thou Light within this fabric fair. The Constant Presence.
4. The Light along the ages. Mission.
5. With happy voices singing. Children's Praise.

8. The following single hymns by recent Unitarian writers may be also noted :—

1. Father, O hear us, seeking now to praise Thee! The Rev. Douglas Wilson Thom, M.A.
2. Glad thanksgiving to the Lord. Universal Praise. Edith Gittins, b. 1846.
3. Hark, what anthem fills the heavens. Christmas. Isabel Maxwell Hood (nee Lawford), 1863–1896.
4. Lead us, heavenly Father, Lead us. Shepherd of Children's Hymns. The Rev. Brooke Herford, D.D., 1820–1904.
5. When the light of day is waning. Guidance. The Rev. Edmund Martin Goldart, M.A., 1844–95.

The following deaths have taken place, and for convenience are noted here: In W. Frockleton, p. 1196, l., in 1903; J. C. Lunn, p. 1196, ii., in 1901; and H. New, p. 1196, ii., in 1893.

Universities, Colleges, and Public Schools Hymn - Books. Introduction. During the last decade great activity has been displayed in the production of hymn-books, especially for use in Colleges and Public Schools. Usually, the books used are well-known hymnals; but in some instances special collections have been prepared for and have come into use in certain schools. The following details will indicate the nature and character of these books

UNIVERSITIES, COLLEGES

I. Oxford :—
1. Hymns for the Use of the University of Oxford in St. Mary's Church, Oxford, 1875. Contains 104 hymns, of which 14 are in Latin. There is also an Index of Authors, together with a few, but unimportant, notes.
2. All Souls. No hymn-book in use.
3. Balliol. The Psalms and Hymns for Balliol College Chapel, 1868, was superseded by Farmer's Collects and Carols, now in use.
4. Brasenose. Hymns A. & M., 1889 ed., and the Hymns for the use of the University of Oxford.
5. Christ Church. Hymns A. & M., 1875 ed.
6. Corpus Christi. Hymns A. & M., 1889 ed.
7. Exeter. The New College H. Book. See below.

18. Wells. Hymns A. & M., 1889 ed.

IX. Public Schools. These schools we give first in the order in which they appear at pp. 936–40, and we then add those in which we find hymn-books are now in use, in alphabetical sequence.

1. Rugby. The earliest collection noted at p. 937, i., as having been in use at Rugby, is dated 1837. We have found, however, that a small collection was issued as early as 1824. It is The Psalms, Doxhamn and Hymns used in the Chapel of Rugby School. Rugby, Printed by and for Rowell & Son, 1824. So far as we can ascertain, this was the first hymn-book used in any of the schools, with the exception of the Eton Morning, Evening, and Midnight Hymns at Winchester, was the original of all the modern collections in all the Public and quasi-Public Schools in the country.

Another, and possibly the second book, is Psalms and Hymns selected for the Use of Rugby Chapel, Rugby. Rugby, Printed by Crossley and Fletcher, 1828.

The collection now (1906) in use is Hym. for the Use of Rugby School. Edited by Dr. H. A. Jaxon, 1906. It contains 364 hymns.

2. Harrow. A fourth and enlarged ed. of the Harrow book was pub. in 1881; and that now in use 1895. The new features of the collection are very few, but taken as a whole it contains a large proportion of the best-known hymns in common use.

3. Haileybury. The collection at present (1906) in use was published in 1893, during the Head Mastership of Dr. G. C. Bell. The general character of this edition is set forth in the Preface: "In the present edition, besides the Anthems, some fifty Hymns and Sacred Poems have been removed, and their places filled with others which seemed better or more suitable. The Hymns for Festivals and Holy Days are distributed in the body of the book; those written in 1892 for the Jubilee of the College have been added; some few amendments made in the text of certain Hymns; and the short historical notes revised."

The Jubilee hymns referred to are "O Jesu, strong and gentle," by Dr. Bell; "O Father, who dost love," by W. Shaw; "O Father, all creation," by Dr. Bell; and "Thou, Who hast loved us from Thy Throne," by Dean Farrar; and "Thou far the Hand that loves to guide," by Archdeacon Agles.

4. Cheltenham. The collection now (1906) in use at Cheltenham is Hym. for use in the Chapel of Cheltenham College, 1895. It was compiled by Dr. H. A. Jaxon. It contains 344 hymns by over 94 authors and translators. The tunes are those of the best composers and best authorities. So. It is a book of merit, but lacks the desirable addition of a few Latin hymns.

5. Repton. The collection of 1891, p. 938, i., is still (1906) in use, together with the 1889 ed. of Hym. A. & M.

6. Wellington. The edition of the Wellington College H. Book now (1906) in use is that pub. in 1902. The Preface states that "In this new edition the editors have made considerable additions to the book, following in all cases the principle of retaining the old hymns which are and "the original text of hymns has, as a rule, been restored." The contents are: "Memoir of Archbishop Benson," "Uses Wellingtonenses," "Hymns," "Notation of Latin Hymns," "Notes on Hymns," "Authors of Hymns," and "Index of First Lines." The execution is admirable, and the collection is, on its own lines, of special merit. The Appendix has been increased to 116 hymns.

7. Clifton. The 4th ed., "Revised and Enlarged," of the Clifton collection, as Hymns with Accompanying Tunes for the Use of Clifton College, was pub. in 1904. It contains 166 hymns with tunes, and is of the same type and character as in previous editions.

8. Eberhorne and Uppingham. At Eberhorne the same book is in use as described at p. 938, ii. col. At Uppingham, at the present time (1906), The Public School H. Book (1892), is in use, with the old collection of the school as an Appendix.

9. Rossall. The latest edition of the Hym. and Anthems for the in the Chapel of Rossall School, 3rd ed., 1901, was edited by the head master, the Rev. J. F. Way, who states in his Preface that "This new edition has been carefully revised. Some hymns have been omitted; others have been added." The total contents are 354 hymns, 63 anthems, "A School Prayer," by Dr. Bell, and "Rossall Memories," by Dr. Bell. The book has undergone no material change from previous eds.

The following information has also been supplied to us concerning Schools not referred to in detail in the former article on Public School Hymn Books, pp. 936, ii., 940, i. In alphabetical order they include :—

10. Bedford. Hym. for the Use of Bedford School. 1st ed. 1900; 2nd ed. 1904. A small coll. of 97 hymns.

11. Charterhouse. Hym. A. & M., 1889 ed., in use; but a special collection for the school is in course of preparation.

12. Dulwich. The 1889 ed. of Hym. A. & M.

13. Eton. The 1868 ed. of Hym. A. & M.

14. Haileybury. Church Hym. and Hym. A. & M., 1889.

15. Leeds. The Public School H. Book, 1905.

16. Malvern. Hym. A. & M., 1889.

17. Manchester. Hymns, &c., for the Use of the Manchester Grammar School, 1905. A small coll. of 100 hymns.

18. Mercers. Hym. A. & M., 1889.

19. Merchant Taylors. The Public S. H. Book, 1903.

20. Shrewsbury. Hym. A. & M., 1889, and The Public School H. Book, 1913.

21. St. Olave's. Hym. for Use in St. Olave's Grammar School, 1892.

22. Wakefield. No special book, but the Preces contains a limited number of Latin hymns.

23. Westminster. To An Order of Prayer for Use in the Royal College of St. Peter, Westminster, drawn chiefly from the Book of Common Prayer and from the Ancient Service of the School, 1899, there is added A Hymnal drawn chiefly From the works of former Members of the School, 1899. This contains 100 hymns, of which 66 are by former "Members of the School," including:—C. Wesley, 46; W. Cowper, 11; A. M. Toplady, 8; J. Austin, 7; J. Austin, 5; G. Phillimore, 3; G. Herbert, 2; N. B. Nott, 1; W. W. Waterfield, 1; and Sp. Cotton, 1. This is the only book of this kind known to us.

24. Winchester. Hym. A. & M., with an Appendix. A new collection is in contemplation.

In addition, a few small collections, both for Boys' and Girls' High Schools, are in use in various schools and colleges. A special collection was issued in 1903, as :—

25. The Public School Hymn Book. Edited by a Committee of the Headmasters' Conference (London: Longmans & Co.). It contains 150 hymns, with tunes, in Latin, with accompanying tunes, and is built up on the familiar lines of the complete edition of Hym. A. & M., Church Hym., and similar collections. It is a good and well edited hymnal, but without any marked or special reference to schoolboy life. From the details given above it will be seen that it has been introduced into a number of Public Schools. A full account of its composition is in The Public School Hymn Book. By the Very Rev. William Merchant Furneaux, D.D., Dean of Winchester (sometime Headmaster of Repton School). London: Novello & Co. The information in this small book is concise and accurate.

The modern provision for the use of "Psalms and Hymns and Spiritual Songs" in the great centres of education in the United Kingdom is thus extensive although by no means complete. We may add that no collection has been intentionally omitted in this summary. The assistance of Head Masters and other authorities has been of great value in preparing this article. [J. J.]

"Ὑπὲρ τῆς ἄνωθεν εἰρήνης. These are the opening words of the Great Collect, which is an important feature in the services of the Greek Church. The original Greek is in Dr. Littledale's Offices from the Service-Books of the Holy Eastern Church, 1863, pp. 3, 4, together with a prose tr. at pp. 123-4. The tr. in C. U. is "Lord, to our humbler prayers attend," by J. Brownlie, in his Hys. of the Greek Church, 1900, p. 81. It was included as a General Metrical Litany in Church Hys., 1903, and in The English Hyl., 1906, as "suitable for Rogationtide." Also in other collections. [J. J.]

Upon the sixth day of the week. p. 1294. ii. 29. From this hymn the cento "The grave itself a garden is" in taken. It begins with st. vii.

Urbs beata Hierusalem, p. 1199, ii. The version "Christ, Thou art the sure foundation," in the Bk. of Worship (Evang. Luth. Gen. Synod), 1859, No. 295, is Dr. Neale's text altered. The text of Church Hys., 1903, is the old Hys. A. & M. text. The 1904 Hys. A. & M. is considerably altered by the Compilers, especially in Pt. i., st. ii. and iv., and Pt. ii., st. i., and is brought no nearer to Dr. Neale's tr. in the Hymnal Noted. The English Hyl., 1906, has followed the Hyl. Noted text, with the exception of a few words in each part. [J. J.]

Ut iucundas cervus undas, p. 1200, ii. Another tr. of the "Omni die" text is "From day to day Sing loud thy lay," in the Arundel Hys., 1902, No. 191. It previously appeared in the Dominican H. Book, 1881, p. 36. It is by Father John Wyse. Information which we have recently obtained enables us to give the following additional information concerning the trs. noted on p. 1200, i., ii. :—

"Each day, my soul, Still Mary's praise." This tr. is by H. W. Lloyd. "Daily, daily sing to Mary," is by Henry Binsteed. "Holy Queen, we bend before thee," appeared in the Birmingham Oratory Hymn Bk., 1854, No. 65, as "Holy Mary, Queen of Heaven," and is by Newman's scribe, Wm. Bowden. See also "Each day is as it Were," by F. C. Cawsall's Masque of Mary, &c., 1858 [J. M.]

Ut queant laxis, p. 1202, ii. Additional trs. are :—

i. Ut queant :—

Let thine example, holy John, remind us. By R. E. Roberts, in The English Hyl., 1906.

ii. Antra deserti :—

1. Thou in the desert, young in years, wert hiding. Based on T. I. Ball, in the New Office H. Bk., 1910.

2. Ere in thy childhood, 'mid the desert pines. By R. E. Roberts, in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

V.

Van Alstyne, Frances J., p. 1203, ii. From the American collections of recent date we find that Mrs. Van Alstyne is still actively engaged in hymn-writing. In the Funk and Wagnalls Company Gloria Deo, 1903, there are about 20 of her hymns, most of which are new. They are all signed, and some are dated, but we have not space to quote the first lines and subjects, as this hymnal is not an official collection of any denomination. Another name, "Mrs. S. K. Bourne" is credited in the same hymnal with about 40 new hymns. If this signature is not another pen-name of Mrs. Van Alstyne's (and these pen-names and initials of hers are very numerous), we can only say that she has a very successful understudy in "Mrs. S. K. Bourne." [J. J.]

Vanner, James Egbelurt, was b. in 1831, and is one of the Treasurers of the Wesleyan Children's Home. He wrote for the Methodist S. School H. Bk., 1879, "Morning comes with light all-cheering" (Morning), and "Praise the Lord, Who hath divided" (Evening). The former is also in The Meth. H. Bk., 1904. (The Meth. H. Bk. Illustrated, 1906.) [J. J.]

Vaughan, C. J., p. 1205, ii. He d. at Llandaff, Oct. 15, 1897.

Vaughan, Edmund, C.M.S., was b. Nov. 26, 1827, at Cortfield, Ross, Hereford, and is now (1906) one of the clergy of Our Lady of the Annunciation, Bishop Eton, Wavertree, Lancs. He is the author of all (except No. 2), "Mary sings, the rayish'd heavens," which is by T. E. Bridgett) of the trs. from S. Alfonso Maria de' Liguori, which were ed. by Bp. Coffin in 1861 (see pp. 262, i. ; 1277, i.). He is also the author of the following original hymns :—

1. God of mercy and compassion. Repentance.
2. Happy we, who thus united. The Holy Family.
3. Hark! angelic songs resounding. St. Alfonso.
4. Holy Spirit! Fount of wisdom. Whitsuntide.
5. Let those who seek the world to please. The Holy Family.
6. Yes, heaven is the prize. Heaven.

Of these Nos. 1, 2, 3, 5, 6 appeared in Hys. for the Confraternity of the Holy Family, 1854, in Hys. for the Year 1857, and others; while No. 4 is in the 1885 C.S.S.R. Appar. to the Hys. for the Year, No. 336. [J. M.]

Vaughan, H., p. 1206, i. Nos. 6, 9, 11, are from the 2nd ed., 1655 of his Silex Scintillans, pt. ii., pp. 60, 66, 68. No. 10 is from "When through the North," &c., in the 1st ed. 1650, p. 13.

Veneramur crucis lignum, p. 1206, i. This is also in the Upsala Missal of 1483. The tr. "Greet the Cross with veneration," is by T. I. Ball.

Veni Creator Spiritus, p. 1206, ii. Other trs. are :—

1. Come, O Creator Spirit, come. In the Portfolio Hyl., 1899, No. 48, marked as "tr. by R. R."; revised for The English Hyl., 1906, No. 174.

2. Come Holy Ghost, Creator Blest, p. 1210, ii. 16. This tr. in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. is the old text with st. iv., v., ii. 3, 4, and vi. rewritten. Although still given to "Cawsall and Campion," it has no of Cawsall than before.

Veni, jam veni benignissime, p. 1211, i. Another tr. is :—

Come, Holy Ghost, come near us. By G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 48. [J. M.]

Veni Redemptor gentium, p. 1211, ii. This hymn originally began with the stanza "Intende qui regis Israel," and it is found thus in the Vatican Reg. 11, f. 203, of the 8th cent., the Vat. 82, f. 226, of the 11th cent.; and in other early Italian mss. at Milan and elsewhere. But the almost universal use outside of Italy was to omit the stanza. Other trs. of the "Veni Redemptor" text are :—

1. O come, Redeemer of the earth. In H. A. & M., 1904, No. 55, marked as by the Compilers. It is a complete and painfully literal version, e.g.,

"Like standard fair, her virtues tell;
'In God within her deigns to dwell."

2. Come, Thou Redeemer of the earth, And manifest. This, in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 14, is based on Neale, but Neale is, e.g., not answerable for—

"A giant in twofold substance one, Bridging now his course to run." [J. M.]

Veni Sancte Spiritus, Et emitte coelitus, p. 1213, ii. The question of the authorship of this sequence cannot yet be regarded as settled. Pope Innocent III. was able but not lovable, and hardly the person one would like to recognise as the author of this masterpiece. No further evidence has come to light for or against Stephen Langton. The evidence recently discovered all tends to show that the sequence was written after 1150. In the mss. before 1200 it is always an addition in a later hand: further examples of this are the Einsiedeln ms. 113 of the 12th cent., where it is added in the margin in a hand of the 14th cent.; the Paris Lat. Nouv. Acq. 1871, of the 11th cent., where it added on f. 96 in a hand of the end of the 13th cent., on a blank space left for a large initial which was never painted in; the Nouv. Acq. 1177, of the 11th cent., where it is at f. 83b in a hand of the end of the 12th cent., &c. To the earlier mss. where it occurs in the regular order and in the original hand, may be added the Chichester Sequentiary of c. 1275 kept in the Bodleian (Ussh. 148, f. 26b), and a Dominican Choirbook of 1254 collated by the Rev. H. M. Bannister in the Dominican house at Rome. In the Rheinau ms. 55 (now at Zürich), written in the first half of the 12th cent., Mr. Bannister found it among the Whitsuntide sequences, but evidently regarded as new, the melody being added, in a later hand, both in neumæ and in letters. In the Sarum Missal of c. 1250, now at Manchester (Crawford Lat. 24), it is added, quite out of place, on f. 236, in a hand of c. 1300. Another tr. in C. U. is "Come, Thou Holy Ghost, we pray," in Hys. for the Use of Rugby School, 1906. It is by H. J. Buckoll, in the Rugby School H. Book, 1850, No. 62. [J. M.]

Veni Superne Spiritus Pater benigne pauperum, p. 1248, ii., under Adsis Superne Spiritus. This is printed in Neale's Hymni Ecclesiae, 1851, p. 155, from the Cahors Brev. of 1746. [J. M.]

Veni, veni, Emmanuel, pp. 74, i., and 1851, i. This is in the Paillerdslum Cant. Cath., 7th ed., Cologne, 1710, p. 269, and in the Hymnodia Sacra, 1723, p. 5; but is not in the Hymnodia Sacra, Mainz, 1671. Another tr. is :—

O come, O come, Emmanuel! Redeem Thy captive Israel. By T. A. Lacey, in The English Hyl., 1906.

The old Hys. A. & M. text is repeated in Church Hys., 1903; and in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., with, in this case, alterations in st. iii., ii., 1, and v. i. 1, none of which can be regarded as improvements. [J. M.]

Verbum bonum et suave. [R. V. M.] This sequence was very popular in later mediæval times. It is found, e.g., in the Chichester Sequentiary, of c. 1275, kept in the Bodleian (Ussh. 148, f. 32); in a ms. Missal of Anchin of the 12th cent., at Douai (No. 124, now 90); facsimiles from this in E. de Coussemaker's Histoire de l'Harmonie, 1852, plates 24, 25). &c. Among Missals it is in a Sarum of c. 1250, now at Manchester, f. 292b; in a York of c. 1290, and a Hereford c. 1290, kept in the Bodleian, and many others. Mone, No. 381, prints it from a 13th cent. ms. at Stuttgart. See also Daniel, ii., p. 99, v., p. 254; Kehrein, No. 208, &c. Tr. as :—"Sing we 'Ave,' word enduring," by M. J. Blacker, in the Hymner, 1882, No. 108 (1904, No. 127). See also Daniel, i., No. 229, note; and H. W. Longfellow's Golden Legend, 1851, pt. iv., Scene in the Refectory.

Verbum Supernum prodiens, A Patre, p. 1217, ii. Other trs. are :—

1. Celestial Word, to this our earth, a good tr. by W. J. Courthope, in the S.P.C.K. Ch. Hys., 1903.

2. O Word, that goest forth on high, in Hys. A. & M., 1904, marked as by the Compilers. It is a revised version of their 1861 tr.; see p. 1218, i., No. 4.

3. High Word of God, Who once didst come, by Dr. Charles Sigg, in The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Verbum Supernum prodiens, Nec Patris, p. 1218, i. The tr. "The heavenly Word proceeding forth" in Church Hys., 1903, is the old Hys. A. & M. text; that in the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., their old text with slight alterations in st. i., ii. 2, 4; and that in The English Hyl., 1906, given as by "J. M. Neale, E. Caswall, and others," is a cento of six stanzas, i., ii., iv., J. M. Neale; v. and i. 2 of st. iii. from E. Caswall; st. vi. from Hys. A. & M., and st. iii., ii. 1, 3, 4 by the Editor. The quotation on p. 1218, ii., is from Grove's Dict. of Music, ii., p. 614.

Vere, T. A. de, p. 1218, i. He d. Jan. 21, 1902. Two of his hymns are in the Holy Family Hys., 1865, and later collections—(1) "They leave the land of gems and gold," (Epiphany) and (2) "Who is she that stands triumphant?" (Church of Christ).

Vernon, J. B., p. 1204, i., b. in 1833, and d. Sept. 30, 1902.

Very, J., p. 1219, i. His hymn, "O heavenly gift of love divine" (Divino amistence asked), from his Poems and Essays, 1839, is given in The Pilgrim Hyl., 1904. He d. May 8, 1880.

Verzage nicht, p. 14, ii. Other trs. are :—

1. Fear not, O ye little flock, as No. 199 in the College Hyl., N.Y., 1897, based on the tr. by Miss Winkworth.

2. Fear not, then faithful Christian flock, in the Pentecostal Hyl., 1894, No. 72, marked as "English by R. R."

Vex not thy soul for men of pride. E. Charles. [Ps. xxxvii.] Being sts. i., iii. and xiii. of his version of Ps. xxxvii., from his Cleveland Psalter, 1854. Adopted by S.P.C.K. Ps. & Hys. and others. [J. J.]

Vexilla Regis prodeunt, p. 1219, ii. Other forms of Dr. Neale's tr. are :—

1. The Royal banners forward go, in H. A. & M., 1904, No. 106, where the second st. is st. v. of "Coelius clavis" (see p. 1219, ii.), which Neale did not translate. The rest of the hymn is from the 1861 text, beginning with st. iii., adv., in the New Office H. Bk., 1904.

The tr. "Abroad the regal banners fly," p. 1221, i. 1, is by W. K. Blount in his Office of the Holy Week, Paris, 1879, p. 254. [J. M.]

Vi adoro ogni momento. (Holy Communion.) This is the opening of a series of Ejaculations in an "Act of Reparation to Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament." The Act was indulged by Pope Pius VII. in a Rescript of Jan. 21, 1815, to the nuns of the Perpetual Adorers of the Blessed Sacrament at Rome, and the Ejaculations may possibly be by one of the nuns of this order. The Italian text is in the Raccolta di Orazioni of Telesphorus Galli (p. 1048, ii.; 1849, i.), ed. 1857, p. 203; see also Ambrose St. John's tr. 1857, p. 151. Tr. as:—

Hail, Thou living Bread from Heaven, by E. Caswall, in his Masque of Mary, 1858; p. 200; repeated in Sm. for the Year, 1861, Hyl. Noted, 1867, p. 648, and others. [J. M.]

Victimae Paschali, p. 1282, i. Additional trs. are :—

1. The Paschal work is wrought, The Victim's praise be told, by J. M. Neale, in the Christian Remembrancer, Oct. 1849, p. 333 (see p. 1282, ii. 2). Repeated in his Hymns for Children of Christ or Saints, 1st Ser., Cleveley, n. d. [1850], as No. 171.

2. To the Paschal Victim, Christians, Offer yes, by G. R. Woodward, based on earlier versions, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 43, and the Hymnary, 1904, No. 114.

4. Christians, to the Paschal Victim, based on the 1868 version (p. 1282, i., No. 7) in The English Hyl., 1904, No. 126.

Concerning the use of this Sequence in the XIV. cent. the following details are interesting:—

In a Sarum Processional of c. 1340 in the Bodleian (Rawl. lit. d. 4), there are (at f. 191b) elaborate rubrics directing the use of this sequence. Two persons personating the Apostles (St. John in a white tunic, St. Peter in a red tunic), present themselves at the entrance of the choir, and are met by the Angel and the three Maries, to meet them, the first Mary greeting them with "Victimae Paschali," and so through the different sections of the Sequence. [J. M.]

Victis sibi cognomina, p. 1284, i. This is in the Nevers Bres. of 1727, Hiemalis, p. 531; no name of author being given. The version beginning "Conquering kings their titles take, From the lands they captive make," in The English Hyl., 1906, No. 57, is based on Chandler. [J. M.]

Vine, Alfred H., son of J. Vine, Wesleyan minister, was b. at Nottingham in 1845, educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and King's Coll., London, and entered the Wesleyan ministry in 1867. He has pub. The Doom of Soul, 1895; Songs of the Heart 1905, and Songs of Living Things, 1897. Of his hymns the following are in C. U. :—

1. O Breath of God, breathe on us now. (Whitsuntide.)
2. O Great Lord Christ, my Saviour. (The Divine Call.)
3. Saviour, Thy dear eyes behold. (Consciousness of Christ.)

Of these Nos. 1 and 2 are from his The Doom of Soul, 1895; and No. 3 was written for the Wesleyan Young People's Hymnal, 1896. [J. J.]

Virginis Proles, Opifexque matris, p. 1285, i. Another tr. is :—

Son of a Virgin, Maker of Thy mother, by L. Housman, in The English Hyl., 1906.

Virgo vernans velut rosa, p. 1285, ii. This is in a Sarum Missal in the University Library at Cambridge (Kk. ii. 6) as an addition at f. 109b in a hand of the 15th cent. It is printed in Dreves, xl., No. 371, from this MS., from several 15th cent. Sarum Missals in the Bodleian and in the B.M., and from the printed eds. of 1488, 1494, 1497, 1498; but it is not cited as in any MS. before 1400, or as in any non-Sarum sources, either English or Continental. Dreves, viii., No. 226, prints a similar sequence on St. Margaret, with the same first line, from the Schlosnitz Missal of 1486. [J. M.]

Voce jubilantes magna, p. 1286, ii. This is in the Chichester Sequentiary of c. 1275, kept in the Bodleian (Twin. 148, f. 276*a*). It is also in the Whitby Missal of c. 1300 in the Bodleian (1985*b*, f. 191*b*), and is printed from this MS. in Dreves, x., p. 35. The tr. "With loudest voice of joyfulness and praise," in 1884, ii., is by T. I. Ball. [J. M.]

Voice of Jesus, calling, calling. Kathleen Knox. [Christ's Call.] Miss Knox informs us that this, her only hymn, was written Feb. 14, 1879, and contributed to Canon W. MacIlwaine's Lyra Hibernica Sacra, 1878, p. 240. It has passed into Victorian Hymns, 1887, p. 105, and the Sunday School Hymnary, 1905, No. 502.

Miss Knox was b. in London, but has spent most of her life at Belfast, where her father, Dr. C. G. Knox (brother of Bishop Knox, Primate of all Ireland, 1886-1893), was for many years Vice-General of the Diocese of Down and Connor. [J. M.]

Vom Himmel hoch, p. 1287, i. The version beginning "Welcome to earth, Thou noble Guest," in the Gen. Synod's (Evang. Luth.) Bk. of Worship, 1869, No. 225, is Miss Winkworth's tr. of sts. viii., x., xiii., xv., slightly altered. [J. M.]

Vox clara ecce intonat, p. 1288, ii. In some recent collections there are :—

1. Hark, an awful voice is sounding. This, in Church Hys., 1903, is Caswall's tr. with slight alterations in st. iii.
2. Hark, a thrilling voice is sounding. This old text of Hys., ed. 1852, is repeated in the 1904 ed.
3. Hark, a herald voice is calling. This tr., by the Compilers of Hys. A. & M., is a second version in the edition of 1904.
4. Hark, a herald voice is calling. In The English Hyl., 1906. This is E. Caswall's tr. with the alteration of the first line only.

The tr. "Hark, a joyful voice is thrilling," p. 1288, ii., by Card. Newman, appeared in his Roman Brev., 1838, p. 153; and then in his Verses, &c., 1853. [J. J.]

Vox clara terris nos gravi. [Adjutrix.] This is in the Sens Brev. of 1726 (Hiemalis, p. 164), the Chalons-sur-Marne Brev. of 1736 (Ib., p. 171), and many later French breviaries. Also in Neale's Hy. Eccl., 1851, p. 60. It is better known in the recast by C. Coffin in his Hymni Sacri, 1736, p. 93, where it is marked as "Hymnus reformatus." See Ira mortis umbra deridet, p. 555, i. The text of Neale is tr. as :—

A thrilling voice sings clear and high. By H. J. D. Ryder, written 1851, and first pub. in G. Shipley's Annus Sanctus, 1864, pt. i., pp. viii., 13. Repeated in The Birmingham Oratory Bk. &c., 1884. [J. M.]

Vox claresca, mens purgetur, p. 1289, i. This is in the Chichester Sequentiary of c. 1275, kept in the Bodleian (Twin. 148, f. 276), where it begins "Bonet (i.e. Sonet) vox et mens purgetur." Printed text also in Dreves, viii., p. 12. [J. M.]

W.

Wachet auf, ruft uns die Stimme, p. 1291, ii. Additional trs. are :—

1. Wake! awake! from highest steeple, by G. R. Woodward, in his Legends of the Sacred, 1894, p. 58. Repeated in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 1, beginning "Wake! awake! for night is flying."

2. Wake, O wake! with tidings thrilling, by F. C. Burkitt, contributed to The English Hyl., 1906. [J. M.]

Waddy, Samuel Danks, son of the Rev. S. D. Waddy, D.D., sometime Governor of Wesley College, Sheffield, was b. in 1830, and died in 1902. He was a distinguished Barrister and Q.C. At the time of his death he was Judge of the Sheffield County Court. His hymn "Jesus my shepherd my want shall supply," No. 395 in The Methodist H.-Book, 1904, is a paraphrase of Ps. xxiii. of the Authorized Version, and first appeared in that collection. See The Methodist Hymn-Book Illustrated, 1906, p. 253. [J. J.]

Wade, William, son of William Wade, was b. in London, July 1, 1863, and educated at King's Coll., London. Ordained in 1890, he was Curate of St. Peter's, Fulham, 1890-1, and St. James's, West Hampstead, 1891-4. In 1894 he became one of the secretaries of the Waifs and Strays Society, but retired in 1906. He pub. in 1898 Banished, but not Expelled. To C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903, he contributed 18 hymns on various subjects. These are all signed in that collection, and through lack of space cannot be enumerated here. [J. J.]

Walk in the light! So shalt thou know. B. Barton. [Walk in the light.] Appeared in his Devotional Verses, 1826, p. 242, 6 st. of 4 l., with the quoted text 1 John, i. 7. In various collections the opening line is altered to "Walk in the light and thou shalt know," and st. ii. is omitted. The form in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900, begins with st. iv., "Walk in the light! and thou shalt own." The order is st. i., ii., iii., i., v. and vi. rewritten. We feel that very few editors will follow this arrangement and doubtful improvement of the author's text. [J. J.]

Walker, Annie Louisa, p. 217, ii. See Ogilvie, Anne L., née Walker.

Walker, Mary J., née Deck, p. 1231, i. Mrs. Walker d. July 2, 1878.

Walmsley, Robert, was b. at Manchester March 18, 1831, went to Sale in 1870, where he was till 1904 in business as a jeweller, and d. at Sale Oct. 30, 1905. He was a Congregationalist, and was for 28 years connected with the work of the Manchester S. S. Union, many of his hymns being written for the annual Whit-week Festival. He pub. 44 of them, with a preface dated Dec. 1900, as Sacred Songs for Children of all Ages. They are simple, musical, full of a deep love of God, of the works of God in nature, and of little children, and deserve to be more extensively used. The best-known of the longer hymns are :—

1. O praise our God to-day, Ye people haste to pay. (Praise to God.) Dated, 1899, and included in his Sacred Songs, &c., 1900, No. 30.

2. Praise the Lord, His works exalt Him. (Praise to God.) Dated 1888. In his Sacred Songs, &c., 1900, No. 9.

3. The sun declines, o'er land and sea. (Evening.) Dated 1883. In his Sacred Songs, &c., 1900, No. 38. It was given in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898.

For these biographical details and dates we are indebted to the author's daughter. [J. M.]

Walpole, Henry, was b. in 1558 at Docking, Norfolk. He studied at Peterhouse, Cambridge, but did not take his degree; then at Gray's Inn, finally in the English Colleges at Rheims and Rome. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1584 at Rome. He was sent to England in 1593, and landed Dec. 6, but was at once arrested, taken to York Castle, sent to the Tower of London, and finally to York, where, after being put through a form of trial, he was executed April 7/17, 1595 (De Backer, 1898, viii., 972; Dict. Nat. Biog., lix., 164, &c.).

In 1581 Walpole contributed some verses to Stephen Vallenger's True Report of the death of Edmund Campion, s.v., the best-known being "Why do I use my paper, ink and pen" (see the Month, 1874, p. 110; Farrer Soc. Sel. Poetry, 1845, p. 256). During his last imprisonment he wrote a poem of 84 lines in rhyming couplets beginning "My thirsty soul desires her strength" (p. 13, ii.), which is still sung in R. C. churches. See further Dublin Review, Oct. 1862, p. 304. [J. M.]

Walter, Thomas U., author of "Despondling soul! O, cease thy woe" (Power of Faith), which appeared in the American Baptist Harp, 1849, and later collections, was b. in Philadelphia, Penn., Sep. 4, 1804, and d. there Oct. 30, 1887. He was an architect by profession. [J. J.]

Walworth, Clarence Alphonsus, b. in 1820, graduated at Union College, 1838, admitted to the Bar 1841, studied for the ministry of Protest. Episco. Church, but subsequently was ordained as a priest of the Roman Catholic communion, and became Rector of St. Mary's, Albany, in 1864. He was one of the founders of the Order of the Paulists in the U.S.A. He pub. The Gentle Skeptic, N.Y., 1865, and Ambiatorcta, or the Eve of Lady Day, &c., N.Y., 1888. His paraphrase of the Te Deum, "Holy God, we praise Thy name," p. 1123, ii. 7, is in the Catholic Psalmist, Dublin, 1858, p. 170. In the Amer. Episcopal Hyl., 1892, it begins with st. ii., slightly altered, as "Hark, the loud celestial hymn." He died in 1900. [L. F. B.]

Warburton, George Augustus, b. in 1829, is the author of the dedication hymn of a place of worship, "O Thou Whose glory shone like fire," in Stryker's College Hyl., 1904.

Wardlaw, R., p. 1292, ii. Of his hymns, Nos. 1, 2 are in his Selection, 1803, and No. 6 was added in the Supplement of 1817. This Supp. also contains "O how good the hallowed union," and "Whence the sounds of plaintive wailing," p. 1293, i.

Waring, Anna L., p. 1293, ii. Of her hymns we have found the following in Lovell Squire's Sel. of Scriptural Poetry, 3rd ed., 1818 :

1. Father, I leave that all my life, p. 327, ii.
2. Sweet is the solace of Thy love, p. 1293, ii. 10.
3. Though none good things of, &c., p. 1293, ii. 12.

The statement in J. Telford's The Methodist Hymn Book Illustrated, 1906, p. 271, that Miss Waring contributed to her uncle's (S. M. Waring's) Sacred Melodies, 1820, cannot be correct, as she was then only six years old. [J. M.]

Warner, John Allan, s. of John Warner, F.R.C.S., was b. in North London, May 16, 1851, and educated at the Southwark Mins. Coll. Ordained D. 1876, P. 1879, he was Curate of St. Paul's, Southampton, 1878-80, and later of other parishes until 1888, when he became Vicar of Hadlow Down, Sussex. He is the author of a considerable number of hymns. Sixty of these were pub. in 1900 as Sixty Sugg. Hymns (Coldwell: J. Brooker & Sons). From this Supp., "Brothers, joining hand in hand" (For Men's Services and Clubs), in the 1904

1724 WARUM BETRÜBST WE THANK

ed. of Hys. A. & M. is taken. Several of Mr. Warner's hymns were written for special occasions, and printed as leaflets, in which form they had extensive circulation, especially "The Nation's Prayer" in time of war, "O Lord of Majesty and Might." [J. J.]

Warum betrübst du dich, p. 1234, ii. Another hr. is :—

Why art thou restless, O my soul, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 3rd ed., 1900, No. 314.

Waterston, R. C., p. 1235, ii. He d. in 1893.

Watson, G., p. 1235, ii. He d. July 17, 1898.

Watts, A. A., p. 1236, i. We find from Alaric Watts: A Narrative of his Life. By his son Alaric Alfred Watts, 2 vols., 1884, that the date of his birth was March 16, 1797, and of his death April 5, 1864. [J. J.]

Watts, I., p. 1236, i. At the time of the publication of this Dictionary in 1892, every copy of the 1707 edition of Watts's Hymns and Spiritual Songs was supposed to have perished, and all notes thereon were based upon references which were found in magazines and old collections of hymns and versions of the Psalms. Recently three copies have been recovered, and by a careful examination of one of these we have been able to give some of the results in the revision of pp. 1-1197, and the rest we now subjoin.

i. Hymns in the 1709 ed. of Hys. and Spiritual Songs which previously appeared in the 1707 edition of the same book, but are not so noted in the 1st ed. of this Dictionary :—

On pp. 1237, i.-1239, ii., Nos. 18, 23, 42, 43, 47, 48, 56, 58, 59, 63, 73, 82, 83, 84, 85, 89, 90, 99, 102, 107, 108, 113, 115, 123, 124, 134, 137, 139, 140, 147, 148, 149, 153, 166, 174, 180, 181, 182, 186, 190, 192, 193, 194, 196, 197, 199, 202.

ii. Versions of the Psalms in his Psalms of David, 1719, which previously appeared in his Hymns and Spiritual Songs, 1707 :—

On pp. 1239, ii.-1241, i., Nos. 241, 295, 304, 313, 314, 317, 416, 441.

iii. Additional not noted in the revision :—

1. My soul, how lovely is the place: p. 1240, ii. 32b. This version of Ps. lxxxiv. first appeared in the 1707 ed. of Hys. & S. Songs, as "Ye saints, how lovely is the place."

2. Shine, mighty God, on Britain shine: p. 1241, ii. 1. This version of Ps. lxxx. first appeared in the 1707 ed. of Hys. & S. Songs, Bk. i., No. 35, and again in his Ps. of David, 1719.

3. Sing to the Lord with [cheerful] joyful voice, p. 1242, i. This version of Ps. c. is No. 42 in the Hys. & S. Songs, 1707, Bk. i., from which it passed into the Ps. of David, 1719.

A careful collation of the earliest editions of Watts's Hymns Lyricus shows that Nos. 1, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, p. 1237, i., are in the 1706 ed., and that the rest were added in 1709. Of the remaining hymns, Nos. 91 appeared in his Sermons, vol. ii., 1728, and No. 190 in Sermons, vol. i., 1721. No. 109 was added after Watts's death. It must be noted also that the original title of what is usually known as Divine and Moral Songs was Divine Songs only. [J. J.]

Waugh, B., p. 1241, ii. He has pub. a collection of 93 original Hys. for Children, 1803. Nos. 1, 3 of those noted here are in the S. S. Hymnary, 1905; No. 2 is in Worship Song, 1905.

1. Heavenly Father, I would serve Thee. [Childlike Service.] Written 1802; 1st publ. as above, p. 6.

2. I'll come to Thee, O Jesus Christ. [Following Jesus.] Written 1879; first pub. in the Sunday Mag. in 1880.

3. Where is Jesus little children. [Jesus ever present.] Written 1886; 1892, p. 24; also in School Hys., 1891, No. 435.

Mr. Waugh's work at p. 1241, ii., as The Good Cradle, &c., should be The Good Cradle, &c. [J. M.]

We bless Thee for Thy peace, O God. [For Peace of Heart.] This popular hymn was given anonymously in the Amer. Christian Melodies, 1858, the Songs of the Church, 1862, Songs of the Sanctuary, 1865, and subsequently in many English collections, including Horder's Worship Song, 1905. [J. J.]

We bless Thee, Lord, for all this common life, p. 1244, ii. This is in the Hys. & Anthems, South Place Chapel, London, 1873, No. 249, beginning "Thanks, ever thanks, for all this common life," and signed F. M. White. Nos. 203, 245, 292 in the same collection have the same signature, which is expanded in the index to "Frederick M. White." [J. M.]

We could not do without Thee. This, in several hymnals, is a slightly altered form of "I could not do without Thee," p. 497, i. 16.

We lift our eyes, our hands, to Thee. J. Montgomery. [A Wet Harvest.] Written Aug. 21, 1830, and pub. in his Original Hymns, 1853, No. 278.

We praise Thee, Lord, for hours of bliss. An altered form of J. F. Hoppe's "We praise Thee oft for hours of bliss" (p. 533, i.) in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900. The original appeared in Bayard's English Lyrics, 1855, p. 57. [J. J.]

We praise Thy name, O Lord most high. [St. Andrew.] In the Hymnary, 1872, this hymn is given without author's name, but the copyright is claimed by the compilers. The fact, however, remains, that the hymn is in Hys. for Festivals and Saints' Days of the Church of England, Oxford, 1846, and was repeated in Harland's Church Psalter and Hyl., 1867. It is also in Thring's Coll., 1882, and the 1903 ed. of Church Hys. [J. M.]

We pray Thee, Jesus, Who didst first. This, in the Scotch Church Hymnary, 1898, begins with st. ii. of G. Phillimore's "Guide Thou, O God, the guardian hands," p. 472, ii.

We render thanks to Thee, O God. This in the Congregational S. S. Hymnal, Supp., 1891, and others, is an altered form of G. Thring's "To Thee, O God, we render thanks," p. 1178, i. 45.

We rose to-day with anthems sweet. A slightly altered form of W. M. Pundson's "We woke to-day with anthems sweet," p. 941, ii.

We scatter seeds with careless hand. J. Keble. [Power of Little Things.] This, in Hys. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1899, is composed of st. iii., iv. of "Five loving souls, each one as mine," in Keble's Lyra Innocentium, 1846, p. 102. [J. J.]

We thank Thee, gracious Lord, for all. This, in The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900 is a conto from Dr. Bonar's "I thank Thee, Lord, for using me," p. 407, ii.

WE WHO WHAT IS 1725

We who would lead Thy flock must be. E. E. Symons. [For Teachers.] This is in the Church S. S. H. Bk., 1879, No. 357 (and again in School Hys., 1891, and the S. S. Hymnary, 1905); another hymn by the same writer, "I give myself to Thee" (p. 1891, ii.), being No. 93 of the Church S. S. H. Bk. [J. M.]

We would see Jesus: for the shadows lengthen, p. 1245, i. This hymn is in Miss Warner's novel, Dollars and Cents, N. Y., 1852, renamed Speculation; or the Glen-Luna Family By Amy Lothrop (Lond.: Routledge & Co.), 1853, p. 175, in 7 st. of 4l. "Amy Lothrop" was a pen-name of Anna Warner, p. 1234, i. We know nothing of "Ellen Ellis," to whom the hymn is sometimes attributed. [J. J.]

Weeping as they go their way, p. 1245, ii. From this hymn, "All is over—in the tomb," in The Public School H. Bk., 1903, is taken. It begins with st. iii. slightly altered.

Welcome to this world of woe. [Msg.] This is in the Lamp, May 11, 1850, p. 189, where it is signed "M. C. A.," and given as from the Catholic Magazine, May, 1843. It is repeated in the Parochial H. Bk., 1880, No. 407.

Wells, Marcus M. Concerning this author and his hymn we have no information beyond the following facts :—

Holy Spirit, faithful Guide. [Whitsuntide.] Appeared in The Sacred Lute, by T. E. Perkins, N.Y., undated [1845], p. 271, with music. Both words and music are attributed therein to M. M. Wells. The hymn has since been repeated in several English and American collections, including I. D. Sankey's Sacred Songs and Solos, 1873. It is dated 1838. [J. J.]

Welsh Hymnody, pp. 1249-1264. Since the publication of this Dictionary in 1892, Welsh Hymnody has developed in various directions. It is with this development we have now to deal.

I. The Established Church.

In 1897 appeared a hymn-book which had been long expected, and on which so small pains had been bestowed :—Emyniadur yr Eglwys yng Nghymru (Hymnary of the Church in Wales). Such was its title, and there were those who hoped that its advent would put an end to the diversity of Welsh Church Hymnals, and bring about the use of one book.

The compilers appointed by the late Bishop Lloyd of Bangor, assisted by the late Chancellor D. Silvan Evans, the Rev. W. L. Richards, and Roland Rogers, BEN.-SEC., the collection claims to be "not only National but truly Catholic." The old Welsh hymns, in so great an extent the product of the Methodist revival of the 18th century, and decidedly subjective in character, are made, with as few alterations as possible, to fit into the course of the Church's year. There are also translations of many hymns from English and other sources. Nevertheless, despite the pains taken, it is doubtful whether the Emynidur will take the place which its compilers had hoped it would. The Welsh are a singing people, as it does, over 700 hymns, very many of these are scarcely ever used. Perhaps least acceptable are the translations of well-known English hymns. The time for the use of such translations in the Church in Wales seems not to have come, if ever will. Welsh hymnody must be Welsh. So there still continues much affection for the hymns in the collections of Canon O. Evans and Canon Ellis Roberts.

II. Welsh Calvinistic Methodists.

In 1896, Llyfr Hymnau y Methodistiaid Calfinaidd—the excellent hymn book of the above connexion—appeared in a new edition. Perhaps the most truly Welsh of all the collections, it had long been good of its kind, and it may be that little further can be done in the way of improvement.

III. Welsh Congregationalists.

In 1895 was published, under the auspices of the Welsh Congregational Union, Y Cerddegydd Cynulleidfaol. Casgliad o Hymnau a Thonau, a very useful and representative collection of Welsh hymns.

IV. Welsh Baptists.

Several new editions of the Hymn-book, published in 1886, have since appeared. Llawlyfr Moliant yr Ysgol Sul, a hymn-book especially for the use of Sunday Schools, was published in 1897.

V. Welsh Wesleyan Methodists.

In 1900 appeared a new hymn-book to take the place of one which had served since 1841. In the course of the 45 years many hymns contained in the old collection have fallen completely out of use. The Compilers of the new collection left out these, and introduced in their place many of the newer Welsh hymns.

During the past 15 years there has been an advance, slow but decided, in the direction of hymn-writing of a more objective character. The fire which animated the hymn-writers of the earlier part of the 19th century may, indeed, exist no longer. Nevertheless, that fire produced, almost exclusively, but one class of hymns. The older Welsh hymn-books are most subjective in character, and hymns of the Passion largely predominate.

Wales now begins to have more hymns for the Sacraments, and more for special occasions. A greater output of such may reasonably be expected, for the poets of Wales are many, and amongst them there now arise, from time to time, hymn-writers who bring forth verses characterised by an easier and brighter movement, and of a higher literary excellence than in the past. [J. L. D.]

Wenn ich einst, p. 626, ii. Another tr. is :—

When Thou bidst me from that slumber, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1864, No. 184.

Werner, Friedrich Ludwig Zacharias, b. Nov. 18, 1768, at Königsberg, studied at the University there, and entered the Prussian Government service in 1793. In 1811 he was received into the Church of Rome, and was ordained priest in 1814. He d. Jan. 17, 1823, and was buried at Enzersdorf, near Vienna. In his time he was well known as a dramatist and as a preacher. He pub. at Vienna in 1813 Geistliche Uebungen für drey Tage [Imperial Library, Vienna], in which appeared at p. 3 a "Vorbereitungslied," beginning "Gieb deinen Frieden uns, O Herr der Stärke." This passed, greatly altered, and without his name, into Knapp's Ev. L. S., 1837. See p. 413, ii. [J. M.]

Wesleyan Methodist Hymnody, English. See Methodist Hymnody, § vii.

What a strange and wondrous story, p. 1178, ii. 8. This hymn is found in A Coll. of Ps. & Hys., by the late Thos. Robinson, M.A., Vicar of Saint Mary's, Leicester, enlarged ed., . . 1828, Add. Hys., No. 48.

What comes dictates to be done. This, in Hys. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough Coll., 1899, is a conto from A. Pope's "Father of all, in every age," p. 900, ii. 1.

What is that, mother? The lark, my child, p. 1254, i. 12. This appeared in G. B. Cheever's Amer. Common Place Book of Poetry, 1831, p. 247.

What is the world? a wildering maze, p. 1267, i. Appeared in the Evang. Mag., May 1817, p. 204, dated Feb. 1817, and entitled "Lines written for a Bible Society Subscription Book." This seems to fix the date as 1817, and not 1813. [J. J.]

What means this glory round our feet? J. R. Lowell. [Christmas Carol.] This carol was written for the Sunday school children of the Church of the Disciples, Boston, U.S.A., in 1866, and printed in Sunny Side, N.Y., 1875, p. 108, as "Written for the Children's Festival at the Church of the Disciples, 1866." It was included in the author's Heartsease and Rue, 1888, and his Complete Works, Cambridge, U.S.A., 1890, p. 403. [J. J.]

What various hindrances we meet, p. 1367, ii. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M. the text of 1861 is repeated in 7 st., the final stanza being by the original Compilers of that collection.

When Christ was born of Mary free. [Christmas Carol.] This is in a MS. of c. 1456, in the Brit. Mus. (Harl., 5396, f. 273 b), and is printed in the Christmas Carols of William Sandys (1833, p. 2), of R. R. Chope, 1875, and others. Also in A. E. Tozer's Cath. Hys., 1898, No. 12. [J. M.]

When faint and weary toiling, p. 317, ii. 3. This hymn appeared in W. Bradbury's Fresh Laurels, 1867, p. 5.

When glorious in the nightly sky. This is from H. F. Lyte's "How good, how faithful, Lord, art Thou," p. 706, ii. 4. See also "O Lord, how good," &c., p. 899, i.

When God at first made man. G. Herbert. His poem, "The Pulley," from The Temple, 1633, into Hys. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1869.

When I survey the wondrous Cross, p. 1360, ii. At the time of the publication of this Dictionary in 1892, no copy of the 1707 ed. of Watts's Hys. and S. Songs was known to be in existence. Since then three copies have been found. On collating the 1709 ed. with the 1707 ed., we find the opening lines of the hymn were originally:—

> "When I survey the wond'rous Cross
> Where the young Prince of Glory dy'd."

The rest of the hymn is as on pp. 1360-70. [J. J.]

When softly dawns the golden light. [Sacred Heart of Jesus.] This is in A. E. Tozer's Catholic Hys., 1898, No. 60, marked as from the Messenger of the Sacred Heart.

When spring's soft breath and softer showers. [Submission to Divine Will.] An undated hymn on "The Good Will of God" in The Pilgrim Hy., 1904. It previously appeared in several English collections, including Dr. Dale's English H. Book, 1874, No. 181, in 7 st. of 4 l., where it is given as by "J. W. K." [J. J.]

When the weary, seeking rest, p. 168, i. 79. The Rev. H. N. Bonar in his Hys. by Heretics Bonar ... By his Son, 1904, gives this account of the origin of this hymn:—

> "My father was asked to provide words to the music, and was specially requested to furnish a fitting refrain to the two lovely lines of Mendelssohn's with which Cadbolt's tune Intercession ends. In searching for a scripture theme containing some reiterated phrase almost of the nature of a refrain, he was struck with Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the Temple (2 Chronicles, vi.), in which every separate petition concludes with substantially the same words. This idea was taken for his starting-point, and Solomon's words: 'Hear Thou from heaven Thy dwelling-place, and forgive,' became the familiar couplet,
>
> 'Hear then, in love, O Lord, the cry,
> In heaven, Thy dwelling-place on high.'
> This formed the first verse, and the rest of the hymn was built upon it. This hymn my father liked, as he often told me, as well as any he had ever written; for, though he saw flaws in its poetry, the subject and working out and whole tone of it seemed to him far better than many other of his pieces which have attained greater popularity."—pp. xxvi.-vii. [J. J.]

When thou hast spent the lingering day. G. Gascoigne. [Evening.] From The Posies of George Gascoigne, Esquire, Corrected, I'erfected, and Augmented by the Authour, 1575. In section "Flowres," p. xxiiii., of 36 lines, and entitled "Gascoygne's Good Night."

Where shall we find the Lord? A. F. Stanley. [The Divine Life.] Appeared in Macmillan's Magazine, March, 1880, in 7 st. of 8 l., and entitled "The Divine Life." It was included in an abbreviated form in the American Evang. Hymnal, 1880, and again in the Hymns for Church and Home, Boston, U.S.A., 1880, where sts. i., iii., iv., vii. are given. The full text is in Jean Stanley's Letters and Verse, 1895, p. 438. [J. J.]

While filled with sadness and dismay. An altered form of sts. iv.-vii. of J. Newton's "My harp untun'd, and laid aside," p. 804, i. 25, into a few hymnals.

While health and youth and strength, p. 1274, i. This opening line should read, "While health and strength and youth."

While shepherds watched their flocks by night, p. 1278, i. In the 1904 ed. of Hys. A. & M., st. vi., l. 2 is altered from the original "And to the earth be peace," to "And on the earth be peace." In other respects the original text is retained. [J. J.]

While we in supplication join. This cento is from J. Walker's "Thou God of power and God of love," p. 1221, i. It is in Hys. for Use in the Chapel of Marlborough College, 1899.

Whitfield, F., p. 1276, i. He d. Sept. 13, 1904.

Whiting, Mary B., p. 1276, ii. In C. W. A. Brooke's Additional Hys., 1903, the following by Miss Whiting are given: (1) "Lord of Might, our land's Defender" (National Hymn), and (2), "To mourn our dead we gather here" (Burial).

Whittemore, Hannah M., p. 1276, i., was b. in London in 1822, and d. at Worthing, July 6, 1881. Her pub. works included Life's Morning, Life's Noontide, and Life's Evening. Her hymn, "How sweet to think that all who love," first appeared in her Coral Magazine, 1845. [J. J.]

Whittemore, W. M., p. 1276, i. He d. July 27, 1894.

Whittier, J. G., p. 1277, i. In addition to the large number of this author's hymns already annotated from his own MS., the following have also come into use, mainly in the form of centos from his poems, during the past ten years:—

i. From Poems, 1850 :—

1. O brother man! Fold to thy heart thy brother

[Brotherly Love.] From his poem, "Worship." Written in 1848, and pub. in Poems, 1850.

ii. From Songs of Labour, and Other Poems, 1850 :—

2. Bowed down in loneliness of mind. [Resignation.] From the poem "The Wish of To-day."

iii. From The Chapel of the Hermits, and Other Poems, 1853 :—

3. O, sometimes glimpses on our sight. [Light in Darkness.] First pub. in The National Era, 1851, and again as above, 1853. In The Pilgrim Hy., N.Y., 1904, it begins "O sometimes gleams upon our sight," and in Hys. of the Ages, 1904, "Yet sometimes glimpses on my sight"; see p. 1277, ii. 20.

iv. From The Panorama, and Other Poems, 1856 :—

4. Thou, O most compassionate. [Divine Compassion.] This cento is from the poem "My Dream," and is dated 1858.

v. From Home Ballads and Poems, 1860 :—

5. I mourn no more my vanished years. [Life's Morning.] A cento from "My Psalm," dated 1854, and written in 1859.

6. No longer forward nor behind. This begins with st. iii. of "My Psalm."

7. O hearts of love, O souls that turn. [Life from Christ.] A cento from the poem, "The Overheart."

8. O Love Divine, Whose constant beam. [Divine Love Universal.] From the poem, "To Shadow and the Light," dated 1858, and entitled "To Light" in The Pilgrim Hy., 1904, first appeared in The Independent, Nov., 1846.

9. Once more the liberal year laughs out. [Autumn.] From his "For an Autumn Festival," 1856.

vi. From In War Time, and Other Poems, 1864 :—

10. I can only urge the plea. [Cry for Mercy.] A cento from "Andrew Rykman's Prayer," dated 1863. It begins with st. iii. of "Our Father, give. Also from "Andrew Rykman's Prayer."

vii. From The Tent on the Beach, and Other Poems, 1867 :—

12. I bow my forehead to [in] the dust. St. ix., &c.
13. I know not what the future hath. St. xvi., &c.
14. I sing for household voices gone. St. xv., &c.
15. Who fathoms the eternal thought? St. x., &c.
16. Who sits not by the wayside alone? St. xi., &c.
17. Yet, in the maddening maze of things. St. xi., &c.

These centos are taken from the poem, "The Eternal Goodness," which is dated 1865.

viii. From Among the Hills, and Other Poems, 1869 :—

18. For ever round the mercy-seat. [God's Love and Man's Unfaithfulness.] From the poem, "The Answer."

ix. From The Panorama and Other Poems, 1873 :—

19. Rest for the weary heads is good. [Daily Service.] From "The Bible in Spain," a paper originally in the Atlantic Monthly, 1871, and again as above, 1873.

x. From Hazel Blossoms, 1875 :—

20. All things (gifts) are Thine, p. 1277, i. 2. The closing hymn at the Centennial Celebration of Brown Church, St. Paul, Minn. The hymn was included in Hazel Blossoms, 1875.

21. We need love's tender lessons taught. [Love.] From "Child-Songs," in Hazel Blossoms, opening with st. ix.

xi. From The Bay of the Seven Islands, 1883 :—

22. As from the infinite hearths behind me. [Anticipation of the Future.] This begins with st. iii. of the poem, "What the Traveller said at Sunset."

xii. Additional Notes :—

23. Lord, for the things we see. [Public Gatherings.] This hymn is from "Palestine," 1857.

24. But always as the whirlwind's rush. [Call to the Ministry.] Pub. in The Poetical Writings, 1857, Vol. i., p. 254, and again in the Oxford ed. of the P. Works, 1904, p. 425. It is dated 1853.

25. Bound over all waters. [The Coming Kingdom.] This, to Horder's Worship Song, 1905, is from Whittier's Complete Poetical Works, Boston, 1876, p. 280, where it is dated 1875.

26. Take courage, Temperance workers. [Temperance.] Mr. Pickard, Whittier's literary executor, cannot trace this hymn in any of the author's writings, and we omit it. [J. J.]

27. The harp at Nature's advent strung. [Nature's acknowledgement of God.] Dr. Charles L. Noyes, one of the editors of The Pilgrim Hy., 1904, writes us concerning this hymn: "It was first published in its present form (as in the American hymn-books) in 1867 in The Tent on the Beach. But a hymn almost identical in structure and wording with this, and with the same refrain, was published in the Haverhill Gazette, October 2, 1827. The same poem appeared in The Pantheiste, 1829. It was revised for The Tent on the Beach, 1867." (p. 1278, i. 20).

28. We are not, know not: all our way, p. 1278, i. 21. This hymn, written in 1861, first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, 1863, vol. 10, p. 125.

29. Where sickness turns the weary head. [Love is universal.] Opens with st. i. of a section in the poem "Mithridates," in Miriam, and Other Poems, 1871, p. 13.

30. Who calls Thy glorious service hard? [Duty.] This begins with st. iii. of his poem "Seedtime and Harvest," noted on p. 1277, ii. 5.

31. O Lord and Father of mankind. This is a slightly altered form of "Dear Lord and Father of mankind," p. 1277, i. 4.

The poem, "Our Master," stated on p. 1275, i., No. 8, as having appeared in The Panorama, 1856, in error, was given in The Tent on the Beach, and Other Poems, Boston, 1867, pp. 143-152.

In compiling the foregoing, we have been materially assisted by Mr. Pickard, the poet's literary executor, and the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Noyes, of Somerville, Mass. Whittier d. at Hampton Falls, New Hampshire, Sep. 7, 1892. [J. J.]

Whoever receiveth the Crucified One. E. A. Hoffman. [Full Salvation.] In I. D. Sankey's New Hys. & Solos, 1888, No. 115, and the revised and enlarged ed. of his Sacred Songs, &c., 1903, No. 400.

Why shouldst thou fear the beautiful angel, death? Adelaide A. Procter. [Death.] Pub. in her Legends and Lyrics, &c., 1858, p. 94, in 6 st. of 4 l. Its use as a hymn is limited.

1. How brightly beams the Morning-Star With grace, by G. H. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 113, based on the versions by J. C. Jacobi and Miss Cox.

2. How brightly beams the Morning Star, With grace, by A. T. Russell, in his Hys., 1895, No. 71, based on the Jacobi-Cox versions. [J. M.]

Wilde, Jane Francesca, née Elgee. Lady Wilde was d. of Archdeacon Elgee, b. at Wexford in 1826; m. Dr., afterwards Sir, William Wilde, the Dublin oculist, 1851; and d. at Chelsea, Feb. 3, 1896. [J. M.]

Wilkinson, William Cleaver, D.D. An American minister, b. at Westfield, Vt., Oct. 19, 1833, educated at Rochester University, and ordained in 1859. He has been pastor at New Haven and Cincinnati, and since 1892 professor at the University of Chicago, having previously held a similar professorship in Rochester University and Rochester Theological Seminary. He has been extensively engaged in literary work, and has pub., together with other productions, Poems, 1883. Of his hymns, the following are in C. U. :—

1. O Thou with Whom a thousand years, And a swift day are one. [For an Anniversary.] Written in 1882, and pub. in his Poems, 1883.

1728 WILLIAMS, DAVID WINKS, WILLIAM

2. The sinfully angels of the Lord. [Ministry of Angels.] Written in 1897, for Sursum Corda, and included therein, 1898.

3. What angels brought Messiah cheer. [Ministry of Angels.] Also written in 1897 for Sursum Corda, and pub. therein, 1898.

4. While we were humbled. Lord, be Thine. [Dedication of a Building.] Written in 1879, and included in his Poems, 1885.

5. When Jesus in the wilderness. [Ministry of Angels.] Written in 1897 for Sursum Corda, and pub. therein, 1898.

In the preface to Sursum Corda we are informed that the editors are indebted to Dr. Wilkinson "for writing by request some admirable hymns on the neglected topic of Angels." These are Nos. 2, 3, and 5 above. [L. F. B.]

Williams, David, p. 1281, ii., was b. in 1718, and d. Oct. 1, 1794.

Williams, David, p. 1281, ii., of Bethesda'r Fro, should be Thomas Williams.

Williams, I. P. This name is given in W. B. Bradbury's Oriola, 1860, No. 288, as the author of "Another year has passed away" (Old Year). In the Meth. S. S. H. Bk., 1870, the S. S. Hymnary, 1905, and others.

Williams, J., p. 1284, ii. He d. Feb. 7, 1899.

Williams, Sarah, only child of Robert Williams, born in London c. 1816, and died April 25, 1888. She contributed to the periodicals and published Rainbours in Springtide, 1866, and Twilight Hours, 1868. The hymn "Because I know not when my life was good" (Repentance), in Horder's Worship Song, 1905, is from her Twilight Hours, 1868, p. 150, st. iv., v., vii. being omitted. [J. J.]

Williams, Theodore Chickering, an American Unitarian minister, b. at Brookline, Mass., in 1835, and educated at Harvard, 1876, and the Harvard Divinity School, 1882. He was from 1882 to 1896 pastor of All Souls, N.Y., and has been since 1896 headmaster of Hackley School, Tarrytown, N.Y. His hymns include:—

1. As the storm retreating leaves the vales in peace. [Eternity.] (1892).

2. Glory to God on high . . . Let the whole creation cry. [Praise.] (1899).

3. I long did roam afar from home. [Brought Home by Christ.] (1896).

4. Lord, Who dost the voices liken. [Ordination.] (1901).

5. My heart of dust was made. [The Image of God destroyed.] This is Amen. in Amore Dei, but in the Index of Authors thereto it is given to this author.

6. When thy heart with joy o'erflowing. [Unity with others desired.] (1896).

These facts and dates are from Mrs. Theodore C. Williams' Hymnal, Amore Dei, Boston, 1900–1904. [J. J.]

Willis, Love Maria, née Whitcomb, b. June 9, 1824, at Hancock, N.H., and m. in 1858, to Frederick L. H. Willis, M.D. She lived for many years at Rochester, N.Y., and now (1907) resides at Glenora, on Seneca Lake, N.Y. Her hymn:—

Father, hear the prayer I offer. [Aspiration] appeared in Tuckney's Rambler, 1849. In Longfellow & Johnson's Hym. of the Spirit, 1864, No. 856, it was given in 4 st. of 4 l., as "Father, hear the prayer we offer," and as "Amen." The text was in great measure rewritten, and altered by S. Longfellow. In this form it passed into somewhat extensive use in England and America, the latest to adopt it being The English Hym., 1906.

For these facts we are mainly indebted to the Rev. W. C. Gannett, Rochester, N.Y. [J. M.]

Wills, Whitefield Glanville, s. of the late H. O. Wills, of Bristol, was b. at Bristol Oct. 28, 1841, and d. at Ealing Oct. 2, 1891. In 1881 he printed a small collection of original Hym. for Occasional Use. Three of his hymns are in School Hym., 1901 :—

1. Father, Thy children come to-night. [Evening.] Written about 1876; 1881 as above, p. 24.

2. In our work and in our play. Jesus, ever with us stay. [Children of God.] Written in Sept. 1891 for School Hym., 1891, p. 1.

3. When I can trace. Dear Saviour. [Trust in Jesus.] Written about 1880; 1881 as above, p. 7.

The School Hym., 1891, also contains a hymn by his wife, Lucy Helen née Hebblethwaite, which begins "Always with Thee! Ever near!" (Trust in God). [J. M.]

Wilson, Margaret Chalmers, née Hood, was b. at Dunbar, Oct. 19, 1825, and in 1869 married her cousin, the Rev. James Hood Wilson, D.D. (see p. 1032). She d. while on a visit to Gullane, Haddingtonshire, July 24, 1902. She contributed her hymns to the collections ed. by her husband, viz., his Service of Praise, 1865, and Songs of Zion, 1876. Two of these are :—

1. If washed in Jesus' blood. [Example of Jesus Christ.] In Songs of Zion, 1876, No. 246, as by "M. C. W." In Bell and Fox's Ch. of England Hym., 1894, it is dated 1875.

2. We know there's a bright and glorious home. [Life a Journey.] In the Service of Praise, 1865, No. 240, as by "M. C. H." In the Sunday Hym., 1866, it is greatly altered, and begins: "I know there's a bright, a glorious land." [J. M.]

Wilt Thou forgive that sin when I began, p. 1285, ii. This opening line should read, "Wilt Thou forgive that sin where I began."

Wilton, Richard, M.A., b. Dec. 25, 1827, educated at St. Cath. Coll., Camb., of which he was a Scholar, B.A. 1851, M.A. 1901; D. 1851, P. 1852, Curate of Bromley, Incumbent of St. Thomas, York, Vicar of Kirkby Wharfe, and Rector of Londesborough from 1889 to his death, Aug. 10, 1902. In 1890 he became Prebendary of Givendale and Canon of York. His poetical works include Wood Notes and Church Bells, 1873; Lyrics, Sylvan and Sacred, 1878; "Benedicite," and other Poems, 1890; and Lyra Pastoralis, 1902. Canon Wilton's contributions to hymnology were limited. He is known through :—

1. Come, Holy Dove, descend on silent pinion. [Whitsuntide.] Written in 1878, and pub. in his Lyrics, &c., 1878, No. 84.

2. Let all the earth in fair accord. Part of his arrangement of the Benedicite, p. 134, i.

3. Ye seas of men, your glory wake. [Praise.]

In his Lyrics, &c., 1878, there are two hymns well worthy of attention, "The breath from Thy dear mouth," p. 84, for a cento for Whitsuntide, and "Meet for the Master's use," for Private Use. [J. J.]

Winkler, E. T., p. 1287, i. From his Sacred Lods, &c., 1835, the hymn, "Now in this consecrated place." (On behalf of Church Officers), is included in the Amer. Sursum Corda, 1898, No. 708. [J. J.]

Winks, William Edward, son of J. F. Winks, Leicester, was born at Leicester, Jan. 28, 1842, and educated at Chilwell Coll., Nottingham. He entered the Baptist Ministry in 1865, and has been Pastor of Baptist Churches in Yorkshire and Cambridgeshire, and has now (1907) charge of Bethany Chapel, Cardiff. Most of his hymns were written for special services. In 1897 he collected several of these and pub. them as Christian Hymns and Songs for Church and Sunday School (2nd ed. 1907). From this collection the following have passed into The Baptist Church Hymnal, 1900.

1. In still, my heart, be still, my mind. Waiting upon God. Written in 1897.

2. In the night our toil is fruitless. Working with Unfailness. Dated Oct. 30, 1891.

3. Lord, Thy servants forth are going. Departure of Missionaries. Written in 1893.

Mr. Winks's prose works include Thoughts on Prayer, Prayer in the Four Gospels, and others. [J. J.]

Wir Christenleut haben, p. 691, i. Another version is :—

Gnad Christian men, rejoice agen, by G. R. Woodward, in his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 21, and his Songs of Syon, 1904, No. 11. It is so free as to be practically original. [J. M.]

Wiseman, Card. Nicholas Patrick Stephen, s. of James Wiseman, merchant at Waterford and Seville, was born at Seville, Spain, Aug. 2, 1802, educated at Ushaw Coll., Durham, and at the English Coll. in Rome; ordained priest at Rome in 1825, and became in 1827 Rector of the English College. In 1840 he was consecrated at Rome as Bp. of Melipotamus in partibus, and returned to England as Vicar Apostolic of the Midlands, being summoned in 1850 by Pope Pius IX. to Rome, made a Cardinal and created Archbishop of Westminster. He d. in London, Feb. 15, 1865. His hymns include :—

1. England! Oh, what means this sighing! [For the Conversion of England.] Contributed to the Holy Family Hym., 1858, No. 71, repeated in the St. Patrick's H. Bk., 1889, Crown of Jesus H. Bk., 1862, and others.

2. Hail, Mary! Hail, Mother of Mercy. [The Pope.] In the Crown of Jesus H. Bk., 1862, No. 167, Toase's Cath. Hym., 1859, and many others.

3. O banks and Blessèds. (St. Edmund of Canterbury.) Written as a solace during an illness at Rome in 1846, printed as Hymnus in honorem S. Edmundi (London, n.p., but before Oct. 2, 1850, and first used on that day), and in 1851 as a hymn for the anniversary festival of a relic of St. Edmund brought from Pontigny in 1853, by Card. Wiseman), in the Lady Chapel of St. Edmund's Coll., near Ware. It is in three decades, telling of his youth, manhood, and episcopate. It was sung by the English pilgrims at Pontigny in 1874, and is still used at St. Edmund's Coll. on the time days before Nov. 16. See Herbert Ward's History of St. Edmund's College, 1893, p. 377, &c.). [J. M.]

With joy we hail the sacred day, p. 706, ii. 18. This is given here in error. It is by Harriet Auber, as noted on p. 91, i. 48.

Wither, G., p. 1289, i. Another of his psalm versions, "The Lord is King, and weareth" (Ps. xciii.), from his The Psalmes of David, &c., 1632, is in the Hymn Book for the Use of Wellington College, 1905.

Wolfe, A. R., p. 1291, ii. He d. Oct. 6, 1902.

Woodward, George Ratcliffe, M.A. of G. & C. Coll., Cambridge; B.A. in honours 1872, M.A. 1875. Has held several curacies and two benefices, and is now (1907) Curate of St. Mark's, Marylebone Road, London. He has tr. a number of hymns from the German and Latin, which are included in his Songs of Syon, 1904. See Index of Authors and Trs. [J. J.]

Wordsworth, Bp. C. (Lincoln), p. 1294, i. Of his hymns, noted on p. 1294, i. ii., we find that No. 39 appeared in his Holy Year in 1864; and Nos. 34, 35, and 40 in 1862. The first edition in which the longer hymns were divided into parts was that of 1868. With regard to the date of Bp. Wordsworth's death, we find this reference thereto in his Biography: "He expired soon after midnight on Friday, March 20, or perhaps, it might be said, early on the Saturday morning." This gives the date of his death as March 21, 1885. [J. J.]

Wordsworth, Elizabeth, daughter of Bp. C. Wordsworth, of Lincoln, was b. at Harrow in 1840, and is now (1907) the Head of the Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford. The following of her hymns are in C. U. :—

1. God is our Stronghold and our Stay. [Ps. xlvi.] This is a metrical rendering of the Book of Common Prayer version of the forty-sixth Psalm in the Metre of "Ein' feste Burg." It was written for and first published in the Church Hymnal for Schools, 1871, as a direct from the German of "Ein' feste Burg," to give under that hymn.

2. Great Ruler of the Nations. [For Peace.] Written during the South African war, and included in Church Hym., 1903.

3. O Lord our Banner, God of Might. (In Time of War.) Written during the Crimean war, and sent to her father "In hot of my acknowledge and belief, I wrote it in the winter of 1854-5, when the excitement about Gen eral Gordon was at its height. . . The lines 'Jehovah-Nissi' appeared in the Guardian of Jan. 31, 1855, signed 'Veritas.' This is our family motto, and as such was well known to my own family circle" (Church Times, Dec. 27, 1901, p. 1018). It was included in Church Hym., 1903, and entitled "Jehovah-Nissi. A hymn for our Soldiers." It was included in Church Hym., 1903. [J. J.]

Work while it is to-day. J. Montgomery. [Daily Duty.] Given in his Original Hym., 1853, No. civi., in 10 st. of 4 l., and entitled "Working the works of God."

Yet there is room, p. 1299, i. The Rev. H. N. Bonar in his Hym. by Horatius Bonar, Selected and Arranged by his son, H. N. Bonar, says, p. xxv. :—

"About that time [1857] hymns again begin to appear in the note-books [of Dr. Bonar], several being specially written for Mr. Sankey, the American evangelist. The story of one hymn which has become generally known may be of interest. Mr. Sankey wished to use as a solo 'Some other hymn than those we have been singing.' 'Late, late, so late, and dark the night and chill.'" He composed a tune for it, but copyright difficulties arose and hindered his including the words in his hymn book, to being left with a tune without words, he asked my father to write a hymn to it, hoping, if possible, to the same scriptural theme. This was done, and "Yet there is room" was the result. It was sung by Mr. Sankey "[p. 233a, l.] and 'O watch, hoeking, watch,' were also written about it a time."

This hymn is said on p. 162, i. 62, to have been published in Dr. Bonar's Song of the New Creation, 1874. This is an error. It appeared in his Hym. of the Nativity, 1879. In a copy of Mr. Sankey's Sac. Songs, &c., of thirty-one hymns, received at the Brit. Museum, May 7, 1874, this hymn is the last. [J. J.]

Yonge, Charlotte M., p. 1299, i. She d. at Otterbourne, March 24, 1901.

Z.

Zyma vetus expurgetur, p. 1305, ii. This is in a MS. of c. 1200, written apparently at Citeaux, and now in the B. M. (Add. 15722, f. 54b), in the St. Gall No. 388, of c. 1220, and in many others. [J. M.]
